AN EIGHT-INCH GUN ON THE BATTLESHIP GEORGIA BURSTS DURING PRACTICE

Wireless Message Says Seventeen Men Are Badly Hurt.

One Lieutenant and Two Midshipmen Among the Injured.

The Details of the Accident Not Yet Received.

Boston, July 15.—Seventeen men are reported injured by the bursting of an eight-inch gun in one of the super-imposed turrets of the battleship Georgia, during the target practice off Provincetown today. The details of the accident are not known here, the only information being in the form of a wireless message to Rear Admiral Snow, commandant of the navy yard, from Rear Admiral Thomas, who is commanding the battleship fleet. Two persons have been sent from here on one of the naval tugs and preparations are being made at the United States hospital to receive the injured men. The Georgia is expected to reach here late today. The injured include Lieut. Goodrich and Mid-

KIDNAPERS ARE PUT ON TRIAL

Charged With Stealing and Murdering the Lamana Boy.

Hahnville, La., July 15.—Including the impaneling of a jury which began today, less than a week is expected to suffice for the trial for the four Italians for the kidnaping and murder of Walter Lamana, a New Orleans child. Not only does public sentiment make a speedy trial desirable, but there are not enough accommodations here for even the officials whose presence is necessary. The jury will be compelled to camp out on improvised beds in one of the regular courtrooms. It is the prosecution's aim to show that the strangling of the Lamana boy was only an incident among many blackmailing schemes on foot in the Italian population of this section.

The four prisoners were brought here today from New Orleans where they have been since arrested. They will remain during the trial in the courthouse jail, which stands in a sugar cane field with no house, excepting the sheriff's, within half a mile. The prisoners are Ignacio Campisciano and his wife, Maria, Collagero Gendusa and Tony Costa. Campisciano is the man, who, under compulsion, led a posse into the swamp where the boy's body was concealed.

SOUND BOAT HITS ROCKS

The Steamer Shinnecock Goes Fast Ashore in Fog.

Her Passengers Are Not Considered in Any Danger.

New York, July 15.—The Long Island Sound steamer Shinnecock, from Greenport, Long Island, for this city with passengers, ran ashore on the northeast end of Hart island during a dense fog early today. The Shinnecock is high and dry on the shore. Tugs have gone to her assistance. Her passengers are not considered in any danger. The wind is light and the water is smooth.

The pilot of the Shinnecock was heading the steamer slowly in a westerly direction trying to pick his way through a thick fog when the ship rammed her nose on the rocks on the Northeast end of Hart Island. The 200 passengers on the steamer hurried from their staterooms to the decks when the crash came, but were told by the officers there was nothing to fear. A hurried examination of the steamer's hull showed that several seams in the Shinnecock's bow had started and she was leaking slightly. Police from City Island station were informed that the steamer was aground, and put off launches to the Shinnecock. They volunteered to take ashore any passengers who wish to leave the steamer. The passengers, seeing that there was no danger, declined to leave, as the officers informed them that a steamer would be sent for to take them to New York.

The Shinnecock's officers said they hoped to get the steamer off at high water.

Prisoners Stripped to Prevent Suicide

New Orleans, La., July 15.—Tony, one of the Italians placed on trial today in St. Charles parish, charged with the kidnaping and murder of 8-year-old Walter Lamana, made an unsuccessful attempt to hang himself in the parish prison here today. Taking a big pocket handkerchief he knotted it around his neck and then made it fast to the grating of his cell door while on his tiptoes. Throwing himself back, he succeeded in strangling himself into unconsciousness. He was cut down just in time to save his life.

Prison officials then ordered that all of the male prisoners held in connection with the case be stripped and left nude until time to take them to Hahnville.

RUSSIAN OUTRAGE

Gunboat Seizes Papers of American Fishing Vessel.

Matter May be Taken Up by Washington Authorities.

San Francisco, July 15.—The barkentine S. N. Castle, Capt. Pedersen, arrived here yesterday from the cod fishing grounds, off the coast of Siberia, and reported that the vessel had been boarded by the Russian gunboat Mandjur, her ship's papers taken and warned to stay thirty miles from the shore, under threat of being confiscated and the officers and crew taken to Petropavlsovski in irons.

Capt. Pedersen stated than on June 18 he was cod fishing in the Okhotsk sea, eight miles from the shore, in company with the schooner J. D. Spreckels, the barkentines Fremont and City of Papete, all from San Francisco, when the Mandjur hove in sight. The comanding officer, said Capt. Pedersen, boarded the Castle, seized not only the ship's clearance papers, but all of Capt. Pedersen's private papers and his master's commission and certificate. Capt. Pedersen remonstrated, declaring that his vessel was outside of the three-mile limit and therefore he was violating no law. The Russian commander, however, stated that no fishing would be allowed within thirty miles of the shore and gave the S. N. Castle and other vessels seven days to get beyond that limit.

As a number of the Fremont's crew were on shore at the time, the vessel remained for six days awaiting their return. When on the sixth day the gunboat again appeared on the horizon, the Cstle and Spreckels sailed for San Francisco, leaving the Fremont and Papete in the Okhotsk sea. Capt. Pedersen will lay the matter before United States District Attorney Robert T. Delvin and request that it be taken up by the Washington authorities at once. The S. N. Castle belongs to A. N. Pond of this city.

NEW MAYOR FOR FRISCO

Will be Chosen at Once and New Supervisors Named.

San Francisco, July 15.—Although it was said last night by members of the graft prosecution that in all probability the new mayor would be chosen today, they refused to reveal the identity of the citizen selected for the position. Rumor has connected at least half a dozen well known persons with the office, but denials have been made in the majority of cases.

The first feature of the plan arranged by the prosecution is the resignation of Charles Boxton as mayor. This is to take place at today's meeting of the board of supervisors. The board is then to elect a mayor, choosing some citizen previously agreed upon by the leaders of the graft prosecution. Boxton's resignation will retire him to private life, leaving fifteen boodling supervisors to be forced out by the prosecutions. The fifteen are to resign as soon as the new mayor is elected.

Counting the Boxton vacancy, the chief executive to be named today will have sixteen places on the board to fill, which duty will not be delayed any longer than is absolutely necessary. In the naming of a new board of supervisors the new mayor is expected to give recognition to both the labor and business interests. Next will come the removal of a number of commissioners. The police commission, it is expected, will be first to go. This will mean the early decapitation of Chief of Police Dinan.

DARK FOR TWO DAYS

Disastrous Results Follow Outbust of Volcano at Kamchatka.

Many Natives Perish From the Lack of Food.

San Francisco, July 15.—The outburst of a volcano on the peninsula of Kamchatka on Feb. 18 last threw the whole country in utter darkness for more than forty-eight hours, and resulted in the starving of scores of natives, according to the officers of the barkentine, Castle, which reached port last night from the Okhoka sea. The natives, some of whom could speak English, told Capt. Henderson and his men that they had no knowledge of the source of the terrible storm that had come upon them.

They knew only that while they were crossing the valleys in the first flush of spring a wave of dust fell upon them, followed by utter darkness that continued for two days and nights. Lava, almost hot, fell all about them and there were such showers of black ashes that their progress was stayed and they were lucky to find undried creeks and springs. But the party of natives was in dire straits and some of them had succumbed to their hardships. In response to their request Capt. Pedersen sent off two boat loads of provisions which the suffering natives would suffice to keep them on the way to Petropaulovski.

MRS. BRADLEY IS TO BE RELEASED

Judge Authorizes Her Admission to Bond of $15,000.

Washington, July 15.—Justice Wright of the supreme court of the District of Columbia today authorized the admission to bail of Mrs. Annie M. Bradley, under indictment on the charge of murdering Former United States Senator Brown of Utah in the sum of $15,000. Affidavits from the surgeons who performed the operation on Mrs. Bradley last Saturday were read in which it was stated that open air exercise would be necessary for the complete restoration of Mrs. Bradley's health before her trial in October.

FOUR GIRLS HURT BY EXPLOSION OF BOMB.

Constantinople, July 15.—A bomb exploded last night in front of the summer quarters of the American embassy at Yeni-Keui, a suburb of this city. Four girls were slightly injured. Otherwise no damage was done. The authors of the outrage have not been traced.

NO BREAKFAST FOR THE PEOPLE OF ST. JOSEPH

St. Joseph, Mo., Juy 15.—The supply of natural gas in St. Joseph was cut off last night by a break in the pipe line which brings the fuel from Southern Kansas, and the city was without breakfast this morning, natural gas being used for fuel in practically all of the homes. The few homes which have coal or wood stoves were in great demand and throughout the residence parts of the city there were processions of women in search of neighborhood stoves.

The terrific rain last night washed out four lengths of pipe in the field main at Weston, Mo., twenty miles south of St. Joseph. Gas is used for fuel at the electric lighting plant of the city and the streets were in darkness after midnight. Gas is also used in the type seting machines by local newspapers and they will issue today with difficulty.

The rain last night was the heaviest in years A Chicago Great Western passenger train, which was due to arrive here from Chicago at 2 o'clock this morning, is held ten miles north of St Joseph by a washout. The Burlington railroad reports four bridges out near this city and service on all lines is demoralized.

THE QUESTION OF PECUNIARY DEBTS

In The Hague Negotiations Troubling Latin-American Nations.

The Hague, July 15.—The Argentine Republic and some other Latin-American nations appear determined to insist upon the insertion in the American proposition regarding the collection of pecuniary debts, which comes up for discussion tomorrow, of a clause specifying that the principle does not apply to state loans. The exchanges of views on this subject continue.

The proposal made by the American delegation regarding submarine mines is as follows:

"Unanchored automatic contact mines are prohibited. Anchored automatic contact mines, which do not become innoculous upon getting adrift, also are prohibited. If anchored automatic contact mines are used within the jurisdiction of a belligerent, or within the immediate area of belligerent activities, due precautions for the safety of neutrals must be taken."

ELKS ARE ARRIVING

Immense Throngs Pouring Into the City of Philadelphia.

The Convention Will be Formally Opened Monday Evening.

Philadelphia, July 15.—The opening day of the Elks' convention week was greeted with clear, warm weather, not too warm, however, to make the day unpleasant for sightseeing. From 4:15 a. m. when the first delegation came in from Mobile, Ala., big hosts of Elks came every hour and will still be coming when the 11 o'clock toast is sung tonight on City Hall plaza. Grand Secretary Robinson said the registration of delegates to the grand lodge meeting is the largest in the history of the order. The city is decorated as it never has been before and every day until Saturday will practically be a holiday. The streets in the central part of the city are jammed with enthusiastic crowds, and the familiar "hello Bill" is heard everywhere.

The convention of the grand lodge will be formally opened at the Grand opera house tonight with prayer, songs and speeches. The first official entertainment of the members of the grand lodge took place at noon at a park on the New Jersey side of the Delaware river. The members and their ladies were conveyed there in specially chartered steamers, which before landing made a tour of the river, passing the League Island navy yard, and the big

PRONOUNCED A KLEPTOMANIAC

Case Against Princess for Stealing to be Dropped.

Berlin, July 15.—The case against Princess Ludmilla von Wrede, charged with thefts of silverware from various hotels and private residence in Berlin, Paris and Munish in the years of 1903-06, will be called today in the criminal court at Guestrow, Mecklenburg. The public prosecutor wil lenter a nolle prosequi. A commission of medical experts has found that at the time of the commission of the acts charged, the princess was a kleptomaniac. Charges of receiving stolen property preferred against her husband, Prince Adolph von Werde, and her traveling companion, Fraulein Weideg, will also be dismissed.

A butler in the employ of the family named Glase, who attempted to use his knowledge of the thefts to obtain a sum of money from the princess, was recently sentenced to nine months imprisonment for attempted blackmail.

ORCHARD RECALLED TO THE STAND AS REBUTTAL WITNESS BY THE STATE

Testifies That Uncle Was Insane and Hanged Himself.

Court Sustains Objections of Defense in Elliot Matter.

Several Persons Introduced to Impeach Defense's Witnesses.

Boise, July 15.—Harry Orchard was called to the stand as a rebuttal witness in the Haywood trial at 10:55 this morning. He was examined regarding statements made by some witnesses for the defense. Orchard was on the stand for twenty minutes. Under cross-examination he testified that his uncle, Peter McKinney, was insane and hanged himself in Northumerland county, Ont., when Orchard was about 22 years of age.

Boise, July 15.—When the Haywood trial was resumed, Judge Wood announced he had decided to sustain the objection of the defense to the admission in evidence of the records of the state insane asylum showing the commitment to that institution of John D. Elliott, who as a witness for the defense, testified to a long conversation which he said he had with Harry Orchard in November, 1905. The court cited a statute, which provides that insane persons shall not be accepted as witnesses. Apparently, he said, the prosecuting attorneys knew of Elliott's commitment when he appeared on the stand and they should have objected to his testimony at that time.

William Dewey, the witness who startled the court room Saturday by confessing to participation in the Coeur d'Alene riots and the attack on the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill, was recalled further to identify W. F. Davis, as the man who handed out

High Water Drives People From Homes

Des Moines, Iowa, July 15.—Forty or fifty families have moved from the bottoms district of Des Moines to higher ground. The Des Moines river is higher than it has been since 1903, when hundreds of families were driven from their homes. A rise of seven feet will break the levee, but such a rise is not feared Ten acres of lowlands are under water, but the river is stationary. The rainfall Sunday night was 3.83 inches, but lesser rains up the river remove the possibility of general danger, unless hard rains continue for two or three days.

STREET CAR RUNS AWAY

Brakes Fail and Bad Accident Occurs in Minneapolis.

Car Jumps Track and Six Persons Are Seriously Hurt.

Minneapolis, July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Six persons were injured Sunday night in a runaway street car accident at Fairmount avenue and Thirty-third street.

A Cedar and Emerson car, running at a terrific speed, jumped the track and, turning on its side, plowed along the ground for about fifty feet, while the frightened passengers were hurled about inside like shuttledocks.

The injured: Mrs. Jesse Davis, 611 Aldrich avenue, North Minneapolis, hip dislocated, head lacerated; Mrs. S.

ST. PAUL HAS A FIERCE STORM

Considerable Damage by Wind and Lightning in Saintly City.

St. Paul, July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—St. Paul was visited by the worst storm of the season last evening. Three inches of rain fell in as many hours and much damage was done by wind and lightning.

The storm caught thousands of persons in the parks and on the river. Street car service was delayed on several lines and there were washouts in various parts of the city.

Lightning struck the Buckinghain apartment house at Smith avenue and Ninth street, and demolished an ornamental brick chimney on one corner of the building. Bricks were scattered all over the sidewalk in front of the building and passersby had a narrow escape from being struck. The explosion of the bolt caused great excitement, and the halls were filled with excited flat dwellers. A number of telephone and electric wires were burned out.

Confused by a blinding flash of lightning, while descending the grade on East Seventh street in an automobile, H. J. O'Neill of Stillwater, ran his machine into a street car at the intersection of Bradley street last evening while the storm was at its height. He was thrown out of his machine and bruised. The automobile was slightly damaged.

The residence of A. A. Carlson, 105 Bradley street, was struck by lightning and damaged to the extent of $500. The bolt set fire to the kitchen, which was gutted. The rest of the house was saved.

C. E. CONVENTION

Will be Held in Japan in Course of a Few Years.

Seattle, Wash., July 15.—What is called by General Secretary Shaw one of the most notable meetings ever held in connection with a Christian Endeavor convention was that when the Japanese came together to hear addresses in their own tongue on the progress of Christian Endeavor work, to sing America's religious songs in Japanese and listen to the welcomes extended by American speakers.

Friendly relations between Japan and the United States were emphasized in every address. Secretary Shaw further told the Japanese that the Christian Endeavor plans to hold its convention in Japan in a few years.

TARGET RECORDS

Of the Army for the Year 1906 Are Made Public.

Washington, July 15.—The war department has completed the compilation of the results of the rifle, carbine and pistol firing of the army for the target year, 1906. The Southwestern division made the best showing with a record of 72.33 per cent. The winning department was the Colorado with a record on 74.94. Fort Wingate, N. M., had the highest post score with 107.29. The Fifth cavalry with 81.77, led the cavalry regiments, the Twenty-sixth with 81.20 led the infantry, "K" Fifth cavalry headed the individual troops with 129.99, and "G" Twenty-sixth was the winning infantry company with 105.21. The troops of the United States as a whole were rated at 79.25 as against 64.9 for the Philippine troops.

OPERATORS MAY STRIKE

Trouble With the Telegraphers Approaches Critical Point.

Chicago Men May be First to be Called Out.

San Francisco, July 15.—Unless a settlement of the Commercial Telegraphers' strike is effected tomorrow, a general strike may be declared. The request for a settlement will be in the nature of a demand, for the men feel that they have the approval of President Small as well as the individual indorsement of the membership of the Commercial Telegraphers' union throughout the country.

The statement is made that if the national executive board should attempt to force a settlement displeasing to the strikers, President Small will call out the Chicago employes as the first move in the extension of the strike zone.

Labor Commissioner Neill is not, it is said, able to accomplish much as he announced he had come to look over the situation for himself and had no definite ultimatum from President Clowry of the Western Union to submit.

President Small and the executive officers held a long conference last night, but did not divulge the nature of their discussion. Commissioner Neill made no visits yesterday, but he said he thought a settlement was yet possible with concessions on both sides. Small said the time for talking had ended and would not discuss the situation other than to say that hope for peace had not been abandoned.

PARK BONDS A FEATURE

Hoped That Local Men Will Help the Sale.

Railroad Ordinances May Also Come Up at Council Meeting.

The opening of the bids for park bonds is the most important feature in sight for this evening's council meeting. No outside bids have as yet been received, but it is hoped that local bidders may take up the $50,000 issue, or a portion of it tonight. The success or failure of the playground and park extension scheme depends upon the sale of the bonds, and it is hoped that public spirited citizens of means will take hold of the project and push it through. If this is not done the prospect for the sale is rather poor as a number of cities throughout the country have tried to put 4 per cent long term bonds on the market within the last few days and failed.

The ordinance granting to the Eastern Minnesota, otherwise known as the Great Northern, the right to maintain a trestle work from the north end of the Interstate bridge to the present trestle work from the company's Superior bridge, and defining the rights of the railroad company and the city as to the approach to the Interstate bridge will probably come up tonight. They have been held up until this time that a few mistakes in the descriptions might be corrected. It is understood that the ordinance will include an assessment clause similar to that included in the Wisconsin Central franchise, and that this will be accepted by the railroad company.

The West Duluth Commercial club will submit its resolution asking for the revocation of the Volk franchise. Inasmuch as the council has for the past year devoted a good deal of its time to the examination of the franchise in an effort to find some flaw through which it might be revoked, it is likely that the committee to whom the communication is referred will ask the Commercial club to show in what respect the Volk company has failed to live up to its requirements in the matter. Several of the members of the council have called attention to the fact that the Commercial club, at the time the franchise was proposed, submitted a resolution advising its passage in the exact form in which it was passed.

The petition from the county commissioners asking that the paving of Fourth avenue west above First street be deferred until the courthouse work shall be complete, will be reported on this evening. In view of the fact that the council expressed itself as regarding the pavement of the avenue as a necessity two weeks ago, and in view of the fact that it would tie up the whole job for the year to cut out the upper block as requested, it is probable that the petition will be turned down.

For the first time in over a month the council will not have a prospective saloon or license fight on its hands this evening, and unless something unexpected turns up, there will be nothing doing along these lines tonight.

The board of public works will recommend the work of paving Twelfth avenue east. The petition for this work was submitted some time ago, but before the board had time to examine it, protests were filed in sufficient numbers to insure its being insufficient. Those who promoted the plan, however, went out after more signers and there are enough on the list now to warrant the work being done. The engineer's estimate for the work, with a tar macadam pavement, is $12,000. The board will also report on petitions for sanitary sewers in the alley between Third and Fourth streets, between Twenty-sixth avenue east and Twenty-third avenue east, and in Sixth street, between Eleventh avenue east and Twelfth avenue east.

KANSAS CITY MAN WILL GET THE BIG CONTRACT

Charles J. Lantry Will Construct Wisconsin Central Terminals.

Other Buildings Will be Sold Before End of Month.

All details of the contract for the work on the terminals of the Wisconsin Central in this city have been arranged and the formal signing of the contract, which is to involve between $500,000 and $750,000, will take place this week. Chief Engineer Kalk of the Central and Charles J. Lantry of Kansas City, the contractor, who will probably have the contract, were in the city Saturday, and went over the ground together. It is regarded as practically certain that Lantry will be the contractor.

Local contractors were either financially unequal to the undertaking of the job or weer afraid, with their comparatively little experience in rock tunneling, to figure on the propositions, and not a local man figured in the bidding. Lantry is a contractor of much experience and international reputation in this regard.

D. A. Reed, city engineer here a number of years ago, will be engineer in charge of the work for the Wisconsin Central during the time that the terminals are being installed, and he has established himself as division engineer of the railway company at 422 Lyceum building.

The local officials of the company have received instructions to complete the sale of the buildings on the Wisconsin Central right-of-way at once, and W. D. Gordon will auction off the buildings in the same manner as he did those along the western end of the right-of-way, before the end of the month. The De Velda block, 618-20 West Superior street, just west of the Metropolitan, and the buildings east of there will be spared for the time being. The De Velda block is netting the railway company $300 per month, in rental, and they are not anxious to begin demolishing it.

Bonds are now being prepared to file covering property under condemnation, but not yet settled for and as soon as arrangements are complete the sale will be advertised in The Herald.

Work will be commenced all along the line, from West Duluth to the big depot on the Bowery at once, and the contractor is expected to take charge of the small crew which has been doing a desultory sort of work in West Duluth so as to live up to the requirements of the franchise, within the next few days.

The railroad officials hope, however, that they will be able to spare the Metropolitan and the buildings east of there until next spring.

SUPERIOR NEWS

CLAIMS BROTHER'S BODY.

John F. Bangs of Waukegan to Take Charge of Remains.

John F. Bangs of Waukegan, Ill., claimed the body of the man who died in a cell at the Central police station Wednesday evening from acute alcoholism, as that of his brother, Elmer E. Bangs, and at once made arrangements to take the remains to Waukegan for burial.

After Elmer Bangs died, an effort was made to locate his relatives. John F. Bangs was in the city some time and made many inquiries about the dead man. It was not until he viewed the remains at the morgue yesterday that he announced his relationship to the dead man. He says that his brother had left a good home and its comforts to roam about.

DULUTH BARBERS WIN.

Trim Superior Hair-Cutters in Closely Contested Ball Game.

The Duluth barbers' base ball team trimmed the Superior haircutters' aggregation yesterday afternoon at the Superior driving park, the score at the conclusion of the ninth inning being 11 to 10. By capturing the contest, the Duluthians won a handsome trophy, offered to the winners by a barbers' supply house. After the game, both teams sat down to a spread at German hall.

Another Duluth ball team—the Columbias—did not fair so well, being defeated by the Clippers at Hammond park, by a score of 13 to 1. At no stage of the game did they get out of the "also ran" class, whereas the Clippers were able to connect with the sphere at all times.

The Treadwell team defeated the South Superior tossers at the South Superior grounds. The final score was 5 to 3.

TWO LEAKS STOPPED.

Saloons Outside City Limits Closed by the Sheriff.

Two leaks in Superior's "lid" were mended yesterday when Deputy Sheriffs Hughes and Miller notified Peter Jacob, 6401 Tower avenue and George Dow, 6102 Tower, that they must remain closed all day on the Sabbath.

The two saloons are located just outside the city limits and have been doing a flourishing business on Sundays since the lid was applied to Superior. It is said that lately, many Duluthians have been making the pilgrimage from the other side of the bay.

Hereafter, however, Jacob and Dow will have to quit work Sundays, the sheriff having determined that they must obey the state law.

ANGLER DROPS DEAD.

Superior Man Dies Very Suddenly While on Fishing Expedition.

The remains of Barney Dow, the Superior man who died very suddenly Saturday while on a fishing trip near Swan River with A. W. Crowe of this city, arrived in Superior last evening and were escorted to Le Sage's undertaking rooms by delegations from the local lodges of Elks and Eagles. Funeral arrangements will be completed as soon as word is received from relatives of the dead man in the East. The Superior Elks will have charge of the local services.

Dow started out with Crowe Friday afternoon, for several days' fishing. They were camping near the old Swan River logging road. Dow had not complained of ill health and seemed to be in the best of spirits. Without uttering a word, he suddenly fell over the log he was sitting on. His companion sprang to his side and rubbed his hands and face, but the pallor of death was already there and Dow died without regaining consciousness.

The remains were taken to Swan River and after an investigation of the case by the Grand Rapids sheriff, were brought to Superior.

DROWNED IN BAY.

Superior Boy Meets Death While Bathing on Sunday.

George Dorsky, a 16-year-old son of Rabbi and Mrs. Isadore Dorsky of 520 Hughitt avenue, was drowned yesterday afternoon while bathing in the bay at the foot of Twenty-second street, Billings Park.

Young Dorsky was not a very good swimmer and was wading out in shallow water when he suddenly went under, never to come up again. His chum, Fred Richardson, was swimming out farther, with the aid of an old boat. When he turned to look for young Dorsky, he had disappeared.

The police were notified and an effort made to recover the body, but it was unsuccessful. It is thought that the strong under-tow carried away him from the scene of the accident.

WAS SUPERIOR BOY.

Albert Ward, Injured in Wyoming, Has Relatives Here.

Albert Ward, the youth who was fatally injured by a powder explosion while riding on a freight train, as told in a special dispatch to The Herald from Laramie, Wyo., Saturday evening, is a former Superior boy. He was at one time employed at the shipyards here, going West about three years ago.

Mrs. J. B. Conroy of 1815 Banks avenue is a sister of the boy, Mrs. John A. Shupe of 2501 Oakes avenue is a half sister and Mrs. Daisy Betts of South Superior is an aunt. They were informed by a message last night that the youth is still living and his condition has improved, though there is little hope for his recovery.

Five Years at Waupun.

Joseph McCauley, the prisoner who escaped from the Douglas county jail about two months ago while awaiting trial for assault, was this morning brought into district court. He was found guilty of assault and jail breaking and sentenced to five years' imprisonment at Waupun penitentiary. McCauley was recaptured at Bay City, Mich., and returned to Superior without extradition.

WOODS CASE IS ON AGAIN

Nothing Particularly Sensational in Testimony of the Witnesses.

St. Paul, July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—After a week's rest, the hearing of the case of the United States against L. A. Wood, G. W. Wood and others, alleged officers of the Wisconsin Grain & Stock company and the Superior board of trade, was resumed in the United States circuit court today before Commissioner Spencer.

While there was nothing sensational in the testimony of the witnesses heard this morning, Henry A. Foss, employed as a detective by the Chicago board of trade, swore that in a conversation with L. A. Wood in regard to securing a membership on the board for Wood, he asked the applicant what he would be willing to do as a consideration for the membership. Wood is alleged to have replied that he believed he could put the Wisconsin Grain company and the Superior board of trade out of business.

From this statement, the witness asserted, he assumed that L. A. Wood controled, indirectly, the Wisconsin Grain & Stock company, and the Superior board of trade. He admitted it was merely a presumption, however, and when asked whether anything was said about Mr. Wood owning stock or being an officer of the Wisconsin Grain & Stock company, he replied in the negative.

Train Speeds Along Without Man at the Throttle.

Minot, N. D., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—With no one at the throttle and speeding along over the prairie pulling tons of freight, a Great Northern locomotive covered several miles before the engineer's absence was discovered A few miles from this city, William Johnson, the engineer of the freight, stepped on the outside of the engine to fix something. The train was proceeding rapidly, and as the engine gave a lurch Johnson was hurled to the ground, where he lay unconscious for an hour or more. The fireman, busy at the other side of the cab, did not miss Johnson until the train had covered several miles. Then he stopped the train, and the engine was sent back picking up the injured engineer, still unconscious. Johnson was badly injured, but is expected to recover.

STRIKE AT ORE DOCK MAY TIE UP LAKE NAVIGATION

Ore Trimmers of Missabe Road Ask Increase in Pay.

No Boats Have Been Loaded Since Sunday Morning.

Asking for an increase of 25 cents a day in their pay, 750 ore trimmers at the docks of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road walked out this morning. At present about twenty-five steamers are waiting at the ore dock or in the lower harbor and unless the strike is soon settled the blockade will become serious.

The men at the ore docks have been receiving $2.25 a day for day work and $2.30 for night work. They are asking for $2.50 for day work and an increase to $2.75 for night work. It was said this morning by some of the representatives of the men that the strike order has been generally observed and that the work at the docks has been completely tied up.

There is no organization among the ore trimmers at the Missabe docks, but the men say that they will hold together and remain out until they get the increase they have demanded. They have warned outside workmen that any attempt that is made to break up the strike will be disastrous to imported workmen. The majority of the strikers are Austrians and Italians who have been working on the docks for years.

No boats were loaded at the docks yesterday, but it has been customary to lay off the men on Sundays. Practically all the boats waiting at the docks Saturday night had been cleaned up by yesterday morning, although one or two were finished up after 6 o'clock, when most of the men were released from further duty for the day. It was not until this morning that the dock officials knew that a strike was on. No work has been done at the docks today.

Owing to the fact that all the boats were loaded and before the men were released from duty yesterday morning the blockade of boats so far is not as bad as it would otherwise have been. The only boats which are waiting in the harbor to be loaded with ore are those which arrived light since yesterday morning.

The officials at the docks were not willing to give out any information regarding the strike this morning.

LUSITANIA PALATIAL

Scottish Newspaper Has Interesting Article on New Liner.

Compares it With the First Cunarder Ever Built.

Each ocean liner that is constructed seems to exceed in size, speed and splendor those which have been previously built. The new Cunard liner Lusitania is said to beat anything afloat.

Duluthians, who not long ago had the pleasure of inspecting and enthusing over the big lake freighter Thomas F. Cole—a pigmy beside the Cunarder—will doubtless be interested in the following article on the Lusitania, from the Glasgow (Scotland) Evening Citizen of the date of June 27, which as been received by Alexander Guthrie, the well-known board of trade man:

"The second stage in the career of the great Cunarder Lusitania was reached today with her departure from Clydebank. Launched on the 7th of June last year, she has since then been berthed in the private dock of her builders, Messrs. John Brown & Co. Quite an army of all sorts and conditions of workmen have been employed during that period in completing the interior equipment of the huge hull.

"A feature of the Lusitania also is the broad, lengthy promenade decks. Such impediments as deck-house, chart-rooms and officers' quarters are relegated to an exclusive deck far away from the passengers. The result is an exceptional amount of recreative space. But in other ways the new Cunarder is a remarkable steamer.

"As regards length. If her stern was in line with the front of the municipal building the bow would be opposite the entrance to the Citizen office. Her hull and decks exceed the height of the Citizen buildings. The wonderful difference in size between the first Cunarder—built of wood in 1840—and the latest is shown by the following figures:

	Length.	Tons.	Horse Power.
Britannia	.....207 ft.	1,154	740
Lusitania	.....785 ft.	32,500	68,000

"This enormous horse-power will develop a speed of 25 knots, or 600 knots in the twenty-four hours. Granted ordinary weather conditions allowing the maintenance of this speed, the passage from Queenstown to Sandy Hook will be reduced to four and a half days. This means that passengers leaving Liverpool on Saturday will be landed at New York on Thursday.

"The number of passengers and crew to be carried will far exceed that of any other craft afloat. Provision has been made for 550 first cabin, 500 second cabin and 1,300 steerage passengers. These, with a crew of 800, will bring the personnel of this huge floating hotel up to 3,150 souls."

DULUTH MAKES FAST TIME.

Comes From Buffalo to Duluth in Sixty-Five Hours.

After the steamer named for the city of Superior had held the time record for freighters from Buffalo to Duluth for over a month, the steamer Duluth, named for this city, has now wrestled the honors from her. She arrived in port yesterday after having made the trip from Buffalo in 64 hours, 50 minutes.

The Duluth is one of the Western Transit company's line boats and is commanded by Capt. Steve Jones. She left Buffalo Thursday and arrived in the Duluth harbor yesterday afternoon. The trip from the Sault canal to Duluth was made in twenty-five hours which is about the best record for a freighter ever known.

The steamer Superior, which held the record before, was also one of the Western Transit boats and was commanded by Capt. Donald Gillies. His run from Buffalo was made in sixty-nine hours.

HAS CLEARANCE PAPERS.

Captains Expect Steamer Smith Will be Released Tuesday.

Buffalo, July 15.—It is expected that the steel steamer Hurlbut W. Smith, which, with the steamer Nottingham, was cast high and dry on the beach at this port during the great storm of last January, will be afloat again today or Tuesday. Capt. W. W. Smith, who recently released the Nottingham and is now working on the Smith, has the bow of the steamer in the water, and expects to have the stern off the beach tomorrow. The boat will be ready to go into service at once upon her release, as all necessary repairs have been completed. Capt. Mild, who commands the ship, has already taken out a clearance for Superior.

Largest Drydock Completed.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 15.—The American Shipbuilding company recently has completed at Lorain, the largest drydock on the Great Lakes. The Lorain drydock is 750 feet long and 125 feet wide. It will accommodate two boats at once, and with few exceptions could dock the largest ocean vessels.

The second largest dock on the lakes is at Superior, owned by the same company, and is 620 feet long. The third in size is 573 feet long at South Chicago.

PEACE IN THE COAL REGION

Not a Single Case Before the Board of Conciliation.

New York, July 15.—The following statement is authorized on behalf of the anthracite coal operators:

The board of conciliation, created by the strike commission of 1902 to settle disputes between the anthracite coal miners and operators, has at last a clean docket. Not a single case is today pending. This marks a condition of industrial peace brought about by means which are probably unique in this country. It must be assumed that, if the miners have no complaints to make, they are satisfied with the way they are being treated.

During the four years of the commission's existence 159 differences between the coal operators and their employes have been settled. The board itself—composed of three representatives of the operators and three of the miners—has disposed of 132 of the cases, and an even division of the board has made it necessary to refer only 27 cases to an umpire. Of these appeals, he sustained the complainant in only 6 cases.

Experience gained in handling the complex questions involved has enabled the board to render its decisions with increasing promptness, and of the 159 cases presented, 49 were disposed of within less than one month.

Of the grievances considered, only one was presented by the United Mine Workers, as a body representing all the miners. Thirteen were presented by the operators, and 146 by the miners. By the board's decisions 29 cases were sustained, 115 not sustained or withdrawn, and 15 settled "through the influence of the board."

Almost every element of the miners' welfare is involved in the controversies brought up for consideration. The discharge of an employe, failure of another to secure reinstatement, suspension of a contract for loading "dirty coal," requests for a half-holiday on pay day, and scores of other questions come before the board.

Questions affecting wages have been rarely brought before the board for the reason that the anthracite strike commission, after exhaustive investigation, settled upon a minimum scale of wages, which was renewed for three years by the miners and operators at the expiration, April 1, 1906, of the original arrangement. To put the miners upon a profit-sharing basis the commission further awarded that for every advance of five cents above $4.50 in the wholesale selling price per ton of domestic sizes of coal at tidewater, the wages of every man about the mines should be increased 1 per cent above the schedule.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Stock company in "When We Were Twenty-One."

BIJOU—Vaudeville. New program this evening.

The Stock Company.

"When We Were Twenty-One," the comedy in which Nat Goodwin and Maxine Elliott made such a great success, will be the play presented by the Mack-Leone stock company at the Lyceum for the first half of the week.

The company is undoubtedly one of the best summer stock companies ever brought to the Head of the Lakes, and deserves generous patronage.

New Bill at Bijou.

The new bill which will open this evening at the Bijou will include: The Chamberlains, the Pryors, Fairman and Jewell, Barney Williams, Claus and Radcliffe, Herman LeFleur, two big animated picture features.

The White City Program.

The new program of free attractions at the White City opened yesterday, and it includes some excellent acts.

Gus Henderson on the bounding rope gives some new and very entertaining turns, and the Steiner brothers on the aerial bar, have a sensational and novel act.

The new theater was opened yesterday, and proved to be a big attraction.

shipbuilding plants. The festivities at the park began with a clambake and sea food dinner. Those who did not go to the clambake spent the day in greeting new arrivals or in visiting historic places in Philadelphia and vicinity. Independence hall, in which the old liberty bell hangs, was the favorite place for most of the visitors.

John K. Tener of Charlerol, Pa., the grand treasurer, a candidate for grand exalted ruler, seems to lead for that high honor and his election is freely predicted. Dallas, Tex., appears to have the field to itself at present as the place for the next convention.

The Cincinnati lodge of Elks, which arrived here today, stopped off at Harrisburg and placed a large wreath of roses on the monument in a park there to the memory of late grand exalted ruler, Detwiler.

Hory, 1602 Spring street, northeast, cut on head and body by glass; Willie Hory, 7, slightly cut about head and face; Esther Hory, 11, cut on face; is suffering from nervous prostration; conductor, name unknown, painfully hurt; motorman, name unknown, slightly bruised.

Of the six passengers, only one, J. Davis, escaped without injury. He telephoned for assistance, and in the meantime, Mr. Staeger, 3315 Fremont avenue, and the conductor broke open the rear door and carried the injured to Mr. Steager's home. Mrs. Davis was later taken to the city hospital. Mrs. Hory and her two children went home in a cab.

The failure of the air brakes to work caused the accident. When the car left the end of the line for the city, the motorman remarked that the air brake was out of order and Mrs. Hory, who overheard this, asked to be left off as she feared an accident. The motorman and conductor assured her there would be no trouble. When the car struck the steep incline at Fremont and Thirty-third street the motorman tried to slow its progress with the handbrakes, but it was useless.

The car dashed down the grade, gaining speed at every moment, and when it approached the sharp turn at Thirty-third street the motorman jumped. A moment later the car jumped the track and, crashing on to its side, scraped along the ground for fifty feet.

The street car officials refused to give the names of the car crew.

ORCHARD RECALLED

guns and ammunition the day the mob started for the mill.

The defense took advantage of Dewey's reappearance to question him further as to his motive for testifying at this time. Dewey denied that he had been allowed to go in debt to the extent of $300 to the Union store at Cripple Creek, through the leniency of Davis.

"Didn't Davis finally deny further credit to you, and wasn't it then that you left the Union?" asked Attorney Richardson.

"No, sir."

Dewey admitted that he still owes the union $20 or $25 for supplies from the store. He said he had never been refused credit by any one.

"Didn't you after testifying on Saturday say to the man who accompanied you down town that you knew the names of at least 200 of the men who went to the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill, but you would be d——d if you would tell that lawyer fellow?" demanded Richardson.

"No sir."

The witness declared he could remember no such conversation. Neither could he remember just what he discussed.

Lawrence Guibbini, the San Francisco grocer, who lived across the street from the Bradley apartment house, was recalled to deny that he served a drink to a man named Reilly, the morning of the Bradley explosion. Reilly, who appeared as a witness for the defense, declared Guibbini and his wife had served him a drink. Mrs. Guibbini also took the stand and denied what Reilly had said. On cross-examination Guibbini said he had received $325 as traveling expenses for returning to Boise from San Francisco.

C. D. Lanson of the Boise Gas Light company, next was called as a gas expert to rebut the theory of the defense that the Bradley explosion was caused by gas, the ignition having been caused by a lighted cigar. Lanson declared in positive terms that gas would not ignite from any glow such as that of a lighted cigar. He said a flame temperature was necessary before gas exploded.

convivial. When they spoke with him about it he pointed out St. Paul's dictum about the small drop for the stomach's sake.

Then there came the Uhl-Ullman marriage in Stapleton, a little over two years ago. Mr. Uhl, a millionaire London hotelkeeper, married the daughter of a wealthy Staten Island family. The festivities following the wedding were participated in by a large company of German singers from near and far, and wine and beer flowed freely.

Early in the morning, when the guests thought of departing, they found that sixteen of their silk hats had been converted into crush hats by the simple process of using them as a bed.

Krause admitted that he had been weary and had laid him down, but not on the hats. Some more things were said and the Rev. Dr. Krause departed feeling hurt.

That started it. The resignation ended it.

YOUNG MAN HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Falls Into the St. Louis River at Fond du Lac.

Because two young men from this city, whose names could not be learned, forgot that it is not a safe thing for two persons to attempt to step from the same side of a boat at once, one of them nearly lost his life in the St. Louis river at Fond du Lac, yesterday.

The young men had been rowing about on the river and pulled up to the dock to land. Both stepped on the gunwale at the same time and the boat overturned. The older of the men could swim, and he got out easily. The other young man could not swim and was going under a second time when a boy, by the name of Johnson, who resides at Fond du Lac, laid down on the dock and grasped the drowning man by the collar, holding him up until assistance could be summoned.

The young man lost a camera that he had recently purchased.

WHAT RETAIL MARKETS OFFER

Green plums, 50 cents a basket.
Blue plums, 60 cents a basket.
Red plums, 60 cents a basket.
Cauliflower, 15 and 20 cents a head.
Blueberries, 25 cents a box.
Pears, 40 cents a dozen.
Summer sausage, 30 cents a pound.

The last named article is not exactly to be found in the market, but the market man counts on it nevertheless, and doesn't make a very great provision for Monday's trade. He doesn't coax you with good things as he does along about Thursday, for he realizes that after selling a housewife a roast that cost four or five dollars on Saturday he should be modest in his offerings Monday morning. In a family of two not long ago a chicken or maybe it was a hen, was purchased and made a daily reappearance at the table for some few days when a guest was entertained and the chicken was changed to a roast of beef. "Thank heaven," said the host aloud, "that somebody has come and we will get something different from chicken. We have had nothing but chicken for the last month."

"Pretty fine eating, it seems to me," said the guest.

"And then besides," said the hostess with the tightly pursed lips of the economical housewife, "it was all the same chicken."

"PEEPING TOM" GETS STIFF FINE

Young Man Arrested for Looking Under Window Blind.

Peeping under a curtain on the window of a room occupied by two young women coat Morris Murphy, employed by the Victor Produce company, $25 and costs in the municipal court this morning.

For several weeks the people on Second avenue west, between Second and Third streets, have been annoyed by a "Peeping Tom" and they finally complained to the police.

Officer Barber was detailed on the job of putting a stop to the nuisance. About a week ago a complaint came in from L. Koehler's boarding house at 218-220 Second avenue west, to the effect that the "Peeping Tom" had frightened two young ladies who room there by suddenly appearing at their window while they were retiring. As this place had been visited more often than any other portion of the neighborhood, the officer decided to watch here for the offender and took up his position in a vacant bedroom adjoining that of the two young ladies. He camped there for a week without results, but last night his vigal was rewarded by success.

Shortly before 12 o'clock he saw a man stealing toward the window of the young ladies' bedroom, moving along the wall directly under the window where the officer was. Barber had the window raised and just as the man was under him he leaned over and grabbed him by the collar. He broke away but the officer was out of the window and after him like a flash and had him before he had gone half a block. Barber says that his prisoner then called him by name and offered him a bribe of $10 which he refused. He took the man to the station.

He was arraigned before Judge Cutting this morning in municipal court on a charge of trespass and was fined $25 and costs. He stated that he was not the man who had been seen on former occasions, but that this had been his first offense.

CAR HITS HORSE.

Big Draft Animal Has Several Ribs Broken by Impact.

A team of heavy draft horses belonging to Tip Frink, attached to one of the Kelley-How-Thomson company's big wagons, was struck by a Lake avenue street car, in front of the Marshall-Wells building Saturday afternoon, and one of the horses had several ribs broken. According to spectators, Frink drove out from the Marshall-Wells building with a small load of goods, at a brisk trot and headed across the car tracks.

The car was approaching at a slow rate of speed, but the rig was driven out so quickly the motorman could not bring the car to a stop in time. After the accident Frink drove the team with its load around the block to the barn, where a veterinary surgeon was summoned to attend the injured horse.

MADE A BED OF SILK HATS.

One of Many Remarkable Things That Rev. Dr. Krause Did.

New York, July 15.—The Rev. Dr. Albert B. P. Krause, pastor of the German Lutheran church, of Stapleton, S. I., sat in the center of a bevy of stout matrons in the basement of the Sunday school building the other afternoon, eating ice cream and cake and drinking lemonade.

The Rev. Dr. Krause has tendered his resignation under pressure, and it has been accepted. The men and the severe sisters only await the acceptance by another pastor of a call to the church.

The Rev. Dr. Krause looks like the pictures one sees of German abbots.

Fourteen years ago Dr. Krause took charge of the church in Stapleton. He was professor of theology, Latin and Greek in Wager institute, Rochester, N. Y., at the time he accepted the call and was accounted a man of superior attainments. He was educated in the University of Leipsic, and had a ministerial charge before he came to this country.

By and by the townspeople whispered that the good pastor was a trifle too

VIRGINIA WINS FAST BALL GAME

Defeats Eveleth on Home Grounds, 3 to 1.

Eveleth, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—By a score of 3 to 1 the Virginia nine defeated the Eveleths here yesterday in a fast and exciting game. It was a pitchers' battle between Rosedeer of Virginia and Larson of Eveleth. A large crowd witnessed the game, a special train bringing a number of Virginia enthusiasts.

A thunderstorm combined with a lively disagreement among some of the players put an end to Saturday's Eveleth-Virginia game here, when the score was 11 to 10. It was in the ninth inning. Quinlan, the Virginia pitcher, was at bat. The Eveleth pitcher threw a speedy inshoot which bounced out of the mitt of Robinson, the Eveleth catcher. A runner on first hustled to second. Robinson claimed Quinlan fouled the ball, but the latter said he did not strike at it.

The two men exchanged blows before they were separated. In the meantime an Eveleth newspaper man and the Virginia city clerk became involved in a wordy dispute over the affair and they also exchanged a few blows before bystanders interferred.

Chisholm, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—By a score of 7 to 5 the Chisholm nine won from the Mountain Iron players here yesterday. A large crowd witnessed the game, which was pronounced a good one from start to finish.

Hibbing, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hibbing nine defeated the Cloquets here yesterday, shutting them out by a score of 8 to 0. Glave, the Hibbing pitcher, was in fine form and kept the visitors guessing, while Houle, the Cloquet twirler, proved an easy mark for the locals.

DERZAI OFF AGAIN.

Bats Reappear in the Belfry of Eveleth Man.

Eveleth, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—With a well-developed case of "bats in his belfry," presumably from too much liquor, John Derzai has again been taken to Fergus Falls to be cured of his mental ills. He was taken to the state institution by Deputy Sheriff Gately, who also had in tow John Pucek, charged with the larceny of $40 from an Austrian named Dabolock.

Derzai was arrested by the police and placed in jail. As on a previous occasion, he has hallucinations about his wife.

Pucek, Gately's other prisoner, waived examination and will remain in jail at Duluth pending trial.

TO WED WEDNESDAY.

Well Known Eveleth Couple to Join Fortunes at Plymouth.

Eveleth, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Valentine Green, an employe of the Oliver Mining company here, and Miss Alice Bowers for the past two years a teacher here, will be married Wednesday at Plymouth. The wedding will be a quiet affair and few will be present outside the immediate friends of the family. The Rev. Father Floyd, a personal friend of the young couple will tie the knot. After a breakfast at the home of the bride, a honeymoon will be spent on the Great Lakes and in Chicago. The young couple expect to return to Eveleth about the first of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Val Green will no doubt be the recipients of many pretty wedding presents as they have in Eveleth, a large circle of friends who wish them well.

DIVES INTO POND, DOES NOT COME UP

Hibbing Boy Loses His Life While in Swimming.

Hibbing, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—While in swimming with friends in a pond near the Morris mine, Sunday afternoon, George Dicoin, a Hungarian, aged about 19, lost his life.

He dove into the water, but did not come to the surface. His companions became alarmed and began searching for the body. When it was brought to the surface life was extinct. It is believed Dicoin was stunned by striking his head on the bottom and drowned before regaining his senses. He was a carpenter by trade, but had no relatives here. It is understood his family lives in Cleveland, Ohio.

TWO PERISH IN MINNESOTA MINE

Dynamite Goes Off While It is Being Tamped.

Soudan, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—John H. Hill and Otto Makula were blown almost to pieces late Saturday night in the Minnesota mine here by the premature explosion of dynamite. Three other laborers, Finns, were badly injured.

The men were blasting in one of the lower levels of the mine. They were in the extreme end of the level. A heavy charge of dynamite had been placed in a hole, and while it was being tamped it went off.

The charge also set off a box of dynamite standing near. The force of the explosion broke in the whole end of the level.

Hill and Makula were directing the tamping of the dynamite, according to the story told by the survivors, and they both were horribly torn and disfigured by the explosion. The other three men were a distance away, and though all three were badly injured by the terrific force of the explosive and the falling rock, they will probably survive. They are being cared for at the Soudan hospital.

The noise of the explosion created alarm throughout the entire mine, and all of the night crew were soon on the scene. They descended into the level where the accident took place, and, working in relays, dug away the fallen walls that imprisoned their wounded and dead comrades. A panic was caused on the lowest levels, and many of the Finn miners refused for a time to go back to work.

Both Hill and Makula are survived by large families. It is planned to hold a public funeral Tuesday.

Special denial is made that in 1868 and in 1877 the Erie and New York Central companies made preferential rates to the Standard Oil company on shipments of oil from Western Pennsylvania to New York. The charge that the profits of the Standard Oil company in excess of dividends are enormous is declared to be false.

LITERARY GOLD BRICKS.

Gold bricks were the theme at the last session of the Amalgamater Protective association of International Jokesmiths, New York local, a gentlemen's agreement having been at last effected with the Boss Publishers' association regarding the matter of canned jokes, which had long been in controversy, says the New York Sun.

In the slang of the workshop, the gold brick is a bright and sparkling witticism in prose or verse, in special demand for filling out odd corners and the gaps between the end of one article and the top of the next page in magazines. Gold bricks are a natural byproduct of the jokesmith's trade and fetch an average market price of a dollar each, although some of the Boss Publishers readily pay $2, and if the gold brick is accepted in connection with a suitably drawn comic picture an extra dollar is added for the artist.

Gold bricks, again, are divided into two classes—those which will stand the acid test and those which will not. The special phase of the question discussed was whether it was advisable to dispose of the gold bricks through agencies handling such articles—gold brick agencies, in fact.

At the suggestion of the chair several of the deglates went in turn to the blackboard and inscribed gold bricks culled from the foreign press and adapted to the American market. From the collection of specimens so made a few are reproduced:

It is said that modern discoveries in physiology prove apples are an excellent brain food, the phosphoric acid which they contain restoring vitality and energy.

Heavens! There is nothing new in that theory. It was solely with a view of giving Adam new ideas that Eve plucked the first apple mentioned in history.

A celebrated actress was in the midst of her toilette when the maid interrupted her to ask:

"What color will madame have her hair, today?"

"Black, I am going to a funeral!"

A notorious counterfeiter on trial before a German court:

"Prisoner, have you anything further to say in your defence before sentence is passed?"

"Yes, your honor. I wish to remind the court that on all pieces of the queer of my manufacture the portrait of the kaiser is most flattering."

It was announced that these and other gold bricks had been freshly transiated from famous European publications, and that the delegates who had picked them out at odd moments from the scrap heap were desirous of disposing of them at a net price per gross, f. o.b. Reports of the sub-committees on the investigation of gold brick agencies were then called for.

"In accordance with instructions from the chair," said a representative of the German Press club, "I entered into correspondence with the literary trust of Indianapolis, Ind. Having omitted to use either office or club stationery the trust had no means of knowing that I have been making a poor but honest living at the jokesmith's trade for twenty years, at the jokesmith's trade for twenty years, and it sent me same beautiful near typewriting circulars describing the huge enoluments of journalism as a profession, and sought to teach me by mail how to become either a journalist, a poet, an advertising man or a playwright.

"A small fee would be charged in advance, but as I began to get on to the wrinkles of the craft they would give me occsional assignments and buy my work at a fair marketh price, so I would be paid while learning.

"I wrote again to inquire their current rate for gold bricks, and was informed that they only bought from those taking their regular courses and paying in advance. They began to flood my mail with pamphlets of testimonials, application blanks, interviews on the profits of authorship and other follow up letters, so I wrote inquiring how much they would charge to teach me how to write plays like Theodore Kremer and Hal Reid.

"They undertook to teach me in a year for $15 in advance. I have written again, saying that on second thought I would rather manufacture plays like those of George Bernard Shaw, but as yet I have received no answer."

"It is my privilege to report an interview," said the delegate from Long Island City, "with the gentlemanly mananger of the Consolidated Literature company of New York. I found him in the third story front hall bedroom, which he and a stenographer have converted to business use by the installation of three chairs, a desk, a file cabinet and recommendations from eminent writers.

"I did not waste his time with questions, but took such liteature as he had ready and bowed myself out. The Consolidated Literature company is described in its own booklets as representing all of the literary periodicals and publishers of this country, gathering material for them from all sources. Fees for placing manuscripts are $1 for 4,000 words or less, $2 for one between 4,000 and 10,000 and $5 for each longer manuscript, but it will give its services to two short poems for the fee of $1.

"Besides the C. L. C. has professional advisers under the direction of a literary expert, gives helpful criticism at a minimum of $2 and does typewriting. There is nothing in its prospectus, however, to indicate that the C. L. C. sells gold bricks, and I think we may therefore eliminate it from consideration."

"I was assigned to visit the Hurrah Syndicate," said the Brooklyn Press Club delegate. "This syndicate, according to the booklets which I brought away on my first visit, charges $5 per annum for membership, 20 per cent on sales and promises at least one assignment a month to all who are accepted as members.

"Shortly after my visit I received a lovely lithographed letter with my name written in by typewriter in which a sad tale was related of the syndicate being obliged to turn down orders for lack of material, and urging this as a reason why I should send in my application at once. There's a note on the application saying that it must be accompanied by cash, but I suppose the syndicate wants material more than money.

"I went out and was informed that the syndicate was selling its gold bricks to other syndicates and deducting the 20 per cent commission.

"'Have you got a pull?'

"'No,' said the manager.

"'Then why can't I send in the gold brick myself, and take a chance, thus saving that 20 per cent, to say nothing of the $5?'

"'You can,' said the manager: 'but sale on commission is all we pretend to, and it's an irksome job, as you know.'

"In view of the facts ascertained by myself and colleagues on committee, I venture to suggest that we pass up the gold brick agencies and establish a headquarters in Barney's back room. The 20 per cent can go into a kitty, and there ought to be enough at the end of the month to pay Barney for handling the mail, and even to buy a few original packages after the discussions on meeting nights.'

"Does the chair understand the gentleman to put his suggestion before the local in the form of a resolution?"

"I move you, Mr. President, that the matter go over until next fall," said the spokesman of the Yonkers group, "and that before taking action, every member, that he may realize himself with the history of the Blue Pencil club."

Several gentlemen were on their feet in a moment to debate this question, but the frowsy headed young man with the apron appeared and said:

"Gents, they is a feller who used to belong has told Barney that his uncle is dead, and has left two rounds apiece for youse, sayin' as how he hopes fer to be excused from optrudin' his grief on youse."

Under the circumstances a motion to adjourn upon which there was no debate was instantly put and carried.

DESERT MINERS' ETIQUETTE.

Los Angeles Times: "Never ask a man anything about his mine; he won't tell you if you do. It isn't etiquette to ask such questions on the desert."

Thus spoke J. Heineman, late of Beatty, an old-timer in Death Valley and the desert.

"You see, when one miner meets another on the desert they stop, talk and pass pleasantries. One will ask the other if he's getting anything and he will say 'good' or 'hard luck' but that's about all. Neither asks for details or where the other has his claim located. If any man wants you to know he'll tell you without being asked. If not he won't tell you if you do ask.

"The fact is that if a man has a great body of low-grade ore that he must have a force of men to work and ship to the smelters he must record it. But if he has a rich spot easily handled it is not necessary and many times one doesn't care to have the world know about it and have everybody coming to dig all around. It often leads to troubles and litigation, jumping and all that sort of thing.

"If a property is in the mountains, it is more necessary to record it, for it is easier found. A man can be followed in the mountains, but never out on the desert. I would like to see the man who could follow me on the desert if I don't want him to. I'll give him a chase that will make him very sick of his job. Of course, in such cases, a claim is never left unguarded if any one should stumble upon it by accident. In such case possession will be nine points of the law.

"This is so not only about mines but also about private secret water holes. You know some of these give so little water that, once known to the general public, they would be of no use to those who went to big trouble finding them, or to any one else very soon, so they never tell. Let one who has such a place hidden find one in need, he will share his water, and, if necessary, he will go and bring back a supply, but the other fellow doesn't know where it comes from. That's the finder's secret.

"Of course there are public watering places, especially along the stage routes. Some wells have been dug by individuals or companies who sell water. Lots of money has been expended in this way. The water problem is indeed a serious one on the desert.

"At some of the camps water is hauled by team and sells for as high as $9 a barrel. People who don't know think this is a terrible price, but it really leaves a very small profit for the long haul and the time lost and feed of teams. Often much of the water with which one starts is used up by the horses."

WHERE DRUMMERS STOP.

Stories of Odd Hotels in Different Parts of the Country.

I recall one hotel down in the Southland which had one of the most primitive bills of fare in the world, writes E. E. Crossland in the Chicago Tribune. The colored boy appeared at the elbow of the guest morning, noon and night, and his simple inquiry covered the entire ground:

"How you laik you algs?"

Indeed, the South until within the last decade, and in some spots still, furnishes the limit in the hotel line. I remember one evening in March down in Kentucky I had driven twenty-five miles over mud roads and, arriving in the hotel, which appeared tolerably comfortable, I inquired if I could get a hot bath, and to my delight was informed that I could. A fine rain, half snow, was falling and a high wind blowing. I went to the room, disrobed, and, throwing a bath robe around me, followed the negro boy down the corridor. Pretty soon we emerged on to a latticed back porch on the second story, and in a latticework that was covered with vines in midsummer stood a bathtub, into which the boy had dumped two buckets of hot water.

The latticework was open, and even the flaring lamp, sizzling as the snowflakes struck it, revealed me to half the neighbors. I gave up the luxury of the bath and retreated in as good order as possible.

Once in Kansas I doubled up with two stockmen in one bed, but the limit was reached one night in Southwestern Texas, tired out from a long drive across country (I was selling irrigation pumps), and inquired for quarters. The hotel man regretted exceedingly that he had but one room and that occupied, and hoped I would not object to doubling up with the occupant, who had already retired.

He lighted me to the room, showed me the bed, put down the lamp, and as he started to leave he asked casually,

"I suppose you've had smallpox."

"No," I replied.

"That's bad," he remarked, and added cheerfully, "but I don't suppose it can be helped."

He was going out when I inquired:

"What has smallpox to do with this?"

"Nothing," he answered, "nothing—only your bedmate has it."

I beat him downstairs and slept in a chair.

One of the oddest hotels I ever struck was up in the lumber district of Upper Michigan. I hit the town one election night and found the place crowded with loggers from all up and down the river. There was one hotel, a small board affair. The office and dining room occupied one side, the kitchen was a leanto in the rear and one long bedroom extending along the entire side of the hotel completed the outfit. A double row of cot beds with heads to the wall made the furnishings, and yet there was only about room enough for a third of the visitors in town to sleep. Along about 9 o'clock I decided to retire, and the proprietor after looking me over curiously and evidently debating inwardly assigned me to a bed and I turned in.

At midnight every cot was filled and half the pickled log rollers were snoring when, suddenly and without a trace of warning, every cot was overturned, the occupants dumped on the floor. The sleepers arose put on their clothes they had removed before retiring and started out without comment. I was dazed for a minute and then began to kick to the boss, who stood in the doorway and yelled "All out!"

"What the dickens does this mean?" I demanded hotly.

"First shift turning out," he explained, and as he did so a line of men marched in and retired, while those who had slept in the first shift slipped away to the near by saloons. At 3 o'clock the second shift was dumped onto the floor and at 6, when the third shift was dumped, I paid the boss $1 extra to let me turn in and sleep until 8.

In earlier days, when I was selling farm machinery in Western Kansas, I struck some queer hotels, but the oddest of all was owned and operated by a genius named Richards, in a little village in Sheridan county, fifteen or twenty miles from Hoxie.

Richards was a queer character, and his specialty was invention. He had invented more worthless things than any man in the country. Almost everything he made would work, but they all required more time and labor than the things he tried to improve on. His barn lot and barn, as well as his little one-story hotel, were filled with things he had invented.

He put me to bed in a small room, perhaps 8x10 feet, with one small window and one extremely narrow door. I noticed as he showed me into the room that the place seemed to have double walls.

I retired. The night was sultry and close, but after a time I fell asleep. Some time during the night I was awakened by a jarring into my mind that a cyclone had struck us. I leaped out of bed and ran to the window. A sickening sensation of falling came over me. Everything was dark. I jammed my arm through the window and my fist struck solid earth. I was terror stricken, but with a jar the movement ceased, and within a few minutes we began to ascend again and stopped suddenly. A gust of wind struck me and as I was about to climb through the window Richards opened the door and asked:

"How did she work?"

I demanded an explanation.

"Cyclone," he said cheerily. "Took the calf barn and two haystacks and part of Dobb's barn and his windmill. I thought it was going to hit us and let you down."

The next morning he showed me the mechanism. Every sleeping room was really in a double room, the inside being like an elevator, and he had rigged weights and counter weights until by pushing a lever he could drop all the sleepers in the hotel down into the cellar until the cyclone passed.

STATION AGENTS' TROUBLES.

The Uganda Railway has always impressed us as being one which, to do in full justice, should be dealt with in comic opera says the Colonizer. Named after a colony through which it does not run, starting from a terminus carefully placed as far away as possible from the port it serves, though reaching the island on which that port is situated by a bridge built at great expense, running for a long extent through natural game preserves, with the result that its trains are held up from time to time by objecting animals, every mile on the line has a more or less humorous tale attached to it.

In the early days, while construction was still proceeding and while only a part of the line was open for traffic—in fact until quite recently, life on the line must always have been interesting and occasionally very exciting. In August, 1906, for instance, the traffic manager at Mombassa received from the Baibu station master at Simba the following telegram marked urgent: "Lion is on the platform. Please instruct guard and driver to proceed carefully and without signal in yard. Guard to advise passengers not to get out here, and be careful when coming into booking office."

The touching piece of advice included seems somewhat superfluous. However, one bold sportsman did get out, and ascending a convenient tree managed to "get" a lioness and a lion within a few minutes. He further wounded another lion, the one waiting on the platform. However, the latter after being wounded disappeared and could not be found, so the sportsman went along the siding to look for him. He found him—suddenly—but owing to his swiftness in getting in a blow from the shoulder on the lion's jaw after an exciting rough and tumble he found himself on top when the lion bolted into the bush.

A little later in the day the traffic manager received a further wire from the station-master, who appeared to be somewhat recovering confidence as it was not marked urgent: "One African injured again by a lion. Please send cartridges by next train certain." The same afternoon this was followed by a second touching telegram: "Pointsman is surrounded by two lions while returning from distant signal, and then pointsman went on top of telegraph post, near water tanks. Train to stop there and take him on train and then proceed. Please arrange necessary steps."

It is not "big game" alone, however, that causes annoyance, for from a station close to Nairobi about five years ago the following report was received: "Rats running about like h——, eating holes in the ceiling and biting off pointsman's toes. Send rat traps."

NOT APPROPRIATE.

Washington Star: The late Bishop James Newbury Fliszgerald in an address in St. Louis once declared that sympathy far more than eloquence or learning made for success in the ministry.

"Too many of us, through lack of sympathy," he said, "say the worst, the most inappropriate things. Thus a young Baptist friend of mine, condoling with a housebreaker in a jail, droned:

"'Ah, my friend, let us remember that we are here today and gone tomorrow.'

"'You may be; I ain't,' the housebreaker answered shortly."

THAT SURPLUS AGAIN.

Without regard to politics, it is to be assumed that the people of this country have a pretty high regard for the wisdom and clearness of vision possessed by ex-President Grover Cleveland.

The existence of a large surplus in the federal treasury, amounting to $87,000,000, calls to mind the attitude of that statesman when, twenty years ago, the surplus revenue of the government, notwithstanding large payments on the public debt, amounted to $55,000,000.

President Cleveland thought this condition so abnormal and dangerous that he devoted his entire message of 1887 to presenting what he believed to be the evils of a rapidly accumulating surplus, and the proposal of a remedy for the surplus that then existed. In connection with the present surplus, it is worth while reading a few paragraphs from that message. They follow:

> When we consider that the theory of our institutions guarantees to every citizen the full enjoyment of all the fruits of his industry and enterprise, with only such deduction as may be his share toward the careful and economical maintenance of the government which protects him, it is plain that the exaction of more than this is indefensible extortion and a culpable betrayal of American fairness and justice.
> No condition ought to exist which would justify the grant of power to a single official, upon his judgment of its necessity, to withhold from or release to the business of the people in an unusual manner money held in the treasury, and thus affect, at his will, the financial situation of the country.
> Of course it is not expected that unnecessary and extravagant appropriations will be made for the purpose of avoiding the accumulation of an excess of revenue.
> Our scheme of taxation, by means of which this needless surplus is taken from the people and put into the public treasury, consists of a tariff or duty levied upon importations from abroad, and internal revenue taxes levied upon the consumption of tobacco and spirituous and malt liquors. It must be conceded that none of the things subjected to internal revenue taxation are, strictly speaking, necessaries; there appears to be no just complaint of this taxation by the consumers of these articles, and there seems to be nothing so well able to bear the burden without hardship to any portion of the people. But our present tariff laws, the vicious, inequitable, and illogical source of unnecessary taxation, ought to be at once revised and amended.
> The simple and plain duty which we owe the people is to reduce taxation to the necessary expenses of an economical operation of the government, and to restore to the business of the country the money which we hold in the treasury through the perversion of governmental powers.

Time has not impaired the soundness of that reasoning. It is just as good today as it was then.

For instance, this present surplus amounts to about $1 per capita. In other words, the government has raised by the tariff tax, which hits every man, woman and child in the country, a dollar more for each individual than it needed.

What would be said in Minnesota if the legislature, by a direct general tax, should raise $2,000,000 more than it needed for state purposes in a single year? This is the same proportion in which the people of the nation have been overtaxed to create this surplus.

There would be a mighty outcry about it in this state, and there would be in the nation if the people took thought of what it really means.

ADVERTISE DULUTH.

The Herald trusts that it was by an inadvertence that the public affairs committee of the Commercial club overlooked the project of advertising Duluth at its meeting Friday evening.

This matter is too important to be overlooked or delayed. Other matters came up which consumed most of the time of the meeting of the public affairs committee, which may explain why that able, intelligent and effective body did not get around to this particular method of doing what we are all seeking to do—pushing Duluth ahead.

The Commercial club is doing a little in the way of advertising Duluth, but in view of what other cities that must be recognized as competing communities are doing, the necessity of something more vigorous is obvious.

What is needed is a systematic, active, energetic campaign to advertise Duluth far and wide; a campaign into which every citizen can throw his efforts, and on which all interests, all parties and all organizations can combine for the common good. It must be a campaign with money back of it, and accompanied by a good deal of "whoop and holler," not only for the benefit of the benighted thousands that do not know of Duluth's advantages, but for the benefit of the people of Duluth themselves, that they may realize fully what a blessed privilege it is to live in Duluth, and that they may be stirred up into taking active part in the movement.

A Greater Duluth committee, composed of some of the strong and level-headed business men who are members of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club, could make a stir in the world, and that is what ought to be going on.

STANDARDS OF CHARACTER.

The man who measures himself by his inferiors rather than by his superiors is in a bad way.

The attempt to measure one's self by superiors inevitably creates that noble discontent that breeds ambition and the desire to get ahead and do better.

The practice of measuring one's self by inferiors may tend toward complacency, but it is a very dangerous complacency, and tends to retrogression almost inevitably.

The man who always measures himself by his superiors finds out wherein he lacks, and he is sadly lacking indeed if the knowledge of his defects does not spur him on to an endeavor to remedy them.

The man that measures himself by his inferiors can always find points of superiority in himself, and his tendency will be to think himself quite a fellow, and to overlook his need of improvement; and the man that does not need improvement does not live.

The danger in this tendency is that a man can always find inferiors to measure against himself to his own gratification. If he does not discover his own defects by comparisons with his superiors, and work to correct them, he is certain to slip down the scale, because there is no such thing as standing still. Every man is either growing better or growing worse all the time. He must work to grow better, but he can grow worse without working, and, indeed, always does.

If a man can content himself with the knowledge that there are others worse than he is, he has a long way to slide before he reaches the repulsive depths where there are none worse than himself, and such a man is bound to slide.

You can tell whether you are going up or down, if by no other way, by asking yourself if it is your habit to measure yourself by those above you or by those below you. This means above you in character, of course, and not in any fictitious and silly social scale.

And don't be discouraged if the comparison is not to your satisfaction, but so much to your disadvantage as to make it seem difficult to mount to their heights. It may be difficult, but that makes it all the more worth while. Character is as much the creation of proper exercise along right lines as are health and strength. You can develop your character by exercising it in the right direction, or you can let it deteriorate and grow flabby and useless by lack of exercise.

And there is nothing more stimulating to proper exercise of character than comparison of your own with characters that you admire.

AT THE STATE FAIR.

A representative of the state fair association last week interested the public affairs committee of the Commercial club in the plan of having a St. Louis county exhibit at the state fair, and a sub-committee has taken the matter up for action.

This movement should have the heartiest support and co-operation from all interests.

There has been a recent awakening here, thanks to the efforts of certain Duluth men, as to the need of developing the agricultural resources near Duluth, and as to the splendid advantages offered by the soil of the surrounding territory to dairymen, market-gardeners, etc.

It would be possible to astound the remainder of the state with a purely agricultural exhibit from St. Louis county, though the exhibit should not be purely agricultural, but should embrace all of the many industries that make St. Louis county the empire it is.

With a view to cementing the good feeling and common interest of Northeastern Minnesota, The Herald some time ago suggested a joint exhibit by the several counties of this corner of this state. It is probably too late now to arrange such an exhibit, but is is not too late to arrange a splendid exhibit from St. Louis county, one that will show the visitors at the state fair what a marvelous land of opportunity this is.

Incidentally, it might be suggested that under a law passed last winter, county boards in counties having more than 40 per cent of wild land are empowered to appropriate $500 for county exhibits at the state fair. St. Louis county probably comes under this head, and the board of county commissioners should gladly appropriate this sum to make the exhibit a success.

THE NORWEGIAN SAMLAG.

Though Norway is a northern country, and northern countries generally run to an undue use of ardent spirits, that nation has the liquor traffic under more complete and effective control than any other nation on earth, and it is distinctly a temperate land, though liquor is sold everywhere. How Norway has accomplished this is described by United States Consul F. S. S. Johnson of Bergen.

The samlag system gives the municipality power to grant all the retail spirit licenses which it deems necessary to a company which will bind itself to carry on the traffic in the interests of the community with a fixed annual return of not more than 5 per cent on its paid-up capital.

The aims of the samlag are as follows: To eliminate private profit and to secure the monopoly value for the public; to insure the highest quality of liquors sold; to reduce the number of licenses; to make law enforcement easy; to destroy the power of the liquor trade, and to further all progressive measures of reform. The profits are allotted as follows: To the state, 65 per cent; to the municipality in lieu of larger license duties, which were abolished, 15 per cent; and to objects of public utility not being chargeable on the rates, but operating as counter attractions to the public houses, in towns, 10 per cent, and outside of towns the same.

The combined capital of all the samlags in Norway in 1904 amounted to $155,000, and it has never exceeded $190,000. The profits of the trade, even under these restrictions, have contributed since the establishment of the system $7,000,000 for objects of public interest. During the past eight years the proportion accruing to the state has been increased and set apart to form the nucleus of an old age pension fund, which now amounts to $2,500,000.

The proof of the samlag's efficiency is in the fact that while the population increased by about 60 per cent during the period from 1851 to 1905, and the imports per inhabitant increased about 300 per cent and the exports by about 200 per cent, the consumption of alcohol per inhabitant decreased about 45 per cent. The decrease was most marked between 1871 and 1905, which is the samlag period.

Beer and other malt liquors are not restricted in the same manner, but are treated as popular and comparatively harmless beverages. They are, therefore, for sale at almost any shop providing food, and the remarkable decrease in the consumption of strong drinks and the equally remarkable increase in sobriety has been accompanied by an increase in the quantity of malt liquors consumed.

Norway furnishes a valuable lesson to the nations of the world. She has solved the liquor problem, always a vexed question, about as nearly as any other country has solved it, even including states where absolute prohibition is the law but not the fact.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"Duluth certainly made a hit with the Northwestern coal dealers, when they held their annual convention here two years ago," said F. L. Paulson of Grand Forks, N. D., at the St. Louis. "It has been the custom in the past to change the place of meeting every year, until all the principal towns in the territory of the association were covered, but after the meeting in Duluth the members were so pleased with everything here that some of them favored holding the conventions here right along.

"That did not meet with favor from the majority, because of the custom of holding the meetings in different places, but all agreed last year, or nearly all, that it would be a good plan to gather here in 1907. This is an exceptionally fine boost for Duluth, to have the convention held here twice in three years' time. It is something unprecedented in the history of the association, to have gatherings in one place twice in such a short time, and there are few other associations which have done this, except where some special place of meeting is designated as a permanent location for holding the conventions.

"The association has a larger membership now than when last it met here, and naturally the attendance will be larger. The fact that those who attended last time have ever since been boasting Duluth and its many attractions, will also have something to do with the increased attendance."

The Old Oaken Bucket.

How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood,
When fond recollections present them to view;
The orchard, the meadow, the deep-tangled wildwood,
And all the loved spots that my infancy knew.

Yet one thing I can but recall with a shudder—
I wonder I live now the story to tell;
Of how I oft drank from the old oaken bucket,
The germ-breeding bucket that hung in the well.

How oft as a boy, when returning from working,
I came from the meadows where long I had toiled,
And seized the rude bucket where microbes were lurking,
To drink of the water, unfiltered, unboiled.

I might have caught typhoid, marasmus, or measles;
I wonder that ever I lived to grow up,
For using that unhygienic old bucket,
Instead of employing a sterilized cup.

I thought it was sweet from the brim to receive it;
The draught so refreshing could not fail to please;
Ah, foolish I was, for I could not believe it;
That water no doubt contained germs of disease.

'Twas strange that in days of my earliest childhood
The bells of the village had not tolled my knell
For drinking bacteria out of that bucket,
The nosterile bucket that hung in the well.

REFRAIN.

The old oaken bucket, the germ-laden bucket,
The death-dealing bucket that hung in the well.

—Lippincott's Magazine.

Envy.

Geoffrey Chaucer: After pride wol I speken of the foule synne of envye, which is, as by the word of the philosophere, sorwe of oother mannes prosperitee; and after the word of Seint Augustyn, it is sorwe of oother mannes wele and joye of othere mennes harm. This synne is platly agayns the Hooly Goost. Al be it, so that every synne is agayns the Hooly Goost, yet nathelees for as muche as bountee aperteneth properly of malice there it is properly agayns the bountee of the Hooly Goost.

Be Not Afraid.

Ralph Waldo Emerson: He has not learned the lesson of his life who does not every day surmount a fear. If you have no faith in a beneficent power above you, but see only an adamantine fate coiling its folds about nature and man, then reflect that the best use of fate is to teach us courage. If you have no confidence in any foreign mind then be brave because there is always one good opinion which must always be of importance to you—namely your own.

THE WEATHER.

That was a great rain last night. It fell gently, steadily, persistently, giving everything out of doors the thorough soaking they had been needing for some time. This morning it seemed about to clear up, and did clear up for a little while, after which it clouded over again and became threatening. Yesterday's highest temperature was 78 degs. and last night's lowest was 52 degs. The weather man looks for skittish weather tonight and tomorrow, with showers, and probably several thunderstorms, and brisk and occasionally high variable winds.

A year ago yesterday it was muggy and sticky, and a year ago today it was unsettled, with light showers.

The sun rose this morning at 4:28, and sets tonight at 8, making 15 hours and 32 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Low pressure areas overlying the Upper Mississippi valley, Rocky Mountains and Saskatchewan caused light to heavy local showers or thunderstorms during Sunday or last night in the western lake region, Missouri and Upper Mississippi valleys, the Northern Rocky mountains and Alberta. Cool weather prevails in Rocky mountain districts, but it is moderately warm in central and eastern districts."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

The Girl in Calico.

I called on a friend, and his sisters were there—
A bevy of beautiful girls.
There were Maud with a rose in her tresses of gold,
And Madge with a necklace of pearls,
And Milly, a beauty with melting black eyes,
And Myra with ringlets of brown;
And apart from the rest, in a seat by the door,
Sweet Ruth in a calico gown.

There were satins and velvets and chiffons and silks,
And laces and ribbons galore,
But I looked at the maid who was youngest of all,
And the rest took she modestly wore.
It spoke to my soul of a cottage afar,
From the worry and haste of the town,
And lo, to preside o'er the coffee and cream
A girl in a calico gown!

It was patterned all over, that calico dress,
With sprays of most delicate pink;
And the waist—oh, so trim and so slender
—was bound
With a plain satin ribbon, I think.
I could tell you the number of ruffles it had,
For I boldly marched up and sat down,
With a thrill of delight, on a chair by the side
Of the girl in the calico gown.

A look and a word, and a blush and a smile—
A meeting next day on the street—
A call and a question, a kiss and a ring,
And my happiness soon was complete.
I married in haste, but shall never repent.
For love is my scepter and crown
In the rose-embowered cottage of which she is queen—
The girl in the calico gown.

A Parable.

Detroit News: Once on a time a man who was weary with bearing the burden of life went out into that highway called the Road of the Past and Future; and as he walked he saw One coming toward him.

When they met the Man inquired of the other, "What art thou?" The other replied, "I am Fate, the Master of Humanity. By me was thy past ruled and by me shall thy future be molded." The Man remained silent, for he stood in great fear of Fate; but, plucking up courage, he raised his eyes to the face of his companion and perceived that about his neck was a shackle of iron, and that to this shackle a chain of steel was held in the hand of a shadowy, scarce discernible form which stood behind.

The Man was astounded. "If thou be my Master and the Master of all men, who then is this that hath thee bound with chains?" he inquired. And he who held the chain answered, "I am Circumstance and Fate is but my slave to do my bidding."

"And has thou no master?" Art thou supreme?" queried the Man.

"Nay," said Circumstance. "Any man may become my master.'

"Explain thyself," demanded the Man. But before an answer could be given One came running swiftly and would have passed by had not the Man stepped before him and, seizing him by the arm, demanded of him, "Who art thou dost run so quickly?"

The one who had been seized bowed low before the Man and made answer: "I am thy servant, since it hath been given to thee to seize me in my passage; and through me art thou master of these others who stand before thee."

The Man looked toward Fate and Circumstance and saw with astonishment that they were bowing in submission before him. He asked of them: "Who is this One who hath conferred such power on me?"

And they answered with one voice, "His name is Opportunity."

New Orleans Times-Democrat: An attempt is being made to break the will of a rich New Yorker on the ground of insanity. It is charged that deceased was in the habit of classing all women as "cats." An awful responsibility is thus placed upon the presiding judge.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

St. Hilaire Spectator: Some of the big bankers are complaining that there is too much money, but we have not heard any complaint from the newspaper fraternity.

Cass Lake Times: Don't wait for opportunity to call you up to do work that you know ought to be done at once. He rarely calls but once and never repeats an offer. There are wholesome opportunities lying around loose in this neck of the woods which any novice can see without spectacles and the young man of today should hasten to embrace them. Don't wait for somebody to point them out for you, get out and look them up yourself and fasten onto the one that looks best and hold it.

Floodwood Broadaxe: Who would you rather be, a Rockefeller with your millions cordially hated by all classes, and be compelled to dodge the officers of the law during your old age, or a man of moderate means, sitting in the shade of your humble cottage blessed with content and the esteem of your neighbors?

Bovey Iron News: Young men or women of today who are looking for "soft jobs," or figuring how they may get something for nothing, should ponder well these words of Horace Greely: "The darkest hour in the history of any young man is when he sits down to study how to get money without honestly earning it."

East Grand Forks Valley View: The happiest man in the land today is the successful farmer. He sits under his own vine and fig tree, undisturbed by the maddening noise of the great city. Banks fail, railroads go into the hands of receivers, booming towns collapse, all business stagnates. But the wise farmer can snap his finger at these things. He is the monarch of all he surveys on his broad acres. And the honesty of his boys and the purity of his girls is guarded against temptations, and in them he is giving the country its best manhood and womanhood. The farmer is to be envied, and if he is not contented with his lot, he is lacking in wisdom.

Hawley Herald: Wheelock's Weekly had an editorial last week on "How to Enjoy an Outing." Now, if he will follow this up with another on "How to Get Money Enough to Enjoy an Outing" the newspaper boys throughout the state will rise up and bless him.

Stillwater Prison Mirror: The nightcap is a handicap in any kind of race.

Minneapolis Telegram: Any man who can get used to drinking poor coffee can get used to being married.—Chicago News.

And any woman who can get used to saying, mending and slaving to make both ends meet, can get used to being married—if she has the patience of a saint.

Night.

Softly she floats o'er all the hills and valleys,
Queen of the dark she rides upon the moon's soft rays,
Her mantel soft she throws o'er cot and palace,
And wraps the earth in slumber's gentle haze!

The flowers, fragrant, bow their heads before her,
The day bird sinks to slumber in her nest,
The stars above shed softest luster o'er her,
And Nature croons a low, sweet song of rest!

The cares, the toil of day are all forgotten,
Sweet dreams she brings alike to rich and poor,
She stirs the conscience drugged by wealth ill-gotten,
And makes an Eden of the loneliest moor.

Department Forced to Act.

Malone, N. Y., Forum: For the second time the pauper Lemora has won, or is about to win his fight to get his mail, against the bloated billionaire, Rockefeller. Through the work of the Forum, the fact that the old patriot pensioner was ostracised and denied all mail privileges in the only adjacent United States postoffice, was heralded to the four corners of the Union.

Many of the leading papers of the United States took up the matter, notably the Springfield, Mass., Republican, the Chicago Public, the Duluth Herald, the Northampton, Mass., Herald, and many others.

A whirlwind of questions was soon fired at the postoffice department from indignant citizens all over the United States. The burden of these questions was: "Does Rockefeller own the United States postoffice department?" The department was "up a tree," and its wobbling answers contributed to the gaiety of the nation.

The department soon got tired making an ass of itself, in favor of the head chief pirates of the universe, the law-breaking and law-defying Rockefellers, and last Saturday announced that an investigation was ordered, with a view of restoring the postoffice to the people of Brandon.

Size of Central-American States.

Review of Reviews: Very few people have a correct impression of the size of Central America as a whole, or of its states, taken separately. California seems like a large state. It extends 770 miles along the Pacific and has an extreme width of 375 miles; if California were laid end for end on Central America it would cover it with the exception of Salvador, which is just the size of New Jersey and occupies a little over 7,000 square miles. Stated in another way, if Central America were lifted bodily and lyaid down on our Atlantic coast it would just hide all New England, New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. In short, it has a combined area of approximately 167,000 square miles. Individually, aside from Salvador, already mentioned, the states could be compared as follows: Honduras to Pennsylvania, 45,000 square miles; Guatemala to Mississippi, 47,000; Nicaragua to New York, 49,000; Costa Rica to Vermont and New Hampshire, 18,000.

LAUGHING GAS.

Baltimore American: "The occupation of a clockmaker is rather a sycophantic one."

"I don't know how you make that out."

"Why, he's nothing after all, but a time-server."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: The Poet (to the magazine editor)—I wonder if you would like a few verses I wrote after dinner yesterday?

The Editor (suspiciously)—What sort of dinner was it?

Philadelphia Ledger: Mars had approached to within 83,000,000 miles of the earth.

"Hold on," said the more cautious Martians, "perhaps Japan will be offended if we sail closer."

This view seeming reasonable, they reversed and scooted away at full speed.

Washington Star: "Has your boy been benefited by his stay at college?"

"Yes," answered Farmer Corntossel; "he's benefited in one way. Mother an' I miss him so much when he's away that we don't feel nigh as much like takin' a club to him as we used to."

Harper's Weekly: Host—Dreadful night, isn't it?"

Departing Friend—Awful! Not fit to turn a dog into.

Host—No. Well, good night, old chap.

Baltimore American: "There's nothing the matter with the fit of those pants," said the tailor.

"They don't feel altogether comfortable," protested the fat man.

"No? They maybe a little tight across the—er—chest, but we can remedy that."

Chicago Tribune: Mrs. Lapsling was explaining the nature of the injury sustained by Johnny when he fell off the back porch.

"It's a wonder he ever went through it alive," she said. "The doctor says he came mighty near fracturing his juxtaposition. You know that's the bone next to the medullion obligato."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "I see you have a bundle there. Not getting ready for the Fourth so early?"

"Yes."

"Roman candles and firecrackers, eh?"

"Nope. Witchhazel and arnica."

Philadelphia Press: "This painting," said the art dealer, indicating an exquisite marine view, "is valued at $30,000."

"You don't say," remarked the stock broker. "H'm! there's a lot of water in it, isn't there?"

Stammer?—You're Kind-hearted.

Sketch: Stammering arises from a weak nerve in the brain. Strengthen that nerve and the stammerer is cured. But it so happens that this particular nerve is never weak in the case of people who are mean, or hard, or utterly selfish.

I do not propose to say that only stammerers have gentle, sensitive, sympathetic natures, but I do claim that a person who stammers slightly will generally be found to be trustworthy, diffident, kind-hearted, and, nine times out of ten, possessed of considerable mental ability.

A Fruitless Quest.

Baltimore American: It is a question whether or not Judge Landis has not done the best sort of work for the elder Rockefeller. If the government has the purpose to prosecute him criminally, he may try to plead immunity upon the ground of the testimony he has given in the civil case. In any event the oil magnate simply went to Chicago, to the federal courthouse, where he "walked right in and turned around and walked right out again" without the cause of justice or trust-busting thereby being advanced.

RAILROAD NEWS

ADD THREE NEW TRAINS

Wisconsin Central Will Give Competition in Chicago Service.

Duluth Will be Bound Closer to Windy City.

In the opinion of some of the local railroad men, the passenger train service between Duluth and Chicago within the next two or three years, will be fully equal to that between St. Paul and Chicago, in point of equipment and general excellence of service. While there may not be as many trains out of the Head of the Lakes for the Windy City as there are out of the Twin Cities for the same point, they will be frequent enough to satisfy the wants of the traveling public. There will probably be four a day, two over the Wisconsin Central and two over the Omaha, not counting those which give service to Chicago by way of St. Paul.

There has been talk for some time past that the Omaha would install another train for passengers, making two a day, and it is expected now that this will occur next year, probably early in the summer, when the summer travel begins. The probabilities are that the Wisconsin Central will put two passenger trains in service, although this may not come for a year or two. It all depends on the business. From the present outlook, however, business will have grown to such an extent in two or three years to make it worth while for both roads to have at least two trains each between Duluth and Chicago every day.

The Omaha at present is furnishing first-class service in its afternoon Chicago train, and the patrons of the road have no objections to offer. The Wisconsin Central people say they will have some of the finest trains in the West, and the condition of the roadbed will doubtless be such as to make it possible to make good time between the two terminal points, for extraordinary care is being taken to provide the best possible roadbed.

Passenger business in and out of Duluth has been better this year than ever before, and with the rapid development of the country between here and the Windy City, and in the territory directly tributary to Duluth, together with the rapid growth of the city itself, resulting from the coming of the steel plant and numerous other growth-promoting features, there will be a big increase in passenger traffic in and out of Duluth from now on.

TRANSPORT LIVE FISH

Special Cars Now Being Used for Their Accommodation.

Big Cities Always Get Supply of Live, Fresh Fish.

Special cars for the transportation of live, squirming fish from the lakes and rivers where they are caught to the big markets of the cities are being used the year for the first time. This is about the latest innovation in the transportation line, but it has met a great need and is gaining in popularity.

The cars are being daily sent to the big cities particularly to New York, full of fish just as lively as before they left their native waters. The summer tours of these cars are from Lake Erie to New York and later on they will visit Wisconsin points. During the "open season" of fall and winter they will haul tons and tons of live fish from Illinois rivers—at least a car load every day.

For some time the live fish were shipped in casks, but later on a Chicago man devised the "fish car" and this season the fish are travelling in their new accommodations. It is usually to supply the trade of orthodox Jews who prefer live fish.

Each "fish car" is equipped with an aerating apparatus which pumps oxygen into the water of the big tanks, for without this the finny travelers could not live as the normal amount of aeration would not be enough. Car loads each amount to as much as 15,000 pounds of fish, which means that the water in the tanks swarms with the travelers. An attendant travels with each car to see that the wandering fish get plenty of oxygen.

The shipments of live fish for this year run into big totals, but the total fish catch of all kinds in the United States is 2,000,000,000 pounds each year.

The supply of live fish for Duluth mostly comes from north shore points, where a great deal of fishing is done. Lake Superior is full of fish and there is good profit in the business. The total catch of a year is enormous and the figures would surprise a person unacquainted with this great industry. Lake Superior alone supplies annually fully 75,000,000 pounds of fish and the total this year will be increased considerably. The Canadian lakes and other water supply annually 200,000,000 pounds of fish while the annual total of American and Canadian lakes and rivers is 2,350,000,000 pounds.

PROBATES THE WILL

Carl Peterson Fails to Set Aside Mother's Will.

Court Does Not Find Any Evidence of "Undue Influence."

Carl O. F. Peterson failed in his effort to break the last will and testament of his mother, Mrs. Josephine Chaput, and the decedent's property, comprising a farm of sixty acres in the town of Culver, will be equally divided between a daughter, Mrs. Selma J. Kelley, of this city, and a grandson, John Gilbert Peterson.

Probate Judge Middlecoff has signed an order admitting the will to probate and has appointed Mrs. Kelley the executrix, as provided in the will.

The case, by reason of the fact that Peterson was seeking to break the will, which gave his own minor son a half interest in the property, left by the decedent, instead of himself, and because he charged Mrs. Kelley with having exercised undue influence over her mother's mind, occasioned much interest.

The will was witnessed by M. H. McMahon and Mrs. Nettie Ecker of this city, both of whom testified that Mrs. Chaput was in her right mind when she signed the will, and that she said she wanted her property divised exactly as she stipulated. They claim further that Mrs. Chaput stated her reasons, that she feared her son, Carl O. F. Peterson, from her knowledge of him, would run through with the property, and she wanted the grandson to derive some benefit from it.

The hearings were held in the matter by the court, and testimony from both sides were taken. Judge Middlecoff reserving his decision until Saturday evening.

The land involved is described as the southeast quarter of section 1, 51-18. Mrs. Kelley was bequeathed the east half and the boy the west half of the farm.

The amount of the bond of the executrix was fixed at $200.

ENGINEERS ARE GETTING LEVELS

Looking Over Postoffice Site to Make Estimate of Excavating.

At the request of the postoffice department officials, civil engineers have been detailed by the Duluth Engineering company to take the levels on the postoffice property of this city, for the purpose of making an estimate on the amount of excavating that must be done for the new addition to the postoffice.

No fixed plans for the addition have as yet been decided upon, but the department officials are working upon them at the present time. The addition is expected to give plenty of room for the postoffice if it is built, but the local officials know nothing of the plans of the government.

It has been expected that a separate building would be put up for the postoffice on the lot opposite the present federal building on Fifth avenue and First street, and the work of the engineers is probably being done only to get estimates before deciding the matter.

ASSAULT UPON HIS LANDLADY

Is Charge Against John Witkowski of West End.

At 5:30 yesterday morning Officer Olson arrested John Witkowski for an alleged criminal assault committed upon Mrs. Rosella Skrobut, keeper of a boarding house at 2101 West Third street, where Witkowski was a roomer.

According to the story told by witnesses, Witkowski entered Mrs. Skrobut's room early yesterday morning and committed the assault upon her. The woman screamed for help, it is said, and three of the other boarders responded. Two of them got Witkowski into his room and kept him there, while the third went for an officer. Officer Olson arrived on the scene less than half an hour after the deed, is said, to have been committed.

Witkowski was arraigned this morning before Judge Cutting in municipal court on a statutory charge. He asked for an examination, and his hearing will be held on Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

The complaint was sworn out by John Skrobut, husband of the woman. Mrs. Skrobut is 29 years of age.

THE CIRCUS.

Barnum & Bailey Show Here on July 27.

The advent of Barnum & Bailey's advertising car No. 2 in the city today, calls renewed attention to the fact that this famous big show will exhibit in Duluth, Saturday, July 27. This will undoubtedly be the big amusement event of the year, for, judging from the comments of the press in other cities, the Barnum & Bailey show is this season more than ever, deserving of its title, the "Greatest Show on Earth."

The show opened the season at Madison Square Garden, New York, in April, and since that time most of the cities of the Middle West have been successfully played. The magnitude of the show, as well as the unusual number of sensational features, have called for especial comment. Among the latter are the Dip of Death, and Howaersen's ski-sailing, an act that should particularly appeal to sport-loving Duluth people.

Apart from its sensational features, the Barnum & Bailey program seems to have a sufficient variety of genuine old-fashioned circus acts to satisfy the most exacting lover of real arenic entertainment. Interspersed with these, it is announced, are a number of acts that, while not especially sensational, are especially interesting and attractive by reason of their originality and novelty. The foreign agents of the Barnum & Bailey show were, it is said, notably successful last winter in securing unconventional and skillful acts for the current season.

The performance opens with a gorgeous spectacle entitled "Peace." It is founded upon the Russo-Japanese war, and describes, in an allegorical way, the president's successful efforts to bring about peace between the warring armies in the East. The circus performance follows. There are three rings, two stages, a quarter mile hippodrome track and a series of immense aerial spaces, and all are utilized by the 300 European and American artists in the circus company. The big sensational features are interspersed throughout the arenic program. The comedy element is provided by what is said to be the merriest lot of clowns ever seen with a circus. The hippodrome races are rendered especially interesting and exciting by the introduction of thoroughbred racers and jockeys and charioteers of established reputation.

The zoological display, which forms a vestibule for the main exhibition, is declared to be especially notable this year from the fact that it serves to display a remarkable herd of giraffes, the only bi-horned rhinoceros in the United States, and many other rare animals, together, with three herds of trained elephants, and hundreds of other interesting wild beasts.

SEVERE ELECTRIC STORM STRIKES FERGUS FALLS.

Fergus Falls, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—An unusually severe electric storm passed over Fergus Falls about 1 o'clock Saturday morning, and did considerable damage. A small residence belonging to Gilbert Ingersoll in the southeast part of the city, was struck and burned, none of the furniture or other contents being saved. The family was away from home, and no one was hurt. Another small residence in the southwest part of the city, was also struck and burned.

The flag staff on the federal building was struck and splintered, but no other damage to the building has been discovered, and a telephone pole in the northeast part of the city, was struck and more or less damage was done to the telephones on the line.

SAFETY ON THE HIGH SEAS.

Strong Plea Made for the Prevention of Fire Danger.

Washington, July 15.—Though the matter is somewhat out of his province Architect Fitzpatrick, the executive officer of the International Building Inspectors' society, advocates and is making a strong plea the world over for the better construction of ocean, lake and river craft, looking to the prevention of the fire danger in those vessels.

He points out that while in such construction brick and hollow tile fireproofing and similar protection cannot be used as in inland structures, shipwrights might at least avoid the use of combustible materials and make not only the structural parts but the decorations of metal or asbestos cloth, or other such unburnable materials. True, we indulge in steel hulls, well bulkheaded against the spread of fire or water internally, but we still glory in wooden deckhouses, wood decorations, open stairways and all the little coaxings and encouragements that have been so fondly offered to fire in the past. So, ho, for a strong pull and a long pull all together in favor of really incombustible water craft, and an estoppage of the awful holocausts we have had to record in the last few years. Our marine architects have not yet equalled our land lubbers in excellence of construction. Why, they don't even make port-holes big enough for a man to crawl through to safety on the outside if there is any such commodity around. If the wooden stairways are ablaze then it is the passenger's business to stay in his cabin and be burned like a rat in a trap! Nor do those marine designers even seem to have yet realized how efficacious some one slight protection may prove in saving the whole structure: the use of wire glass, for instance, about the boiler hatches, and galleys, and oil houses, and lower deck hoists would most effectually keep fire from spreading beyond those regions and render it an easy task to extinguish it in any one of them.

COLUMBIA CLOTHING CO.

LOOT MONTE CARLO.

Americans are having quite the time of their lives finding accommodations at their hotels. A party from Chicago tried ten hotels before dividing itself into beds in the office, bathrooms and elevators. Another party from the Far West, travelling in automobiles, decided to spend the night in their cars at a garage and were very comfortable, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Talking of the plights of Americans, a successful raid has been made on the bank of Monte Carlo, and it is said that American gamblers or crooks engineered the plan. The plano establishment at Monte Carlo is conceded to be "up to snuff." It has had experiences in the past, and on its staff are both skilled detectives and skilled crooks, whose duty is not alone to watch out for and prevent crookedness, but also to dream up new and possible schemes by which the bank could be robbed, and then have a preventive ready, and thus guard against the wily outsiders.

The legitimate player at roulette has scored many times and taken large sums from the bank. But that is straight gambling, and, of course, expected. It also has been thought that the croupier and chief de parti were invulnerable. They lived on the grounds of the Casino, received very high salaries and rewards, and were so constantly under espionage that it was thought impossible for them to do any crooked work. The system of rewards for discovering crookedness is so generous that it was believed there was really more money in being perfectly honest.

But it appears that a couple of very intelligent Americans, who had been for years croupier and lookout in gambling houses in Hot Springs, Ark., but have latterly been out of work, came to Monte Carlo and applied for work at the casino. They were not skilled enough in the various languages and so were not even put on the waiting list. They stayed around the casino, however, and played in a small way, apparently working out a system. And they became friendly with a couple of croupiers, which, I may say, is almost an unheard of thing. This friendship extended to a couple of the chefs de parti, as the "look-out" men are called. And then the beautifully simple American skin game began.

The Americans played at all the tables in a small way in order to avert any suspicion. But they changed bank notes only at two of the tables. Hundreds of people are constantly getting change from the croupiers, so that the action of the Americans was not out of the way or noticed. But the notes they changed were for 500 francs or some similar denomination and the ones they received in change were for 1,000 or 5,000 francs. By changing a half dozen or more notes every afternoon and night a goodly pile of money was made.

As the scheme was worked for over a month the bank of Monte Carlo was successfully looted for a huge sum. Affairs at Monte Carlo are conducted with so much secrecy, however, that it will never be known how much was stolen, or, what is more interesting, how the discovery of the steal was made. The Americans, croupiers, and chefs de parti were all expelled from the principality, the only punishment meted out.

CORPSE SCARES BURGLARS.

Two young burglars in Paris had a ghastly experience lately and a narrow escape from being held for a crime they did not commit. They were both new to the house-breaking game. They were lads of 19 and 20 years, butchers' apprentices out of work and penniless and with associations in the Apache gangs now terrorizing Paris, which led them to turn naturally to crime as a means of getting on their feet, says the New York Sun.

They chose as a scene of their first trial the apartment of a well to do engineer named Danclos, who lived all alone in a house on the Rue Myrha. They made their way into the house at night after the lights had been put out, but as they figured before the hour at which Danclos usually returned for his game of dominos at the cafe. They got into the apartment by a skeleton key and shut the door noiselessly behind them. Then while one of them prepared to strike a light the other groped his way a couple of feet forward in the anteroom of the apartment.

As he did so he jostled against something that gave way before him, then came back and hit him rather heavily, then backed away again. The young burglar gasped. He stretched out his hands and felt a man's clothing and then the legs of the man inside and a chilly hand, all swaying horribly to and fro as he touched them.

His cry made his companion strike a match in a hurry and its flickering light the pair saw Danglos hanging by a rope to the gas fixture. He was stone dead, but the couple said afterward that the hideously distorted face as they watched it in the light of the match seemed to be grinning at them as if to say: "Aha! I've caught you, have I?"

They dashed out of the room and down the stairs at headlong speed. The clatter they made aroused the concierge, and while they fumbled at the front door he scrambled into his trousers and boots and pursued them down the street. A couple of handy policemen headed them off and they were marched back to the house, where the door of Dangle's rooms were found open, plainly showing that they had been there.

As the body was still warm, the police took it into their heads that the couple had murdered him as a sequel to robbing his place. But the next day it was established that nothing had been stolen and also that Danglos had often threatened suicide because of his sufferings from an incurable disease. The chair which he had kicked from under him completed the story. So the two apprentices in crime will only have charges of attempted burglary to answer.

BLIND BOY EARNS SCHOOLING.

Cleveland Leader: There have been many cases in Cleveland where boys have worked their way through high school, and a few cases where girls have done so, but it is doubtful if there has ever been a case where a blind boy has worked his way through school.

At the graduation exercises which were held at East High, a young man who is totally blind will receive his diploma. He is Frank Brady, and has not only been at a physical disadvantage, but he also has been obliged to earn money necessary to keep him in school.

Nine years ago Brady entered the school for the blind at Columbus, but found that the rest of the inmates at that institution could not keep pace with his mental development. Two years ago he left and entered East High as a junior. His work since has been remarkable. He is so well acquainted with the keyboard of a typewriter that he writes all of his examinations on a machine.

THE RECORD IS BROKEN

John Panton Catches a 38-Pound Lake Trout.

Largest Fish Ever Taken on Line at Isle Royale.

To John Panton, president of the Panton & White company, belongs the distinction of having caught the largest lake trout ever taken by hook and line at Isle Royale, or, so far as known, anywhere else on the Great Lakes. Mr. Panton has just returned from the island resort, and he brought more than the mere story of his great catch to prove his triumph as a fisherman. The huge fish itself was brought along, and is now in the possession of Taxidermist Storey. It will be mounted and presented to the Washington club, to be placed in the club house at Isle Royale.

The trout weighed thirty-eight pounds three hours after its capture. Heretofore the record was held by a Houghton, Mich., man with a 35-pound fish. Before that a Duluthian, with one tipping the scale at about thirty-three pounds bore the distinctive title of "luckiest fisherman." Hundreds of people fish at the popular lake resort every summer, and it is no small honor to be able to secure the championship in the big fish line. While there is more or less an element of luck in getting the big fellows on the hook, it takes a scientific man with the rod and reel to land them. A lake trout does not put up as big a fight in proportion to his size as his speckled brother of the brook. If he did it would take a tow line to hold him. He is a very gamey individual, however, and puts up a hard fight. It took Mr. Panton twenty minutes of hard and exciting work to land this particular prize.

"I got the fish at the end of what came very nearly being a disappointing day," said Mr. Panton, who naturally feels rather elated over the notable catch. "I had been trolling from 9 o'clock in the morning until a quarter of 6 in the afternoon, with little encouragement. I was trolling in Rainbow cove, just back of Singerville, using a Hendryx spoon and a steel rod. I had two rods out. Suddenly there came a big tug at one of the lines. I was carrying a heavy lead sinker, which held the spoon almost to the bottom, in twenty-five feet of water, and I thought I had struck a snag. I told the boy at the oars to back water, and he did so, but the farther we went back the tighter the line got, and I soon discovered that I had a pretty big fish at the other end. I did not land this out, however, until all my line was out.

"Then the fight began. About this time my other line really got snagged, but I threw the pole into the bottom of the boat, and paid no attention to it. The trout put up a battle royal, and twice he had my line clear out. The boy manfully kept the boat backing up, and I managed to play the fish in such a way that both the line and hook held. The fish was hooked in a peculiar manner, just under the jaw, instead of in the mouth, which gave him the full use of his head, and allowed him to put up a much bigger fight than he outherwise could have done. At the end of twenty minutes of excitement, I got my prize to the top of the water, seventy-five feet from the boat. Strange to say, as soon as he got to the surface he ceased fighting, and allowed himself to be drawn to the side of the boat, without breaking water. I succeeded in getting him on the gaff hook, and the fight was over with."

The fish was caught last Friday. Mr. Panton says fishing has been rather poor at the island this summer up to the present time, but that they are beginning to bite in good shape now.

OFFICIALLY REPORTED.

Washington Hears of Alleged Work of Spies at Fort Rosecrans.

Washington, July 15.—A telegraphic report came to the war department over Sunday from California regarding the reported arrest of two Japanese at Fort Rosecrans, one of whom it is alleged, was making sketches of plans of the fortifications there, and another who, it was said, had a blue print of some portion of the works. Adjut. Gen. Ainsworth, who is acting secretary of war, declined to make public the report except to say there had been no arrests. Maj. Gatchkell is in command at Fort Rosecrans.

YAMAMOTO BEGINS HOMEWARD JOURNEY.

New York, July 15.—Admiral Yamamoto bade farewell to his friends in this city today and started for Japan by way of Boston and Montreal. The message of peace, which the admiral brought to this city, he will convey also to Boston, and he will find time while in that city to observe the manner of building the latest type of war vessel at the shipbuilding yards in Quincy. After a brief visit in Boston the admiral will proceed to Montreal and thence to the Pacific, whence he will sail on July 23 for Japan.

Thunder Storms Remove the Fears of a Drought.

Rains, welcome to the heat oppressed people and relieving to the drought-fearing farmers, fell Saturday night and last night. Saturday night but .57 inches fell, but last night, there was a steady rain from shortly after 11 o'clock until early this morning, the total fall being 1.3 inches.

All through the Northwest and the Mississippi valley last night there were showers similar to that which Duluth experienced. The disturbance did not take the shape of a general storm, but points within the storm territory experienced thunder storms in different degrees of severity. La Cross, Wis., has but .8 inch, while Kansas City was deluged with 4.36 inches. St. Paul was much more heavily hit than Duluth, 3.2 inches falling there, while St. Croix's had 1.2 inches and Omaha 1.54 inches.

A slight drop in temperature followed the rain of Saturday night, the maximum temperature yesterday being 70 degs. against 85 the day before. A further drop came with the rain storm last night, and the wind, which blew from the east, was decidedly cool.

CRISIS AT HAND.

Telegraph Operators Seem Likely to Go Out on Strike Very Soon.

New York, July 15.—A crisis in the contest between the telegraph companies and their employes is expected to develop today as the result of constant telegraphic communications between the legislative board of the Telegraphers' union, now in session here, and President Small and Secretary Russell, who are in San Francisco. A message was received from Secretary Russell directing that the local executive board meet this afternoon and be prepared for any emergency.

President Ahearn of the local union said today that while it looked as if the parting of the ways had been reached he was using every effort to prevent a strike.

NO FOUNDATION

For Report That Rabbis Conference Endorsed Zionism.

Cincinnati, July 15.—Rabbi David Philipson of this city, the newly elected president of the central conference of American rabbis, said today that the report that the conference, at its recent meeting in Frankfort, Mich., indorsed Zionism is without any foundation whatever. The conference at the Montreal meeting in 1897, he said, adopted a resolution opposing Zionism, and no action on the subject has been taken since. Neither, he said, did the conference discuss the subject of intermarriage at the Frankfort meeting. All that was done in this matter was to determine to have a paper on this subject presented at next year's conference.

PUTS MEN ON PROBATION.

Washington Star: If Judge DeLacey thinks the judge of the juvenile court is the only person in this city who imposes probationary sentences he is greatly mistaken. There is a saloonkeeper in the southeast section of the city who puts men on probation, and it is stated his sentences are thoroughly respected. It came to the knowledge of the police a short while ago that the proprietor of the drinking place was dispensing justice as well as liquor and they are heartily in favor of his action.

Their first knowledge that court was held by the saloon proprietor came through a business man in that section a few days ago, when he hired a colored man, as he wanted to send a message.

"Here's a quarter," he said to the colored man. "Stop in Mr.——'s saloon and get a drink."

"I can't go in there, boss," promptly stated the colored man.

"Why not?" he was asked.

"Because I'm on probation."

"And have you been arrested, too?

"I haven't been arrested for ten years," the colored man asserted, "but I'm on probation. You see, when any of the boys use profanity, get drunk or cause trouble they are put on probation. That man won't let them come back to the saloon for a week or a month, and sometimes he makes it three months."

The police made inquiry and found that what the colored man said was true. By putting troublesome persons on probation the saloonkeeper maintains order about his place and his patrons are not apt to become intoxicated. They usually know when they get enough and then they start homeward. The men who come under the ban, the police were told, realize that the proprietor of the place means what he says, and that not until their probation periods expire do they attempt to return there.

NO SALE.

Caruso, the great tenor, had been singing for some hours into a phonograph.

"The phonograph," he said, "is a wonderful thing. It almost realizes the wish of the Scottish poet, the wish that we might see ourselves as others see us. We can now, at least, hear ourselves, a thing impossible before.

"The phonograph teaches us many valuable lessons. When I was in the army, before I realized the capabilities of my voice, I played the flute. A phonograph salesman brought a phonograph to my headquarters, and tried to sell it to me on the installment plan. I was undecided.

"Finally the man took out a blank cylinder. 'See,' he said, rather reluctantly, 'here is a blank cylinder. You may make a record on it, then we will run it off, and you shall hear yourself. It's a costly favor I am doing you, but it will show you what a fine instrument this is.'

"I was delighted.

"'I'll get my flute,' I said. 'I'll play a flute solo.'

"Then the man put in the cylinder, and the music began to issue forth. I frowned.

"'Is that me?' I said.

"'Yes, sir,' said the man.

"'Really me, just as I played?'

"'Precisely, sir, precisely. And now,' said he, 'do you want to buy the phonograph?'

"'No,' said I; 'I want to sell the flute.'"

HER SECOND LOVE

By Mary Wilson.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

The house had been miserably dark and cold to me since Uncle Dennis died. The three little children clung to me in the most pitiful way, and my heart almost broke for them when the lawyer told me that they would have nothing in the world after everything was settled up. They came to me when the lawyer was gone, sweet little Mary, and Bess and Ben, the jolly twins. I couldn't tell them then, their grief was too new, and besides how could they understand? It was on the third day that a letter came from Charlie, and my heart lightened even before the envelope was opened. The letter was like all of his bright and cheery, only this, of course, was tinged with a little sadness on account of my recent bereavement. In the letter he urged a speedy marriage, and I was so sorry to be obliged to tell him that the children were left without a penny, and that I could not leave them. I felt sure of Charlie's sympathy, for Uncle Dennis had been so good to us both. He had taken me, a little orphaned girl, and cared for me as though I had been a daughter. And, having known Charlie's father, he secured for the boy a position that had been of great advantage to him. Of course I expected him to feel for the little ones of his old friend. Instead of writing, Charlie came. I saw him as he walked quickly up to the door, and myself ran to let him in. How handsome he looked in the stylish city clothes! I felt so proud and safe as he kissed me. Then we went in the parlor, and it all happened. Even now, after so many years, I cannot think of it quite composedly. He had a plan and at once unfolded it. The children could go to an asylum, and we could be married at once. When he had said it all, the room seemed to be whirling round with me. I pressed both my hands to my head before I could answer.

"Uncle Dennis didn't put me in an asylum, Charlie; I cannot send the children to one. I will not."

Charlie laughed, his handsome eyes on my face.

"Then what are they to do?" he asked.

"They will go where I go," I replied.

Again he laughed.

"Now, Allie, wouldn't we cut a pretty figure in a New York boarding house with three children? No thank you, my dear, I cannot submit to it."

"I can work for them, Charlie," I said, a strange pain in my heart; "I can take care of them until they are older; I can't leave them, I am a good nurse; I can make enough money, and Margaret will live with them; she couldn't leave them any more than I can."

Charlie made a little gesture of impatience.

"Allie, all that is sheer nonsense. I don't want an old maid for my wife, and do you think my mother would receive a girl who had been a common nurse?"

The pain in my heart had grown to a terrible agony, but all the time I felt the wild joy at the thought that I was not obliged to listen to Charlie's cruel plans. I don't know just what I said, my head was so hot, and my hands were so cold, but I know he stood before me; his cruel handsome face was all I could see, and I longed to go away from him.

"Choose between me and the children, Allie," he said, and for answer I took my pretty engagement ring off and laid it on the table beside him; then, for fear he might know something of what it cost me, I raised my head and bravely left the room.

How I cried and sobbed when I knew he was gone! After that there wasn't much time for grieving over lost lovers. I knew how impossible it would be to find work in our dear, sleepy little town, so we took the children, Margaret and I and went to a larger, busier town. We rented rooms and before long I secured a position as nurse to Miss Ellington, a wealthy invalid.

So my new life began. I tried in every way to brighten the life of the poor lady, and at last, from doing so much for her, I began to love her dearly; then my work was light indeed. Many were the presents she sent the children and had them sometimes to come for tea with her.

But in spite of it all, my life was not very bright, and I missed the gayety young people love. One evening Dr. Murray, who was treating her, and with whom I had become good friends, came in with a great basket of roses.

"See, Miss Ellington, what I've brought you. Now, will you do something for me?"

"Tell me, I would be indeed hard-hearted to refuse," she said, bending over the roses.

"Well, Patti is to sing tonight, and I wanted your permission to ask Miss Wilder to go with me to hear her."

The words fairly took my breath away. I was so surprised that I failed to hear Miss Ellington's reply, but in a moment Dr. Murray turned to me with his rare, sweet smile, and asked me to go with him. I consented gladly, then I felt the light go out of my face as I thought of my poor wardrobe, how could I go? But Miss Ellington was speaking:

"You must call here for Alice; she will not go home," and when he had gone she said: "Alice, I shall send to Denning's for a dress; I don't want you to leave me till you must. No, no; no foolishness now; just ring for Sarah; she can take your measure, and a black silk isn't hard to choose."

So the dress came and I put it on. The fit was perfect. How I did enjoy it all! Some handsome ladies came in and took seats near us. Dr. Murray bowed to them and then explained to me: "These are strangers here, Mrs. Grey and her daughters; they are living on Miss Ellington's street; by the way, there is a son in New York." After that I looked often toward the proud, handsome woman. The young ladies were very much like Charlie.

After that I went out oftener, sometimes for a drive in the country, as the spring opened, when we always brought flowers to Miss Ellington, and to the children at home.

One day the doctor said to me: "Miss Ellington is much worse; be careful not to leave her alone; but don't let her know you are watching any closer than usual. I do not want to disturb her; there is no need; all her preparations are made; I myself witnessed her will a year ago, and no one was ever more fit to die. Every cent of her money is to go to her church, as she no doubt told you. So now the most we can do is to brighten her last days, and I am glad you are here, for no one could care for her so tenderly."

"I love Miss Ellington very dearly," I said; "I can hardly bear to think of losing her," I added realizing something of what my loneliness would be when my friend and mistress was no more.

"I suppose," the doctor said, quietly, "that this is hardly the time or the place for love-making; but I want to tell you, Alice, that I love you, and I want you to be my wife." I looked up wonderingly into his face. His kind eyes were smiling at me.

"Why, Dr. Murray, I never thought of such a thing!"

"Then think about it now. I have thought of little else since the morning I first saw you. Do you think you could be happy with me?"

I remembered how his presence always rested and comforted me; how safe and happy I felt when he was with me.

"You wouldn't like to marry anyone else, would you?" he asked, before I could think of anything to say.

"No, indeed," I would not," I replied.

"And you wouldn't like to have me marry some other girl, would you?" he went on, the smile deepening in his eyes. I don't think I said anything, but I remember he seemed quite satisfied, and then I thought of the children.

"I love you, Dr. Murray, but—"

"If you do, then you belong to me, so 'but me no buts,' my little girl. You must be very submissive now, and when your duties here are finished, we'll find a pretty home somewhere and surprise the children. I hope they will love me; I think they will when they come to live with me." And then I cried and told him about Charlie, and he said some very pleasant things to me, so I was comforted.

When the sun rose a few mornings later our dear friend was no more.

They sent for me, in a few days, to go to the quiet, lonely house. Sarah met me at the door, and cried softly as she showed me into the dim old parlor. Several gentlemen were in the room, and one of them came forward to welcome me. I never could remember just how it happened, but I was made to understand that Miss Ellington had changed her will, and that she had left everything to "Alice Wilder, the dear friend who made life tolerable to the last." There was a request that I would live in the grand old house, and keep the faithful servants. After a while we were all settled there, the happiest little family in the world, for the old house was freshened and brightened in many ways. One day Sarah came to me in the garden with a card in her hand, and I was much surprised to find that Mrs. Grey was waiting for me. She came forward to meet me smiling. "You will pardon the liberty I take, Miss Wilder, but Charlie has written to me about you, and I feel like an old friend, really."

The call was very pleasant; Margaret brought us some tea, and the children came in and we had a nice little morning. Scarcely a week had passed when Charlie himself came. He kissed the children and was so bright and merry that I was quite glad to see him; when the little ones were gone, he turned to me, has handsome face tender and smiling.

"Allie," he said, "I can't live without you; there's no use trying; haven't you missed me?"

"Only at first," I replied. "I have been too busy for a long time now."

The door bell rang. "Ah, there is Dr. Murray, Charlie; I shall be glad to introduce you, and I know that you will be glad that I am to marry so noble a man."

Dr. Murray came in then, and in his grave, kindly way he talked with Charlie, while I sat quietly comparing the two men, and I wondered if I had really loved Charlie in the old days.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

AFTERMATH OF REGATTA

Winning Crews Can No Longer be Developed in One Year.

The Regatta Will be Held Next Year at Winnipeg.

"No excuses or apologies to make, but only regret that we couldn't row just a few seconds faster."

That sentiment about expresses the feelings of the Duluth Boat club oarsmen, most of whom returned last evening or this morning from the regatta at White Bear Lake.

The Duluth boys came home without any jewelry and with nothing but the satisfaction of knowing that they did their best and put up some of the hardest fights seen in Western regattas in recent years.

One thing was conclusively proven by the regatta, and that is that winning crews can no longer be developed in one year. The pace in the Minnesota and Western Canada Rowing association is becoming too fast for that, and crews will in future have to be built up year after year. Duluth had fifteen oarsmen at White Bear Lake and of these, eleven had never sat in a shell before April 15. St. Paul, which failed to get a first place in the regatta a year ago at Lake Minnetonka, went into the races with her crews nearly intact from last year, while Winnipeg was in almost as fortunate a position. That tells the whole story of the regatta. The Duluth men had the strength, and the form, but they lacked the experience.

The Bantam Race.

The saddest blow for Duluth was the defeat of the Duluth bantam four by Winnipeg on Friday. The Duluth contingent was counting on the bantams to win their races, the first in which Duluth crews were entered, and thus help to inspire confidence. The members of the crew rowed a magnificent race, and easily distanced the St. Paul and Kenora fours, but the Winnipeg light weight crew was composed of four coal headed, experienced men. The Duluth bantams were, if anything, a little too anxious to win, and their nervousness cost them the race. They rowed themselves out with a short choppy stroke in the first half mile of the course, and while they shook off the other crews they failed to distance Winnipeg, and the Canadians drew ahead, finishing with about a length of open water to the good. The Duluth boys fought it out to the last stroke, but they were beaten by lack of experience. They got sweet revenge on Saturday, however, owing to the fact that the four men in the regular junior four were rowing in the senior eight, it was decided at the last moment not to enter them in the former race. The bantams were substituted, and they went up against Winnipeg once more. On this occasion they simply "rowed the heads off" of the Canadians, who quit before finishing the course, and while the Duluth four was beaten by a small margin by the heavyweight St. Paul and Port Williams' fours, they conclusively proved their superiority over the Winnipeg crew which had defeated them the day before. A sprung oarlock prevented Duluth taking second place in this race, as the bantams caught and passed Fort William just a short distance from the finish when the bow oarlock sprung, and it cost the Duluth boys two or three lengths.

The Junior Eight.

The junior eight-oared race was a beautiful contest, and here again lack of experience cost the Duluth boys the victory. The St. Paul junior eight was fully the equal of the local men in weight and strength, but the Minnesota eight was practically intact from last year, and with only one or two changes was the same crew that was beaten by Duluth last year, while Duluth had an entire new crew. The extra year of experience just about represented the difference between the two crews. Minnesota took the lead at the start and gradually pulled away finishing with a little more than a length of open water to the good, after rowing a beautiful race. The interest in this race, however, centered in the fight for second place. Winnipeg and Duluth were see-sawing all the way down the course, first one crew leading and then the other. Spurt was met with spurt, but Duluth managed to nose out a victory by a scant quarter length.

The weather conditions for the first day's races were ideal, but Saturday a brisk west wind sprung up, and the races had to be put off until late in the evening.

The Senior Eight.

The Duluth coaches resolved to make one desperate effort to retrieve the day in the senior eight-oared race. H. H. Peyton, Skelton and Haroldson, of last year's crew, were present at the races in condition to row, and at the last moment they were put in the boat, replacing B. M. Peyton, MacDowell and Totman. With only one short trial row in which to get together and become accustomed to the changes, the crew entered the race, every man in the boat determined to win the last and biggest race of the regatta if hard rowing would do it.

It was a heart-breaking race. With a gale blowing directly down the course against the boats, and a choppy sea running, the crews lined-up shortly before dark Saturday evening, while the lightning darted and flashed around White Bear Lake. Riley, the Winnipeg stroke, and a veteran of several Henley regattas, not to mention numerous American and Canadian races, played his cards well. He realized that the starter would not waste any time lining the men up on such a night, and he held his boat back of the line several lengths. Under repeated orders from the starter to come up, he brought his crew up slowly to the line, gradually quickening the speed of his boat, and just as he crossed the starting line the gun went off, and the Canadians had a flying start. It won them the race right there. They picked up half a length in the first twenty strokes, and Minnesota and Duluth never saw them again. These two crews then settled down for a most desperate struggle for second place, both of them pushing Winnipeg hard. The junior race was a close one, but it could not stand comparison with this. The two boats raced down the course in a dead heat, scarcely varying their relative positions more than six feet at any time. Spurt after spurt was called for, and the stroke went up from thirty-four to thirty-six, and on up to thirty-eight, forty and forty-two and even forty-four which mark was reached by Duluth in the last quarter of a mile.

Winnipeg had increased her lead to nearly a length of open water at the mile, but the other two crews pushed the Canadians hard at the finish and cut down the lead to a scant length, both Minnesota and Duluth lapping the Winnipeg stern when the line was crossed. The actual distance between the bows of the Minnesota and Duluth shells was less than a foot, and the referee gave the difference in time as a fifth of a second.

It was as heart breaking race and all three crews were completely exhousted with the struggle.

Will Row Again.

The Duluth boys were not discouraged by their showing, and almost without exception expressed their intention of going in again next year. They all very freely expressed their indebtedness to their coach, B. Murray Peyton, who has spent a great deal of time on the crews this spring, and who went in himself and rowed in the junior eight-oared race in place of Nelson, who was taken suddenly ill on the day before the race.

The regatta was brought to a close Saturday night with a dance given by the Minnesota Boat club to the visiting oarsmen, and the Duluth representatives returned home on the Sunday afternoon and evening trains, rather downcast at their failure to bring back some medals, but grateful to their hosts for a most enjoyable outing.

The regatta next year will be held in Winnipeg.

S.S.S. CURES CHRONIC ULCERS

Whenever a sore or ulcer refuses to heal it is because the blood is infected with poisonous germs or some old blood taint which corrupts and pollutes the circulation. Nothing is more trying than a non-healing, chronic old ulcer. The very fact that it resists all external applications, and ordinary treatments, is good reason for alarm, for the same germ which produces cancerous ulcers is back of every old sore, and especially is this true if the trouble be from any inherited taint. Surface treatment cannot reach the trouble—the blood is at fault and must be purified before a cure can be hoped for. In S. S. S. will be found a remedy for sores and ulcers of every kind. It is a perfect blood purifier—one that goes directly into the circulation and promptly cleanses it of all impurities, poisons and taints. The ulcer can never heal while the blood discharges into it the noxious matter with which it is infected, but when S. S. S. has rid the blood of this cause and freshened and built up the circulation the sore will heal naturally, and of its own accord. S. S. S. begins at the bottom and heals the place as it should be healed and makes a permanent and lasting cure. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any special medical advice desired will be sent free to all who write.

SHOOT WON BY BADGERS

Two Wisconsin Companies Lead in Interstate Rifle Contest.

Rice Lake Takes Smith Trophy, With Superior Second.

In spite of the fact that two members of the Field Staff and Band team of Duluth, Maj. Frederick E. Resche and Sergeant Simpson, carried off first and second honors in the shoot for individual scores, the Duluth companies lost out in the fight for the Martin Smith trophy yesterday morning. Two Wisconsin companies, Rice Lake and Superior, were ahead of them in the grand total, the officers and the band taking third place, Company C fourth, and Company A which took first honors at the regimental shoot at Lake City, too sixth, being defeated by Company G, of Princeton for fifth place by a margin of four points.

The Eau Claire and Ashland companies of the Wisconsin National guard brought up the rear.

This victory entitles the Rice Lake team to the possession of the Martin Smith punch bowl trophy for a year at least, and it is with sore hearts that the Minnesota companies see the trophy go across the river.

The shooting was of a high order. The wind, while strong, was fairly steady during the morning and otherwise the day was perfect. The winners made a score of 777 out of a possible 880, which is a very good record, and they distanced Superior, their nearest competitors, by nineteen points. The Field Staff and Band team made 749.

ARISTOCRATS CLIMB UP ONE

Shaking Up to be Made in Houghton This Week.

Houghton, Mich., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Houghton Giants were shoved to the bottom by Calumet, the Aristocrats winning both the Saturday and Sunday games here. Saturday, Silcock, the Calumet amateur, threw for the Aristocrats and the Giants were unable to hit him with men on bases. Hits were bunched off Egan in several innings and scores enough to win piled up.

Yesterday, Miller's arm gave out in the sixth inning and after that the game was a farce, Calumet winning easily.

Pat Flaherty, who was signed by President Glass to handle the indicator in the league, has taken the management of the Houghton team and there will be a general shaking up in the ranks. The team has been playing loose, disorganized ball, and something will be done to make them take a brace. Hugh Shannon has relieved Roy Newcombe of the management of the Calumet team. Shannon is recommended by Hugh Jennings of the Detroit Americans, and is said to be a good man. The changes are expected to benefit both teams.

FITWELLS SHUT OUT

Kelley Hardware Team Wins Championship of the City.

Meneice Pitches Good Ball and Support is Perfect.

Fielding perfectly, batting opportunely, running bases more swiftly and showing more life and spirit in every department, the Kelley Hardware Baseball team established a solid claim to the championship of the city in amateur baseball by defeating the team representing the Fitwell Clothing company, at Athletic park yesterday afternoon by a score of 6 to 0.

It was a pitcher's battle between Thorsen, the sidewheeler of the Fitwells, and Big Sam Meniece, the lengthy erstwhile professional. Thorsen was a little wilder than Meniece possibly, but Sam didn't have very much on him and the errors of the Fitwells downed the southpaw. Thorsen made a couple of them himself and Coughlin also fell down badly a couple of times. The errors came right in the midst of hits and bases on balls, and they were disastrous to the Fitwell cause.

The Kelleys scored first in the second inning. Wentland reached first after striking out. Olson hit to Thorsen, who threw it away and Wentland scored. Two more were added on a dead ball, a sacrifice, a pass and Meniece's hit in the third and another on a couple of errors in the fifth. Two more were made in the sixth, after which the Kelleys played a strong defensive game and let up somewhat at the bat.

SCUD WINS THIRD RACE

J. A. Roth's Boat Takes a First in Pennant Series.

The third race of the penant series of the Duluth Yacht club for 28-footers was sailed Saturday and went to the Scud, owned and sailed by J. A. Roth. The Feather and the Viking had each taken a previous race and they were both strong favorites for the honors Saturday. The Scud, however, showed up strong and sailed over the line a winner over the Feather by a narrow margin.

A strong south wind was blowing at the time of the race, making it impossible for the yachts to use all of their canvas and some of them were seriously handicapped by the fact. Hundreds of people witnessed the race, which was one of the most interesting of the series.

The names of the yachts and the order of finish follows:

Yacht.	Skipper.	Finish
Scud	J. A. Roth	5:44
Feather	Dr. Lynam	5:44-25
Peter Pan	Lester Phelps	5:46-25
North Wind	H. S. Mahon	5:46-55
Voyageur	F.R.Kennedy	5:52-42
Agwindle	H. A. Pierce	5:53-12
Viking	C. D. Brewer	6:15
College Widow	Elmer Whyte	6:29
Yaqui	H. A. Hooker	did not finish.

ON CORNER LOTS

The Fedjo Clothing company's ball team defeated the Park avenues, by a score of 7 to 6, on the grounds at Thirty-second avenue west yesterday morning. The game was won in the ninth inning on a three bagger by Henry McIntyre. The batteries were Wickstrom and Mork for the Fedjes, and Traff and Collins for the Park Avenues.

In the Duluth City league, the Scott-Graffs defeated the Larson Druggists yesterday afternoon at Thirty-second avenue west. The game was an interesting one and was witnessed by a large crowd. The victory ties the Scott-Graffs with the Columbias for the first place. Score:

Scott-Graffs ...1 1 1 0 1 3 2 0 0—9	10	2

Nines representing the office forces of the Oliver Mining company and the D. M. & N. railroad, played ball Saturday afternoon at Thirty-second avenue west, the mine team winning by a score of 8 to 6. Carlson and Connolly formed the battery for the mining forces, and Stout and Lowe for the railroaders.

Vowing vengeance on those who had felled them to the ground formerly, the policemen in the brilliant red uniforms again journeyed to the ball field Saturday, and those same city hall clerks turned about and trounced them again, red suits and all. The cops never had a look-in, the final score being 14 to 8.

On the grounds at Ninth avenue west and Third street Saturday afternoon, the American Exchange bank team defeated the Leithhead Drug company nine by a score of 11 to 10. The batteries were Abel, Beck and Miller for the Bankers, and Carlson and Olson for the druggists.

The Y. M. C. A. baseball team retained the leadership of the Duluth Commercial league, by defeating the F. A. Patrick team Saturday by a score of 7 to 6. The game was played at Hunter's Park. The Y. M. C. A. boys were steady in pinches, while several critical errors injured the chances of the Patrick team. The batteries were Ott and Wegman for the association, and Scultz and Bruin for the Patrick club.

BLACK CHIEF IS WINNER

Gamble's Horse Defeats Luxon in Straight Heats.

The match race between Black Chief 2:22¼, owned by George Gamble, and Luxon, 2:11¼, owned by Peterson Bros., of the West end, which was pulled off at the driving park Saturday afternoon, was won by Black Chief in straight heats. The first heat was disappointing, Black Chief walking away with it. The second was also something of a disappointment, as Luxon had evidently not struck his stride. The third, however, was a pretty horse race. Luxon fought every inch of the ground from the start to the wire and the home stretch was run with the horses traveling neck and neck. Luxon broke, however, just before the wire was reached, Black Chief crossing with the victory.

The day was a beautiful one for horse races, about 1,000 people turning out. The matinee was the first for several years and the crowd, which attended, despite the fact that the affair was little advertised, promises good things for the game, should it be fully revived here in Duluth.

A special race, put on by Elliott and Rundquist from their string at the driving park, furnished some good sport. Three green pacers, Minnie Mack, Olive S., and Blanche, were entered. The distance was one mile, three in five, but after each horse had won a heat, it was decided to let it go at that.

A pony race, carded to fill in, was won by Fly in straight heats.

Following is the summary of the races:

MATCH RACE—½ MILE TROT.

Black Chief, (Randall)	1	1	1
Luxon, (McGraw)	2	2	2

Time—1:12¾; 1:12; 1:10¼.

SPECIAL RACE—ONE MILE PACE.

Minnie Mack, (Larson)	1	2	3
Olive S., (E. Matthews)	2	1	2
Blanche, (Lon Matthews)	3	3	1

Time—2:29¾; 2:32; 2:25½.

ONE HALF MILE RUN.

Fly, (Stevens)	1	1
Prince (Smith)	2	2

A game of baseball was played yesterday morning between the Stumpdodgers and Goosetown Owls on Green's farm, resulting in a score of 16 to 12 in favor of the Goosetown Owls. The features of the game were the heady baserunning and a circus catch by Henry Krause, a home run by James Mueller.

REPORTS ON HARRIMAN

Interstate Commission Makes Public Its Exhaustive Findings.

Says Fear of Law Only Thing That Keeps Magnate in Check.

Washington, July 15.—A report has been made public by the interstate commerce commission of its inquiry into the railroad operations of Edward H. Harriman and of the operations of the so-called Harriman lines of railway, which has been in progress for several months.

The report, which was written by Commissioner Franklin K. Lane, is the unanimous expression of the commission on the subject. Copies of the report have been transmitted to President Roosevelt and to the department of justice.

It is expected by the commission that it will be determined by the president and Attorney General Bonaparte, when the statement of facts set out in the report whether the government will institute any sort of proceedings against Mr. Harriman or the corporations involved in the inquiry. No recommendations are made by the commission that either criminal or civil prosecutions be instituted as a result of its inquiry.

The report is an exhaustive summary of the evidence adduced at the several hearings held by the commission in the course of its inquiry. It enters fully into a discussion of the policy pursued by Mr. Harriman in obtaining and maintaining control of the various lines of railway in the Harriman system and presents a fairly complete history of the operations of the various lines. Excerpts from the verbatim testimony of Mr. Harriman are given to show, as stated in the report: "That it is only the law which prevents the concentrating in Mr. Harriman's hands of every railroad line lying between Canada and Mexico is the frank admission of Mr. Harriman himself, made at the hearing.

"To gather under one head all existing transcontinental lines or as many as possible, and to exclude the incoming of all competitors, became manifestly the Harriman policy, which was inaugurated in 1901 by the issuance of $100,000,000 of convertible bonds by the Union Pacific."

Mr. Harriman's eventual control of many of the competing transcontinental lines was prevented it is pointed out, by the supreme court's decision in the Northern Securities case. It is shown by the reports that it has been no part of the Harriman policy to permit the properties brought under Union Pacific control to decline, as in every case they are better today than they were when Mr. Harriman acquired them.

Particular stress is laid by the commission on the elimination of competition in transcontinental business among the Harriman lines and the commission indicates that that is the matter of large significance developed in its inquiry.

Special reference is made to the deal by which Mr. Harriman secured control of the San Pedro road and the manipulation of the Chicago & Alton, a very careful synopsis of financial operations in both instances being given. Concerning the Chicago & Alton transaction the commission says: "It was admitted by Mr. Harriman that there was about $60,000,000 of stock and liabilities issued against which no property had been acquired, and this is undoubtedly an accurate estimate."

The commission further says concerning the Alton deal that "it is evident that its history is rich in illustrations of various methods of indefensible financing."

In its conclusion the commission says: "The effect of the control of the Southwestern Pacific by the Union Pacific has been to unify and amalgamate the management of these two railways and their steamship lines and to eliminate competition between them in transcontinental business and in business to and from Oriental ports.

"The joint control of the Alton railway by the Union Pacific and the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway company has undoubtedly eliminated competition between the Alton and the Rock Island between Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City.

"These are conspicuous illustrations of the development of the theory of 'community of interests' and 'harmony of management' which Mr. Harriman suggested when he demanded representation upon the Santa Fe board.

"If the policy of purchasing and controlling stocks in competing lines is permitted to continue, it must mean suppression of competition."

The recommendation of the commission, which are rather general than specific in their terms and application, are as follows:

"(1)—The function of a railroad corporation should be confined to the furnishing of transportation. Railroads should not be permitted to invest generally in the stocks, bonds and securities of other railway and of steamship companies, except connecting lines, for the purpose of forming through routes of transportation, including branches and feeders. It is in the interest of the public to facilitate the consolidation of connecting lines. The credit of a railway company is founded upon the resources and prosperity of the country through which it runs. Its surplus funds and credit should be used for the betterment of its lines and in extensions and branches to develop the country contiguous to it. The testimony taken upon this hearing shows that about 50,000 square miles of territory in the state of Oregon, surrounded by the lines of the Oregon Short Line Railroad company, the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company and the Southern Pacific company is not developed; while the funds of these companies which could be used for that purpose are being invested in stocks like the New York Central and other lines having only a remote relation to the territory in which the Union Pacific system is located.

"Railway securities should be safe and conservative investments for the people. To this end the risks of the railroad should be reduced to a minimum. Railways should be encouraged to extend their systems and couraged to extend their systems and develop the country. It is of the utmost importance also that railway securities should be safe and conservative investments for the public and should yield good and ample return for the money invested. Reasonable regulation will tend to make them safer and more secure investments, and thereby benefit not only the railway companies, but the public."

MOTHS STOP TRAIN.

Lake Superior Limited on Canadian Northern Has Remarkable Experience.

Port Arthur, Ont., July 15.—The Lake Superior limited on the Canadian Northern railway had a peculiar experience near Kashabowie, where a cloud of moths was encountered, obscuring the view and covering the tracks so deeply that the train was stalled. It took the train crew about two hours to clear the track so that the train could proceed.

HURLED AS FROM HUGE CATAPULT

Workman Tossed High in Air by Falling Derrick.

While Niles Magnusson, a Two Harbors laborer, was sitting on one end of a big beam, on a scow Saturday afternoon, a huge derrick which was being used on the craft broke and fell on the other end of the beam. The end which Magnusson occupied flew violently into the air, hurling the unfortunate workman nearly fifty feet up, and dropping him into the water. Fellow workmen witnessed the accident and after some difficulty rescued the injured man from the water. He was unconscious, and was bleeding from his ears and mouth. An examination showed that both legs were broken above the knee.

He was given temporary treatment at Two Harbors, and when the steamer America came down from there yesterday, he was brought to this city and taken to St. Luke's hospital. The physicians say that he has a fair chance of recovery, but is very seriously injured.

Magnusson was employed by the England Towing company, and was working with the tug Williams. He is unmarried.

SIX PERSONS ARE KILLED

Twenty Injured in Collision on the Southern Railway.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 15.—A long distance telephone message from Johnson City, Tenn., says: Six persons met instant death, and twenty were injured when eastbound vestible, No. 42 on the Southern railway, collided with a switch engine, one mile west of Johnson City at 7:30 last night. The switch engine was in charge of a hostler, who, when he saw the passenger train coming toward him, reversed his engine and jumped. Scarcely had he done so before the passenger train crashed into the light engine. The engine of the passenger train, baggage car, mail car and second-class coach were derailed and overturned, but the switch engine was not lifted from the rails and with a full head of steam started on a wild run that did not end until a switch was thrown and the engine ditched at Carnegie.

The dead:

Six unidentified negroes.

The injured include Samuel Bush of Knoxville; Fireman Harry Bryson, Knoxville; F. O. Shipp, Knoxville; Archeola Moore; George Moore, labor agent, badly crushed.

MAJORITY DECREASES

Another County Shows Loss in Tax Amendment Vote.

Good Roads Measure Now Lacks 238 of Being Ahead.

Another county, McLeod, has been thoroughly canvassed in the recount on the tax and good roads amendments, making in all forty-two counties which have been gone over by the board of referees appointed by the district court of St. Louis county. There has so far been a loss of 13,630 votes on the tax amendment.

As the state canvassing board reported the amendment carried by 13,868, there are needed only 238 votes to defeat the amendment and it is expected that when a few more counties have been canvassed these needed votes will have been obtained. The error seems to have been quite general throughout the state and everywhere the referees have been at work, gains for the good roads amendment have been numerous.

The referees have now completed their work in McLeod county and report has been received from there at the office of the district court of this county. The report says that while the good roads amendment was short on the necessary majority in the official returns about 400, it will have a majority of 13,000 votes on the recount. In that county the voters seemed to be very much in favor of the good roads amendment and thought they were voting for it instead of the tax amendment.

With only a little more than half of the counties canvassed by the board of referees there seems to be no doubt that long before the rest have been counted the small majority in favor of the tax amendment still remaining will have been disposed of and the roads measure will have won. With only 238 votes left it will not be long before the roads amendment has votes to spare.

Local business men and farmers in the vicinity of Duluth are feeling jubilant over the progress being made by the board of referees in finding so many mistakes and are confident that the roads amendment will have the majority after one or two counties further have been heard from.

It is still a question whether or not all of the counties will have to be canvassed by the board of referees. Attorney H. H. Phelps of this city, who is representing the contestants, claims that all that is necessary is to show enough votes to defeat the tax amendment, but the state legal authorities have raised the question whether or not all of the counties will have to be canvassed.

MOB ATTACKS GREEKS.

Wholesale Assaults on Places of Business in City of Roanoke.

Roanoke, Va., July 15.—Roanoke was quiet yesterday after four hours' rioting Saturday night, when a mob wrecked nine Greek restaurants, three Greek shoe shining parlors and two Syrian shops. The riot was caused by a dispute about 5 cents between a Greek employed in a restaurant and an American who went there to buy a sandwich.

Five men have been arrested, but none of the Greeks has been detained. At all of the wrecked places yesterday the proprietors set to work cleaning out the debris to be ready to resume business. FALLIERES FIRED AT

Attempt to Assassinate President of France Made in Paris.

Two Shots Went Wild and Nobody Was Injured.

Paris, July 15.—The national fete yesterday was marred by a dastardly attempt on the life of President Fallieres by Leon Maille, a naval reservist of Havre, who, it is believed, is suffering from the mania of persecution. Maille fired two shots at the president, but did not hit him. He was at once placed under arrest.

On account of the activity of the anti-militarists, who tried to organize a demonstration against the army throughout France yesterday, exceptional precautions were taken to safeguard President Fallieres. The attempt on his life occurred on Avenue des Champs-Elysees, while the president was returning to the palace from Longchamps, where he had reviewed the garrison of Paris in the presence of 250,000 enthusiastic people. Premier Clemenceau and M. Lanes, the president's secretary, were with the president in his laudau, which was escorted by a squadron of cuirassiers. The carriage had safely emerged from the Bois de Boulogne, where the anti-militarists had stationed themselves with the intention of hooting the soldiers, and was descending the broad Champs-Elysees amid the acclamations of the crowds thronging the sidewalks who were shouting "vive Fallieres," "vive l' Armee," when at the corner of Lesueur street, Maille, from the curb, fired two shots point blank at the president in quick succession.

Miraculously no one was hit. President Fallieres was cool and collected when the cortege stopped. The diplomats, who were following the president's laudau, alighted from their carriages and hurried to the side of M. Fallieres. Finding that nobody had been injured, by the president's orders, the cortege moved on. In the meantime two policemen seized Maille, who made no resistance, but the police, with difficulty, prevented the irate crowd from lynching the prisoner until a cordon of reserves came up and conducted him to the station. There Maille refused to give any reasons for his act, saying:

"The revelations I have are so grave and serious that I will only make them before a magistrate for transmission to the chief of state. It is a matter between the government and me. I am the victim of many villainies."

Some of the witnesses of the shooting said that Maille fired into the air. It is believed that the man participated in the recent seamen's strike and that his mind has been unhinged by fancied grievances. It is believed also that he aided in the revolutionary agitation of the general Federation of Labor and the anti-militarists. There is no reason to suspect plot, as Maille only arrived here from Rouen last night.

The attempt on the life of President Fallieres probably will strengthen the government's intention to put a stop to the anti-militarists propaganda, which already is demoralizing the army and becoming a menace to the republic.

Thirty-nine ringleaders were arrested yesterday for hissing soldiers, who were returning from the review. Other arrests were made at the Place de la Concorde, where the League of Patriots held their annual ceremony.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Fred Magill and Wife of Clinton, Ill., Arrested in California.

Clinton, Ill., July 15.—Sheriff H. A. Campbell has started for San Diego, Cal., to bring back to Clinton, Fred H. Magill and wife, who were arrested Saturday on the charge of murdering Magill's first wife, Mrs. Pet Magill, who died at her home in Clinton the night of May 30, under peculiar circumstances. A note was found saying that Mrs. Magill had committed suicide. Magill at once sold his interests here, and on June 30, with his daughter, aged 17, left Clinton. Miss Fay Graham, 19 years old, who had lived with the Magills, left Clinton the day before, saying she would visit relatives at Kankakee, Ill.

The next heard of Miss Graham and Magill was that they were married in Denver, on July 5, only five weeks after the death of the first wife. This sudden marriage, with the mysterious death of the first wife, led to an inquiry and the arrests at San Diego were made on a telegram sent from Clinton by State's Attorney Miller.

Magill is related to some of the oldest and wealthiest families of Clinton. His bride is also a member of one of the oldest families in the county, her father being W. W. Graham of Clinton, brother of Dr. S. A. Graham of Kankakee.

CRUISE TO BARK BAY

Naval Militia and Training Ship Gopher Have Practice Cruise.

Many Participate in Naval Parade at Saginaw Semi-Centennial.

Tanned by the wind and sun, tired, but happy, about forty stalwart young sailors belonging to the Minnesota Naval militia disembarked from the training ship Gopher, at 10 o'clock last evening, on their return from a practice cruise to Bark Bay, about fifty miles down the south shore of Lake Superior.

This was the first of several cruises of the sort that are being planned by naval reserve officials for the purpose of giving the men practical lessons in navigation and drills, and also for the recreation it affords in connection with the instruction. The members of the militia are taking to the idea very enthusiastically.

A curiosity to witness the routine and drill of the naval militia in connection with their training ship, and the oportunity afforded for a day's recreation, were responsible for the presence aboard the ship of a Herald representative, and the things seen by the visitors were very interesting and instructive. The sailors showed a remarkable degree of efficiency and thorough knowledge of their duties and the handling of their ship and equipment.

Bark Bay, the scene of yesterday's outing is one of the prettiest and most delightful spots along the south shore of the lake between Duluth and the Soo. It is deep enough to admit boats of the Gopher class, and quite well protected from ordinary storms on the lake. Heron river, a fine trout stream, empties into the bay, and a sandy beach affords excellent bathing facilities.

The history of the trip, as culled from the log book in charge of the executive officer, is quite complete as showing what transpired from the time the Gopher left the harbor until she returned.

The reserves were first divided into six sections, or divisions, with officers in charge of each, and according to navy routine. The first division had charge of everything forward, on the starboard side of the ship; the second division was in charge of the port side forward; the third division was in charge aft, on the starboard side; the fourth division looked after things aft, on the port side; the fifth division comprised the chief quartermaster, the quartermasters and the signal men, and the sixth division comprised the engineers, firemen and electricians.

According to the log book, the anchor was taken up at 11:25 o'clock Saturday evening, and the Gopher, ten minutes later, slipped by the outer light on the canal piers, in a terrific thunder storm.

The Gopher rounded Park Point at 4:45 o'clock Sunday morning and at 5:15 anchor was let go in fifteen fathoms of water in Bark bay.

All hands were called at 5:30 o'clock, the decks were washed down, after which the enlisted men messed forward and the officers messed aft at 7:30 and 8 o'clock, respectively.

Sunday morning quarters occurred at 9 o'clock, and Capt. Eaton and Executive Officer George H. Scully inspected the men and the condition of the ship, after which all hands were piped below.

At 9:30 liberty parties were called away, the reserves being privileged to go sailing, rowing, bathing, fishing or through any other form of recreation, and practically every man aboard availed himself of the opportunity. The Gopher has two whaleboats, with sails, a six-oared captain's gig, and a four-oared dingy, all of which were kept in use.

The recall of all men absent from the ship was given by signal at 11:30 o'clock, and at 12:30 occurred mess call, the officers messing aft at 1 o'clock.

All hands were piped at 1:30 p. m., by the boatswain's mate, the decks swept, all smoking was stopped, and the call to quarters followed at 2 o'clock. After this came the drills and signalling. One of these was the fire drill, which is to prepare men in case of fire aboard, the hose being led out and the pumps tested. There were division drills, quarters, abandonment of ship, all being gone over several times to emphasize the idea of proficiency. Signal flags of various colors and each of special meaning fluttered from the mast or flag arm, while from ship to boats were wig-wagged the questions and answers according to naval code. The abandonment of ship drill was one of the particularly interesting drills. It is given to thoroughly acquaint the sailors with the method of getting away from the ship with boats, sails, equipment and twenty-four hours' provisions, within the shortest possible time in event of a collision. In yesterday's practice everybody was off the ship in three minutes.

After the drill, the sailors were given the privilege of the boats, and they entered into another recreation session with great zest.

At 4 o'clock the recall signal was hoisted and the six-pounder was fired to call the attention of those who had gone fishing up the river. Anchor was weighed at 5 o'clock and half an hour later, while the Gopher was under way, regular evening quarters were held and the captain and executive officer inspected the ship and men.

Mess call occurred at 6 o'clock.

The Gopher left Bark Bay under clear skies and a delightful cool wind, and entered the harbor, with her searchlight, playing over the bridge and people on the piers, at 10 o'clock.

The roster of officers on the cruise was as follows: Commander Guy A. Eaton, captain; Lieut. commander George A. Scully, executive officer; Lieut. C. E. Melby, Lieut. J. A. Wharton, signal officer; Lieut. C. W. Kelly; Ensign Oscar A. Anderson; Ensign Joseph A. Nelson; Lieut. N. F. Hugo, engineering officer; Lieut. B. F. Howard, navigator; Lieut Fred Engels, paymaster.

The Gopher with a good-sized quota of men will attend the annual naval maneuvers of the Great Lakes' squadron of naval militia, beginning Aug. 8, and lasting a week. The Gopher and her officers and men have received an urgent invitation and proposition from the people in charge of the semi-centennial celebration of the city of Saginaw, Mich., to attend the affair and participate in the naval parade. The other naval reserve vessels, the Dorthea, Yantic and Hawk have, it is said, accepted the invitation.

While nothing definite has yet been decided about the Saginaw trip, it is being talked about favorably and the cruise may be extended to two weeks to include it.

DULUTH ENJOYS IDEAL SUNDAY

Parks and Resorts Attract Thousands During the Day.

Although the clouds early in the morning have promise of rain, the weather, was ideal yesterday, and thousands of Duluthians spent it out of doors.

The parks and resorts about the city were thronged with people all day long and many joined expeditions up the river and over the hills and far away. The White City entertained about 5,000 people, who enjoyed the regular attractions, and the new free acts; thousands sought recreation at Lester Park and its environs, and many people spent part of the day at Fairmont Park, Chester Park, Lincoln Park and Woodland.

The Newsboy took many people to Fond du Lac, and the Booth boats conducted successful excursions to Two Harbors.

The rain Saturday night made yesterday a little cooler and more comfortable than it otherwise would have been.

GIRL TELLS HARD STORY

She Reveals Rather Shocking Moral Conditions in Crookston.

Well-Known Men Are Said to be Implicated in Affair.

Crookston, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—A 15-year-old girl, by name of Anna Nelson, an orphan, who has been arrested on a charge of incorrigibility, has shocked the community by an astounding confession in which she places several well known men in a bad light. The affair has furnished a rich morsel of gossip and is clearly the reigning sensation.

When the police questioned the girl and threatened to send her to the state training school at Red Wing, she begged not to be sent there and made a confession which was a complete surprise to the police. The result was the arrest of three well known men of the city on statutory charges, and warrants are out for several more, who will be apprehended in a few days. She gave the names of four other girls, none of whom are yet 16 years of age, who are also said to be involved. The next grand jury will have a class of investigations to delve into, such as has never before come up in this city on such a scale. The girls involved belong to good families, and while there was an effort at first to hush the matter up, the conditions have been found such that some of the ministers have interested themselves in the matter and the prosecutions will be vigorously pushed.

Friday evening, last, an effort was made to ship the Nelson girl to Duluth, and friends of the men implicated took a hand in the attempt to spirit her away. She was furnished with a ticket to Duluth and some money. She had retired to her bedroom at the home of her grandmother, who was reading aloud from the Bible to her, or rather she supposed she was, but a neighbor saw the girl stealthily leaving from the rear of the home, and becoming suspicious, made inquiries of the grandmother, who found the bed empty. The police were notified and the girl was located at the Great Northern depot trying to board the Duluth train, which was ready to pull out. She will be held in the county jail until the accused have a hearing, two of which will take place Tuesday, and another Wednesday.

PLAYS ON TIMBER, THEN IS DROWNED

Sad Swimming Experience of Mabel Bradbury.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mabel Bradburry, the 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bradburry, was drowned about 4:30 Saturday evening while in bathing with a companion. The girls jumped on a piece of floating timber, and before they realized it they were in water beyond their depth. Mabel jumped and before help could be had, she had drowned. Her companion stayed on the timber until rescued by a nearby fisherman. Doctors were speedily summoned and after working over the drowned girl for several hours, pronounced life extinct.

FIREMAN KILLED.

Hurled to His Death While Trying to Catch Train Near Hawley.

Moorhead, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coroner Vincent has returned from Hawley, Minn., where he went Saturday to investigate the killing of a Northern Pacific employe by the name of J. O. H. Nelson, who was fireman on a steam shovel train. It appears that several miles from Hawley Nelson was trying to catch a train which was in motion and was thrown forcibly against a number of large boxes and was killed outright. Little is known of the unfortunate man, only that he had stated that he came from South Dakota. Every effort is being made to find the whereabouts of his friends.

MAIL SACKS STOLEN.

Are Taken From the Soo Depot at Thief River Falls.

Crookston, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two mail sacks containing letters were stolen from the Soo depot late on the evening of July 4 or early in the morning of July 5 at Thief River Falls. One sack contained letters gathered at Thief River Falls postoffice which were being sent to points north of here on the Soo line and to the Canadian Northwest. In this mail mail sack was one registered package which had been mailed at some point in Montana and was being sent to a person at Baltic, up in Kittson county.

The other sack of letters stolen was from the Canadian Northwest and was for Thief River Falls and postoffices tributary to that city. Just how many registered letters were in this mail pouch the local office is unable to say, but there are as a usual thing three of four.

BARNESVILLE SHOPS MOVED

Machinery is Divided Between Devils Lake and Crookston.

Crookston, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—A party of Great Northern surveyors is at work running the lines for shops in South Crookston 150 by 50 feet, which will be attached to the round house. Work will begin as soon as the lines are completed. The work of dismantling some of the Barnesville shops has started, and a portion of the equipment will be sent here and the rest to Devils Lake, N. D. Mechanics are already on the ground awaiting the arrival of the machinery and as soon as it gets to Devils Lake it will be set up and the new shops will be ready for men to start to work.

A large number of men will be needed to go to work at Devils Lake before the end of this month. It is stated that a call for men will probably be made by the 15 or 20 of this month. The men who have been employed at Barnesville will be given positions there if they desire to go, but besides this force, it will be necessary to get a large number of men to work in the shops at the round house. There are about 200 men employed at the present time, and it is expected that the force will be increased by 200 and 300 more, if they can be secured. Besides the men who have been working for the company, there will be a large number of new men given employment.

FOR MISS CHENOWETH.

Farewell Reception in Her Honor Given at Proctor.

Proctor, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—On Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. E. S. Davis, on West Second street; Mrs. F. J. Carlson and Mrs. Davis gave a farewell reception for Miss Cora M. Chenoweth, who in a few days will return to her home in Martinsburgh, W. Va. About forty-five friends of Miss Chenoweth were in attendance. The house was prettily decorated with ferns and cut flowers. A large centerpiece of pink and white peonies graced the center of the table in the dining room and about the room were banked cut flowers and ferns; over all of which was thrown a pink light that added beauty to the effect. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the refreshments. Miss Hopkins of Duluth and Mrs. C. B. Gilbert served the fruit punch. Grace Lewis and Fern Rapphold assisted in the diningroom.

Mrs. C. B. Gilbert rendered two solos, that were highly appreciated. The ladies presented Miss Chenoweth with a solid gold, hand-engraved bracelet as a small token of the esteem in which she is held by them; and expressed their regrets that the pleasant ties that have been formed during her stay in Proctor are to be thus broken by her return home. Miss Chenoweth will leave for her home on Wednesday evening.

NOT WITH SHOW.

Press Agent Springs a New Dodge on the Public.

Bemidji, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—A wayward son, carried away by the gilt and glamour of Pawnee Bill's Wild West show, was traced to this city Saturday, from his home in Decatur, Ala., when Maj. Lillie (Pawnee Bill) received the following telegram:

"Decatur, Ala., via Aberdeen, S. D.—Eddie Lynn, care Pawnee Bill Wild West show: I am informed that my 15-year-old son is with your show, under an assumed name. His correct name is William Vinkley Neville. Answer if he is with you or not. M. W. Neville."

Maj. Lillie called his private detective and had every employe of the big show questioned as to the names of the men and boys, but no clue to anyone by the name of William Vinkley Neville could be found.

Long Live the King!

is the popular cry throughout European countries; while in America, the cry of the present day is "Long Live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of Throat and Lung Remedies!" of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Paine, Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. MRS. HESSEL IS THRIFTY

Shoemaker's Wife Saved $1,000 Unknown to Her Husband.

Was About to Borrow When She Produded the Coin.

Marinette, Wis., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. William Hessel, the wife of a local shoemaker, has established a reputation for thriftiness that proved very welcome to her husband when he was on the point of borrowing some money to pay for a piece of property. She announced that unknown to him she had saved $1,000 which she produced. They paid cash for the property.

Hessel had negotiated for some property that was being sold at a sheriff's sale for $650, and had arranged to borrow enough money to pay for it. After the sale, he was about to pull over his deposit when his wife who accompanied him, began to unroll various bundles and packages she had stowed about her.

The woman produced 200 silver dollars from several soiled handkerchiefs, and then a still larger sum in gold pieces from a roll of cloth and various places of her dress. The husband almost fainted at the sight of so much unexpected wealth and the wife smiled with satisfaction as she handed the money over to her spouse and saw him make a cash payment for their new house. It is said the woman had saved the money in less than ten years, entirely from the small allowance given her for household and family expenses.

His entire head was blown through the door into another room, where his wife was sleeping. She was awakened by the noise of the discharge and on jumping out of bed was horrified to see her husband's head lying on the floor beside her. No reason is known for the suicide.

S. Kern, C. C. Kimball, F. J. Quarters, W. H. Clark, C. E. Brow and William Ramsey. Mr. Kern, before leaving Marquette said: "I can candidly say that I did not expect to meet with as much success as has been accomplished during the few days of recruiting here. The times are good, and labor is well employed. Working against such opposition, I hardly expected to secure as many recruits as has proved the case." The young men who enlisted at Marquette enter the navy in the capacity of apprentice seamen for a period of four years.

BODY NOT LOST ONE

Fruitless Search for Man Named Reber Missing From Crookston.

Body of Unknown Exhumed From Fargo Without Result.

Fargo, N. D., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—L. W. Greene and a young man named Reber from Crookston, have been in the city and made a call on Undertaker Dougherty of Luger's establishment. They were seeking information of the young man's father, a Mr. Reber, who disappeared from his home about Crookston last May, since which time nothing has been heard from or of him, although the search was a diligent one. Young Reber had read of the finding of the body of an unknown man out in the Red river in Reed township several weeks ago, and thought it might be that of his father.

The two in company with one of Luger's men went to the cemetery, where the body was exhumed, and measurements taken, after which portions of the clothing were cut off, but the examination disclosed the fact that undoubtedly it was not that the missing Reber, and the two men left for their homes. What became of Mr. Reber is not known, but the family firmly believe that he has been made away with.

YOUNG MADE MARK.

South Dakota Youth Has Not Been Idle at Oxford College.

Vermillion, S. D., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not long ago the question was asked by an editor of the state as to what Paul M. Young, the South Dakota Oxford representative was doing in England. The question was prompted by an announcement that Young had won honors on the athletic field, and the editor no doubt believed that the student was devoting the greater part of his time to athletics. But unimpeachable evidence is at hand that Young has made his mark at Old Oxford.

He has notified his parents, Dean and Mrs. C. M. Young of this city, that he has been awarded the A. B. honor degree, not only as an athlete but for his record as a student.

Mr. Young will return to his home in Vermillion about July 15, and will remain here until the opening of another school year, when he goes to Huron college, to become professor of Latin and director of athletics. He has taken his B. A. degree in law at Oxford and expects to practice law as a profession.

CARRIED BY WIND.

South Dakota Man Picked Up and Swept to His Death.

Mitchell, S. D., July 15.—There was one fatality in the tornado which visited this section Saturday evening. All telephone wires were down last night, and no outside information reached here until this morning. John M. Pease, living three miles north of Mount Vernon, had started to join his children, who had taken refuge from the approaching storm in a grove of trees near their home. When a hundred feet from the house the wind picked him up and carried him fifty feet in the air. In dropping to the ground he was terribly crushed, living but a few minutes after his children reached his side. Some years ago Mr. Pease was prominent in Populist politics, and was a leader in the Reform party.

Two women were reported killed near Mount Vernon, but this has not yet been verified.

Fargo—The Fargo Interstate fair officials are elated over securing a 2-cent rate for the fair to be held in Fargo July 29 to Aug. 4. Barney Oldfield, the auto racer, is in Fargo and will spend some time on the track at the fair grounds. His contract for a race here provides that he shall not appear at any other fair in this state this season.

Fargo, N. D.—Under the direction of Contractor Kennedy, a gang of men has begun laying bricks over the concrete foundation for the new pavement on lower Broadway, between the Northern Pacific tracks and Front street.

Aberdeen, S. D.—An investigation into the causes that led up to the murder of Chris Nelson of Glenham is now being conducted by the Walworth county authorities and some light is being shed on the case which, according to first accounts, had the appearance of being a deliberate murder.

FLAMES ARE SWEEPING EVERYTHING BEFORE THEM.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 15.—Reports from every direction tell of forest fires doing heavy damages. A report from Raber says that all the camps of the Mud Lake Lumber company have been destroyed, as well as several farm houses. Flames sweep across hayfields, driving all before them. Much livestock is also reported lost. Between Soo and Newberry heavy damage has been done by fires, which are still burning in the woods. The whole country is as dry as tinder and crops are suffering.

Baby won't suffer five minutes with croup if you apply Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil at once. It acts like magic.

Important Announcement

William Knabe & Co., the distinguished piano makers of Baltimore, have appointed us their sole agents for Duluth and Superior, Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin, and we make this announcement with the utmost pride and satisfaction, for it is only after the most careful consideration that the Messrs. Knabe choose their representatives.

The instruments of this most distinguished house have been made, and before the public, for more than 75 years and have reached the highest perfection of artistic piano making.

We shall endeavor to represent worthily these noble instruments and have arranged a proper space for an attractive showing of both Grands and Uprights.

WHEAT HAS A DECLINE

Bears Prevail in All of the American Markets.

Flax Closed Lower in Duluth, After Quiet Session.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 15.—Wheat closed at lower prices in the American markets today, after a busy session. There was firmness at the beginning of the day's business, but during the first hour, prices went off more than 1c on more favorable crop reports from the Northwest. During the remainder of the day, the tone was bearish, the September option in Duluth going off 2⅝c from the high price of the day. The world's shipments were about as expected. Liverpool closed unchanged to ½d lower, Berlin unchanged and Budapest 1⅝c lower.

The September option closed 1⅜c lower in Duluth, 1⅛-¼c in Chicago, 1¾c in Minneapolis, 1¼c in New York and 1c in St. Louis and Kansas City. The October option closed ¼c lower in Winnipeg. The December option closed 1½c lower in Duluth 1⅛c in Chicago, 1½-⅝c in Minneapolis, 1⅜c in New York, ¾-⅞c in St. Louis and ⅞c in Kansas City.

September corn closed ⅝c lower in Chicago and September oats ⅝c lower.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat opened firm, ¾d to 1d higher on firmness in American and light world's shipments. Later prices lost ⅜d to ½d on return of fine weather in the United Kingdom and the continent and talk of decreasing continental requirements.

"Corn opened firm and ⅜d higher market dull and narrow. Support was on light American shipments and a better demand for spot."

Grain Gossip.

Watertown, S. D., wires: South Dakota wheat in the northeastern section of the state does not promise a better yield than 70 per cent, having gone back since the government report. There has been no rain in this section since June 17 and the stand is very backward. Should have head a week ago but has been held back here and the fields as a whole are standing still. Bugs appear everywhere but at no place in alarming numbers. Rains while they would help, would determine whether bugs are to be a serious menace. There is rust in every field, though not of an epidemic character. It is red rust and has weakened the plant and indicates a lessened yield.

Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: Local traders appear to be in a mood to give more attention to light rains over the Northwest, rather than the heavy rains West and Southwest, which are again threatening the harvest section. The Kansas City Star claims to have numerous reports from Kansas indicating a good average yield of wheat. These are contradicted by so many private reports from special localities that the trade must be convinced of serious shortage in that state. Farmers are said to be selling wheat rather sparingly in the Southwest, although some new wheat from Illinois points reaceud this market today. Think holders generally sold out and market is ready for another upturn.

Corn—Rains over a good portion of the corn belt, together with the break in wheat caused the decline to the low pint of the day from which there was only moderate recovery at the close. St. Louis houses report many complaints from Kansas and Missouri and many farmers predicting that they will only gather nubbins this year. The market looks safe for buyers on the decline.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Towards Close, Nearly All Earlier Gains Being Wiped Out.

The Average Level of Prices Receded to Below Saturday.

New York, Juply 15.—The opening dealings in stocks, while in moderate volume, carried prices briskly upwards. Transactions in Union Pacific were on a large scale and carried the price of that stock 2 over Saturday's close. Great Northern preferred, Reading and American Smelting rose 1¾, and Northern Pacific 1½. Atchison and Amalgamated Copper rose 1, National Lead 1½ and St. Paul, American Locomotive and Erie second preferred ¾. Central Railroad of New Jersey sold at an advance of 6, New York Air Brake 3, American Ice 2½ and Delaware & Hudson 2.

The buoyancy of the rise invited quick profiting before which prices fell away. Buying orders increased against the reaction and moved prices up to above the opening level. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie and Great Northern ore certificates rose 3½; Union Pacific 2½, Northern Pacific and Erie firts preferred 2¼, Amalgamated Copper, 2⅛.

The market became very dull but prices yielded only slightly. Chicago Great Western debentures sold at a decline of 5.

Trading became less active and price fluctuations showed some hesitation, but support was manifest on the decline. St. Paul, Texas & Pacific and Westinghouse Electric rose 1¼. Bonds were steady.

The extreme dullness allowed prices to sag, the reaction running to a point in the leaders. Small buying was effective in blocking the fall. The market closed dull and weak. The flattening out of demand left the speculative buyers of the morning uneasy and they threw over their holdings. The most important of the earlier gains were reduced to fractions and the average level of prices receded to below Saturday. The losses in St. Paul, New York Central, Brooklyn Rapid Transit, Toledo, St. Louis & Western and Anaconda reached one or more. St. Paul preferred gained 2, Southern Railway preferred 1¼ and American Smelting preferred and Tennessee Copper 1, Mackay companies advanced 4½ and Illinois Central 3.

Stock Gossip.

New York, Logan & Bryan, to Paine, Webber & Co.: Bullish operations characterized the trading in the New York stock market today and advances were scored all along the line. The favorable bank statement and mild report of the interstate commerce commission in the Union Pacific-Harriman matter caused a more optimistic feeling and as call rates were low, the bulls did not have much difficulty in advancing the market. It would seem that the recent advance has been too fast, especially in view of the fact that there are still a great many uncertainties overhanging the market. However, the market is more likely to be a purchase on setbacks than previously.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market was made to look very strong this morning and a good many people were induced to buy stocks but later selling came in and the close was weak all through the list.

Am bearish for the present and believe in getting out of stocks, especially the coppers for the present. The old story in Utah was revived and a block of stock was thrown on the market. I doubt that the mine has run out of ore and I would buy Utah on any further break for a quick turn.

Boston to Vern R. Culbertson: The copper market opened fractionally higher and active with trading centered in Greene-Cananea, North Butte, Copper Range, Old Dominion and Utah Consolidated. This advance was met with heavy selling orders in Old Dominion and Utah Consolidated. There was a fair market for the first hour and the stock was well taken, but the market later was very narrow and it sold off easily. The rest of the list was dull with trading in odd lots and it did not responds to the strength of the New York market. The price of copper in London was weak and off 2 pounds. This makes an uneasy feeling toward our coppers, as many expect it to mean a further reduction in the price of the metal.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: The general market today was broad and while it was on the upward swing it was very active. The close was somewhat easier but it promises to improve rather than the contrary. Banks throughout the East are preaching conservatism to their mercantile clients and trying to curtail their mercantile purchases. This will soon bring about the much desired recession in business and release money. Coppers do not look so well as the general list does. Copper was quoted as being freely offered in London at equivalent of 2½ cents for electrolytic by Amalgamated interests. Evidently the readjustment process is still incomplete and further cuts are ahead. It is not likely coppers will do more than remain steady. Utah Consolidated was the local feature. It was weak all day on New York selling. There is great diversity of opinion regarding it but it does not look well. The selling seems good.

The Cotton Market.

New York, July 15.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of two points to a decline of three points on late months, under continued bear pressure and liquidation. Trading was moderately active locally and after a falling off of a net loss of about 3 to 4 points on active months, prices rallied to within a point or two, during the middle of the morning.

Cotton, spot, closed quiet; middling uplands, 12.85; middling gulf, 13.10; sales, 400 bales. Futures closed steady. Closing bids: July, 11.55; August, 11.42; September, 11.41; October, 11.08; November, 11.04; December, 11.72; January, 11.80; February, 11.81; March, 11.91; April, 11.94; May, 12.02.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer: St. Paul, July 15.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Market quiet and clearance slow; receipts moderate. Demand was confined to small sales in the draft and business classes. Closing quotations of last week show little change.

New York Money.

New York, July 15.—Closes: Money on call firmer, 2¾@4 per cent; ruling rate, 3¾; closing bid, 2½; offered at 3. Time loans dull and a trifle easier; sixty days, 4½@5 per cent; ninety days, 5 per cent; six months, 6 per cent; prime mercantile paper, 5½@6 per cent. Minneapolis Flour.

Minenapolis, July 15.—The flour market is easy. Prices remain unchanged, pending a more definite tone to the wheat market. Millers reported a fair amount of new business accumulated over Sunday, but nothing that could be called big. Shipping directions are moderate. Shipments, 25,485 barrels. First patents, $5.10@5.20; second patents, $5.00@5.10; first clears, $3.50@3.65; second clears, $2.75@2.85.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

MOST BUSINESS IF COMBINED with pleasure leads to success—all business ground out in desperation fails in time. Fifty-five miles of virgin woodland, rich in soil and rich in timber, can be traversed by writing to Edmund G. Walton, 114 South Fourth street, Minneapolis, for a permit over the constructing route of the Northern Pacific from Big Fork, Minnesota, to Little Fork. At Little Fork, a large and commodious steamer takes you thirty-three miles up the Rainey river to International Falls. Total expense from Minneapolis, $7.85. Now, then, what will you see? A new country with marvelous possibilities, a water power of 30,000 horse power; 5,000,000,000 feet of pine and spruce—a farming country with soil as rich as the richest in Iowa, an ideal climate, a net work of lakes and streams filled with all the usual varieties of fresh water fish, and money to be picked up for the asking. Read Christopher Columbus' report of America to the court of Spain or "Monte Christo" and you will then partly understand what the riches of Koochiching county really are. No one really knows what wealth there is there, but a little fishing trip will open your eyes and tell you more than all the writing in the world. Write at once for itinerary of trip, with suggestions, etc.

WEST DULUTH

BULLET IN HIS HEART

Peter Nelson Shoots Himself During Early Morning Hours.

Had Been Despondent Over Death of His Wife.

Despondent through brooding over the death of his wife, which occurred at Two Harbors, about three years ago, tired of life, and overcome with a desire to end it all, Peter Nelson, a blacksmith, living at 314 North Fifty-third avenue west, this morning committed suicide by sending a bullet through his heart.

The suicide occurred in the yards of the West Duluth box factory, at the corner of Main street and Fiftieth avenue west. Residents in that vicinity heard a shot fired between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning. As it was followed by no more shots, and everything remained quiet, no investigation was made. Employes of the box factory, going to work this morning, found the body.

The dead man was lying near one of the lumber sheds in the yard, face downward. In his left side was a gaping hole and a 38-calibre revolver, clutched in his right hand, told the story of self destruction. But one shot was missing from the revolver. The bullet had entered near the heart on the left side, taken a downward course toward the right and lodged behind the skin, just back of the right kidney.

Coroner McCuen was notified, and the body removed to Filiatrault's morgue. The coroner decided that it was a clear case of suicide, and no inquest will be necessary.

Nelson was about 52 years of age, and had lived in West Duluth for many years past, with the exception of a few years spent in Two Harbors. His wife died there about three years ago, and since then, he has never been the same. He returned to West Duluth and took up his residence alone. He worked intermittently at the National Iron works, but he was continually brooding over his troubles, and little surprise was occasioned by his suicide. Nothing is known of his movements last night, but it is presumed he went to the scene of the suicide with the deed already planned.

He is survived by four children, two sons and two daughters. One of the sons is a brakeman on the D. M. & N. railroad, but the whereabouts of the other is unknown. Mrs. J. H. Cook of the West end is a daughter, and another unmarried daughter lives in Duluth. The children have not yet claimed the body, and until they do, no funeral arrangements can be made.

SAW WOLF CUB.

Adolph Lindstrom Chased Young Animal Several Miles.

While walking from Spirit Lake to West Duluth Saturday afternoon, Adolph Linstrom scared up a wolf cub and had an exciting chase after the little animal.

Lindstrom thought that it would be an easy thing to overtake and capture the cub, but it ran so swiftly through the woods that he finally had to give up the chase. He watched the wolf tear up the earth in the distance for some time until it was out of sight.

When Lindstrom made a survey of the country he found that he had ran for several miles after the wolf cub, although the temperature was about the warmest of any this year.

SUFFERED A SUNSTROKE.

Little Girl Overcome by Exeessive Heat, But is Revived.

As the result of a sunstroke, the little 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fyrburg, Fortieth avenue west and Eighth street, fell unconscious while playing near her home Saturday afternoon.

Several of her playmates who saw her fall upon the sidewalk in an unconscious condition ran and notified her parents, and the child was carried home by her mother. Dr. Shannon was summoned immediately.

After a few moments the physician succeeded in reviving the child and he stated yesterday that the little girl will not suffer any permanent injury.

CHARGED WITH BURGLARY.

James D. O'Brien Spent Sunday in Cell at Police Station.

James D. O'Brien, a well known West Duluth young man, formerly manager of the Elco theater, has occupied a cell in the West Duluth lockup since Saturday night. He was arrested on complaint of Charles Ellison, who recently purchased the Elco theater from O'Brien's mother, Ellison missed a lens and a film reel from the machine Saturday and he concluded O'Brien had taken it, so he swore out a warrant. It is said the missing articles were afterwards found behind a curtain in the theater.

The place was certainly entered, for the screws were pulled from the padlock, with which the outer door was fastened. The guilty person then forced an entrance through the ticket window in the partition and placed the pieces of the machine behind the curtain, evidently with a view to preventing a performance Saturday night and yesterday.

O'Brien is confident he will be discharged, when he is brought up for examination this afternoon. He says he was not in West Duluth from early Friday evening until after his arrest. He was unable to furnish $250 bonds when arrested, and was forced to spend the time in jail, but he appears cheerful in the face of it. He says the moving picture machine is his, anyway, as the bill of sale shows it was not included in the transfer of the theater.

WANT DEPOT CONDEMNED.

Old Station Now Used for Storeroom by Oil Company.

A petition, signed by fifty residents of Oneota street in the vicinity of Forty-sixth avenue west, will be presented to the city council tonight, requesting the condemnation of the old Oneota depot, now used as a store room for kerosene and gasoline by the Cornplanter Oil company. There was a slight fire near the old depot last Friday afternoon and the danger attending it prompted the residents to circulate the petition.

It is charged in the petition that the old depot is a public nuisance and a danger to the people residing in its vicinity. It has not been used as a depot for many years, and they say that it is not fitted for the use to which it is now put. They claim the old building is saturated with oil and a match or lighted cigar carelessly thrown by a passerby might precipitate a serious fire. They ask for the condemnation of the building immediately.

Austrians Are Noisy.

People in the vicinity of the Austrian colony below the notorious "Two street" were treated last evening to the echoes of a hilarious jamboree. There were yells and singing and dancing galore, but there was no complaint to the police at the time and the place wasn't raided. But this morning, Officer Toewe swore out a "John Doe" warrant for the proprietor of the boarding house at 226 South Fifty-sixth avenue west, where the disturbance took place, and he will be given a hearing on the charge of allowing disturbances to occur in his house.

BROWN ESTATE IS SETTLED UP

Final Decrees Signed for Richest Baby in Country.

By signing an order allowing the final account of the executors of the estate of the late Harold Brown, a wealthy Eastern man, Judge Middlecoff this morning closed another chapter in the probate court proceedings of an estate that attracted widespread interest over the country because the person benefiting under its terms acquired notoriety as the richest baby in the country.

The infant in question was John Nicholas Brown, Jr., whose father left him a very rich baby and whose uncle, Harold Brown, dying shortly afterward, added to the youngster's riches until he was, at one time, claimed to be worth about $30,000,000.

The Harold Brown estate is being settled up, but before this can be done entirely decrees must be had from all the probate courts in states where the estate had interests and probate proceedings were instituted. Judge Middlecoff's decree closes the matter so far as the estate's interests here are concerned. Those interests involve, among others, the dock property of the Stone-Ordean-Wells company of this city.

When there is the slightest indication of indigestion, heart burn, flatulence or any form of stomach trouble, take a little Kodol occasionally and you will be afforded prompt relief. Sold by all druggists.

DEFY THE BEST OF CRACKSMEN

Safe at City National Bank Latest in Burglar Proofs.

A safe of unique construction in this part of the country has recently been added to the equipment of the City National bank in this city. Instead of the usual bolt locking device the safe has a circular door, which, after being closed tightly turns for about an eighth of a revolution a set of iron lugs, integral parts of the door and safe, are thus slid past each other, and the door fastened almost as solidly as if it were in one piece with the safe. The turning of a second lever throws a set of steel bolts into place which prevents the door being turned back into the position from which it opens. A turn of the combination sets these bolts and the safe is thus locked.

Another novel feature is the construction of the time lock as it does not have what is known as an "automatic device." This, is, in the ordinary safe, a weak spot for the skillful cracksman can by turning the safe on edge, jar this out of place by a few skillfully placed hammer blows and thus gain an easy entrance.

The safe is spherical in shape, so that explosives can be used to little advantage on its surface and is made of the hardest kind of steel by the Manganese Steel Safe company of New York. There is only one other kind, a smaller model in this part of the country and that is located in Coleraine, where the steel trust installed it. The size installed in the bank here is known as No. 5, and cost $1,500.

STRAWBERRIES ARE MAMMOTH

Some Splendid Samples Shown From the McLeran Farm.

Strawberries larger than English walnuts, of such size that it takes from eighteen to thirty-five of them to completely fill a quart measure, are a good object lesson of the market delicacies the Northern Minnesota soil can produce.

F. B. McLeran, who has charge of the large farm of his father, John H. McLeran of this city, near Wrenshall, Carlton county, received from the farm today two boxes of the first picking of this season's strawberry crop of the size above mentioned, and which he has been showing a number of people today. The display is a fair commercial exhibit of what the strawberry patch will produce this year, and Mr. McLeran expects that the half acre under the plants will produce about 2,000 quarts for the season.

The berries, although so large, are of a fine flavor and will doubtless be in great demand by those people who are looking for the best the market affords in the berry line. About all the farm products of the McLeran farm find a Duluth market.

SURVIVOR OF EXPLOSION TELLS OF CATASTROPHE ON BATTLESHIP GEORGIA

Description of the Awful Sheet of Flame Which Appeared.

Gunner Hensel Managed to Crawl to an Open Porthole.

He Got Some Air and Was But Little Burned.

Boston, July 16.—From his cot in the naval hospital at Chelsea, Acting Gunner Capt. Charles H. Hansel today was able to tell the story of the accident on the United states battleship Georgia, which cost eight lives and caused injuries to thirteen men in Cape Cod bay yesterday. Mr. Hansel said:

"None of us knew anything about it till it was over. When I saw that first flash, instinct told me what was up, and I kept presence of mind enough to dodge back from the sheet of flames that began to envelope the turret. I got down to the floor, crawled under the gun and out to the porthole as far as I could get. Here I could get some air, and I was so low down that the flames did not hurt me seriously. Kimball was with me and he did not get a burn. My hand was burned when I held an iron rod, and I got burned around the head, but I guess it is not very bad.

"The instant the flash came Lieut. Goodrich, who was in charge of the work in our turret, rushed to the hatchway on top of the turret, thinking to get out before the turret filled with smoke and gas, but the powder was too quick for him, and he was horribly burned before he could get to the air and safety. Seaman Maleck was sitting on top of the turret where he was stationed to take messages, with his legs hanging down the hatchway. Influenced probably by Lieut. Goodrich, who, maddened by his suffering, plunged into the sea, he threw himself overboard too.

"The first flash was followed quickly by a second from the other bag of powder, each containing about 100 pounds of smokeless powder. That was a moment of terror to all who were still conscious, but they were few. Men were lying in

DEMOCRATS OF NEBRASKA

Gather at Lincoln and Will Hold an Important Meeting.

Lincoln, Neb., July 16.—Democrats from all parts of Nebraska gathered at Lincoln today at the call of Chairman Sherman S. Allen, and will hold an important meeting tonight. Democrats today asserted that they want the railroad regulation law thoroughly tried before any action is taken looking toward government ownership of railroads. They assert they stand with Mr. Bryan on this plank. On the tariff question recommendations will be made to the national convention to adopt a vigorous plank for pronounced reduction. The committee will also make recommendation for a national convention to adopt a vigorous plank for pronounced reduction. The committee will also make recommendation for a national plank demanding criminal prosecution of trust magnates who break the laws. William J. Bryan is in Independence, Kan., lecturing today.

SITUATION UNCHANGED

Telegraphers Make No Visible Headway Towards Peace.

Officials on Both Sides Refuse to Divulge Anything.

San Francisco, July 16.—The tension of the situation in the strike of the telegraph operators was not relaxed yesterday and no visible headway was made toward peace. Commissioner Neill and President S. J. Small met again last night, but refused to divulge anything that developed at the meeting.

The men insist that the Western Union agrees to meet a committee from the union. According to one of the officials of the local union should the company show the desire to treat with the striking operators, little difficulty would be experienced in arranging a compromise, so far as the men are concerned. This official said last night that the men would demand that in the event of a settlement, all members of the union who went on strike be reinstated. Members of the union, according to those in a position to know the disposition of the striking operators, would be willing to compromise in the matter of an increase in wages, to the extent that a 20 per cent increase would be accepted.

THE JURY COMPLETE

Twelve Men Selected to Try Italian Kidnapers.

A Very Intelligent Lot of Men Finally Secured.

Hahnville, Va., July 16.—The jury that will try three men an a woman for the murder of little Walter Lamana, is completed. Many talesmen were excaused because they objected to giving a verdict that might mean the hanging of Mrs. Camplasco, the woman prisoner. As this trial is expected, as far as possible, to furnish an example that will check Italian blackmailing, great care was exercised to secure the most intelligent class of jurors. Seven of them are planters.

The prisoners were kept in the local jail last night without any extra guards. They appear to be in no danger of mob violence. There are six prisoners, Frank Gebbia and his sister, Nicolina, who will be tried next week for the same murder, having been brought here as witnesses. Tony Costa, who attempted suicide in New Orleans, although uninjured, looked very much like an insane man when he appeared in court today.

FIREMEN RESCUE MAN SICK IN BED

C. J. Larson of St. Paul Has Narrow Escape From Fire.

St. Paul, July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lying sick in bed with typhoid fever at his home, Otsego and Collins streets, C. J. Larson was rescued from death by fire at an early hour this morning only by the heroic efforts of the firemen.

An explosion of gas in the closet off from the sick room, which partially disabled several of the fire fighters, added to the difficulty of the rescue. The fire was extinguished after it had done $300 damage.

The gas meter was in the closet and when the door was pulled open a small explosion followed, scorching and burning about the face and head, Lieut. Carl Borek of Engine No. 1, Pipeman Charles O'Toole of the same company, and Capt. McFayden of No. 4. The whole Larson family have been sick with typhoid fever within the last few weeks, Mr. Larson being the last to succumb.

IGNORED BY JAPS

News of Arrest of Officer for Sketching Forts Discredited.

General Belief That Present Friendly Relations Will Continue.

Tokio, July 16.—The news of the arrest in America of a Japanese officer in the act of sketching a fort, which is totally discredited here and would ordinarily have invited angry comments against the source of information, is quietly left without editorial comments in the leading Japanese papers. The explanation of this attitude may be sought in the fact that despite the war talk which is being transmitted here from America, the impression continues to prevail that the friendly relations existing between the United States and Japan is too deep rooted to be destroyed by any anti-Japanese sentiment, which, however loudly voiced, is known to be limited to a small section.

The presence in America of Admiral Yamamoto at this time is considered to be most kindly and the cordial reception accorded him by President Roosevelt is profoundly appreciated as forecasting a satisfactory solution of the labor question. Moreover, the Korean question is now claiming foremost attention almost to the exclusion of all other topics. The press, however, is generally refraining from any suggestions in definite form, and even the opposition papers are withholding concrete expressions and opinions. It may safely be said the whole nation is confidently trusting Marquis Ito and Foreign Minister Hyashi to deal with Korea in such a manner as to exterminate the last element of hostile intrigues against Japan with the full support of the powers. In this connection the fact is recalled with appreciation that when the protectorate over Korea was signed, the United States was the first to notify Tokio of the withdrawal of its legation from Seoul.

CLOSE WATCH ON STEAMERS

Federal Government Will Allow No Overcrowding in New York.

New York, July 16.—The federal government is determined that there shall be no overcrowding of excursion and other like craft running out of New York harbor, and no repetition of the Gen. Slocum horror. Gen. James W. Clarkson, surveyor of the port, says that steamboat men might as well understand now as later that they cannot evade the law, and that its provisions as to passenger traffic will be carried out to the letter. A large force of customs officers inspected every excursion boat in the harbor on Sunday with the result that fifteen passenger carrying boats were put out of commission and tied up at their piers for disobeying the law. It was found that some of the masters did not even have licenses. Moreover, hundreds of persons were obliged to disembark from vessels because the vessels were overcrowded.

"THE WILD BEAST" OF RUSSIA IS BLOWN INTO ATOMS BY TERRORISTS

A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

Of Gas Wrecks the Avon Hotel in St. Paul.

Rooms Blown to Pieces and Several Persons Hurt.

St. Paul, July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—A terrific gas explosion wrecked the Avon hotel, 473 Wabasha street, last night, injuring a score of people and doing damage estimated at $1,500.

Seven rooms of the hotel, two hallways and a landing and stairway were literally blown to pieces. The shock of the explosion was felt for blocks, and the detonation was like a broadside of a cannon.

The explosion was occasioned by a leak in the gas meter in the bathroom. A paper hanger, working in the room, in some manner disconnected the meter, and when the repair men sent by the gas company to fix it, lighted a match in the bathroom there was a flash, a roar, and a wrecked building.

William Johnson, the paper hanger, at first tried to stop the leak, but

STRANDED ON GREAT PASS

Band of Gypsies Victims of Peculiar Circumstances.

Geneva, July 16.—A party of twenty-two gypsies, men, women and children, are stranded at the top of the Great St. Bernard pass, owing to curious circumstances. On being expelled from Italy they ascended the pass, intending to go to Switzerland, but when they had reached the top they were refused admission to Swiss territory by Swiss gendarmes. Unable to return to Italy, as Italian gendarmes followed them to see them across the frontier, they are now camped at an elevation of 8,100 feet, unable to advance or retreat. The monks of St. Bernard are feeding them and lending them warm clothing, but they cannot be sheltered in the hospice because it is in Swiss territory.

Gen. Alikhanoff and Two Others Killed at Alexandropel.

Was the Former Governor of Tiflis and Much Hated.

Seriously Injured by Bomb Thrown at Him Last Year.

Alexandropol, Russia, July 16.—Gen. Alikhanoff, former governor general of Tiflis; Madame Glieboff, wife of Gen. Glieboff and the coachman who was driving their carriage, were blown to pieces by bombs thrown at their conveyance at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

A son of Gen. Alikhanoff and a daughter of Gen. Glieboff sustained serious injuries.

The party was returning to the residence of Gen. Alikhanoff from his club. The bombs were hurled in Beboutoff street.

Gen. Alikhanoff was nicknamed "The Wild Beast" by the Caucasian members of the lower house of parliament, who often referred to his cruelty in the Kutais district, where he led a number of punitive expeditions to stamp out disorders. His rigorous methods to this end brought down upon him the enmity of the Revolutionists.

Gen. Alikhanoff was seriously injured by a bomb at Borjam, May 30, of last year. Its explosion seriously wounded, in addition to the general, a member of his staff and several Cossacks. The remainder of the Cossacks fired into the crowd, killing many persons, and then burned to the ground the buildings into which the people had fled.

MISSABE ORE DOCKS ARE CLOSED DOWN---NOT A TON OF ORE IS BEING SHIPPED

THOMAS C. PLATT,
Veteran Senator of New York, Who Celebrated His 74th Birthday Monday. He Says He Has Not the Slightest Intention of Resigning and Will Serve Out His Term Unless He Dies.

Strikers Are Playing Games to Pass Away Time.

Officials of Company Make Statement of Conditions.

Some of Open Pit Mines Have Suspended Operations.

Quiet reigns at the Missabe ore docks today. Not a ton of iron ore has been moved since Saturday night and at present there are no boats at the dock, all those which were waiting there yesterday morning having been sent to Allouez or Two Harbors. The strike of the dock laborers has tied things up completely as far as the Missabe docks are concerned.

No ore trains have been run down on the docks from Proctor, and not even the switch engines are doing anything today, all having been housed at Proctor to await further developments in the situation. The men still remain firm and they declare they can remain out for a long period.

This morning the laborers were spending the time either at their homes or near the docks. A party of about twenty or more were engaged in the ancient game of quoits, or throwing the horseshoes, and seemed very much engrossed in the game and thoroughly enjoying themselves.

It is claimed by the men that they cannot go back to work at the old wage, and they will therefore remain out for weeks if it is necessary to get the increase. In all there are about 750 laborers who are out, including seventeen ore trimmers.

The docks at Two Harbors and Allouez are still being operated although there are rumors of a strike about to be called at Allouez.

The high officials of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern feel that the men have broken faith with the road and are showing a lack of appreciation for favors that have been granted in the past.

When interviewed this morning the officials stated that the men have been enjoying a better schedule this year than they did last, and that a committee of eight, which called upon them May 1, and who claimed to represent all of the 750 or so dock workers, approved of the increase in wages and the schedule given

GREAT DAY FOR ELKS

Antlered Herd Having a Fine Time in Spite of Weather.

Excursions of All Kinds Participated in by the Visitors.

Philadelphia, July 16.—When the great herd of Elks who are grazing in Philadelphia this week awoke today they found the weather damp and cloudy and threatening rain. The weather conditions did not prevent the tens of thousands of Elks from beginning early with the second day's program which, as on yesterday, will continue until the Elks toast on City Hall square at 11 o'clock tonight. Automobile trips, excursions to Valley Forge, other sightseeing tours, receptions, teas, etc., have been arranged for every day of the week, ending with a trip to Atlantic City. Among the reports submitted at a business session of the grand lodge were those of Grand Exalted Ruler Melvin, Grand Secretary Robinson, Grand Treasurer Tener, the board of grand trustees and the board of governors of the national home at Bedford City, Va. According to the report of the secretary, the order has now passed the million mark in membership, there being in existence, 1,081 lodges with a membership of 254,532.

The report of the grand trustees recommends that owing to the large fund now in the treasury, amounting to more than $250,000, the per capita tax be reduced to 15 cents.

The forty-third grand lodge session was formally opened here last night at the Grand opera house when the visiting delegates and members of the organization were welcomed to the city on behalf of the Elks reunion committee by Daniel J. Shearn.

Governor Edwin S. Stuart welcomed the Elks to the state of Pennsylvania. In greeting the order the governor said it was fitting that the Elks, essentially an American organization, should be warmly received in the city of brotherly love and in a state to which their coming must awaken memories of a history near to every patriotic heart.

Grand Exalted Ruler Judge Henry A. McIvin responded to the welcome. The reception accorded the Elks he said, by the city of Philadelphia, by the state of Pennsylvania and by the citizens within its borders, was such as none could anticipate.

JOHN JONES IDENTIFIED

By Sheriff as One of Men Who Lynched Johnson.

Monroe, July 16.—Sheriff John C. Boygan was the first witness today when the trial of John Jones, charged with the lynching of John V. Johnson, was resumed in the superior court before Judge Peebles. He completed his testimony begun last evening. Boygan was very certain, on cross-examination as well as on direct examination, of the identity of John Jones. He also identified about a dozen of the other men who are under indictment as being in the crowd that lynched Johnson. Sheriff Boygan testified that he was fired upon by the mob and that he acted both as jailer and sheriff. The lynchers, he testified, aroused himself, his daughter and son, when they made a plea for admission, declaring they had a prisoner to put in the jail. As soon as he unlocked the door, the mob rushed in and after being refused keys to the cell, where Johnson was confined, they threatened to shoot the man through the bars of the cell. Then he gave them the keys. He said they dragged the alleged half crazy white man from the cell, and with a rope around his neck, started with him dragging him at times down the road to Monroe. The cross-examination did not materially shake any of the sheriff's statements.

BONI'S APPEAL IS DISMISSED

Final Decree of Divorce is Entered by the Court.

Paris, July 16.—The appeal of Count Boni de Castellane from the decision of the court on Nov. 14 last, granting a divorce to the Countess Boni de Castellane, formerly Miss Anna Gould of New York, was dismissed this afternoon and a final decree of divorce duly entered. Attorneys for the count made practically no contest.

Although the count, under the law, has still sixty days in which to appeal to the court of cassation upon legal grounds, the judgment of today is regarded as final, inasmuch as negotiations have been practically concluded by which Madame Gould is to settle the cases of the creditors, both against herself and the count out of court.

TWO-CENT FARE BILL

Applies to Lines Whose Mile Earnings Exceed $3,500.

Madison, Wis., July 16.—At 10:45 today Governor Davidson signed the 2-cent fare bill, to take effect on Aug. 15, 1907.

This bill will not be reported to the legislature until late this afternoon. The governor is considering the advisability of attaching a memoranda, explaining his reason for signing the measure.

The bill applies to all lines having a gross earning of $3,500 per mile per annum. This will affect all of the larger lines of the state and some of the smaller ones.

The original bill was drawn by Assemblyman Turner of Portage, and provided that the 2-cent fare bill should apply only on all lines having a gross earning of $7,000 per mile, but this was cut down to one-half, by the third amendment.

REBUTTAL CONTINUES

Third Day of Contradicting Evidence in the Haywood Case.

Boise, Idaho, July 16.—The third day of the state's case in the rebuttal against William D. Haywood was begun with Lawrence Guibbini, the San Francisco grocer, again on the stand. He was recalled at the request of the defense. He was asked a few additional questions as to geographical locations in the neighborhood of the Bradley apartment house.

A. C. Cogswell of Wallace, Idaho, followed Guibbini. He was called further to impeach Dr. I. L. McGee, a witness for the defense, who is under arrest and who has been brought to Boise from Spokane, where he was taken into custody. Dr. McGee testified as to certain dates by fixing the date of a county Republican convention in Wallace. Mr. Cogswell, who was permanent chairman of the convention gave different dates. The attorney for the defense moved to strike out the evidence as immaterial, and when this motion was denied they declined to cross-examine.

While Cogswell was on the stand, the state offered in evidence a copy of the Idaho Tribune published at Wallace and identified as the official organ of the local unions of the Western Federation of Miners at that time. The paper contained a three-column account of the blowing up of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill, which the state desired to place before the jury in answer to Attorney Darrow's opening statement that the defense would show that the crowd which attacked the mill was an unorganized mob. The admissability of the newspaper was argued, and Judge Wood took the matter under advisement.

Edward R. Alvard, a druggist of Burke, Idaho, was called and testified that he did not see Harry Orchard about town during the time the mob had gone to Wardner to blow up the Bunker Hill mill. He did see Orchard, however, immediately after the train got back.

On cross-examination Alvard said he had no personal grudge against the federation, although he had a member of it arrested for ordering him out of the country. He denied that he had ever had any trouble on account of insanity or that his wife had sued for a divorce on that ground. He was not living with his family, however.

A. T. Holman, a mine operator of Cripple Creek, next took the stand. At the time of the strike Mr. Holman was in charge of the Golden Cycle mine. Prior to 1903 he was in the Vindicator mine. He told of some personal experiences with the strike committee and then went into a description of the Vindicator explosion. Mr. Holman reached the sixth level, where McCormick and Beck were killed within twenty minutes after the explosion.

A plot or diagram of the mine was introduced in evidence and described to the jury in detail.

ASK FOR PERMIT FOR BIG BREWERY

The People's Brewing company yesterday made an application to the building inspector for a permit for their new brewing plant in the West end. The plans have been submitted and are under consideration by Mr. Keilley.

Work was commenced on the big plant late last week, and it is the intention of the company to get the brewery in operation at once. The plans which have been submitted to the building inspector call for a four-story building, seventy-six feet in height, 139 by 108 feet on the ground, and with a huge 112-foot stack from the engine room.

The original permit will be for only $40,000, but an additional one will probably be taken out before the work is complete. It is expected that with machinery and all, the plant will cost about $150,000.

ARISTOCRATS AND GIANTS

The Houghton and Calumet teams of the Northern Copper Country league will meet tomorrow at Athletic park. The game is a regularly scheduled exhibition, both teams having a day in Duluth. Houghton will be en route to Winnipeg, where it will open Thursday and Calumet remains here to open with Duluth Friday.

Since the two copper country teams last played in Duluth, they have strengthened considerably and have been playing good ball between themselves. When the Giants and Aristocrats met here a month ago, they drew a fair-sized crowd, the novelty of seeing two outside teams play appealing to the fans. It is expected a considerable number will be out tomorrow to engage in the rooting as their fancy dictates.

Duluth plays at Winnipeg Thursday morning and returns here to open with Calumet Friday for five games. Houghton opens at Winnipeg Thursday after noon and after five games, the two teams change for another series, after which the two Western teams go to the Copper country for a short series.

PAVING JOB IS COMMENCED

Work was commenced yesterday by Contractor McDonnell on the Sixteenth avenue east paving contract. The present pavement is cedar blocks and gravel, and for two blocks the street has even been graded.

About three blocks of paving have been completed on Jefferson street, six blocks remaining to be surfaced. The crushed rock foundation is all in place.

On Twenty-fourth avenue east a portion of the crushed rock foundation has been put in place. The Duluth Street Railway company has laid most of their rails, only the "V" at Superior street remaining, but the tracks have to be trued up yet. It will be some time before this is ready for surfacing. Trimming work in the cut has been started and a portion of the dirt for the grass-covered slopes is being hauled into place.

Commerce street will be done within a week. One side of the job has been completed for some time and in use. The foundation on the other side is about half done and a portion of the surface has also been laid here.

Tioga street from Fifty-fourth avenue west to the Occidental boulevard, Lester Park, which is to be paved with crushed rock macadam, is now ready for the curb. George R. King is in charge of this job.

ONLY AN HOUR HERE.

Passengers on North West Should Have Longer Stopover.

Henry Abraham of the Oak Hall Clothing store was indignant this morning when advised that friends from the East making the round trip on the North West would have but an hour or two in Duluth.

"It is a shame," said Mr. Abraham, "that our Commercial club is so indifferent to the welfare of the city as to allow this condition to continue. I feel sure that if the matter was properly taken up, arrangements could be made whereby tourists would have at least a day to see Duluth.

"Hundreds of passengers on the steamer North West are disappointed every week during the summer at the shortness of the stay here, and our city suffers a loss that can not be measured in dollars."

$20 outing suits now $10. "Fitwell."

SUPERIOR NEWS

Council Will Meet Tonight as Committee of the Whole.

The Superior city council will hold a regular meeting tonight. The open council session will be preceded by a session of the aldermen in a committee of the whole, where the question of signing a new contract with the Superior Water, Light & Power company will be considered. The company submitted a schedule of rates at the last meeting of the council, and the aldermen have been considering them since.

In the regular council session, two or three applications for liquor licenses will be passed upon. The park commission will report on the movement to have the Superior Marine band give concerts certain nights each week for the remainder of the summer. The committee will recommend that $300 be set aside of the license fund for the concerts, and a discussion will probable arise over it. The aldermen, for the most part, are favorable to the idea, it is thought.

PROBE MAIL CONTRACT.

Government Would Collect Bonds From Walentin Aho.

The United States circuit court, the July term of which opened yesterday morning, took up the calendar this morning, the case of Walentin Aho of Waino, Douglas county, being considered. Aho, it appears, took a contract to carry the mails, six days a week, between Waino and Brulle. Two bondsmen furnished bonds in the sum of $500 for him. The compensation was to by $195 a year.

Aho says that he could not read or speak English, nor could his bondsmen, and the postmaster at Waino gave them to understand that the contract called for trips but three days a week. When he discovered that he was expected to work six days, he rebelled and refused to carry out the contract. The government is suing for the bonds.

The grand jury, which went into session yesterday morning, is not expected to report until Thursday afternoon, at the earliest.

After being in the water since Sunday the body of George Dorsky, who was drowned in the bay at the foot of Twenty-second street, Billings Park, was recovered yesterday afternoon, only a short distance from the spot where he was last seen alive. The remains were prepared for burial at Le Sage's morgue and were taken to the home of the boy's parents, Rabbi and Mrs. Dorsky, 520 Hughitt avenue.

It was feared tha the body might have been swept down the bay, as there is a heavy current where the boy was drowned. The body was recovered by Capt. Olsen of the police department, who was assisted by Police Officers Sanderson and Christopherson.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed, and announcements will be made later.

LIQUOR CASES.

Arnold Burk Fined for Selling Firewater to Indians.

Arnold Burk pleaded guilty in federal court at Superior, yesterday, of selling liquor to Indians on the reservation at Odanah, Wis. He was fined $100 with the alternative of sixty days imprisonment in jail. Sentence was deferred in the case of Jacob Soderburg, who pleaded guilty to a similar offense.

Arthur Soper pleaded not guilty to two indictments alleging that he sold liquor to Indians, as did Joe Sanders, John O'Connell, Adam Winters, John Donohue, Frank Fournier and Duffy Boutin of Red Cliff and Bayfield.

The case of Ole Hawkinson of Shell Lake, Wis., charged with drawing liquor from an unstamped package, was continued over the term.

Samuel Barkovitch was released from a $75 bond, given for the appearance of William McDonald, the latter now being in custody of the federal officers. McDonald was indicted for having in his possession cigars not bearing the internal revenue stamp, and which were stolen from a Superior cigar store, some time ago, by boys. McDonald jumped his bail, but was finally located by Barkovitch, who put the federal authorities on his trail.

Peter Manypenny, an Indian, from the Odanah reservation, entered a plea of not guilty to an indictment charging him with raising a postal order from $1 to $21, and collecting the money on it from a concern at Ashland.

School Board to Meet.

It is expected the school board, at its meeting this evening, will order the drafting of complete plans for the new high school building along the line of the preliminary plans accepted at a recent meeting. Several architects had submitted rough drafts, and a selection was made from them. No other business is expected to come before the meeting.

Mind Again Unbalanced.

Deputy Sheriff P. J. Hughes came into Superior yesterday from Dedham with James Canary, a former inmate of the insane asylum at Mendota, who will be again examined today as to his mental condition. He is about 40 years of age, and was released from the asylum several months ago and went back to his old home at Dedham. Until a few days ago he acted in a rational manner, but since then he has been excitable and even threatened to take the life of one of his neighbors. He will be examined today by County Physician O'Brien.

The Pawnee Bills Wild West and Far East parade will leave the Fair grounds tomorrow morning at 9:30. The route will be as follows: Fair grounds to West Superior street, West Superior street to Twenty-first avenue east and then to First street; west on First street to Seventh avenue east; Seventh avenue east to Superior street; Superior street to Fair grounds.

WILL HAVE EXTRA CARS

Street Railway Company Arranges to Handle Circus Crowds.

Five-Minute Service Will be Provided on All Lines.

For Pawnee Bill's circus tomorrow the street railway company proposes to run cars every ten minutes from Third avenue east and Superior street to Thirty-seventh avenue west and Third street. This, in connection with the regular Third street cars, will make a five minute service from third avenue east to the circus. In addition to this five-minute service cars will be run from Fifth avenue west to Thirty-seventh avenue west every five minutes, which will make a two and one-half-minute service from Fifth avenue west to the circus.

If the attendance is large the cars that go to Third avenue east will probably be filled before they get to Fifth avenue west, and then will go through without stopping for more passengers. The Fifth avenue cars will give to those living west of Fifth avenue and those transferring at Garfield avenue an opportunity to reach the grounds.

In addition to this service on the Third street line five-minute service will be maintained on the old West Duluth line running on Superior and Oneota streets. This is about the same service as the company has given in past years for circuses. It is not expected that it will be sufficient to carry crowds at all times, but it is the best the company can do as the power from the Great Northern Power company has not yet been delivered.

This extra service to the circus requires only about the same number of cars as are run every morning and evening to accommodate the rush. It is expected that as in past years many persons will go to and from the circus by way of the old line, walking between the baseball ground at Thirty-fourth avenue, a distance of about 1,100 feet, and the circus ground. Thirty-fourth avenue is not improved, but there is a good "trail" leading between these points. The only bad feature about the walk in past years has been that part of it which carries the pedestrian over the frost boxes placed around the water main. These boxes have an inclined top which is quite steep and it is not safe for any one who is not very sure footed to walk upon them; particularly in wet weather when the clay makes the tops very slippery. In anticipation of the crowds that will take the Third avenue route to the circus tomorrow and on the Twenty-seventh the board of public works has placed plank walks over the gulleys that are crossed by these frost boxes which make a safe and easy passage.

One of the wealthiest women of our land has set aside ten million dollars to be used for the improvement of social and living conditions among the poor throughout the country. Charitable and beneficial establishments are to be organized and aid given to those already established. For the improvement of your physical condition we know of no remedy that will aid as much as will the famous Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Its supremacy has been acknowledged by many prominent physicians, and a fair trial will convince you that the above is true. When the tongue is coated, appetite poor, nerves unstrung or sleep restless, it is a splendid time to test its curative powers. Try it without any further delay. It also cures heartburn, flatulency, sour risings, headache, cramps, diarrhoea, dyspepsia, indigestion, costiveness or malarial fever.

"TEDDY BEAR."

Indian Boy is Idol of Wild West Show Men.

Little Teddy Bear, 5 years old, is the pet and pride of the Pawnee Bill Historic Wild West and Great Far East show, which will visit this city for two performances tomorrow. The youngster is a full blooded Sioux Indian, whose mother died a few hours after he opened his wondering eyes and who became an orphan a year later. A vicious horse trampled his father to death.

Pawnee Bill became the guardian of the little fellow soon after. The showman was visiting the Rosebud reservation in South Dakota when he learned the story of little Teddy Bear's hard lot. The squaw who had the boy in charge was glad to be relieved of him, and he became a member of the Pawnee Bill household. He has firmly established himself in the affections of the childless custodian and his wife.

LITTLE "TEDDY BEAR."

Little Teddy Bear spends the summer season with the big amusement institution, wandering from city to city. His winters are passed in Pawnee, Okla., which his guardian founded. He is mastering the English language under the tuition of Mrs. Gordon W. Lillie, wife of the showman.

The transition of the boy into an effete type of modern civilization is watched with curious interest by the Indian warriors of the organization, who do not approve of the proceeding, and who lure him to their wigwams for remonstrance whenever opportunity presents itself. His faith remains staunch, however, in his white guardian. Pawnee Bill has planned a college course for little Teddy Bear, and a subsequent business career in one of the many commercial enterprises in which he is interested.

The Pawnee Bill Wild West company will arrive in the city early tomorrow morning, and the grand street parade will take place at 10 o'clock, starting from the West end show grounds

RAILROADS

NEW RATES ARE READY

On July 26, which will be one week from next Friday, the new interstate rates based on the new rate laws of the several states, will go into effect. This will mean a new rate between Duluth and Chicago over the Omaha, which will probably be about $11.35.

It has not been officially announced just what this rate will be, but based on the mileage, figuring 2 cents for Minnesota, 2½ cents for Wisconsin and 2 cents for Illinois, the price of a ticket between these two points will be about that.

Around by the Twin Cities the rate will be $11.75, unless the Wisconsin Central should put in a $7 rate from St. Paul to Chicago, as threatened.

James C. Pond, general passenger agent of the Wisconsin Central, says there is no truth whatever to the report that his road intends putting such a rate into effect, and states that the Central rate between St. Paul and Chicago will be the same as announced for the other lines, or $8.75. This, plus the $3.04 rate between Duluth and the Twins, would mean $11.79 to Chicago via Minneapolis and St. Paul.

It will probably be only a very short time now before a 2-cent rate becomes effective in Wisconsin, and if the bill providing for this becomes a law, which it will as soon as the governor attaches his signature, it will mean even a lower rate from Duluth to Chicago. The through rate will be on a 2-cents-a-mile basis. The distance is 470 miles, so this would bring the rate down to $9.40, or $4.15 below the present figure of $13.55. A 2-cent law in Wisconsin would also mean a further reduction in the fare between St. Paul and Chicago, for the short route between those points passes through Wisconsin for a good part of the way.

After July 26 there will be a change in the rates between Duluth and points in all the states where there have been new rate laws passed. Up to the present time the roads have been figuring their interstate rates on the old basis of 3 cents a mile, or else selling to points within the state to persons going to more distant points, thus requiring the purchase of another ticket at the station designated on the first ticket.

Railroads have been compelled to refuse to sell interstate tickets for travel a part of the distance over their own lines and a part of the distance over some foreign line, owing to the fact that the interstate tariff sheets for guidance of all the agents had not been arranged. These tariff sheets will be ready and in the hands of agents by July 26, and the new rates will then go into effect, making it possible for local agents to sell through tickets to all points, whether over home or partly over foreign lines.

Approve Plan.

New York, July 16.—A substantial majority of the preferred stockholders of the Pere Marquette Railway company, it is announced, have approved the reorganization plan and have subscribed for their pro rata share of the new five-year 6 per cent debentures. The stockholders' protective committee has fixed Aug. 5 as the final date for receiving additional subscriptions under the agreement.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Nick Lyons, landlord, tried a new way of getting non-paying tenants out of his building yesterday, according to the allegations of the complaint, and he was arraigned before Judge Cutting this morning charged with shooting firearms in the city limits without a permit from the mayor.

Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy occupy the rooms controlled by Lyons at 228 Lake avenue south. According to Lyons, they did not pay their rent very well, and he wanted to get them out. Murphy claims that Lyons came down there and after ordering him out, began to "shoot up" the place with a revolver. As he could not find the bullet marks anywhere on the walls or floor he concluded the shots must have been blanks.

He and his wife "got out" all right, he said, but it was merely temporarily, and when the beligerent landlord had gone they returned. They are still living there, and, after Murphy had complained to the police the warrant was the result.

Lyons plead not guilty, through his attorney, A. T. Parks, and his examination was set for Thursday at 10 in the morning.

Because Ole Kehn's cows got into E. Erickson's garden there is trouble on the hillside, near Thirteenth street, near Twenty-second avenue west.

Early yesterday morning three of the Kehn cows wandered aimlessly into the Erickson garden and began munching contemplatively at some sweet and juicy beet tops therein The jangling of the bell on one of the animals awoke the owner of the garden at this juncture and he came tearing out in abbreviated attire to chase the cows from his cabbage patch. Kehn appeared on the other side of the enclosure at the same time. Erickson was exceedingly wroth at being awakened at the early hour of 5:30 and told Kehn so in no uncertain terms. He also said things about Kehn's cows and the quality of Kehn's milk, that caused trouble.

Erickson says Kehn hit him in the jaw about this time. Kehn said in court this morning that he did not. Judge Cutting has set tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock as the time to decide upon the facts in the case.

IS HELD TO THE GRAND JURY

Charles and John Peterson, the brothers who were charged with assaulting Peter Meyers on the night of July 4, cutting his throat, were arraigned before Judge Cutting this morning and given their preliminary hearing on a second degree assault charge. After a portion of the testimony was in County Attorney Stevenson withdrew the second degree assault charge against John Peterson and substituted one of third degree assault, as it was evident that he did not do the cutting or have a hand in this portion of the affray.

The testimony showed, however, that John started the fight while drunk, by hitting Meyers in the jaw. Meyers ran with the Peterson brothers after him. After running about a block he fell and Charles Peterson is said to have grabbed him and slashed his neck with a knife, only the dullness of which prevented the cut being fatal. John followed in the chase but a short distance, but admitted that while doing so he was carrying a big knife open in his hand. Judge Cutting said that the offense merited the heaviest penalty for third degree assault, so sentenced him to three months in the county jail.

Charles Peterson, who did the cutting, was bound over to the next session of the grand jury, his bail being fixed at $500.

KILLS BROTHER

Because Sister Refuses to be Bridesmaid at Wedding.

Cleveland, July 16.—In a quarrel started because his sister refused to be bridesmaid at his wedding, Carmello Amato, beat his brother with a chair, crushing in his skull and inflicting fatal injuries.

The brother, Sam Amato, 19 years old, is now in the Cleveland General hospital, dying. The police say that to hide the brother's connection with the assault members of the family smeared blood on a hatchet and left it lying beside the injured man so as to make it appear that he hurt himself while splitting kindling wood.

The police are searching for Carmello Amato, but have been unable to get any trace of him.

Carmello Amato, it is said, became enraged at his brother because of the steadfast refusal of his sister, Rose, to act as bridesmaid at his coming wedding. Carmello believed Sam had urged the girl not to accede to his request.

Chinaman Declares Detective Stole $1,000 in Raid on Place.

New York, July 16.—Frederick A. Ware, counsel for six Chinamen arrested by the police Saturday night in a raid on the Hip Sing Tong headquarters in Chinatown, declared in the Tombs court that after the headquarters detectives finished smashing desks and cracking a safe in their quest for revolvers, it was found that more than $1,000 in money and jewels had disappeared.

The detectives deny having secured any money or jewelry in the raid.

Mr. Ware says he will bring the case to the attention of Commissioner Bingham.

Five Chinamen arrested in the raid were released. Another was held for carrying a concealed weapon.

GRAPHITE FOR OIL.

Will Stop Black Grease Dripping From Aerial Bridge,

The use of pulverized graphite as a method of lubricating the trucks on the aerial bridge was put to a test yesterday and the results proved very satisfactory. City Engineer McGilvray, who suggested the experiment, believes that the scheme will prove successful and will eliminate the oil evil.

For some time the officials and passengers have been bothered considerably by the grease used on the trucks falling onto the passengers and also upon the government building. An appeal was made to the city engineer with the result that he hit upon the plan of using pulverized graphite.

The graphite is applied to the trucks by means of a little gasket which rubs against the wheels, it being released upon the wheels by a mechanical device. So far the experiment has only been tried on one truck, but if it proves successful it will be adopted altogether and new machinery will be installed.

WEST END COSTS ONLY FIVE PINS

Fred Lathrop, Aged Nine, Has a Profitable Amusement Device.

West End Youngsters Like to Ride in His Wagon.

Fred Lathrop, aged 9 years, who lives with his parents at 2004 West Superior street, is going to be president of a syndicate some day.

Just now he is pretty busy as the director general of an amusement enterprise, which is turning many pins and a few pennies from West end homes into his pockets.

Fred's device has some of the ear marks of the scenic railways one sees in the amusement parks in the East, and some of the features of the "slide for life," with which melodrama is fraught.

The equipment consists of two little wagons, a large pulley and a long rope. One wagon is moored firmly to the ground, and to this is attached the pulley. The long rope is attached to the other wagon and passes through the pulley.

When Fred gives the rope a good pull, the little red wagon at the other end starts on a mad, glad flight down the slope. Fred's first assistant general manager, conductor and motorman sits in front of the red wagon and steers, and it is also his duty to see that none of his passengers fall out.

The fare for this "daring, delightful dash" is five pins. For a penny one may secure a ticket, which entitles one to ride all day long.

Business was excellent yesterday afternoo. Little girls came from all parts of the neighborhood, laden with papers full of car fare. There is something so exhilarating about the dash down the slope that one is loath to be satisfied with one dash. The general tendency is to try several.

The receipts are big this week. The director general issues very few passes, only one or two little girls, which interest Fred, receiving them.

WILD WEST OR PICNIC?

Two Big Events to Take Place on Same Day.

Some of the West end youngsters will be between fires tomorrow. Pawnee Bill's Wild West show will be in town, and the Sunday school of the First Swedish Baptist church will hold a picnic at Fond du Lac, going up on the steamer Newsboy.

The officers of the Sunday school did not mean to place the youngsters in such a quandry, but the date for the picnic was selected some little time before Pawnee Bill's first couriers arrived in the city.

However, all of the regular pupils of the Sunday school will attend the picnic, a function they have been looking forward to for a long time. Parents are encouraging them to forget the Wild West show, and they probably will from the time the boat leaves the Twenty-first avenue dock at 9:45 tomorrow morning until it gets back again at night.

There will be all sorts of amusements, and a short program of exercises. The Sunday school will sing "America" and several other numbers. Carl Person will give a scripture reading, and the pastor of the church, Rev. A. Edstam, and A. Thoren will give ten minute addresses. Rev. Edstam will take for his topic, "Good in Nature," and Mr. Thoren will speak on "The Boys' Society."

West End Shortrails.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wallin chaperoned a party of West end young people on an excursion to Two Harbors Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peterson of 1909 West Second street, are rejoicing in the birth of a daughter.

Carl J. Hagberg and family are camping on Spirit Lake this week.

Richard Broderick was down from Hibbing Sunday.

Alfred Swedberg has as his guest, his mother, who is here from Moorhead.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church held its regular meeting in the church parlors last evening.

Edwin Oredson has returned from the southern part of the state, where he has been visiting friends and relatives for the past two weeks.

The Sunday school of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will hold its picnic Thursday at Fond du Lac.

Rev. R. J. Mooney is making preparations for the picnic at Fond du Lac, July 30, of the Sunday schools of St. Luke's and Holy Apostles' churches.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Thompson and son of Deer Park, Wis., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Anderson.

Dan Mealey had one hand severely crushed in an accident at the Minnesota Milling & Manufacturing company's plant Saturday. One finger was cut off entirely and all of the other fingers on the hand were badly mangled.

Joseph Ricker and daughter, Miss Anna, have started for London, England. Miss Ricker will take a course in a London conservatory of music before returning.

HURT IN OWN PARLOR.

Mrs. Herman Oelrichs Severely Injured by Falling of Cabinet.

Newport, R. I., July 16.—Mrs. Herman Oelrichs came out with a badly bruised face and a black eye and told her inquiring friends that she had been nearly killed by a heavy piece of furniture falling upon her. A carved cabinet which rested upon a pedestal in front of which Mrs. Oelrichs was sitting was blown over by the wind and before she could dodge it, it hit her on the right side of her head and face and rendered her nearly unconscious.

LUMBER DEALERS

With Retail Yards in Northwest May be Sued

By Federal District Attorney, to Break Up Combine.

St. Paul, Minn., July 16.—Information secured yesterday by the department of the United States district attorney at St. Paul will probably result in suit being brought to disband the organization throughout the Northwest of retail lumbermen who dot the country with yards at practically ever town.

The prosecution will hang on what has become known as "the little black book" by the use of which the organization is said to be rapidly driving out, not only the small lumber yards which are not affiliated with, and living up to the demands of the organization, but to be actually driving to the wall some of the big concerns which endeavor to do business by mail and sell to the small independents who are not in the trust agreement.

"The little black book" is just what its name designates; a small black-covered pamphlet sent out, unsigned, to members of the alleged trust, containing a list of concerns the retailers are to attack, and explaining how the recipient should act to do his part. The plan is very original and astonishing in its results.

The book instructs the receiver to get the different members of his family, his freinds, neighbor merchants, and in fact one and all with whom he has any influence, to follow a compaign which cripples the concern attacked by causing them an immense amount of postage and clerical and printing expense with no returns therefor. All these parties are to follow five steps ordered in the "little black book," as follows:

1. Send for catalogs and lists in response to advertising of the black-listed company.
2. Send a list of material for the company to give an estimate on.
3. Send lettels asking questions requiring special reply, remembering that all letters will be answered by printed replies, if labor of writing special replies can be avoided.
4. Send for samples of roofing.
5. Send for paint color card.

It is alleged to be through this means of piling work upon the offending concerns that the Waterman-Hunter company of Minneapolis, was recently forced to go into the hands of a receiver. This company received 20,000 letters since last March, in vast part evidently being in response to the influence of "the little black book." The company found out the scheme being worked against it, but had no way of being able to sort out the comparatively few genuine orders and letters of inquiry, from the bogus ones which swamped them.

"The little black book" gives other instructions in addtion to the above. It advises the retailers to study the price lists and catalogues they receive from the houses they are attacking. To then meet these prices where they can. To cultivate "stock stuff" sales among their customers, for this class of material can be bought cheaper. To join with retailers in neighboring towns in buying lumber stock, so as to always be able to buy by the carload, for otherwise they cannot buy at a sufficiently-low figure to meet the big enemy being attacked.

"The little black book" gives a list of concerns to be attacked by the bogus letters. Those in the edition of the "little black book" of recent issue, all Chicago houses, are for mill work only. They are :Mill Work & Supply company, Schaller, Hoerr & Co.; for lumber and mill work, Georgo Lumber company, John Sprye Lumber company, Chandler Lumber company, Street, Chatfield & Co., White River Lumber company, Riverside Lumber company, Chicago House Wrecking company, South Side Lumber company.

Not only is the organization of retail lumber men behind the little black book likely to be proceded against as an illegal trust, but bringing actions against the individuals writing the fake letters, for fraud in the use of the United States mails, is being considered. Special agents of the federal government are now said to be covering the Northwest working the whole matter up in form to bring legal actions.

QUIT WHITE BREAD.

Could Not Get Strength From It.

A Yorkstate minister, who is interested not only in the spiritual welfare of his congregation, but in their physical well-being, says:

"I can now do an immense amount of work and feel no fatigue, for the reason that I am using Grape-Nuts food and have quit coffee entirely and am using Postum Food Coffee in its place.

"Myself and family are all greatly improved in health. We have largely abandoned the use of white bread. Upwards of twenty-five persons have changed their diet, on my recommendation. It is gladly given, because I know, from personal experience, whereof I speak."

It is a well known fact that white bread is almost entirely composed of starch and this is difficult of digestion by many people, particularly those who have weak intestinal digestion. The result of the use of much white bread is a lack of brain and nervous power to do mental work and it also creates intestinal troubles, because the excess of starch ferments in the intestines and makes the condition right for the growth of microbes, whereas Grape-Nuts food contains the needed starch, but in a predigested form. That is, it is transformed into grape-sugar in the process of manufacture, and delivered in the packages, ready cooked, and in such shape that it is immediately assimilated without hard work of the digestive organs.

The food also contains the delicate particles of phosphate of potash which, combined with albumen, is used by Nature to make the gray matter in the cells of the brain and the nerve centers throughout the body, in order to give strength and ability to stand long and continuous work. DOCTOR BY DAY,

He Admits That He is a Burglar at Night.

Coatesville, Pa., July 16.—Having led a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde existence for more than a year, stealing by night and practicing as an oculist by day, Dr. Benjamin Holbrook of West Brandywine township, has confessed to many small burglaries, and is now in the Westchester jail.

As the oculist is well connected and seems to be truly penitent, and as he has made a clean breast of his misdoings, the Pennsylvania railroad's detectives who succeeded in drawing the mask from the man, have decided to ask for a light sentence. So the doctor will appear before next quarter sessions, admit his strange double life and throw himself upon the mercy of the court.

It is said that Holbrook, while ostensibly living a most respectable life as a struggling young practitioner, is known to have committed at least eight burglaries.

Holbrook kept his own horse and buggy. At night he drove long distances from home, tied his rig in the woods, and then went forth as a burglar.

It pays to advertise in The Herald. Ask Bayha.

PAYS VISIT TO IRELAND

T. J. Monahan Says the Country Was Never More Prosperous.

Dublin Exposition Will be Great Thing for the Island.

T. J. Monahan, district manager of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance company and well known in this city, has just returned from a several months' visit at his old home in Ireland. Dunring his absence Mr. Monahan not only visited his old home, but traveled extensively through Ireland and incidentally visited the Dublin Industrial exposition.

Since he immigrated to this country in his boyhood, Mr. Monahan has made three trips to Ireland. On this trip he found the Irish people of all classes in better condition in every way than ever before. He was much pleased with the improvement and says that Ireland now has a chance for better things than ever before. Since Mr. Monahan's last trip across the Atlantic nineteen years had elapsed.

"I traveled through the greater part of Ireland, especially in the western and southern parts of the country," said Mr. Monahan to The Herald today, "and I never saw the country or its people looking so well and prosperous Of course, many of the younger people are leaving the island in large numbers, bound for America, but there is less of it than formerly, and I think the young people now have a good chance to get ahead if they stay right in their own country.

"All of the young people have their eyes and hopes fixed on America, and it is wonderful how well informed they seemed to be concerning the United States. There is not very much agitation concerning home rule nowadays. The people know that it is yet a long distance in the future. As in all other countries there are, of course, some people whose condition is one of poverty, but the majority of them are prosperous and progressive.

"The immense estates, which were formerly owned and operated by a few wealthy landlords, are now being cut up into small farms and sold. It is this which the Irish people have been trying to bring about for a good many years and they will undoubtedly be more contented under English sovereignty now that it has been partly brought about.

"Dublin is a wonderful city, full of beautiful parks and magnificent buildings. While there, I put in a couple of days at the big Dublin exposition, but as it is not yet entirely completed, it did not look quite as well as I had expected. What there was of it, however, showed great promise of a great industrial fair, and by this time it is probably in full swing. It is well known and expected over there, however, that the exposition will prove to be a financial failure to the promotors, although it will be of vast benefit to Ireland and her people."

WEST DULUTH

O'BRIEN IS RELEASED

Proprietor of Elco Theater Refused to Push Case.

Information of Insanity Has Been Filed Against O'Brien.

Facing an examination as to his sanity, James D. O'Brien left the West Duluth lockup yesterday afternoon, free. Charles Ellison, who made complaint against O'Brien for breaking into the Elco theater and carrying off parts of a moving picture machine, refused to prosecute and that case was accordingly dropped, though O'Brien was forced to pay a fine of $25 and costs for drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

The case is rather a queer one. O'Brien was arrested Saturday night, while on a "tear" charged with breaking into the Elco, of which he was formerly manager, and taking parts of the moving picture machine. He claimed he wasn't in West Duluth at the time of the theft and could easily prove an alibi. At the same time, he contended that the moving picture machine was his, and had not been included in the sale of the Elco. Yesterday morning, he stated that Ellison had found the parts of the machine behind a curtin in the theater. Yesterday Ellison appeared at the time of the examination and stated that O'Brien's brother had made good the loss by furnishing pieces of a moving picture machine, similar to those which had been taken.

He refused to prosecute and the burglar charge was dropped, one of drunkenness and disorderly conduct being substituted. O'Brien pleaded guilty to that and was fined $25 and costs. His brother paid.

Yesterday, O'Brien's mother filed a request for his examination, claiming that he is of unsound mind. It was thought the request would be granted immediately, but a postponement was asked and granted, and the examination will not be held for a few days yet. In the meantime, O'Brien is free to do as he pleases. The case attracted considerable attention in West Duluth, as the parties involved are well known about town.

PRISONER TO BE FREED.

Modern Jean Valjean, Who Once Escaped, Will Quit Cell Friday.

Leavenworth, Kan., July 16.—William January, known as Charles W. Anderson, and often compared to Jean Valjean, the United States penitentiary inmate for whose pardon 40,000 Missourians petitioned, will leave prison Friday, after having been a prisoner since April 20, on which day he was returned here from Kansas City.

January was sentenced for breaking into a postoffice. He was convicted at Stillwater, Okla., Dec. 10, 1895, and his full term would have expired in 1899. In October, 1898, he and another convict escaped. Last April another ex-convict named Barnes "snitched" to the Kansas City police and caused January to be recaptured. January had married and become a model citizen in Kansas City.

Members of the Missouri house of representatives, the Kansas City board of trade, the chamber of commerce, labor organizations and others signed the petition, and President Roosevelt recommended that the sentence be commuted at once.

Attorney General Bonaparte recommended as a compromise that the sentence be commuted to take effect three months from the date of his rearrest. This was approved.

A Kansas City merchant wishes to start him in the tailoring business; and he has been offered a job selling coffees and teas, at which he was successful after he escaped from prison.

ELECTIONS DRAW NEAR

Three Directors Will be Elected to School Board.

Contest on Between L. A. Barnes and Dr. Graham.

Saturday is school election day, when the voters of the city will elect three directors to the school board, to serve for three years.

The terms of Directors Moe, Washburn and Hendricks expire and Messrs. Moe and Washburn are candidates for re-election, both of them consenting to run only after much pressure had been brought to bear by their friends.

Director Hendricks refused to allow his name to be considered as a candidate for re-election and a contest is on between L. A. Barnes and Dr. David Graham for the place made vacant by his retirement. Both are from West Duluth and that section of the city has always been considered entitled to a member of the board. Mr. Hendricks lives in West Duluth.

Director Washburn resides in Hunter's Park, and inasmuch as he is the only candidate from that section of the city and has been a very valuable member of the board throughout his term, there is little doubt that the voters will send him back again.

The names of J. J. Moe, C. W. F. Hegg and Samuel Nixon also appear on the ballots. Voters may write on the names of other persons they choose, but more than three men cannot be voted for.

Mr. Moe is a resident of the West end and if the sentiment of the voters that that section of the city is entitled to a member still prevails, he will probably be re-elected. Mr. Moe has done good service during his three years' term and is the only candidate for the West end.

C. W. F. Hegg is a resident of the central part of the city and so is Samuel Nixon. Both of them are well known. Mr. Hegg's candidacy was urged by the Trades and Labor assembly.

All of the candidates have a chance of election, but they are directors-at-large and it really makes no difference where they reside, although it has been the idea of the voters to have every part of the city represented.

A large vote is exected this year. Sometimes only a few voters turn out at school elections, while at others, there is a widespread interest. Under a new law, enacted during the last session of the legislature, the polls are open for a longer time and more citizens given an opportunity to cast a vote.

The polls will open at 6 a. m. and will close at 7 p. m. The polling places are designated in a notice in The Herald this evening and will be given every evening until election day.

INSTANT DEATH GIMBICK'S FATE

Severin Martinson Also Meets Violent Death in Mine.

Marquette, Mich., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Their drill coming into contact with a blast that had missed fire, Reuben Gimbick, an Austrian miner, met with instant death in the Great Western mine at Crystal Falls, and his partner, Charles Lund, a Finn, was so badly injured that it is believed his eye-sight is permanently destroyed. Men on the previous shift had bored and filled with powder a number of holes, and it was supposed that all of the charges had been successfully exploded. It is evident, however, that one of the blasts was still intact when Gimbick and Lund started work, and when their drill struck the hidden mine the disastrous explosion followed immediately. Lund is a married man.

At Republic, Marquette county, Severin Martinson, a miner, employed at the West Republic workings of the Cambria Steel company, is dead in consequence of his own fatal miscalculation. A number of blasts had been prepared, and it was the duty of the young man to discharge them. A premature explosion resulted, and Martinson's body was blown to pieces.

Wealthy New Yorker Marries Woman Who Recently Was Divorced.

Rochester, N. Y., July 16.—Charles J. Townsend, a well-known member of the New York stock exchange before his removal to Lockport, and Mrs. Carrie E. Wolcott, who went to Dakota a year ago to obtain a divorce from her husband, Dr. Edwin H. Wolcott, one of the most prominent physicians in the state, were quietly married last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Wolcott's brother in Chicago by Rev. J. L. Jackson. Townsend and the doctor were boyhood friends, and their friendship continued until a little more than a year ago. Dr. Wolcott offered no objection to Mrs. Wolcott obtaining a divorce, but, on the other hand, is said to have facilitated the matter for her, realizing that it was impossible for them to reconcile their differences. Townsend is very wealthy.

Boyle, Closed Up by the Police, Will Contest Mayor's Veto, McKeon's Ruling on Time Clause is Considered Questionable.

Was the mayor's veto on the Boyle and Boetcher licenses last night submitted in time to be operative?

Charles Boyle says it was not, and the unprejudiced ones who have considered the subject seem to be about evenly divided on the question.

A glance at the rather indefinite wording of the ordinance will give the reason for this indecision. It provides as follows:

"Sec. 58. Every order, resolution or ordinance which shall pass the common council in conformity to its rules, shall, before it becomes operative and not sooner than twenty-four hours after its passage be presented to the mayor of the city for his approval or rejection. If he approves thereof he shall sign and deposit the same in the office of the city clerk for reservation, and notify the common council of the fact; but, if not approved, he shall return it, with his objections, to the common council, and such objections shall thereupon be entered at large upon the journal thereof, and the common council shall then proceed to reconsider the same. If after such reconsideration it be approved and passed by a two-thirds vote of the members of the common council it shall become operative notwithstanding the objections of said mayor; but in all such cases the votes shall be determined by yeas and nays taken immediately without discussion, and the names of the persons voting for or against said matter shall be entered on the journals of the common council.

"If any such order, resolution or ordinance shall not be returned by the mayor with his signature to the city clerk's office within four days after it shall have been presented to him, or shall not be returned to the common council as aforesaid, or to the clerk, with the objections of the mayor, the same shall become operative in a like manner as if he had signed and approved the same."

Meaning Doubtful.

And the question is, just what does it mean? Does the last paragraph intend to provide that if returned to the clerk the mayor may have but four days to do it in, and leave him free to report to the council at any time it pleases him? This is what T. J. McKeon told the council that it meant last night. This is what the mayor says it must mean, because, he says, the charter provides that there shall be no previous discussion, and if he filed the communication last week the council members would have had access to it and could have discussed it, thus preventing the snap judgment which the mayor desired, and the charter provides.

On the other hand, it has been pointed out that if Mr. McKeon's construction is correct the mayor, while limited to four days time in which to submit the veto to the city clerk, has an unlimited time to submit it if directed to the common council. This, it is claimed, could not have been the intention of the charter commission.

Former Opinion Differs.

During the term of office of Mayor T. W. Hugo the question of this ordinance came up, and City Attorney Mitchell gave Mr. Hugo an opinion on the subject which was exactly opposed to that submitted by Mr. McKeon last night. He stated in no uncertain terms that four days was the limit, and that if the chief executive delayed a longer time than that, the veto would not count for anything.

Boyles' saloon was open until noon today, when an officer visited the place and warned him that if he did not close up at once he would be liable to arrest for operating without a license. His former license expired on July 1, but he has been operating up to this time, as is customary while such matters are pending. The place was closed at once.

Mr. Boyle has employed Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell as his attorneys in the action, and will bring mandamus proceedings to force the mayor to sign his license pursuant to an effective resolution of the city council.

What action the Fitger people, who are interested in the Boettcher, West Duluth, license, will take in the matter is not known as yet. One thing is certain, that under the present condition the courts will settle the rather doubtful veto question once and for all.

Are YOU Satisfied With Your Work and Income?

Are you a worker and willing to work for an income? If so, it might pay you to read on. No one will deny that there are a good many men who are making good salaries selling life insurance. They did not, however, become capable all at once. They just took hold, hung on, worked hard, and now have lucrative positions. The demand for life insurance is certain to increase. It is a common sense proposition and only needs to be put to common sense people in a common sense way. The recent changes in this business will only serve to make it more popular when they are understood. This spells opportunity for someone.

Just now there is an opening for the right man to represent a great insurance company. A liberal contract will be made for work in this section or elsewhere. It is not desired to attract those who are looking for a snap, or who have no persistence. If this work could be done without effort and by everybody, it would pay no one to do it. The fact that it is not dead easy is the reason it pays those who can do it so well.

WOMEN'S WOES.

Duluth Women Are Finding Relief at Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. Letitie Cole of 407 Mesaba avenue, Duluth, Minn., says: "I am pleased to repeat what I have said again and again, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. Five or six years ago, when suffering from disorders of the kidneys, which had become aggravated by over-exertion and severe colds, I looked about in vain for a long time for relief, trying many different remedies which were recommended to me, but not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills did I find the long-sought-for benefit. The first dose or two helped me, and I continued taking them until the heavy, aching through my back and kidneys was gone, and the kidney secretions had become natural. The treatment improved my health in every way, and the results have been permanent."

BOY NEARLY DROWNS,

But His Mother Revives Him by Shingle Spanking.

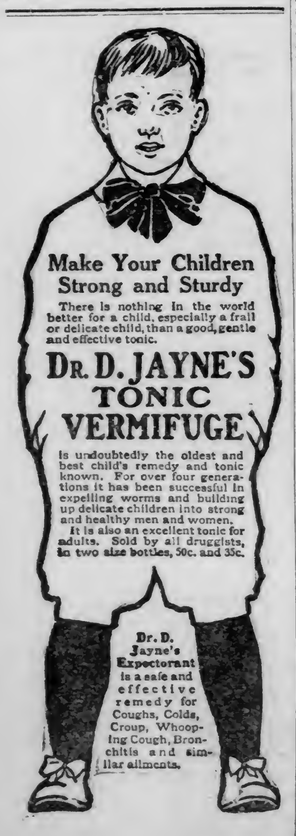

Atlantic City, N. J., July 16.—Ten-year-old Willie Scott of Philadelphia, was saved from drowning only to accumulate a spanking after he had ventured too far into the surf.

Willie and another lad were paddling in the shallow water along the beach for a time, but becoming more venturesome, started out to deep water. Willie's mother called to the boys to come back, but they paid no heed and kept on until they were caught by the current and swept into a deep hole. Life guards who heard the children scream reached them with a boat in time to save their lives. Both boys were partly unconscious when brought ashore.

Willie's companion was revived by first aid treatment administered by life guards, but Willie was not so fortunate. Grasping the youngster from the guard, Mrs. Scott reached for a handy piece of driftwood of shingle formation and laying him across her knees, administered a "treatment" that brought the boy back to consciousness in record time.

The Doctor Away from Home When Most Needed.

People are often very much disappointed to find that their family physician is away from home when they most need his services. Diseases like cramp colic and cholera morbus require prompt treatment, and have in many instances proven fatal before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. The right way is to keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. No physician can prescribe a better medicine for these diseases. By having it in the house you escape much pain and suffering and risk. Buy it now; it may save life. For sale by all druggists.

MAYOR USES HIS VETO TO CLAMP DOWN THE LID

Returns Boyle and Boetcher Licenses to Council Unsigned.

Two Bids Received for Issue of Park Bonds.

The council last evening:

Sustained the mayor's veto in regard to the Boyle and Boetcher saloon licenses.

Cited Henry Miller, licensee of lid-lifting saloon, to appear before them next Monday night to show cause why his license should not be revoked.

Passed an ordinance defining the rights of the city and the Great Northern to the north approach to the interstate bridge.

Put over for deliberation an ordinance granting the railway company the right to connect the bridge with the present trestle work on Rice's Point with an elevated trestle.

Received bids from N. J. Upham & Co. of this city and from W. J. Hayes & Co. of Clevelan for the $50,000 issue of park bonds.

Directed the appointment of a committee to consider necessary improvements for next year.

Mayor Cullum swung his ax with a vengeance last evening and as a result two saloonkeepers who were granted licenses by the council a week ago are probably permanently out of business so far as this city is concerned. Incidentally the chief executive, in his communication took a gentle rap at the lid, pointing out that the city's parks were "bound to suffer from the bottled trade" and mentioning the complete insufficiency of the police force to cope with the problem of closing things up as tightly as they should be.

The two saloon keepers who came under the mayor's displeasure are, James Bayle and Julius Boetcher. The Boyle license application, which has formerly been taken out by Charles Boyle, was made to James Bayle this year. There was some discussion a week ago on this license but it was finally granted by a vote of 11 to 40.

The Mayor's Statement.

The mayor disliked this method of proceedure and set forth his reasons for this dislike as follows:

"In returning the resolution hereto attached to your honorable body without my approval, I beg leave to state my reasons so that my position may be fairly understood.

"Those interested in the Sunday closing of saloons have been agitating the enforcement of this law, and while not confining themselves to this particular law, yet this had been the vital question over and above all others, and they succeded in calling into action powers that have undoubted authority, whose authority it would be absurd to question. The justice or the wisdom of this action, according to our views, have nothing to do with the case.

"The saloons must close on Sunday. A great majority of those in the liquor business have accepted the situation and have shown a willingness to comply with the order in good faith out of respect to the mandate of the attorney general of the state and in a spirit of fairness to those who have shown a disposition to abide by the law.

"I conceive it my duty to vigorously enforce this law, if properly backed up by the council. The closing of the saloons on Sunday throws an unusual amount of work on the police force. Innumerable methods of disposing of liquor will be tried and all the ingenious schemes for operating 'blind pigs' and what is known as the 'boot-leg vendor,' and all the numerous places where liquors may be substituted for other beverages will have to be watched.

"The parks and secluded places will suffer from the bottle traffic and the police will have a difficult time in coping with this trouble. The funds on hand will not justify an enlargement of the police force and we cannpot place sentinels at the side doors of the saloons in the city to ferret out those avoiding the law; but notwithsauding this the law must be enforced and the responsibility rests largely with me.

"I promised myself when this order was given, to pay special attention to the saloons on Sunday; that I would so impress upon the mind of the saloonkeeper the necessity of complying with the order that others might be discouraged from attempting anything of the kind. I did not choose Mr. Boyle—he seemingly chose himself—and I do not propose to alter my policy in this regard simply because he happens to be the offender.

"I should have done the same with any other. Yours,

"M. B. CULLUM."

Raises Technical Point.

As soon as Clerk Cheadle had finished reading the communication Alderman Shartel jumped to his feet and raised the question as to whether the mayor's veto had been received in time to make it effective. After some discussion of the ordinance it was referred to Assistant City Attorney T. J. McKeon, who gave a decided opinion that the veto was received in time, inasmuch as it was addressed to the common council and this was the first meeting of the common council since the passage of the objectionable ordinance. Had it been addressed to the city clerk, he said, it would have had to be submitted within four days after the motion had been submitted to him for signature.

The ordinance requires that in the question of passing a motion over the head of the mayor, no discussion is allowed so the question was put immediately, on the resolution granting the license to Boyle. Though the vote was 11 to 4 for the resolution a week ago, the license faired poorly last night and the best it got was an even break, 7 to 7, Aldermen Fourbister and Burgess being absent. Those voting for the license in spite of the mayor's veto were Aldermen Fillatrault, Jordan, Mueller, Ribenack, Shartel, Staples and Tessman.

The Boetcher License.

The mayor's communication setting forth his reasons for refusing to sign the license granting Julius Boetcher the right to operate a saloon at 27 South Fifty-sixth avenue west was as follows:

"My reason for so doing is not because this is in West Duluth, but because there are five saloons in that immediate neighborhood, and because it is reported that there is an exceedingly rough element there and that this additional saloon would probably cause additional trouble; that it is off the main thoroughfare, with numerous homes in the immediate neighborhood, and it is protested against by the surrounding residents and opposed by the councilmen from that end of the city."

The only members of the council who stood by the liquor men in the face of the mayor's arguments by voting for the measure when the question was put were Aldermen Jordan, Meuller, Shartel, Staples and Tessman. The other nine voted against it upon reconsideration. This shows an almost complete revision on the part of the council in view of the mayor's displeasure, as the vote stood ten to five in favor of the license on this issue a week ago.

Miller Cited to Appear.

After the mayor had been sustained in his veto action, Alderman Moore proposed a resolution citing Henry E. Miller to appear before the council on next Monday evening to show cause wherefor his license to operate a saloon at 113 St. Croix avenue should not be revoked. Miller is the licensee for the saloon operated by Peterson & Erickson, which was kept open last Sunday in defiance of the lid. Peterson was convicted of lid lifting and fined $25.50 in municipal court yesterday afternoon. Alderman Moore reminded them of their action in the Bayle case and said that in a spirit of fairness no other course was open to them. The motion passed unanimously.

The ordinances granting to the Eastern Minnesota, alias the Great Northern Railway company, the right to construct an elevated trestle from the end of the interstate bridge to the intersection of the present trestle work of the company and Maple street, and defining the rights of the city and the railway company to the north approach to the interstate bridge provoked considerable discussion, and one of them was put over until next week.

The ordinance defining the rights to the approach was the first to come up. Alderman Wilson, chairman of the ordinance committee, introduced it briefly by saying that the railway company had yielded everything the city wanted in this connection and the ordinance was a highly satisfactory one. By its terms the company waives its claims to a reimbursement of $5,300, which it has hitherto been claiming from the city, pursuant to an agreement made at the time the company constructed the approach. The company waives its contention that the extension of Arthur avenue condemned by the city council some time ago, is not a street. The company agrees to keep the wooden approach forever in good shape and to build a new approach whenever it shall seem advisable to the common council that such approach shall be built. This ordinance was deemed satisfactory and was passed without a dissenting vote.

The second ordinance granting the company the right to utilize certain streets and avenues on Lower Garfield avenue for its connecting trestle work, contained the following important provisions. The work is to be completed by Sept. 1, 1908. The railroad is to pay assessments like a private citizen on improvements abutting its property, the clause providing this being practically the same as in the Wisconsin Central ordinance. The provision providing for the use of the trestle work by other roads states that any company which may desire to use the trestle to gain access to the city may have access to the same upon reasonable terms, such terms to be decided by the railroad and warehouse commission.

In this form, said Mr. Wilson, the ordinance was highly satisfactory to the railroad people. Alderman Haven then took the floor and said that he was not in favor of granting this privilege unless the company would agree to pay a share of the assessment for paving Garfield avenue when that shall be paved. He said that they could be made to do it and that this would help materially in solving the knotty problem. The alderman did not care he said whether the Great Northern owned any property there or not. Since the city was giving them something, they should give something in return, he contended. He therefore offered an amendment providing that they should pay a portion of the cost of paving Garfield avenue below the south end of the viaduct over the Northern Pacific tracks.

There was considerable discussion over this. Alderman Wilson reminding the counti that the position of the city was not so strong in regard to demanding concessions from the railway companies as it was at the time of the Wisconsin Central fight, in view of a supreme court ruling since that time which gives railways the indisputable right to condemn a right-of-way into a city should they be unable to secure favorable terms from the council of that city.

Alderman McEwen's motion to lay over one week was passed and the matter will come up for consideration next week. John Murphy, attorney for the Great Northern at the Head of the Lakes, was present at the meeting and hinted at condemnation proceedings unless suitable terms were received.

Two bids were received for the park bonds last evening. One was from N. J. Upham & Co. of Duluth, who agreed to pay par value for the bonds with interest to date of delivery, the time and place of such delivery to be determined later.

W. J. Hayes & Son of Cleveland, Ohio, were the other bidders. They agreed to take the bonds at par, according to the provisions of the issuing ordinance, but demanded $2,500 to pay attorney's fees and other expenses incidental to the deal. Both bids were submitted to the committee on finance without action.

The needs of the city of Duluth in regard to improvements which must be paid out of the city treasury and cannot be assessed against nearby property owners, will be fairly considered for next year, according to a plan advanced by Alderman Haven last evening. He offered a resolution providing that the chair appoint a committee of three to consider the imperative needs of the city what improvements are to be provided year and to report to the council prior to Aug. 20, its recommendations as to what improvemnts are to be provided for in the tax levy.

All improvements desired will be submitted to them for consideration, and it is hoped that by this means only the most necessary and deserving improvements will be provided for.

As the result of a petition with about fifty signers on the list asking that some action be taken in regard to the dangerous and inflammable condiion of the Omaha depot, now used as a place for the storage of oil by the Cornplanter Oil company, Alderman Haven introduced a resolution instructing the city attorney to proceed against the Cornplanter Oil company for storing more than five barrels of oil in the place at one time.

The board of public works submitted the petition for the paving of Twelfth avenue east, with its recommendation that the work be done, but after being referred to the committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks, no further action was taken last evening. There may be a fight on this proposition next week. No action was taken on the petition from the county commissioners asking for a discontinuance of the Fourth avenue west paving. This will probably be disregarded. Two smaller sewer jobs were ordered.

An amendment to the cement sidewalk ordinance was introduced which so changes the measure as not to make it imperative to construct cement walks on streets with rough stone gutters.

This, of course, does not hold when the street is paved, or when it, by special enactment, has been placed in the cement district. It is simply meant to elliminate streets which are gravelled and not otherwise improved.

An extension of the time for the completion of the paving on Greysolon road was granted by the city council last evening, at the request of the Barber Asphalt company, the contractors. The Greysolon Road company submitted a communication agreeing recommending the extension and there was no opposition. The job must now be completed by Sept. 1 of this year.

A lengthy ordinance defining the rights of electric companies on the streets of Duluth and providing for supervision and examination by city electricians was submitted last evening and given its first reading; referred to the committee on ordinances. It has been drawn up by Supt. Jennings and is a decidedly lengthy document.

Digesto

MALT EXTRACT

Like the Famous Hamm's Beer it

"Leads them All"

In placing the thousandth and first Malt Extract on the market, it has been our aim to arrive at something better than just an ordinary extract of malt. There is a very strong demand for a malt which not only contains all the vitalizing elements of the various ingredients in the highest degree, but one that is palatable as well.

In Digesto we have evolved a perfect Malt Extract. It is composed of the highest grade of Imported Hops, the choicest selections of Barley and pure Artisian Water. In the brewing of Digesto, we have overcome that sweet taste which is objectionable in nearly all Malt Extracts, and have produced an extract so pleasant to the taste and so beneficial in the results obtained from its use that a success, fully as great as that attained by the famous Hamm's Beer, is assured.

The audience which greeted the Mack-Leone Stock company at the Lyceum last night in Nat Goodwin's former comedy, "When We Were Twenty-one," is ample evidence that this very excellent theatrical organization has made good in Duluth in the fullest sense of the term.

When Manager Marshall made arrangements for bringing the Mack-Leone people to the city he was somewhat dubious of results, in view of the fact that stock hasn't played with very good success here in the past, and in view of the further fact that this company was virtually unknown here up to last week. All doubt, however, has now given way to pleased conviction that the attraction will be a success from all points of view, for the high-class plays offered, and the high order of merit of the people taking part in them, have taken hold of the popular fancy, and good houses are the result thus early in the game. The management hardly hoped to come out even on the money proposition for possibly the first two weeks, but so popular have the productions been from the beginning that even now a comfortable margin is left after running expenses are paid, and the popularity is rapidly increasing.

"When We Were Twenty-one" is a delightful comedy ably produced. All the parts are well taken. Interest centers in a love affair in which Richard Carewe and Phyllis Ericsson are involved. Carewe is something over 40 years of age, while Phyllis is a young and very charming woman. Carewe does not even suspect that he is loved until the close of the last act, but the girl is sure of her love for the man and of his love for her almost from the start, despite the fact that she is engaged to marry Richard Miles, who happens to be only 21 years old, and engaged to marry an actress as well as Phyllis.

Miles is an orphan, left in charge of Carewe and three old cronies by the father, and it is through the wishes of Carewe that the engagement of the young people is brought about. No love is mixed in the affair, so when it is broken off, without the older man knowing it, it is more of a relief than anything else to the two people most directly interested. The efforts of Carewe and his friends to save Miles, a very likeable young chap, despite his flighty fancies and love for a good time, furnish material for several good scenes.

Willard Mack appears to fine advantage as Richard Carewe. His work is characterized by an easy naturalness. His popularity with the audience was attested last night by numerous curtain calls. Miss Maude Leone makes a very attractive Phyllis, and her great cleverness as an actress is given ample proof in the production. Frank Tobin appears as Miles, and does remarkably well in the part. He plays with excellent effect, and the evident sincerity of his work makes him one of the most popular men in the company. Miss Agnes Bilal does good work in the character of Kara Glynesk, the actress in the case. She is exceptionally good, in fact. The other parts are all in able hands. The company is well balanced.

"When We Were Twenty-one" will be the attraction tonight, tomorrow night and Wednesday matinee. It is well worth while.

GOOD VAUDEVILLE BILL.

Bijou First Nighters Approve of This Week's Entertainment.

Those patrons of the Bijou who took in the performances last evening found much to praise in the bill which will be given there during the week. The program is well balanced and should draw crowds as large as any that has been given.

The Fryers have what they call a "smart set act." It is not quite clear why it should be given that title, but it makes no difference for the turn is worth seeing. "Lazy Liz," the girl dancer, executes some clever steps.

Barney Williams, a card manipulator with a fund of comedy, makes a hit, and Claus and Radcliffe have a one-act play called "Ikey's Reception," which is above the ordinary.

Frank and Myrtle Chamberlain are Wild West troupers, having a lasso act which is very good indeed. Herman La-Fleur slings the illustrated song, "My Southern Girl," and the moving pictures are a hit.

The White City.

With every day that passes, the crowds at the White City are becoming larger and they are going away very much pleased with the entertainment that is being furnished them. Every week sees an improvement in the free attractions and with each day that passes some new improvement is made on the grounds. The free attractions this week are very good, consisting of the Steiner brothers on the aerial bars, and Gus Henderson, who does a comedy rube act on the bounding rope. The old plantation show in the theater is making a big hit. An old time darkey show is given, consisting of songs, dances and monologues, and concluding with a funny after piece of life on the plantation before the war. It is a show that pleases both the young and the old and is well worth seeing.

SPECIALIST

IN DISEASES OF MEN.

The Neglect of Private Diseases

A Stitch in Time Saves Nine.

Many men have been made miserable by the unfortunate contracting of some poisonous special disease which, through neglect or improper treatment, has completely undermined and shattered the physical strength and mental faculties. No greater mistake can be made than to consider lightly the first evidence of the introduction of any private disease into your system, or to neglect the first symptoms of Nervous Debility, caused by improper and unnatural habits, excesses, dissipation, etc.

Such indifferences and neglect of the first symptoms are responsible for thousands of human wrecks, failures in life and business. Men! why take such desperate chances? The manifestations of the first symptoms of any disease or weakness should be a warning for you to take prompt steps to safeguard your future life and happiness. You should carefully avoid all uncertain, experimental, dangerous or half-way treatment, for upon the first treatment depends whether you will be promptly restored to health again, with all taint of the poisonous disease removed from your system, or whether your disease will be allowed to become chronic and subject you to future recurrences of the disease, with the various resulting complications, etc.

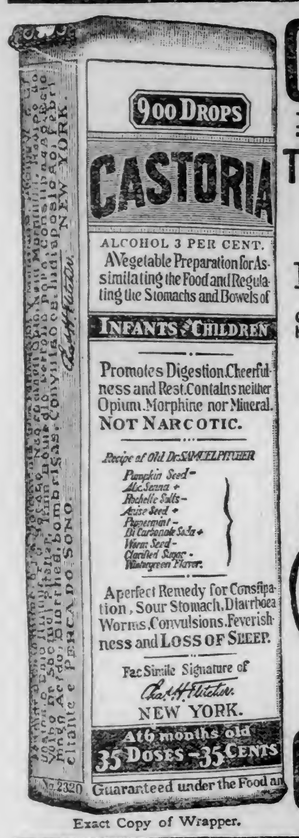

One consultation with us may change your whole life. Delays are dangerous.

If we could but see and treat all men when the first symptoms show themselves there would soon be little need for specialists in chronic diseases, and there would be few men seeking a rejuvenating of their physical, mental and sexual powers, and there would be none marked with the indelible stamp of constitutional Syphilis; and the sufferers from Prostatitis, Varicocele, Gleet, Kidney and Bladder Diseases, would be reduced to a minimum.

The Progressive Medical Association offers every afflicted man the care and attention of a skilled specialist in men's diseases, and a sure cure. Consultation free and confidential. Office hours 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. Sundays 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. If you cannot call write Dept. A.

RIGHT OF EXCLUSIVE AGENT TO INJUNCTIVE RELIEF.—The right of an exclusive agent for New England of a Jamestown Exposition hotel to an injunction against a competitor who has induced the hotel corporation to allow him also to act as its agent in New England is upheld by the Massachusetts supreme judicial court in Beekman vs. Marsters, 80 Northeastern Reporter, 817. The rules applicable to the enticing away of a servant are held to apply to the case. The enticing away of a servant not under a contract for a definite period is not the subject of equitable relief, but it is otherwise when the servant is under such contract.

Such is the decision of the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts in Evans vs. Foss, 80 Northeastern Reporter, 587.

USE OF DEVISED DRESS AS SHROUD.—A rather novel question is discussed in the surrogate's opinion in re Pullen's estate, 102 New York Supplement, 435. It appeared that decedent had expressed her wish to be buried in her best dress. Those in charge of the funeral selected one of her gowns for the purpose, and decedent was buried therein. Afterwards it was found that the gown selected had been specifically bequeathed to the wife of the executors. Under the circumstances the surrogate was of the opinion that the legatee should be paid the value of the gown out of the funds of the estate as an item of funeral expenses, and $500 was allowed for this purpose.

DAMAGES FOR BEING BLACKLISTED.—An employe of a union depot company was injured by an engine belonging to a railroad company using the depot. On his recovery he was promised work by the depot company, but when he reported for work he was informed that he could not receive employment unless he released the railroad from all claim for damages on account of his injury. The depot company imposed this condition at the request of the railroad company's claim agent. The employe thereupon brought suit for damages against the railroad company. That he had a right of action was the opinion of the Minnesota supreme court rendering the decision. Joyce vs. Great Northern Railway company, 110 Northwestern Reporter, 975. The decision is based on a statute, but the court suggests that irrespective of the statute, there should be a recovery.

LIABILITY OF HOUSEHOLDER FOR REFUSING LODGING TO SICK GUEST.—A householder who refuses lodging to a person who has come to his house on business, and who is suddenly taken ill, does so at his peril, according to the decision of the Minnesota supreme court in Depue vs. Flateau, 111 Northwestern Reporter, 1. In this case the guest who was refused lodging was discovered the next morning nearly frozen to death, some distance from his home, and he brought action for damages. Applicable to the facts of the case was held to be the rule that whenever a person is placed in such a position in regard to another that it is obvious that if he does not use due care in his conduct he will cause injury to that person, the duty at once arises to exercise care commensurate with the situation by which he is confronted to avoid danger, and a negligent performance of his duty makes him liable for the consequences.

TEACHER'S CERTIFICATE AS EVIDENCE OF CHASTITY.—A teacher's certificate issued to prosecutrix in a seduction case is, by the Nebraska supreme court in Russell vs. State, 110 Northwestern Reporter, 980, considered incompetent evidence to show the reputation of prosecutrix for chastity. The evidence of the officer who issued the certificate, the court says, was, upon the point of prosecutrix's reputation, of no more importance than that of other witnesses, and ought in like manner to be subject to cross-examination.

RELEASE OF ACTION FOR DEATH.—The doctrine that a sole beneficiary of a claim for the death of a person by the act or default of another under Lord Campbell's Act has power to execute a valid release notwithstanding that any action for damages must be brought by the decedent's personal representative is reiterated by the Wisconsin supreme court in McKeigue vs. Chicago Northwestern Railway company, 110 Northwestern Reporter, 384, wherein the court further holds that such release by the beneficiary will bar a subsequent action by the personal representative, if the estate is otherwise sufficient to pay all claims against the same.

REPOSSESSION OF GOODS SOLD ON INSTALLMENT PLAN.—The mere fact that a purchaser of a bed on the installment plan is sick will not prevent the seller from repossessing the bed on default, according to the decision of the Iowa supreme court in Flaherty vs. Ginsberg, 110 Northwestern Reporter, 1050. The rules governing the court lays down to be that, in repossessing a bed conditionally sold, the mere fact that the purchaser has suffered some degree of ill health and needs the bed does not make its retaking under the contract wrongful. To have such effect, the purchaser's needs must be such as to deprive him of the bed would be to expose him to increased sickness and suffering, and such facts must be known to the person demanding and removing the bed.

CONTEMPT.—Evidence that the language used by an attorney for which he was held in contempt was justified by the facts is not admissible as a defense, according to the Louisiana supreme court in State vs. Reed, 43 Southern Reporter, 455. Respect for the judicial office, the court remarks, should always be observed and enforced.

JURISDICTION OF INDIAN ALLOTMENT CASES.—The jurisdiction conferred by Act Congress August 15, 1894, on the federal circuit courts to determine controversies necessarily involving title and incidentally the right of possession to Indian allotments, where the same are held in trust by the United States, is by the United States supreme court in McKinney vs. Calyton, 27 Supreme Court Reporter, 340, held to be exclusive.

MORAL RECTITUDE OF LAWYERS UPHELD.—The common jokes indulged in at the expense of lawyers with reference to their alleged moral turpitude finds no supporter in the supreme court of New Hampshire, which in Kidd vs. New Hampshire Traction company, 66 Atlantic Reporter, 127, says, in effect, that the presumption that an agent of one corporation acting as a director of another corporation discharges his duties in good faith is certainly not weakened by the fact that such agent and director is a lawyer.

CORPORATE LIABILITY FOR CONSPIRACY TO COMPEL EMPLOYMENT OF UNION LABORERS.—In the recent case of Aberthaw Construction Company vs. Cameron, 80 Northeastern Reporter, 478, the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts holds that a corporation is not, on the ground of its being a corporation, immune from the consequences of an unlawful combination with others to compel a contractor to employ only union workmen in the construction of a building, under penalty of a strike. As supporting authorities are cited White vs. Apsley Rubber Co., 80 Northeastern Reporter (Mass.) 580, and Buffalo Oil Co., vs. Standard Oil Co., 106 New York, 669, 12 Northeastern Reporter, 826.

CONCLUSIVENESS OF LAND DEPARTMENT RULINGS.—The United States supreme court in Love vs. Flaihde, 27 supreme court reporter, 488, holds that the land department is not concluded by findings of the secretary of the interior to the effect that a designated party to a controversy has a right to enter land as a homestead, but that the department may subsequently and before patent is issued institute further inquiry, and on such inquiry finally award the land to a party held to have a better right thereto than the one to whom it has been in the first instance awarded. The fact that the conslusions of the land department are conclusive on the courts as to matters of fact that does not preclude the department from altering its conclusions in a contest before the contest is finally determined.

RIGHT OF PARTY TO LAUGH AT A JUROR'S JOKES.—The Missouri court of appeals was, in McGraw vs. O'Neil, 100 Southwestern Reporter, 132, not inclined to grant a new trial because of the mere fact that the prevailing party had seated himself near a juror at the time for court to convene after a noon recess and laughed as one who laughs at a "mirth-provoking" jest, when the juror remarked to a fellow member, on the judge coming in late, that "the judge must have had fish for dinner." Mere laughing at a stale joke will not, according to the court, constitute misconduct requiring a new trial.

RIGHTS OF SECURED CREDITOR AGAINST BANKRUPT.—A novel question as to the rights of a secured creditor against a bankrupt is decided by the Texas court of civil appeals in Jungbecker vs. Huber, 101 Southwestern Reporter, 152. The creditor held a note secured by a vendor's lien as well as by a mortgage on real property. After the execution of the mortgage the property became a part of the mortgagor's homestead, and after he was adjudged a bankrupt it was by the court set aside to him out of a larger tract, which, including all improvements, exceeded in value $5,000. The creditor brought suit in a state court against the trustee of the bankrupt to foreclose the liens on the property, though the note was not due. This the court held he could do.

RECOVERY FOR PROLONGATION OF MENTAL SUFFERINGS. — In Southern Pacific Co. vs. Milner, 100 Southwestern Reporter, 1170, it appeared that plaintiff's wife was ill and about to undergo a surgical operation. She desired the presence of her mother, and plaintiff purchased transportation to be delivered to the mother in a distant town. Through delay in delivery of the transportation, the mother's arrival was delayed. The operation, however, had been delayed until after the mother's arrival because of the serious illness of the daughter, and the evidence showed that the daughter was suffering from mental anguish by the absence of her mother before she was sent for. The Texas civil court of appeals in rendering the decision was of the opinion that no recovery could be had for a simple prolongation of the daughter's mental sufferings.

VALIDITY OF FOREIGN DIVORCE DECREE.—Divorce decrees rendered in other states on a constructive domicile are dealt a body blow by the supreme court of South Carolina in State vs. Westmoreland, 56 Southeastern Reporter, 675. In this case the court holds an averment of the record that plaintiff in a divorce suit was a citizen of the state wherein the decree was rendereds not conclusive, but that such question may be inquired into in a collateral proceeding. If plaintiff in the divorce proceeding was not actually a citizen o fthe foreign state when he obtained the divorce, the decree will not constitute a defense to a subsequent prosecution for adultery in South Carolina.

NEW BRAND OF BOOZE

William French Sold Whisky to Sober Up Alcoholic Drunks.

Hearing Against Saloonkeeper is Only Partially Completed.

"They got alcohol at 'Dutchey's place' and then came to my saloon to buy whisky to sober up with," was the somewhat remarkable declaration of William French, a saloonkeeper in the town of French, who was yesterday cited to appear before the county board to show cause why his license should not be revoked.

The statement by French drew a laugh from the commissioners.

At a meeting of the board held early this month, several complaints were made to the county board that French, who has had his license but a few months, has been conducting his place in violation of the law and that it has become a nuisance to the community and a damage to the Virginia Lumber company, which has several camps near the saloon location. Officials of the company claimed that the men visit French's place frequently and go on sprees that last several days, being unable to work themselves and by their actions intimidating sober men from working. W. H. Cook of the company declared that they would be unable to carry out their contract to cut state timber in that district next winter if the saloon remains and will lose all the money paid for the timber.

It was on the testimony of the lumber company officials that the commissioners cited French to appear and answer the charges.

Mr. French appeared with his attorney, but claimed that he had not yet been told what the charges were against him. He was placed under oath by Chairman Patterson and testified that he is running his saloon in accordance with the law, that he has the lid on tight after 11 o'clock at night and all day Sunday. He admitted that he was once convicted and fined for selling liquor on Sunday to a man named Scanlon, but claimed he has been good ever since that time.

Bottles By the Bushel.

French claimed that a far greater amount of liquor, "whisky in bottles by the bushel," is taken into the camps from Virginia, by the lumberjacks, than he sells at his saloon. He claimed that the booze carried over the Virginia & Rainy Lake road in the packsacks of the men is responsible for all the trouble.

Under cross-examination by W. D. Bailey, who represented the Virginia Lumber company, French claimed that none of the company's employes ever left his place badly under the influence of liquor. He admitted that they sometimes carry a bottle away with them, but denied that he ever sold any man very much booze at one time. He denied that he ever hired a man to go around to the camps to sell liquor to the men and declared that he has always tried to help the lumber company all he can, but that the corporation had always been "bucking him." Mr. Bailey said the company had nothing personal against French, that it was his saloon they were fighting.

Further cross-examined, French denied any knowledge that the men ever left his place intoxicated and then made trouble in the camps. He denied that they kept away from camp several days at a time and spent their time in his saloon. He explained their presence by stating that when the men quit their jobs they would sometimes stay at his "hotel" for a few days and sometimes go back to work again.

Blind Pigs Running.

French claimed that there are some blind pigs between his place and Virginia where the woodsmen buy alcohol and get crazy drunk on it. He said there is, according to his information, such a place near Camp 34 of the lumber company, run by a fellow called "Dutchy." Pressed by Assistant County Attorney Stevenson as to the names of his informants, French said they were Billy Connor, and a man named Taylor. Mr. Stevenson noted down the names.

Charles Moen, a homesteader in township 61-20, testified that so far as he knows French runs his saloon all right. Under cross-examination Moen said he had been about French's place a great deal and at one time worked for the saloonkeeper on the latter's farm. Moen claimed to have seen bushel baskets full of whisky bottles carried by lumberjacks on the railroad from Virginia to the camps. He claimed he never saw any drunken lumberjacks about the saloon.

Joseph Dean, another resident of the town, said French's saloon is run "about as straight as it could be," and that he never saw any violations of the law. Dean lives about three and a half miles from the saloon. He admits that he had purchased drinks at the place and had been around the place to a considerable extent.

French told the commissioners that if his license is revoked he will lose practically everything he has, having been to considerable expense in starting in business.

Representing the lumber company complainant, Mr. Bailey declared the Virginia Lumber company is willing, if it should be necessary, to pay French all the license money he has already turned over to the county, that the company loses more in one week than the license amounts to, by reason of the saloon.

Several of the commissioners thought the witnesses for the other side should be sworn and should be cross-examined by French before the board takes action. This was agreeable to the parties making the complaint, and the investigation was adjourned until 11 o'clock this morning. Mr. Bailey was unable to get his witnesses here today and asked for an adjournment of the matter.

Reference was made to the eighteen cases that French started against the lumber company to recover on as many time checks, which were issued by the company and payment refused, because the checks were not countersigned by certain officers of the company. Mr. Bailey stated that the company had intended making its complaint about the saloon long before French started his suit. He denied that the company made trouble over the time checks for the purpose of getting even with French, but intimated that the suits were a "come back" by French because the latter was arrested, and fined for selling booze on Sunday.

Some of the commissioners thought that the board should consider the evidence very carefully before taking action, that so long as the Virginia Lumber company did not protest against the license being granted, and because French, if he were compelled to close, would probably suffer great financial loss it would not seem right to revoke the license unless there is positive proof that the saloonkeeper has been breaking the law.

A petition to have the license revoked, signed by a larger number of residents in 60-21, was filed with the clerk of the board.

CASES OF INTEREST

RIGHT OF EXCLUSIVE AGENT TO INJUNCTIVE RELIEF.—The right of an exclusive agent for New England of a Jamestown Exposition hotel to an injunction against a competitor who has induced the hotel corporation to allow him also to act as its agent in New England is upheld by the Massachusetts supreme judicial court in Beckman vs. Marsters, 80 Northeastern Reporter, 817. The rules applicable to the enticing away of a servant are held to apply to the case. The enticing away of a servant not under a contract for a definite period is not the subject of equitable relief, but it is otherwise when the servant is under such contract.

GARAGE "OFFENSIVE TO THE NEIGHBORHOOD."—A proposed garage designed to accommodate about 125 automobiles of large type, to be used in part for a repair shop and supplied with a large portable forge, and in which demonstration cars are to be kept, with demonstrators to run them, is a building "offensive to the neighborhood for dwelling houses" within such a restriction contained in a deed. Such is the decision of the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts in Evans vs. Foss, 80 Northeastern Reporter, 567.

USE OF DEVISED DRESS AS SHROUD.—A rather novel question is discussed in the surrogate's opinion in re Pullen's estate, 96 New York Supplement, 435. It appeared that decedent had expressed her wish to be buried in her best dress. Those in charge of the funeral selected one of her gowns for the purpose, and decedent was buried therein. Afterwards it was found that the gown selected had been specifically bequeathed to the wife of the executor. Under the circumstances the surrogate was of the opinion that the legatee should be paid or allowed the value of the gown out of the funds of the estate as an item of funeral expenses, and $50 was allowed for this purpose.

DAMAGES FOR BEING BLACKLISTED.—An employe of a union depot company was injured by an engine belonging to a railroad company using the depot. Pursuant to a promise he was promised work by the depot company but when he reported for work he was informed that he could not receive employment unless he resumed the railroad from all claims or damages on account of his injury. The depot company imposed this condition at the request of the railroad company's claim agent. The employe thereupon brought suit for damages against the railroad company. That he had a right of action was the opinion of the Minnesota supreme court rendering the decision in Jagos vs. Great Northern Railway Company, in Northwestern Reporter, 995. The decision is based on a statute, but the court suggests that irrespective of the statute, there should be a recovery.

LIABILITY OF HOUSEHOLDER FOR REFUSING LODGING TO SICK GUEST.—A householder who refuses lodging to a person who has come to his house on business, and who is suddenly taken ill, does so at his peril, according to the decision of the Minnesota supreme court in Degue vs. Flatean, 111 Northwestern Reporter, 1. In this case the guest who was refused lodging was discovered the next morning nearly frozen to death, some distance from his home, and he brought action for damages. Applicable to the facts of the case was held to be the rule that whenever a person is placed in such a position in regard to another that it is obvious that if he does not use due care in his conduct he will cause injury to that person, the duty at once arises to exercise care commensurate with the situation by which he is confronted to avoid danger, and a negligent performance of his duty makes him liable for the consequences.

TEACHER'S CERTIFICATE AS EVIDENCE OF CHASTITY.—A teacher's certificate issued to prosecutrix in a seduction case is, by the Nebraska supreme court in Russell vs. State, 110 Northwestern Reporter, 380, considered incompetent evidence to show the reputation of prosecutrix for chastity. The evidence of the officer who issued the certificate, the court says, was, upon the point of prosecutrix's reputation, of no more importance than that of other witnesses, and ought in like manner to be subject to cross-examination.

RELEASE OF ACTION FOR DEATH.—The doctrine that a sole beneficiary of a claim for the death of a person by the act or default of another under Lord Campbell's Act has power to execute a valid release notwithstanding that any action for damages must be brought by the deceased's personal representative, is reiterated by the Wisconsin supreme court in McKeigue vs. Chicago Northwestern Railway company, 110 Northwestern Reporter, 384, wherein the court further holds that such release by the beneficiary will bar a subsequent action by the personal representative, if the estate is otherwise sufficient to pay all claims against the same.

REPOSSESSION OF GOODS SOLD ON INSTALLMENT PLAN.—The mere fact that a purchaser of a bed on the installment plan is sick will not prevent the seller from repossessing the bed on default, according to the decision of the Iowa supreme court in Flaherty vs. Ginsberg 110 Northwestern Reporter, 1050. The rules governing the court lays down to be that in repossessing a bed conditionally sold, the mere fact that the purchaser has suffered some degree of ill health and needs the bed does not make its retaking under the contract wrongful. To have such effect, the purchaser's needs must be such as to deprive him of the bed would be to expose him to increased sickness and suffering and such facts must be known to the person demanding and removing the bed.

CONTEMPT.—Evidence that the language used by an attorney for which he was held in contempt was justified by the facts is not admissible as a defense, according to the Louisiana supreme court in State vs. Reed, 43 Southern Reporter, 455. Respect for the judicial office, the court remarks, should always be observed and enforced.

JURISDICTION OF INDIAN ALLOTMENT CASES.—The jurisdiction conferred by Act Congress August 15, 1894, on the federal circuit courts to determine controversies necessarily involving title and incidentally the right of possession to Indian allotments, where the same are held in trust by the United States, is by the United States supreme court in McKaay vs. Calyton, 27 Supreme Court Reporter, 346, held to be exclusive.

MORAL RECTITUDE OF LAWYERS UPHELD.—The common jokes indulged in at the expense of lawyers with reference to their alleged moral turpitude finds no supporter in the supreme court of New Hampshire, which in Kidd vs. New Hampshire Traction company, 66 Atlantic Reporter, 127, says, in effect, that the presumption that an agent of one corporation acting as a director of another corporation discharges his duties in good faith is certainly not weakened by the fact that such agent and director is a lawyer.

CORPORATE LIABILITY FOR CONSPIRACY TO COMPEL EMPLOYMENT OF UNION LABORERS.—In the recent case of Aberthaw Construction Company vs. Cameron, 80 Northeastern Reporter, 478, the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts holds that a corporation is not, on the ground of its being a corporation, immune from the consequences of an unlawful combination with others to compel a contractor to employ only union workmen in the construction of a building, under penalty of a strike. As supporting authorities are cited White vs. Apsley Rubber Co., 80 Northeastern Reporter (Mass.) 500, and Buffalo Oil Co., vs. Standard Oil Co., 105 New York, 669, 12 Northeastern Reporter, 826.

CONCLUSIVENESS OF LAND DEPARTMENT RULINGS.—The United States supreme court in Love vs. Flahlde, 27 supreme court reporter, 486, holds that the land department is not concluded by findings of the secretary of the interior to the effect that a designated party to a controversy has a right to enter land as a homestead, but that the department may subsequently and before patent is issued institute further inquiry, and on such inquiry finally award the land to a party held to have a better right thereto than the one to whom it has been in the first instance awarded. The fact that the conclusions of the land department are conclusive on the courts as to matters of fact that does not preclude the department from altering its conclusions in a contest before the contest is finally determined.

RIGHT OF PARTY TO LAUGH AT A JUROR'S JOKES.—The Missouri court of appeals was, in McGraw vs. O'Neil, 101 Southwestern Reporter, 152, not inclined to grant a new trial because of the mere fact that the prevailing party had seated himself near a juror at the time for court to convene after a noon recess and laughed as one who laughs at a "mirth-provoking" jest, when the juror remarked to a fellow member, on the judge coming in late, that "the judge must have had fish for dinner." Mere laughing at a stale joke will not, according to the court, constitute misconduct requiring a new trial.

RIGHTS OF SECURED CREDITOR AGAINST BANKRUPT.—A novel question as to the rights of a secured creditor against a bankrupt is decided by the Texas court of civil appeals in Jungbecker vs. Huber, 101 Southwestern Reporter, 152. The creditor held a note secured by a vendor's lien as well as by a mortgage on real property. After the execution of the mortgage the property became a part of the mortgagor's homestead, and after he was adjudged a bankrupt it was by the court set aside to him out of a larger tract, which, including all improvements, exceeded in value $5,000. The creditor brought suit in a state court against the trustee of the bankrupt to foreclose the liens on the property, though the note was not due. This the court held he could do.

RECOVERY FOR PROLONGATION OF MENTAL SUFFERINGS. — In Southern Pacific Co. vs. Milner, 100 Southwestern Reporter, 1170, it appeared that plaintiff's wife was ill and about to undergo a surgical operation. She desired the presence of her mother, and plaintiff purchased transportation to be delivered to the mother in a distant town. Through delay in delivery of the transportation, the mother's arrival was delayed. The operation, however, had been delayed until after the mother's arrival because of the serious illness of the daughter, and the evidence showed that the daughter was suffering from mental anguish by the absence of her mother before she was sent for. The Texas civil court of appeals in rendering the decision was of the opinion that no recovery could be had for a simple prolongation of the daughter's mental sufferings.

VALIDITY OF FOREIGN DIVORCE DECREE.—Divorce decrees rendered in other states on a constructive domicile are dealt a blow by the supreme court of South Carolina in State vs. Westmoreland, 56 Southeastern Reporter, 673. In this case the court holds an averment of the record that plaintiff in a divorce suit was a citizen of the state wherein the decree was rendereds not conclusive, but that such question may be inquired into in a collateral proceeding. If plaintiff in the divorce proceeding was not actually a citizen of the foreign state when he obtained the divorce, the decree will not constitute a defense to a subsequent prosecution for adultery in South Carolina.

NEW BRAND OF BOOZE

William French Sold Whisky to Sober Up Alcoholic Drunks.

Hearing Against Saloonkeeper is Only Partially Completed.

"They got alcohol at 'Dutchey's place' and then came to my saloon to buy whisky to sober up with," was the somewhat remarkable declaration of William French, a saloonkeeper in the town of French, who was yesterday cited to appear before the county board to show cause why his license should not be revoked.

The statement by French drew a laugh from the commissioners.

At a meeting of the board held early this month, several complaints were made to the county board that French, who has had his license but a few months, has been conducting his place in violation of the law and that it has become a nuisance to the community and a damage to the Virginia Lumber company, which has several camps near the saloon location. Officials of the company claimed that the men visit French's place frequently and go on sprees that last several days, being unable to work themselves and by their actions intimidating sober men from working. W. H. Cook of the company declared that they would be unable to carry out their contract to cut state timber in that district next winter if the saloon remains and will lose all the money paid for the timber.

It was on the testimony of the lumber company officials that the commissioners cited French to appear and answer the charges.

Mr. French appeared with his attorney, but claimed that he had not yet been told what the charges were against him. He was placed under oath by Chairman Patterson and testified that he is running his saloon in accordance with the law, that he has the lid on tight after 11 o'clock at night and all day Sunday. He admitted that he was once convicted and fined for selling liquor on Sunday to a man named Scanlon, but claimed he has been good ever since that time.

Bottles By the Bushel.

French claimed that a far greater amount of liquor, "whisky in bottles by the bushel," is taken into the camps from Virginia, by the lumberjacks, than he sells at his saloon. He claimed that the booze carried over the Virginia & Rainy Lake road in the packsacks of the men is responsible for all the trouble.

Under cross-examination by W. D. Bailey, who represented the Virginia Lumber company, French claimed that none of the company's employes ever left his place badly under the influence of liquor. He admitted that they sometimes carry a bottle away with them, but denied that he ever sold any man very much booze at one time. He denied that he ever hired a man to go around to the camps to sell liquor to the men and declared that he has always tried to help the lumber company all he can, but that the corporation had always been "bucking him." Mr. Bailey said the company had nothing personal against French, that it was his saloon they were fighting.

Further cross-examined, French denied any knowledge that the men ever left his place intoxicated and then made trouble in the camps. He denied that they kept away from camp several days at a time and spent their time in his saloon. He explained their presence by stating that when the men quit their jobs they would sometimes stay at his "hotel" for a few days and sometimes go back to work again.

Blind Pigs Running.

French claimed that there are some blind pigs between his place and Virginia where the woodsmen buy alcohol and get crazy drunk on it. He said there is, according to his information, such a place near Camp 34 of the lumber company, run by a fellow called "Dutchy." Pressed by Assistant County Attorney Stevenson as to the names of his informants, French said they were Billy Connor, and a man named Taylor. Mr. Stevenson noted down the names.

Charles Moen, a homesteader in township 61-20, testified that so far as he knows French runs his saloon all right. Under cross-examination Moen said he had been about French's place a great deal and at one time worked for the saloonkeeper on the latter's farm. Moen claimed to have seen bushel baskets full of whisky bottles carried by lumberjacks on the railroad from Virginia to the camps. He claimed he never saw any drunken lumberjacks about the saloon.

Joseph Dean, another resident of the town, said French's saloon is run "about as straight as it could be," and that he never saw any violations of the law. Dean lives about three and a half miles from the saloon. He admits that he had purchased drinks at the place and had been around the place to a considerable extent.

French told the commissioners that if his license is revoked he will lose practically everything he has, having been to considerable expense in starting in business.

Representing the lumber company complainant, Mr. Bailey declared the Virginia Lumber company is willing, if it should be necessary, to pay French all the license money he has already turned over to the county, that the company loses more in one week than the license amounts to, by reason of the saloon.

Several of the commissioners thought the witnesses for the other side should be sworn and should be cross-examined by French before the board takes action. This was agreeable to the parties making the complaint, and the investigation was adjourned until 11 o'clock this morning. Mr. Bailey was unable to get his witnesses here today and asked for an adjournment of the matter.

Reference was made to the eighteen cases that French started against the lumber company to recover on as many time checks, which were issued by the company and payment refused, because the checks were not countersigned by certain officers of the company. Mr. Bailey stated that the company had intended making its complaint about the saloon long before French started his suit. He denied that the company made trouble over the time checks for the purpose of getting even with French, but intimated that the suits were a "come back" by French because the latter was arrested, and fined for selling booze on Sunday.

Some of the commissioners thought that the board should consider the evidence very carefully before taking action, that so long as the Virginia Lumber company did not protest against the license being granted, and because French, if he were compelled to close, would probably suffer great financial loss it would not seem right to revoke the license unless there is positive proof that the saloonkeeper has been breaking the law.

A petition to have the license revoked, signed by a larger number of residents in 60-21, was filed with the clerk of the board.

PLANTING FORESTS.

The forest service of the United States department of agriculture has issued a bulletin that may have some interest for the forestry enthusiasts of this section, since it deals with methods of planting young trees, and makes some suggestions as to the best procedure.

The bulletin takes the usual stand, to be expected from this source, that the first use of land is for forestry, and that all cut-over lands are worthless unless they can be planted to pine. This mistaken view aside, there is much of value and interest in the bulletin, as there usually is in the publications of this bureau.

Some of the difficulties of planting cut-over lands are suggested. Throughout the Northeastern states and the lake region are large areas of forest land which have been lumbered and afterwards swept by successive fires. Repeated burnings have destroyed all young trees of valuable species, and these have been succeeded by stands of aspen, wild red cherry, scrub oak, red maple and shrubs. Such land presents to the tree planter a difficult problem, because not only will the expense of the initial planting be rather high, owing to the dense growth already on the ground, but the young trees are likely to be overcome in competition with it.

"The land is, however, worthless in its present condition," adds the circular, "and where adequate fire protection is provided forest planting is strongly recommended." Of course this statement is true in a way, since wild land is worthless while in that condition, but most of the land thus described is valuable farming land when cleared, and it is misleading, therefore, to say that it is worthless even when it is wild, since it then contains the potentialities of value.

On recently cut-over areas which have not been burned it is not necessary to plant, for the valuable species of trees will usually come in without artificial aid. Cut-over lands which have been recently burned, so that the growth of worthless species is checked, offer exceptionally good opportunities for planting.

It is suggested that on nearly every farm there are a few acres that are of little value for growing crops, and that it would be a paying plan to set this land aside for a wood lot, and devote it to the production of fuel, fence posts and timber for farm uses. This is a suggestion worth while for those farmers who do not already practice it.

The practical side of the bulletin comes in its description of the best methods of planting the various trees that it is desirable to grow, including various pines, tamarack, spruce, chestnut, red oak and sugar maple.

Planting trees is not like planting early vegetables in the spring and eating them a few weeks later; it takes a long time to realize anything upon the work. But it is necessary work, and work in which the government will probably have to take the major part because of the slowness of returns from it.

WHY NOT ENFORCE THE LAW?

Why are there not a few more cases like that at Northfield, where a railroad agent who charged more than the rate law of last winter permits for carrying coal was arrested and sentenced to jail for an hour?

Of course the state cannot prosecute anybody for violating this state law, curiously enough, because the federal court has said that it cannot enforce its own law. But there is nothing to prevent local action, involving the arrest of every agent who charges an unlawful rate for transporting goods.

Indeed, if the attorney general is so confident that the state is being improperly hampered in its efforts to properly regulate rates, he might by the use of a little nerve violate the injunction by enforcing the law, and thus immediately raise, in a way that would provide prompt settlement of it, the question of the right of the federal courts to go so far in interfering with the state.

Chapter 232 of the Laws of 1907, being the commodity rate law, distinctly provides that it is a criminal offense, punishable by not more than ninety days' imprisonment in the county jail, for any railroad officer or agent to charge more than the rates mentioned in that law.

Here is a law that is being violated every day all over the state, and so far there has been but one prosecution under it. It would seem that it might help solve the problem if a general effort to enforce this law were made all over the state, though of course the sentences should not be severe upon railroad agents because they are compelled to act as they do by their superiors.

TOBACCO TRUST'S DOINGS.

That not alone the necessaries of life are the objects of trust greed is shown by the fact that the tobacco trust is the latest object of the anti-trust activities of the federal government.

The government claims that the American Tobacco company, which owns pretty nearly every well-known kind of tobacco, is a trust, and asks that it be restrained from carrying on its illicit business. Not only is it proposed to attack the American Tobacco company, but the British-American Tobacco company, which is alleged to be merely an unlawful instrumentality of the trust, is also brought in.

As to the main charges made by the government against the tobacco trust, it is claimed that the monopoly is worldwide, and that the trust is in a fair way to control the trade of the world in tobacco and tobacco products. We are told that of the annual production of domestic tobacco the trust and its associates purchase 75 per cent. The combination is said to sell 80 per cent of the smoking and plug tobacco, 95 per cent of the snuff, 80 per cent of the cigarettes, 75 per cent of the small cigars, 95 per cent of the licorice products, etc.

The trust has been rapidly acquiring control of the usual agencies for distribution. Its retail stores are to be found in all large cities. According to the government, competing stores have been bought up, their owners pledged not to engage in the business again; others have been driven out by destructive competition; and others have been "deterred" from entering the business. It is charged that corporations secretly controlled by the trust have been advertising themselves as "independent," and have placed on their goods the label "not made by a trust." Some of these corporations are accused of offering their goods below cost to kill competition, and of imitating competing brands, thus working in the guise of independence to kill off the real independents.

In short, it is a pretty black case that the charges make against this aggregation of capital. Perhaps there will not be quite the same public bitterness toward trust control of a luxury as there is when one of the vital necessaries is corralled by greedy capital, but still tobacco comes mighty near being a necessary to a good many people, and tobacco-users will exclaim with enthusiasm: "Go it, government!"

James B. Duke, the president of the trust, is quite certain that the American Tobacco company has broken no laws, and he has had the advice of counsel on it, too. His lawyers have watched things carefully, and have informed him that the trust's "existence, business methods and success do not involve any violation of law." Of course we shall know more about it after the evidence is in, when we shall be able to determine whether the trust's lawyers have been able to steer a course through the shoals of evil-doing without striking the rocks of law.

LOCAL BOND BUYING.

A satisfactory bid for the issue of $50,000 in bonds for park purposes was received by the city council last night, and though a slight defect in the proposal deferred action for one week, there is no doubt that the bonds will be sold upon a basis that will be fair to all interests.

Had the bids that were received not been satisfactory, there is a new law under which the city could make its appeal to local capital, and probably sell the bonds in small lots to local citizens, which would be a good thing to do because it would keep all the interest at home, and would give the bond-buyers a new interest in the city and its welfare.

Chapter 462 of the Laws of 1907 provides that cities shall have the right to sell any part of their bonds by popular subscription, providing the sale is for not less than par and accrued interest. Bonds may be issued in denominations as low as $100, or in any multiple thereof, and under this plan a man with $100 could invest it in a city bond which would pay him a fair percentage on his investment.

This not only provides a way of selling city bonds when the regular methods fail, as they do sometimes when the bond market is abnormally reluctant, but it offers local holders of small capital seeking investment a safe, profitable and comfortable way to invest it.

The city authorities should keep this law in mind in discussing future bond issues, and should frame their advertisements for bids accordingly, because under this law a part of the bonds may be sold this way, and the balance in the regular way.

A PATERNALISTIC DEPARTMENT.

Those who hold that the best government is that which governs least scout the paternalistic form of government, under which the functions of government include many things that the individuals might be supposed to do for themselves. Yet there is no department of any government any more thoroughly paternalistic, nor any less likely to be abandoned, than our agricultural department.

What our agricultural department won't do for us it is pretty hard to imagine. It provides our weather, seeks to preserve and regenerate our forests, discovers new varieties of seeds and plants for us, tells us how to cook our vegetables and bake our bread, and is constantly working to find new ways of doing things that will profit us. And it does it all pretty well, too. Don't judge it by the free seeds you got through your congressman. That is a purely congressional "graft," and the department of agriculture is simply made the vehicle of distribution. If the seeds won't grow, blame congress.

The secretary of agriculture, in telling what was done with the $10,000,000 spent by the department in the fiscal year just closed, says that besides executing the federal laws under its charge the department has saved millions of dollars to the American people by discoveries made by its scientists in the past year. The patents for these discoveries are dedicated to the government, to be used without payment of royalty by the people. Just the invention of an ink suitable for stamping inspected meat carcasses will save more than $300,000, he estimates. Dr. Allertson S. Cushman discovered the principle of extracting potash fertilizer from feldspathic rocks, and Chief Galloway of the bureau of plant industry is experimenting with the fertilizer in the tobacco fields of Connecticut, so that this country will need to import no more potash from Germany. Dr. Cushman has also found a way of increasing the durability of fence wire.

These are merely examples of what the department has been doing ever since it was organized. Forty odd years ago it spent $2,000 in introducing sorghum from China and France, and the yearly crops of sorghum are now worth $40,000,000. Kaffir corn, of which $15,000,000 worth is raised annually, cost $5,000 when it was imported into the semi-arid regions of the Southwest. Durum, or "macaroni" wheat, was introduced from Russia at a cost of $10,000, and its production amounts to $25,000,000 a year now. The government imported Japanese kiushu rice, which stimulated the increase of this staple from 180,000,000 pounds in 1899 to 550,000,000 pounds in 1904.

Again, the naval orange crop was worth $8,000,000 to California last year, and that was the result of an importation by the department. About $4,500,000 has been spent in plant and fruit introduction, and the estimated financial advantage to this country is $100,000,000.

That $87,000,000 surplus in the federal treasury is not going to help the standpatters any.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"People up in Northwestern Canada are having a good deal of fun over the statements of some professor or other who says that it is too much sunshine and not too much heat that makes the tropics no fit abode for people from the North and that for the same reason Western Canada will never amount to much because it is a land of sunshine, and therefore ordinary people will be unable to live there and retain their energy," said V. E. Clay of Winnipeg, Man., at the St. Louis.

"It appears that scientists have been investigating the matter of too much sunshine, and some of them have decided that it is this and not the surplus of heat that makes the tropics so unpleasant to the Northerner. This being the case, our professor friend argues that, while Western Canada may be colder than the tropics, it had just as much sunshine, and therefore the people who reside there will lose all ambition and become lazy and good for nothing. For myself, I stand ready to risk all that for the sake of living in a land of perpetual sunshine, and it seems to be the way with a good many other people, judging by the manner in which they are rushing into Western Canada."

"There is a certain fascination about hunting these Lake Superior green stones," said M. C. Birch of St. Paul, Minn., at the McKay. "I had heard a good deal about them before going to Isle Royale, and had admired them in the store windows, but never had any thought that I would care to exert myself to the extent of digging around in the rocks and sand for them. After I got down to Isle Royale last year my ideas on the subject changed. The people spending their vacations there seemed to be getting more fun out of going after green stones than they did out of fishing.

"A bunch got me to go along with them one day, and I went against my will. I was lucky in finding a good stone the first thing, and the others admired it so much that my interest was aroused, and the rest of the morning I displayed as much energy as any one else in the hunt. That put the fever in my blood, and during the remainder of my stay I was out every day looking for the stones. I even went so far as to get up at 5 o'clock in the morning so that I might search a while before breakfast. As a result of all this industry I got quite a presentable collection and later received offers of as high as $2 for single stones.

"Some of the stones I found along the shore, but most of them were spotted from a rowboat. The water down there is remarkably clear, and a person can distinguish objects for a distance of many feet. Small greenstones can be seen six or eight feet down, and by means of poles with special attachments at the end, they may be fished out. The field seekers there are to be found extends for five or six miles, so there will probably be good pickings there for several years to come, in spite of the fact that so many people are looking for them all the time.

"It's hotels are Duluth's best advertisement," said W. D. Coxie, press agent for Barnum & Bailey, at the Lenox. Mr. Coxie is probably the best known and most capable press agent in the United States today and in his travels ahead of the show he goes from San Francisco to New York and from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico, stopping at the best hotels in cities of all kinds and sizes. "I know of no city in the country," he continued, "regardless of size, which can compare with Duluth when it comes to hotels. The service, rooms, and general equipment are unexcelled anywhere, and the low prices charged, in view of all these facts, are astonishing. There is a tendency all over the country on the part of hotels to boost prices, so you see it is positively refreshing to get here and to get the best at reasonable rates."

THE WEATHER.

July is more than half spent, and if there is any place on earth where it provided better weather than it has given Duluth thus far, it would be interesting to see it. The nights have been cool and glorious, the days warm and wonderful. This morning it had a tendency toward sultriness, but the weather man expects it to be cooler tonight, and he says there may be showers. Yesterday's highest was 76 degs. and last night's lowest was 60 degs.

A year ago today it was cloudy, cool and threatening.

The sun rose this morning at 4:29, and sets tonight at 7:59, making 15 hours and 30 minutes of sunshine.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "A narrow trough or low barometric pressure extends from Manitoba southward to Western Texas. This disturbance caused light to copious showers throughout most Northern districts during Monday or last night and continued warm weather in the Central valleys, Southern states, Lake region and Atlantic coast states. Pressures are rising from the Mississippi valley westward, attended by cooler temperature in Western Canada. The barometer remains high in Atlantic states. Showers may be expected in this locality this afternoon and tonight but Wednesday will be partly cloudy."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures, as recorded by the weather bureau:

The Hushed Voice.

What mother said—it didn't matter then,
A loving word, perchance, and then
When childish wrath came in our simple play
And little woes beset Youth's rosy way.
Her sweetly gentle words dispelled the wrath,
And coaxed the buds to bloom that lined our path—
Her voice was sweet to greet the morning sun,
And, sweeter still, when Golden Days were done
Her soft good night that sent us to our bed—
It didn't matter then—what mother said.

It didn't matter then, but now she's gone,
The world lacks all its sweetness, and, at dawn
The sunbeams, coming down from Heaven's dome,
But emphasize the loss from out the home;
No kindly smiles to cheer the passing day—
No mother-words to guide us on the way—
No loving arms that wait but to enfold
When world and all grow merciless and cold;
The Kingdom there, I think, is made of such—
What mother said! O, now 'twould mean so much!

In the King's Pockets.

London Daily Mail: Like every man who values the look of his clothes, King Edward carries very little in his pockets besides a handkerchief. In his waistcoat pocket he carries a gold pencil case, a cigar cutter, a little passkey, a gold watch, carefully regulated by Greenwich time, and half a dozen sovereigns. In his coat pocket he carries a tiny notebook, and in the winter he puts his gloves in the pocket of his topcoat. The king never carries a cigar case, expect a gold case which holds one cigar, but he almost always has a small box of lozenges. Unlike his nephew, the kaiser, he never carries a fountain pen in his pocket.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Lake Crystal Union: Every Republican senator and congressman who does not ask their constituency what they want and then go after it for them, should be defeated. Whether it is Tawney, McCleary or any of the other members, makes no difference. The office was not created for the man but for the people.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press: Our railroads are worth some five or six billions. Their capitalization is some seven billions more. When the railway companies fix their rates it is with the idea of making them produce a profit, not on the six billions actual value but on this seven billions of "water" as well. Last winter A. J. Rockne tried to get a bill through the legislature compelling the railroads to "squeeze out" this water. The bill didn't pass. Why? Well, we suppose the simplest answer is that it didn't get votes enough.

Fergus Falls Free Press: Not even Rockefeller or Morgan, at their New York residences, can surround themselves with the genuine comforts and beauty that cluster about the homes of prosperous farmers. They can't get such sweet, fresh milk and cream, such pure, undefiled butter, such honest wholesome bread, such appetizing vegetables and fruit, as the best farmers have in abundance. In short, life is most worth living in the country.

Elk River Star-News: There is gross injustice somewhere in the system that sends a man to the penitentiary for stealing $15 or $20 and leaves those who rob the public of millions by over-capitalization and watered stocks to swell around in high-priced automobiles and private cars.

Big Falls Compass: The last legislature tried to toss a little sunshine into the lives of drunkards' families by passing house bill No. 247 which permits any member of the family to strangle hubby's thirst by notifying the municipal officers, who must notify in writing all drink merchants to blacklist the drunkard or pay a $50 penalty. This law beats a Keeley jag cure hotel.

Austin Transcript: A Chicago preacher asserts that church-goers demand sensations. This is no reason why foolish preachers should try to satisfy this demand.

Princeton Union: The way to treat the oil trust is to jail Rockefeller and all his associates in thievery.

Mankato Free Press: Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph company, has issued a statement in which he declares that there is no combination existing between his company and the Western Union. He insists that his company is competing with the Western Union good and hard. There does, however, appear to be a similarity of rates charged by the two concerns. Both charge about the same for the service rendered.

Willmar Tribune: The Wisconsin legislature has passed a bill authorizing the state to put a binder twine factory in the state penitentiary, and appropriated $125,000 for the plant. If a few more states follow the example set by Minnesota the twine trust will starve to death.

Stillwater Prison Mirror: John Barleycorn is the devil's advance agent.

A Valuable Wink.

Youth's Companion: A foreign tourist who had received permission to visit one of the large asylums for the insane in this country was surprised at the neatness, quietude and good order that prevailed within the walls of the institution. He asked if it was always like that, and the polite attendant who was showing him through the building replied that it was.

"We have what we call our violent wards, of course, but I presume you would not care to see those?"

"I think not."

"It is just as well, perhaps. They are rather noisy, although, of course, we exercise the same care in providing for the welfare of the inmates that you see in this part of the institution. We also have a section where we keep the incurables."

"These inmates, then, are considered curable?"

"Their cases are at least hopeful."

"I am greatly interested," said the visitor, "but I will not take up any more of your time. You have other duties to attend to, have you not?"

"Yes, sir, this is merely one of my recreations. In one of the rooms of the main building I am engaged during most of the time in pursuing what may be called my life work."

"Your life work? May I ask what that is?"

"Hadn't you heard?" asked the attendant in a tone of astonishment. "I am compiling an index to Webster's dictionary."

PASSING PLEASANTRIES.

Baltimore American: Lawyer—You are the head of this corporation?

Philadelphia Ledger: Mr. Rockefeller was explaining how to get rich.

"She has sent me seventeen picture postcards, but I haven't heard from her."

Chicago Tribune: "Uncle George, you are awfully rich, aren't you?"

"Well, my boy, I'm in what you might call comfortable circumstances."

"When you want to buy anything, uncle, it doesn't make any difference to you whether it cost $5 or $50, does it?"

"Er—no, Henry; when I have to spend $5 it hurts me about as bad as if it were $50."

Philadelphia Press: Tess—Yes, I wish all men were bachelors.

Reciprocity.

Youth's Companion: A successful school teacher, who is loved as well as admired by her pupils, says that during her first year of teaching she received a little lesson which taught her what St. Paul probably meant by the "foolishness of preaching."

In the middle of a term one of her pupils was obliged to leave school, as the family was about to move out of town. When the teacher said good by to the little girl, who had been an intelligent and well-behaved pupil, she felt moved to add a few words of advice.

"If I never see you again," she said with much earnestness, "I hope you will be an honest, upright woman, truthful and brave."

"Thank you," said the little girl, her round, eager face upturned to her teacher, "and I hope you'll be the same."

Should Woman Be Truthful?

Ladies' Field: It is no exaggeration to say that a more or less truthful woman is looked upon with grave suspicion. What is more, nobody believes her.

If she quite truthfully pronounces her age to be 29, everybody at once says then she must be at least 35; while if she should ever be cajoled into admitting the number of proposals she had in her youth it will only confirm the popular impression that she had been lucky to catch a husband at all.

NORTHERN MINNESOTA THE LAND OF PROMISE

Story of Its Magnificent Possibilities and Its Future.

Destined to be Great Agricultural Section of Northwest.

J. E. Reynolds of the Mankato Free Press, who recently visited Duluth and other sections of Northern Minnesota, has published a lengthy account of his impressions under the heading: "Northern Minnesota—A Land of Promise; Story of Its Magnificent Possibilities and Its Future." In opening, Mr. Reynolds says:

"Northern Minnesota is a land of promise, of almost limitless resources and unmeasurable possibilities. Its future greatness is assured. There is no guess work wrapped around its development. There is no drawback attached to its industrial growth and expansion, and above all it has the makings of the finest dairy country in the United States, if not in the world. It is destined to become the great agricultural section of the Northwest. Those who have never visited that vast domain which lies north, northeast and northwest of the Twin Cities have no appreciation of the immense amount of wealth that must come from the bowels of the earth, the timber, and the soil, the productiveness of which is a surprise to those who have investigated crop conditions. There is room in that north country for thousands upon thousands of people, and the day is not far distant when immigration will move swiftly in that direction and the land will be made to blossom as the rose. There are riches in store for those who do settle up and develop Northern Minnesota.

"An inspection of Northern Minnesota—especially that section adjacent to Grand Rapids and the Hill Lake district, will convince any good judge of conditions that the country is worthy of all the good things said of it. Far be it from me to exaggerate and to paint a picture that is unreal. At the present time much of the country is in a primitive state, but I venture the prediction that not many years hence the traveler will find it clothed in all the beauty which comes from man's efforts. However, the reader must not infer that that country is now unkempt and sloven. On the contrary, nature has fitted it out in that garb of grandeur which is sure to appeal to those who possess an eye for the picturesque. The scenery is magnificent and varied—it is a monotony destroyer. There is no barren waste to tire the eye, but all is a continuous oasis and pleasing in the extreme."

Mr. Reynolds speaks of the growth of Grand Rapids since his previous visit there in 1891, and tells of the great results accomplished by Supt. A. J. McGuire at the state experimental farm, a few miles east of that town. He also visited Bovey and Coleraine, the mining towns, and Hill City, the farming settlement about twenty-five miles south of Grand Rapids. Having described these places, he says:

Resources of the Country.

"The extent of the resources of Northern Minesota cannot be grasped in a day. The soil, called a marl, is more like a light colored clay, but it does not bake or get hard, even by long exposure to the sun. It tills easily, and while no sand is perceptible in the soil in the Hill City district and along Pokegama lake, yet a plow scours quickly. It is a great tame grass country. Clover and timothy grow wild in the open cut over lands, wherever seed has been scattered from tame hay brought in years ago by the loggers. It is destined to be the greatest stock and dairy country in the West, as the tame grasses do not winter kill.

"The early varieties of corn mature, but it is not claimed to be a good country as yet, though it is claimed the 'corn belt' is moving farther and farther north.

"The present predominating resources of the new lake district is the timber lying around Hill lake, and some of this fine timber is owned by Blue Earth county parties. The amount of timber to be seen in a day's travel around Hill City is simply stupendous. Here is found large quantities of white cedar, used for railroad ties, fence posts, telephone and telegraph poles and shingles; then there is large quantities of basswood suitable for saw logs, some of it very large after measuring two and one-half to three feet in diameter at the stump. Mixed among the basswood is the red and black birch, sugar and rock maple, rock elm, spruce, white pine and balsam.

"All this timber has an outlet to market via the Hill, Willow and Mississippi rivers to Aitkin, the county seat, where it is loaded onto cars. The Hill river runs out of Hill lake and joins the Willow, five miles away, while farther down the Willow, a mighty little river, empties into the Mississippi. Along the Willow and Hill rivers, near Hill City, is a stretch of wild blue joint and red top meadows, twenty miles in length, which yield two to three tons of luxuriant grass per acre annually, and which, by the way, is another of the big resources of the district.

Toilers Must Be Fed.

"Another great advantage possessed by three farmers of the Hill Lake and Grand Rapids district is the fact that right at their threshold is the greatest iron ore development going on in the whole world. Thousands of men working in these mines must be fed, and the produce can all be raised right here on those rich lands which are so well adapted to gardening or truck farming.

"Then at Duluth the steel company is to put in a $10,000,000 steel plant which will give employment to thousands more workmen, so that the farmer of Northern Minnesota is assured a ready market at good prices for the next fifty years to come, for all the farm and dairy products he can raise.

"The work of clearing the land, it is true, is a task, but at that not altogether the hardest. Those with stout hearts and willing hands are subduing it, and most of them get enough land under cultivation the first year to make themselves self-sustaining. And if a man wants to work for others, or neighbors, he can get all the work he wants to do at good prices. Men who are not willing to work had better stay away. Good men are wanted now.

No Longer a Speculation.

"The future of Northern Minnesota is no longer a speculation. It is only a matter of time. Its agricultural possibilities are past the experimental stage. There are various reasons why it is not receiving its share of immigration, but more particularly due to the fact that in the past its disadvantages were better known than its advantages. While Northern Minnesota has land which is unfit at the present time for agriculture, it also has millions of acres that are well adapted to profitable farming, and the time is now come when this land should be farmed. Already Northeastern Minnesota has the greatest iron mining industry of the world. At the head of Lake Superior preparations are being made for manufacture that will rival the Eastern cities. During the year 1905, 10,000 carloads of vegetables other than potatoes were shipped into Duluth and Superior. Practically all of this was grown outside of Northern Minnesota. The same may be said of the butter, meat and eggs consumed in Duluth and tributary cities. All these food articles should be produced on farms filled in Northern Minnesota.

Should Leave the Cities.

"There are hundreds of men toiling hard in the cities, who, were they to brave the forests of Northern Minnesota, would in a few years become independently rich off the lands that can be had at reasonable prices. The land men make it an advantage to the actual settler. It is for the land men's benefit to have every settler satisfied with his holdings and the lot he has mapped out for himself. The man with a few hundred dollars can go into Northern Minnesota and become an important factor in the development of that country. I feel safe in saying that Northern Minnesota will in a few short years become the Mecca for the younger generation of farmers. They will reap the benefits that must grow out of a land that is filled with such flattering promises and which is crowned with magnificent possibilities.

Duluth the Gateway.

"The story of my trip into Northern Minnesota would not be complete without a reference to Duluth. This city is the gateway to that vast empire which stretches its way from the Head of the Lakes to the great Red River Valley on the west and the Canadian line on the north. It is the open door for the commerce of this wide expanse of territory. It is a city whose future growth bids fair to outstrip that of the Twin Cities and it will some day become the supreme ruler commercially and industrially of Minnesota. Its location promises as much. Duluth's future is not builded upon false hopes, nor is the city submerged in a deluge of false modesty. It lays claim to that which is her own and fights vigorously to protect her rights. There is a good deal of hustle in Duluth. The people are not asleep. There is ever an activity which means well for that progressive and enterprising city. Queen City of Northern and Northeastern Minnesota, I lift my hat to you.

Coming Down the Line.

"There is a great change for the better in the country lying between the Twin Cities and Duluth and the north part of the state. It has developed most amazingly during the past fifteen years. The towns along both the Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads have jumped out of their nursery togs and are now wearing long clothes. They have developed into big sisters and brothers. Every one of them has the appearance of ready money. Prosperity crops out no matter which way you look. One cannot help but feel proud of Minnesota—the North Star state—its beacon light furnishing the guide to a safe harbor for many a harrassed soul who has been buffeted about on the wide sea of adversity. Great is Minnesota, loyal and enterprising are her people and they possess that generous spirit which goes so far to make us all of one kind.

"In penning these lines it is not my desire to detract one iota from the splendid section of this state known as Southern Minnesota. This part of our commonwealth is known the country over as the garden spot of America. It is a beautiful country and I am proud of its development, its resources, its advantages and its intelligent and patriotic people who go to make up its splendid citizenship. No state is blessed with a finer product; no state is blessed with a more wholesome atmosphere."

BURNING UP THE LEAGUE

Artie O'Dea and Si Bennett Making Good Records.

Leading New Western Canada Ball League in Batting.

Former Northern league men are doing things in the new Western Canada league, according to the fielding and batting averages just received here. Artie O'Dea and Si Bennett are burning up the league in the hitting line, O'Dea standing second with .332 and Bennett third with .320.

Cy Rodgers, formerly of Superior, is leading the catchers in fielding with .974, but is only hitting .163. O'Dea stands but .001 behind the second man in first base fielding with .965, and Johnnie Macklin, formerly in the Copper Country league before it became part of the Northern, is leading the second basemen in fielding, with .961, having made but six errors.

Deacon White's Edmonton team leads in team batting, with .257, but Jack Morrison's Lethbridge outfit is in the rut with .222. In team fielding, Lethbridge with .941 stands second to Medicine Hat, and Edmonton, with .924 is third.

Between Bennett and the next former Northern leaguer, there is a long gap in the batting department, Hank Schureh, the former Lake Linden pitcher standing sixteenth with .275. Kippert, with Houghton and Calumet last year, is twenty-third with .253. Deacon White is twenty-ninth with .222 and Bill Foster is thirty-first with .217. Thirty-second comes Fogarty, who was with Grand Forks last year. He is batting .216 and Macklin is thirty-eighth with .196. Cy Rodgers is forty-ninth with .163 and Jack Morrison fiftieth with .158.

Deacon White stands sixth among the eight shortstops, with .830 in fielding, and among the pitchers, Schurch is fourth with .961, Kippert sixth with .957 and Morrison seventh with .953. Bill Foster is third among the outfielders with .968 and Si Bennett is seventh with .942.

TERRY'S LUCK SAVES 'PEGS

Slowball Twirler Was Getting His When Rain Came.

Winnipeg, Man., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ralph Terry's lucky charm appeared in different form yesterday, from that in which it has worked formerly this season. Usually it gives the Maroons a victory, but yesterday, it broke into the game and saved them from a defeat, for which the fans here are duly thankful.

Terry was in for a beating yesterday. The Sox started right at him in the first inning, and for three rounds they clouted the ball all over Happyland. Cummings was pitching beautiful ball and a victory was being chalked up for the visitors, when Terry's luck came in the shape of a downpour of rain and the game was called and marked up as no contest.

SWATFEST AT CALUMET.

Houghton Breaks Losing Streak by Winning Wierd Game.

Calumet, Mich., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Houghton broke its losing streak here yesterday, when the Giants hit the ball harder than the Aristocrats and won, 16 to 10. They had to do some clouting to pull out a victory, as Rogers took a hearty walloping and the Aristocrats piled up scores enough to win any ordinary game. Kaiser started to do the pitching for Calumet, but he lasted only two innings. Newcombe tried it and he lasted the same length of time, after which Siner, the southpaw outfielder, went in the box and took the remaining clouts. Score:

NEWS FROM COPPERDOM

Houghton and Calumet Teams Will be Strengthened.

Fans Satisfied With Showing of Sox in Winnipeg.

The results of the games played in Winnipeg during the past week have somewhat encouraged the fans in their hopes for the flag. The Sox left here after several games of listless, lifeless ball. They no sooner struck Winnipeg than they began to sit up and they have played the Maroons to a standstill and then some, ever since the series in the land of King Edward opened.

Thus far, three games have actually been played, Winnipeg winning one, 1 to 0, and the other two going to draws. Yesterday the Sox started at Terry to give him a healthy walloping, when rain butted in and spoiled the circus. Which all goes to show that the Sox are playing better ball in Winnipeg than they did here. They return Friday for a two week's series with the Copper Country clubs, and the fans are hoping they grab off a few of the remaining games at Winnipeg.

The Copper country teams are not going to be so very easy on the coming trip. There have been some changes since they were last up this section, some of them for the worse. But there have been and will be some more, those for the better. In the first place, Pat Flaherty has taken hold of the Houghton team, supplanting Solbrae as manager. Flaherty is an old ball player. He is a personal friend of Ted Sullivan, and Ted is now in the Copper country. Incidentally, 'tis said Ted had a hand in McGraw's purchase of Sundheim. But, anyway, Ted is going to help Flaherty get a team together, and the people in Houghton are putting up the necessary green and jingling stuff. Flaherty says Houghton isn't going to stay in last place long. Maybe not. But it will take a nice piece of money to form a rope with which to yank them out.

Likewise there will be some tall rattling of bones and falling of heads in the Calumet outfit. Neither Copper country town has had a ball team this year. They had a few good ball players between them, but there was no team work, little head work and constant yanking of strings within the circle. There never was a losing club yet, in which a trouble-maker, or a group of players pulling against the management, could not be found. In Houghton, the trouble makers have been kicked out, and the causes of dissension will be patched up in Calumet.

Hugh Shannon is to be the new manager of the Calumet outfit. He is said to know the game, and if any men are needed, he is the boy to secure them. Sincock, the youngster who has been taking his turn in the box for Calumet, looks good. He is said to be as cool as a veteran under fire and the man, who can keep his head, is valuable. Schroeder, Frank Mullane's protege, who jumped the club with Mullane and went to Cedar Rapids, in the Three I league, has been awarded to Calumet, and will be returned. Bobby Vorpagel, third baseman for the Madison team in the Wisconsin State league, who was sold by Calumet to St. Paul last fall and the money never received, is also to be returned to Calumet, the sale having been discredited, and Vorpagel awarded to Calumet by the national commission.

With the elements of strength to be added, both Copper country clubs will present formidable lines when they next tackle the Western teams, and if they will only prove easy to Duluth and down Winnipeg, the race may be evened up a little.

PETERITZ WANTS DAMAGES.

Claims Riot at Boardinghouse Injured His Reputation.

Marko Peteritz, a boardinghouse keeper at Ely, has instituted a damage action against several people of that place for starting a "rough house" at his place of business several weeks ago, and destroying about all the furniture in sight.

The defendants are L. Toprey, H. Robas, M. Meron, U. Snider, J. Talen, L. Bergrand and L. Rosil. The amount of damages asked is $5,000, and L. H. Corcoran of this city represents Peteritz.

In the complaint it is alleged that the men named created a riot, threw stones and sticks, used guns and other weapons and so frightened Mrs. Peteritz that she has been under a physician's care ever since. Peteritz also claims the affair damaged his reputation and that of his home.

NEW CURE FOR OPIUM HABIT.

Chicago Tribune: The confessions of the opium eater of the twentieth century will include the tale of the new plant said to cure the drug habit. The plant is a woody climber, with opposite leaves, in size and shape resembling those of the pear tree, and bears globular clusters of small white flowers. The flower is followed by a red fruit an inch long, furnished with four longitudinal wings.

The order to which the plant belongs has some recognized medicinal properties, although it is a little known family. The plant is abundant on the plains around Kulala Lumpur, in Salangore, Malay Peninsula.

EIGHT MEN LOSE LIVES

By the Explosion of a Powder Charge on Battleship Georgia.

Thirteen Others Injured —The Ship Was Not Damaged.

Boston, July 16.—By the explosion of a case of powder in the hands of a gunner in the after-superimposed turret of the battleship Georgia, in Massachusetts bay yesterday, eight men were killed and thirteen injured. Not one of the persons in the turret escaped injury. The dead:

William J. Thatcher, chief turret captain, Wilmington, Del.; Faulkner Goldthwaite, midshipman, Kentucky; W. J. Burke, ordinary seaman, South Farmington, Mass.; W. M. Thomas, ordinary seaman, Newport, R. I.; George K. Miller, ordinary seaman, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Lieut. Casper Goodrich, New York; Seaman Edward J. Maleck, Lynn, Mass.

Lieut. Goodrich and Seaman Maleck jumped overboard immediately after the explosion, with the apparent motive of ending the terrible suffering from their burns. Both of the desperate men were quickly rescued by uninjured comrades.

The accident happened while the battleship was several miles off Provincetown, and the men were engaged in target practice, together with other vessels of the battleship squadron of the Atlantic fleet. The powder had just been taken from the ammunition hoist to load an 8-inch gun. It was seen to be burning, and in an instant it exploded in the very face of the loader of the gun. No damage was done to the vessel, as the powder was not confined.

Early last evening, under orders from Washington, the Georgia sailed back for the target grounds off Provincetown.

How the powder became ignited is not yet known, but the theory held at the navy yard is that it was set off by a spark from the smokestack of the warship. Immediately after the accident the Georgia headed for the Charlestown navy yard. There the dead and injured were taken ashore, the wounded men being conveyed to the naval hospital at Chelsea.

The Georgia is one of the battleships of the second division of the second Atlantic fleet, which as been at target practice off Provincetown for the last three weeks.

The Georgia is one of the newest battleships of the navy, having been in commission about ten months. She is commanded by Henry McRea.

The accident occurred shortly before noon yesterday while the Georgia's crew were at target practice off Barnstable, in Cape Cod bay. In some manner, as yet unexplained, the powder became ignited, and in the terrific flash that followed the entire turret crew, consisting of three officers and eighteen men, were enveloped in fire and received horrible burns, one officer and five men dying before the ship reached port.

Four men received minor injuries whose names were not given out and who were not taken off the ship.

The explosion occurred in the after superimposed turret in which were the men under the command of Lieut. Casper Goodrich, son of Rear Admiral Goodrich, commander of the New York navy yard, and Midshipmen Faulkner Goldthwaite and John T. Cruse, were operating the 8-inch guns. As the powder was not confined there was no report, nor did the vessel suffer any injury, but every nook and cranny of the turret was filled with flame.

The loader who was of course, nearest the powder, was terribly burned, as was every man in the turret, with the exception of Eich and Hansell, who, although scorched, escaped with injuries much less severe than the others.

Lieut. Goodrich and Seaman Maleck became crazed, staggered up the iron ladder to the top of the turret and then threw themselves headlong into the sea in a despairing effort to choose death by drowning in preference to death by slow fire.

When the smoke of the burning powder had cleared away the shipmates of the unfortunate men rushed to their assistance, and tenderly the sailors were lifted out of the fire blackened turret and quickly conveyed to the ship's hospital, where their burns were dressed.

In the meantime Lieut. Goodrich and Seaman Maleck had been rescued by a launch that was returning from an inspection of the target.

Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas, commander of the squadron, ordered an investigation board to examine into the cause of the accident. Until this board makes its report the real cause of the explosion will be in doubt and it is uncertain whether the board will be able to determine definitely what ignited the powder.

Two theories are entertained. One belief is that a spak from the discharge of the guns floated back into the turret through a gun port and settled on the powder cases. Another theory is that the spar kthat caused the trouble came from the smoke stacks of the ship and floated through the gun ports.

Both the living and dead were found to be terribly burned. Three of the men were burned beyond recognition. Eyes were burned out and faces, bodies, arms and legs blackened.

SENATOR PLATT CELEBRATES

His Seventy-Fourth Birthday at Manhattan Beach as Usual.

New York, July 16.—United States Senator T. C. Platt celebrated his 74th birthday at the Oriental hotel at Manhattan Beach yesterday in accordance with his custom for a number of years. The only difference in this celebration as compared with that of other years lay in the fact that the senator was a little more feeble physically and there was not the usual gathering of Republican leaders of New York city and state. Herstofore the senator's birthday has been the date of a notable mid-summer conference of big and little politicians from all over the state who came to town annually to congratulate him, and to discuss party affairs with their leader whom they affectionately termed "The Old Man." Although the senator passed the day very quietly, he was not entirely forgotten, for many of his friends throughout the state sent messages of congratulation. One of these was from State Committeeman Isaac V. Baker, of Comstock, who telegraphed:

"Hearty congratulations. If everybody you have helped could send a rose the Oriental would be submerged."

The senator appeared to be satisfied and happy, and chatted in animated fashion with newspaper men. To one who asked him if he had any intention of resigning from the senate, he said:

"Not the slightest. I am still a senator and sall remain one until the end of my term, unless I should shuffle off this mortal coil, which I don't expect to do. I am feeling first rate. I shall stay here until the end of the season. I shall go to Washington on Dec. 1, for the opening of congress and I shall severe throughout the session and throughout my term in spite of the efforts of enemies to drive me out."

CROKER DECLINES IRISH NOMINATION.

Dublin, July 16.—Richard Croker has declined the Nationalist nomination for member of parliament for East Wicklow to replace D. J. Cogan (Nationalist) resigned. It is believed that Arthur Chamberlain, brother of Joseph Chamberlain, will permit his name to be placed before the convention, which will be held today, being prepared to take the pledge enacted from each Nationalist to go to parliment a declared home ruler.

S.S.S. REMOVES BLOOD HUMORS

When the blood becomes infected with unhealthy humors the effect is shown on the skin in the form of pimples, rashes, eruptions, or some other type of skin disease. These humors circulating in the blood, come in contact with the delicate tissues and fibres of the skin and produce irritation and inflammatiou, and often excessive itching and burning. Trying to cure skin troubles with external applications is treating the effect instead of the cause. Such treatment perhaps allays some of the itching and discomfort, but does not reach the blood where the real source of troubles lies. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only cure for humors in the blood. S. S. S., a gentle acting, safe blood purifier, is the proper treatment. It goes down into the circulation and neutralizes the humors and removes them from the blood. S. S. S. supplies the blood with the fresh, healthy properties necessary to sustain the skin and keep it free from disease. S. S. S. cures Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Salt Rheum, pimples, boils, rashes, and all other skin affections and diseases, because it purifies the blood and removes the humors which are responsible for the trouble. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

BENEFIT TO YOUNG FOLK

Organization of German Lutheran Young People's Societies.

First Meeting at Stillwater is Very Delightful Gathering.

Stillwater, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first meeting of the Young People's societies of the German Lutheran church of the Middle West, with delegates from Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa present, was held here Saturday and Sunday and was pronounced to be a most delightful gathering in every respect.

The attendance Sunday was large, about 300 additional young people arriving from the Twin Cities alone, while many other towns sent large delegations. At St. Peter's church Sunday morning the festival address was delivered by Rev. A. F. Augustine of Eau Claire, his theme being the aim of the young people of the church. The musical features were excellent including singing by choirs, solos and declamations. After the service there the visitors repaired to the Auditorium hall where dinner was served by people of Stillwater.

The afternoon services as well as the business session of the convention was held at the Auditorium hall. At the festival service in the afternoon, Rev. F. W. Klein of Owatonna delivered an address on the benefits of such organization of young people; John Priebe of Minneapolis spoke in English on methods of work by the societies. Addresses were also delivered by Hugo Weyeranch of Waverly, Iowa, and by Miss Otelia Graff of Strawberry Point, Iowa. Supper was served in the Auditorium banquet hall by residents of this city. The festival was a pronounced success in every particular.

An organization was effected of the district embracing the Twin Cities, and other points in Minnesota, cities in Wisconsin and Iowa. The first set of officers chosen were:

Rev. A. F. Augustine, Eau Claire, president; John Priebe, Minneapolis, first vice president; Miss Mabel Labahan, St. Paul, second vice president; Miss Margaret Schaffuit, Stillwater, secretary; Edward Homke, Minneapolis, treasurer.

Rushford, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bratsberg, the only postoffice in Fillmore county, not situated on the railroad, has capitulated to the invasion of rural free delivery, and the postoffice department has issued orders for its discontinuance on July 31. Mr. Overland notified the postoffice inspector several weeks ago that the necessity for the existence of the office had passed away and he desired to be relieved of his duties.

WENT BEYOND DEPTH.

Not Being an Expert Swimmer, Henry Sansauvier Drowns.

Withrow, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Another Sunday drowning has saddended a good part of Washington county. Henry Sansauvier perished on the afternoon of last Sunday in Sunshine Lake, two miles from here, as the result of going beyond his depth when he was not an expert swimmer.

The young man had just reached manhood, being a few days over 21 years of age. He was the second child of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Sansauvier, who have eight other children, and live on a farm a little over a mile from the lake.

He left home in company with four other companions about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. An hour later the sad news was broken to the family that Henry had been drowned. The body was recovered within a couple of hours after the accident.

Dr. F. G. Landeen, the county coroner, was summoned to the scene and after an examination of the circumstances declared it a case of accidental drowning.

The funeral will be held Wednesday morning at the French-Catholic church at Hugo. Rev. Perrigard officiating.

Cloquet, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—While moving a barrel full of rain water Saturday night, John Wennerlund, slipped and fell on the wet sidewalk at his home on Carlton avenue. INDIANS TAKE ONE.

Manage to Prevent Akeley From Taking All of the Games.

Akeley, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Akeley baseball team defeated the famous Bena Indians Saturday and Sunday afternoons, but Monday afternoon the Indians had their victory by 20 to 8. On the two other days the Indians were entirely outclassed, while the Akeley nine played some excellent ball. On Monday Akeley was without three of its very best men and was outclassed both on the base and field. Pray and Bungo and the Indians for Akeley did well.

Bena has a fine clean and gentlemanly team of Indians. Supt. Warren of the Indian school was in charge of the Bena team.

Akeley will play Walker in the near future and some fast and exciting ball is anticipated.

MINNESOTA

GRANDMA CHASE STILL MISSING

Whereabouts of Aged Hubbard County Woman Still Mystery.

Yola, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Diligent search in the woods for miles around her claim, has revealed no trace of Mrs. Emily Chase, known as Grandma Chase, whose strange disappearance from her home since June 27 has caused a decided sensation in this community.

On Friday a search was made by a party which embraced every settler in the vicinity of Mrs. Chase's cabin, including E. M. Chase, son of the missing woman. Every foot of ground for many rods in every direction from the cabin was thoroughly gone over and beaten, but there was absolutely no clue whatever to aid the searchers in finding Mrs. Chase.

According to those who should be well acquainted with Mrs. Chase and her condition, she was never properly supplied with good food and was compelled to get her own wood and water, and was in many other ways neglected.

Theories as to the manner in which Mrs. Chase disappeared vary materially. Some are of the opinion that she wandered from her shack in an attempt to get out of the country and has perished in the woods, and that her dead body will be found later.

The authorities at Park Rapids have been notified of the facts and undoubtedly a rigid investigation of the affair will be made before the end of the week if Mrs. Chase does not reappear or her dead body is not recovered.

WISCONSIN

IN DEFENSE OF SCHMITZ

Father Yorke of Frisco Talks Sensationally in Milwaukee.

Attended Religious Gathering and Indulges in Personalities.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Eugene Schmitz of San Francisco, who has been convicted of extortion and sentenced to five years in San Quentin is a very much abused man, according to Rev. Father Yorke of San Francisco, who has been here attending the convention of the Catholic Educational association. The rather noted priest contends in an interview that back of the graft prosecution is the guiding hand of President Roosevelt, who is seeking to secure evidence to convict E. H. Harriman of bribery. Father Yorke is a staunch advocate of the disgraced mayor and made the welcoming speech to Schmitz, when the latter returned from his European trip.

"By President Roosevelt's special direction Francis Heney, the assistant district attorney, who was directly in charge of the prosecution of Mayor Schmitz, was sent to San Francisco, and Detectives Burns, who obtained the confession from Abraham Ruef, is a secret service officer until recently stationed at Washington," said Father Yorke.

"Judge Dunne, Rudolph Spreckels and one or two others are more on trial before the people of San Francisco. Judge Dunne is a dyspeptic young lawyer, but recently graduated from the law school and the Schmitz case was the first criminal trial he ever presided over.

"The whole thing out there is politics, a determination of certain wealthy men to get Mayor Schmitz out of office and make it impossible for him to ever be a candidate again. Schmitz is popular in San Francisco, of that there is no doubt. He has been elected three times, the last time after he had been indicted by the grand jury. There really was no evidence disclosed at his trial when he was convicted that was not already known. When he returned from Europe a free man, he was welcomed by 5,000 people who waited for him on a blustery night from 7 o'clock in the evening until 1 o'clock in the morning, and it was my pleasure to make the welcoming address. It was a popular demonstration such as our city had never before beheld.

"Who is Ruef? He is the accredited boss of the Republican party in the city, a small, weak, nervous Jew, who managed to ingratiate himself into the confidence of Mayor Schmitz. When he was arrested he was placed in charge of Rudolph Spreckels' laundryman. At 1 and 3 o'clock in the morning for a whole week Detectives Burns would wake him up and urge him to confess. In desperation Ruef told a few things and he is now awaiting sentence.

"The jury system of California is unique. None but property owners are allowed to serve as jurymen and the conviction of Schmitz was by a jury composed of capitalists."

UPPER MICHIGAN

PICNIC ON AUGUST 8

Merchants of Houghton and Hancock Plan Summer Outing.

To Shut Up Shop and Go to Freda Park.

Houghton, Mich., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The merchants of Houghton and Hancock propose to throw care to the dogs, Aug. 8, and accompanied by their families and their employes and families go to Freda park for a grand picnic. The plan has been under discussion for some time and has finally reached a stage where it is assured. The idea is to make the first picnic a success and to repeat the pleasant affair every summer.

Committees have been appointed and all arrangements for the celebration of the day are being made. Music has been engaged for the concert and dance to be held in the afternoon. The baseball teams of the two cities will go to the park and play a game for the intercity championship. There will be a tug of war between two picked teams of the business men from each side of the lake and every known sport will have a place on the program. Arrangements have been made with the Copper Range railroad for transportation and in fact everything is fast rounding into shape for the celebration.

The merchants have decided to close all places of business on the day and make the first annual picnic a record breaker. The families of the employers and employes have all been invited to attend. The wholesale jobbers have been asked to take part in the festivities and will no doubt accept. The merchants of Hurontown and Atlantic will be the guests of the Hancock and local merchants.

"The merchants of the two towns are strong in numbers and our business interests have grown to a point where it is only natural that we should set aside a day for festivities and celebration," said the chairman of the committee. "It is the intention of the merchants to establish a precedent in this first picnic and make it an annual affair. It is quite likely that the same day will be celebrated each year from now on. It means much to the two towns and will no doubt result in the forming of a commercial club of the two cities for the good of the towns and for the furthering and protecting our business interests. The time has come when the merchants should feel their strength and work together. The merchants of both towns have been enthusiastic over the idea of celebrating and have entered into the spirit of the undertaking in a way that means it will be a success and an annual occurrence."

The huckleberry crop of Northern Michigan is saved by this rain, and it will be of great benefit to farmers.

The force of the blow ruptured several large blood vessels and developed peritonitis, which has spread through the stomach and intestines.

Fred Charlton of this city has been commissioned by the board of control of the Michigan College of Mines to prepare plans and specifications for the library and museum building, to be erected at the Houghton institution next year. TOO BUSY TO SERVE

Member of North Dakota Militia Faces Court Martial Charge.

Ignored Orders to Attend Encampment at Devils Lake.

Minot, N. D., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of Company D, North Dakota militia are agog over the prospects of one of their fellow militiamen being compelled to face a court-martial for insubordination.

Leo Hartnett of Minot, a member of the company, found it impossible to leave his business long enough to go with the company to the Devils Lake encampment. He notified the captain the night before, but his excuse was not accepted, and a guard was sent for him. He was placed under arrest and held in the guard house for several hours until he came to a decision. After being locked up for some time he was asked if he would go with the company into camp, but he held that it would be impossible for him to leave his business that long. Thereupon orders were read commanding him to appear before a court-martial July 22, to show cause why he disobeyed the order to go into camp with the company. Several of the boys found it impossible to go and when they appeared in the hall to see the last drill they were ordered out by the captain. Some who, it is said, had excellent excuses, were allowed to stay at home. Hartnett declares he was unable to go and would have gone had it been possible. Some interest is being shown in the matter for this will be the first court-martial ever held for alleged insubordination in the local company.

NO TROUBLE.

Western North Dakota Range War Story Without Foundation.

Medora, N. D., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The story sent out broadcast from this section under a Stillwater date line to the effect that there was trouble between farmers and big stockman, and that a veritable range war fraught with sanguinary possibilities was on, is without foundation.

There is no trouble between the old stockmen and the farmers, nor will there be if the non-resident land boomers will stop lying to those men, who they are bringing into the country, about the cattlemen.

CUTS DOWN DISTANCE.

New Great Northern Aneta-Devils Lake Line Soon to be in Use.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Northern coast trains will soon be running over the new Aneta-Devils Lake branch, work on that line having been practically completed.

Freight runs are being run over the line at present to harden the track, and it is now thought that the passenger trains will be running that way in a few weeks.

This line will cut the distance to the coast some fourteen miles, but this is by no means the most advantageous features of the improvement.

The company has had more trouble with snow and water along the line from Grand Forks to Devils Lake than anywhere between the Twin Cities and the coast, but this bad strip will be cut out when this Aneta-Devils Lake branch is completed.

DAKOTAS IN BRIEF

Grand Forks, N. D.—Word has been received here of the accidental death of Mrs. Ned Fisk, a former resident of this city, in a runaway accident near her present home, four miles distant from Schynne Wells, Colo. Mrs. Fisk was driving a team and the horses took fright, throwing her from the wagon in such a way that she struck on her head, death resulting instantly.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Just as an automobile bearing the wife of Fred J. Kelley, a Great Northern brakeman, who was seriously injured at Bartlett dashed up to the door of the Mercy hospital in this city, the soul of the injured man took flight, and when his wife entered the room it was to see the lifeless body of her husband lying stretched on the white bed.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Knute Hollen, a well-to-do farmer residing near Thompson says that between Thompson and the Red river the grain is thriving wonderfully and the farmers expect a fine crop.

MRS. LADD QUITS.

Bows to Husband's Command and Gives Up Mission Work.

Des Moines, July 16.—Judge Scott M. Ladd of the Iowa supreme court yesterday announced that his wife has severed her connection with the mission work which within the past few weeks has made her notorious.

It is understood he offered her the choice of appearing before the insanity commission or relinquishing the mission work. After a stormy scene Mrs. Ladd chose the latter course.

The mission became famous because numerous persons received "the gift of tongues" and held sensational religious demonstrations, claiming them to be inspired by divine power. Mrs. Ladd's conduct has been a topic of discussion in society circles for weeks.

MILE-A-MINUTE BOAT.

Strange Craft Glides Over Water Instead of Through It.

New York, July 16.—Confident that he has invented what will prove a mile-a-minute boat and eventually reducing the time of passage from Sandy Hook to Cherbourg to thirty hours, Peter Cooper Hewitt last night decided to give this strange gliding vessel several trials on the Long Island sound this week to prove to engineers the wisdom of his theory.

The boat is twenty-seven feet over all, with 4½-foot beam, and glides over the water instead of cutting through it. It has an engine and a deep-set propeller, but the innovation consists in perpendicular steel rims that extend eighteen inches below the hull. To the rims are fastened slanting steel planes which support the hull.

Mr. Hewitt has attained a speed of thirty-eight miles an hour on the sound and expects to do far better this week.

According to Thompson's own statement he killed Hughes with a blow of his fist.

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before the baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is women's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

MISSABE ORE DOCKS ARE CLOSED DOWN

because of their complaints of the higher cost of living.

"Last year," said one of the officials, "the men started in on the docks as punchers, at $1.86 a day, and they worked at this scale until the middle of July, when the wages were raised to the regular summer schedule, which held until Oct. 31, when the winter scale began. But this year the committee of eight called upon us and wanted a better arrangement, saying that the cost of living had increased and that they were in need of higher wages.

"So the officials of the road decided to start all the men in on the docks at $2 a day and increase the wages of the day workers to $2.25 and the night workers to $2.50 on May 15, instead of July 15, as last year. It was also agreed that the men were to receive 30 cents an hour for overtime and 30 cents an hour for Sunday work. On Oct. 31, the winter schedule of still higher wages begins.

"The members of this committee went away well satisfied with the increase and their action in going out at this time is a surprise, to say the least.

"It has been said that favoritism has been shown in selecting the ore trimmers, who receive a little more money than the punchers. This is not so. Not more than seventeen trimmers are employed and all of them are selected from the older men on the force, the veterans of the crew. When one drops out, another veteran is promoted. The work is harder than punching, but the pay is better.

"Many people think that the dock workers are obliged to work too hard. It is not child's play, the work of these men, but it is not as hard as lots of other manual labor. There is no lifting or shoveling.

"The Missabe officials feel that the men have not treated the road fairly in this matter. Their wages were increased and every effort made to make them satisfied."

It is said that the dock workers in Duluth, Allouez and Two Harbors receive better wages than any other men similarly employed on the lakes.

Not all of the men are dissatisfied with the wages they have been receiving for their work. It is said that many of them are willing to go back right now but that the others are exerting their influence to keep them out.

The railroad officials are firm in their determination not to grant the demands of the men. They aver they have already granted them better wages and a longer period of receiving the increased scale and they propose to do no more.

Some Mines Suspend.

Mining at some of the big pit properties on the Mesaba range has ceased as a result of the strike at the Missabe ore docks here, and unless work is resumed at the docks within a short time, practically all of the big mines which have been shipping via the Missabe will shut down.

"Steam shovel work at some of the Oliver company's open pit mines has ceased as a result of the strike, but stripping operations are going ahead full blast and we will be able to find work of this kind for many of the men who have been mining," said J. H. McLean, assistant general manager of the Oliver Iron Mining company, to a reporter for The Herald.

The Mountain Iron and the Hall-Rust are among the big open pit mines where mining has stopped. People who understand how the open pit properties are worked appreciate that when the ore cannot be shipped, mining must stop. The underground mines can continue to work, heaping up their dump piles.

Some of the mines are working with smaller crews since the dock laborers went out.

The docks and equipment of the Duluth & Iron Range and Great Northern roads will be taxed to their utmost. If the Missabe docks remain idle, for some of the Missabe trains may be sent over the tracks and to the docks of the other lines.

The shutting down of the mines not only throws out of work those men for whom places in the stripping operations cannot be found, but the trainmen, too, for when there is no ore to be shipped, there is no work for them.

MILLIONAIRE BREWER RETAKEN AT TORONTO.

Toronto, Ont., July 16.—Herman Bartels, the millionaire brewer who escaped from the custody of Sheriff Smith of Welland on July 4 at Osgood hall, while he was appearing in an appeal against an order for his extradition to Auburn, N. Y., was recaptured by the Toronto police last night in a house in McMillan street, a block distant from where he escaped. Bartels had not been out of the house for ten days.

When Bartels was locked in the cell he made his will and asked permission of the police to sign it. Fearing suicide, this request was refused.

CON-CERN-ING WOMEN

Words, somebody has said, were invented to conceal thought. They are a perfect success. Also as a medium for concealing the lack of thought. That is neither here nor there, but believing that the first statement is correct, what an infinite variety of guess work one can indulge in when one considers the first line of Lowell's sad admonition.

"Talk not of sad November."

When did he pen those magic words? Was it in the throes of too many June days, when wedding invitations to more mere acquaintances than he cared to purchase strawberry forks, or butter spreaders or fish knives or cheese scoops for, were being brought by every mail? No, it was not then. It must have been in July that he begged one not to libel November by labeling its days sad. It must have been in July when picnics, eternal, unchanging, and everlasting and unavoidable picnics were proposed when nothing but a quick attack of sudden death would excuse him. Sad November, indeed! Well, did the gentle poet know that in the dim grayness of that non-committal month was peace from too many weddings and also sweet peace from picnics. Nobody, not even the most wildly raving of the picnic enthusiasts, would think of asking you to picnic in November, and so if you feel like loafing and inviting your soul you go over the hills on a lonely trot, liking the lonely roads and the stark and naked trees and the haze of approaching winter over the landscape. Sad, indeed! The joy of freedom that November holds out is maddening in the close set confines of July. If one had but strength of mind!

You meet a person, who has always been numbered among your friends and she says: "Isn't this lovely weather?"

"Yes, isn't it?" you say back with the accent on the "isn't" for the sake of originality.

"It's perfectly grand picnic weather," she says.

"Yes," you purr, watching wild-eyed and eager-brained for escape. Is there any? Oh, no. As inexorably as death and taxes, you find the final details settling around you and in less than ten minutes' time you find yourself the victim of another picnic.

Upon the appointed day you find yourself feverishly preparing for the same, and a cool and collected personage at home will say: "Why are you so foolish as to go out with that crowd and get hot and hurried when you might sit in a cool and darkened dining room and enjoy your evening leisurely."

"Why," you sob in a wall of anguish, "why do I do it? Why do I breathe, why do I wear a hat that scoops down all around like an inverted chopping bowl, why do I wear it on the back of my head, why do I pretend to like candied ginger and why do I spend all the money I can rake and scrape together to buy long gloves, why do I go to hear Wagner's operas sung, and why do I hang a Japanese print in the front parlor, why do I order a caviar sandwich when I get an oportunity, and why do I eat grape fruit for breakfast, why do I wear pumps when my soul and my feet cry out for spring heel shoes, why do—"

"Well, if you are going to get that car," says the placid one, who is staying home, "you would better stop talking and run."

Which you do, and in the running the lemon juice empties out of the bottle, in which it was insecurely confined, and pours itself with lavish prodigality over the potatoe salad.

Half of Duluth, if it would but own it, is waiting with expectant longing for the sweet, quiet sadness of November, December and January. And even in February, there is no great danger of being asked to picnics.

Hash.

If you are a teacher of domestic science you call it croquettes, but if you are a protesting guest at a family boarding house, you call the mixture that is made from a little cold cabbage, a potato or two and the remains of the roast—hash. The prophet and reformer who will elliminate from the English language the word hash will do more for harassed housewives than any other five people have ever done, not to mention the debt that literature will owe him. One may spend a good part of the morning making a combination of minced cornbeef, and light and mealy potatoes, seasoned deliciously with pepper and salt and little chunks of butter; it may be smoking hot and served daintily, but appetites fly when the person at the head of the table queries deliberately and with the air of an accusing judge.

"What have we here—hash?"

The woman who planned and executed the luncheon delicacy flushes guiltily and says yes it is hash, but if he doesn't like it, she can get him some cold boiled ham out of the refrigerator.

"Never mind," he says, as he takes a second helping, "as long as this is here it will do." If it hadn't been called hash, however, everybody would have enjoyed a dainty and appetizing meal.

Green apples with their attendant possibilities of dire disaster or moments of rare delight are in the market.

REAR-END COLLISION

Causes Death of One Man and Injuries to Two.

A Great Western Train Crashes Into a Sleeping Car.

Kansas City, July 16.—The Chicago Great Western passenger train, No. 4, ran into and damaged the rear Pullman on the Burlington passenger, No. 22, both northbound, at Bethel, Kan., ten miles north of Kansas City, early today. Fritz Ulrici of Rochester, N. Y., traveling salesman for a paper box manufactory, whose Western headquarters were at 80 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, was so seriously injured that he died a few minutes later. Two unknown passengers on the Burlington were slightly hurt. They were able to continue their journey. The other passengers on the Burlington sleeper escaped with a severe shaking up. The Great Western engine was damaged, but no one on that train was injured.

Ulrici, who was about 26 years of age, was caught in a trap in the toilet room of the sleeper. He was preparing to retire and was locked in when the collision occurred. The Great Western engine crashed into the washroom, and within two feet of Ulrici, who evidently had been stunned by the force of the compact. It was only with the greatest difficulty that Ulrici could be reached, and when removed from the toilet room he was unconscious. He had sustained a fracture of the skull, was badly scalded and had inhaled a good deal of steam. He was brought here to a hospital, but died without regaining consciousness.

Because of the high water on the Missouri side of the Missouri river, Burlington trains bound for Omaha and Sioux City are using the Great Western tracks on the Kansas side of the river. The Burlington train left here ahead of the Great Western train, but was delayed at Bethel because of an accident to its engine. Owing to confusion of train orders the Great Western train approached Bethel at high speed, crashing into the rear end of the other train.

SURVIVOR OF EXPLOSION

heaps, moaning, dying, unconscious, baking and suffocating.

"The next minute seemed eternity. But help from outside came quickly and the men were lifted out and taken away to be cared for. But living men could not enter the turret until the heat had been overcome by pouring in water, which also settled the smoke and drove out the gases to some extent. Those poor fellows were terribly burned, some so as to be unrecognizable. Eyes were burned out; faces, bodies and arms and legs blackened, and there were no features left on some of the charred faces.

"Midshipman Cruse was pointing the gun when the flash came and I was by his side. He did not move away from the sheet of flame as quickly as I did, and was fearfully burned. We were making a record all right. Lieut. Goodrich took great pride in the work and had all the men worked up to enthusiasm. We had fired shots and made nine hits and still had time enough to fire twice more and that meant two more hits the way we were shooting and still be within two minutes.

"How those fellows suffered after they were taken out. Capt. McCrea won the love of every man on that ship yesterday. Time and again he came down to the hospital and would bend over some dying fellow with his face close to the lips that were trying to speak and try to make out the last words, and then turn away with the feelings of his heart writen on his face. All the officers and the men behaved splendidly through it all, and there was no confusion. It's a fine ship and if I go back I want to go back to the Georgia."

Two great boxes, one addressed to Midshipman Cruse and the other to "The Sailors of the Georgia," were received at the naval hospital today. They contained flowers, and inside of each box was the card of Admiral Yamamoto, the Japanese naval officer who visited Boston yesterday.

Boston, July 16.—Of the thirteen survivors of those injured through the ignition of a bag of powder in the after superimposed turret of the battleship Georgia while the vessel was engaged in target practice in Cape Cod bay yesterday, three are believed to have but small chances of recovery. The injured are at the United States naval hospital at Chelsea. The three men whose lives are despaired of are Edward J. Walsh, seaman of Lynn, Mass., whose face and chest are badly burned; Louis O. Meese of Berea, Ohio, ordinary seaman, whose arms, face and chest were burned, and James P. Thomas, ordinary seaman of Brooklyn, N. Y., whose face, chest and back were burned.

At 8:10 a. m. the hospital authorities reported that Walsh and Thomas might live through the day.

When the Georgia arrived here yesterday she carried the corpses of six of her crew who had died from their burns on the way from the target grounds to the hospital and last night two more succumbed to their injuries. One of those who died last night was Lieut. Casper Goodrich, a son of Rear Admiral Kasar F. Goodrich, commander of the New York navy yard. Admiral Goodrich arrived at the hospital with his wife last night just before his son died, after a hurried trip from Brooklyn.

The cause of the accident was the falling of a spark, which was probably blown from one of the Georgia's smoke stacks on a bag of powder which a loader was carrying to a gun in the after superimposed turret. The powder burst into flames and enveloped the twenty-one men who were penned in the steel cage. The battleship suffered comparatively little damage from the explosion and resumed target practice under orders of the navy department.

Washington, July 16.—Admiral Brownson, chief of the bureau of navigation, conferred with Acting Secretary Newberry as soon as the navy department opened for business today regarding the accident yesterday on the battleship Georgia in which eight men lost their lives and a number of others were injured. The admiral had with him all of the dispatches which had been received over night from the commandant of the Boston navy yard, and from other sources. These related, however, largely to the dead and injured for whose care and attention orders were promptly given by the acting secretary. The dispatches convey no information not already published; indeed the data available from them is not as complete as that in the newspapers.

The report of the board of investigation which will examine into the cause of the accident is anxiously looked for by the naval officers. This is expected to come by wireless telegraph from Admiral Thomas, commanding the second division of the battleship fleet as soon as the board's work is completed.

Some comment is likely to be caused by the action of the navy department in ordering the Georgia to return to the range and resume her target practice as soon as the victims of the accident had been removed from the ship at the Boston navy yard. The explanation is found in the fact that there is extreme danger of a general demoralization of the crew of the ship which has sustained such an accident if they are permitted to brood over it before taking again to handle the big guns. The most inevitable result is a loss of "nerve" such as acrobats suffer when they have sustained a fall, the only means of avoiding which is to immediately renew the attempt to accomplish a particular feat of strength or ability which led to the accident. So in the case of the Georgia, it was felt to be absolutely necessary to get the men again in the turrets and at their work of handling the big guns, treating this disaster as just such an incident as might occur in the heat of action with a foe.

AWFUL ITCHING BURNING SPOTS

Formed on Legs and Exuded a Watery Matter—Then Spread to Arms—Kept Ankles Bandaged Over a Year Until Skin Was Made Smooth and

TORMENT WAS STOPPED IN 3 DAYS BY CUTICURA

"In December 1905 I had a blood-red spot about as large as a nickel come on my left shin about three inches above the ankle and in about two weeks the same kind of a spot came on the right shin. I did not know but it was poison from some black stockings but my wife said it could not be for she had washed them thoroughly twice. The spots spread until they were some two inches across. Then my shins and under my ankle-bones commenced to break out in a fine rash which extended about halfway to my knees. The burning and itching were something terrible and later the rash began to exude a watery matter. Finally it went to my elbows and above and below them. I doctored with two doctors but it did no good. I kept my ankles bandaged for over a year. One day a friend of mine said he believed the Cuticura Remedies would help me. I sent for them and in three days after using the Cuticura Remedies there was a complete change. The skin cleared up smooth and the itching stopped. I am still using the Cuticura Remedies for, once a week or so, some little spot will break out in a fine rash and commence to itch. But washing with Cuticura Soap and putting on Cuticura Ointment drives it all away. I am seventy-one years old to-day. Geo. N. Westcott, Postmaster, Ceylon, N. Y., Apr. 29, 1907."

SHIFTING ORE BOATS

Those at Duluth Sent to Two Harbors and Allouez.

Some Vessels May be Dropped if Strike Continues.

In case no settlement should be reached in the strike of the Missabe dock laborers before the end of the week, it may be found necessary to put a number of the ore carriers which come to the Head of the Lakes out of commission for the time being. It is said that the tow barges of the Pittsburg fleet will be dropped as fast as they get around.

Considerable shifting of boats was done on account of the strike yesterday. All the vessels waiting at the Missabe docks were sent out to Two Harbors or over to Allouez, and the boats on the way up to this port light were transferred to other docks en route.

It is said that the demands of the ore dock laborers on the Missabe dock will not be granted by the officials and the strike may last for weeks.

Shippers at the other lake ports besides Duluth are securing a good supply of tonnage and are fixed better than they have been for a month. One shipper chartered capacity for 100,000 tons to load during the week.

Outside of the ore trade the freight situation for the week has opened up very well. Coal tonnage continues to be in good demand at lower lake ports and grain is moving more freely and it is expected that the total movement for the month will be especially heavy.

On wheat and flax to Buffalo is still 2¼ cents which is a better rate than that on ore. The lumber market is in about the same shape as it was a week ago. The rates hold steady.

BIG TONNAGE INCREASE

Is Shown by Figures in Engineer Davis' Annual Report.

Detroit, July 16.—The annual report of United States Engineer C. E. L. B. Davis of Detroit, showing the expenditure of appropriations, going well up into the millions, that have been made for the improvement of the main thoroughfares through the Great Lakes, was given out yesterday.

It shows that the freight tonnage through the connecting waters of the Great Lakes for a period of twenty years reaches the enormous total of over $4,500,000,000, having already passed the half-billion mark per annum. Taking the ratio between commerce passing through the Detroit river and the St. Mary's river and applying it to the valuation, the total of the latter river for the same period of twenty years amounts to $5,611,224,490 in round numbers.

For the same period the total expenditure was $16,023,341, which was spent in improvements on the connecting waterways.

This amounts to a little over 2¾ per cent of the total freight values, and would seem to answer the question of whether the expenditure is justified.

"It must be remembered," said Engineer Davis, "that this great commerce has been created by these improvements, and that they are responsible for the great iron, coal and shipbuilding industries which give employment to thousands of men.

"The total tonnage transported through the connecting waters of the Great Lakes has risen from $79,031,757 in 1887 to $357,468,454 in 1906. In 1905 it amounted to $405,965,484."

	American Canal.	Canadian Canal.	Total Tonnage.
1907—Tons....	45,013,198	9,648,121	54,661,319
1906—Tons....	41,276,962	4,738,154	46,015,016
Gain in '07..	3,736,336	4,910,267	8,646,603

STEAMER MACK ASHORE.

Hits Rock at Sweet's Point in Dense Fog.

Detour, Mich., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer W. H. Mack went ashore in a dense fog last night at Sweet's point. The steamer is loaded with iron ore bound down and will have to be lightered before it can be floated. So far it is not damaged apparently.

BEGIN DREDGING SOON.

Company Will Commence Government Work This Week.

Work on the big dredging contract for the improvement of the Duluth and Superior harbor which was awarded to the Duluth-Superior Dredging company, will be commenced by that company some time this week. The work includes all the harbor improvements to be done by the government this season and over a million cubic yards of harbor bottom will be moved before the contract is completed.

The dredging company has informed the United States engineers under whose direction the work will be done, that it will be ready to begin the work within a few days. The big dredge "Old Hickory" the largest of its kind any where on the Great Lakes, which was built by this company last spring, will probably be used on this work.

The first part of the work to be done will probably be that of dredging the channel outside of the Duluth canal piers. This is to be dredged to a minimum depth of thirty feet for a distance of 1,000 feet.

Small Carriers Wanted.

Buffalo, July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is an urgent demand for small carriers, as numerous orders are coming from ports which the big steamers cannot reach. There is a limited supply of coal, but business is fairly active. Charters reported today were the steamers Culligan, Chicago, 40 cents; P. P. Miller, Superior, 30 cents.

Locate Dangerous Shoal.

Detroit, July 16.—The lake surveying party in Lake Erie has located a dangerous shoal of small extent one and a quarter miles north 25 degs. east of Hen Island. The shoal shows twenty-one and a half feet of water at the present high stage or eighteen feet at standard low water. The shoal is only three-quarters of a mile south of the direct course between Middle Ground and West Sister island lights.

HURLBURT FLOATED.

Wreckers Release Steamer Blown Ashore at Buffalo Last January.

Buffalo, July 16.—The propeller W. H. Hurlburt, which was blown ashore at the foot of Erie street in a gale last January, was floated today. The work of digging a channel from deep water to the stranded vessel proved most difficult owing to the shifting of sand in subsequent storms.

CLEARING CHANNEL.

Work May be Completed by End of Week.

It is expected that the south channel through the interstate bridge will be clear for the use of vessels before the end of the week. Maj. Fitch, government engineer, has again notified Capt. Reid that the scows and other obstructions now in the channel must be removed.

The south span of the wrecked bridge was swung around on to the draw rest over a month ago, but since that time Capt. Reid has used the channel for his scows and tugs and it has not been clear for vessels. It was stated, however, at the office of Maj. Fitch that the channel would be in use before the end of the week.

Before it can be used by vessels the channel will be "swept" to insure that there are no obstructions of a dangerous character at the bottom. At present there is a good deal of congestion of boats at this point and marine men are hoping that Capt. Reid will soon have the channel cleared for navigation.

To Raise Schooner Coyne.

Detroit, July 16.—Wrecker H. Baker will raise the schooner Coyne, sunk near Ballard's reef, Detroit river, by the steamer Wallula.

Freight Rates.

Cleveland, July 16.—Fifty cents was the best rate offered by local coal shippers to Milwaukee today and some business was done at that figure. Chartering in the ore trade was heavy, but nothing was done in grain.

Squires Buys Wooden Steamer.

The deal for the purchase of the wooden steamer Oregon by J. W. Squires of Marine City, from J. A. Calbick & Co., of Chicago, has been closed. The purchase price was not announced.

Her new owners, who are large owners of vessel tonnage in Marine City, will place her in the coal trade between Lake Erie and upper Detroit river and St. Clair river ports. She will tow the schooner James Mowatt.

May Move Goodrich Shops.

Manitowoc, Wis., July 16.—Confirmation has been received of the report that the Goodrich Transit company will remove its shops from this city, the report being verified in letters of officials of the company to the council committee on railways, which will call a meeting of business men in an effort to provide a site and induce the company to remain here. The company must vacate the property of the Manitowoc Drydock Co., which it has under lease, because of extensions which the drydock company will make, and having no other site on the river, is compelled to move. It is said the company has purchased docks at Muskegon and will go there if it cannot be cared for here.

Marine Briefs.

A big lighter recently built by Abram Smith & Son, Algoniac, Mich., has been named in honor of a Duluth man, D. G. Cutler. The lighter has 1,000 tons capacity.

The new freighter Smith Thompson of the United States Transportation company arrived on her maiden trip yesterday. On account of the strike at the ore docks she cleared for Two Harbors last night.

The reconstruction work on the Northern Pacific dock No. 6, has been completed and the slip has been dredged out. The dock will be in general use by package freighters soon.

The excursion steamer Mascotte, which was brought up from Portage Lake last week is being painted and repaired. It is not known yet what run she will be put on this summer.

Grain shipments from this port were better last week than at any other period this season. The shipments were greater than the receipts.

The passenger steamer Huronic of the Northern Navigation line made this port yesterday on her regular trip. She brought in the usual large list of passengers and cleared again at 8 o'clock last evening.

ON THE IRON RANGES

FIRST ORE FROM WESTERN MESABA

It Will be Shipped From Holman Mine at Taconite.

Taconite, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first ore to be shipped from the Western Mesaba will come from the Holman mine here, which is being rapidly developed. Superintendent Salsich is keeping things moving at the works and as a result this town is quite lively.

Taconite is nicely laid out. At present the O. I. M. company is building twenty houses for their employes, which, with the former buildings, gives the place quite a residence appearance. The Oliver Mercantile company owned by Damkruger Bros., were the pioneers in the new place, and they have a good business. The firm carries about $7,000 worth of goods and employs six clerks, and they are kept busy all the time. The store now is in the hands of the carpenters. The building has been doubled in width and raised to two stories, making a commodious building.

The Taconite hotel conducted by Mrs. John Burebe is crowded to its present capacity. The place is well kept up, clean, and the meals well served. Few places of Taconite's size have better hosteirles.

Other lines of business are also keeping up with the procession.

Taconite has a fine school house, a very pretty depot which is nearly completed, a baseball park and a waterworks system suitable for the needs of the village. A large machine shop and a locomotive repair works have just been completed.

BUILD BIG BLOCK AT GILBERT MINE

Mammoth Affair to be Put Up by C. E. Bailey.

Eveleth, Minn., July 16. — (Special to The Herald.)—A mammoth business block, 300 feet long, 60 feet wide and two stories in height, is to be erected by C. E. Bailey on the Bailey, Freeman, Smith & Robb townsite at the new Gilbert mine.

It will be constructed of cement blocks made with the American-Hydraulic Stone company's patent, will be divided on the first floor into twelve stores, occupying a full block of the town, and on the second floor into offices. The contract has been let to C. E. Bryan of Rock Island, Ill., and the cement block plant is already on the ground. It will be the first building of any kind started on this townsite. Mr. Bailey states that the American-Hydraulic Stone company expects to interest range contractors in their patent and would possibly farm out territory for this construction on a royalty basis. He says that in constructing this mammoth business block on what is yet only a site he can better afford to pay the company a royalty on each cement block made than construct it with any other cement machine on the market. Mr. Bailey preferred not to make public the estimated cost of the building. The Gilbert mine is five miles east of Eveleth and development work was commenced there the first of the year by the Oliver Iron Mining company, with General Supt. R. R. Tregonna, of the Fayal, in charge. The steel company will plat a town at the same place and those on the inside say that the town that will grow up, there will surpass Eveleth in size. As far as known no name has been agreed upon, but it is thought by some that it will be Gilbert.

FIRST BAKING IS EXPENSIVE ONE

Chimney Can't Stand Heat and Building Burns.

Eveleth, Minn., July 16.—(Special to Herald.)—The first batch of bread Dominic Ambruzzi baked Monday in his new quarters in an old building on Main street he had just fixed up for a bakery proved to be the last. The heat was too great for the chimney. The brick became over heated and set fire to the adjoining timbers. The fire department did everything possible to save the building but the fire had gained such a headway and the old structure proved such good food for the flames the department had to content itself with saving adjacent structures. The loss was about $1,300 with $1,000 insurance on the building and contents.

STRIKES TELEPHONE POLE.

Dennis Burns Receives Perhaps Fatal Injuries in Runaway.

Hibbing, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dennis Burns, aged 30, is in the Rood hospital suffering from a fractured skull received in a runaway Monday when, he was hurled against a telephone pole. He may die. Roy Desmois and Jack Kennedy, who were with him, were also thrown out and more or less injured. The three were driving a team belonging to the Guthrie Contracting company and going down Sellers avenue the horses becoming frightened, bolted. They left the street and crashed into a telephone pole.

The occupants were hurled out, Burns striking against the pole. Burns' parents live in St. Paul and they have been notified of his critical condition.

JUST SUSPENDED, NOT DISCHARGED

Miners Laid Off Temporarily Pending End of Dock Trouble.

Hibbing, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The strike of the ore trimmers at the docks of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad at Duluth is already being felt on the range. Work has been temporarily suspended in several of the mines in this district. None of the men, however, have been laid off or discharged, and it is hoped that work will again be resumed in a short time. The Morris and Burt mines were shut Monday noon, and this morning work was suspended at the Mahoning and Hull pits. The men employed are all at their respective places at the mines and ready to go to work at a moment's notice.

The rumor that there was a strike among the miners of this district yesterday proved to be apparently founded on nothing, as all of the men, both underground and in the open pits, were at their places the same as other days with no signs of any disturbance in sight.

MARRIED AT HIBBING.

William M. Webb and Mrs. Flora Congdon Are Made One.

Hibbing, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Frank Durant, pastor of Christ church, today performed the ceremony that made William M. Webb and Mrs. Flora Congdon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ide of the Webb location, husband and wife. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents at 10 a. m. The couple will enjoy their honeymoon in Southern Minnesota and returning here, be at home at 322 Garfield avenue, about Aug. 15. Mr. Webb is chief accountant for the Drake & Stratton company of this city.

ARE LAID TO REST.

Remains of Victims of Mine Explosion Interred in Lakeview Cemetery.

Tower, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of John H. Hill and Otto Makula, the two victims of the terrible explosion of dynamite in the Minnesota mine at Soudan, Saturday night, was held here today, where both are well known. Interment was made in Lakeview cemetery. The four others injured in the explosion are still in the hospital at Soudan and are expected to recover.

THREE LIVELY GAMES ARE PROMISED HIBBING.

Hibbing, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be great days for the Hibbing baseball fans, if the reports concerning Saskatchewan, Can., team are true. It is said that the Canadians are a faster bunch of ball players than the St. Paul Gophers (colored), who played here a few weeks ago. There are many players on the team who are well known in this part of the country, among whom are James Bond and Cook, the celebrated south paw. The ball park is in excellent condition, and it is expected that these three games will be as good exhibitions of the national sport as have ever been given in Hibbing.

DIPHTHERIA CLAIMS VICTIM AT WINTON.

Ely, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several cases of malignant diphtheria have appeared at Winton, three miles from here. The infant son of Loule Barto died from the effects of this dread disease Sunday night. Another child in the family is also seriously ill with diphtheria. Samuel Hunter has the disease, but is now out of danger.

Judge Thomas Whitta of the municipal court is seriously ill at the Sherman hospital with Bright's disease and other complications. While he is getting along as well as could be expected, he is a very sick man, and his recovery is somewhat in doubt.

RANGES IN BRIEF

Virginia—M. Steenberg has departed for Hamilton, Mont., where he will begin development on the claims of the Oveswicz Mining company, the stock of which is largely held here.

Virginia—Manager R. A. McLean of the Bijou theater has gone to Minneapolis to close arrangements to have Virginia played in the same vaudeville circuit as Hibbing and other range towns.

Virginia—Heavy batting and a generally fast game of ball was played here yesterday by the Virginia and Chisholm Juniors, the former winning by a score of 4 to 3.

Ely—A dispute that would not be settled stopped the game of ball here Sunday between the married men and the bachelors in the eighth inning, the score being 6 to 4 in favor of the benedicts.

Hibbing—Mr. and Mrs. Wadsworth of Hibbing have received word of the death at Menominee, Mich., of their granddaughter, Helen, the 3-year-old child of Mrs. A. S. Bailey of Menominee, their daughter. Mrs. Bailey recently visited her parents here with her child and the little one's death comes as a distinct shock.

Chisholm—Ernest Hodge has gone to Butte, Mont., on a visit to his parents, whom he has not seen for twelve years.

PROCTOR FEELS STRIKE EFFECTS

Not Such an Idle Appearance Since Carmen's Strike.

Proctor, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not since the carmen's strike about a year ago has Proctor presented such an idle appearance, because of the strike at the Duluth ore docks preventing the movement of trains. Five hundred or more men living here are dependent upon the movement of ore trains for their livelihood and these are naturally affected.

For the first day there appeared to be little complaint among the men here as a day or two off will not be unwelcome. If the strike continues any length of time, however, it will unquestionably bring about a good deal of hardship among families depending upon ore movements for a livelihood.

A large number of Proctorites went to Duluth yesterday, among them being Mrs. George Anderson, Mrs. H. E. O'Malley and sister, Mrs. John Judge. Mrs. A. J. Titman, Mrs. S. Elliott, Gordon Flourd, Mrs. T. Holder, Mrs. C. Green, Miss Eva Lemay, Mrs. J. Marshall, Miss Grace Lewis, Mrs. B. Simkins, Miss Cora Cheneweth and Mrs. W. C. Kimball.

was overcome by the gas and had to be carried to the open air. Then Frank Graves, a repair man, was sent by the company.

Graves turned offi the gas, and, followed closely by the landlady, Mrs. Belle Jennings, entered the room. Then he struck a match.

Both Graves and Mrs. Jennings, the latter weighing 250 pounds, were hurled thirty feet through the air, landing in a heap at the far end of the hall. Mrs. Jennings was but slightly hurt, while Graves was badly burned about the face and head.

A panic at once seized the occupants of the hotel, most of whom were in bed. Thinking the building was afire many of the women rushed frantically to the windows and were only restrained from jumping by the police.

A. Warren and wife were in bed in a room adjoining the bathroom. They were blown into the air, while the bed was hurled from beneath them through the window. They were but slightly bruised.

The building is a complete wreck in the vicinity of the bathroom. The walls and ceiling are torn and rent, doors and windows are torn out bodily, and the wrecked stairway and halls are filled with debris.

AWFUL ITCHING BURNING SPOTS

Formed on Legs and Exuded a Watery Matter—Then Spread to Arms—Kept Ankles Bandaged Over a Year Until Skin Was Made Smooth and

TORMENT WAS STOPPED IN 3 DAYS BY CUTICURA

"In December 1905 I had a blood-red spot about as large as a nickel come on my left shin about three inches above the ankle and in about two weeks the same kind of a spot came on the right shin. I did not know but it was poison from some black stockings but my wife said it could not be for she had washed them thoroughly twice. The spots spread until they were some two inches across. Then my shins and under my ankle-bones commenced to break out in a fine rash which extended about halfway to my knees. The burning and itching were something terrible and later the rash began to exude a watery matter. Finally it went to my elbows and above and below them. I doctored with two doctors but it did no good. I kept my ankles bandaged for over a year. One day a friend of mine said he believed the Cuticura Remedies would help me. I sent for them and in three days after using the Cuticura Remedies there was a complete change. The skin cleared up smooth and the itching stopped. I am still using the Cuticura Remedies for, once a week or so, some little spot will break out in a fine rash and commence to itch. But washing with Cuticura Soap and putting on Cuticura Ointment drives it all away. I am seventy-one years old to-day. Geo. N. Westcott, Postmaster, Ceylon, N. Y., Apr. 29, 1907."

SHIFTING ORE BOATS

Those at Duluth Sent to Two Harbors and Allouez.

Some Vessels May be Dropped if Strike Continues.

In case no settlement should be reached in the strike of the Missabe dock laborers before the end of the week, it may be found necessary to put a number of the ore carriers which come to the Head of the Lakes out of commission for the time being. It is said that the tow barges of the Pittsburg fleet will be dropped as fast as they get around.

Considerable shifting of boats was done on account of the strike yesterday. All the vessels waiting at the Missabe docks were sent out to Two Harbors or over to Allouez, and the boats on the way up to this port light were transferred to other docks en route.

It is said that the demands of the ore dock laborers on the Missabe dock will not be granted by the officials and the strike may last for weeks.

Shippers at the other lake ports besides Duluth are securing a good supply of tonnage and are fixed better than they have been for a month. One shipper chartered capacity for 100,000 tons to load during the week.

Outside of the ore trade the freight situation for the week has opened up very well. Coal tonnage continues to be in good demand at lower lake ports and grain is moving more freely and it is expected that the total movement for the month will be especially heavy. The rate on wheat and flax to Buffalo is still 2¼ cents which is a better rate than that on ore. The lumber market is in about the same shape as it was a week ago. The rates hold steady.

BIG TONNAGE INCREASE

Is Shown by Figures in Engineer Davis' Annual Report.

Detroit, July 16.—The annual report of United States Engineer C. E. B. Davis of Detroit, showing the expenditure of appropriations, going well up into the millions, that have been made for the improvement of the main thoroughfares through the Great Lakes, was given out yesterday.

It shows that the freight tonnage through the connecting waters of the Great Lakes for a period of twenty years reaches the enormous total of over $4,500,000,000, having already passed the half-billion mark per annum. Taking the ratio between commerce passing through the Detroit river and the St. Mary's river and applying it to the valuation, the total of the latter river for the same period of twenty years amounts to $5,611,234,000 in round numbers.

For the same period the total expenditure was $15,223,241, which was spent in improvements on the connecting waterways.

This amounts to a little over 2¾ per cent of the total freight values, and would seem to answer the question of whether the expenditure is justified.

"It must be remembered," said Engineer Davis, "that this great commerce has been created by these improvements, and that they are responsible for the great iron, coal and shipbuilding industries which give employment to thousands of men.

"The total tonnage transported through the connecting waters of the Great Lakes has risen from 79,091,757 in 1887 to 267,482,454 in 1906. In 1906 it amounted to 346,926,854."

	American Canal	Canadian Canal	Total Tonnage.
1907—Tons	15,091,198	9,588,421	24,661,619
1906—Tons	11,275,362	4,738,154	16,015,916
Gain in '07	3,756,336	4,910,267	8,646,603

STEAMER MACK ASHORE.

Hits Rock at Sweet's Point in Dense Fog.

Detour, Mich., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer W. H. Mack went ashore in a dense fog last night at Sweet's point. The steamer is loaded with iron ore bound down and will have to be lightered before it can be floated. So far it is not damaged apparently.

BEGIN DREDGING SOON.

Company Will Commence Government Work This Week.

Work on the big dredging contract for the improvement of the Duluth and Superior harbor which was awarded to the Duluth-Superior Dredging company, will be commenced by that company some time this week. The work includes all the harbor improvements to be done by the government this season and over a million cubic yards of harbor bottom will be moved before the contract is completed.

The dredging company has informed the United States engineers under whose direction the work will be done, that it will be ready to begin the work within a few days. The big dredge "Old Hickory" the largest of its kind any where on the Great Lakes, which was built by this company last spring, will probably be used on this work.

The first part of the work to be done will probably be that of dredging the channel outside of the Duluth canal piers. This is to be dredged to a minimum depth of thirty feet for a distance of 1,000 feet.

Small Carriers Wanted.

Buffalo, July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is an urgent demand for small carriers, as numerous orders are coming from ports which the big steamers cannot reach. There is a limited supply of coal, but business is fairly active. Charters reported today were the steamers Culligan, Chicago, 40 cents; P. P. Miller, Superior, 30 cents.

Locate Dangerous Shoal.

Detroit, July 15.—The lake surveying party in Lake Erie has located a dangerous shoal of small extent one and a quarter miles north 25 degs. east of Hen Island. The shoal shows twenty-one and a half feet of water at the present high stage or eighteen feet at standard low water. The shoal is only three-quarters of a mile south of the direct course between Middle Ground and West Sister island lights.

HURLBURT FLOATED.

Wreckers Release Steamer Blown Ashore at Buffalo Last January.

Buffalo, July 15.—The propeller W. H. Hurlburt, which was blown ashore at the foot of Erie street in a gale last January, was floated today. The work of digging a channel from deep water to the stranded vessel proved most difficult owing to the shifting of sand in subsequent storms.

CLEARING CHANNEL.

Work May be Completed by End of Week.

It is expected that the south channel through the interstate bridge will be clear for the use of vessels before the end of the week. Maj. Fitch, government engineer, has again notified Capt. Reid that the scows and other obstructions now in the channel must be removed.

The south span of the wrecked bridge was swung around on to the draw rest over a month ago, but since that time Capt. Reid has used the channel for his scows and tugs and it has not been clear for vessels. It was stated, however, at the office of Maj. Fitch that the channel would be in use before the end of the week.

Before it can be used by vessels the channel will be "swept" to insure that there are no obstructions of a dangerous character at the bottom. At present there is a good deal of congestion of boats at this point and marine men are hoping that Capt. Reid will soon have the channel cleared for navigation.

To Raise Schooner Coyne.

Detroit, July 15.—Wrecker H. Baker will raise the schooner Coyne, sunk near Pollard's reef, Detroit river, by the steamer Wahtula.

Freight Rates.

Cleveland, July 15.—Fifty cents was the best rate offered by local coal shippers to Milwaukee today and some business was done at that figure. Chartering in the ore trade was heavy, but nothing was done in grain.

Squires Buys Wooden Steamer.

The deal for the purchase of the wooden steamer Oregon by J. W. Squires of Marine City, from J. A. Paddock & Co., of Chicago, has been closed. The purchase price was not announced.

Her new owners, who are large owners of vessel tonnage in Marine City, will place her in the coal trade between Lake Erie and upper Detroit river and St. Clair river ports. She will tow the schooner James Mowatt.

May Move Goodrich Shops.

Manitowoc, Wis., July 15.—Confirmation has been received of the report that the Goodrich Transit company, will remove its shops from this city, the report being verified in letters of officials of the company to the council committee on railways, which will call a meeting of business men in an effort to provide a site and induce the company to remain here. The company must vacate the property of the Manitowoc Drydock Co., which it has under lease, because of extensions which the drydock company will make, and having no other site on the river, is compelled to move. It is said the company has purchased docks at Muskegon and will go there if it cannot be cared for here.

The new freighter Smith Thompson of the United States Transportation company, arrived on her maiden trip yesterday. On account of the strike at the ore docks she cleared for Two Harbors last night.

The reconstruction work on the Northern Pacific dock No. 5, has been completed and the slip has been dredged out. The dock will be in general use by package freighters soon.

The excursion steamer Mascotte, which was brought up from Portage Lake last week is being painted and repaired. It is not known yet what run she will be put on this summer.

Grain shipments from this port were better last week than at any other period this season. The shipments were greater than the receipts.

The passenger steamer Huronic of the Northern Navigation line made this port yesterday on her regular trip. She brought in the usual large list of passengers and cleared again at 8 o'clock last evening.

ON THE IRON RANGES

FIRST ORE FROM WESTERN MESABA

It Will be Shipped From Holman Mine at Taconite.

Taconite, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first ore to be shipped from the Western Mesaba will come from the Holman mine here, which is being rapidly developed. Superintendent Salsich is keeping things moving at the works and as a result this town is quite lively.

Taconite is nicely laid out. At present the O. I. M. company is building twenty houses for their employes, which, with the former buildings gives the place quite a residence appearance. The Oliver Mercantile company owned by Duke Kruger Bros., were the pioneers in the new place, and they have a good business. The firm carries about $7,000 worth of goods and employs six clerks, and they are kept busy all the time. The store now is in the hands of the carpenters. The building has been doubled in width and raised to two stories, making a commodious building.

The Taconite hotel conducted by Mrs. John Burebe is crowded to its present capacity. The place is well kept up, clean, and the meals well served. Few places of Taconite's size have better hostelries.

Other lines of business are also keeping up with the procession.

Taconite has a fine school house, a very pretty depot which is nearly completed, a baseball park and a waterworks system suitable for the needs of the village. A large machine shop and a locomotive repair works have just been completed.

BUILD BIG BLOCK AT GILBERT MINE

Mammoth Affair to be Put Up by C. E. Bailey.

Eveleth, Minn., July 16. — (Special to The Herald.)—A mammoth business block, 300 feet long, 60 feet wide and two stories in height, is to be erected by C. E. Bailey on the Bailey, Freeman, Smith & Robb townsite at the new Gilbert mine. It will be constructed of cement blocks made with the American-Hydraulic Stone company's patent, will be divided on the first floor into twelve stores, occupying a full block of the town, and on the second floor into offices. The contract has been let to C. E. Bryan of Rock Island, Ill., and the cement block plant is already on the ground. It will be the first building of any kind started on this townsite. Mr. Bailey states that the American-Hydraulic Stone company expects to interest range contractors in their patent and would possibly farm out territory for this construction on a royalty basis. He says that in constructing this mammoth business block on what is yet only a site he can better afford to pay the company a royalty on each cement block made than construct it with any other cement machine on the market. Mr. Bailey preferred not to make public the estimated cost of the building. The Gilbert mine is five miles east of Eveleth and development work was commenced there the first of the year by the Oliver Iron Mining company, with General Supt. R. R. Trezona, of the Fayal, in charge. The steel company will plat a town at the same place and those on the inside say that the town that will grow up, there will surpass Eveleth in size. As far as known no name has been agreed upon, but it is thought by some that it will be Gilbert.

Chimney Can't Stand Heat and Building Burns.

Eveleth, Minn., July 16.—(Special to Herald.)—The first batch of bread Dominic Ambruzzi baked Monday in his new quarters in an old building on Main street he had just fixed up for a bakery proved to be the last. The heat was too great for the chimney. The brick became over heated and set fire to the adjoining timbers. The fire department did everything possible to save the building but the fire had gained such a headway and the old structure proved such good food for the flames the department had to content itself with saving adjacent strucures. The loss was about $1,300 with $1,000 insurance on the building and contents.

STRIKES TELEPHONE POLE.

Dennis Burns Receives Perhaps Fatal Injuries in Runaway.

Hibbing, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dennis Burns, aged 30, is in the Rood hospital suffering from a fractured skull received in a runaway Monday when, he was hurled against a telephone pole. He may die. Roy Destarols and Jack Kennedy, who were with him, were also thrown out and more or less injured. The three were driving a team belonging to the Guthrie Contracting company and going down Sellers avenue the horses becoming frightened, bolted. They left the street and crashed into a telephone pole.

The occupants were hurled out, Burns striking against the pole. Burns' parents live in St. Paul and they have been notified of his critical condition.

JUST SUSPENDED, NOT DISCHARGED

Miners Laid Off Temporarily Pending End of Dock Trouble.

Hibbing, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The strike of the ore trimmers at the docks of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad at Duluth is already being felt on the range. Work has been temporarily suspended in several of the mines in this district. None of the men, however, have been laid off or discharged, and it is hoped that work will again be resumed in a short time. The Morris and Burt mines are shut down today noon, and this morning work was suspended at the Mahoning and Hull pits. The men employed are all at their respective places at the mines and ready to go to work at a moment's notice.

The rumor that there was a strike among the miners of this district yesterday proved to be apparently founded on nothing, as all of the men, both underground and in the open pits, were at their place the same as other days with no signs of any disturbance in sight.

MARRIED AT HIBBING.

William M. Webb and Mrs. Flora Congdon Are Made One.

Hibbing, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Frank Durant, pastor of Carist church, today performed the ceremony that made William M. Webb and Mrs. Flora Congdon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ide of the Webb location, husband and wife. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents at 10 a. m. The couple will enjoy their honeymoon in Southern Minnesota, and returning here, be at home at 322 Garfield avenue, about Aug. 15. Mr. Webb is chief accountant for the Drake & Stratton company of this city.

ARE LAID TO REST.

Remains of Victims of Mine Explosion Interred in Lakeview Cemetery.

Tower, Minn., July 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of John H. Hill and Otto Makula, the two victims of the terrible explosion of dynamite in the Minnesota mine at Soudan, Saturday night, was held here today, where both are well known. Interment was made in Lakeview cemetery. The four others injured in the explosion are still in the hospital at Soudan and are expected to recover.

THREE LIVELY GAMES ARE PROMISED HIBBING.

Hibbing, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be great days for the Hibbing baseball fans, if the reports concerning Saskatchewan, Can., team are true. It is said that the Canadians are a faster bunch of ball players than the St. Paul Gophers (colored), who played here a few weeks ago. There are many players on the team who are well known in this part of the country, among whom are James Bond and Cook, the celebrated south paw. The ball park is in excellent condition, and it is expected that these three games will be as good exhibitions of the national sport as have ever been given in Hibbing.

DIPHTHERIA CLAIMS VICTIM AT WINTON.

Ely, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several cases of malignant diphtheria have appeared at Winton, three miles from here. The infant son of Louie Barto died from the effects of this dread disease Sunday night. Another child in the family is also seriously ill with diphtheria. Samuel Hunter has the disease, but is now out of danger.

Judge Thomas Whitta of the municipal court is seriously ill at the Sherman hospital with Bright's disease and other complications. While he is getting along as well as could be expected, he is a very sick man, and his recovery is somewhat in doubt.

RANGES IN BRIEF

Virginia—M. Steenberg has departed for Hamilton, Mont., where he will begin development on the claims of the Oveswiez Mining company, the stock of which is largely held here.

Virginia—Manager R. A. McLean of the Bijou theater has gone to Minneapolis to close arrangements to have Virginia played in the same vaudeville circuit as Hibbing and other range towns.

Virginia—Heavy batting and a generally fast game of ball was played here yesterday by the Virginia and Chisholm Juniors, the former winning by a score of 4 to 3.

Ely—A dispute that would not be settled stopped the game of ball here Sunday between the married men and the bachelors in the eighth inning, the score being 5 to 4 in favor of the bachelors.

Hibbing—Mr. and Mrs. Wadsworth of Hibbing have received word of the death at Menominee, Mich., of their granddaughter, Helen, the 3-year-old child of Mrs. A. S. Bailey of Menominee, their daughter. Mrs. Bailey recently visited her parents here with her child and the little one's death comes as a distinct shock.

Chisholm—Ernest Hodge has gone to Butte, Mont., on a visit to his parents, whom he has not seen for twelve years.

PROCTOR FEELS STRIKE EFFECTS

Not Such an Idle Appearance Since Carmen's Strike.

Proctor, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not since the carmen's strike about a year ago has Proctor presented such an idle appearance, because of the strike at the Duluth ore docks preventing the movement of trains. Five hundred or more men living here are dependent upon the movement of ore trains for their livelihood and these are naturally affected.

For the first day there appeared to be little complaint among the men here as a day or two off will not be unwelcome. If the strike continues any length of time, however, it will unquestionably bring about a good deal of hardship among families depending upon ore movements for a livelihood.

A large number of Proctorites went to Duluth yesterday, among them being Mrs. George Anderson, Mrs. E. O'Malley and sister, Mrs. John Judge, Mrs. A. J. Titman, Mrs. S. Elliott, Gordon Flourd, Mrs. T. Holder, Mrs. C. Green, Miss Eva Lemay, Mrs. J. Marshall, Miss Grace Lewis, Mrs. B. Simkins, Miss Cora Chenewoth and Mrs. W. C. Kimball.

was overcome by the gas and had to be carried to the open air. Then Frank Graves, a repair man, was sent by the company.

Graves turned off the gas, and, followed closely by the landlady, Mrs. Belle Jennings, entered the room. Then he struck a match.

Both Graves and Mrs. Jennings, the latter weighing 250 pounds, were hurled thirty feet through the air, landing in a heap at the far end of the hall. Mrs. Jennings was but slightly hurt, while Graves was badly burned about the face and head.

A panic at once seized the occupants of the hotel, most of whom were in bed. Thinking the building was afire many of the women rushed frantically to the windows and were only restrained from jumping by the police.

A. Warren and wife were in bed in a room adjoining the bathroom. They were blown into the air, while the bed was hurled from beneath them through the window. They were but slightly bruised.

The building is a complete wreck in the vicinity of the bathroom. The walls and ceiling are torn and rent, doors and windows are torn out bodily, and the wrecked stairway and halls are filled with debris.

"BOOZE SHIP" IS UNDER THE BAN

Capt. Jacob Mann was arrested this morning on a warrant charging him with selling two bottles of beer to John Hanson last Sunday.

Capt. Mann entered a plea of not guilty, and his trial was set for next Thursday at 2 p. m.

Local Brevities.

The "Fitwell's" sale on outing suits at $10 has broken all clothing records in the history of Duluth.

MARKET IS WEAK AGAIN

Wheat Closes Lower as Result of Better Crop Conditions.

Flax is Off at the Close in the Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 16—Wheat closed lower in all of the American markets today and the foreign markets had a weaker tone. Rains in the Northwest and predictions of more were the chief causes for the decline. The shorts were behind a rally which came about the middle of the session but the market eased off again afterwards. Liverpool closed ¼d to ⅜d lower, Berlin ⅞c lower and Budapest ⅝c lower.

The September option closed 1⅛c lower in Duluth, Minneapolis and Chicago, ⅞c in New York, ⅞-1c in St. Louis and 1c in Kansas City. The October option closed ⅛c lower in Chicago. The December option closed ⅝c lower in Duluth, 1c in Chicago and New York, ¾c in Minneapolis and Kansas City, and 1-⅛c in St. Louis.

September corn closed ⅛c lower in Chicago and was ½d lower in Liverpool. September oats closed ⅝-⅝c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat opened quiet, ½d lower on weak American cables, larger American receipts and the increase in the visible supply here. Poor inquiry and continued favorable weather in the United Kingdom made an additional decline of ⅛d to ¼d.

"Corn started quiet and ¼d lower and further eased ⅛d on liberal cargoes pressing for sale and in sympathy with wheat."

Primary receipts of wheat were 533,000 bus, last year 198,000 bus. Shipments 319,000 bus, last year 326,000 bus.

Bradstreet' report a decrease of 3,218,000 bus, in the world's visible supply of wheat. East of the Rockies there was an increase of 1,311,000 bus, in Canada a decrease of 1,329,000 bus, and in Afloat and in Europe, a decrease of 3,200,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 606,000 bus, last year 529,000 bus. Shipments 340,000 bus, last year 355,000 bus.

The world's visible supply of corn decreased 1,880,000.

Wheat was rather quiet during the session of the Duluth market. July wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.00⅝ and declined by the close to 99c, a loss of 1½c from yesterday. September wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.00¾, declined to $1.00⅝, rallied to $1.00⅞, declined to $1.00¾, reacted to $1.00⅝, fluctuated to 99¼c, rallied to 99⅜c and closed at that price, a loss of 1¼c from yesterday. December wheat opened ⅜c lower at 99c, advanced to 99½c, declined to 98⅜c and closed at that price, a loss of ⅝c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ½c lower and cash spring wheat was selling at the September price for No. 1 northern.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Weak on Lower Cables, But Soon Sharply Rallies.

Chicago, July 16.—The wheat market today opened weak because of lower cables and rains in the Northwest. Later a sharp rally occurred on covering by shorts and much of the early loss was regined. September wheat opened ½@⅝c to ⅝@¾c lower at 92⅞c to 93¼c and sold at 93⅜c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 458 cars against 391 cars last week and 586 cars one year ago.

The firmness, however, was of short duration, the market again becoming weak on renewed liquidation. For September the lowest point of the day was reached at 92⅝c. The market closed weak with prices almost at the bottom, final quotations on September being down 1¼c at 92¾@¾c.

The corn market opened weak because of lower cables and rains throughout the corn belt. September corn opened ⅛@¼c lower at 53⅝ to 53⅝c and sold at 53⅜c. Local receipts were 415 cars with 44 of contract grade.

The market continued weak all day. The low point for September was 53½@⅝c. The market closed weak, with September off ¼c at 53⅜c.

The weather conditions affecting the price of wheat and corn also dominated the oats pit. September oats opened at ¼@⅜c lower at 39c to 39¼c and sold at 39¼c. Local receipts were 168 cars.

The provisions market was quiet and prices were firm because of a 5c advance in the price of liev hogs. September pork opened 10c higher at $16.45. Lard was up 5c at $9.02½. Ribs were 2½c higher at $8.67½.

Close: Wheat—July, 89½c; September, 93⅜@½c. Corn—July, 53¼c; September, 53⅜c. Oats—July, 43¾c; September, 38⅝@⅞c. Pork—July, $16.27½; September, $16.42½@16.45. Lard—July, $8.80; September, $9. Ribs—July, $8.47½; September, $8.65. Rye—Cash, 84@87c. Barley—Cash, 55@66c. Flax, clover and timothy, nothing doing. Chicago to Paine, Webber & Co.: Wheat—Traders had another day of bull news and bear market. It seems that the trade is not taking the bull news from the spring wheat country as gospel truth. Later the trade took to the selling side, regardless of news, discouraged holders sold out. There is too much wet weather over the winter wheat harvesting states. There are some discouraging features in the situation for holders, but the market has had too much of a break to make it safe for more selling.

Corn showed some stubbornes in the face of the break in wheat. On each dip during the day there was good buying. Western points wire weather too wet for corn. There is little disposition to take the bear side owing to the doubtful condition of the growing crop and prices are in shape to follow very quickly any upturn in wheat.

Oats—There was considerable liquidation by longs both local and outside in the oats today. This market has but sixty-five cars for tomorrow. Some leaders are adding to their lines on each little break.

Provisions—Offerings were light and prices ruled at fair advances early with part of the gain lost at the close.

Copper Gossip.

Boston, to Vern R. Culbertson: Copper stocks opened active and lower, with Range, North Butte and Utah Consolidated most active. The list is depressed for sale and in this narrow market sells off easily, although there has been a better demand for it today with the rest of the list. Business was mostly confined to odd lots. The feeling is growing that there will have to be another cut in the price of the metal as the first cut has not brought as large sales as expected. Prices could be cut to 20 cents and our producing companies still make big money and so present prices discount a cut below these figures. we see no reason to expect lower prices but rather a dull market.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: There is nothing encouraging in the situation yet. Consumers are not buying any copper and the speculative element are all taking lower prices. Brokers will be obliged to charge 7 to 7½ per cent interest this month and people will sell when they realize this. The bear party is working in Utah and they have taken advantage of the narrowness of the market to break the price. Very little Copper Range and North Butte are coming out, but buying orders are scarce. We expect a traders' market for some time with small fluctuations, but believe the best money can be made on the short side.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: The news today was generally favorable except for the marked weakness in copper abroad. The general market showed great strength almost all day and closed near highest for the entire movement as far as rails went. During the recessions the market got extremely dull showing no liquidation whatever. The railroads have appearance of going considerably higher.

The copper situation is very much mixed. It has been reported large sales have been made at the reduction. We have good reason to believe this is not the case and that 5,000,000 pounds by the big independent is so far the extent of sales made. The foreign copper market is very weak and events seem to foreshadow a 20 per cent price within a few weeks. Whether or not it will sell lower depends upon whether or not the smaller companys are forced into the market for what their product will bring. The stock market locally is absolutely lifeless. There is no speculative business and the tendency seems to be to sag.

The Cotton Market.

New York, July 16.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 15 points on July, which sold at 11.70 on the call, and of 3 to 5 points on later positions on covering and some further support from recent buyers. During the early session the market worked up to a net gain of about 10 to 12 points on the actie months, July being particularly neglected, but turned irregular during the middle of the morning, with fluctuations narrow. The adance was checked by realizing, continued good weather over the South, together with rumors that leading professional interests were still against the market.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Market Closed Active and Strong at the Best Prices.

Easy Tone to Call Money Was Regarded as Favorable.

New York, July 16.—Stocks opened lower under the influence of weakness of Americans in the London market, but declines were not down fully to the London parity. Copper stocks were affected by the slump in the prices of copper warrants in London. Amalgamated Copper fell 1⅛, Canadian Pacific 1 and Anaconda ¾. Dealings were small and the movement was languid.

Stocks were supported at the opening decline and prices recovered to above last night. The trading then became extremely dull.

Prices slowly hardened, centering on Union Pacific buying, which rose 1½. Great Northern preferred gained 1½ and Southern Pacific, Reading and Wabash preferred 1 to 1¼. Mackay companies fell 1⅛. Bonds were steady.

Prices were maintained, Union Pacific rising 2 in all, but trading decreased to nominal proportions at the noon hour.

Amalgamated Copper reacted 1¼ on the further reduction in quotations for the metal at the metal exchange. The general list moved sluggishly in sympathy.

The market closed strong and quite active. Amalgamated Copper was carried nearly a point lower than last night's closing, with effect on the whole list. United States Realty rose 1. The selling pressure was lifted allowing recoveries. Union Pacific rose 3 over last night, Northern Pacific 2, Southern Pacific 1¾, Pacific Mail 1⅜, Canadian Pacific 1¼ and Kansas & Texas, 1.

Stock Gossip.

Logan & Bryan, New York, to Paine, Webber & Co.: Again the bears are routed and the market closed active and strong at the best prices of the day. There was not much news of importance, but the easy tone of call money was regarded as favorable, and the interests behind the market are not inclined to let their bullish enthusiasm subside. It is the concensus of opinion among good judges that stocks are a purchase on recessions with the view of ultimately higher prices in the fall.

SALOON IS A NUISANCE

"It raises the very devil with us all the time," was the terse comment of President W. H. Cook of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Rainy Lake Railway company and officer of the Virginia Lumber company, this morning, when examined before the county board concerning the situation in the company's camps because of the proximity of French & Flower's saloon in the town of French.

The board held a special meeting this morning at which French was cited to appear to show cause why his license should not be revoked, complaints having been made by officers of the lumber company and by many settlers that he has been violating the state liquor laws, and that his place is a nuisance.

French was represented by C. O. Baldwin of this city, who objected to any testimony being taken on the ground that the order to show cause did not state the charges against him. Chairman Patterson said the board had received numerous complaints that the saloon was not being properly conducted, and was disposed to get at the truth of the matter.

Mr. Cook reiterated his former statements to the board concerning the trouble that French's saloon has made in the camps, cutting down their capacity from one-third to a half. He said that the railway company has made every effort to prevent the shipment of liquor to the camps, and has taken whisky off its train at headquarters by the basketful and sackful and held it in the warehouse to keep it from getting to the camps. Mr. Cook denied that freight is carried for anybody over the branch road, except the Virginia Lumber company, for whose special use the road was constructed. He admitted that a consignment of beer to French was thrown off the platform of the depot at Virginia, and said that the brewing company had been told that it would not be accepted for shipment.

"What is more," declared Mr. Cook, "we will throw off any more that may be left there for shipment."

According to Mr. Cook the trains over the branch road are watched very carefully to prevent liquor being carried in to any great quantity, so that all that does get to the camps with the woodsmen is not enough to do any damage.

Archie La Crosse, a loader in camp 22, for the Virginia Lumber company, said he bought liquor at French's place last Sunday, and that he saw five other men in the place buying liquor and drinking it. This was a direct contradiction to French's sworn testimony yesterday that he had not sold liquor any Sunday since he was convicted and fined last month.

Victor Johnson, a woodsman employed at camp 13 of the lumber company, testified that he visited French's saloon last Saturday evening and was inside the saloon drinking and buying liquor until ten minutes of 12 o'clock. He said he bought four bottles of whisky and six bottles of beer. Under cross-examination Johnson denied that he was put out, that he made a rumpus or was slapped by French for attempting to kick in the door. Charles Dudley, a woodsman from one of the camps, said that he knew French sold liquor before he secured a license.

Julian Gifford, a scaler at Camp 22, said three men left the camp last Sunday, starting toward French's saloon, and came back in the afternoon drunk. One of the men, he said, made three trips and got back, finally, Monday morning, bringing a bottle of whisky that he said came from French's.

Mr. Gifford testified that last Sunday it was rather tame about camp as compared with previous Sundays when as many as fifty men would be drunk at a time.

J. E. Mulligan testified that the men leave the camps in large numbers Sundays and say they are going over to French's saloon. He claimed that he does not know of another place in the vicinity where liquor can be procured. Mr. Mulligan said that the conditions have been pretty bad about the camps because of the liquor sold the men Sundays.

Robert Lindsay, superintendent for the lumber company, said that there have been many days when it was impossible to load a single car because the men were drunk, or unfit for work. He said there were on the average about 140 men to a camp. He claimed that liquor in quantity does not get into the camps over the logging road, that French's saloon is the only place in the vicinity of the camps where the men get liquor.

The hearing was not completed at noon when the board adjourned until 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

LODGE NOTES

Grand Officers Coming.

Thursday evening, July 18, Alpha council, Modern Samaritans, will receive a visit from the grand council of the state of Minnesota, and will serve a banquet in their honor and initiate candidates in the Samaritan and beneficient degrees.

Betra, West Duluth, Proctor, Two Harbors and Superior councils will be represented. The work will be done by the best degree team in the order and members of outside councils are invited and an instructive evening will be enjoyed. The members of the grand council are as follows:

At the next meeting the question of women's rights in the council will be discussed and they will be accorded the same rights and privileges as the Samaritan degree and meet on the first Monday of each month. The picnic committee to meet with Alpha and Beta this evening at 502 Lonsdale building was appointed by G. S. Mallory and is composed of the following members: Dr. Greely, R. D. De Bow, K. Jackson, M. Filiatrault, J. A. Scott, J. H. Cook, Mrs. Salter, Mrs. J. A. Scott, Minnie Anderson, Mrs. R. D. De Bow, Mrs. Herman, Ethel Wright, Anna Cock, Emma Fisher, Anna Cook.

MORE WAGES FOR POSTAL CLERKS

Postmaster Guy Eaton today received notice from the postoffice authorities at Washington that the new schedule of wages for postal clerks had been allowed according to the new law passed by congress at the last session.

Mr. Eaton had recommended all of the clerks at the Duluth office for a raise, but the new law affects only those under the $1,100 class. All clerks below the $700 class will receive $200 raise, while the rest of the clerks up to those in the $1,100 class will get a raise of $100.

About the first of the month when the carlers in this city received notice of the new scale of wages it was expected that the clerks would be included, but at that time no word to that effect was received. The clerks have been anxiously awaiting further news, and were jubilant when Mr. Eaton announced that he had received notice today.

Under the new law the promotions in all classes below that of $1,100 will be made according to the classification and will not depend upon the recommendations of the postmaster as heretofore. Clerks in the $1,100 class or above, will depend on the recommendations of the postmaster for promotion.

As the new law went into effect on July 1, the new schedule of wages will be effective from that time.

CALLED HIS PHYSICIAN.

Jason Bemis, an Owatonna Pioneer, Then Ends His Life.

Owatonna, Minn., July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Summoning his family physician and the coroner to his home, Jason Bemis, a pioneer resident of this place, last night committed suicide in their presence.

Shortly before 7 o'clock last night Bemis called his doctor and the coroner on the telephone and asked them to call on him at 7 o'clock. They kept their promise and Bemis, taking them into his back yard, explained that his heart had been troubling him lately. He asked to be excused for a moment, and walked toward the barn. When he had gone a few paces he drew a revolver and shot himself through the heart, dying instantly. He was 74 years of age, and well to do.

THE MISSOURI STATIONERY.

Kansas City, July 16.—The Miscsouri river at Kansas City and vicinity this morning was stationary. Railways were gradually getting their tracks in shape, and while many trains were being detoured, schedules were being maintained as a general rule.

FINAL HEARING ON OCT. 15.

Washington, July 15.—It is announced by the interstate commerce commission today that a final hearing on the proposed uniform bill of lading would be held before the commission in this city Oct. 15.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

MOST BUSINESS IF COMBINED with pleasure leads to success—all business ground out in desperation fails in time. Fifty-five miles of virgin woodland, rich in soil and rich in timber, can be traversed by writing to Edmund G. Walton, 114 South Fourth street, Minneapolis, for a permit over the constructing route of the Northern Pacific from Big Fork, Minnesota, to Little Fork. At Little Fork, a large and commodious steamer takes you thirty-three miles up the Rainey river tot International Falls. Total expense from Minneapolis, $7.55. Now, then, what will you see? A new country with marvelous possibilities, a water power of 30,000 horse power; 5,000,000,000 feet of pine and spruce—a farming country with soil as rich as the richest in Iowa, an ideal climate, a net work of lakes and streams filled with all the usual varieties of fresh water fish, and money to be picked up for the asking. Read Christopher Columbus' report of America to the court of Spain or "Monte Christo" and you will then partly understand what the riches of Koochiching county really are. No one really knows what wealth there is there, but a little fishing trip will open your eyes and tell you more than all the writing in the world. Write at once for itinerary of trip, with suggestions, etc.

TRAIN HELD UP.

Cherryvale, Kan., July 16.—Two robbers held up a St. Louis and San Francisco train, five miles east of Cherryvale early today, shot and killed O. J. Brown, and seriously wounded Otis Taylor, harvest hands.

The victims were beating their way home to Western Kansas after having worked in the wheat fields in the southern part of the state. They resisted the efforts of the road men to rob them of their earnings. The robbers escaped. A posse has started in pursuit.

CANNOT GET POLICEMEN

Specials for Ore Dock Service Can Get $3 Per Day.

There is a splendid chance waiting for a portion of the laborers at the ore docks to get that raise in wages, and more too, without half trying. If they want a job watching themselves there is a dandy opening for them and $3 per day is the wage which has been offered so far.

Men for special police are wanted for the ore docks, and wanted badly. The authorities started in at the regular police wage, but now this has been raised to $3 per day and still there are no applicants for positions. The men evidently do not care to work or have jobs already.

The men are not wanted to forestall any violence, as none is expected at this stage of the game at least, but simply to prevent any fires being set or other minor depredations being committed about the ore docks while the usual crew of men is not employed there.

$5.00 trousers now $3.50. "Fitwell."

DRASTIC LAWS PASSED BY WISCONSIN LEGISLATURE

The Session Just Closed Longest in History of State.

Many Bills Enacted Are of Far Reaching Importance.

Most Important Perhaps, is "Public Utilities" Measure.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 17.—The 1907 session of the Wisconsin legislature which has just adjourned at Madison was the longest of any in the history of the state. Some of the bills which were enacted into law are of more far reaching importance than any measures which have been considered for years heretofore.

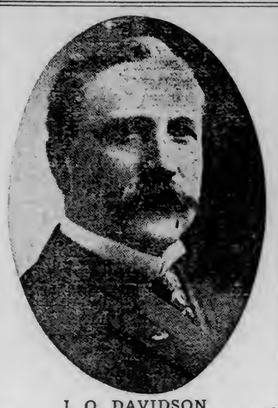

One of the most important is the "public utilities" measure which gives the railroad rate commission authority to regulate and control every public service corporation in the state. It is said to be the most comprehensive and drastic law of its kind ever enacted and its enforcement will be watched with keen interest.

Among other bills passed of great importance were the 2-cent railway fare bill and the life insurance measures. The rate bill was vigorously fought by the railway commission, notwithstanding, which it becomes effective Aug. 15.

The life insurance measures were fought by the home company—the Northwestern Mutual—as well as by the large Eastern companies. After some concessions were made on both sides, the two more important measures were passed. One regulates the mode of electing directors of life insurance companies, practically prohibiting proxy voting and the other putting a limitation upon the expense charges in policies.

Other laws enacted provide that

TO BREAK UP GREEK PEONAGE

The Government to Make War on the Nefarious System.

Chicago, July 17.—War on a supposed system of Greek peonage has been opened by the government. Proprietors of Greek shoe shining parlors, ice cream parlors and restaurants, who lure boys from Greece to America and here keep them in practical slavery will be called to account.

Evidence involving a number of Chicago Greeks has been forwarded to District Attorney Sims by the bureau of immigration at Washington, and wholesale indictments against defenders are promised by federal officials. In addition to the information submitted by the Washington officials a mass of evidence, it is said, has already been gathered in Chicago by Aleideueleis A. Sarephic, United States immigration inspector, who was commissioned by the bureau to make a special investigation here.

The entire system through which thousands of boys are said to be sold into slavery will be unfolded to the federal grand jury which will reconvene Aug. 2.

CONTROL OF THEATERS

Will be in Hands of Great $100,000,000 Syndicate.

Will Absorb Leading Interests of United States and Europe.

New York, July 17.—Some of the details of the $100,000,000 theatrical syndicate that will control the leading theaters and theatrical interests in the United States and Europe have been learned here. Klaw & Erlanger, the directing heads of the American Theater syndicate, are leading the movement and they have sent Levy Mayer of Chicago, their general counsel to Europe, to arrange the details for the syndicate, and to make final terms with the individual managers and owners on the other side.

The big theatrical syndicate has been practically assured ever since the prominent managers in the European cities agreed to pool their issues with the managers in this country. Six of the American managers constitute the present theater syndicate. They are Messrs. A. Hayman, A. L. Erlanger, Marc Klaw, Charles Frohman, Samuel F. Nixon and J. Fred Zimmerman. Charles Frohman controls several theaters in London. Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger have been getting in closer touch each season with the managers

Dr. Edward Taylor is Elected by Board of Supervisors.

Schmitz Still Insists That He Will Act as Mayor.

San Francisco, July 17.—Dr. Edward R. Taylor, physician and lawyer, dean of the Hastings law college and of the University of California, was last night, by the board of supervisors, elected mayor of San Francisco and by the open avowal of the bribery graft prosecution, the so-called "reign of the big stick" came to an end.

Dr. Taylor was the third man to whom the election was offered by Rudolph Spreckels and District Attorney William H. Langdon. His selection came as a complete surprise to the city, for at no time in the past weeks of daily guessing was his name mentioned by any one outside of the secret councils of the district attorney and his half dozen assistants.

Eugene Schmitz, who was recently convicted of extortion, is yet a factor to be reckoned with in the solving of the municipal problem. Yesterday he appointed Samuel Sawyer, a member of the Typographical union, a supervisor to succeed Mr. Boxton, who was appointed temporary mayor by the graft prosecutions. It is understood the mayor will appoint fifteen supervisors in succession to those who have resigned. The city will then have two governments under Mayor Schmitz and Mayor Taylor. Mayor Schmitz claims he is not incapacitated until the court of last resort has confirmed his conviction. It is claimed by the prosecution that the conviction of Schmitz by the trial court incapacitated him from holding office and on that theory it has chosen Dr. Taylor as mayor. Chief of Police Dinan announced that he will recognize no one but Schmitz as mayor.

THREE MORE IN CRITICAL STATE

The Death List of Georgia's Accident May be Increased.

Boston, July 17.—Three of the twelve survivors of the accident on board the battleship Georgia on Monday, from which deaths have resulted, were lying in an extremely critical condition today in the United States naval hospital at Chelsea, where they were taken after the accident. The condition of one of the three, Louis O'Meese, a seaman, who enlisted at Beren, Ohio, was so dangerous that the physicians at the hospital said that they believed he could not live more than twenty-four hours. The other two, who were the most seriously injured, are Midshipman James F. Cruse of Omaha, Neb., who, however, has shown a slight improvement since yesterday, and James P. Thomas of Brooklyn, N. Y., whose condition was reported as being without change.

YANTIC FOR RESERVES.

That Boat Expected at Hancock Instead of Don Juan de Austria.

Hancock, Mich., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to the latest views of the officers of the Hancock Naval reserves, the gunboat Don Juan de Austria, captured by Dewey at Manila bay and refitted and prepared for service with the Michigan Naval reserves, will not be brought to the Lake Superior station, Hancock, as was first reported. The Detroit reserves have asked for the boat, and the Yantic, now stationed at Detroit, will likely be sent north. It is expected that the Yantic will be turned over to the Hancock reserves in time for their cruise with the reserves of Southern Michigan and the other Great Lake states, which will start on Aug. 10.

MANY BANDS IN PARADE

Forty Organizations Play the Same Tune at Same Time.

Principal Feature of the Elks Convention for Wednesday.

Philadelphia, July 17.—A mass band parade, with all the bands playing the same music at the same time, one of the big features of Elks' week, took place today on Broad street. Every musical organization participating in the reunion appeared in line, numbering more than forty bands, with 1,500 members. The fifty reviewing stands along the two-mile route were crowded with people, and the streets were jammed with a crowd such as Broad street has seldom seen. The day was exceedingly sultry, but the perspiring throng, out for a holiday, did not mind the weather and cheered the aggregation of musicians as they passed down the street in one great mass. The contrast in costumes was ludicrous. All through the parade could be seen the dazzling costume of some crack regimental musical organization by the side of the more modest costume of a village band.

The drill contest in which many of the visiting lodges will participate will be held tonight.

The only official announcements made by the grand lodge was that Dallas, Tex., had been chosen as the place for holding the next convention.

"TEDDYTOWN" IS NAME

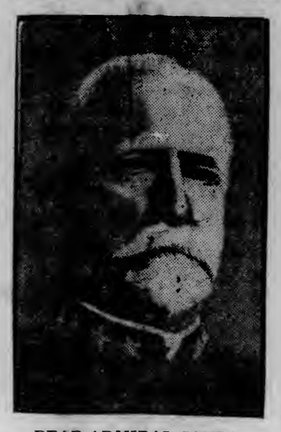

Wanted by Alabama Burg, Where No Race Suicide Prevails.

Town Creek, Ala., July 17.—The postal authorities are to be petitioned to change the name of the postoffice here to conform to a contemplated switch of the corporate name of the city. "Town Creek" is all right as a cognomen, but its citizens are patriotic. The fact that within a month ten children were born to four mothers has appealed to the "city dads" in a way that brings remembrances of anti-race suicide lectures from the nation's capital.

This place is in Lawrence county. Over in Mobile county there is a town and postoffice named Theodore. The desire to remember the White House apostle of man's duty to "be fruitful and multiply" could, therefore, not be followed by carrying his full name.

"Teddy" was undesirable because of a suggestion of bears, and, besides, there is wanted something of the original name. It came by inspiration when a citizen, while talking over the matter, suddenly said: "Oh, let's be 'Teddytown' hereafter." The idea was adopted at once.

TROUBLE EXPECTED

With the Opening of Fishing Season at New Foundland.

Controversy With Americans is in Unsatisfactory Shape.

Washington, July 17.—The aproach of the first of August, marking the beginning of the new herring fishing on the coast of New Foundland is a matter of great concern to the state department, for it finds the fisheries controversy between America and Great Britain in a most confused and unsatisfactory shape. The modus vivindi entered into last year, by the terms of which, and greatly against the wish of the New Foundlanders, American fishermen were permitted to ply their vocation unmolested off the shores that island, expired with the close of the fishing season.

It was the expectation of both the American and British governments that before the opening of the next season some permanent arrangement could be reached that would remove all future friction on this score. The New Foundlanders, however, were insistent upon their right to legislate locally for the fisheries so long as they did not in

SALOON MEN WANT A LAW

To Do Away With Free Lunches at St. Paul Bars.

Liquor Dealers Get City Council to Pass Ordinance.

St. Paul, July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—If the measure introduced into the city council at last evening's meeting of the board of aldermen, and passed by that body at the instance of the Retail Liquor Dealers' association, regarding the serving of free lunches in the saloons, becomes a law, that drawing card on which so many liquor dealers rely for their main patronage will become a thing of the past.

The ordinance absolutely prohibits the sale of intoxicating liquors in any place where victuals are served free of charge. A penalty of a fine of not less than thirty nor more than ninety days, is fixed for its violation.

The Retail Liquor Dealers' association, embracing a membership representing more than half the saloons of the city, started the movement to get this ordinance through shortly after

DROWNED IN MISSISSIPPI

Utah University Instructor Loses His Life Near St. Paul.

St. Paul, July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—James A. Strane, son of Jackson Strane, was drowned in the Mississippi river last evening through the upsetting of a canoe. His companion, Albert E. Simmons, was rescued. Particulars of the accident are not known beyond the fact that when opposite Mendota the canoe suddenly capsized, throwing Strane and Simmons into the water. Strane endeavored to grasp the side of the upturned canoe, but missed and sank. Simmons clung to the canoe until he was rescued.

Mr. Strane was an instructor in the University of Utah, at Salt Lake City, and was spending his vacation with his father. He was about 30 years of age and unmarried.

TO DETAIN WITNESSES

Defense Asks Court to Hold Three of State's Men.

Darrow Announces That the Surrebuttal Will be Short.

Boise, Idaho, July 17.—On the opening of court today Attorney Richardson notified the state that the defense desired three of the state witnesses to remain in town. Judge Wood announced that prior to the opening of argument, he would notify counsel as to the main points in the evidence on which he would instruct the jury. Clarence Darrow for the defense, announced the surrebuttal for the defense would be very short.

Judge Wood said that while he would not limit the attorneys in the arguments, he probably would increase the court hours so as to get through as quickly as possible. The lawyers were inclined to protest against this. Mr. Hawley, for the state, announced that he had been anything but well during the past few days. He said he might have to temporarily abandon the examination of witnesses if he felt no

HAPPILY WED AT CINCINNATI

An Erroneous Impression Not Justified by the Facts.

A misleading telegraph dispatch, relative to the marriage at Cincinnati of Elizabeth Agnes Hannifin of this city and John W. McDonald, formerly of Duluth, was published on July 9, under prominent headlines on the front page of The Herald.

The error was due to misinformation furnished The Herald by its Cincinnati correspondent and the report was correct only in the announcement that Mr. and Mrs. McDonald were married at the time and place stated. There was no desertion and no misunderstanding between husband and wife.

The Herald is more than glad to correct the erroneous impression and state that Mr. and Mrs. McDonald, who have hosts of friends in Duluth and Superior, are happily married.

CONDITION OF THAW'S HEALTH

Explained in a Statement by the Tomb's Physician.

New York, July 17.—So many and such varying reports have of late been printed concerning the physical condition of Harry K. Thaw that Dr. Frank McGuire, the Tombs physician, has made a statement on his health.

Dr. McGuire said Thaw's condition did not differ from that of any man confined as Thaw is, who lives on rich food and spends much time smoking a black briar pipe. Dr. McGuire said:

"I have advised Thaw to cut down the amount of smoking and to regulate his diet. I have written a prescription for him and have advised his taking less exercise in the prison and urged him to take more than he does when he is out of doors in the afternoon.

Thaw now wears green goggles while in the prison yard. He complained that when out of doors the strong light hurt his eyes.

Mayor Cullum Authorizes Herald to Call Meeting of Strikers.

Committee Will be Appointed With Power to Arbitrate.

Men at Two Harbors Go Out in Sympathy.

"I have already been thinking of it," said Mayor Cullum, when asked this morning if he and Bishop McGolrick, who were successful in settling the strike which threatened to tie up the building trades this spring, could not do something to bring about a peaceful settlement of the ore dock strike, which promises to be even more disastrous and far reaching in its effects.

The mayor then authorized The Herald to announce a meeting in the city hall this evening, to which all the strikers are invited. They will be asked to appoint a committee with full power to act and settle the strike. An attempt will then be made to arrange a meeting between this committee and the steel company officials.

The laborers employed on the Duluth & Iron Range docks at Two Harbors have followed those on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern docks, and have struck for higher wages, asking the same increase as that demanded by the Duluth workers.

The night men walked out at 12 o'clock, and the day crew did not begin work this morning. Between 500 and 600 men are affected by the strike at Two Harbors, and this makes a total of about 1,250 men in all, who are idle as a direct result of the strike.

But this only begins to tell the tale. Hundreds of trainmen are laid off, and the strike also means that the open pit mines must cease operations, unless the places of the strikers are filled. The open pit mines shipping over the Missabe are already closed down, and those which have been shipping over the Iron Range road will doubtless close today. The underground mines can still be worked, the ore being placed in the stockpiles.

The strike now means that the ore traffic on the lakes will be practically tied up temporarily at least. The boats which were to be loaded at the Duluth docks have been sent forward to Two Harbors to be loaded there, but this will now be impossible.

The situation in Duluth was unchanged this morning.

"The laborers on the Duluth & Iron Range ore docks at Two Harbors have gone out on a strike, in sympathy with the strikers at the Missabe docks here in Duluth," said F. E. House, president of the Duluth & Iron Range road, this morning.

"The men are paid just as much at our docks and those who went out were receiving at the Missabe docks. They have appeared contented right along and a majority, I feel sure, were satisfied with the treatment they were receiving. I think that their only reason for going out was the fact that the Duluth dock laborers struck.

"They say they want higher wages, too, but the railroad will not accede to their demands. Just at present, the situation is at a standstill. The men are not working and we do not propose to come to their terms."

OUTLOOK IS FOR PEACE

Operators and Telegraph Companies May Reach Agreement.

Postal Company Makes a Statement on Frisco Conditions.

San Francisco, July 17.—As the result of a conference yesterday between Labor Commissioner Neill and President S. J. Small of the Commercial Telegraphers' union, an end to the telegraphers' strike, it is believed, has been brought into sight.

It was hinted yesterday about the telegraphers' headquarters in Oakland that some friction had developed between President Small and the three members of the executive committee who came West with Commissioner Neill, and one of them is said to have strongly intimated that there would be no extension of the strike to other cities, whatever might be the outcome here. It is believed that strong influences will be brought to persuade the operators to accept the terms offered by the companies.

Whatever terms covering wages and hours are agreed upon in settling the strike, the unionists declare they will insist upon the reinstatement of all members now out.

STRIKE-BREAKERS ARE NOT BEING IMPORTED

Reports which have been branded by the officials of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road as malacious falsehoods, were circulated on the streets today, to the effect that the road was shipping strike-breakers to Duluth at the rate of 100 a day and that the first consignment was due today, and would be put to work immediately.

"These rumors crediting the Duluth, Missabe & Northern with importing strike-breakers are malacious falsehoods and are without any foundation whatever," said W. J. Olcott, president of the Missabe, to a reporter for The Herald today.

"We are making no efforts to secure labor from the outside. We are doing absolutely nothing, but we still maintain our stand and do not propose to give the strikers the increase in wages they have asked. We feel that we have already done enough for the men this season and we cannot do more. Laborers on the Head of the Lakes ore docks have been receiving more than at other places on the lakes.

"While the tieing up of ore shipments at this time is serious, it is not as serious as was in the past, as arrangements are such now that rail shipments from the Michigan ranges and, if necessary, from the Minnesota ranges, can be started almost any time."

The Missabe officials feel encouraged today, despite the fact that the men are still out and that the Iron Range dock workers at Two Harbors have gone out. They are of the opinion that all but, perhaps, 200 of the srikers here are practically willing to go back to work.

However, as far as the attitude of the railroad toward the strikers' requests for higher wages is concerned, the strike is no nearer a settlement than it was yesterday.

THE CIRCUS PARADE WAS LOST IN THE WEST END

This is the tale of a circus parade that went wrong.

"Pawnee Bill" is said to have a good show, but he has a parade manager who has a very feeble idea of the magnitude of Duluth. The case in a nutshell is that the man in charge of the parade thought that he had passed through the entire city when he had gone through the West end, and turned back to the grounds at Sixteenth avenue west instead of Sixteenth avenue east. Meanwhile thousands of good Duluth citizens were stewing under the hot sun, and craning their necks to see the approaching pageant, and the horses and animals were trooping back to the grounds, led by a self satisfied young man who was congratulating himself on having successfully carried through another street parade.

"You haven't been through the town," yelled one of the circus men who had remained at the grounds.

"Of course we have," said the route man in charge of the parade. "We went as far as Sixteenth avenue and that is as far as we were told to go. That takes us through the main part of town, and out on the other side."

When seen this afternoon, the man in charge of the routing of the pageant, said that although he had been over the route this morning and thought that he knew just where to go, he became mixed at Sixteenth avenue west. He knew that the parade was supposed to go as far as Sixteenth avenue and had forgotten that there was a west and east to the city.

"Pawnee Bill," himself, was greatly disappointed in the fact that Duluthians did not have a chance to see his great parade today. The parade is one of the best attractions to the show, and he was particularly desirous that Duluth people should see it.

"I would not have had that mistake made for $100 if I could have helped it," said he this afternoon. "I know Duluth people will be greatly disappointed. I was in the parade myself, but was, of course, following the router with no fear that he would get mixed up. But when I found that we were returning to the show grounds soon after we started I knew that we had not been through all of Duluth. I knew that there are some 70,000 people in this city and I was sure we had not seen the crowd that should turn out in a city of that size."

The parade was scheduled to go as far as Twenty-first avenue east, but owing to the fact that Judge Page Morris' daughter is very seriously ill at her home, near that avenue, the show management was requested to go only as far as Sixteenth avenue east. As it was, the people who live in the West end were the only ones fortunate enough to get a glimpse of the big pageant.

At the circus grounds this afternoon the people had already begun to assemble in large crowds at 1 o'clock, and notwithstanding the failure of the parade the show secured a big patronage.

HEINO LOSES INJURY CASE

Jalmar Heino did not win his personal injury suit against the Cleveland-Cliffs Mining company. The jury this morning returned a directed verdict for the defendant. The judgment demanded by Heino was $5,000 for injuries sustained while working for the company.

It was alleged in the complaint that Heino was working in the Crosby mine at Nashwauk when he fell a distance of forty-five feet down one of the shafts. He claims that it was a dangerous place and that the company had not warned him of its presence. Three ribs were fractured as a result of the accident, and his eyes were badly injured.

The mining company was defended by H. J. Grannis, while Victor L. Power conducted the case for Heino.

As a result of the verdict directed in favor of the defendant in Heino's suit, two other suits instituted against the same company by Charles Maki and Martin Linden were dismissed by Judge Morris this morning. The personal injury case of Frank C. Skarp, administrator of the estate of Nickulai Kuppola, against the Mahoning Iron & Steel company was also dismissed this morning.

The next case to come before the federal court is that of William J. Tobin against the Republic Iron & Steel company and Jerry Crimins. This is another personal injury suit and will be tried by Judge Morris and a jury. S. A. Anderson and Whipple & Greer represent the plaintiff and Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell are defending the mining company.

MAY TIE UP ORE BOATS

Strike of Ore Punchers Spreads to Two Harbors Docks.

Prompt Action Necessary to Keep Fleet in Operation.

Since the strike of the "ore punchers" has now spread to the docks of the Duluth & Iron Range road at Two Harbors, the situation as far as the lake trade is concerned is more serious than ever. Still more boats will be affected and many will soon be laid up, for the time being at least, as there is not enough work for the whole fleet to do outside of the ore trade.

Vessels which were sent light to Two Harbors yesterday to load ore will be unable to get cargoes on account of the strike there and will have to go elsewhere for loads. The Allouez docks have all the boats they can attend to and other Lake Superior ports are accommodating all the steamers they can. As soon as the big lower lake fleet begins to arrive, the delay at this end of the route will be the worst.

The tow barges of the Steel corporation fleet are being dropped and a number of the steamers are being chartered for coal. At the lower lakes nearly all vessels for early loading have secured cargoes, but if the strike lasts any length of time many ships will have to be laid up for a trip or two. After the next trip there will be too much tonnage on the market and some boats will surely have to be laid up.

Coal shippers at the lower lakes already are pretty well loaded up with tonnage, but the rates hold steady all around. More boats will be in the market for coal today and there will also be plenty of tonnage for grain.

In the Duluth harbor there is no activity whatever. This morning a couple of boats were at anchor in the harbor basin waiting for room at the coal docks, but there is not the usual number of boats coming in and leaving the harbor. The strike not only affects the boats in the ore-carrying trade, but those in other trades as well and unless a settlement is soon brought about navigation will be badly tied up. If the strike does not last for more than a week, it will make a big hole in the total ore shipments for the month of July, and on this account it is expected that every effort will be made to get the men back at work.

The Great Wash Suiting Sale

Continues with unabated enthusiasm.

It's truly remarkable.

First day buyers were back again Saturday and with them came their friends, and they, too, bought.

Many of them have returned since then and every day sees a crowd of newcomers.

Seldom has a sale created such a furore.

Another merchant was heard to say last week, "Well, I guess there won't be much sale for wash suitings in Duluth for some time."

That's how well it's rated by other stores.

Don't fail to get your share. The price is only 7c yard.

terms discriminate against Americans, claiming that in so doing they were not infringing the treaty rights of the Americans. The British government has apparently been driven finally to concede the soundness of this contention, or at least, it has been negotiating through Ambassador Reid on that basis.

Indications today are that it will be difficult to reach any kind of a permanent settlement of the trouble, and the whole effort of the negotiators is apparently concentrated for the moment on the drafting of some form of modus vivendi to guard against the development of friction on the fishing shores that might in the end have serious results.

ROAD WORK IS STARTED

County Board Appropriates $2,200 for Tischer's District.

Commissioner George Tischer of the Second district is actively engaged in the road improvement in his district, where some of the work has already been started. The county board, at its last meeting made an appropriation of $2,200 from the county special road fund to be applied on the improvement and repair of the Tischer and the North Shore roads. There has been some talk of sending a heavy road roller into Mr. Tischer's district, but as the heavy machinery might endanger some of the many bridges that would have to be crossed the commissioners decided that the move would not be advisable. There are some of the bridges that will last a few years longer if they are not used for too heavy loads.

BOY THIEF IS CLEVER

Tricked Woman Into Leaving House and Stole $70.

Some of Money Recovered and Boy Taken Into Custody.

Many an old criminal has shown far less cleverness than that exhibited by Willie Dunn, a 10-year-old boy, the son of Mrs. Frank Laviere of 725 East Fourth street, in the scheme he laid to steal $70 from Mrs. Paul Davis of 705 East Second street, yesterday afternoon.

The boy was sitting on Mrs. Davis' front steps yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. Davis returned home from some shopping. The lad walked into the house with her, and told her that his mother wanted to see her. Mrs. Davis laid down her pocketbook and immediately left for Mrs. Laviere's home, accompanied by the boy. Just as she entered the Laviere home, however, the boy disappeared. He returned to the Davis home, and entering the house, took about $70 from the pocketbook.

As soon as Mrs. Davis returned she discovered her loss, and immediately suspected the boy, as a result of the manner in which he had mislead her. The matter was reported to the police, and the boy was arrested last evening by Detective Schulte. He still had $55 in his possession, and claimed this was all he got. He is said to have confessed the whole affair to the police, and has been turned over to the juvenile court.

the new "lid" order went into effect. According to the statements of the saloon men themselves the "lid" cut down their trade about 25 per cent.

By cutting out the free lunch feature, they hoped to be able, in part, to make up for the loss by reducing expenses None of the saloonkeepers were willing, however, to do away with his free lunch table unless his competitors did likewise, and, as there were many liquor dealers in the city who are not members of the association, it was deemed best to get at the matter by having the city council pass an ordinance that would be binding upon all.

There was no discussion at the meeting last evening on the measure, favorable consideration having been evidently arranged before hand. The ordinance was simply put to vote by the clerk, without even having been read, merely the title being named. It was carried without a dissenting vote, eleven voting for it. Alderman Lynch was absent.

better. The matter of arranging the hours for argument was finally left in abeyance.

O. M. Sackett of Telluride, Colo., for fifteen years an employe of the Smuggler Union mine, was the first witness of the day.

He told his personal observation in the riot at the Smuggler Union mine in 1901, when he said that he and several other employes of the mine were compelled to run a perfect hail of bullets in order to get to the mine.

"Who was the head of the union at Telluride at that time?" asked Hawley.

"Vincent St. John."

The witness told of negotiating with St. John to have the firing stopped and reached an agreement with him.

The defense objected to several of Mr. Hawley's questions and Judge Wood sustained them.

"I will say," said Judge Wood significantly, "that the court regards as very doubtful the materiality of the testimony the state is trying to rebut.

Mr. Hawley said he bought that as the defense had been allowed to go into the matter of deportations, etc., from Cripple Creek and Telluride, the state should be allowed to make a showing on rebuttal.

"The court will not allow you to go into details," said Judge Wood.

"I will assume that the court's instructions as to this testimony."

"We will see to that when we come to it," chimed in Mr. Darrow.

An agreement was presented dated July 3, 1901, in which the Miners' union agreed to refrain from violence. The agreement was as follows:

"It is hereby agreed between the Miners' union by V. St. John, president, and the Smuggler Union, M. S. company by Edgar A. Collins, assistant manager, that all work on said mine shall cease for a period of three days ending Friday, and that said miners' union will refrain from violence as to the person and property for the same period. The said Smuggler Union mine may employ four guards during the period."

The witness then told of the killing of Arthur Collins, superintendent of the mine, the disappearance of several miners in the districts and various disorders. He said the men were afraid to work, that many of these were shot at on their way to the mines.

His body was recovered within a few minutes, but all efforts at resuscitation proved unsuccessful.

Saturday night, while bathing with two companions at B shaft dam, at Painesdale, Stephen Stimac was seized with cramps and was drowned, his companions being unable to find the body in the dark.

Saturday afternoon Walter Terry of Centennial Heights, was drowned, after being seized with cramps, in the North Tamarack dam. He shouted for help as he went down, but his playmates, believing him to be "fooling" did not go to his aid till too late.

If one has a choice it is always hard to decide. Without decisions to be made life would stretch out into one long blissful moment of quiet happiness. But there are always decisions to be made and no moment of life has the perfect complete ecstacy that not having to exercise your powers of choice entails. To have strawberries or a cantaloupe for breakfast, to take your umbrella or leave it home, to have a nut sundae or a lime freeze, to go on picnics or to stay at home, or to be married or remain single, are among the vital matters, the decision of which makes the day one of trouble and strife. A harrassed soul said to this column the other day, "I don't care how expensive tomatoes are. I love them passionately, but when the plate is before me, the thin and luscious slices reposing on a crisp bed of lettuce, I can never decide whether to eat them with sugar, in the way I adore, or with vinegar in which state of luciousness I could die happy eating them. By the time I have decided my appetite is gone."

What could be worse? Nothing, unless it be to decide between blueberry or green apple pie.

MEN AND WOMEN WHO RIDE.

Daring Horsemen Give Vim to Modern Circus Performance.

A circus without riding acts would be an anomaly. There is no feature of the old-time circus which seems so essential to the completeness of the modern arenic exhibition, or which has so persistently retained its popularity with the public. The daring equestrian, turning somersaults on the back of a swiftly moving horse, and the dainty equestrienne, posing and pirouetting her way into the hearts of the audience, both add immeasurably to the effectiveness of the mammoth three-ring circus of today, just as they did to the little one-ring circus of a quarter of a century ago.

The men and women of the circus who ride have not, however, been satisfied "to let well enough alone." They have recognized the public demand for something new, even in the way of equestrianism, and during the past two or three years many interesting riding novelties have been made known in this country and in Europe.

The Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth, which exhibits in Duluth Saturday, July 27, has been a pioneer in introducing novel and even startling riding acts to the American public, and this year the management announces an unusually large number of equestrian acts of a unique character. One of these is presented by Ella Bradna and Fred Derrick, two exceptionally clever European riders, in introducing their act, three handsome horses are utilized, two together and the third in tandem. The agile riders turn somersaults and jump from horse to horse, and finally Miss Bradna, standing upon the two horses and holding her associate on her shoulders, drives the tandem horse rapidly around the ring. Another novelty is offered by Robert and Louise Stickney, who present an original cart act, in which horse, harness, vehicle and costumes are all pure white.

The list of clever riders, as made known by the preliminary announcements of the big show, is an exceptionally long one. Among the headliners are Fred Ledgett and Dallie Julian, the Rooneys, Oulka and Marie Meers, Josie De Mott, the somersault equestrienne; Celia Sebastian, Minnie Johnson, William De Mott and W. F. Melrose. These are all riders of international reputation. A large company of clever menage riders is also announced. For the hippodrome there is a stable of blooded Kentucky racers and a group of especially engaged professional riders and drivers.

The White City.

One of the feature attarctions at the White City is the new Eli wheel. A ride on the wheel gives one a magnificent view of Lake Superior and the Duluth and Superior harbor. It is a very pretty sight at night, when the wheel is brilliantly illuminated.

When the directors of the White City decided to purchase a Ferris wheel they were somewhat at sea regarding what style and make to buy, but after a thorough investigation it was finally decided to purchase an Eli wheel because of its reliability, it being built of steel throughout, except the seats, and they have steel frames to carry all the weight of passengers. The towers are built in two sections hinged together by an ingenious device without the use of a single bolt, and when erected, set solidly on the foundation. Altogether it is the strongest and safest wheel made, and patrons of the White City need have no fear whatever of an accident.

The management is now completing arrangements for the steamer Fremont to leave the foot of Fifth avenue every hour for the White City, which will be an added pleasure to visitors.

Labor Commissioner Neill to San Francisco in connection with the telegraphers' strike at that point, affords the Postal Telegraph & Cable company the opportunity to present its side of the case to Mr. Neill, the public, and to the company's employes generally throughout the United States.

"The company submits as the strongest possible refutation of the false statements of the striking employes that they have been underpaid, the following summary of its San Francisco main office payroll for the month of May, the month preceding the strike.

"The average wage earned and paid telegraphers, who work at the key for the month was $112.32, or at the rate of 44¾ cents per hour. The highest class men are paid at the rate of $99.00 per month, each these men drew an average of $131.00 each for the month, the highest drawing $153.12. The lowest $116.81, the average pay being at the rate of 54 cents per hour worked.

"The next grade of telegraphers are rated at $93.50 per month. Each of these averaged during the month $115.30, the maximum pay being $133.48, the minimum $94.90. The average pay per hour worked being 46 7-10 cents. The third-class of telegraphers are rated at $88 per month each, and earned an average of $106.03 each, ranging from $88 to $135.88. The average pay per hour worked being 41 cents. Five other operators whose monthly rating was from $66.00 to $85.00 earned an average of $84.94, their average pay being within a fraction of 34 cents per hour. Many men work nine hours, night men work seven and one-half hours and late night men seven hours. All time worked beyond these hours is "extra" and is paid for at the rate of seven hours for a day.

"In addition to the regular monthly wages earned, and in addition to overtime worked and paid for at the rate of seven hours per day, certain telegraphers, on important circuits, are paid a "bonus" or by "piece work" for all messages handled during the working day in excess of the established minimum capacity of the wire. One operator thus earned during the month $36.84 "bonus," all of which was earned during the regular hours for which he is regularly paid, another operator earned $33.81, another $30.86, another $24.56 and so on."

New York, July 17.—Officials of the Western Union Telegraph company are apparently preparing for a strike of telegraphers by placing beds in the offices of the main building at 195 Broadway. Fifty wooden cots and 100 mattresses have been carried into the building, and fifty more cots are to be received there today. Robert C. Clowry, president of the Western Union, declined to talk of the move.

Joseph F. Ahearn, president of the operators' local union, when informed of the fact, said he would appeal to the health board.

"The placing of the cots in the Western Union building," he said, "is a violation of the hotel laws. We will enter a complaint to the health commissioner at once. The health commissioner would not permit it in Chicago, and they cannot permit it in New York."

Since the move, the operators' officials were inclined to believe that the Western Union would refuse to arbitrate the demands of the men and that the visit of United States Labor Commissioner Neill to the Pacific coast would bring about peace would be in vain.

in Europe and the success of the syndicate here has made the important managers in London and Paris desire to be affiliated with the men who control the chief theatrical affairs of the United States. Just who will make up the complete list of European managers who will become factors in the new international syndicate has not been announced, but a man well posted on the workings of the plans said the managers in London would likely include Messrs. Edward George Alexander, Frank Curzon, Seymour Hicks, Charles Wyndham, Cyril Maude, the Messrs. Gatti, and perhaps Messrs. Beerbohm Tree and Arthur Collins.

Both vaudeville and "legitimate" houses come within the scope of the plans mapped out by the syndicate for its extended control in the near future. Vaudeville as it has been the feature with Klaw & Erlanger in the past, will be the feature particularly cared for.

Marc Klaw, who has been in Europe for several months, has been devoting a great part of his time in getting the English and the French managers interested in the international syndicate.

The recent decision of the New York courts that acts and amusements are not "trade and commerce," and that their combination is not illegal, has been a great factor in bringing about this syndicate.

A FALLING BUILDING

Crushes Out the Lives of Nine Persons at London, Ont.

Two More Still Missing and Not Accounted for.

London, Ont., July 17.—Nine persons are known to have been killed, two are missing and four are seriously injured as the result of a building collapsing on Dundee street yesterday. The dead :

W. H. HAMILTON, clothing merchant.
FRANK SMITH, manager Brewster's store.
ARCHIE McCALLUM, photographer.
MISS CLARA MULLINS.
WILLIAM TAMBLIM.
EDWARD HOWETT.
MRS. EDWARD HOWETT.
JOSEPH LONG.
Unidentified man.

All the imprisoned ones, who could be communicated with, have been released. Many who were thought to have been seriously injured are only slightly hurt.

Crystall hall, a three-story brick building, on Dundas street, and one of the land marks of London, collapsed late in the afternoon, and a score of persons were buried under the avalanche of bricks, mortar and timbers. The falling walls from Crystall hall, fell upon Brewster's 5 and 10-cent store, a low structure adjoining on the east, completely burying it. The stores of Hamilton, Long & Co., and W. J. Reid & Co., on the first floor of Crystall hall were filled with wreckage.

The building was being remodeled. A number of old supports had been taken out and iron girders had been placed.

As the front wall fell into Dundas street, passing pedestrians had narrow escapes.

Thousands of people are daily suffering with kidney and bladder troubles—dangerous ailments that should be checked promptly. DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are the best remedy for backache, weak kidneys, inflammation of the bladder. Sold by all druggists.

GOLD TOOTH MISSING

From Corpse and Woman's Parents Believe Mistake Was Made.

Muncie, Ind., July 17.—The remains of Inez Ford, aged 26 years, wife of Ervin Ford, a fugitive, arrived from Kansas City for burial, but her parents, Edward Hurst and family, failed to identify the body and believe that some terrible mistake has been made. Information here two days ago was that the young woman took poison and died upon the streets from grief over the absence of her husband, who is evading arrest. A small child has been with its grandparents here for a month. The body was placed in a vault at the cemetery, pending investigation. The absence of a gold tooth caused the first suspicion.

"SINKS OF CORRUPTION."

Denver Bishop Denounces Libraries and Men Who Create Them.

Denver, July 17.—"Libraries are sinks of corruption," declared Bishop N. C. Matz of the Colorado diocese, in the Logan Avenue Catholic chapel on Sunday. Only about 200 parishioners heard the dramatic words of the bishop, but he created a decided sensation. In preaching on the biblical injunctions concerning the giving of alms and the giving of similar good deeds, the bishop said that the widow's mite given in the right spirit is more acceptable in the sight of God than the princely endowments of colleges which millionaires are praised for giving.

He went on to describe the spirit which Rockefeller and Carnegie make their gifts in, asserting that their wealth has been stored by the toil of the poor laborer, and that the idea in parting with their money is that the world will sing their praises.

"Look at Carnegie," said Bishop Matz, "how the world praises him because he sends money all over the country to found libraries, which shall perpetuate his name. Libraries, I say, are sinks of corruption. They place within reach of the masses the infidel teachings of Voltaire and the sensational dime novel, getting in their work of destruction only too easily.

Had the words been spoken before the congregation at the late mass at which Bishop Matz is accustomed to preach, they would have evoked a storm, but as it was, only a few Sunday excursionists heard him.

JOHNSON IS HIS CHOICE

Henry Watterson Favors Minnesota Governor for the Presidency.

Will Get the Nomination, If Bryan is Willing.

Washington, July 17.—"Governor Johnson of Minnesota is the man Henry Watterson referred to in his celebrated article in which he said he could pick the winner of the Democratic presidential nomination."

This is the statement made by Charles A. Edwards, secretary of the Democatic congressional campaign committee, who returned yesterday from Louisville, where he had a talk with Col. Watterson.

"I had a conference with 'Marse' Henry," said Edwards, "and he went over the ground at length. Col. Watterson asserted that Governor Johnson was the one Democrat who was absolutely available, against whom no faction of the party entertains animosity, who has a record of carrying a strongly Republican state twice, and who is at this time before the nation without a flaw of any sort.

"Col. Watterson also said that in his opinion W. J. Bryan commands the situation, and that none could be nominated whom Bryan did not indorse; that Bryan could have the head of the ticket if he wanted it, and that it would be necessary only for the Nebrassa man to indicate that he was for a given candidate to insure his selection.

"'If Mr. Bryan will only say to the party,' remarked Col. Watterson, 'that he regards Governor Johnson as the best man for the place, then Governor Johnson will be named.'

"Going into the matter in detail, Col. Watterson said that when one passed down the list of those who have been mentioned, without exception it was found that each one is antagonized by some powerful element of the party, but when it comes to the consideration of Governor Johnson, there is not known one group of 100 Democrats anywhere in the country who would start any hostility to Johnson.

"This, Col. Watterson granted, was due in part to the fact that Governor Johnson never has been before the nation prominently, and people know comparatively nothing of him, excepting that he carried Minnesota, first in 1904 with about 10,000 majority over the Republican nominee, although the state gave Theodore Roosevelt 100,000 majority, and that last year Johnson carried Minnesota the second time with 70,000 majority. In view of the fact that the Democratic party has been divided into apparently irreconcilable wings, the selection of a man of Johnson's caliber, of demonstrated ability in executive office, who could repeat the feat of carrying a Republican state such as Minnesota twice, supported by both the conservative and radical portions of his party, would seem, said Marse Henry, to be the part of wisdom."

Coming from Editor Watterson, this information regarding the availability of Governor Johnson is having the effect of stirring up the Democratic politicians more than anything that has occurred in many moons. They are making much of the point that Watterson has turned his attention to finding a candidate for the party instead of devoting his time to platform talking, which in years past has been his chief occupation. They insist that if he shall be as successful in candidate-making as he has been in platform-making the Democratic victory of 1908 is as good as won at this minute.

DAVID H. BURNHAM VISITS DULUTH

In Capacity of Consulting Architect for New Courthouse.

D. H. Burnham of the Chicago firm of D. H. Burnham & Co., architects, arrived in the city yesterday noon, and in the afternoon was in consultation with Architect John J. Wangenstein over the plans of the new courthouse.

Mr. Burnham was selected as consulting architect by the courthouse commission at its last meeting. During the afternoon Mr. Burnham looked over the site that the county has purchased between First and Second streets, on Fourth avenue west, and took the plans back to Chicago last evening to make an examination in detail. If the consulting architect passes a favorable opinion on the plans, it is probable that work will be started very soon on the excavation necessary for the foundations. In case that he does not find the plans suitable for the location, new plans will be prepared and submitted.

MRS. PALMER SAYS

She Will Sue Papers If Engagement Reports Are Circulated.

London, July 17.—Mrs. Potter Palmer is so thoroughly annoyed at the constant reports announcing that she is going to marry some one, that she has determined to take drastic steps to prevent the English papers, at least, from reprinting similar stories originating in America. Through her solicitors she has served notice on the English newspapers that, should they print any unauthorized report concerning her, she will commence suit against them at once.

She is fully determined on this course, as the report that she was to marry the earl of Munster occasioned both her and the earl the keenest annoyance. They have never met each other, and they are both furious at the report.

An intimate friend of Mrs. Palmer said that it was beyond doubt that she will remain a widow for the remainder of her life. She is delighted with her freedom, and so glories in the name of Potter Palmer that she would not change it for any title.

DEMANDS $5,000 FOR INJURY

Suit Against Cleveland Cliffs Mining Company is Begun.

In the federal court yesterday the personal injury case of Jalmar Heino against the Cleveland Cliffs Mining company was begun. Heino is suing the company for $5,000 for injuries sustained while working at the Crosby mine at Nashwauk, where he fell a distance of forty-five feet down a shaft.

Three ribs were fractured and as the result of a blow on the nose, which affected the optic nerves, paralysis of the eye was caused. Heino is represented by Attorney Victor L. Power, while Attorney H. J. Grannis is defending the mining company.

NOT SENATE BUT PENITENTIARY

Is Proper Place for Guggenheim, Says Judge Lindsey.

Chautauqua, N. Y., July 17.—Not the senate chamber, but the penitentiary or the gallows is the place for Simon Guggenheim of Colorado, according to "Fighting Judge" Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, in an interview after his address on "The Child and the State" before the Woman's club at Chautauqua assembly here.

Though a Democrat, Judge Lindsey praised President Roosevelt as the greatest man on the planet today.

In Hughes or La Follette he further asserted, lies the only salvation for Colorado, which is absolutely rotten politically.

"Senator Simon Guggenheim should be hanged, if a man who throws a bomb deserves to be hanged," Judge Lindsey declared emphatically. "If Moyer and Haywood are guilty and deserve to hang, then Guggenheim and William G. Evans, the Republican boss, deserve hanging more than they do, for the crimes of Guggenheim and Evans are infinitely more far-reaching.

"I know they are criminals and everyone in Colorado knows it, but what can be done to get such men even into the penitentiary when they own the legislature, both parties, many of the judiciary and the press of the state.

"Simon Guggenheim absolutely bought his way into the United States senate," declared the "fighting judge."

"William G. Evans gave him the election because Guggenheim furnished the money to make Evans political master of the present ring that throttled the state. Men who ran for the legislature and who 'snitched' on the gang have given absolute proof to back up my statements that Guggenheim put up money and bought his way, step by step, to the senate.

"Guggenheim has absolutely no claim on his office. He never did anything for the people. He never did anything but oppose the people for the advantage of those whom President Roosevelt would call 'predatory wealth.' That is the record of the United States senator from Colorado."

"Guggenheim and Evans are criminals of the Harriman type," he asserted. "Politically they know absolutely nothing of the principles of manhood. They are despicable criminals and ought, at least, to be in the penitentiary.

"Colorado is politically rotten and getting constantly worse. The state is absolutely in the hands of the criminal rich. These men have stolen millions from the people and have outraged the principles of government. Their crimes are driving the people of both parties into Socialism and anarchy.

"The smashing of the smelter trust is necessary for improved conditions. President Roosevelt is attempting that now. If he wants the presidency again, even though I'm a Democrat, I'd support him for all I'm worth."

STOPPED BY BOY.

John Morrison Captures Escaping Member of Chain Gang.

Edward Hill, a Finlander, who has almost finished a short sentence for petty larceny, made a daring break for liberty yesterday afternoon while at work on the chain gang at Eleventh avenue east and Superior street. He made over a mile with the guard in hot pursuit before being brought down. John Morrison, a 15-year-old boy made the stop finally. He spotted Hill tearing along at a rapid pace for the warm day and some distance behind saw the guard in pursuit. Realizing that something was wrong, he tackled the man and brought him down. Hill was so exhausted by his long run that the youngster had little difficulty in holding him until the guard arrived upon the scene.

ALL RECORDS BROKEN.

Number of Immigrants Landed in United States Last Year, 1,285,349.

Washington, July 17.—All immigration records in the history of the country were broken by the aggregate returns for the fiscal year of 1907, which ended on June 30 last. The total number of alien immigrants landed in America during the year was 1,285,349, as against 1,100,735 landed during the fiscal year of 1906. The increase during the year was about 6 per cent over the greatest number of immigrants that ever before arrived in America in a single year. A total of 5,962 arriving immigrants were debarred from admission during the last six months.

DUMB AS AN OYSTER.

Alleged Rnssian Count is Not Talking for Publication.

Crystal, Mich., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—A mysterious and eccentric stranger has taken up his abode in Crystal Falls' leading hotel. Some say he is a Russian count. Others question it seriously. He has plenty of money and spends it lavishly. He says he came here to learn the English language and has chosen a small town in preference to the cities for the reason that he can get better return for his lucre. He is very reticent about himself and has an especial aversion to newspapermen. He speaks German, Slavish and French fluently.

WHISKY-SOAKED PEAS TOO MUCH FOR GEESE.

Lake Linden, Mich., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—An interesting story comes from Eagle River, in Kewaunee county. It concerns a farmer and a herd of geese. To prevent a jug of whisky from breaking while being transported over the rough roads, he had placed it in a sack of peas. The cork came out, and when the farmer reached home he found that the whisky had been absorbed by the peas. He threw the peas out in yard, where, unknown to the household, the geese ate them. In the morning the geese lay stark and cold. The wife, thrifty woman, did not cry over spilt milk, but proceeded to save what she could from the wreck, and she plucked the geese before throwing the supposed carcasses away. The fowls lay there all day until late in the afternoon, when the woman again heard the familiar call, and, looking out, she was amazed to see the flock of birds solemnly parading around the farmyard, arrayed only in their innate modesty. The geese had simply indulged in an orgie with the whisky soaked peas and were sleeping off their "jag" when found by the farmer. He now has the original flock of featherless geese.

PUBLIC FUNDS ARE SPENT IN IRREGULAR MANNER

Public Examiner Makes Report on Several School Districts.

Report Shows Large Amount of Money Was Illegally Spent.

Ignorance or carelessness of public officials intrusted with public funds has caused the expenditure of a considerable amount of money in an illegal manner, according to a report that has been filed by the public examiner with the county auditor, and some glaring irregularities, probably unintentional, have been shown in the way school district matters within the boundaries of St. Louis county, are being conducted.

The report, which has just been filed, shows a situation of affairs that will probably cause a surprise to many of the taxpayers and will, probably, serve as a warning for a more careful and faithful performance of public duties in the future by other public officials who have the handling of funds.

In accordance with the law passed by the last legislature, authorizing the county board to request the state public examiner to examine the accounts of such town or school district organizations as the board might designate, an examiner was sent out in June last to investigate the accounts of several school districts in this county and make a report. The work covered a period of several days, ending early in July, and the reports are now on file with County Auditor Halden.

No Regard for Law.

The report shows, according to the officer who submits them, that certain school district officials in this county have been carrying on affairs with a high hand and without regard for the law; that they have been drawing public funds themselves in violation of the law; that they have not kept their records as required by law; and, in fact, have been grossly careless, to say the least, in the administration of their offices.

Among some of the school officials who come in for notice as having drawn school district funds in an illegal manner, are Anton Hjelm, of the town of Normanna, who recently came into public notice by instituting a suit to enjoin the county board from appointing a county highway commissioner or from appropriating any funds to pay him, on the ground that the new law creating the office is illegal. The other man is Frank Max, formerly road foreman for F. W. Kugler, when the latter was county commissioner in the second district. Mr. Max figured before the public eye to a considerable extent concerning road work and expenditures for the same, and, in the examiner's report, as a school district officer, he is claimed to have drawn district funds in an illegal manner.

The report of the examiner follows:

School District No. 22.

The records of Charles C. Butler, clerk, and R. E. Bailey, treasurer, and Joseph Baskilly, of this district were examined June 27 and 28, 1907.

Orders drawn on the treasury by the clerk do not state the fund on which drawn, nor the nature of the claim for which issued. Chapter 445, Laws of 1907, requires this to be done and I so advised the clerk.

The district has $11,020 of outstanding orders, but no record of these orders is kept by the treasurer. This is also required by law.

The annual meeting voted the director $300 compensation for his services for the year and he has drawn the same. I know of no law authorizing this payment.

The clerk was voted the sum of $60 to be paid in monthly installments of $5 per month. Chapter 1352, Revised Statutes, provides that the clerk shall receive such compensation as may be voted at the end of the school year and then only upon the certificate of the county superintendent of schools that he is entitled thereto.

Neither the clerk or the treasurer keep an account of each fund separately, as required by chapter 445, laws of 1907.

No bond is required of the depository. This should be done as a large sum of money is collected and expended annually.

The clerk's record is not kept up to date and no entries have been made in the treasurer's records since January, 1907.

The school board employed Edwin R. McNeil as a teacher. Mr. McNeil's certificate was not recorded by the county superintendent of schools as required by chapter 157, laws of 1905, and payments to him were improper expenditures of the district's funds.

Receipts for year to date	$92,353.75
Disbursements	$2,017.60
Balance in the treasury	$10,336.15

Money is carried in City National bank of Virginia.

Orders and vouchers outstanding at this date were	$11,020.00

The bonded indebtedness of the district is said to be about $91,000, but the officers have no record of these funds and are not certain as to the amount.

School District No. 59.

In this district neither the clerk nor the treasurer had any record of the proceedings. The district is newly organized, a loan was apparently made from the state school fund in the sum of $1,000 for the erection of a new schoolhouse. The schoolhouse was built, but not finished as yet. Cost of the building so far is $795.63.

No orders have been drawn by the clerk, but parties presented bills for the amount due them and the treasurer paid them.

In this manner $795.63 has been illegally expended.

The contract for the schoolhouse was evidently let to Swan Brown, the district clerk, for $265, and he received that sum from the treasurer. This payment he should be forced to refund.

The clerk and treasurer promised to get their records in shape and the treasurer promised not to expend any more of the district funds except on the order of the clerk, countersigned by the director.

The report includes a list of the illegal paymonts taken from the olils in the treasurer's possession and says the matter of the loan is hearsay as there is no record of it. The officers are Swan Brown, clerk; Nick Aro, treasurer, and Ell Mackey director. All of them put in bills and drew out district funds.

School District No. 13.

An examination of school district No. 13, St. Louis county, was made commencing June 29 and ending July 2, 1907.

Aug. 8, 1906, the treasurer paid $22.01 as appears from his record, for interest on outstanding orders. No order or voucher for this item was issued by the clerk or signed by the director.

On the same date, there appears to have been $2,126.73 more paid out than had been received. It appears that the bank permitted the overdraft to that extent.

The treasurer's records are very poorly kept. Record of payments not footed up and the treasurer seems to have recorded all orders as paid, although quite a number are outstanding. The condition of the treasury follows:

Cash received Aug. 1, 1906, to date	$5,057.86
Overdraft Aug. 1, 1906	2,126.73
Balance	$2,931.13
Orders issued during year	$8,678.79
Balance cash as above	2,931.13
Debit balance July 2, 1907	$5,747.66

Of this sum $289.36 appears to be outstanding and the balance on overdraft.

No records of outstanding bonds.

Olaf Helstrom, clerk; A. P. McRae, treasurer; C. N. Williams, director.

School District No. 17.

An examination of school district No. 17 was made July 1, 1907. Order No. 14, dated Oct. 24, 1906, issued to G. O. Scrobek, clerk of the district for painting the school house, in the sum of $10. Order No. 24 for $7, dated Dec. 8, 1906, issued to N. Lyngstad, treasurer, for labor and school meetings. Order No. 49, dated Dec. 8, 1906, for $99, issued G. A. Scrobek, for labor and attending trustees' meeting.

All the above payments are illegal.

The treasurer was short in his accounts, Aug. 1, 1906, $110. I took the matter up with him and he admits that he was in error.

The financial condition of the district is as follows:

Balance Aug. 1, 1906	$1,597.72
Receipts to date	2,106.71
Total	$3,704.43
Disbursements, Aug. 1, 1906 to date	$1,477.31
Balance in treasury	$2,226.62

Funds carried in American Exchange bank of Duluth. No bond has been required of the depository.

School District No. 32.

School district No. 32, in St. Louis county was examined July 3 and 4, 1907. Anton Hjelm is clerk; Fred B. Schuman, treasurer, and John B. Johnson, director of the district.

All of these officials have entered into contracts with themselves and received compensation from the district funds for labor performed outside of their official duties. This, of course, is contrary to law, although the officers claim they were saving money for the district by employing themselves.

A list of these illegal orders, which follows, in Mr. Ford's report shows that Shuman drew district funds on seven orders totalling $623.94. The orders were drawn for supplies furnished, for hauling children to school, lumber, labor, material and repairs on school house.

It appears from the report that Anton Hjelm acted at janitor for $15 per month on the start and then for $20 per month, and that he drew of the district's funds in salary a total of $493.11.

It appears from the report that J. B. Johnson, the director, was paid a total of $125 for supplies furnished and for labor.

Other items of illegal expenditures are claimed to be several appropriations for a Christmas festival and suplies for Christmas.

The foregoing, says Mr. Ford, are illegal and the officers should be required to refund the amounts.

Total receipts since Aug. 1, 1906	$3,061.95
Total disbursements	2,445.44
Balance in treasury	$616.51

School District No. 8.

School district No. 8 was examined July 6 and 7, 1907. Martin Lepok, clerk; Paul Lepok, treasurer, and Frank Max, director.

Illegal expenditures of the district's funds were as follows:

Nov. 7, 1906, Martin Lepok, labor for district	$20
Nov. 7, 1906, Paul Lepok, labor for district	20
Nov. 7, 1906, Frank Max, school troubles	4
Order No. 61, Frank Max, labor and expense of a trip to Scanlon	36
Order No. 62, Paul Lepok, labor and team	20
Order No. 63, Martin Lepok, labor for district, seven days	20
Order No. 69, Martin Lepok, labor for district, five days	10
Order No. 71, Frank Max, expense of trip to Scanlon	6
Ordre No. 101, Frank Max, labor on new school	22

"The treasurer's bond is worthless," says the examiner, "not having been acknowledged. A new bond should be procured at once and I so advised the clerk and director. They did not seem to regard it as of much importance."

Receipts for the year	$5,704.45
Disbursements	4,598.38
Balance in treasury	$1,106.17

THE DAYS ARE SHORTENING

Each Day is Several Minutes Shorter Than Preceding One.

Although Duluth people are now experiencing the best part of their glorious summer weather, and there seems to be more sunshine just now than at any other time of the year, it is a fact that the days are again steadily growing shorter and winter is approaching.

Every day from now until the middle of next December there will be a trifle less sunshine than the day before. The decrease in the length of the days will hardly be noticeable from day to day, as it will not amount to more than a few minutes or even less each day. But a period of a week or more will make a considerable difference, and many remarks concerning the shortening days will soon be heard.

The longest day of sunshine is supposed to come on June 21, but several of the days at about that period, between June 11 and the 25th, are so nearly identical that no day can be said to be the longest. But June 21 is supposed to be the turning point when the days again commence to become shorter.

On June 21 there were 15 hours and 55 minutes of sunshine. The sun rose at 4:12 in the morning and set at 8:07 o'clock in the evening. For several days after that date there was not more than a minute or two in the variation of the length of the days. On June 30 the sun rose at 4:16 and set at 8, and the day was 15 hours and 51 minutes long.

The month of July opened with the sun rising at 4:17 and setting at 8:06, and giving 15 hours and 49 minutes of sunshine. The next day there had been no variation whatever, but on the third the sun rose a minute later but set at the same time as on July 1, 8:06. By July 10 the sun was rising at 4:23, eleven minutes later than on June 21, the turning point. It was setting at 8:04, and there were 15 hours and 40 minutes of sunshine.

Seven days have not made a great difference, but the days are a little shorter today than on the 10th of the month. The sun rose this morning at 4:30 and will set tonight at 7:58. The day has sunshine for 15 hours and 28 minutes. By the end of the month the sun will rise at 4:46 and will set at 7:43. There will be just an hour's less sunshine than on June 21.

WOODS ET AL BOUND OVER

Commissioner Spencer Holds Grain Men to Federal Grand Jury.

St. Paul, July 17.—The preliminary hearing of the case of the United States against L. A. Wood, George A. Wood, Clinton D. Phelps, Martin Quigley, Bruce Tuttle, Charles Kelly and Ernest P. Ernsberger, alleged officers and members of the Wisconsin Grain & Stock company, for fraudulent use of the mails in carrying on an illegitimate brokerage business, came to a close yesterday afternoon, before United States Court Commissioner Spencer in the federal building. Commissioner Spencer denied the motions of defendants counsel to have the actions dismissed, and held them over to await the action of the federal grand jury which convenes on the first Tuesday of next December. In the meantime bail was fixed in the following sums: L. A. Wood, $3,500; George W. Wood, $3,500; Clinton D. Phelps, $2,000; Martin Quigley, $2,000; Bruce Tuttle, $2,000; Charles Kelley, $2,000; Ernest Ernsberger, $1,000.

CAUGHT BY INSPECTOR

Russian Woman Immigrant Leaves Ship in Male Attire.

Organized Traffic in Undesireable Foreigners Discovered.

New York, July 17.—Hand over hand, in true sailor fashion, a diminutive form in male attire came over the side of the Russian steamer Saratov, docked here, and at the end of the spring line, dropped into the arms of an immigrant inspector. The bold front and stout heart that brought their possessor through many perils failed under the searching inquisition of the officer, and presently, in a flood of tears, stood revealed Miss Pauline Flaks, a stowaway, 18, bound from Kovno, Russia, for America and freedom. She will be sent back to Libau.

Back of the arrest of the Flaks girl is a story of immigration smuggling that has made the immigration authorities vigilant recently. Sometime ago a report that undesirable aliens were being landed illegally from Russian steamers led special inspectors to stop a party of Russians in the Grand Central station and return them to Ellis island, while a story secured from them could be investigated. These Russians declared that through an organized traffic, the prime mover in which had headquarters at Libau, a Baltic seaport, foreigners who would be refused legal admission were smuggled into this country.

According to the Russian, a Russian-American at Libau is at the head of this business, and his operations are winked at by Russian government officials, as he is ridding that country of undesirable characters. From each emigrant to be smuggled, $75.50 is demanded. In return the emmigrant is furnished a passport from his home to Libau, or if that is not convenient, to some other port, and is put on board a vessel for America. Of the money paid, $25 goes to the Libau man; $35 to a member of the crew upon which passage is taken and $12.50 to an officer of the ship whose part in the plan is to afford the immigrant "shore leave" when an American port is reached.

The Ellis Island authorities put on foot a quiet investigation, as the result of the tale.

When the Saratov of the Russian volunteer fleet arrived from Libau and Rotterdam Saturday, and the usual search of the vessel had been concluded, two inspectors remained on board. Late at night two men were detected creeping forward from the forecastle toward the bitts through which ran a line to the dock. One of them, who said he was Jan Gedemin, of Kovno, Russia, fleeing from conscription was captured. His companion escaped. The matter was reported to Capt. Schichmaross, who said, that so far as he knew, there were no stowaways aboard.

Later Miss Flaks made her hopeless attempt to get ashore. To the inspectors she told a story of flight from Kovno, after her parents and her sisters had been killed, how she reached Rotterdam, Holland, where it was suggested to her that she might be helped to America if she communicated with a man at Libau. This she did; was put in male attire and traveled among the men of the steerage on the Saratov.

NO FAIR EXHIBIT.

Too Late for St. Louis County to Prepare for One.

Bishop McGolrick, chairman of the agricultural committee of the Commercial club, in whose hands was left the matter of investigating the advisability of sending an exhibit to the state fair from St. Louis county this year, says it is too late to provide for such an exhibit. At a special meeting of the public affairs committee he will recommend that the idea be abandoned, but that steps be taken to have an exhibit next year.

The bishop is enthusiastically in favor of advertising Duluth and its tributary country more widely, and with that end in view is having statistics prepared showing the relative cost of living and rents in Duluth and the Twin Cities, the cost of available farming land near the city, and giving facts and figures regarding all the advantages of Duluth as a place of residence and a place for locating in a business way. Probably a special meeting of the public affairs committee will be called to take up the matter of issuing the booklet.

SERIOUS RESULTS

Attend Street Car Accident on Garfield Avenue.

As the result of a street car colliding with a lumber wagon belonging to the Duluth Lumber company, at Garfield avenue and Superior street late yesterday afternoon J. M. Rock, the driver of the wagon is in the hospital in a serious condition, and one of of the horses, which went dashing down the street after the crash, is dead as the result of a collision with a telegraph pole.

Rock was hurled into the air and lighted on the curb sustaining serious injuries, consisting of numerous scalp wounds, a severely wrenched leg, and possible internal injuries.

LIVES IMPERILED.

Engineer of Fast Running Train Falls Unconscious in the Cab.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 17.—Hundreds of lives were imperiled yesterday when Floyd E. Webber, engineer of a fast westbound Lake Shore passenger train, was stricken unconscious at his throttle and the train sped almost into Cleveland without a guiding hand. The engineer was overcome by the intense heat. As the engine rocked into the Cleveland yards over the switch points, the motion threw the engineer from his seat to the floor of the cab. Then the fireman learned what had happened. He jumped to the engineer's seat, leaving his companion helpless on the footboards while the speed of the train was brought down within the yard limits. Webber's condition was found to be critical. How long the engineer had been unconscious at the throttle is not known.

PROMPTLY LYNCHED.

Oklahoma Mob Hangs Negro Who Shot and Wounded Brakeman.

Osage, Okla., July 17.—A Frank Bailey, a negro, was lynched by a mob consisting of 150 men and boys last night, after he had shot and mortally wounded Frank Kelly, a brakeman on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad.

Kelly ejected the negro from the train at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The negro hid in the yards and as the train upon the top of which Kelly was standing passed, the negro shot him from ambush, the bullet entering Kelly's breast. The negro escaped, but was captured an hour later.

A mob formed at 10 o'clock last night and overpowered two officers who had Bailey in custody. The members took the negro to the scene of his crime, hanging him to a telegraph pole. His body had not been cut down up to 2 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning. Kelly can live but a few hours.

Successful Brians

How to make Brains and keep them IN REPAIR

Any man or woman, with little trouble and less expense, can make an interesting experiment on Brains.

We all naturally desire to be considered "brainy"—"intellectual."

The Brain and nerves are fed or hurt by the food put into the stomach. If that food contains the right elements and digestion and assimilation are perfect, the Brain will act in the sanest, clearest manner.

If improper, indigestible food is taken, eaten with nervous haste and in excessive quantities, the digestive organs cannot convert it entirely into real sustenance and it lies in the stomach too long and decays.

"Decay" means that bacteria begins to work and these living organisms produce toxic or poisonous matter which is quickly absorbed with what little food has been digested, and carried into the blood.

This poisoned blood goes to the Brain as well as elsewhere, and the most sensitive tissues of the body—the seat of thought and execution of the same—is acted upon the same as when alcohol or any other poison is taken, only in different degree.

Dull, sluggish, half asleep, unable to think clearly and promptly—anything but "Brainy"—is the person so fed. In fact it is not feeding, but poisoning, and a Brain so treated cannot be successful.

A genuine food for the Brain is Grape-Nuts. "Why," someone asks. Analysis of Grape-Nuts will show Phosphate of Potash as found in wheat and barley of which the food is made.

This Phosphate combines with Albumen and water in the human body and builds the soft gray filling of the nerves and brain cells; then again the food is easy of digestion because it is cooked at the factories in such manner as to transform the starch of the wheat and barley into a form of sugar, to be seen under a strong glass on each granule of Grape-Nuts.

This sugar was not "put on" or poured over, but exudes during the process of cooking and is really the starch turned to sugar and ready to be absorbed into the blood.

So with Grape-Nuts we have the food with the right things Nature demands for Brain-building and we also have a food easy of digestion.

Make the trial, it's worth while. It's a profound demonstrable truth.

WAS VETO IN TIME?

Revised Code, Defining Time Computation, May Sustain Mayor.

New Point is Raised in Boyle License Case.

A new point has been brought up during the day which is likely to make a big difference in the matter of the mayor's veto on the Boyle and Boettcher license resolutions.

The point is entirely alien to Assistant City Attorney McKeon's opinion, and was not taken into consideration by him when he delivered this opinion, but it will, in the opinion of many, change the aspect of the situation and sustain the decision of the attorney.

In section 5514 of the revised code, paragraph 21, the computation of time is defined as follows:

"In computing the time within which an act is required or permitted to be done, the first day shall be excluded and the last day included, unless the last shall fall on Sunday or on a holiday, in which case the prescribed time shall be extended so as to include the first business day thereafter."

According to Clerk Cheadle the license resolutions which came under the ban of the mayor's displeasure were submitted to him on Wednesday morning. This day, according to the revised code, is excluded. Thursday, Friday and Saturday make but three days, and the fourth day falls on Sunday. According to the code, the time is then extended to include the "first business day thereafter," which in this case is Monday, on the evening of which day the veto, with the mayor's objections, was returned to the council.

This leaves the mayor in a fairly good position, it is claimed, and the contentions along these lines will be much more easily sustained, it is said, than those advanced by Mr. McKeon Monday night.

REV. MR. GREEN LEAVES FOR WESTERN HOME.

Crookston, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. R. M. Green, rector of the Episcopal church, and a very popular man of the cloth here, departed last night for his new home in Kalispell, Mont. Many friends gathered at the depot to wish him a safe journey West. Sunday evening when he delivered his farewell sermon the Baptist and the Presbyterian churches honored him by not holding evening services, the congregation going instead to the Episcopal church.

SEASON AT ITS HEIGHT

Big Crowds of Summer Tourists Are in the City.

All Appear to be Enjoying Duluth Summer Climate.

Tourists!

You can't mistake them, whether they be muffled in automobile coats with flying veils and chopping bowl hats, or whether they are in from the farm with the family "telescope" with its bulging sides.

They can be spotted by a Duluthian with unfailing accuracy and the city was full of them this morning. The Tionesta brought in between 300 and 400 of them, and the Japan brought up another big load. Incoming trains from the West brought their share, and it was very evident to Duluthians that the summer tourist season is at its height. They stood around on the street corners waiting for tallyhos and street cars and gossiped in hotel corridors, or scanned the time table racks. There seemed to be thousands of them, although an estimate of between 500 and 600 would probably be nearer the truth.

And they all appeared to enjoy this brand of weather to the fullest extent. When the Duluth summer climate is in proper working order it keeps the summer tourists awake at night thinking up adjectives to properly describe it to their friends, and today it was at its best. Comments on the "dandy weather" and "refreshing air" were heard on all sides.

FIND RICH LEDGE.

Strike of Fine Ore Reported in the Lake Mines.

Houghton, Mich., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Unmistakable evidences of a rich ledge have been found at the Lake copper mines, this county, and local mining people are more than interested. A great deal of Lake, formerly Belt, stock is held among Houghton, Hancock and Calumet people, and they all have confidence in the mine and the company. Rich samples of ore have been taken from an outcropping, which is without doubt part of the Baltic lode. It is considered one of the biggest finds in the history of mining in this district.

TRAIN WRECKED AND ENGINEER LOSES LIFE.

Butte, Mont., July 17.—The North Coast limited, westbound of the Northern Pacific railway, was ditched three miles east of Garrison today. Two big cars, the smoker and a day coach, left the rails. The locomotive overturned, and Engineer James Graham of Butte was found dead at his post, with his hand on the brake lever. No one else was injured. The cause of the accident has not been learned. The train was taken back to Garrison.

AYRES ANXIOUS FOR THE ORDEAL

Says He is in Perfect Health Physically and Mentally.

New York, July 17.—Lieut. Col. Ayres, whose wife got into a dispute with the war department because she was ordered from visiting West Point, appears today before a retiring board in this city. Lieut. Col. Ayres is in town and is anxious for the ordeal. Although he has consulted his counsel he will appear alone before the board, and is confident he will pass the examination successful. Ayres says he is in perfect health and that his physical and mental condition is excellent.

ELECTION IS ASSURED.

J. L. Washburn's Friends Say He Will be Returned.

As Saturday draws near, interest in the school election, which will be held then, increases. J. L. Washburn's friends are busily engaged in promulgating his candidacy, and the East end of the city is practically assured for him. His friends say that his election to the board for another term of three years is certain.

Other contests are apt to be close. Samuel Nixon and C. W. G. Hegg both reside in the same part of the city and the adherents of both promise that each candidate will receive a large number of votes. L. A. Barnes and Dr. David Graham of West Duluth will likely run a close race. J. J. Moe is a formidable candidate, and his re-election seems likely.

RAILROADS

NEW CHARGE IS PROVIDED

Forty-Eight Hours for Removal of Freight.

Then a Charge of Five Cents a Ton for Each Day.

Effective July 22, railroads centering in Duluth will make a storage charge of 5 cents a ton a day on less than carload lots of freight unloaded into warehouses or on to platforms, if such freight is not removed within a period of forty-eight hours after the consignee is notified of its arrival.

Fractional amounts will be charged at the full ton rate. The lake and rail traffic unloaded at the dock warehouses will not be affected by the new rule. The purpose of the storage charge is to assure more prompt removal of freight upon its receipt in the city. Carload lots will still be subject to the rules of the Lake Superior Car Service association as formerly. The association provides for a storage charge on cars held over a certain limit.

Much of the trouble over the freight congestion in the past has been caused by the fact that local receivers of goods were slow in removing freight consigned to them after its arrival here. If they did not happen to be ready for the goods, they would leave them in the freight house until such time as they were needed, which might in some cases be as long as three or four weeks. This practice resulted in an unnecessary accumulation of freight in the warehouses and on the platforms, taking up space which was needed for later arrivals. It is believed that the new storage charge will be high enough to make it an object to the local merchants to remove the goods within forty-eight hours after being notified of their arrival and thus the handling of freight in the local houses will be greatly facilitated.

Change in Time.

The Great Northern afternoon train for Virginia and other points on the iron range, which formerly left the city at 2:20 p. m., has changed time, and now leaves at 2:45 p. m. There has been a demand for the later hour, and as soon as the Great Northern officials became aware of the fact that public sentiment was in favor of the change, it was put into effect.

TEST CASE OF INTEREST

Building Line Easement Question Will be Settled in Court.

Considerable interest is being attached to the case which is about to be brought against the city by Davis & Hollister for Max Zalk and H. Y. Josephs, joint owners of property at the corner of Twelfth avenue east and Superior street, in connection with building line easements. The appraisers appointed by the city council decided that the property was benefitted rather than damaged by the easements and that the owners were not entitled to any remuneration for having a portion of their land set aside for an easement. Messrs. Zalk and Josephs figure it otherwise.

They are suing primarily to get the easement set aside in the courts, by attacking the constitutionality of the act providing for the easements. The proceedings have been approved by a number of attorneys and are thought to be without a flaw, but the attorneys for the property owners believe that they have some chance of knocking out the easement by questioning the original act.

The case will be of considerable interest to a large number of property owners throughout the city. Less than two weeks ago a committee of appraisers returned an opinion as to damages from a later bunch of easements, and refused to award any damages for their establishment. It is said that a considerable number of these are watching the Zalk-Josephs case with interest and will bring similar actions if they are successful. W. J. Holmes is contemplating the erection of a row of flat buildings on the southwest corner of Twenty-third avenue east and Third street, which is in the district affected by the latest bunch of easements, and will protest against the finding of the appraisers and against the easement, as he claims that the building line will necessitate the construction of much smaller and cheaper buildings.

The council contemplates putting through a number of other easements before the close of the summer, and will, if its present policy is sustained, and the courts hold that it may legally do so, keep up this plan of action until easements are established throughout the residence portions of the city. The ruling in the present case will therefore be watched with more than usual interest throughout the city.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN DULUTH

TO SUBSCRIBERS:

It is important when desiring the address of your paper changed to give both old and new addresses.

A VERY YELLOW JINGO.

Those who are in the habit of thinking of Hearst every time yellow journalism is mentioned, and who may be grateful for a chance to give him and his papers credit for something for a change, now have a chance to do it.

The absurd Japanese war scare is not Hearst's, but James Gordon Bennett's.

In fact, the Hearst papers have been pretty decent about it. They have, it is true, discovered a few Japanese spies lurking about, perhaps a few more than were really visible to the naked eye, but they have shown no disposition to deliberately stir up trouble with Japan.

Hearst undoubtedly had a good deal to do with bringing on the war with Spain. Rumors credit him with being the publisher who cabled to his artist in Cuba, who had been sent there to make pictures and who reported that there was no probability of war, that he should furnish the pictures; "I will furnish the war."

But in this case he is guiltless, and it is a pleasure to give him credit for it. It is not so pleasant to discuss the attitude of the New York Herald, Bennett's paper. It has not admitted a deliberate intent to stir up a war with Japan, but if it had such an intent it would not be pursuing tactics any different from those it is now using.

The New York Herald's clamor is raised principally over the project of sending a fleet of war vessels into the Pacific. It won't have it any other way than that this is a direct invitation to Japan to shut up or to get into trouble. To make the threat clearer, it is demanding that the fleet go by way of the Suez canal instead of around the Horn. Its portentous headlines and its editorial columns thunder alarms daily. It is the typical "yellow," the typical "jingo."

Of course there is speculation as to why Mr. Bennett should do it. One reason might be the old principle, to raise that which Sherman said war is and sell papers. But there are people that look deeper than this.

Bennett spends much time in Europe. He is subject, in a measure, to European influences. Europe, in some parts of it at least, does not want to see Japan get too far ahead. It might be handy for these interests to have the United States give it a setback. The insinuation is that Bennett's Herald is lend its influence to this end. If it is true it is treason.

Whatever the reason, he is mainly responsible for the agitation, and is more to blame than the sheep-editors who have followed his lead. He was pro-Russian during the war between Japan and Russia, when most of America was distinctly pro-Japanese.

Anyway, such influences are mischievous. Whatever their object, it is unworthy. The newspapers that have been trying, with their faked alarms and their distorted war sensations, to stir up the people, have become plain nuisances, and should be abated.

THE SCHOOL ELECTION.

Saturday the voters of the independent school district of Duluth will elect three directors, for terms of three years, succeeding Directors J. L. Washburn, John J. Moe and N. C. Hendricks, whose terms have expired.

Of these three directors two, Mr. Washburn and Mr. Moe, have been induced to become candidates for re-election, and they should by all means be re-elected. Mr. Washburn not only represents the highest type of public service, but he is the only candidate from the East end of the city. Mr. Moe's service has been valuable, and he deserves re-election on that account as well as because of the fact that he is the West end candidate.

There are four other candidates: Dr. David Graham and L. A. Barnes of West Duluth; C. W. F. Hegg and Samuel Nixon. The first two, being from West Duluth, are naturally candidates to succeed Mr. Hendricks, who was a West Duluth representative. Mr. Hegg is the labor candidate, and he and Mr. Nixon live in the central part of the city.

This is an important election, and the voters should turn out and attend it. The school board spends nearly as much of the taxpayers' money as the city council. Much depends upon the character of the board, and that in turn depends upon the attention paid it by the citizenship.

But Directors Washburn and Moe should certainly be re-elected.

THE POLITICIAN AND HIS JOB.

A writer in the St. Louis Times discusses "the passing of the politician" and he really seems to have the idea that the old-time politician of evil methods, an institution so old that Lear spoke of "scurvy politicians," is actually on his way hence, and will shortly pass from among us permanently.

Of course the politician as an institution will not go. It is not necessary or desirable that he should go. Methods, not men, are in issue here. There are good politicians and bad politicians, in more senses than one, including the ideas of virtue and efficiency. But the politician who is bad because his virtue has holes in it is in the long run the politician who is bad because he lacks efficiency. In other words, the evil politician does not last long. The only trouble has been that his methods do last, and that one bad politician disposed of by defeat is quickly succeeded by another.

It requires a very sanguine temperament to believe that the day of perfect purity in politics has arrived, or is near at hand. It will take something deeper than a few reform laws and reform campaigns to accomplish that, because the change involves a more or less radical improvement in human nature.

But it is quite clear that matters are better than they were, largely because of the awakening of public sentiment, the disappearance of blind partisanship, and the passage of legislation aimed to cut out a few of the better known tricks of "scurvy politicians."

Chief of these reasons, of course, is the rise of the spirit of independence in politics, whereby men are thinking and reasoning for themselves, instead of letting their parties, which means their party organizations, do it for them. When the majority of the voters asked only what ticket a man was running upon, the field was easy for the corrupt politician. He is in politics for the health of his pocketbook, and when blindly partisan citizens fondly turned everything over to him, it was "a shame to take the money," but he took it.

Another thing that will tend to deprive the mercenary and corrupt politician of his reason for existence is the divorce of politics and the corporations, which can be brought about by rigid publicity of campaign contributions, and by rigid prohibition of corporation contributions. Without corporation money to go upon, in return for which he betrayed the people, the evil politician would have starved long ago.

Beyond doubt matters are infinitely better than they used to be in this respect. Whether they will get better depends upon whether the people continue to do their own thinking and their own watching.

The Herald realizes that if the people go to sleep again, and in blind devotion to partisanship let the reins out of their hands, things will be worse than ever; but it is optimistic enough to believe that that is not going to happen. In which case the venal politician might as well look for a job on the section.

THE DARK HORSE IS OUT.

The cat is out of the bag.

Or, perhaps it would be more accurate to say that the dark horse is out of the stable.

The famous "dark horse" of Henry Watterson, whose veiled allusions have mightily tittilated the curiosity of the political world, is now admitted by "Marse Henry" to be Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota.

Governor Johnson is the man "north of the Ohio and west of the Alleghany mountains," the man "who could still the discords and restore the harmonies, yea, fill the loose sails of the old Ship of Zion with hopeful gales, and perhaps prove an Abraham Lincoln to the lost sheep of the house of Jefferson and Jackson and Tilden."

The Herald suspected it all along, though that is putting it mildly; "knew it" would be better. It just couldn't have been anybody else. Many other newspapers guessed correctly, and of late it had been pretty generally understood that the "dark horse" was Governor Johnson.

And now Col Watterson has admitted it to a friend, who has come out with it to the public, as will be noted from a Washington dispatch in The Herald tonight.

Col. Watterson has had in his heart the interests of his country and his party in speaking of his dark horse candidate, whom he hoped Bryan would consider; he wants his party to win, he wants the "discords stilled and the harmonies restored," and he believes that "Johnson of Minnesota" can do it.

So does The Herald, firmly, confidently. He can be nominated and elected, if Mr. Bryan says the word. Col. Watterson is in good faith, and is not seeking to dictate or to shelve Mr. Bryan; he is seeking victory for his party, and he believes that in the sign of the dark horse lies the hope of victory.

ONLY RICH MEN ELIGIBLE?

We are beginning to hear again about the troubles of our ambassadors—not with their duties or with the nations to which they have been sent, but with their pay and their difficulty in making the salary perform the duties that necessarily fall upon it.

Some of them are wealthy, and don't have any such troubles, because they can use the official salary to pay house rent with, or to tip the janitor, or for anything they choose, their own ample private incomes being sufficient to allow them to put on all the airs their inclinations or their duties call for.

Others, who are not wealthy, but are just faithful, able diplomats who earned their places by real service, really do have troubles, and they are rather shameful troubles, too. For instance, the ambassador at Paris, Henry White, didn't get his place because of his wealth, for he hasn't any. Custom made it necessary for him to celebrate the Fourth by keeping open house for all who cared to come. Now there are always a lot of people from this country floating through Paris, and they like to call upon the American ambassador, particularly when he is having an "at home" and they are likely to run into somebody worth looking at. Mr. White's own home in Paris is a modest one, in keeping with his financial condition, and it is not at all suitable for such purposes. So he had to dig down into his pocket and hire a hotel for the occasion.

Whitelaw Reid, at London, having formerly been a newspaper man, is wealthy, and is able to keep up the pace regardless of the salary. On the Fourth he gave a garden party to 4,000 guests, mostly Americans, which must have cost him at least $4,000. He pays about $60,000 a year for his house. Yet his salary is $17,500, the maximum ambassadorial salary, with no allowances for entertaining. It is reported that even his lengthy purse is beginning to protest against the inroads made upon it, and that he is thinking strongly of coming home and letting somebody else spend the money for awhile.

You say they ought to cut out all this folderol, and live on their salaries, entertaining only as much as the salaries will allow. That sounds well enough, but you wouldn't like it very well, if, when you went abroad, you found your ambassadors living in cottages and laughed at for penuriousness, while the ambassadors of other countries were throwing them into the shade by the superb appointments of their handsome embassies and the magnificence of their entertainments.

Of course, too, the trouble would be solved if none but very rich men were appointed. There are plenty of them that would like the places, and they could be depended upon to keep their end up in the way of spending money. But just because a man is rich doesn't make him a good ambassador, and anyway, in a free and glorious republic, people shouldn't get favors just because they are rich.

Congress could fix it, if it would, by passing the bill it rejected last winter, to appropriate money enough to buy embassies in all the foreign capitals.

THE PASSING SHOW.

One good effect of the president's attack upon the nature fakers is that the sea serpent story seems to have disappeared this year.

And now the St. Cloud Journal-Press, too, plans a fiftieth anniversary edition. Minnesota is getting on in years, but like the Journal-Press it is young and fresh and breezy still.

What about that old almanac of 1837, dug up a few weeks ago, in which it was prophecied that 1907 would have no summer? Recent conditions have made that look like most long distance prophecies from a rear view.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"I don't wonder the Minnesota papers are continually trying to hammer into the minds of the geenral public that every man is wasting his opportunities by not investing in Northern Minnesota farm lands," said A. D. Foraker of Bemidji, Minn., at the McKay. "In spite of all that has been said and written, there are a good many people who really do not realize the wonderful fertility of the soil, and the numerous attractions offered by this section of the state.

"A newly-opened section of the state that should be receiving more attention just now is the country along the Minnesota & International. There is a vast area of excellent agricultural land tributary to the line in Crow Wing, Cass, Hubbard and Beltrami counties. Those who have already settled on them say these lands are especially adapted to diversified farming and dairying. A great advantage possessed by them is the low price at which they are sold. Much of the land can be had as cheaply as a claim holder could commute on government lands. The objections usually raised in connection with the time and expense incident to clearing timbered lands may be met by the fact that a farmer finds a crop waiting for him, as the timber may be cut into fire wood or worked up into railroad ties, logs for the saw mills, telegraph or telephone poles and fence posts, for all of which there is a ready market and ample transportation facilities.

"The material from which to erect buildings and fences is at hand. There is plenty of game fish for food and pleasure, and fuel costs nothing but the labor of cutting. The first year's clearing gives enough room for raising vegetables for the family table, and if the settler prefers to earn ready money during the winter months, rather than work in clearing his land, he can find employment for himself and teams in the lumber camps. At the present time and for years to come the lumber camps, in which thousands of men are employed, provide the best kind of a market for the products of the farm."

"The development of Mexico has been very rapid in the last few years, and the Mexican Central Railway company has been one of the greatest factors in the making of modern Mexico," said D. O. Springfield of Los Angeles, Cal., at the Spalding. "Officials of the road are broad-minded enough to realize that whatever helps Mexico helps the company, and do all they can in the way of boosting, even if no direct benefits are assured from such work.

"The Mexican Central owns and operates 3,500 miles, which a lot of people who think the republic a small and insignificant place do not realize. The company is unanious to have the country through which its lines pass more fully developed. There are thousands and thousands of acres of land that are now unproductive because they are unused. Until recently it was scarcely possible to secure small and desirable tracts, because the whole country was held in vast estates, something along the system that prevails in certain sections of South America. A combination of events has made it best for large owners to divide their holdings, and accordingly a great many of these large estates are being subdivided, and people of small means have a chance to get a foothold.

"The Mexican Central has established an industrial department, for the purpose of bringing the seller and buyer together, and furnishes a free service in this connection. The company wants more stuff to transport, and by assisting in the development of the country it gets what it wants. The free work is not a work of charity. It is an investment, sure to bring in returns later on. If railroads in the United States would do something along the same line, instead of having narrower views on such subjects, as most of them do, both they and the country would be much better off."

THE WEATHER.

The only difference between the days that are happening just now is that perhaps one day may have a shade the better of some other day; but a broad view of it shows a procession of perfectly charming days forming a summer fit for Paradise. This morning a cool wind blew, but the sun was hot. The world was fresh and clean and beautiful after yesterday's hard showers. Yesterday's highest temperature was 80 degs. and last night's lowest was 56 degs. The weather man looks for fair weather, with moderate warmth, tonight and tomorrow.

A year ago today it was cool and clear and fine.

The sun rose this morning at 4:30, and sets tonight at 7:58, making 15 hours and 28 minutes of sunshine.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Light showers fell during Tuesday or last night over Gulf and South Atlantic states, the Ohio, upper Mississippi and Red River valleys and Alberta due to barometric depressions central over the latter district, Ontario and Arizona. The barometer continues high over Eastern Gulf and North Pacific districts. Temperatures continue high south of the lake region and show a tendency toward unusual warmth in the Ohio valley during this afternoon. In the Northwest temperatures are moderate to cool. Indications favor fair weather in this section tonight and Thursday."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: The road to success has many busy ways.

When a man's popularity begins to wane his neighbors usually get busy and assist.

After a man gets to be about so old all the romance has oozed out of his system.

The world is full of foolish people who are unable to see things from our point of view.

Time gets away from an old man almost as quickly as money gets away from a young one.

It's a wonder the tight squeezing in Wall street doesn't excite the envy of the corset trust.

A woman always wants to be a man's friend so he can do something for her to prove that he is glad of it.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: It takes a woman to want to love a man because nobody else will.

A sure way to get married is to have a girl make up her mind to catch you.

There is no insult to a girl who wants to be called pretty to equal the one of saying she has a real sweet nature.

You couldn't make a woman believe some other woman wouldn't like to have her children even if she had ten of her own.

What a woman likes about having been on a yachting trip is that she can talk about it in public so strangers can admire her for it.

Not a Square Deal.

Washington Post: The man or men who by unfair competition in business ruin their competitors, impoverish their families and blight their lives are more dangerous than thieves, for thieves' operations are on a small scale in comparison. It is easy to detect, convict and punish the vulgar criminal, but it is always difficult, always costly, and too often impossible to convict society's worst enemies. What sort of a square deal is it that sends one man to jail for an offense that only costs another man a fine? And what is the use of assessing fines against manufacturers or other producers since they will charge them up against the consuming public?

Control by Injunction.

Kansas City Star: Attorney General Bonaparte's plan of using the process of injunction to control the trusts has the exceeding great merit of contrast to the employment of the injunction by the trusts to control the government. It is quite in line with the forward march of events that now the most effective branch of the government, the judiciary, should be appealed to on behalf of the coordinate departments instead of against them.

Useful Papa!

They often find fault with papa,
Do mother and all the girls;
They blame him when things go crooked,
Till sometimes his head just whirls.
They've gone away for the summer,
This hope his bosom fills—
That he won't put his foot in it—only,
Of course as to fooling the bills.
—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Miss E. M. Croll of St. Paul is visiting among friends in the city.

Miss Mamie Wakelee of Battle Creek, Mich., is the guest of Mrs. Warner.

Mrs. H. M. Leroy of Port Arthur has been visiting friends here during the past week.

Mrs. E. E. Barnidge and Mrs. C. C. Brown are making a short visit among relatives at Clearwater.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Miller and Mr. Van Baalen have gone on the Peerless on a trip down the lakes.

A. M. Barnum, a well known resident of Duluth in times past, was married in Buffalo last week to Miss Georgia Horton of that city.

Miss Hattie Lloyd, daughter of Capt. Joseph Lloyd, has gone to London, Eng., to complete her musical education.

Mrs. D. E. Holston of this city, accompanied by Mrs. George Gray of Minneapolis, has gone on a trip down the lakes.

Fred Lemargie and daughter and Mrs. B. Decker will leave tomorrow for New York and thence to Europe.

B. S. Russell, a former resident of Duluth and now of Dakota, has been here for several days and is so well pleased with the outlook that he intends to move his family to this city soon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hunter, Col. and Mrs. Graves and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burke composed the reception committee at the soiree of the Duluth Boat club.

The following real estate transfers have been recorded:

J. A. Douds to William McKinley, lot 2, block 3, Central division, $10,000.

J. Wielzorkiewicz to David Keno, fractional lot 81, block 59, Third division, $400.

H. C. Hodgkins, senior member of the firm of Moffatt, Hodgkins & Clarke, the waterworks contractors of Watertown, N. Y., is in the city to attend the annual meeting of the Duluth Gas & Water company.

The body of Dugal McKay was found floating in the bay just north of the canal this afternoon. There were no marks of violence, but the vest pockets were turned wrong side out and nothing of value was found in his possession. He was not a heavy drinker and had never been seen intoxicated. He came here from Canada, was boarding at the Minneapolis house and seemed to have some money.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: The American Economist, organ of the tariff beneficiaries, is afraid the farmers of Minnesota won't take kindly to Governor Johnson's presidential aspirations because of his reform news, adding that "the Minnesota farmers are standpatters." Get the chalk out of your eye, old boy. Say, did you ever hear of James T. McCleary?

Roseau Region: It requires strength and courage to swim against the stream, while any dead fish can float with it.

Walker Pilot: There is a noticeable lack of editorial guff in the country exchanges of the Minnesota brethren. The boys should take a pencil and tab along with them on their fishing trips.

Breckenridge Gazette: It would suit the common people a great deal better if there was a little less done in the way of investigation and a little more in the way of prosecution of the trusts. But then, we probably don't know what is good for us, after all.

Biwabik Times: There is but one way to stop blind pigging and that is to arrest and convict the men engaged in the unlawful traffic. Make the business unprofitable and it will languish.

Hibbing Tribune: If John D. will just send us a prepaid ticket to Cleveland and return we will tell him some things about the company that he is president of that he does not seem to know.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: It has been decided that the state of Minnesota has no rights that must be respected by the railroads. We have always had a sneaking suspicion that it was something of that sort.

Red Wing Republican: Now that the peace conference is really in session it is very proper that a careful scrutiny of the country's needs in case of conflict should be made. In time of a peace conference prepare for war.

Canon Falls Beacon: It is difficult for the ordinary layman to understand the decision of Judge Lochren in the railroad suit where he rules that enjoining the attorney general of the state does not enjoin the state. In as much as the attorney general is the legal officer of the state, it would seem that an order restraining the state's legal department was equivalent to, and in effect, enjoining the state.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Minneota Mascot: The Barnum Star-Gazette is publishing a weekly list of subscribers who have paid up during the week. How would it be to publish a list of those that have failed to pay?—Duluth Herald.

If you are going to make it a permanent feature The Herald's suggestion is an improvement. In many instances such a list once set up would need very little attention after that. The type might wear out in the course of a few years, but that would be about the only change.

Crookston Journal: The Duluth Herald is rapidly gaining favor throughout Northern and Northwestern Minnesota as a live, up-to-date newspaper. It covers the field thoroughly and has the best corps of correspondents covering its field of any paper in the state. Any news of importance can always be found in The Herald while it is news and this accounts for its rapidly growing circulation, which for the month of June, according to a sworn statement published in their issue averaged 23,412, a gain of 3,688 over June of last year. People are getting weary of the paper which clips "specials" from the country weeklies and publish news items that have a week's growth of whiskers. Subscribers in the Philippines may not know the difference, but the people who live in the Northwest do.

North Branch Review: The Barnum Star-Gazette is publishing a weekly list of subscribers who have paid up during the week. How would it be to publish a list of those that have failed to pay?—Duluth Herald.

Few country papers have so much space to spare.

Stillwater Gazette: Duluth has a good man on the board of education who doesn't desire a re-election, but the people demand it and as a result J. L. Washburn will probably be forced to accept the honor at least once more. There must be a little sweet satisfaction to men thus honored.

Floodwood Broadaxe: "Advertise Duluth," says The Evening Herald. Why, of course, tell the whole world that Duluth is near the "Floodwood District" and see if that don't help some.

Eveleth Star: The Duluth papers are busy these days shouting for Duluth. The cause is a good one and no doubt it helps some.

Stillwater Gazette: Mahomet Rockefeller will have to go to the mountain. The middle name of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis of Chicago is Mountain.—Duluth Herald.

If he doesn't have to go to anything but a mountain he can pat himself on his manly bosom and shake hands with himself.

What a Fool!

New York Sun: "What a fool is a frog," mused the naturalist, "to jump at a bit of flannel on a fish hook." Still musing, he went home and invested all his money in a gold mine which guaranteed to pay 100 per cent dividends.

In 1950.

Life: Mr. Hastiall—What are you children going to do today?

Miss Hastiall—Oh, I guess I'll take the airship out. I want to go over Wall street and drop bags of sand on the curb brokers.

Hastiall, Jr.—I'm going to take the submarine boat. I want to see if I can find our ancestor who fell off the Mayflower.

Steve Hastiall—I'm going to take the auto-boat.

Helen Hastiall—I am going horseback.

Baby Hastiall—There's nothing left for me. I guess I'll take a walk.

SUNNY GEMS.

Cleveland Leader: "How did you come to make such a great hit with Miss Oldgirl?"

"Read her palm and told her that she would be married before she was 23."

Baltimore American: "Why do you try to teach your bird to repeat such long words?"

"Because it is only proper for a parrot to speak in polly-syllables."

Washington Star: "Some men," said Uncle Eben, "is mighty contrary. Dey'll pay good money foh de worst kind of liquor an' dey won't touch de best kind of advice, free of charge."

Puck: "Did you follow the diet I advised?"

"I did."

"Religiously?"

"Why, tolerably so. I said grace about three times out of five, I should guess."

Cleveland Leader: Sue—The wretch tried to kiss me.

Prue—Didn't he succeed?

Sue—I should say not.

Prue—What was the matter—couldn't you get your veil up in time?

Yonkers Statesman: Bill—Did you say he has horse sense?

Jill—No; why, he hasn't even got mule sense. I never knew him to kick in his life.

Philadelphia Press: "Miss Jenks is so warm in her manner."

"No wonder; her father is in the hot air engine business."

"But her friend, Miss Binks, is absolutely frigid in her demeanor."

"Her father is the biggest stockholder in the ice trust."

Harper's Bazar: Knicker—There are plenty of books telling how to save life while waiting for the doctor.

Bocker—Yes. What we need is one telling the young doctor how to save life while waiting for the patient.

Philadelphia Ledger: "Young man," said the stern father, "you have married against my wishes. Now take the consequences."

"What do you mean by 'consequences?'"

"Why, that you'll dig up the costs of the divorce suit yourself."

Then the groom realized that he was tied for keeps.

Sister Sunshine.

Sister Sunshine's sweet on me,
Takes my hand and sets me free,
Lifts the shadow from my face,
Airily, with dainty grace!
Sister Sunshine, how she smiles,
Till the heart forgets its trials,
Down the lane she dances sweet
With the blossoms at her feet,
And we follow, sister fair,
Brothers of forgotten care!
Sister Sunshine, oh, thou art
Sweeter than an old sweetheart!

TAFT TO SPEAK.

Washington, July 17.—Secretary Taft has finally arranged to make his political speech at Oklahoma City, Okla., on Aug. 24, three weeks before the election for the adoption of a new constitution.

CAMPBELL BOY IS DEAD

Passed Away on Operating Table at the Hospital.

Manslaughter is Charge Schuler Will Face Now.

Ben Campbell, the boy who was shot by John Schuler at Albertson's warehouse on the night of July 2, died this morning on the operating table at St. Luke's hospital, while Dr. Graham was endeavoring to save his life by a second operation.

The boy had hovered between life and death for two weeks; last night he seemed but little improved and showed signs of failing. It was decided that another operation was the only hope for the boy, and this was attempted this morning. He died about 10 o'clock.

The least charge which can be brought against Schuler now is manslaughter, and he will probably be arraigned on this charge. Owing to his reputation here and the practical certainty that he will not seek to avoid the responsibility of his act, it is thought improbable that his bail will be raised.

Campbell with two other boys, Fred Desanto and Frank Kotlarek, attempted to break into Albertson's warehouse to steal some fireworks. The place had been robbed twice before, and John Schuler, a traveling salesman for Albertson, was watching it on this night. He first threw a box at the intruders, and then, after they began to run, fired several shots into the air as he claims, intending only to frighten them. A bullet, which Schuler claims must have glanced from a rail or piece of iron work in the railroad yards, struck young Campbell, who was but 19 years of age, in the groin and tore through his intestines. It was thought for a time that he was out of danger, but later results showed that this was not the case.

KILLS HIS WIFE.

Fort Smith, Ark., July 17.—At her home here late last night A. O. Gholston, a well-known educator, kissed his wife and then cut her throat, killing her instantly. The cause of the murder was jealousy. Gholston was arrested.

J. S. LANE'S EDITORIAL

I want the attention for a moment of the man who has clothed himself with ready-made suits.

Have you ever compared your appearance with that of the tailor-made man, and felt that you were just a little behind time? You see a hand-me-down, be it ever so carefully made, is quite apt to be six months behind the fashion. Because the difference between a spring suit and a fall suit is often the time it has laid on the clothier's shelves. Leftovers are found in the best ordered stores and you're a keen buyer if you can tell the difference when you buy. It shows, though, when the fall styles come out.

I'm not saying a word about the economy of my clothes—believing that to be a past argument.

I'll say this. Select in your clothing store the suit that has the right fabric and then compare it with any standard fashion picture. Does it even come near?

On the other hand, you tell me just what you want and I make it. I duplicate the extreme styles for swell dressers, I follow modest fashions for business men, and I make conservative styles for the elderly.

But the ready-mades are all one and the same.

Aren't you willing to find out for yourself? Five minutes here is all I require to show the goods and my facilities for tailoring.

You will thank me for calling your attention to the way you've neglected your clothing.

Yours truly,

J. S. LANE,
217 West Superior Street.

ORDINANCE IMPORTANT

Electric Wires and Apparatus Subject to Rigid Supervision.

The new ordinance which was submitted to the council by Inspector Jennings regulating electric wiring and other electrical construction and maintenance in the city, contains a number of new features in regard to electrical supervision.

All wires and other electrical apparatus are to be erected and maintained under the supervision of the board of public works. The recently appointed "clerk" who is referred to in the ordinance as the "outside inspector of electric wires and wiring" in contra-distinction to the present electrical inspector, is to do all the outside inspecting for the job.

He is empowered to enter manholes and subways at any reasonable time that he shall desire, and the owner or representative of the company shall accompany him if he desires. Permits shall be taken out for all kinds of electrical outside work except service connections from wires for which permits have already been taken out.

The electric companies operating in the city are to submit to the board of public works a complete plan of all their overhead and underground wires and are to keep these maps up to date.

No connections are to be made or wires or other electrical apparatus put in use until they have been inspected by the city inspector and approved.

The classes of wires in the city are divided into five classes. The first class is called for brevity, "telephone and telegraph wires" and includes all wires carrying a current of not to exceed 120 volts. The second class, "electric light and power wires" includes the low potential power wires, but not trolley wires and the voltage is limited between 120 and 650. The third class includes high potential light and power wries, but not trolley wires and the voltage in this class may run up to 5,000 volts.

The fourth class are the extra high potential light and power wires carrying a voltage of over 5,000 volts, while trolley wires are placed in the fifth class by themselves.

These classes are all subject to special rules of construction described in detail in the ordinance. There must be a clearance of at least four feet between electric light and power poles, and telephone and telegraph wires, this provision being designed to do away with the deadly short circuit on telephone wires from higher power conductors. The extra high potential wires must not be brought into or over buildings except power plants and sub-stations, and trolley wires must be hung in a manner approved by the city engineer and the board of public works.

Another provision designed to prevent the deadly short circuit contact of a high-powered wire with a telephone wire is that which states that all high-powered wires must be hung above the low-powered circuits whenever possible. A breaking of a high-power wire, of course, cuts off the current and renders it harmless when falling on a lower powered wire below, while a break in the low-powered wire does not permit of its falling on a high powered wire, as it might if that were hung below it.

The ordinance provides that where it shall be impractical for this system to be employed the low-powered wires hung above shall be of such strength and thickness as to insure them against breakage.

No steps on telegraph and telephone poles shall be lower than eight feet and all poles are to be painted a dull neutral color and marked plainly with the controlling company's initials.

The penalty for violating any of the provisions of this ordinance is from $10 to $100, and the limit of the prison term is ninety days.

REMAINS MYSTERY

Motive for Bomb Explosion at American Embassy Unknown.

Sultan Sends Telegram of Sympathy to the Ambassador.

Constantinople, July 17.—The author of the bomb explosion Sunday night in front of the summer quarters of the American embassy at Therapia, a suburb of this city, as well as the motive for the act, probably will remain a mystery. The efforts of the authorities to throw light on the matter has been quite without result.

The Turkish theory is that the explosion of this bomb had nothing to do with the American embassy, but that its explosion was connected with a possible attempt upon the life of George Christich, a natural son of the late King Milan of Servia, who resides with his mother in a house next to the embassy. It is recalled that on several previous occasions, the latest being in February of the last year, attempts were made on his life. Few people, however, believe that this theory is correct, regarding these reported attempts at murder as nothing more than a means of ending the existence of the pretender to the throne of Servia. According to another version, the bomb, which appears to have been made of ordinary powder encased in a shell of lead, was found in a boathouse in the vicinity by some children at play, who carried it off. Finding the package getting warm in their hands, they dropped it in the streets. It then exploded, wounding three little girls of the party.

Only a few windows were broken in the American embassy. Ambassador Leishman, Mrs. Leishman and one of their daughters were dining out at the time. Only Miss Nancy Leishman was at home.

The explosion caused a panic in the neighborhood until it was learned no serious damage was done.

The sultan upon hearing of the occurrence, sent a telegram to Ambassador Leishman expressing his sympathy and congratulations that no member of his family, had been hurt.

The sultan has ordered Nedjib Pasha to take charge of the police investigations.

Van Camp's PORK AND BEANS

The Mouth-Watering Memory in the Childish Mind.

BAKED WITH TOMATO SAUCE

When the children get hungry and try to think of something extra good which they would like to have, then comes the pungent recollection of the last time mother had Van Camp's Pork and Beans with Tomato Sauce for dinner.

It's a memory that makes their little mouths fairly water.

For what is so good to the childish taste as a steaming hot dish of Van Camp's, with its savory odor and all its appetizing deliciousness?

And what is so nourishing to the childish body as the nutritious, healthful, vitalizing Van Camp beans cooked in the Van Camp way?

The children know what's good!

How they revel in the appetizing goodness of the nutty-flavored Van Camp beans—in the piquant tang of the delicious Van Camp Tomato Sauce, made from vine-ripened Tomatoes fresh from the garden!

Don't ever disappoint the children by having to tell them that you are "out of Van Camp's." Always keep a supply on hand—a dozen cans at least. And be sure you order and

FAREWELL, OLD HOLE-IN-THE-WALL

Where Fairbanks, Foraker and Others Spooned as Students.

Delaware, Ohio, July 17.—The most famous spot in this city, known as the "Hole-in-the-Wall," a spot familiar to every one of the 10,000 graduates of Ohio Wesleyan university, besides the hundreds of camera fiends, has lost its attraction and will not be sought after by the lovesick swain. The board of public service, composed of married men, has ordered an arc light placed in the street, where the rays of the electric light may prevent any seclusion that lovers may seek when out walking with their sweethearts.

The "Hole-in-the-Wall" is located just off one of the principal avenues that lead up to Monnett hall, where about 400 young college students board. Vines overhanging the side walls and shrubbery makes a complete arc. The stone wall surrounds one of the most elegant estates in this part of the country, and the family that resides there is of that quaint nature that they fancy the seclusion that is suggested by their front entrance.

Vice President Charles Fairbanks knows well where it is located. It was in this city, while attending college, that he met his wife, who was attending the university at the time. United States Senator J. B. Foraker knows where the "Hole-in-the-Wall" is.

When the college boys and girls return in the early autumn the board of public service will hear what the young folks have to say. One of the members of the board of public service is Prof. Richard Parsons, a teacher of Greek for many years in Ohio Wesleyan university.

SHOWER OF FROGS

Fell Over Wide Territory, Ground Being Covered With Them.

Elizabethtown, Ky., July 17.—A veritable shower of frogs fell from the clouds, near Nolin, this county, during a heavy rainstorm. The amphibious animals were thick as hops and fell over a territory two miles square. The whole surface was literally covered with frogs as thick as grasshoppers in a recently mowed hay field, and they escaped from the approach of both men and beast with the agility of the "jumpers." They were green upon the back and bore a close resemblance to bullfrogs.

Long Live the King!

is the popular cry throughout European countries; while in America, the cry of the present day is "Long Live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of Throat and Lung Remedies!" of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Palne, Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Palne's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throats after all other remedies have failed, and for coughs and colds it's the only sure cure. Guaranteed by all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

TESTIFIES FOR PROSECUTION

Indicted Prisoner Gives Evidence Against Four Italian Kidnapers.

Hahnville, La., July 16.—Somewhat of a surprise was created today at the trial of four of the Italians charged with the kidnaping and murder of little Walter Lamana of New Orleans, when Leonardo Gebbia, an Italian, to be tried on the same charge next week, took the witness stand for the state and gave some damaging testimony against Ignacio Campisciano.

It was Campisciano that led the officers to the spot where the body of the murdered child was discovered.

Gebbia and his sister, Nicolina, were indicted at the same time as Campisciano, but their trial was deferred a week. Last night Gebbia's attorney came here from New Orleans and after a consultation with the attorneys for the prosecution it was decided to use Leonardo Gebbia as a state witness.

Gebbia testified that when he was in the St. Charles parish jail, July 3, he witnessed a scene between Campisciano and one of the latter's neighbors who had been in the St. Charles jail two weeks.

He said it was agreed that Campisciano was not to relate certain things he knew and that the other man was in turn to take care of Campisciano's children. The name of the other man is being temporarily withheld. The testimony of the coroner, Peter Lamana, father of the child, and others, was of a more or less perfunctory nature.

MISTAKE OF CLERK

Kept Girl in Prison Twenty Years Instead of Months.

Montgomery, Ala., July 16.—Because of a mistake of a court clerk who wrote "years" instead of "months" Rhena Ribers, a girl of Houston county, almost served out twenty years for a twenty-months' sentence at the Alabama mines. She died just before the term was up. The mistake was only recently discovered and a bill was today introduced in the legislature to pay the mother of the girl for the overtime served.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK TRAIN FRUSTRATED.

Connellsville, Pa., July 16.—An attempt to wreck the Baltimore & Ohio Dubuque limited train No. 12 near here last night was frustrated by Stephen Kerrigan, a leverman, and a girl with whom he was walking along the track. They discovered a tie fastened across the rails, and when they attempted to remove it they were fired upon from the bushes. They hastily fled to Sand Patch, where they flagged the train. Members of the crew, all armed, advanced to the scene, opened fire on the bushes without getting a return shot and removed the obstruction. The train was crowded with Elks bound for Philadelphia.

TO QUIT LEGAL DEPARTMENT

Attorney Royal A. Stone Will Leave Service of the State.

St. Paul, July 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Royal A. Stone, assistant attorney general, will sever his connections with the state legal department Aug. 1, according to an announcement made today. He will enter into partnership with T. D. O'Brien, insurance commissioner, who also will leave the service of the state at the same time.

Mr. Stone is from Morris and has been identified actively with the department since his appointment. With Mr. Young and Mr. O'Brien he has been carrying the big end of the commodity rate injunction suits now on in the federal court, and his work has been commented upon favorably.

Mr. Stone, though quitting the employ of the state to take up law for himself, will be identified still with the rate cases. Both he and Mr. O'Brien have given the suits much study and the state cannot afford to lose their services.

DIES SUDDENLY.

Member of the Korean Commission of The Hague is Dead.

The Hague, July 16.—Tchun, a member of the Korean mission to the peace conference that was refused official recognition, died in this city suddenly yesterday and was buried this morning in the Oold Elkendaan cemetery. The only mourners were a hotel man and another member of the Korean mission. Wild reports regarding the death of Tchun were circulated after his interment. It was declared in some quarters that he had committed suicide, while in others it was averred that his death was not natural. The doctor who attended Tchun states with emphasis that the man died of apoplexy.

NEWS OF BOYS' DEPARTMENT

Annual Hike to Solon Springs Will Begin Next Monday.

The regular weekly swim for members of the boys' department is proving quite popular. Last week there were thirty-five in the party. This Thursday the boys will go again, leaving the boys' building at 2:30. The secretary and two assistants will have charge of the party. A good swimming place has been secured beyond the White City, where the water is not too deep.

Monday morning is the date set for the second annual gypsy trip. A meeting has been called for Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock for those who are going to take the trip and at this meeting final arrangements will be made. Solon Springs will be the destination of the gypsies and it is planned to spend two days in camp there. A team of horses will carry the tent, provisions, etc., and the gypsies will walk. The trip will cover seventy-five miles, and the fellows take quite a pride in accomplishing the feat. The walking will be done in the early morning and the cool of the evening, and it is planned to cover about eighteen miles a day. The boys will take turns at the cooking, and at night the tent will be pitched. Large straw hats, jerseys and overalls will be the regulation costume.

The trip will be an unique one and full of interest, the boys who go will return stronger, will have a good coat of tan, and will appreciate the comforts of a home all the better after their experience of living on the road for a week. The crowd will leave early Monday morning, and will return Saturday.

The third annual boys' conference in connection with the boys' department of the Western states, will be held at Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 1-6. Five years ago the first boys' conference was held at Lake George, N. Y., but as it was too far away from the Western states the associations decided to have one nearer home, and Lake Geneva was selected. The first year eighty-seven boys were in attendance. Last year there were more than 200, and this year it is expected that there will be a delegation of more than 300. During the winter the various committees of the Duluth boys' department have been raising funds to send representatives to this conference, and as a result will be represented by five boys. The object of the conference is to discuss different phases of boys' work, and for this some of the best speakers in the country are secured. The list this year includes Walter M. Wood, Chicago; E. M. Robinson, F. A. Crosby, international secretaries on the international committee, New York city; Harry Clark of Ohio; C. B. Willis, Milwaukee; Frank H. Burt, training school, Chicago; President Edwin H. Hughes, DePauw university; E. T. Colton New York; Dr. William B. Forbush, Detroit, and others who are authorities on work for boys.

The mornings are given over to the boys and they only are allowed to take part in the discussions, which will be led by the special speakers. There will be special sessions for the secretaries when they will discuss problems and methods in connection with the work. The conference will not be all work. The afternoons are given over to recreation, swimming, boating, golf, tennis, baseball, athletics, entertainments, etc. The delegates will sleep in tents that are floored, and contain four bedrooms, and the meals are served in a large dining hall that accommodates more than 200 guests. The Duluth delegation is not fully made up yet. Arthur Helmer will represent the outing committee; Harvard Rockwell, the athletic committee; Griffith McConaugh, the Utopian Bible class. The social committee will send two delegates, but they have not been selected yet. Lake Geneva is only about fifty miles from Chicago, and it is possible the Duluth boys will spend a day there on their return.

COURT REFUSES

To Grant a Writ of Prohibition in the Vote Recount Case.

New York, July 16.—Efforts of City Comptroller Metz and other city officials, acting in behalf of Mayor McClellan to prevent a recount of the votes cast for mayor in the last city election suffered a severe check today when the appellate division of the supreme court denied their application for a writ of prohibition. Unless counsel for Mayor McClellan makes further appeal this seems to leave the way clear to begin the recount for which Mr. Hearst contends.

REFUSES TO ACCEPT REFUND

Retail Lumber Merchant Says He is Not Entitled to It.

New York, July 17.—The Traffic Bulletin says: Fieber & Holmes of Brookville, Ind., retail lumber merchants, is one of the firms that are entitled to reimbursement from the Southern railroads under the recent decision of the supreme court, which holds an advance in freight rates on lumber, made effective about two years ago, is illegal, and requiring the roads to return to shippers the amount paid by them in excess of the original rate.

Joseph Fieber, manager of the concern, however, refuses to accept the rebates. He declares that neither his firm nor any other is entitled to the rebates because they lost nothing by virtue of the increase in rates. He explains the matter in this wise:

"When the rate was increased 2 cents per 100 feet, or from $6 to $12 per car, the shippers immediately met the rate increase with an advance in prices of from 50 to 70 cents per 1,000. Local retail dealers everywhere accepted the advance as a matter of fact, because freight rates had gone up, and they in turn raised the price to the consumers, who in the end paid the increased freight charges, and then some, and the shippers and dealers not only did not lose anything, but they increased their margin of profits on every consignment of lumber they sent out."

When Mr. Fieber was requested a few days ago to make out and sign the necessary papers to prove his claim against the railroads for excess charges, he declined to do so, saying he was not entitled to any money from the roads and would not accept any, unless it could be arranged so that it could be returned in toto to the consumers who paid it.

HORRORS!

Brinky Monster Dived Into the Pretty Surf Bather's Bloomers.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 17.—Miss Flo Boone, a pretty girl, who hails from Camden, was dipping joyously in the surf off Chelsea when she was heard to utter a piercing shriek. Those near her saw her clutch madly at her bathing dress and slip under the water only to rise again, still screaming, and begin a dance beside which Salome's gyrations would seem child's play.

"Cramps!" shouted one of the bathers. Then the life guards dragged the struggling Miss Boone to shore.

There it was found that a fish had slipped inside the neck of the girl's bathing suit and lost its way. The more it tried to get out the more she screamed until the frightened fish, escaping from her clutching fingers, wriggled down into her bloomers, where it defied capture. But Miss Boone promptly clapped her hand on the region of the garter and the faltering life guards braced themselves to do their duty. Half a dozen feminine bathers came to the rescue with a wave to the men population to stand back and discreetly formed a screen while the briny monster was removed.

'PEGS WIN CLOSE GAME

Eleven Inning Contest Goes to the Home Team.

Haney Perfectly Supported, But He is Hit Hard.

Winnipeg, Man., July 17. — (Special to The Herald.) — Duluth and Winnipeg played another exciting game yesterday, the Maroons pulling the game out of the fire in the eighth and winning in the eleventh by a score of 2 to 1. Duluth scored one run in the first inning and up to the eighth, though Haney was hit pretty hard, he held the Maroons scoreless. In the eighth, the home team scored one on hitting and the game went into extra innings. In the eleventh, Monroe reached first and stole second, scoring on Sensenback's long single.

Though Haney was hit hard, he kept the hingles well scattered and his support was faultless. The Maroons also played good ball in the field, but one error being scored against them. Krick and Terry umpired the game and gave satisfaction.

BREAK EVEN AT DETROIT.

Detroit, July 17.—Detroit and Washington each took a game of the doubleheader. The locals won the first 3 to 0, Siever and Smith both pitching the finest kind of ball. Siever's support was more certain. Hughes should have had a shut out in the second game, which Washington won 6 to 1, an inexcusable error by Altizer following Detroit's only two hits letting Crawford score. Willett was very wild, and allowed Washington to run the bases almost at will. Scores:

GNAWED WAY OUT OF PRISON.

London Chronicle: A burglar named Schaarschmidt, in prison at Gera, deliberately set to work to gnaw through a thick oaken beam in front of his cell window. It was a work of seven weeks. The fragments of wood which were torn away with his teeth he replaced with chewed bread, until the beam was almost gnawed through.

A final smashing noise was heard by the wardens, but before they could appear Schaarschmidt had escaped.

GIANTS WIN LAST GAME

Bunched Hits Off Sincock in the Third Inning.

Houghton is Strengthened for the Western Trip.

Calumet, Mich., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—By bunching hits off Sincock, the Houghton Giants won the last game of the series here yesterday. Kaiser, who was loaned to Calumet by Houghton some time ago, was recalled and pitchd against the Aristocrats. He was pounded hard in the first inning, but settled down and was unhittable afterwards. The Giants fell on Sincock in the third and put five men across, adding two in the sixth and one in the seventh. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Houghton	0 0 5 0 0 2 1 0 0—8	10	3

Batteries—Kaiser and Solbrae; Sincock and McMorey.

The Houghton and Calumet teams left last night for Duluth, where they play today before opening the series with the Western clubs. The Houghton team is under the leadership of Pat Flaherty, the new manager, and will go into the Western game, with a considerably changed line-up. John Sundheim, the third baseman, who was purchased by Manager McGraw of the New York Giants, played his last game yesterday and leaves today for New York to join the National league club. Sundheim's place at third will be filled by Brookins, the Wisconsin league recruit, who has been playing short for the past two weeks. Si Loughlin, the center fielder, will play shortstop temporarily and one of the pitchers will play in the outfield.

Ducky Stewart, the catcher, is probably out of the game for the remainder of the season on account of illness. Bill Mutter, catcher for the champion Calumet team for several years, has returned to the game and will catch and play first base for the Giants. Frank Kurke, the Lake Linden catcher last year, has also been signed and will join the team at Duluth or Winnipeg. When he arrives, Solbrae will go to second base and Mutter to first permanently.

Kaiser, the pitcher who was loaned to Calumet a month ago, has been recalled by Flaherty, giving the team four pitchers, Kaiser, Miller, Egan and Rogers, for the Western trip.

RAIN DELAYS TENNIS EVENT

First Round in Endion Club Tourney Not Completed.

Today was the date set for the completion of the first round in the annual tournament for the championship of the Endion Tennis club, but the round will not be completed for possibly a week yet. The rains of Sunday night and yesterday were the cause of the delay, as they put the grounds in bad shape and prevented play.

Considerable interest is being taken in the tournament, and all members of the club will undoubtedly play their sets. Once the first round is completed, the play will go along swiftly, and there is still a possibility that the tournament will be completed by Aug. 1, when it is planned to begin the open tournament, the feature of the tennis season in Duluth.

Those who have played the first round in the club championship have shown good form, and the outlook for an interesting open tournament this year is excellent. The other tennis clubs in Duluth and Superior are active, and the championship events will bring out some new lights.

OFFICIALS WILL PLAY.

City Hall and Courthouse Baseball Teams to Meet.

War has been declared between the municipal and county governments. Flushed with a dual victory over the guardians of the law and order, the city hall crowd imagine that they will be a match for the courthouse officials at baseball. They have been spreading broadcast their belief that they are superior to those who control the destinies of the county from the building on the hill. It came to the ears of Manager Anderson of the courthouse nine and war was promptly declared.

The first skirmish of the campaign will take place on the grounds at Thirty-second avenue west and Superior street at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The policemen, though defeated by the clerks of the city hall, are loyal to the municipal government and they will be on hand to see that the courthouse crowd takes no unfair advantage, while the county officials will all be there to yell for their champions. It will be a great game.

New York, July 17.—Charles Edward, carrying 126 pounds, made a new world's record for one mile and a furlong, when he won the Sea Gate stakes at Brighton Beach yesterday. The son of Golden Garter-Flora Mac ran the distance in 1:50 3-5, which is two-fifths of a second faster than the best previous time, made by Bonnibert, a 4-year-old, which carried 120 pounds, July 20, 1902.

Morrestown, N. J., Correspondence Philadelphia Record: A fine specimen of the rare star-nosed mole was captured here this morning by Samuel F. Chambers. The nose, instead of having a single point like a pig, has nearly a dozen; very much resembling a star and presents a very pretty sight.

When disturbed the mole can throw a spray from the ends of these tips. Its hide will be preserved.

SCREWS LID DOWN HARD

County Board Puts William French Out of Business.

Convinced He Sold Liquor Illegally in Town of French.

The county board put its stamp of disapproval on county saloons that are illegally conducted, by putting William French, liquor merchant in the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 23, 60-21, town of French, out of business, at a meeting held yesterday.

The license to sell intoxicating liquors issued to Flower & French in February last was revoked after the saloonmen had been given an opportunity to show cause why such action should not be taken, and the saloon, if it is operating today, is doing so as a blind pig.

French, who appeared in person before the board, and who was represented by Charles O. Baldwin of this city, made a hard fight to keep his license, but the evidence brought out in the investigation convinced a majority of the board that he is guilty of violating the laws in regard to the closing of his place after 1 o'clock at night and on Sundays, and the commissioners feel that it has been a mistake to permit a saloon to be established where Flower & French located, because of the proximity of several logging camps of the Virginia Lumber company, in each of which there are employed an average of about 140 men.

A strong showing was made by the lumber company that French's saloon has caused it a loss of many thousand dollars because the woodsmen would get drunk Sundays and not be fit for work for several succeeding days. It was claimed that the men who went on the sprees rioted and acted so violently in camp that the sober men had to take to the woods for fear of personal injury, thus disorganizing the working force and hindering the operations.

The Virginia Lumber company has been very active in getting the saloon closed, for the reasons mentioned, and W. H. Cook, one of its officers told the board yesterday that the company was willing to reimburse Flower & French their $500 license fee, already paid into the county treasury and for which there can be no refund. Mr. Cook said that this concession was more than the company ought to do, in view of the damage to them by the saloon, but it was willing to make good the license fee to the saloon men to show that its opposition was not on personal grounds, but to get rid of any and all saloons. Mr. Cook also promised that any blind pigs that may be in operation anywhere near the lumber company's operation will receive attention.

During the investigation there were a number of lively passages between the attorneys, W. D. Bailey for the Virginia Lumber company, and C. O. Baldwin, for French, and things took a very interesting turn in regard to some sidelights on the feeling existing between French and the lumber company.

In his argument Mr. Baldwin sought to cast a halo about the head of French, and pictured him as the poor oppressed liquor dispenser who did not have the means to back himself against a great moneyed corporation. While the effort was masterly, it failed in its effect, and the board put a quietus on French and his saloon by a vote of four to three.

Commissioners Sundeen, Kauppi and McInnis voted for the resolution to revoke the license, and Commissioners Ryan, McMahon and Tischer voted against it. This left the matter to Chairman Patterson, and he cast the deciding vote for the resolution.

Before the vote was taken several of the commissioners expressed themselves. Mr. Ryan thought the license ought not to be revoked because double the usual length of time of notice of the application for a saloon license was given in French's case and the lumber company entered no objection. He stated that he opposed the license in the first place until he saw there was no opposition by anybody else, and then withdrew his objections. Mr. Ryan thought it was unfair to French to close him out after he has been operating for only four months.

Commissioner Kauppi said he was, as a general proposition, opposed to the granting of saloon licenses in locations as that selected by Flower & French, but he voted for the license after being assured by the range commissioners that it would be all right. Mr. Kauppi thought it would be unjust to French to compel him to lose his $500 fee, but, in view of the fact that the lumber company had offered to reimburse the saloon men for the money paid for a license he, Kauppt, would vote to revoke the permit. Mr. Kauppi said that French had done nothing more, as in regard to the violation of the law, than other saloonkeepers in the county and city are doing right along.

EMPTY BEER IN RIVER,

Girl Teachers at Adel Destroy 2,200 Confiscated Bottles.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 17.—A remarkable temperance crusade occurred at Adel, Iowa, yesterday, when eight pretty school teachers who are attending the normal institute, publicly destroyed 2,200 bottles of confiscated beer. The young ladies stood on the banks of the Raccoon river and hurled the bottles against the bridge abutments, shattering the glass to fragments, while the entire town stood by and watched the unique performance.

The beer was seized at Dallas Center as contraband by Sheriff Ross, who was ordered to destroy it. His daughter, Ruth, asked permission to attend to the destruction, and the sheriff decided to turn the affair over to her.

Mayor Thornton presided, and the breaking of the bottles consumed an hour. The girls were completely exhausted at the close because of the exertion.

BORN ON STREET CAR.

And Excited Passenger Rang Up Fare for New Arrival.

Chicago, July 17.—As a northbound Ashland avenue car reached West Taylor street Monday night, an excited passenger jumped from his seat and rang up a fare. The conductor, who has to make good to the company, grabbed the man, shouting:

"Hey, you chump, what are you doing?"

"Ringing up the fare for the new passenger there."

When the conductor looked about he beheld an eight-pound baby girl that had just come to life in the car. STORIES ARE FAKE.

Mrs. Frank Gould Denies She is Having Trouble With Husband.

New York, July 17.—Denouncing as lies the stories in circulation to the effect that she was being hounded by detectives, Mrs. Frank J. Gould came to New York Monday to hold a conference with her husband in the hope of completing the reconciliation which is said to have been under way for the last month or more.

"These lies which are told about us are despicable," said Mrs. Gould at her country home at Greenwich, Conn., before leaving for the city Monday. "I do not believe there are any detectives shadowing me, and my relations with Mr. Gould are not seriously strained."

Nevertheless, Mrs. Gould's friends declare that either detectives or other persons, who have some unknown ulterior motive, have been keeping her more or less under surveillance for some weeks. They say that strange men have followed her wherever she has gone, and that only last week a man on a bicycle pursued her when she went to the shore for a swim.

S.S.S. RIDS THE SYSTEM OF MALARIA

We breathe the germs and microbes of Malaria into our lungs and they are soon absorbed into the blood and distributed to all parts of the system. Then we begin to feel "out of sorts," no appetite or energy, dull headaches, a tired, sleepy feeling, and often "dumb chills" and slight fever show that this insidious disease is affecting the entire health. As the trouble progresses and the blood becomes more deeply polluted, boils and abscesses, sores and ulcers or brown splotches appear on the skin. As Malaria is a blood disease, to cure it requires a blood purifier, and S. S. S. is recognized as the best of blood purifiers. S. S. S. destroys the germs with which the blood is loaded and rids the system of Malaria. It goes down into the circulation and attacks the disease in the right way by removing every vestige of the cause and building up the blood from a weak, watery, germ-infected stream to a rich, healthful fluid, nourishing and vitalizing every part of the body by its purity. S. S. S. tones up every part of the system by its fine tonic effects, and being made entirely of healing, cleansing roots, herbs and barks it is an absolutely safe remedy for young or old. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

GREEN BUG SEEN IN PINE COUNTY

Dreaded Insect Said to be Ravaging Oat Fields.

Hinckley, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The green bug is in Pine county.

Within the past week something has been killing the oats. Fields in which the oats looked strong and thrifty would in a few days change to a dirty gray with the plants almost dead. This sickness has been attributed to a blight by some, while others have said it was caused by the dry weather. There appears to be little doubt that it was caused by the green bug that has done such damage elsewhere.

J. M. Currie investigated a field of oats near town Tuesday and found it infested with a bug that under the microscope proved to be the dreaded bug. Oats appear to be the only grain affected. Wheat and other grains are doing well.

The morning session was presided over by President Anglin and was devoted to routine business.

Judge Watts gave the address of welcome, and it included many reminiscenses. President James Twomley of the Grand Forks County Auxiliary association, responded.

Congressman Steenerson spoke on "Minnesota" and aroused a great deal of enthusiasm, spicing his talk with many interesting incidents of the early days.

Senator A. D. Stephens delivered a stirring address on "The Red River Valley," after which there were five-minute talks by many of the prominent pioneers of the valley.

A poem, "To the Old Settlers," by Hon. Thomas R. Shaw of Pembina, N. D., made one of the hits of the meeting. At the close of the afternoon session the members were taken for an auto ride to the state farm and the state agricultural school and a drive about the city.

The principal address of the session was made by United States Senator H. C. Hansbrough of North Dakota, and the trend of his remarks were of a character to arouse the keenest interest and were received with wild applause.

John Sampson Returns to His Former Position at Ashland.

Succeeds George Reese, Who Will Get Another Job.

Ashland, Wis., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ore docks of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad here are now under the superintendency of John Sampson, who recently resigned as division superintendent of the railroads. He succeeds George Reese, who it is understood, will be assigned to another position with the company.

Mr. Sampson's former employes, the upper dockmen, welcomed him back with open arms, presenting him, when he took charge yesterday, with a fine cut glass dish, filled with American beauty roses. Mr. Sampson will receive a warm welcome from all of those with whom he was associated, and during his former service as manager of the docks, he was regarded as one of the most efficient and most popular men on the lakes. It is understood that in view of the construction of the new dock at Ashland during the coming winter, a large amount of supplies for which have already been received, the company decided it needed Mr. Sampson's services, in view of his long experience with the company. The retiring manager, George Resse, is held in the highest esteem by the company, the employes, and by the shipping interests with whom he came in contact. He is a thoroughly reliable and competent man in every way, and his friends in this city hope that he may not be assigned to duties which will cause him to leave Ashland.

UPPER MICHIGAN

WIDE OPEN ON FOURTH

Newberry Saloonkeepers Followed Former Customs on Great Day.

Now President of Anti-Saloon League is After Them.

Ishpeming, Mich., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. C. H. Rutledge, upper peninsula superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, with headquarterse at Ishpeming, is causing the liquor dealers at Newberry, the Luce county seat, uneasiness these days. All the saloons were wide open on the Fourth of July and some one must have "tipped" off the fact to Mr. Rutledge. At any rate, he arrived in town unexpectedly the other evening and the following day endeavored to have warrants issued for all sixteen liquor dealers. However, he finally contented himself with lodging a complaint only against James Cummings. The Anti-Saloon leader made his complaint upon "information and belief" and named as witnesses a large number of prominent citizens, among them the president and members of the village council. The men named as witnesses in the complaint were not consulted in the matter and all are reported hopping mad. Justice Mulvaney, before whom the complaint was made, has refused to issue a warrant until Mr. Rutledge produces some of his witnesses who will swear to the complaint. This he has failed to do up to the present, and there the matter rests.

The Newberry liquor dealers feel that the action taken is unfair, inasmuch as it has always been a custom in that town for the saloons to run wide open on the Fourth, whenever there was a celebration, there being a sort of tacit understanding that they would not be molested. They say that if the temperance people objected to this practice it would only have been giving the saloon men a square deal to have notified them that they would be prosecuted if they kept their places open. However, it is stated that if eventually the conviction of Cummings is secured, Mr. Rutledge will cause the arrest of all the other saloonists.

DAKOTAS

DIED WITH BOOTS ON

Grim Relic of Early Days is Unearthed in Grand Forks.

Knife and Hunting Belt About a Human Skeleton.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—A gruesome reminder of the pioneer days in Dakota was unearthed near the Antlers hotel in this city, Monday afternoon by a workman digging a trench, when he came across a human skeleton around, which was strapped a belt and scabbard containing a hunting knife. The remains of what were once boots encased the fleshless lower limbs indicating the dead died with "his boots on." There are many theories floating around as to the identity of the human bones which may have resulted from a tragedy that will never be told.

The ground where the find was made was at one time a low marsh through which in early days the river flowed at high water. It has been suggested that some hunter, murdered by savages, was left in the swamp to be devoured by wild animals and that the filling in of the ground in subsequent years has obliterated every trace of the tragedy. Such events were of frequent occurrence in pioneer days of the valley.

Another theory is that the man was one of several workmen employed on the bridge being constructed across the river years ago and that he fell into the river, was washed into the lagoon or eddy of the Red and forgotten. Workmen in those days wore their hunting equipment on them prepared for an emergency and that would account for the presence of the knife and belt. No gun has thus far been discovered.

Another theory, which seems the most plausable is that the man was given a frontier burial, placed in a basswood or pine box and interred in the low piece of ground now filled in with several layers of surface soil. Men were buried hastily in an early day, and the piece of wood, the equipment of belt and knife, the position of the find would tend to establishing this theory.

LIFE ON CLAIM TOO LONESOME

So Aged North Dakota Woman Takes Her Life.

Minot, N. D., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Life on a claim she was holding down, six miles south of White Earth, proved to be too lonesome for Mrs. Martha Stearns, aged 65 years, and in a fit of despondency she hanged herself.

The family found the body hanging in one of the rooms upon their return from town. The old lady was holding a claim near the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. B. De Wolf. Saturday Mrs. Stearns sent word to her daughter to come to her place and take her home as she was lonesome. When her relatives went to Mrs. Stearns' claim shack they found her dead. It is the general opinion that she became despondent after being left alone on the claim. About thirty years ago she suffered a stroke of paralysis.

WILL ISSUE BONDS.

Brainerd, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city fathers Monday night voted to bond the city of Brainerd for $39,000 additional so as to take up the floating indebtedness of the city. It is stated that the entire amount will be subscribed by home people. The bonds will be in denominations of $500 and will be due $2,000 each year for nine years and $21,000 due in ten years. The council will receive sealed bids for the bonds on Aug. 19. All bonds will bear 5 per cent interest.

PARK FOR HINCKLEY.

Hinckley, Minn., July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hinckley is to have a park. A tract of land lying along the Grindstone river has been purchased this week for this purpose and will be immediately improved. It is planned to build a low dam in the river, thus making a shallow pond; fence and lay out the ground artistically. The tract just purchased contains about two acres. The intention is to enlarge this as soon as possible.

Women Avoid Operations

MISS ROSE MOORE

When a woman suffering from female trouble is told that an operation is necessary, it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the hospital, the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart.

It is quite true that these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after an operation has been decided upon as the only cure. The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who by taking made from native roots and herbs, have escaped serious operations, as evidenced by Miss Rose Moore's case, of 307 W. 26th St., N. Y. She writes:—

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me of the very worst form of female trouble and I wish to express to you my deepest gratitude. I suffered intensely for two years so that I was unable to attend to my duties and was a burden to my family. I doctored and doctored with only temporary relief and constantly objecting to an operation which I was advised to undergo. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it cured me of the terrible trouble and I am now in better health than I have been for many years."

This and other such cases should encourage every woman to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before she submits to an operation.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised.

THE TALE OF THREE DOGS

Poundmaster Maxwell Had His Troubles With the Canines.

Wanted to Arrest Mrs. Mullen for Harboring Them.

A little comedy in which one Mrs. Muller and Poundmaster Maxwell are the principals, developed this morning and the final scene will be laid in municipal court. It seems Mrs. Muller owns, or is thought to own, three dogs. She doesn't like the idea of paying taxes on the canines, so when Mr. Maxwell happened around to collect, she denied ownership. There was nothing for the poundmaster to do, but take the dogs. The dogs refused to be taken. They snarled and snapped and then they ran and after a strenuous half hour, with no results, the ire of the official was aroused.

He hurried to the city hall and wanted to swear out a warrant for Mrs. Muller for harboring the dogs. The warrant couldn't be issued on these grounds, since Mrs. Mullen disclaimed ownership and her statements could not be refuted. So back went Mr. Maxwell, to make another try for the dogs. They were just as elusive as on the former trip and Mrs. Maxwell, who was enjoying the discomfiture of the officer, began to taunt him.

Once more he turned his attention from the canines to the alleged owner of them and he did succeed in getting a warrant out. The charge is using abusive language, Mr. Maxwell claiming that Mrs. Mullen threatened to blow his head off. Some interesting developments are promised when the parties line up before Judge Parker to settle their differences.

BOYS IN COURT.

Charged With Taking Boat From the Upper Bay.

Harry Thompson, William Culhane, Arthur Olsen and Arthur Bushby, whose ages range from 15 to 17 years, were arraigned in municipal court yesterday as bold, bad pirates. The specific charge was that of having stolen Gilbert Skamser's rowboat. After hearing the arguments, the court released the lads on their own recognizance and they will reappear in court July 23, when the case will be disposed of.

Gilbert Skamser says the boys were getting too free with his boat. He says they take it any time they want it, whether the owner cares to use it or not.

The boys declared that they got the boat from some other boys, who claimed to have found it, and that they left it in the same place after they had finished using it.

LUSE'S HEAD IN DANGER.

City Attorney's Law Firm is Retained by Railroads.

Is City Attorney Luse about to lose his official head?

Maybe he will if a half-forgotten act of the last legislature, which has just become a law, holds good. It prohibits district attorneys, assistant district attorneys, county attorneys, city attorneys and assistant city attorneys from being retained by a common carrier.

The law firm of which City Attorney Luse is a member, is attorney for the Wisconsin Central road and the Wisconsin & Northern Minnesota.

Mr. Luse is out of the city at present, and Mayor Linley will not discuss the matter.

MUSIC IN PARKS.

Council Makes $900 Appropriation to Defray Expenses.

There will be music in Billings park on Sundays hereafter. There will also be music on one night in the week either at the park or in some place where the Superior park board may direct. The Superior Marine band will furnish this entertainment.

The band is not doing this for nothing, however, as they will receive substantial remuneration for entertaining the public. The council last evening, at the request of the park commissioners, passed a resolution transferring $900 from the license fund to pay the expenses of music in the city's parks. The vote on the question was 15 to 1, Alderman McGinnis voting in the negative.

The only other important business brought up last evening was Alderman Crumpton's railroad crossing ordinance, which requires that the Wisconsin Central road shall construct its street crossing at Belknap and Twelfth streets at a grade at least eight feet above the present one, so that, by a lowering of the street grade, a subway may be provided under the tracks.

A committee consisting of Aldermen Crumpton, McGinnis and Beeshaw, the mayor, and the city attorney, was appointed to consider the matter, with a view to giving the railroad people a hearing. The Soo road is also affected by the ordinance and has expressed a desire to be heard.

Former Postmaster Fined.

Robert Ladd, formerly postmaster at Lytle, Clark county, was fined $100 in federal court yesterday by Judge Sanborn, having pleaded guilty to a charge of overcanceling postage stamps during the time he was employed by the post office department.

Ladd was obliged to reimburse the government, as well, for the loss it concurred through his indiscretions.

Talk on Dairying.

Assistant State Veterinarian Haggerty will be in Superior Saturday evening to address the dairymen of Northern Wisconsin. The meeting will be held in the council chamber of the city hall. Notices have been sent out by the state veterinary department announcing the meeting and a large attendance of people interested in dairy farming is expected. The subject of Mr. Haggerty's address will be "The Fumigation of Dairy Barns." The address will be a short one and following it, the discussion will be general. Any questions those present may wish to ask will be answered by Mr. Haggerty and a number of interesting features of dairy farming are expected to develop.

Sues for Damages.

Claiming that injuries sustained by his daughter, Margaret, by falling over a coil of wire left in his front yard by the People's Telephone company, were due to carelessness on the part of the employes of the company, Felix Turner has begun suit for damages amounting to $9,500.

The complaint alleges that the company left the coil of wire in the yard for some days prior to June 21, negligently and carelessly. On this date, it claims, 8-year-old Margaret Turner, while responding to a call for supper, tripped over the wire and sustained a broken collar bone and other injuries.

Missed Bad Wreck.

I. C. McNeill, former president of the Superior normal, is in the city visiting friends. His coming here from the meeting of the educational association at Los Angeles was attended by a most fortunate circumstance. By reason of a desire to see a friend in Kansas City he took a train ahead of the one he had been intending to take for the East, at the last minute. The train which he was to have taken was involved in a fatal wreck between Kansas City and St. Joseph.

Grocers' Picnic Today.

The grocers and butchers of Superior, their wives, children and friends, 2,000 strong, left this morning for Solon Springs on the annual picnic. The plans for this year's affair are elaborate and all left with the expectation of having one of the best times ever experienced at one of those affairs. The program for the day includes sports of different kinds, music and dancing.

ANNUAL PICNIC OF SAMARITANS

The annual picnic of the Modern Samaritans, one of the biggest events of the year in Samaritan circles, will occur at Lester Park, Aug. 15, and preparations are being made on a large scale to make the affair this year a record-breaker in the way of a fraternal society celebration. The organization has a very large membership in Duluth and the surrounding towns, including the ranges, and the annual picnic has never failed to bring out a big attendance. The committees in charge estimate that fully 500 to 600 Samaritans and their families and friends will attend the picnic this year if the weather is favorable.

The picnic committee met last evening at the home office and Albert Deeks was elected chairman, Arthur A. Fider, secretary, and W. W. Allen treasurer.

The preliminary arrangements for the big affair were discussed to some extent and the following committees were appointed:

Advertising—John Christie of Alpha council, M. Filiatrault of West Duluth and R. Johnson of Beta council.

Transportation—Arthur A. Fider and George Crosby.

Sports—Wallace P. Welbanks, Albert King, Joseph Miller, Chris Anderson, Isaac Detherage, George W. Boutan, Lucy Purdy, Mary Barton, Mrs. Gardner, Lizzie Vannier, Mrs. Parsons and Ethel Wright.

The reception committee is comprised of all members of the general committee.

Arrangements—F. A. Noble, A. A. Fider, W. B. Henderson, C. E. Dice, R. Johnson, W. W. Allen, J. A. Scott, R. J. Hamilton and R. D. Debow.

Press—C. G. Howard, A. Farrington, W. F. Hutchins, J. A. Scott and W. J. Hayes.

Refreshment—Lizzie Vannier, chairman, and all the ladies on the general committees.

A fine program of sports for Samaritans, ladies of the Beneficent Degree and their families is now being arranged. This will include races of all kinds, athletic contests and a tug of war between teams from the various councils.

Some of the outside councils are likely to arrange for special trains.

It pays to advertise in The Herald. Ask Panton & White.

AMERICAN PROPOSAL

Regarding Inviolability of Private Property at Sea Accepted.

Twenty-One Favor Measure and Eleven Oppose It.

The Hague, July 17.—A vote on the principle of the American proposition regarding the inviolability of private property at sea was taken today by the committee of the conference dealing with the Geneva convention. Twenty-one delegates voted favorably, eleven were against the measure, and there was one absentee. Great Britain, France, Russia, Japan, Spain and Portugal were in opposition, while the triple alliance, although Germany made a reservation, was among the majority.

Belgium presented a compromise proposal, but Joseph H. Choate of the American delegation, refused to accept it, saying that inasmuch as a majority admitted the principle of immunity he could not consent to the limitation of this idea, especially as Great Britain and Russia already had declared they would not accept it in any form. This made unanimity impossible.

Prof. de Marten (Russia), who presided at the meeting, called attention to the fact that although the American proposition was supported by a majority of the votes passed, the populations of the countries voting against the principle was numerically largely in excess of those favoring it.

Mercy von Kapos-Mere (Austria) and Count Tornielli (Italy) followed the example of Baron Marschall von Bieberstein (Germany) in their reference to the British proposition regarding the limitation of armaments, which is to be presented by Sir Edward Fry at the next plenary sittings of the conference. This places Signor Tittoni, the Italian minister of foreign affairs, in a somewhat embarrassing position; he is personally in favor of the British proposal, but he cannot ignore the attitude of his allies in the triple alliance. The United States and Spain favor the English views on this matter. M. Nelidoff, however, does not think that Russia can support the idea of limiting armaments at present in view of the condition today of her army and navy, as a result of the Russo-Japanese war. M. Bourgeois (France) personally favors limitation, but the French government regard this question as academic and impracticable.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Unfavorable Crop Reports From Northwest Give Wheat Firmness.

Chicago, July 17.—The wheat market today opened firm because of unfavorable reports from the Northwest regarding the progress of the crop, and dispatches from the Southwest to the effect that the harvesting is showing meager returns. The fact that Liverpool failed to reflect the decline of yesterday on the local market was also a strengthening factor. September wheat opened a shade lower to ¼@⅜c higher at 93⅝c to 93¾c, and sold up to 93⅝@⅞c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 266 cars against 292 cars last week and 695 cars one year ago.

The market continued to gain in strength by persistent reports of damage in the Northwest. There was some reaction late in the day on profit-taking, but the market closed strong with September up 1c at 93⅝@¾c.

The corn market was exceedingly dull, and prices were easy. The weather in all sections of the country was reported as being highly favorable for the crop. September corn opened ⅛c to ¼c lower at 53½c to 53⅝c, and for a time held within that range. Local receipts were 192 cars, with 25 of contract grade.

The market rallied slightly about the middle of the day owing to the strength of wheat, but eased off again and closed barely steady. September advanced to 54@54⅛c and closed at 53⅝@53¾c, a shade lower than yesterday's final quotation.

The oats market was quiet and steady. The weather was reported as favorable. September oats opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 38⅝c to 38¾c, sold at 38¾c and then advanced to 38¾c. Local receipts were 73 cars.

The provisions market was easy because of a decline of 5c to 10c in the price of live hogs. September pork opened 7½c lower at $16.35. Lard was down 5c at $8.85. Ribs were 2½c lower at $8.62½.

Close: July, 90⅝c; September, 93¾c. Corn, July, 53¼c; September, 53⅝@53¾c. Oats, July, 43½c; September, 38¼@38⅝c. Pork, July, $16.12½; September, $16.32½. Lard, July, $8.72½; September, $8.92½. Ribs, July, $8.37½; September, $8.55@8.57½. Rye, cash, 86c. Barley, cash, 55@66c. Flax, clover and timothy, nothing doing. Grain Gossip.

Broomhall cables from Liverpool: "There was an easy tone to the wheat market at the opening with values d to ½c lower. Offerings were larger and with support feeble prices further eased ¼d to ⅝d during morning. Large houses here were inclined to the belief of an increased yield of American winter wheat and this together with the better reports from Hungary and the continued fine weather in both he United Kingdom and Continent prompted selling to realize. The market however was dull.

"Corn opened easy and ¼d lower. Market was dull on weakness in wheat and cheaper offerings from LaPlata and the Danube."

The Chicago Inter Ocean says: "Out of 100 reports from North Dakota to a Minneapolis house, not one was good. Most of them ranged from a fair prospect to bad. On top of the above the Northwestern Miller's special daily crop report says: 'Extensive rains beneficial, yet consensus of opinion is that fair wheat crop is about the most that can be hoped for.'"

The Chicago Record-Herald says: "Winnipeg wheat is now selling daily at higher than Chicago prices. The preference of the foreigner for the spring wheat as compared with winter is the cause of the appreciation. Until the last week Winnipeg prices had never before approached the Chicago level. Christopher of Kansas City, estimates the total wheat crop of Kansas this year at about 60,000,000 bus. This is about the consensus of conservative trade opinion here as well."

Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: Winnipeg wires today that the bad condition reported from nearly all parts of Manitoba cannot much longer be ignored by the wheat trade. A leading North Dakota farmer in Chicago today expresses the belief that the spring crop of that state has changed much for the worse. These two opinions fairly well represent the kind of news coming from the entire spring wheat country today. Our market was right in line with the advance in outside markets. This market is promised only eighteen cars of wheat for tomorrow against over 400 cars a year ago. Do not get enthusiastic and buy on a strong swell, but take wheat conservatively on all breaks and get the money.

Corn—There was a light volume of speculative trade. This market had fairly good early advance. This brought out considerable corn in the way of liquidation. Leading commission people and some of the cash houses were on the buying side of futures. 235 cars estimated for tomorrow.

Oats—This market proved the weakest in the grain list in the end. There was an early advance which brought out realizing sales. Weather conditions fairly good at present, and a liquidation and a few better crop returns are coming in but 90 per cent of the returns from the fields indicate a poor harvest promise. Leading local bulls are adding to their lines on the decline and believe the market is due for an upturn.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, July 17.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Market easier in tone. Receipts light. All classes met with slower sale than yesterday. G. W. DECLINES IN STOCKS

After Displaying Firm Undertone, the Market Eased Off.

Drop in United States Steel Weakened the Whole List.

New York, July 17.—Some hesitation was perceptible in the tone of the opening dealings in stocks due to the refusal of the London market to follow the advance of yesterday here. First prices showed small gains and losses mixed. Dealings were generally large in Union Pacific, the Hill stocks and United States Steel. Northern Pacific rose a point and United States Steel declined ⅜.

Some pressure to sell was opposed by supporting orders which carried Union Pacific, St. Paul, Canadian Pacific & Reading a point over last night. Selling pressure developed again at the advance which caused irregular fluctuations. United States Leather preferred sold at an advance of four, United States Reduction declined, 2½.

Pressure in the leading stocks dragged stocks down to below last night. United States Steel declined 1⅛ and American Smelting, 1. Prices showed some recoveries at noon. Bonds were irregular.

A rise of 1 in Atchison held prices steady and Pacific Mail, 1⅜; but changes generally were small. Federal Mining preferred sold at a decline of 1⅜, the common 1 and United States Rubber and the first preferred, 1½.

The movement of prices became feverish at times with quick but narrow fluctuations. Virginia Iron sold at a decline of 4. Pullman rose 1½ and Atlantic Coast Line, Tennessee Coal, Central Leather and United States Pipe preferred 1.

The market closed feverish and weak. United States Steel ran off to 2 below last night and weakened the whole market again. St. Paul lost 2, Amalgamated Copper and Southern Pacific 1¾ and Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Reading, American Smelting and National Biscuit 1 to 1¼. United States Rubber lost 4.

Stock Gossip.

New York to Vern R. Culbertson: The stock market today has been an irregular affair. Prices opened about yesterday's close but immediately sagged off, Union Pacific losing about a point on professional selling and profit taking, but the recessions was short lived, as prices soon recovered their loss and under tone was firm throughout the day. There were occasional signs of buying from investment houses. It was also reported that Standard Oil interests were doing some buying during the day. During last hour the market sagged off about 1 per cent from the best figures and closed inactive and slightly heavy.

Logan & Bryan, New York, to Paine, Webber & Co.: After displaying a firm undertone during the greater part of today's session, the market eased in the last hour under pressure from interests supposed to represent a large Boston operator. The market continues professional and as efforts to bull the same did not result in public buying the list is likely to be attacked and temporarily will sell lower. Call money continues easy, but at the close the feeding is rather bearish.

Treasury Balances.

Washington, July 17.—Today's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve in the division of redemption, shows: Available cash balance, $246,621,764; gold coin and bullion, $67,795,552; gold certificates, $89,547,730.

The Cotton Market.

New York, July 17.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of one to four points on near months, which were influenced by higher cables, than expected to a decline of three points on later positions. Trading was not active and seemed to be largely local with the tone rather nervous and prices about four to seven points net lower towards the middle of the morning.

Spot closed steady; middling uplands, 12.95; middling gulf, 13.20; sales, 91 bales. Futures closed firm. July, 11.80; August, 11.68; September, 11.62; October, 11.56; November, 11.50; December, 12.00; January, 12.05; February, 12.09; March, 12.15; April, 12.19; May, 12.25.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: Some of the larger interests in the Arizona Copper company and the Shannon, operating as they do adjoining properties in the Clifton camp, are desirous of a consolidation. J. G. Hopkins, the American director of the Arizona Copper company sails for Scotland tomorrow, where control of the Arizona Copper company is now held for the purpose of placing before the Scotland owners of that company a plan to consolidate the two properties.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: General dullness still continues and stocks are gradually sinking. Lawson is supposed to have sold some stocks today and prices broke sharply. The uncertainty in the metal market and the lack of buying orders puts the market in a bad condition and I advise everyone to lighten up accounts. There is no prospect of a rise at present and the chances of a drop are good. There will be plenty of time to buy coppers when we hear of some metal being sold. Union Pacific is the favorite in New York and I understand it will be put to 150.

Boston, to Vern R. Culbertson: Trading in coppers continues very dull, and there is no interest being taken in the market. The rumors are so persistent that there will be a further cut in the price of the metal that many are holding off waiting developments. In the meantime traders are active in few stocks today, North Butte, Shannon and Utah Consolidated being most active offerings continue light and in the rest of the list business was in odd lots. We expect this kind of a market to continue for the time being.

Boston, to Gay & Sturgis: The general market today opened with a vim and registered highest prices seen since middle of May for the rails. The professional element and the manipulators did it all and on a profit taking movement late in the day prices went off quite sharply. The short interest has been driven to cover and of course the position of stocks technically is not so strong. It looks however, as though prices would continue to advance after further reaction. The local market was soft notwithstanding a rally in London copper market of 3 pounds 5 shillings. Coppers are not in demand and a rather bearish feeling is gaining. Some of them look cheap, however, and a change in sentiment would be quickly reflected in prices.

Justice Ingram Pronounces Recount Law Unconstitutional.

New York, July 17.—Justice Ingram in the appellate division of the supreme court had unanimously decided that the recount law, which provides for a recount of the ballots cast in the last mayoralty election in New York city is unconstitutional. In view of the action yesterday of the appellate division in Brooklyn in deciding that William R. Hearst is entitled to a recount under this law, Justice Ingram stated that it has ben decided to let the case go to the court of appeals for final decision. In the meantime Justice Ingram said the court would issue an order for a stay of proceedings under the law until the court of appeals had time to render a decision.

Clarence J. Shearn, counsel for Mr. Hearst, raised the point that the court had no authority to issue an order to stop the operation of a law passed by the legislature. After an argument the court reserved decision. The court after a consultation denied the motion to make permanent the temporary injunction, but granted a further stay of proceedings until the court of appeals had had an opportunity to pass upon the constitutionality of the law. The decision of the appellate division today precludes the possibility of a recount of ballots in the last mayoralty election unti the fall, as the court of appeals will not be abe to reach the case until October.

MAN HAS LEG CUT OFF BY A SICKLE.

St. Paul, July 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Fallow, 45 years of age, a laborer employed by August Smith, a dairyman, living at Snelling and Otto streets, had his left leg almost amputated shortly after 10 o'clock today by the sickle of a mower with which he was cutting hay in Smith's pasture.

The sickle became clogged with hay and Fallow tried to remove the obstruction. While stooping over the sickle with his left leg in front of the saw-like teeth, the team suddenly started, the sickle cutting through the calf of the leg. Lockjaw is feared.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

MOST BUSINESS IF COMBINED with pleasure leads to success—all business ground out in desperation fails in time. Fifty-five miles of virgin woodland, rich in soil and rich in timber, can be traversed by writing to Edmund G. Walton, 114 South Fourth street, Minneapolis, for a permit over the constructing route of the Northern Pacific from Big Fork, Minnesota, to Little Fork. At Little Fork, a large and commodious steamer takes you thirty-three miles up the Rainey river tot International Falls. Total expense from Minneapolis, $7.85. Now, then, what will you see? A new country with marvelous possibilities, a water power of 30,000 horse power; 6,000,000,000 feet of pine and spruce—a farming country with soil as rich as the richest in Iowa, an ideal climate, a net work of lakes and streams filled with all the usual varieties of fresh water fish, and money to be picked up for the asking. Read Christopher Columbus' report of America to the court of Spain or "Monte Christo" and you will then partly understand what the riches of Koochichching county really are. No one really knows what wealth there is there, but a little fishing trip will open your eyes and tell you more than all the writing in the world. WEST DULUTH

WATER AND GAS SOON

Completing New Mains in Western Part of City.

Sewer System Will Also be Installed in District.

The work of installing water and gas mains in the district west of Sixty-third avenue and south of Polk street has practically been completed, and it is expected the water will be turned into the new mains some time this week. The gas mains will also be tested this week, though for some time to come there will be little necessity for a steady flow of gas in the new mains.

The installation of the hydrants is the principal work being done at present and it is expected that will be completed this week. The trenches have all been filled and a number of the hydrants have already been installed. The new mains run from Sixty-third avenue west on Polk to Sixty-sixth, south on Sixty-sixth to Raleigh, west on Raleigh to Seventieth, south on Seventieth to Redruth, west on Redruth to Seventy-first, and then south on Seventy-first to Grand avenue.

The new sewer mains will be employed principally for the time being for fire protection. Not that the people living in the district do not want water connections, but there is talk of a new sewer system in the same district and most of them will wait until that improvement is carried out, then making all three connections together.

Some of the contractors, however, are figuring on connecting different houses in the district with the gas and water mains immediately and for the remainder of the summer, considerable work will be done there in that line. The sewer connections are as badly needed there as were the water and gas, and influence will be brought to bear on the council to hurry matters so that the end of this summer will see the completion of the entire system.

Funeral of J. W. Spohn.

The funeral of the late J. W. Spohn, who died yesterday morning, will be held Friday afternoon from the residence, 626 North Fifty-ninth avenue west. Mr. Spohn, during the Civil war, was a member of Co. I, Fiftieth Wisconsin volunteers, and was honorably discharged from the army at Madison, Wis., June 14, 1866. He was a member of Gorman Post, No. 13, G. A. R., and the members of the post will have charge of the funeral. Interment will be in the soldiers' lot at Forest Hill cemetery.

Landlord is Arrested

Mike Dillage, who conducts a boarding house at 226 South Fifty-sixth avenue west, was the man wanted in the "John Doe" warrant sworn out by Officer Toewe Monday morning. Dillage was arraigned yesterday on a charge of permitting and encouraging a disturbance in his house. He demanded a trial and the hearing was set over until Thursday, he being released on $50 bail. There have been numerous complaints of disorderly occurrences in Dillage's house.

YI HIUNG TO ABDICATE

Emperor of Korea Will Retire in Favor of Son.

Sovereign Power Will be Controlled by the Japanese.

Tokio, July 18.—As a result of urgent representation by the ministers it is very probably that Yi Hiung, the emperor of Korea, will abdicate in favor of the crown prince as the first step toward reform in Korea. This will most likely be followed by the calling of a new convention, which, while keeping Koren's national existence intact, will limit the sovereign power in some form whereby the ruler can exercise his powers only with the consent and approval of the Japanese resident general. The present ministers in Seoul are actuated by true patriotism and are determined to place the Korean government upon a firm oasis and free from court intrigues and selfish plots.

Seoul, via Tokio, July 18.—The emperor's loss of the loyal adherence of a large portion of his subjects will, it is believed, result in the gradual development of his policy to always play one minister or faction against another so as to prevent the concentration of power in any single body. The result of this is that none will faithfully support him at the risk of life.

The emperor himself is constantly distrustful of all about him and haunted with the fear of an attempt upon his life. Consequently boiled rice is served him at each meal in a locked

TELEGRAPHERS' STRIKE QUIET

No New Developments in Operators' Troubles Made Known.

San Francisco, July 18.—There is very little change in the telegraph strike situation. Nominally the companies still have the threat of a general strike hanging over them, and the strikers still declare they are confident of winning.

The attitude of the companies has not changed since the strike began. Assistant General Supt. Miller of the Western Union says he is still willing to meet any of his former employes as individuals and reinstate such as he needs and are not objectionable.

Supt. Storer of the Postal, when asked about the strike, threw up his hands and declared:

"There is no strike, so far as we are concerned."

"I expect to leave Oakland within the next forty-eight hours for Chicago," said President Small of the Telegraphers' union yesterday, "where I will hold a conference with prominent leaders on Tuesday next, and recommend that our executive board meet in that city on that day. The strike in San Francisco and Oakland will continue. The fact of the matter is, there are not enough telegraph operators to fill the positions, and there is no worry about strike-breakers."

CONFIDENCE OF THE JAPS

In Justice of American Nation Expressed by Hayashi.

Cables Assurance of Peace and Goodwill From Tokio.

New York, July 18.—Foreign Minister Hayashi of Japan, replying to a cable request by the New York World for an assurance of peace and good will at this time from the Mikado, wires as follows:

"While appreciating friendly sentiments expressed in your telegram, I find it impossible, consistent with the usages of this country to ask for the dispatch of imperial message as desired.

"I assure you, however, that no erroneous impression, to which you refer, has been entertained by Japanese people and still less by Japanese government.

"It is here fully and universally believed that reported cruise of United States fleet to the Pacific, if contemplated at all, implies no indication of disquieting nature in the relations between Japan and the United States.

"Whole nation has confidence in policy of justice and peace which has characterized American government, and all sensational reports appearing in a small section of the press have absolutely no reflection in the minds of the public who are thoroughly convinced of the pacific character of the situation. "HAYASHI."

CROWN PRINCE OF KOREA MAY BECOME EMPEROR

CROWN PRINCE OF KOREA,
Who, It Is Said, Will Succeed to the Throne Upon the Abdication of His Father, the Emperor.

KING OSCAR II DESIRES SWEDES TO COME HOME

Wants His Emigrants to Return to the Fatherland.

Bureau to Further the Project is to be Opened.

Chicago, July 18.—King Oscar is anxious to secure the return to Sweden of the hundreds of thousands of Swedes who have emigrated to America, and has begun an investigation to determine what were the conditions which prompted his people to leave the fatherland and what would be necessary for Sweden to induce them to return.

The investigation is apart of the industrial awakening, which is now on in Sweden, and the change in the post of the Swedish minister to the United States was made with a view to furthering the return of Swedish Americans to their fatherland.

Mr. Lagercrantz, the new minister, was charged to open a bureau in the United States through which a Swedish-American desiring to return might secure information as to the conditions in his trade in Sweden and the probabilities of his prospering there. Consul Ekman, who died recently in Sweden, left 400,000 crowns ($116,000) to the bureau, which Mr. Lagercrantz is to establish.

SEVERAL ARE DEAD

And Great Monetary Damage Results From Floods.

Heavy Rains in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

Pittsburg, July 18.—The loss of several lives and great monetary damages has resulted from heavy rains throughtout Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia during the last twenty-four hours. The river and mountain streams are out of their banks, live stock has been drowned and bridges and buildings washed away, railroad tracks swept off or undermined, trolley systems demoralized, electric light plants put out of commission and hundreds of families compelled to abandon their homes and seek refuge on higher ground. About this city the rivers have risen five feet in ten hours.

In West Virginia miles of trackage of the Western Maryland and the coal and iron railroads in Tucker and Barber counties have been washed away. The service on these roads is said to be at a standstill. The Dry Fork and Baltimore & Ohio railroads are under water for many miles, and no trains can be operated. In the Tygarts valley the towns of Grafton, Rowlesburg and Tunnelton are almost submerged the property damage amounting to nearly a quarter of a million dollars.

At McCombs, W. Va., the home of Mrs. Mary Ballard was wrecked by the high water and three young children of Mrs. Ballard were drowned. The bodies were washed away.

While hundreds of persons watched the raging Tygart river, a large church floated down past Rowlesburg. Fifteen bridges passed Grafton.

WAR BEGINS ON BIG CATALOGUE HOUSES OF WEST

Chicago July 18.—War has been declared on the great catalogue houses of Chicago and other cities by the 500,000 retail merchants of the West.

The mammoth institutions spending no money in the communities whence they derive annually millions of dollars of patronage are forcing increasing numbers of home merchants to the wall and so their opponents claim are "making commercial graveyards of once prosperous towns."

An organized attack on the catalogue institutions is to be made by the home trade league of America which has existed for several months in Chicago.

The backbone of the league is formed of commercial associations, national, state and local in character, in Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan Kansas and Minnesota. Alfred C. Clark is manager of the league.

KEPT OUT OF GERMAN YARDS

Berlin, July 18.—Lieut. Commander W. L. Howard, the naval attache of the American embassy in Berlin, tried yesterday to obtain admission to the famous Schichau shipyard at Dantzic, where several big vessels for the kaisers' navy are under construction, but an admission was refused him. The refusal followed a visit which Lieut. Commander Howard had just made to the government shipyards at Dantzic.

Count von Reventlow, the Germen naval expert explained that the Schichau yards were private property, and the government had no connection whatever with them, but the action of the proprietor as regards Lieut. Commander Howard was wholly inexplicable because foreign naval attaches were admitted without question to government yards. The incident, he added, was wholly devoid of political significance, and was certain to be viewed unfavorably by the German naval authorities.

BOYS CATCHING CARP IN VILLAGE STREETS

Celina, Ohio, July 17.—Boys in the residence section of East Celina are catching huge carp in the village streets and alleys today as the result of an overflow of the Grand reservoir, the largest artificial body of water in the world. The overflow followed the heavy rains of the past twenty-four hours. Much damage has been caused by the floods in this section.

Chicago, July 18.—A dispatch to the Record-Herald from Clinton, Ill., says: Mrs. Mabel Parrett, said to be an old sweetheart of Fred H. Magill, who, with his bride, is a prisoner at San Diego, Cal., on a murder charge, was found unconscious last night on the grave of Mrs. Pat Magill, his alleged victim. She had take strychnine, and despite the efforts of physicians, who

GOING TO CANADA.

Tide of Immigration From Oriental Countries Tending That Way.

Seattle, Wash., July 18.—Secretary Strauss declared yesterday that the tide of immigration is changing, particularly from the Oriental countries and is turning toward Canada.

"In the last three months," said the secretary, "the number of immigrants coming into the United States through all points has increased 10 per cent while immigration from Japan has decreased. Canada is a wonderful country and it is going to be one the problems you men of the Pacific coast will have to face in the future."

TERRIFIC COLLISION

Of Automobiles Causes Death of One, Injury to Two.

Two Big Machines Smash Together at High Speed.

New York, July 18.—While rushing along at express train speed, two automobiles, filled with merry-makers from Coney Island, crashed head-on today on the dimly lighted ocean parkway, and as a consequence one man is dead and two others are fatally injured. The dead man, Thomas F. Donovan of New York was impaled on the spokes of his own machine. The injured are Chapman Ropes of Morristown, N. J., and an unidentified man.

Donovan's machine carried no lights. Running along at sixty miles an hour, Donovan determined to take the other side of the road. He did not see Chapman Ropes, driving a powerful machine, approaching in an opposite direction, and running about forty miles an hour. The two machines were upon one another before their drivers realized what had happened. The crash reduced the machines to scrap iron. Donovan was thrown from his machine and the spokes of a broken wheel pierced his breast. Ropes and his compaion were found beneath the wreckage. Donovan died in the hospital and physicians say that the two wounded men probably will die. A third automobile, which came along the avenue immediately after the accident, nearly collided with the wreckage.

MEETING IS FRUITLESS

Conference to Settle the Strike Brings No Results.

Men Say They Will Organize Union at Once.

From 9:30 this morning until almost 12 o'clock the committee from the strikers was in conference with W. J. Olcott and W. A. McGonagle, president and vice president of the Missabe road, in the mayor's office. And the result was—nothing.

Mr. Olcott refused to talk on the subject saying that the committee was to report this afternoon to the mass meeting at Lincoln park, and that the result would be made public in this way. The strikers were not so reticent.

"We are not empowered to make or accept anything in the way of a compromise," said J. W. Comber, after the meeting this morning, "and I do not know that the railroad people would have been ready to consider anything of the kind. Each side presented its grievances and we went into them as fully as we could. The railroad men did not talk this morning as if they would yield an inch. I think that if a committee with full authority to consider a compromise were appointed we might accomplish something.

Will Form a Union.

"They seemed to be impressed with the idea that if they hold off a few days we will be back as meek as lambs, but I tell you, in three days we will have an organized union, and then we will be a much more formidable opponent than we are

LIVE STOCK MEN IN CONVENTION

Nineteenth Annual Meeting of Association at Kansas City.

Kansas City, July 18.—Live stock commission firms in the fifteen principal markets of the country that do an annual business estimated at $800,000,000 were represented here today at the opening of the nineteenth annual meeting of the National Livestock Exchange association. The live stock centers represented included nearly every city of importance from Buffalo to Denver, and from St. Paul to Fort Worth. Twenty delegates came from Chicago.

The national exchange is practically the clearing house for the various local exchanges on all matters relating to the live stock trade, and the annual meetings are principally for the exchange of business ideas. James C. Swift of Kansas City, the president, said this morning that as far as he knew no pressing matter was to be taken up at this meeting. The post mortem question, among other things, will be discussed. President Swift mentioning this topic in his annual address, the reading of which was the principal work today.

CLIMAX OF ELKS' MEET

Reached in Grand Parade of 10,000 Antlered Brothers.

Hundreds of Thousands of People Witness the Grand Spectacle.

Philadelphia, July 18.—The climax of the reunion of the Elks was reached today when more than 10,000 members of the order marched six miles along Broad street in their annual parade, and nearly all Philadelphia took a holiday to see the spectacle. It is believed that no such crowd as that which lined Broad street today ever gathered on that highway. Heedless of the scorching sun, hundreds of thousands of men, women and children stood along the route of the procession for hours and waited patiently until the pageant came swinging down the hot asphalted street. Fifty grand stands lined the route, which extended from Huntington street, to Reed, a distance of four miles, with a two-mile counter march to Vine street. Business for the most part of the day was practically suspended in honor of the occasion.

About 100 lodges from cities and towns from the Atlantic to the Pacific participated in the parade. There were ten divisions and were under command of Chief Marshal John P. Sullivan of New Orleans, grand esquire of the Elks. The Philadelphia lodge, the host of the occasion, had the right of line with 1,800 men. The New York lodge followed. Other lodges which marched, included those from Minneapolis and Kenosha, Wis.

SUPERIOR NEWS

STRIKE ON AT ALLOUEZ

Ore Trimmers at Superior Docks Walk Out Also.

Have Not Yet Presented Their Demands to Officials.

Following the action of the ore trimmers at the Duluth and Two Harbors docks, the workmen at the Great Northern & Eastern Minnesota docks at Allouez walked out at noon today.

The strike was feared but not expected, and occasioned some surprise in Superior. The men gave no intimation of their intentions, but the entire force, 400 strong, refused to go back to work after the noon dinner hour.

No demands have yet been made and just what the men want is not known. They will probably send a committee to the officials this afternoon to present their demands, which will probably call for a raise in pay. The superintendent of the docks said today that there is little likelihood of the men being granted an increase, regardless of what their terms may be.

The strike at the Allouez docks complicates the situation still further. The boats, which were to have loaded this week at Duluth and Two Harbors, have nearly all called at the Allouez docks and, by working continually there, great congestion in the lake traffic was prevented. With the three docks closed down, however, congestion is bound to come and a continuation of the strike through many days will see a complete tie-up in the ore traffic on the lakes.

Grand Jury Reports.

Federal court, which has been in session here since Monday, completed its work today with no unusual developments in the session. The grand jury reported this morning after its three days' session, thirtythree indictments being returned. Most of them are for selling liquor to the Indians at the Odanah reservation.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Young Finn Stabbed Himself in Neck With Penknife.

Overcome by remorse on coming out of a prolonged debauch, Oscar Nelson, a Finn 26 years of age, made a bungling attempt at suicide this morning in one of the resorts in the tenderloin district at Superior.

Nelson had been at the place all night, and this morning he awoke partly sobered. The only weapon at hand was a small pen-knife, which he carried in his pocket. He opened the largest blade and plunged it into his neck. He was overpowered and the police called before he could do any further damage. Medical attention was given him, but it was found the knife had not touched a vital spot and there would be no serious results from the act.

After the wound was dressed, Nelson was taken to the police station, and he will be arraigned this afternoon on a charge of drunkenness and attempting to commit suicide.

LENROOT IS EXAMINER.

Will Hear Evidence in Suit Against Wisconsin Grain Commission.

Irving L. Lenroot was yesterday appointed examiner to take testimony in the suit of the Great Northern Elevator company and the Globe Elevator company against the Wisconsin grain and warehouse commission, by Judge Sanborn in federal court.

The elevator companies are to have sixty days in which to submit their testimony and the commission is to have forty-five days and fifteen days for rebuttal.

The case is an outgrowth of the old injunction suits brought by the grain interests and are against the grain and warehouse commission during the grain inspection fight, and which was sustained by Judge Sanborn and the federal court of appeals at Chicago. The case will now be tried on its merits.

ASKS $25,000 DAMAGES.

Fireman Wants That Amount From Duluth-Superior Traction Co.

The Duluth-Superior Traction company is the defendant in a damage suit for $25,000 brought in superior court yesterday by John Adolph, for injuries purported to have been received by him while employed as a fireman at the company power house April 27. The case will come up for trial in September.

Adolph is still confined to his home by his injuries, which are claimed to be a result of the company's negligence. He asserts that while he was performing his ordinary duties as fireman, the scaffolding in the boiler room collapsed and he was so seriously injured that it will be some time still before he is able to get out. He is being represented by W. P. Crawford.

Connor's Point Strip Sold.

A strip of land a little more than 220 feet wide, on Connor's Point, has been bought by E. P. Towne, a Duluth lawyer, from W. C. Vipond, the consideration being merely nominal. The Wisconsin & Northern Minnesota road is thought to be behind the deal. The property extends from Main street to the dock line in Howard's Pocket.

Damage Suit is Begun.

The damage suit for $5,000 for personal injuries brought by Oscar Hill against the Edward Hines Lumber company began in circuit court yesterday and it is expected that all of the evidence will be in by the time court adjourns today. Hill was on the stand during yesterday's session of court. All of the evidence had to be interpreted and this made the ordeal drag.

Two days after Hill had started to work for the Hines company, he was struck by a falling tree and laid up for several months. He claims to have been permanently injured. Attorneys for the plaintiff are W. R. Foley and F. J. Christopher and for the lumber company, G. B. Hudnall and Howard Bailey.

Unknown Man Killed.

The body of a workingman, so badly mangled and disfigured that it could not be recognized or identified, was picked up about 9 o'clock last evening near the Allouez ore docks. Coroner Dudley took charge of the remains, but their identity has not been established, there being nothing on the body to indicate who the man was. It is supposed that the man was struck by an ore train.

TAR AND FEATHER STATION AGENT

Patrons of Railroad Vent Their Wrath on Official.

Leonard, N. D., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. L. Matson, agent here for the Northern Pacific and son of Traveling Auditor Matson of the same company, wears a bandage about his neck and two large revolvers strapped on his person. Incidentally an odor of tar permeates his person. The bandage covers a wound he sustained a few nights ago when he was roughly handled by a crowd of men, while the weapons are for protection against future indignities.

It appears that he and the patrons of the road have had several rows of late about freight settlements. The feeling against the agent grew so strong that five masked men entered his room at the hotel, threw a rope around his neck, and dragging him to the outskirts of the town, applied a coat of tar and feathers, after suspending him by the rope around his neck so that his toes only touched the ground. The legal department of the company is investigating the matter and will endeavor to prosecute the members of the mob that abused the agent.

ACCIDENT OCCURS ON SOUTHERN RAILROAD.

Atlanta, Ga., July 18.—Passenger train No. 36 on the Southern railway, which left here at midnight, was partially wrecked at Richland, S. C., at 5:30 o'clock this morning. The locomotive and postal and express car were derailed, the locomotive being turned over. No one is reported seriously injured, but the fireman and several passengers are said to have been slightly hurt.

NO PARDON FOR GENTRY.

Harrisburg, Pa., July 18.—The state board of pardons has refused to recommend a pardon for James B. Gentry, the actor, who was convicted of the murder of Madge Yorke, an actress, in Philadelphia in 1896, and sentenced to life imprisonment.

CASE OF TOO MUCH LAW

City Charter Bristling With Obstructions to Hospital Site.

Section Forbids Use of Park Lands for Other Purposes.

And behold, the city hospital has not where to lay its cornerstone or any other portion of its structure.

Duluth's city charter seems to be bristling with obstructions to locating the proposed building within the city limits, and each new location has a special section in the charter which says in effect if not literally, "there thou shalt not place that city hospital."

In another column of The Herald it is shown how the building ordinance has put a very effective veto on the Craigencroft proposition, on account of the provision which says that all detention buildings which include hospitals as well as jails and asylums, shall be of an absolutely fireproof construction. The building would have to be practically rebuilt in order to render it fireproof in accordance with the building ordinance.

And now that West end park site proposition is affected. In selecting this site for their recommendation, the Commercial club committee forgot a section of the city charter which is numbered as section 200 and which reads as follows:

"The lands which may have been or may hereafter be, designated and obtained for park purposes shall not be alienated or diverted for, or to, other uses, and shall remain forever parks and park ways for the use and enjoyment of all the inhabitants of the city, and shall at all times be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction and control of said board save as otherwise herein provided."

It seems to be a case of too much law. The park property under consideration was transferred to the city as a gift and it is possible that through a flaw in the deed this may be found to have not yet been legally "obtained" for park purposes, but this, with the exception of a possible charter amendment, is the only loophole by which a portion of the West end park could lawfully be converted to hospital uses.

The committee from the city council, consisting of the members of the finance and city property committees, in conjunction with the Commercial club committee, went out to the site this morning and after some Alpine rock climbing over the Point of Rocks they succeeded in getting a decidedly favorable impression of the site as the location of a city hospital.

"We were all impressed very favorably with that location," said Mr. Ribenack, chairman of the city property committee, this morning. "I had not heard of that charter provision before. Possibly if we got the consent of the parties donating the land to use it for this purpose, we might, through a flaw in the deed, get around the provision. I am not at all familiar with this portion of the deal, but I hope that it may be arranged so that the site may be used. It struck me as a very good one."

ENDS LIFE BY ASPHYXIATION

St. Paul, July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of unrequited love, it is supposed, Miss Tillie Okerlund, 22 years old, committed suicide by asphyxiation last night at the home of Edward S. Sheehan, 862 Grand avenue. She left no note to indicate for a certainty her reasons for seeking death.

Miss Okerlund retired about 9:30 o'clock and seemed to be in her usual good health. She had appeared despondent for several days, but not to such a degree that more than passing attention was attracted.

Her body was found at 7 o'clock this morning by members of the Sheehan family who entered her room to discover what was the matter after she had failed to appear down stairs.

That her act was planned carefully was indicated by the fact that every crack by which air might enter her room had been closed tightly before the gas was turned on.

Miss Okerlund had been employed as a servant in the Sheehan home for several months.

Last spring it seemed as though I would die, and I think I would if I hadn't taken Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I haven't been troubled with it since until this week, when I had a very severe attack and took half a bottle of the twenty-five cent size Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and this morning I feel like a new man." VIENNA IS FLOODED.

Vienna, July 18.—There was a terrible cloudburst here yesterday. The streets were flooded. It is said that the outlying suburbs of Neuweldogg and Hernals were destroyed and that there were many victims. The entire fire brigade of Vienna is employed in rescue work, which is much hindered by the torrents and the flooding of the river Alserbach, which separates Hernals from Vienna.

Is Pe-ru-na Useful for Catarrh?

Should a list of the ingredients of Peruna be submitted to any medical expert, of whatever school or nationality, he would be obliged to admit without reserve that each one of them was of undoubted value in chronic catarrhal diseases, and had stood the test of many years' experience in the treatment of such diseases. THERE CAN BE NO DISPUTE ABOUT THIS WHATEVER. Peruna is composed of the most efficacious and universally used herbal remedies for catarrh. Every ingredient of Peruna has a reputation of its own in the cure of some phase of catarrh.

Peruna brings to the home the COMBINED KNOWLEDGE OF SEVERAL SCHOOLS OF MEDICINE in the treatment of catarrhal diseases; brings to the home the scientific skill and knowledge of the modern pharmacist; and last but not least, brings to the home the vast and varied experience of Dr. Hartman, in the use of catarrh remedies, and in the treatment of catarrhal diseases.

The fact is, chronic catarrh is a disease which is very prevalent. Many thousand people know they have chronic catarrh. They have visited doctors over and over again, and been told that their case is one of chronic catarrh. It may be of the nose, throat, lungs, stomach or some other internal organ. There is no doubt as to the nature of the disease. The only trouble is the remedy. This doctor has tried to cure them. That doctor has tried to prescribe for them.

BUT THEY ALL FAILED TO BRING ANY RELIEF.

Dr. Hartman's idea is that a catarrh remedy can be made on a large scale, as he is making it; that it can be made honestly, of the purest drugs and of the strictest uniformity. His idea is that this remedy can be supplied directly to the people, and no more be charged for it than is necessary for the handling of it.

No other household remedy so universally advertised carries upon the label the principal active constituents, showing that Peruna invites the full inspection of the critics.

silver bowl, which he opens with a key, always kept about his person.

Patriotic Koreans condemn his policy as sacrificing the national interest to his personal benefit and welfare.

The Il Ching Hoi, a progressive association, claiming a membership of 1,000,000, is now openly hostile to the emperor and it is doubtful, even if the few now standing by him, will continue their support until the last.

A sufficient inducement is likely to make them desert the emperor, who is now in the most pitiable predicament.

The audience of Marquis Ito with the emperor, which was expected to have taken place this afternoon, has been postponed. It is likely that the marquis will proceed to his palace tomorrow in company with Count Hayashi, the Japanese foreign minister, who is expected to arrive this evening.

Pak Yong Ho, who was recently pardoned, and upon his return was appointed minister of the imperial household, has reported that the emperor of Korea emphatically protests his ignorance regarding the dispatch of the deputation to The Hague, and says that his abdication would only tend to confirm his relation thereto. For this reason he will not abdicate. The emperor, he says, will prove obdurate in resisting his dethronement.

The woman has not been living with her husband for several months. It is alleged that the cause of the separation was Fred Magill's attention to her.

Mrs Parrett is 22 years old and handsome. Late in the night, it was announced by the attending physician, that she had a chance to recover, although her condition is critical.

The body of Mrs. Magill was exhumed last night. Over two hours were consumed in the task, which was performed by two professional grave diggers. They were watched over by eight doctors, among whom were two specialists from Chicago.

The two Chicago specialists carried back with them in large jars all the vital organs of the body of Pet Magill. The organs taken were the stomach, lungs, kidney and all the intestines. It will be at least ten days, possibly fifteen, before it will be possible to announce the result of the analysis.

MANY BOATS LOAD COAL

Shippers at Buffalo Cannot Take Care of All Tonnage.

Strike Threatens to Seriously Embarrass Iron and Steel Industry.

On account of the strike at the Missabe and Two Harbors ore docks many of the freighters of the steel trust fleet are now being placed for coal at the lower lake ports. Many other vessels will also wait for coal cargoes. As a result the coal freight market is much easier this week, although the rates still hold steady.

The strike of the iron ore handlers at Duluth and Two Harbors seriously threatens to embarrass the iron and steel industries if the tie-up should last more than a few days. In order to fill contracts made with furnace operators it was the purpose of the vessel owners to make this a record breaking month in the amount of ore taken down from these docks.

Owing to the late opening of navigation this spring together with the unprecedented demand for ore, shipments are far behind orders, and even with favorable conditions there has been a doubt as to the ability of the vesselmen to handle all the ore required by the furnaces to fill their orders.

At Two Harbors all work on the ore docks has been at a standstill since Tuesday night and there is a big fleet of vessels waiting in that port. The following boats are detained there:

French, Lycoming, Buffalo, Sweetheart, Oceanica, Fleetwood, Moravia, Sill, Frank Peavey, Helena, Neilson, Jenney, Carrington, Matoa, Manila, Colgate, 117, 139, Marina, 132, Maia, D. G. Kerr.

In the Duluth harbor there is absolutely nothing doing as far as the ore carriers are concerned. At the Superior end of the harbor the Allouez docks are still loading boats, but this is the only dock at the Head of the Lakes where the boats can go for ore cargoes.

Buffalo, July 18.—There are at present more vessels looking for cargoes than coal, and shippers cannot take care of them. Coal is arriving in uncertain quantities. Contracts have been made sufficient to keep the trestles at work until Monday. Shippers state that today's charters are the Lewiston and Beatty to Chicago at 40 cents.

COLLISION AT BUFFALO.

Steamer Yuma Runs Into Dredging Company's Drill Boats.

Buffalo, July 18.—While entering the harbor last night in a heavy fog the steamer Yuma collided with one of the drill boats of the Buffalo Dredging company at work removing the shoal at ahe harbor entrance. Considerable damage was done to the drill boat. The Yuma was not damaged.

SMASHES DRAWBRIDGE.

Twenty Boats Bottled Up in Upper River at Menominee.

Menominee, Mich., July 18.—While rounding up the harbor last night at full speed the Goodrich steel steamer Carolina crashed into the drawbrige and twisted it out of shape, completely wrecking the structure. A fleet of twenty vessels in the upper part of the river are unable to leave the harbor until the bridge is repaired. The damages to the bridge are about $15,000 and it will be some time before even temporary repairs can be made.

RAFT OF CANADIAN LOGS

Arrives at Bay City Containing 2,000,000 Feet of Timber.

Bay City, Mich., July 18.—A reminder of the days before the province of Ontario prohibited the exportation of saw-logs cut from crown lands was seen here Tuesday with the arrival of a raft containing 2,000,000 feet of logs from Georgian bay, consigned to Burton Bros.

The timber was cut on Indian lands instead of crown lands and thus escaped the rule prohibiting export. By bringing the logs here to be manufactured into lumber, the consignees escape the $2 duty imposed on manufactured lumber under the Dingley tariff.

The tug Winslow returned to Georgian bay after delivering the logs in Saginaw bay for the Campbell-Erown Lumber company's mill.

SOUNDED CONTINUOUSLY.

Submarine Bells on Four Lake Huron Light Vessels.

In the notice to mariners published this week by the United States hydrographic office, interesting information concerning the submarine fog signals established on board the White Shoal, Gray's Reef, Lansing Shoal and Eleven Foot Shoal light vessels in Lake Michigan, is to be found. These bells are operated experimentally by the Submarine Signal company.

The submarine fog signal bell on White Shoal light vessel will sound, during thick or foggy weather, the code number 3? at regular intervals, as follows: Three strokes, silent interval six seconds, five strokes, silent interval twelve seconds.

The submarine fog signal bell on Gray's Reef light vessel will sound, during thick or foggy weather, the code number 3 at regular intervals, as follows: Three strokes, silent interval five seconds, three strokes, silent interval five seconds.

The signal bell on Lansing Shoal light vessel will sound during foggy weather the code number 5 at regular intervals, as follows: Five strokes, silent interval five seconds, five strokes, silent interval five seconds.

At the Eleven Foot Shoal light vessel the submarine signal bell will sound the code number 53 at regular intervals as follows: Five strokes, silent interval six seconds, three strokes, silent interval twelve seconds.

In order to give all passing vessels an opportunity to test their receiving apparatus, the submarine bells on all light vessels named above will sound their characteristics continuously, regardless of weather, during the present month.

Light Discontinued.

The Canadian government has notified the United States hydrographic office that the fixed white reflector light heretofore exhibited on Michael Point, south coast of Manitoulin Island, Lake Huron, has been permanently discontinued.

To Inspect River Boat.

Capt. John Monaghan and M. F. Chalk, United States steamboat inspectors for this district, left this morning for Stillwater on an inspection trip. One of the boats to be inspected is the steamer Alice D., a river boat owned by the Bronson-Folsom Towing Company of Stillwater. It is used in towing log rafts down the river.

Big Steamer Launched.

Lorain, Ohio, July 18.—The steamer William A. Mills, one of the largest on the lakes, was launched here yesterday. The boat is 605½ feet long. It was built for the Weston Transit Company of North Tonawanda, N. Y., and is a duplicate of the De Graf and W. B. Kerr.

THE TWENTY-ONE RULE.

Philadelphia Record: Old Jacob Weatherly is a man of extreme regularity, and, on the principle that "Early to bed," etc., is the best guiding rule for a household, he insists that every one under his roof and authority shall retire at 9:30. As may be readily understood, this rule sometimes proves irksome to the younger members of the family—especially Charles.

Recently, however, Charles reached man's estate, and on his birthday, Jacob gave him his blessing.

"I have no longer any authority over you," he said: "now that you are 21 you must act as pleases you best."

On the following Saturday evening, therefore, Charles returned home at 11:15 p. m., and rapped at the door.

"Who's that?" said Jacob from the window.

"Charles," replied his son.

"But why do you come home at this hour? Don't you know we lock up at 9:30?"

"Yes," remonstrated the youth: "but I'm gone 21 now, and can do as I please."

"Quite so," said the old man; "but so can I." And the window went down with a bang, and Charles was left to face the dark fact that 21 worked two ways.

ON THE IRON RANGES

GAME WAS VERY FAST

Takes Fourteen Innings to Decide Winner of Hibbing Event.

Saskatchewan, Can., Club Won Out in Fourteenth Inning.

Hibbing, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.) — The Hibbing fans Wednesday witnessed one of the fastest baseball games that was ever played on the local diamond, when the Saskatchewan, Can., and Hibbing teams crossed bats. The Canadians started off at a merry pace and pushed two men around the diamond in the first bout, but the locals pulled themselves together and did not allow the men from Canada to score again until the seventh when another of their men crossed the fourth base. In the fourth Kleffman pushed out a single and made home on an error. Burns scored in the seventh and in the eighth Culligan lifted one over the fence, tying the score. There was nothing doing in the scoring line in the ninth inning and for four more turns both sides drew goose eggs. The fourteenth inning was a catastrophy for the colts. They went to pieces in a way that was awful and errors were running at random, the Canucks earning one run and scoring five. In the last half of the fourteenth the home team took on a sudden determination to redeem themselves and scattered safe hits around the diamond and in the field in a way that brought hope to the hearts of the thousand fans that witnessed the game, but were unable to get more than four men safely over the home plate. Following is the detailed score:

During the meeting Mayor Cullum absented himself from the room, saying in explanation that he wished all semblances of a tribunal to be removed from the session of this morning. Behind in Shipments.

As a result of the strike which has tied up work on the docks at Duluth and Two Harbors, the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road is getting about 70,000 tons behind every day, as that is approximately the amount of ore that was shipped from docks every twenty-four hours up to the time the men walked out. The Duluth & Iron Range is losing about 55,000 tons a day. Up to the time of the strike, the Missabe road had shipped a little over a million tons of ore during July.

No Change, Says Mr. House.

"There is no change in the strike situation so far as the Duluth & Iron Range is concerned," said F. E. House, president of the line, to a reporter for The Herald this morning.

"While the road is not receding any from its position, every effort is being made to bring about a settlement of the strike. A settlement of the strike at the Missabe docks in Duluth will mean a settlement of the strike at the Duluth & Iron Range docks at Two Harbors, which began yesterday."

MANGLED BY STREET CAR

Child is Struck and Thrown Under the Wheels.

Motorman Loses Control of "Dinkey" Carrying Circus Crowd.

A new motorman, unused to operating the "dinky" hand brake cars, a crowd of nearly a hundred people, circus bound, packed into one of these little cars, and a 9 per cent grade between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues west on Third street resulted in the death of 4-year-old Mabel Pomeroy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Pomeroy, just as the circus traffic was at its height last night.

Ernest Nelson, a motorman, who had been worked in on the big air brake cars, and had been accustomed only to them, was in charge of the heavily loaded car. He was also new to the West Third street line and totally unfamiliar with the grades and crossings on it. Like some twenty other men in the company's employ he had been pressed into service, working over hours, in order to handle, as well as possible, the big circus crowds. The task of holding back the heavily loaded car on the steep grade from Piedmont avenue to Twentieth avenue would have taxed the ability of an older and more experienced man than he.

The little girl was standing on the cross walk between the rails at Twenty-first avenue west when the accident occurred. Nelson lost control of the car on the slope, and seeing the little child standing between the rails he dropped the fender. The car struck her a moment later and she was tossed against the car and on to the fender. Though Nelson was grinding with all his force on the brakes, and he is a strong man, the car continued in motion for thirty feet more, and before it could be stopped the child rolled from the fender and was ground under the wheels.

Her body was terribly mangled, and the sight angered the bystanders, who were making ugly threats against the crew. Three policemen arrived on the scene within a few moments and took charge. After investigating they decided that the motorman was not liable to arrest for carelessness.

Say Nelson Was Careless.

A portion of the crowd who witnessed the affair say, however, that Nelson was careless. The rush of the circus traffic was probably conducive to as fast driving as was reasonable, to say the least, and according to the statements of a number of persons on the car, Nelson had been driving a little faster than usual before striking the down grade on Third street. There seems to be no question, however, that he lost control of the car on the grade, before the fact that the child was on the track became apparent. If any blame is to be attached to him it is in carelessness or inexperience in starting down the grade, as several men who were riding on the front platform say that the car got away on the grade.

The accident was witnessed by a big crowd of people, pleasure seekers, circus bound, lining the sidewalks. Some of them seeing the rapidly approaching car, evidently beyond control, dashing upon the helpless little one, cried out to her to get out of the way but not until too late. Two or three women fainted.

The child's mother is an invalid and has been ill for some time. The family live less than a block west of where the horrible accident occurred and when the commotion began it was impossible to keep from her the news of the accident and her child's terrible death. She collapsed utterly and it was only after a long period that she could be revived. She then became delirious and kept calling the name of the dead child until far into the night.

Coroner McCuen will hold an inquest this afternoon in an effort to fasten the blame for the accident if possible.

CON-CERN-ING WOMEN

Life is a long drawn out tragedy, but it is drawn out so long that people do not sit down and wail for an hour or two, and as a result there are plenty of folks still going about their work thinking that life is not such a terrible calamity after all. To appreciate the tragedies that everywhere exist they have to be compact and labeled, the essence of tragedy as it is found in some fine play or other and then if all the heroes and heroines are piled up dead at the end of the fifth act, the auditors brilliantly realize that this is tragedy before them. The everyday events of almost anybody's life differ only in degree, not in kind, and for that reason, mercifully, most people do not realize, but that they are living a happy comedy.

With which preamble, it may be said that to women, who, on paper only, bears most of the tragedies of life, gingham dresses are among the worst and saddest, and they are no less awful because they are so seldom appreciated as such.

From the time that she goes from store to store asking to see the gingham which she cannot get, through the tedious process of changing the ideas of the dressmaker, who has got into the season habit of making nothing but jumpers, until the first laundering of the garment, there is nothing but trouble. This, however, is the mere prelude to the deep disasters which follow. With fear, and trembling and devoutly praying, the victim gets into the thing, which, if this were a fashion article, would be called a frock. It has shrunk in length and drawn together in the width. The band that should encircle one's waist has risen three inches into the small of the back, the neck has to be closed two inches below the band, that useful adjunct refusing blithely to come within two inches of meeting. After the waist has been adjusted in a kind of a way, one essays to put on the skirt. A side of the skirt band is clutched firmly in either hand, a long breath is taken, a very long and deep breath, the upper teeth bite firmly on the lower lip, one foot is raised from the ground to give whatever assistance it may—and the skirt is hooked. The breath is exhaled in true physical culture fashion and—pop—the hook comes off.

"Oh, splash," says the annoyed heroine of this tragedy.

Later, however, with the assistance of that truly wonderful thing, a safety pin, the matter is adjusted and the glass is tipped to give a view of the skirt.

It has shrunk, and beneath its abbreviated fulness a two-inch embroidery ruffle of a petticoat that has not shrunk is visible all the way around.

With elaborate calmness and an ominous gleam in her eye the heroine takes off the skirt and the waist and puts on a dressing sacque, that looks just as the name sounds, pulls down the window shade and takes a bottle of smelling salts and goes to bed.

"Why what in the world is the matter," inquires a member of the family, stopping on the threshold of the darkened room, where the odor of the salts assails one on entering. From the depths of a deep pillow a muffled voice, quivering with the pathos of heart-wringing tragedy, says with a pathetic break in her voice, "my new dress has shrunk."

"Oh!" says the comprehending intruder in a deeply understanding tone. "Poor dear! Excuse me," and she softly closes her door on one of summer's most excruciating and keenest sorrows. And tragedy in its quintessence revels by itself, in shadowy gloom and unstarched array.

Red raspberries, 18 cents a box.
Strawberries, 15 cents a box.
Watermelons, 45 cents each.
Pork tenderloin, 30 cents a pound.

Western raspberries, round, rich, and perfect, are the most delicious things in the market, without any doubt. The fruit is not exactly cheap, and cannot, like June, be had by the poorest comer, but if you can get the necessary cash for a box of berries, and then obtain some real cream, you have a desert that is worth the price.

The first of the red currants are in the market and the egg plants are especially fine and delicious.

The watermelons are gradually getting cheaper and the cantaloupes are receiving their due measure of devoted attention.

THE EVENING STORY.

A Vacation Romance

By Cornelia Redmond.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

It was four years ago that I spent that memorable month at Hartville in the Green mountains, a place recommended to me by a friend, where I could obtain absolute rest and quiet.

I am a lawyer by profession and it was after working hard on an important suit that I decided to take a much needed rest.

It was while reading in a shady spot under a wide spreading oak that I first met Miss Lee, as she called herself. She was dressed in a pink cotton gown, such as is often worn by farmers' daughters, but the rest of her attire seemed to contradict one's first impression. Her face was completely concealed by a thick gray veil, which was so arranged that not even a stray lock or hair was visible. She had come to the same place to spend a few quiet hours over a novel. Here we spent many a pleasant afternoon, but try as I would I could learn little of my mysterious acquaintance. She always appeared in a pink cotton gown and closely veiled as when I had first seen her. Before long I discovered that it was more than a feeling of friendship that I harbored for her, and notwithstanding the fact that I had never seen her face, and her seemingly distant ways, I had about fully made up my mind to declare my passion to Miss Lee and ask her to marry me. Then one day as the end of my vacation was drawing near she suddenly disappeared. As I approached the familiar oak tree I saw something white fluttering on its trunk, and drawing near I discovered it was a note pinned to the bark. It simply said she was going away and wanted to thank me for all the kindness I had shown her and the pleasure she had experienced from our visits. There was no signature or date. The next few days dragged slowly and then I found myself again in the midst of the noise and bustle of the city.

Town life and its businesslike surroundings had brought me to a somewhat more practical frame of mind, but still through the long summer days that followed I often longed again for the shady spot by the brook, the sound of that gentle voice and the sight of that familiar pink gown.

Early in January my married siser informed me that she was going to give a ball, and that I would be expected to render myself useful as well as ornamental on the occasion.

On the evening of the festivity I put in an appearance at an early hour, and for half of the evening at least, the most exacting hostess could have found no reason to complain of me. I talked to the bores, danced with the wallflowers and fed the dowagers.

I was bringing a third supply of lobster salad to one of the latter when I met my sister, who stopped me and said: "I want you when you have disposed of that plate, Jack. There is a charming girl in the far corner whom you must meet."

I conveyed the salad safely to its destination and then gave my arm to my sister, who led me off in the direction that she had indicated.

Upon a little sofe near the door leading into the greenhouse sat a slender, fair-haired girl all in white.

"Miss Warren, I want to present my brother, Mr. Field," said my sister, and then she turned to speak to some one, and I sat down beside the girl in white.

For a moment I closed my eyes and seemed to be back again at Hartville, but my dream came to an end as she stopped speaking.

"Where did you spend last summer?" I asked almost involuntarily, and with a degree of eagerness which I hardly appreciated at the time.

"At my aunt's place on the Hudson," was the reply. "And you?"

"I spent a month among the mountains of Vermont," I said with a sigh of disappointment.

I asked her to dance, presently, and would have liked to monopolize her company for the rest of the evening, but I soon found that her numerous partners had no intention of allowing me to do anything of the sort. I had another little talk with her, however, just as she was going, and succeeded in getting her aunt, who was chaperoning her, to invite me to call.

After the last guest had departed, although it was nearly three a. m., I stopped to ask my sister to tell me something about Miss Warren.

"She is the only child of Livingston Warren," she said in reply to my question. "Her mother died when she was quite a child, and all her life long she has been her father's companion until last spring, when he suddenly took it into his head to marry again. His second wife was a widow, and it seems to be the general opinion that she married him for his money. Of course it was a bitter blow to Helen, who had always felt that her father belonged to her alone. Mr. Warren and his wife went abroad shortly after their marriage, and have not yet returned. Helen is living with her aunt, Mrs. Gordon, and I believe has been with her all the summer. She is a sweet girl—but do not let us talk any more tonight, or rather this morning. Goodby, Jack, and thanks for your valuable assistance."

I said "goodby," and went home to my bachelor quarters to dream of Hartville and a slender figure dressed in pink cotton.

I called at Mrs. Gordon's in a few days, when I had the pleasure of seeing both the lady and her niece, and a week later I was asked to dine with them. I accepted the invitation and called afterward not once, but many times, and so the months went by, and one bright spring day I found myself wondering whether it were possible for a man to be in love with two women at once. I began to appreciate that I was possessed by a feeling of restlessness when away from Helen Warren, and yet I found it impossible to banish from my heart the tenderness which I felt for Miss Lee.

One evening, early in June, I called at Mrs. Gordon's and found Helen sitting alone in the twilight.

"Uncle and aunt are dining out," she explained when we had exchanged the usual greetings.

I did not say that I was sorry; I was particularly glad, and before half an hour had gone by I had mustered up courage and asked the woman I loved to marry me.

She gave me a hesitating little "yes," and then I kissed her to prevent her taking it back again.

"Jack," said Helen, suddenly, when we had talked over the future that we were to spend together, "were you ever in love with anyone else?

I had made up my mind that there should be no secrets between us, so noning her hand in mine and looking into her laughing eyes I confessed the little episode of the previous summer.

"Are you quite sure that there was never anybody else?" she asked, when my story had come to an end.

"Quite," I answered honestly.

"I think we might have lights now," she said, rising and going toward the door, through which she disappeared.

A servant came in presently and lighted the gas, and then I felt to dreaming and wondering why Helen did not come back.

The sound of a step on the carpet caused me to look up, and there advancing toward me I saw—not Helen but Miss Lee in her sailor hat, her gray veil and pink cotton gown.

I felt for a moment that I must be dreaming, but a merry laugh which sounded very real fell upon my ear, and the next moment the veil was lifted and Helen's blue eyes were looking into mine and she was saying:

"I am so glad that there is no one but Miss Lee for me to be jealous of.

"You see I have a horribly jealous disposition," she began in answer to my request for an explanation, "and after papa married again I was wretchedly unhappy, and hated my stepmother with a hatred that was only equaled by her detestation of me. When she and my father returned home after their marriage I tried very hard to be agreeable to her, but she asserted her authority over me in such a disagreeable way that one day I lost control of my temper and we had a dreadful scene. Papa heard all about it when he came home that evening and the end of it was that I was told the following day to have my things packed, as I was going away for the summer. I had expected to go abroad with my father, as we had done so many summers before, and was therefore a little surprised when he told me that I was going to pass the summer at a farmhouse in Vermont.

"My stepmother's maid traveled with me to Hartville, and saw me settled with the Bennets, a miserly old farmer and his wife. The latter, I soon discovered, was a sort of connection of my stepmother's.

"During the first week of my stay at Hartville life seemed almost unbearable, and after that I began to roam about the fields and woods and to find a certain amount of companionship in the birds and trees. I soon found my dresses, which were trimmed with lace and ribbons, very inconvenient for this sort of life, and so I purchased some pink cotton material at the village store and made myself a couple of plain ones. I had never done very much sewing before, but I was glad of the occupation, and with Mrs. Bennet's assistance was able in a short time to complete two quite presentable looking garments.

"The day upon which I first saw you I had put on this thick veil as a protection against the mosquitoes, which although I was warned about a certain mashy place when I sometimes went for wild flowers. Almost as soon as you got up and came toward me I recognized your face. Although we had never met I had often seen you in town during the previous winter, and thinking it quite probable that we might meet some day, and not caring to appear to you in the light of a naughty child who was being punished for its misdeeds, I kept my face concealed at our subsequent interviews.

"When I told you that my name was Lee I did not tell an untruth, for it is my middle name. I suppose it was very wrong of me to have made a practice of meeting you in that secluded part of the country as I did, but the temptation was too strong, and (I don't wish to flatter you), but there was a certain attraction in your society, as I had nobody else to speak to but Mr. and Mrs. Bennet and the maid of all work.

"My aunt had been abroad for some months, but I knew that she was expected home in July. I wrote her telling of my whereabouts, and was not surprised when she appeared at Hartville one evening and told me to be prepared to go home with her the next day. A little while before we left I stole down to the oak tree (and a good two mile walk it was) and pinned the note where I knew you would see it. Now you know all."

"Not quite all," I answered, as she finished. "Tell me, Helen, do you think that you cared anything about me in those days?"

She gave an embarrassed little laugh, and a bright blush came to her cheek.

"It is mean to you to question me so," she answered, "but to tell the truth, I was only half glad to go away with Auntie when she came; but let me go, Jack. I hear the carriage, and they must not see me in this costume."

MEADS IS CHOSEN.

Calumet Man to Represent Michigan at National Shooting Contest.

Calumet, Mich., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jesse Meads, a member of the Calumet engineering corps, has been chosen a member of the state rifle team which will represent Michigan at the national shoot to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, in August.

Meads made a score of 466 at the shoot held at Port Huron last week. It was at this shoot that the men making the best scores were selected for the state team. Private MacDuff of the local corps also made a good showing and it was expected he, too, would be among the chosen ones.

At a recent meeting of the Calumet school board a sanitary inspector was appointed to look after the minor troubles of the children attending the public schools. Miss Nina Luttrell, R. N., a graduate of the Maryland general hospital of Baltimore, received the appointment. The board may also appoint a medical examiner whose duty would be to treat the more serious cases. These departures are purely experimental, but such a system is in force in many of the larger cities and has given entire satisfaction.

BLOWN UP BY DYNAMITE

Threshing Machine of Non-Association Man is Destroyed.

Hopkinsville, Ky., July 18.—A threshing machine owned by John Fields, a non-association farmer, was destroyed today on the farm of Dr. Wood at Oakgrove by dynamite that was concealed in the wheat. Two laborers were injured. Fields had been warned to join the association before attempting to thresh his wheat. Twenty-five masked men took Nathan Hester, aged 50 years, a Trigg county farmer, from his home at midnight and at the point of a shotgun mercilessly flogged him with a rawhide. Before releasing him he was brutally kicked and mistreated. His wife, who has heart disease, fainted when she saw him dragged away and is in a nervous condition.

Hester was a former member of the farmers' association and deserted several months ago. He had not heeded the warnings to raise no more tobacco and wheat.

GREAT DAMAGE BY CLOUDBURST

Destruction in West Virginia Will Reach Over $1,000,000.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 18.—More than a million dollars damage resulted from cloudbursts, storms and floods last night at Newburg and along the Cheat river valley in Preston county and this vicinity. Houses were washed away, the main line of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is out of commission and telegraph and telephone wires are all down.

At Kingwood three miles of railroad tracks were washed away.

The United Brethren church at Evansville was overturned and swept down stream.

Coleman Morris was killed by lightning during the storm.

Heavy rain at Weston early today caused the highest water along Polk creek and the West Fork river, into which it empties near the town, since the flood of 1898 and considerable damage has resulted.

The insane asylum grounds are partially submerged and some stores and residences are under water.

Monessen, Pa., July 18.—A sudden rise in the Mongahela river during the night wrecked the new bridge between here and Charlerol. All the false work was swept away. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

READY FOR ARGUMENTS

Opening in Haywood Case Will be Made on Friday.

Defense Rests Without Calling Witness in Sur-rebuttal.

Boise, July 18.—The defense rested in the Haywood trial immediately after court opened this morning. The jury was not brought into court.

The defense rested without calling a single witness in sur-rebuttal. Judge Wood announced that the opening argument for the state to the jury would be made tomorrow morning by Attorney James H. Hawley.

While the jury was in retirement, the consideration of instructions to be given the twelve men, who have the life of the defendant in their hands, was taken up. Judge Wood heard the views of opposing counsel, as to the materiality of the evidence showing deportations and the employment of detectives by the mine owners and citizens of Colorado.

Senator Borah said the state would not oppose the striking out of that part of Harry Orchard's testimony which dealt with his talk to Steve Adams and Pettibone as to Adams going into Northern Idaho and "getting rid of some claim jumpers." Judge Wood called attention to this testimony yesterday and said that he did not believe it has been connected in any way with the defendant.

"We objected to that testimony when it was offered," declared Mr. Darrow, for the defense, "and we do not think that striking it out now will right any wrong that was done by it. We will not ask it to be stricken out."

"But you will not object to the court instructing the jury with reference to it?" asked Judge Wood.

"No sir, we can't do that," replied Darrow, "and while I do not at this time criticise the court for the latitude it allowed the state in this case, there seems to be no disposition to limit its testimony in any particular as to some great, general conspiracy by the Lord only knows whom."

Clarence Darrow was the first to speak today. Beginning with the Coeur d'Alene trouble of 1899, Mr. Darrow called the court's attention once more to the fact that William D. Haywood at that time had nothing to do with the general organization of the Western Federation, but was an obscure member of a local union in Silver City, many hundreds of miles from the scene of the disorders.

As to the employment of detectives Mr. Darrow declared that most or practically all of the testimony was secured by Pinkertons and it would be impossible to disassociate them and their methods from the issue. Taking up Orchard's crimes as confessed by him, Mr. Darrow said the defendant at bar was compelled in refutation of a charge of having murdered Frank Steunenberg, to meet all sorts and conditions of allegations.

The state was allowed through Orchard, to bring in something about an alleged attempt to wreck a train and, of course, this defendant was held up as the guilty party. Was it immaterial for us to show that the attempt was made by detectives in the employ of the railway and the mines' association? "I think not."

As to the Bradley explosion, claimed by Orchard, Darrow said it was entirely competent to produce testimony that the explosion was caused by gas.

It was also the proper course, he said, to show that the Vindicator mine incident might have been an accident rather than the result of design.

FOR GENERAL ARBITRATION

Choate Makes Important Statement on Proposed Treaty.

The Hague, July 18.—At a committee meeting today Joseph H. Choate, one of the American plenipotentiaries, made an important statement of the reasons that had induced the American government to propose a general treaty of arbitration.

He said that the dangers and mischief threatening the world from constant preparation for war and the accumulation of arms have been somewhat mitigated by the excellent work of the first peace conference in recommending arbitration to the nations as a substitute for war, and the stablishment at The Hague of a permanent court.

"Since that time great events have occurred and two terrible wars, which inflicted untold miseries upon many, have led to international agreements of arbitration, separately and in pairs. There is no reason why nations that agree by each other or two by two should not agree all together to exactly the same thing.

Continuing, Mr. Choate referred to the excellent work done by the pan-American conferences at Mexico City and Rio de Janeiro. It was under these circumstances, he said, that the United States proposed general arbitration corresponding in form and substance to the many individual treaties which have been entered into, including those negotiated by the United States in 1904, but reserving the right of the senate to participate in any special agreement which might become necessary for carrying the treaty into effect in particular cases.

Mr. Choate's remarks were interrupted often by the applause of his hearers, and when he was through he was congratulated warmly by many of the delegates.

STRUCK BY A CAR.

Two Calumet Men Are Injured in a Street Collision.

Calumet, Mich., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—While Dolphis Cardinal and John Paquette were driving to Lake Linden, their carriage was struck by a street car at the Florida curve in this city. Cardinal received several bad wounds. One of the small bones in his ankle was crushed and the bones of the foot and limb badly twisted. Paquette was severely cut about the head and face. The men driving tried to cross the tracks in front of a moving car when the carriage was struck. The buggy was badly damaged. No blame is attached to the motorman. Dr. McQueen attended the wounds of the unfortunate men.

The man with an unused writing machine and the man with an unused talking machine may live across the street from each other—and yet need to have a Herald want ad. Introduce them and bring about a trade.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Life is a long drawn out tragedy, but it is drawn out so long that people do not sit down and wail for an hour or two, and as a result there are plenty of folks still going about their work thinking that life is not such a terrible calamity after all. To appreciate the tragedies that everywhere exist they have to be compact and labeled, the essence of tragedy as it is found in some fine play or other and then if all the heroes and heroines are piled up dead at the end of the fifth act, the audiitors brilliantly realize that this is tragedy before them. The everyday events of almost anybody's life differ only in degree, not in kind, and for that reason, mercifully, most people do not realize, but that they are living a happy comedy.

With which preamble, it may be said that to women, who, on paper only, bears most of the tragedies of life, gingham dresses are among the worst and saddest, and they are no less awful because they are so seldom appreciated as such.

From the time that she goes from store to store asking to see the gingham which she cannot get, through the tedious process of changing the ideas of the dressmaker, who has got into the season habit of making nothing but jumpers, until the first laundering of the garment, there is nothing but trouble. This, however, is the mere prelude to the deep disasters which follow. With fear, and trembling and devoutly praying, the victim gets into the thing, which, if this were a fashion article, would be called a frock. It has shrunk in length and drawn together in the width. The band that should circle one's waist has risen three inches into the small of the back, the neck has to be closed two inches below the band, that useful adjunct refusing birthday to come within two inches of meeting. After the waist has been adjusted in a kind of a way, one essays to put on the skirt. A side of the skirt band is clutched firmly in either hand, a long breath is taken, a very long and deep breath, the upper teeth bite firmly on the lower lip, one foot is raised from the ground to give whatever assistance it may—and the skirt is hooked. The breath is exhaled in true physical culture fashion and—pop—the hook comes off.

"Oh, splash," says the annoyed heroine of this tragedy.

Later, however, with the assistance of that truly wonderful thing, a safety pin, the matter is adjusted and the glass is tipped to give a view of the skirt.

It has shrunk, and beneath its abbreviated fullness a two-inch embroidery ruffle of a petticoat that has not shrunk is visible all the way around.

With elaborate calmness and an ominous gleam in her eye the heroine takes off the skirt and the waist and puts on a dressing sacque, that looks just as the name sounds, pulls down the window shade and takes a bottle of smelling salts and goes to bed.

"Why, what in the world is the matter," inquires a member of the family, stopping on the threshold of the darkened room, where the odor of the salts assails one on entering. From the depths of a deep pillow a muffled voice, quivering with the pathos of heart-wringing tragedy, says with a pathetic break in her voice, "my new dress has shrunk."

"Oh!" says the comprehending intruder in a deeply understanding tone. "Poor dear! Excuse me," and she softly closes her door on one of summer's most exercisting and keenest sorrows. And tragedy in its quintessence revels by itself, in shadowy gloom and unstarched array.

WHAT RETAIL MARKETS OFFER

Egg plant, 20 cents each.
Red currants, 18 cents a box.
Red raspberries, 18 cents a box.
Strawberries, 15 cents a box.
Watermelons, 15 cents each.
Pork tenderloin, 30 cents a pound.
Fresh fish.

Western raspberries, round, rich, and perfect, are the most delicious things in the market, without any doubt. The fruit is not exactly cheap, and cannot, like June, be had by the poorest comer, but if you can get the necessary cash for a box of berries, and then obtain some real cream, you have a dessert that is worth the price.

The first of the red currants are in the market and the egg plants are especially fine and delicious.

The watermelons are gradually getting cheaper and the cantaloupes are receiving their due measure of devoted attention.

THE EVENING STORY.

A Vacation Romance

By Cornelia Redmond.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

It was four years ago that I spent that memorable month in Martville in the Green mountains, a place recommended to me by a friend, where I could obtain absolute rest and quiet.

I am a lawyer by profession and it was after working hard on an important suit that I decided to take a much needed rest.

It was while reading in a shady spot under a white spreading oak that I first met Miss Lee, as she called herself. She was dressed in a pink cotton gown, such as is often worn by farmers' daughters, but the rest of her attire seemed to contradict one's first impression. Her face was completely concealed by a thick gray veil, which was so arranged that not even a stray lock of hair was visible. She had come to the same place to spend a few quiet hours over a novel. Here we spent many a pleasant afternoon, but try as I would I could learn little of my mysterious acquaintance. She always appeared in a pink cotton gown and closely veiled as when I had first seen her. Before long I discovered that it was more than a feeling of friendship that I harbored for her, and notwithstanding the fact that I had never seen her face, and her seemingly distant ways, I had about fully made up my mind to declare my passion to Miss Lee and ask her to marry me. Then one day at the end of my vacation was drawing near she suddenly disappeared. As I approached the familiar oak tree I saw something white fluttering on its trunk, and drawing near I discovered it was a note pinned to the bark. It simply said she was going away and wanted to thank me for all the kindness I had shown her and that pleasure she had experienced from an visits. There was no signature or date. The next few days dragged slowly and then I found myself again in the midst of the noise and bustle of the city.

Town life and its businesslike surroundings had brought me to a somewhat more practical frame of mind, but still through the long summer days that followed I often longed again for the shady spot by the brook, the sound of that gentle voice and the sight of that familiar pink gown.

Early in January my married sister informed me that she was going to give a ball, and that I would be expected to render myself useful as well as ornamental on the occasion.

On the evening of the festivity I put in an appearance at an early hour, and for half of the evening at least, the most exciting hostess could have found no reason to complain of me. I talked to the bores, danced with the wallflowers and fed the dowagers.

I was bringing a third supply of lobster salad to one of the latter when I met my sister, who stopped me and said:

"I want you when you have disposed of that plate, Jack. There is a charming girl in the far corner whom you must meet."

I conveyed the salad safely to its destination and then gave my arm to my sister, who led me off in the direction that she had indicated.

Upon a little sofa near the door leading into the greenhouse sat a slender, fair-haired girl all in white.

"Miss Warren, I want to present my brother, Mr. Field," said my sister, and then she turned to speak to some one, and I sat down beside the girl in white.

For a moment I closed my eyes and seemed to be back again at Hartville, but my dream came to an end as she stopped speaking.

"Where did you spend last summer?" I asked almost involuntarily, and with a degree of eagerness which I hardly appreciated at the time.

"At my aunt's place on the Hudson," was the reply. "And you?"

"I spent a month among the mountains of Vermont," I said with a sigh of disappointment.

I asked her to dance, presently, and would have liked to monopolize her company for the rest of the evening, but I soon found that her numerous partners had no intention of allowing me to do anything of the sort. I had another little talk with her, however, just as she was going, and succeeded in getting her aunt, who was chaperoning her, to invite me to call.

After the last guest had departed, although it was nearly three a. m., I stopped to ask my sister to tell me something about Miss Warren.

"She is the only child of Livingston Warren," she said in reply to my question. "Her mother died when she was quite a child, and all her life long she has been her father's companion until last spring, when he suddenly took it into his head to marry again. His second wife was a widow, and it seems to be the general opinion that she married him for his money. Of course it was a bitter blow to Helen, who had always felt that her father belonged to her alone. Mr. Warren and his wife went abroad shortly after their marriage, and have not yet returned. Helen is living with her aunt, Mrs. Gordon, and I believe has been with her all the summer. She is a sweet girl—but do not let us talk any more tonight, or rather this morning. Goodby, Jack, and thanks for your valuable assistance."

I said "goodby," and went home to my bachelor quarters to dream of Hartville and a slender figure dressed in pink cotton.

I called at Mrs. Gordon's in a few days, when I had the pleasure of seeing both the lady and her niece, and a week later I was asked to dine with them. I accepted the invitation and called afterward not once, but many times, and so the months went by, and one bright spring day I found myself wondering whether it were possible for a man to be in love with two women at once. I began to appreciate that I was possessed by a feeling of restlessness when away from Helen Warren, and yet I found it impossible to banish from my heart the tenderness which I felt for Miss Lee.

One evening, early in June, I called at Mrs. Gordon's and found Helen sitting alone in the twilight.

"Uncle and aunt are dining out," she explained when we had exchanged the usual greetings.

I did not say that I was sorry; I was particularly glad, and before half an hour had gone by I had mustered up courage and asked the woman I loved to marry me.

She gave me a hesitating little "yes," and then I kissed her to prevent her taking it back again.

"Jack," said Helen, suddenly, when we had talked over the future that we were to spend together, "were you ever in love with anyone else?"

I had made up my mind that there should be no secrets between us, so holding her hand in mine and looking into her laughing eyes I confessed the little episode of the previous summer.

"And you quite sure that there was never anybody else?" she asked, when my story had come to an end.

"Quite," I answered honestly.

"I think we might have lights now," she said, rising and going toward the door, through which she disappeared.

A servant came in presently and lighted the gas, and then I fell to dreaming and wondering why Helen did not come back.

The sound of a step on the carpet caused me to look up, and there advancing toward me I saw—not Helen but Miss Lee in her sailor hat, her gray veil and pink cotton gown.

I felt for a moment that I must be dreaming, but a merry laugh which sounded very real fell upon my ear, and the next moment the veil was lifted and Helen's blue eyes were looking into mine and she was saying:

"I am so glad that there is no one but Miss Lee for me to be jealous of."

"You see I have a horribly jealous disposition," she began in answer to my request for an explanation, "and after papa married again I was wretchedly unhappy, and hated my stepmother with a hatred that was only equaled by her detestation of me. When she and my father returned home after their marriage I tried very hard to be agreeable to her, but she asserted her authority over me in such a disagreeable way that one day I lost control of my temper and we had a dreadful scene. Papa heard all about it when he came home that evening and the end of it was that I was told the following day to have my things packed, as I was going away for the summer. I had expected to go abroad with my father, as we had done so many summers before, and was therefore a little surprised when he told me that I was going to pass the summer at a farmhouse in Vermont.

"My stepmother's maid traveled with me to Hartville, and saw me settled with the Bennets, a miserly old farmer and his wife. The latter I soon discovered, was a sort of connection of my stepmother's.

"During the first week of my stay at Hartville life seemed almost unbearable, and after that I began to roam about the fields and woods and to find a certain amount of companionship in the birds and trees. I soon found my dresses, which were trimmed with lace and ribbons, very inconvenient for this sort of life, and so I purchased some pink cotton material at the village store and made myself a couple of plain ones. I had never done very much sewing before, but I was glad of the occupation, and with Mrs. Bennett's assistance was able in a short time to complete two quite presentable looking garments.

"The day upon which I first saw you I had put on this thick veil as a protection against the mosquitoes, which always swarmed about a certain mashy place when I sometimes went for wild flowers. Almost as soon as you got up and came toward me I recognized your face. Although we had never met I had often seen you in town during the previous winter, and thinking it quite probable that we might meet some day, and not caring to appear to you in the light of a naughty child who was being punished for its misdeeds, I kept my face concealed at our subsequent interviews.

"When I told you that my name was Lee I did not tell an untruth, for it is my middle name. I suppose it was very wrong of me to have made a practice of meeting you in that secluded part of the country as I did, but the temptation was too strong, and (I don't wish to flatter you), but there was a certain attraction in your society, as I had nobody else to speak to but Mr. and Mrs. Bennet and the maid of all work.

"My aunt had been abroad for some months, but I knew that she was expected home in July. I wrote her telling her of my whereabouts, and was not surprised when she appeared at Hartville one evening and told me to be prepared to go home with her the next day. A little while before we left I stole down to the oak tree (and a good two mile walk it was) and pinned the note where I knew you would see it. Now you know all."

"Not quite all." I answered, as she finished. "Tell me, Helen, do you think that you cared anything about me in those days?"

She gave an embarrassed little laugh, and a bright blush came to her cheek.

"It is mean to you to question me so," she answered, "but to tell the truth, I was only half glad to go away with auntie when she came; but let me go, Jack. I hear the carriage, and they must not see me in this costume."

MEADS IS CHOSEN.

Calumet Man to Represent Michigan at National Shooting Contest.

Calumet, Mich., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jesse Meads, a member of the Calumet engineering corps, has been chosen a member of the state rifle team which will represent Michigan at the national shoot to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, in August.

Meads made a score of 466 at the shoot held at Port Huron last week. It was at this shoot that the men making the best scores were selected for the state team. Private MacDuff of the local corps also made a good showing and it was expected he, too, would be among the chosen ones.

At a recent meeting of the Calumet school board a sanitary inspector was appointed to look after the minor troubles of the children attending the public schools. Miss Nina Luttrell, R. N., a graduate of the Maryland general hospital of Baltimore received the appointment. The board may also appoint a medical examiner whose duty would be to treat the more serious cases. These departures are purely experimental, but such a system is in force in many of the larger cities and has given entire satisfaction.

BLOWN UP BY DYNAMITE

Threshing Machine of Non-Association Man is Destroyed.

Hopkinsville, Ky., July 18.—A threshing machine owned by John Fields, a non-association farmer, was destroyed today on the farm of Dr. Wood at Oakgrove by dynamite that was concealed in the wheat. Two laborers were injured. Fields had been warned to join the association before attempting to thresh his wheat. Twenty-five masked men took Nathan Hester, aged 50 years, a Trigg county farmer, from his home at midnight and at the point of a shotgun mercilessly flogged him with a rawhide. Before releasing him he was brutally kicked and mistreated. His wife, who has heart disease, fainted when she saw him dragged away and is in a nervous condition.

Hester was a former member of the farmers' association and deserted several months ago. He had not heeded the warnings to raise no more tobacco and wheat.

GREAT DAMAGE BY CLOUDBURST

Destruction in West Virginia Will Reach Over $1,000,000.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 18.—More than a million dollars damage resulted from cloudbursts, storms and floods last night at Newburg and along the Cheat river valley in Preston county and this vicinity. Houses were washed away, the main line of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is out of commission and telegraph and telephone wires are all down.

At Kingwood three miles of railroad tracks were washed away.

The United Brethren church at Evansville was overturned and swept down stream.

Coleman Morris was killed by lightning during the storm.

Heavy rain at Weston early today caused the highest water along Polk creek and the West Fork river, into which it empties near the town, since the flood of 1898 and considerable damage has resulted.

The insane asylum grounds are partially submerged and some stores and residences are under water.

READY FOR ARGUMENTS

Opening in Haywood Case Will be Made on Friday.

Defense Rests Without Calling Witness in Sur-rebuttal.

Boise, July 18.—The defense rested in the Haywood trial immediately after court opened this morning. The jury was not brought into court.

The defense rested without calling a single witness in sur-rebuttal. Judge Wood announced that the opening argument for the state to the jury would be made tomorrow morning by Attorney James H. Hawley.

While the jury was in retirement, the consideration of instructions to be given the twelve men, who have the life of the defendant in their hands, was taken up. Judge Wood heard the views of opposing counsel, as to the materiality of the evidence showing deportations and the employment of detectives by the mine owners and citizens of Colorado.

Senator Borah said the state would not oppose the striking out of that part of Harry Orchard's testimony which dealt with his talk to Steve Adams and Pettibone as to Adams going into Northern Idaho and "getting rid of some claim jumpers." Judge Wood called attention to this testimony yesterday and said that he did not believe it has been connected in any way with the defendant.

"We objected to that testimony when it was offered," declared Mr. Darrow, for the defense, "and we do not think that striking it out now will right any wrong that was done by it. We will not ask it to be stricken out."

"But you will not object to the court instructing the jury with reference to it?" asked Judge Wood.

"No sir, we can't do that," replied Darrow, "and while I do not at this time criticise the court for the latitude it allowed the state in this case, there seems to be no disposition to limit its testimony in any particular as to some great, general conspiracy by the Lord only knows whom."

Clarence Darrow was the first to speak today. Beginning with the Coeur d'Alene trouble of 1899, Mr. Darrow called the court's attention once more to the fact that William D. Haywood at that time had nothing to do with the general organization of the Western Federation, but was an obscure member of a local union in Silver City, many hundreds of miles from the scene of the disorders.

As to the employment of detectives Mr. Darrow declared that most or practically all of the testimony was secured by Pinkertons and it would be impossible to disassociate them and their methods from the issue. Taking up Orchard's crimes as confessed by him, Mr. Darrow said the defendant at bar was compelled in refutation of a charge of having murdered Frank Steunenberg, to meet all sorts and conditions of allegations.

The state was allowed through Orchard, to bring in something about an alleged attempt to wreck a train and, of course, this defendant was held up as the guilty party. Was it immaterial for us to show that the attempt was made by detectives in the employ of the railway and the mines' association? "I think not."

As to the Bradley explosion, claimed by Orchard, Darrow said it was entirely competent to produce testimony that the explosion was caused by gas.

It was also the proper course, he said, to show that the Vindicator mine incident might have been an accident rather than the result of design.

FOR GENERAL ARBITRATION

Choate Makes Important Statement on Proposed Treaty.

The Hague, July 18.—At a committee meeting today Joseph H. Choate, one of the American plenipotentiaries, made an important statement of the reasons that had induced the American government to propose a general treaty of arbitration.

He said that the dangers and mischief threatening the world from constant preparation for war and the accumulation of arms have been somewhat mitigated by the excellent work of the first peace conference in recommending arbitration to the nations as a substitute for war, and the stablishment at The Hague of a permanent court.

"Since that time great events have occurred and two terrible wars, which inflicted untold miseries upon many, have led to international agreements of arbitration, separately and in pairs. There is no reason why nations that agree by each other or two by two should not agree all together to exactly the same thing.

Continuing, Mr. Choate referred to the excellent work done by the pan-American conferences at Mexico City and Rio de Janeiro. It was under these circumstances, he said, that the United States proposed general arbitration corresponding in form and substance to the many individual treaties which have been entered into, including those negotiated by the United States in 1904, but reserving the right of the senate to participate in any special agreement which might become necessary for carrying the treaty into effect in particular cases.

Mr. Choate's remarks were interrupted often by the applause of his hearers, and when he was through he was congratulated warmly by many of the delegates.

STRUCK BY A CAR.

Two Calumet Men Are Injured in a Street Collision.

Calumet, Mich., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—While Dolphis Cardinal and John Paquette were driving to Lake Linden, their carriage was struck by a street car at the Florida curve in this city. Cardinal received several bad wounds. One of the small bones in its ankle was crushed and the bones of the foot and limb badly twisted. Paquette was severely cut about the head and face. The men driving tried to cross the tracks in front of a moving car when the carriage was struck. The buggy was badly damaged. No blame is attached to the motorman. Dr. McQueen attended the wounds of the unfortunate men.

The man with an unused writing machine and the man with an unused talking machine may live across the street from each other—and yet need to have a Herald want ad. introduce them and bring about a trade.

IRON MARKET IS LIFELESS

Practically All Pressure for Immediate Delivery Has Disappeared.

New York, July 18.—The Iron Age says: Rarely have reports from all parts of the country agreed so thoroughly concerning the condition of the pig iron market. They are lifeless. Practically all pressure for immediate delivery has disappeared and the complaint is even cropping up among melters that some furnaces are crowding shipments on them. Some foreign pig iron is still straggling in, but prices must be made pretty low to move it.

With many branches of the finished iron and steel trades practically pegged the manufacturers who purchase their supplies of pig iron in the open market aver their inability to pay present asking prices and they insist that pig iron must come down.

The steel works and mills are still very well provided with work, but new tonnage is not and could not be well expected to come in freely at this season of the year. The result is that in some lines in which there has been bitter complaint over deliveries for many months, the mills are beginning to catch up.

At some of the independent tin plate mills some of the tin labor has gone out, but the matter is of little consequence. A more troublesome matter may be the action of the dock men at the Lake Superior ore shipping ports, some of which have gone out in defiance of contracts and most of whom threaten to follow before the end of the week.

The copper market has weakened again. Electrolytic copper has sold in moderate quantities on the basis of 21 cents and it has also been offered at lower figures.

TENER CHOSEN HEAD OF ELKS

Official Returns of Grand Lodge Elections Made Public.

Philadelphia, July 18.—The complete and official returns of election in the grand lodge of Elks were announced yesterday as follows: Grand exalted ruler, John K. Tener of Charlevoi, Pa.; grand treasurer, Edward Leach, New York grand esteemed loyal knight, W. T. Teckie, Downgiac, Mich.; grand esteemed lecturing knight, B. Raymond Grey, Frankfort, Ind.; grand esteemed leading knight, John D. Shea, Hartford, Conn.; grand secretary, Fred C. Robinson, Iowa; grand trustees, Thomas B. Mills, Superior, Wis.; Thomas F. McNulty, Baltimore, and Mayor Charles C. Schmidt of Wheeling, W. Va.; grand tyler, James Feley, and grand inner guard, A. M. Tayor.

During the session of the grand lodge it was decided to establish a flag day for Elks on June 14. A resolution was adopted calling for the appointment o fa committe to devise ways and means to punish outside users of the Elks' emblem. A subsequent resolution calls for the appointment of a commission to confer with congress to find means to prevent the use of the emblem.

The Memphis lodge was authorizing the negro Elks of that city. In this connection a resolution was passed reprimanding the Newark, N. J., lodge for electing a man, said to be a negro. A further mensure instructs the grand ruler to order the Newark lodge to investigate the man's antecedents, and if it be found that he is of negro extraction to expunge his name from the rolls.

NEW PLATFORM FOR DEMOCRATS

Outlined by Bourke Cockran at Tammany Hall Meeting.

New York, July 18.—More than 2,000 persons who went to Tammany hall expecting to see Boss Murphy wipe Mayor McClellan and his followers off the map saw no gore. It was a most peaceful sort of a program that had been prepared.

Bourke Cockran sprang a resolution outlining a new platform for the Democratic party. It contained two ideas which he described "as entirely novel and wholly original."

Speaking by authority of Boss Murphy, Mr. Cockran declared that the thought of the boss and his associates were fixed on higher things than a personal political fight in Tammany hall. Inferentially he extended an invitation to Mayor McClellan to come in and help in the noble work inaugurated by the new platform.

These are the two reforms contained in the Cockran platform:

First—To make the president of the United States a member of the board of directors of every corporation exercising a franchise and engaged in Interstate commerce; to make the government of every state a member of the directorate of every franchise-holding corporation doing business in his state and to make the mayor a member of the board of every franchise-holding corporation in the city. Also to give the employes of each franchise-holding corporation a representative on the board of directors.

Second—To provide for speedily clearing up the dockets of all the courts by increasing the number of appellate divisions and by appointing lawyers to sit as special commissioners to cases so that the calendar may be cleared every thirty days.

The Doctor Away from Home When Most Needed.

People are often very much disappointed to find that their family physician is away from home when they most need his services. Diseases like cramp colic and cholera morbus require prompt treatment, and have in many instances proven fatal before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. The right way is to keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. No physician can prescribe a better medicine for these diseases. By having it in the house you escape much pain and suffering and risk. Buy it now; it may save life. For sale by all druggists.

CHARGES OF VIOLENCE.

Made Against Prominent Labor Leaders in New York.

Binghamton, N. Y., July 18.—Developments of a sensational nature, followed by arrests of national import in labor circles, are momentarily expected to follow the disclosures made by John Bennis, who was before the grand jury yesterday.

During the street car strike, which has been in progress for five months here, there have been several dynamite explosions, injuring cars. A force of Pinkerton detectives employed by the city and the street railway was unable to locate the dynamiters until last Saturday night, when Lewis Eastman and John Bennis were arrested in front of labor headquarters.

It was claimed they had dynamite bombs in their possession. Both were union strikers.

Bennis yesterday turned state's evidence and revelations rivaling to a certain degree the Haywood developments, according to current report, were made. In addition to this, a confession by two strikers, supported by affidavits, tells of dynamite outrages under the supervision of the "inner circle," and the story now being considered by the jury, it is declared, has features somewhat similar to that of Orchard's.

Two prominent labor leaders, one of state prominence and the other of national reputation, are, it is alleged, charged with planning the crimes. It is said their arrest will follow as soon as the grand jury reports.

ORDINANCE STRINGENT

Claimed That Craggencroft Could Not be Used as Hospital.

Commercial Club Committee Favors Fourteenth Avenue West Site.

Was all the agitation over the Craggencroft school-city hospital project in vain? So it is claimed by those who have looked up the building ordinance in regard to hospital buildings.

The ordinance says:

"In all buildings of Division B of the first grade, containing rooms in which the occupants thereof are forcibly detained or restrained either as invalids, imbeciles, perverts or prisoners, such rooms or parts of buildings shall be entirely of the first, second and third classes."

Buildings of Division B of the first grade include hospitals, jails, asylums, etc., and the first, second and third classes call for fireproof construction throughout, only the finishing woodwork being permitted to be of other than fireproof material.

In order to live up to these provisions, it is claimed, the old Craggencroft school would have to be practically rebuilt, as it was erected before the days of thorough fireproofing, and no effort was made to render it immune to the ravages of the flames. The floor supports are of wood, and the entire second story is a frame structure.

In the face of this it is considered highly probable that the advocates of the purchase of the school will be more willing to abandon the project. To pay $30,000 for the property and then rebuild it as thoroughly as would be necessary in order to make it accord with the requirements of the ordinance as to fireproofing, would make a final expense almost as great as a new structure which could be started near the center of the city and in a more convenient location.

The committee appointed by T. W. Hugo, chairman of the public affairs committee, to investigate the feasibility of a city hospital for Duluth, met at the Commercial club last evening and discussed the situation. The members present expressed themselves as favoring a portion of the park property between Fourteenth and Seventeenth avenues west and First and Third streets as a location for the hospital, and decided that the Craggencroft building at Hunter's Park was not suitable to use for hospital purposes.

The committee, consisting of Chairman George Rupley, Henry Nolte, John Jenswold, T. J. Upham, J. J. Moe, John McAlpine and Dr. Bowden, visited the proposed location this morning, the better to acquaint themselves with its advantages. There are several reasons why these men favor the Fourteenth avenue site as a good location. It is claimed that the plot of ground, owing to its location, cannot be used for park purposes. It is believed that as a hospital site no objections will be offered to it by any one. It is understood that members of the park board will not be opposed to using the park for hospital purposes.

ASSAULT BY WHITE

On Young Colored Woman Arouses Indignation---He Escapes.

An assault upon Marie Johnson, a young colored woman, by some white man, which occured at Lake avenue and Superior street about 12 o'clock last night, aroused considerable indignation among the crowd, who witnessed it. The woman was accompanied by a colored man, and he promptly told the white man to mind his own business. The ruffian who accosted the girl then hit her a stinging blow across the face with his hand, the force of the blow drawing blood. The colored man promptly grabbed the assailant by the collar and was marching him toward the police station, but at First avenue east he jerked away and escaped into the darkness.

A search for him proved fruitless.

Its supremacy has been acknowledged by many prominent physicians, and a fair trial will convince you that the above is true. When the tongue is coated, appetite poor, nerves unstrung or sleep restless, it is a splendid time to test its curative powers. Try it without any further delay. It also cures heartburn, flatulency, sour risings, headache, cramps, diarrhoea, dyspepsia, indigestion, costiveness or malarial fever.

LEGISLATOR HERE.

Hon. Thomas Brady, Democratic Live Wire, in the City.

Hon. Thomas J. Brady, a St. Paul member of the last house of representatives in the Minnesota legislature, is spending a few days in Duluth. Mr. Brady, who is one of the wheelhorses of Democratic politics in St. Paul, was a live wire in the legislature as well, and one of the accomplishments on which he prided himself was the passage through the overwhelmingly Republican house of his bill increasing the salary of the governor. Mr. Brady, though a Democratic member, was not stuck up about it during the session, and trained with the Duluth members faithfully in their campaigns, so that they have many reasons to be grateful to him for his friendship and counsel.

BOY OF FIVE

Plunges In Bay to Save Mother and Dies on Birthday.

New York, July 18.—The birthday party of 5-year-old Sidney Jacobson came to a sad end when he was drowned trying to save his mother from death in Pelham bay.

Mrs. Jacobson and Mrs. Igangold were celebrating on the shores of Pelham bay. In the afternoon Mrs. Jacobson and Mrs. Igangold hired a rowboat to take Sidney for a ride.

Mrs. Igangold and Mrs. Jacobson were changing seats when Mrs. Jacobson fell overboard. Her skirts keeping her afloat, she drifted away from the rowboat screaming for help.

"I will save you, mamma," cried little Sidney, and before Mrs. Igangold could interfere the lad sprang overboard. The boy could not swim and quickly sank.

At the time of the accident, Tobin alleges that he was connecting the steam shovel used in the open pit mine to the main hose, running the branch hose under the rails. In some manner the hose became entangled under the rail, and it was necessary for Tobin to stoop to untangle. He declares that before doing this he looked up the track, but saw no train. A few seconds later he heard one of his companions shout to him to get off the track, and looking behind he saw the rear of an ore train.

It was too late for him to get out of the way, however, and the car struck him, knocked him down on the track and one wheel ran over his leg above the knee. The leg was afterwards amputated.

It is alleged in the complaint that the accident was due to carelessness on the part of the company, in that the engineer failed to ring the bell or blow the whistle. Tobin feels that he is entitled to all the damages asked for.

The Republic company is represented in the case by Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell, and Tobin's case is conducted by S. A. Anderson and Whipple & Green.

BIG DAMAGE SUIT BEGINS

William J. Tobin Wants $25,000 for Loss of Leg.

Another personal injury case was commenced yesterday afternoon in the United States circuit court, the action being that of William J. Tobin against the Republic Iron & Steel company and Jerry Crimins. The sum of $25,000 is asked for injuries alleged to have been received while the plaintiff was employed by the company at the Kinney mine, near Buhl, on last Jan. 31.

It is stated in the complaint that from May, 1906, to the following November he was working for the Republic company as foreman of the section crew and that from November to the date of injury he had charge of the repair work about the cranes, steam shovels, and oiling of the cars.

The two women were rescued by members of the Pelham Bay life saving station. Sidney's body was recovered two hours later.

WHOOPING COUGH FETE A SUCCESS

Stricken Kids Entertained, With Prizes for Best Whoopers.

Pittsburg, July 18.—"Mrs. W. H. Parker of Grand View avenue, Duquesne Heights, tendered a whooping lawn fete last evening at her home in honor of her son Georgie, who is suffering from the disease. Over a score of his little friends attended, all of whom are similarly afflicted."

No, gentle reader, this is not a paragraph from an almanac, nor an advertisement for soothing syrup. It was a bona-fide society note, sent to a newspaper here for publication. Pittsburg is suffering from an epidemic of whooping cough and every child on Duquesne Heights has the disease, and many of the papas and mamas of the children have it, too.

The youngsters got tired remaining in the house, and as the physicians declare that outdoor exercise is the best thing in the world for the whooping cough, Mrs. Parker decided on the novel lawn fete. It was a whooping success. Everyone whooped, some until they were red in the face.

Just to add zest to the affair, Mrs. Parker offered prizes to the boy or girl who whooped the longest and loudest and a booby prize for the one who only wheezed.

When the lunch was served there was a frightful amount of barking. Instead of a condiment, Mrs. Parker served a mild mixture of creosote, which is what every kid on Duquesne Heights has to take about every five minutes to keep from whooping his head off. It was only by the liberal use of the mixture that some of the youngsters could eat at all.

The affair was such a big success that several of the women who attended are arranging to give return entertainments.

THE MACCABEES ELECT OFFICERS

Buckbee, Elkland, Pa.; supreme sergeant, George W. Miller, Chicago; supreme master at arms, C. K. Haw, Kansas City, Kan.; supreme first master of the guard, C. C. Showalter, Parkersburg, W. Va.; supreme second master of the guard, George W. Sulman, Chatham, Ont.; supreme sentinel, C. C. Ward, Augusta, Me.; supreme picket, Robert A. Nelson, Minneapolis; supreme board of trustees, J. B. Daniel, Buffalo, N. Y.; L. E. Sizler, Port Huron; S. W. Trusler, Camlachie, Ont.; W. E. Blaney, Pittsburg, Pa.; R. B. Anderson, St. Louis, Mo.; J. F. Downer, Chicago.

The committee on new business recommended to the convention the establishment of a home for indigent members, and widows and orphans of Maccabees, and the collection of a 25-cent per capita tax in December of each year for the maintenance of the home.

The committee also recommended the organization of a junior Maccabee society to which it was proposed to admit boys ranging in ages from 14 to 18 years and that the representation of the membership in the supreme tent be increased from 75 to 150.

BALLOONIST SAVES LIFE BY PUNCTURING GAS BAG.

New York, July 18.—Members of an employes' benefit association, who engaged Balloonist W. A. Meeker to make an ascension and parachute drop at a Harlem river picnic last evening, got more than their money's worth. Meeker not only went up 2,000 feet, but when his parachute attachment failed to work, he jabbed holes in the hot air bag and made a descent that startled the spectators. Missing a ducking by good luck, the balloonist made a steadying jump and landed himself on the Willis avenue bridge practically unharmed.

EXCITEMENT ON ORE DOCKS

Workman Falls Into Ore Pocket—Cries Cause Riot Rumor.

Special Officer Oliver Tortleson, who has been employed patroling the ore docks since the strike began, met with an accident last night which resulted in the fracture of several of his ribs and caused considerable excitement about the docks. While patroling his beat Torleson fell into one of the ore pockets in the dock.

Finding himself unable to extricate himself he began loudly calling for help. His cried were heard by the other patrolmen and thinking that an attack by the strikers was the cause of the shouts a hurried rush was made to the scene by all the men employed on the docks.

The injured man was extricated from the pocket and an ambulance called. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where an examination showed several broken ribs, but no internal nor dangerous injuries. He was still suffering considerably this morning, but was not in a dangerous condition.

MUNICIPAL OPERATION

Of Public Utilities in Great Britain is Reviewed.

Committee is Divided in Opinion as to Its Success.

New York, July 18.—Municipal operation of public utilities in Great Britain, as observed by a committee of experts sent abroad last year by the National Civic Federation, is treated at length in a series of reviews by members of the committee, which were made public today. These reviews of the experts' reports, written by Milo R. Maltbie, Walton Clark, vice president of the United Gas Improvement company of Philadelphia, and Charles L. Edgar, president of the Edison Electric & Illuminating company of Boston, are divided in opinion as to the success of the undertakings as a whole. Mr. Maltbie, whose review is made from the viewpoint of an advocate of municipalization, is one of the members of the newly created public utilities commission for the Greater New York. This body has the widest powers and the greatest responsibilities of any commission to which the regulation of corporations has been entrusted up to this time, in the United States. Mr. Maltbie says that municipal operation of public utilities in Great Britain has passed the experimental stage. He declares that of the plants examined in Great Britain, those operated by municipalities, in almost every instance, gave a superior service at a lower cost, as compared with the privately owned companies. This condition he finds to be due to the higher rate of interest and profit and the greater amount of liabilities of the private companies. By far the most interesting part of Mr. Maltbie's conclusion, however, is that actual ownership and operation is not necessary for the success of the municipal ownership idea. He says that the power to operate, if necessary or desirable, in many instances, has been as effective as actual operation—that the mere fact that a city has the power to step in and operate an undertaking itself often makes the exercise of this power unnecessary. "It has been found in Great Britain that no system of control or regulation is complete without the power in the hands of the municipalities to purchase and operate," says Mr. Maltbie. "If one company may be succeeded only by another or only hedged about by restrictions, there come times when action, not repression, is wanted, and then no remedy is adequate unless it be the power of the city to step in and operate the undertaking itself. But the mere fact that it has the power often makes its exercise unnecessary, and what the Britisher desires is not the universal adoption of some method of producing results, but the results themselves.

"In the following analysis of the results of public and private management it should be borne in mind that such a comparison is not a comparison of municipal with private operation subject to no restraining force, but with private operation under systems of regulation which are claimed to be the best which have yet been devised in Great Britain and with private management that has been chastened and bettered by the fear of public condemnation, the restraints of government regulation and the possibility of municipalization. Thus the low price at which gas is supplied by the Sheffield company is largely the result of the avowed determination of the men in control to head off municipalization. If municipal operation had not been a possible alternative looming above the horizon, it is likely that even now the consumers would be paying very much higher rates; and the present low rates so far as they are due to the desire to prevent municipal operation should be counted as one of its indirect results."

The reasons that have led to British municipalization, Mr. Maltbie finds, are many. First among them, although not the most general nor the most important, is the desire to secure for the public the financial profits of the undertakings. Second, there is the desire to keep the city from being mulcted by a private company and third, the general demand for better service and lower rates. He mentions also, a fourth cause, which has played a prominent part in the United States, and which is not unknown in Great Britain, namely, opposition of privately operated public utilities companies to the welfare of the city. A fifth factor has been the belief that municipal operation would permit the co-ordination of public services in a way that is not possible where different services are operated by private companies.

Quite a different view of the subject is taken by Messrs. Edgar and Clark. They favor some form of regulation of private companies rather than the adoption of the municipal ownership idea. Basing their opinions upon the same reports of experts from which Mr. Maltbie draws his favorable conclusions, the other reviewers appear to depart from the latter in that municipal ownership is productive of many and serious ills with little or no compensating good. They hold that the solution of present difficulties in this land, not in municipal ownership and operation of the public utilities, but in the election of municipal officers who will protect the governed against injustice on the part of individuals or corporations.

ARE EARLY IN THE FIELD

Prohibition Organizers Will Build Up a Political Machine.

Effort Will be Made to Elect "Lid" Legislature.

Minnesota Prohibitionists are planning to elect a "lid" legislature next year.

N. B. Eldredge, representing the state Prohibition committee, whose headquarters are in Minneapolis, has arrived in Duluth to join Ellis Lininger, also representing the committee who has been in the city for the past ten days, and these two men have outlined the plan of campaign to be adopted by the Prohibition party next year.

The state will be organized thoroughly and an active "Prohibition machine" will be in charge of the campaign.

The whole state will be divided into districts. Each congressional district will be in charge of a Prohibition leader, making nine leaders for the state. Under each congressional district leader there will be ten subleaders, each of whom will be in charge of a certain subdistrict.

In this way an active Prohibition campaign will be carried on and the leaders of the society think that there will be a good chance of the success of the plan. The Prohibition workers will go among the people themselves and urge them to put up good strong Prohibition candidates and afterwards support them to the finish.

Mr. Eldredge and Mr. Lininger are in the city for the purpose of making the preliminary plans for the organization of the "machine." Leaders for this congressional district will probably be selected at this time or at least the available men for such work will be looked over at this time.

Next Sunday there will be several Prohibition services at two or three of the Duluth churches and Messrs. Lininger and Eldredge will deliver several addresses. The announcements for the services will be made later in the week.

Governor of Hawaii Says There is No Feeling Against Them.

Seattle, Wash., July 18.—Governor George R. Carter of Hawaii last night summed up race conditions in the islands by saying:

"There is no anti-Japanese feeling in Hawaii. Twenty-nve per cent of the children in the territorial schools are Japanese, studying side by side with the whites, and there has never been even an intimation of a demonstration. I regard the Japanese as desirable."

Governor Carter stated that he will retire from office on Aug. 15. Oscar Strauss, secretary of the department of commerce and labor, who has been in Seattle for several days, will go to Hawaii on the same steamer as the governor.

TRAIN HELD UP BY MOSQUITOES

Passengers Are Stalled for Two Hours by the Pests.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 18.—A swarm of mosquitoes, millions in number, literally stalled a Minneapolis & St. Louis train at Badgeley Tuesday night. For two hours the heavily-loaded train was tied up by its fight with the pests, and the 120 passengers were almost crazed before they escaped.

The attack was made early in the evening, just as No. 2, southbound passenger, started to pull out of Badgley. Because of the hot weather the windows in the passenger coaches had been left open, and the mosquitoes, driven from the marshes by the rain, swarmed through the windows, attacking the passengers by the thousands. For a while the passengers attempted to fight the pests with handkerchiefs and hands, but as they increased in number and ferocity the conductor was appealed to and stopped the train. For two hours the train was stalled while the passengers driven from the coaches, built fires along the right of way, making a dense smudge, which afforded them a little relief. The smudge was then carried into the coaches and the mosquitoes finally driven out. Many of the passengers had hands and faces almost eaten raw by the attacks.

SHOULD NOT TAKE CHANCES

Duluth People Should Not Neglect to Vote Saturday.

"Duluth people can't afford to take any chances of losing J. L. Washburn from the school board," said an East end man this morning. "When you get a man of Mr. Washburn's ability and public spirit to run for such an office, the least the people can do is to turn out and vote for him to make sure of his election. He hasn't but a very few enemies, but the danger is that his friends will think that his election is certain and will neglect to vote on Saturday."

HAU MAKES ADMISSIONS

Concerning Incidents He Had Refused to Discuss Before.

Witness Says He Showed Early Signs of Amatory Aberrations.

Karlsruhe, Germany, July 18.—The trial of Karl Hau, formerly professor of Roman law in George Washington university, Washington, D. C., on the charge of having murdered his mother-in-law, Frau Molitor, in Baden Baden, on Nov. 6 of last year, was resumed here this morning.

Hau appeared in the court room looking as cheerful and as confident as yesterday. He surprised the court by making important admissions concerning incidents of which he had hitherto refused to speak. When the presiding judge called hand writing experts to identify Hau's writing in the dispatch sent from Paris calling Frau Molitor to that city, Hau, anticipating the testimony, arose from his seat and said that in order to expedite the case he would admit that he wrote this dispatch. The judge inquired whether or not he had sent it off, but this Hau declined to answer. He also refused to say whether his wife was aware that this message had been sent.

Phillip Uhlig, a merchant of Frankfort-on-the-Main, testified he saw a man on Nov. 6 in the Frankfort railroad station, wearing a false beard and mustache. The judge here asked Hau to put on similar disguises and Uhlig then recognized him as the same man.

Anna Lerch, who left Washington with Mr and Mrs. Hau in the capacity of a maid servant, testified that when Hau left London to return to the continent he cautioned his wife to keep his London address secret. The wife asked if she might write to her mother and Hau replied, "of course."

C. A. Bratter, a newspaper man of Constantinople, testified that while Hau was in the Turkish capital he played the role of a man of wealth. He spent money lavisaly, chartered a yacht, organized revels at a hotel with dancing girls, and boasted of his wild life as a student. He claimed to have an immense income and showed a passion for collecting precious stones.

Frau Mueller, a sister of Hau's stepmother, testified that she accompanied Hau, Sr., to London. Upon hearing of the arrest of Hau she had an interview with him in prison. She found him much altered and in a state of great mental excitement. He gave her the impression of a crazy man, holding his arms rigidly to his sides and then touching his forhead in a singular manner. She said to him:

"Are you guilty, Karl?"

To this the prisoner answered: "No, I did not do it."

Hau boarded with Frau Mueller while attending the classical preparatory school at Treves. She said he was a good boy and a model student, but that he commenced to show signs of amatory aberrations as soon as he left the school. Referring to Hau's elopement with Lina Molitor, the witness said the couple went to Switzerland, where they were visited by Mr Hau, Sr. They soon after ran out of funds and were in despair. She was informed, the witness continued, that the couple intended to commit suicide and that Hau had shot at Lina, but missed. Lina then requested Hau to shoot a second time, but the man's courage failed him. They then planned to end their lives by poisoning, but this project also was abandoned. Upon hearing of his son's trouble, Mr. Hau, Sr., decided that the couple must marry, go to America and start life anew. He undertook to assist them financially.

SHOT SEVEN AND THEN IS KILLED

Wild Man From Northern Minnesota Causes Reign of Terror.

Chicago, July 18.—After having lived in the historic cave of the car barn bandits, among the sand dunes of Indiana, foraged like a beast for food and dressed in naught save a union suit and two cartridge belts, the wild man who shot seven persons in two days and created a reign of terror in the vicinity of Gary, Pine Station and Hammond, Ind., was driven to bay and shot to death in a swamp Tuesday night.

Posses of more than 100 citizens and policemen, many of them using automobiles, tracked the wild man. Before they succeeded in surrounding their quarry he had fatally wounded two of their number and bullets from his gun had lodged in the bodies of five more.

But for the bravery of George Hanlon, the crack shot of the Hammond police force, more lives might have paid toll to the blood lust of the wild man. For Hanlon, after three Gary policemen had been laid low, swam alone into the swamp, a rifle beneath his shirt, on his back, stalked the wild man from a knoll in the center of the swamp and put a bullet through his head.

The injured:

Frank Chambers, captain of Gary police, shot in abdomen, will die.

Frank Mortin, chief of Gary police, shot in breast, will die.

Joseph Martin, Gary policeman, shot in forehead.

Henry Anderson, section hand, shot in shoulder.

William McKay, East Chicago, shot in the leg.

Edward Jenkins, shot in arm.

Edward Williams, hand shot off.

When the body of the wild man was taken to Hammond by the police it was identified as that of Julius Polinski, 22 years old, who had been employed as a section hand on the Michigan Central railroad up to Thursday. He had come from Northern Minnesota and left the camp of the railroad Friday morning complaining of being ill. It is said that Polinski refused to accept the services of a physician, but insisted that he could cure himself. Overdoses of medicines are believed to have made Polinski lose his reason.

A Beautiful Face

The Secret of Parisian Women's Beautiful Complexions

To the minds of most women, Parisian means beauty—so world-famous are the ladies of Paris for making themselves charming and beautiful. And yet it is a fact that Parisiennes, so far as features are concerned, haven't beautiful faces, as a rule. Their beauty consists largely of immoculate complexions. An American lady, visiting a friend in Paris, obtained from her the secret of the clear, charming complexions of French women and says it is a wash that is prepared at home and applied to the face daily.

Obtain at your drug store Rose Water, 2 ounces; Cologne Spirits, 1 ounce; Eppotone (skin food), 4 ounces. Put the Eppotone in a pint of hot water (not boiling), and after dissolved, strain and let cool. Then add the Rose Water and Cologne Spirits.

The above wash is easily and quickly prepared at home, and is a most delightful toilet preparation, harmless even to a baby's face, and soothing to tender skins.

FAMOUS WESTERN BANDITS.

W. A. Pinkerton Recalls Exploits of Train Robbers Who Terrorized West.

More than two-thirds of the famous train robbers who have figured in the criminal history of the United States since the Civil war have either been killed outright, lynched or "died with their boots on."

Of the remaining third, many died of wounds or were captured, imprisoned or driven into exile in lands beyond the sea, says the Chicago Tribune.

So declared William A. Pinkerton of Chicago recently in an address to the annual convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Mr. Pinkerton's address was a complete epitome of the history of train robbing in the United States from the close of the Civil war down to the present time. In this history the Pinkertons, father and son, were personally associated. Taken together, their work covered a period of half a century of almost constant battle with the most desperate bands of robbers known to this or any other country.

In his address Mr. Pinkerton said, by way of introduction:

"It is somewhat remarkable and peculiar that many of these criminals were brothers, or members of one family. Of these I recall the Reno brothers, John, Frank, Sim and Bill; the Reitenhouse brothers, the Miles brothers, James K. and Joe, all of Indiana; the Farrington brothers, Levy and Hilary, of West Tennessee; the James brothers, Frank and Jesse; the Younger brothers, Cole, Jim, John and Bob; the Logan brothers, Harry and Louny; the Collins brothers, part of the Sam Bass gang, Joel, William and Albert; the McDaniels brothers, part of the Jesse James gang, Bud and William, of Missouri. The state of Missouri, strangely enough, produced more train robbers than any other state in the Union. These bands for many years retarded progress in Western Missouri. The Dalton brothers, Bill, Bob, Emmet and Gratton, of Kansas; the Burrows brothers, Rube and Jim, of Alabama; the Sontag brothers, John and George, of Minnesota; the Gates brothers of California, the Jones brothers, the McCarthy brothers, Tom and Bill, of Colorado; the Cook brothers, Bill and Jim, of Arkansas, who were part of the Dalton gang, and the Carver and Kilpatrick brothers, of Texas.

"The 'hold-up' robber originated among the bad men in the gold mining camps, unsuccessful as a prospector, too lazy to work, and with enough bravado and criminal instinct to commit these crimes. He first successfully robbed prospectors and miners of gold nuggets and dust, on foot to stage stations, becoming bolder, looting stages, and eventually after the railroads were built held up railway trains and robbed express cars.

"During the Civil war there were a number of 'dare-devils' from the Southwest engaged in guerrilla warfare who were the pride of the states which sent them to the front, and as a result of their ambuscades, raids and lawless acts during the war, were received as warriors when they returned home.

"This can especially be said of the James boys, the Youngers, the Renos, the Farringtons and the bands who operated immediately after the war. During the war they experienced a reckless life which they longed to pursue, eventually engaging in these crimes. The over-drawn newspaper accounts of the exploits of the Renos, Jameses, Youngers and others of their class were responsible for many of their imitators."

Mr. Pinkerton then took up his reminiscences of the various bands of train robbers, beginning with the depredations in Indiana shortly after the close of the Civil war. It was in Indiana that the Reno brothers operated. They made their headquarters at Seymour and headed a large gang of desperate men. They committed robbery after robbery, principally on the old Jeffersonville & Indianapolis railroad, now a part of the Pennsylvania system. They terrorized the whole part of Southern Indiana.

Eventually Allan Pinkerton ran the Reno gang to earth. In the winter of 1867-68 John Reno robbed the county treasurer of Gallatin, Mo., of $20,000 and returned to Seymour. Allan Pinkerton and six Missouri deputies seized Reno at the railway station at Seymour and, putting their prisoner on board a through train, got him beyond the reach of a writ of habeas corpus and landed him in jail at Gallatin. He served twenty years in prison.

Frank Reno and three others were captured by W. A. Pinkerton in Council Bluffs after they had robbed the county treasurer at Glenwood, Iowa, of $20,000. They escaped from jail and went to Canada, where they were arrested and brought back to New Albany, Ind. A vigilance committee entered the jail and hanged Frank, Sim and William Reno and a fourth member of the gang.

Mr. Pinkerton then took up in detail the history of the gang of which Frank and Jessie James were the leaders, and which terrorized Western Missouri for so many years. He says:

"Among the Kentuckians who settled in Clay county, Mo., before the war, were Dr. and Mrs. Samuels and their sons, Frank and Jesse James, who were sons by a previous marriage, who, when the war broke out, joined the Quantrill band, carrying on a guerilla warfare. After the war the James boys, under the leadership of Bill Anderson, with some other members of Quantrill's organization, began prowling through West and Southwest Missouri and Eastern Kansas, looking for what spoils they could get.

"From that time until April 3, 1882, on which date Bob Ford, for a reward of $10,000, offered by Governor Crittendon for Jesse James, dead or alive, killed him in his home at St. Joseph, Mo., and until Oct. 5, 1882, when Frank James surrendered to Governor Crittendon in Jefferson City, Mo., these outlaws, operating with Cole, Jim, John and Bob Younger, Clell and Sam Miller, Charley Pitts, the Tompkins brothers, Jim Cummings, Dick Liddell, Bob Anderson and other members of Quantrill's band, committed a series of the most despicable crimes of that period in Missouri, Kentucky and Minnesota, holding up with force and arms banks in the daytime, robbing trains at night, murdering respectable citizens who attempted to resist them, and killing officers who attempted to arrest them.

"The published tales of their deeds of daring were ridiculously overdrawn and misleading, and contained many glaring misstatements."

The first robbery undertaken by the James and Younger brothers is thus described by Mr. Pinkerton:

"June 3, 1871, the James and Younger brothers on a raiding expedition visited Corydon, Wayne county, Iowa, having learned the taxes were collected about this time, and intended to rob the county treasurer, whose office Jesse James entered, requesting that a $100 bill be changed, and the clerk informed him that the county treasurer, who held the combination of the locked safe, was attending a public meeting on the outskirts of the town, where a proposition to build a new schoolhouse was being discussed.

"Just as James was leaving the building the clerk told him that he might get the bill changed at the new bank across the square, which had been opened that day and had one-half of its capital on deposit. Hearing this James consulted with his associates, and the robbery of the new bank was agreed upon. When James offered the $100 bill the cashier opened the safe to change it, but, facing the new customer, found himself looking into the muzzles of two revolvers.

"Other members of the band had meanwhile entered the bank, all forcing the president and cashier into a back room, emptied the contents of the safe, about $15,000 into a saddle bag, and just as they were leaving the bank, they met a new depositor, a negro preacher, with a handful of money, and ordered him to drop his money in the saddle bag, which he did.

"The robbers then mounted their horses and in fleeing from the town passed the public meeting where the new schoolhouse proposition was being discussed, began firing their revolvers and rifles in the air, informing the committee that the Corydon bank had just been robbed and that they had better get back in town and start a new bank quick."

The first train robbery by the James and Younger brothers was on July 20, 1873, when they robbed a Rock Island train fifteen miles out of Council Bluffs, and murdered the engineer. In January, 1874, they robbed an Iron Mountain train of $10,000. It was after this robbery that the James brothers captured Detective Joseph Witcher of Chicago, and murdered him while he was bound hand and foot. A few days later Detective Louis Lull, former police captain of Chicago, killed John Younger, while attempting to arrest him. Lull himself died of his wounds.

Mr. Pinkerton gives in detail the attempt to rob the Bank of Northfield, Minn., which reslulted in the killing of three members of the James gang, the capture of Cole, Bob and Jim Younger, and their subsequent imprisonment in the Minnesota state penitentiary.

Not the least interesting part of Mr. Pinkerton's reminiscences was his description of "Black Bart," the famous "lone bandit" of California. He says:

"From 1877 to 1883 stages in the mountains of California were held up by a lone highwayman, always wearing a jute mealbag on the lower part of his legs, an old linen duster, his head and face covered with a white flour sack, through which gleamed bright black eyes, with a conical circus clown hat. He was always polite to the passengers, and especially to the ladies, never robbing them but always requesting the stage driver to throw out the box and mail bags. Then the lone robber, at the point of a rifle, would order the stage driver to pass on. Altogether this lone highwayman committed twenty-three robberies.

"'Black Bart,' was also known as Charles E. Benton and Charles E. Bowles. He had lived at an unpretentious boardinghouse in San Francisco, where he informed the landlady and his acquaintances that he was a mining man, which accounted for his occasional absence. He was originally from Decatur, Ill., near which place he worked on farms. He enlisted in Company B, One Hundred and Sixtieth Illinois regiment, serving three years in the Civil war, and was known in his regiment as 'Wrestling Charlie.'

"After his capture he pleaded guilty to one of the robberies, but strenuously denied that he was the former stage robber, and declared to the court that it was only an urgent necessity that drove him to commit this crime, as a result of which, on Nov. 17, 1883, he was sentenced to six years in prison at San Quentin, Cal. Since his release he has been seen more or less in honest occupations on the Pacific coast.

"During 'Black Bart's' career as a robber he never took the life of or injured a human being. He was a remarkably good story teller."

The story of the exploits of the famous Bill Dalton gang was vividly told by Mr. Pinkerton. Eight members of the gang were killed while resisting arrest. The others were captured.

Of the "Black Jack McDonald gang" every member was killed.

One of the sensational train robberies of more recent date was thus described by Mr. Pinkerton:

"Edward Estelle, alias Conn Eddy; George Gordon, alias Brooklyn Blacky; William Browning, alias Browney; Thomas Clark, alias P. A. Butch, and Johnny Bull, all yeggmen, on Aug. 5, 1902, held up a train of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad near Marcus, Ill., stealing $3,000 therefrom, after subduing the engineer, fireman and conductor, and shooting up and down the railroad track to intimidate the passengers.

"George Gordon, alias Brooklyn Blacky, approaching from the front of the locomotive was mistaken for a railroad man and shot in the thigh by Estelle, who, when he discovered he had wounded a member of the gang, endeavored to have Gorden flee with him, but the latter said that he was too badly wounded, whereupon Estelle blew Gordon's brains out, uttering an oath and telling him that he would not be left to squeal on anybody. Estelle, who was an escaped life convict from the Leavenworth Kan., penitentiary, wanted to burn Gordon's body in the fire box of an engine, but Clark would not consent to this."

Another recent tragedy in the train robbing line also touched Chicago closely. Mr. Pinkerton's story of it follows:

"A gang of yeggmen held up a through train of the Illinois Central railroad near Harvey, Ill., on the night of July 4, 1904. The express car was not attacked, but at the point of revolvers the passengers were compelled to deliver to the robbers their money and valuables. These holdups were traced to a St. Louis lodging house by St. Louis and Kansas City police detectives, and as he was leaving the house one of the men suspected of having committed the crime was arrested by the St. Louis detective. When others entered the house and attempted to arrest William Bruce Morris and Albert Rosenauer a fierce battle ensued, both suspects were killed, but not before they killed Detective John J. Shea and Special Officers T. F. Dwyer and James A. McClusky. Morris in an ante-mortem statement confessed to the Illinois Central holdup, also to the attempted holdup of a Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific train near Leets, Iowa, July 29, 1904. It is indeed regrettable that these brave officers lost their lives battling with this cowardly gang of desperadoes."

One of the most daring train robberies recounted by Mr. Pinkerton was the following:

"September 30, 1891, Oliver Curtis Perry boarded a New York Central railroad train near Utica while the train was in motion, cut his way into an American Express company car, and, covering the messenger with a revolver, stole $5,000 and some jewelry therefrom, cut the air brakes, which reduced the speed of the train, and made his escape.

"Feb. 24, 1892, Perry again boarded an express train near Syracuse, N. Y., concealing himself on the roof of the express car until the train was in motion, when, by a hook and rope fastened to the roof of the car while the train was moving at 50 miles an hour, he lowered himself to a window and, covering the messenger with a revolver, ordered him to throw up his hands. The messenger attempted to pull the bell cord, but Perry shot him in the hand, the messenger returned the fire with several shots. Just as the last shot was fired by Perry the train pulled into Lyons. He attempted to escape by driving the fireman and engineer from a locomotive which stood on a siding, which he boarded, and started to escape in it full speed, but was followed by railroad employes in another locomotive, who subsequently overtook him and after considerable shooting caused his arrest.

"After his return to Matteawan asylum Perry punched his eyes out with a saddler's needle, and is now a blind, raving maniac."

Mr. Pinkerton believes that train robbery as a criminal profession has practically been wiped out.

MUNICIPAL OPERATION

Of Public Utilities in Great Britain is Reviewed.

Committee is Divided in Opinion as to Its Success.

New York, July 18.—Municipal operation of public utilities in Great Britain, as observed by a committee of experts sent abroad last year by the National Civic Federation, is treated at length in a series of reviews by members of the committee, which were made public today. These reviews of the experts' reports, written by Milo R. Maltbie, Walton Clark, vice president of the United Gas Improvement company of Philadelphia, and Charles L. Edgar, president of the Edison Electric & Illuminating company of Boston, are divided in opinion as to the success of the undertakings as a whole. Mr. Maltbie, whose review is made from the viewpoint of an advocate of municipalization, is one of the members of the newly created public utilities commission for the Greater New York. This body has the widest powers and the greatest responsibilities of any commission to which the legislature of any of the states has been entrusted, up to this time, in the United States. Mr. Maltbie says that municipal operation of public utilities in Great Britain has passed the experimental stage. He declares that of those examined in Great Britain, those operated by municipalities, in almost every instance, gave a superior service at a lower cost, as compared with the privately owned companies. This result he finds to be due to the higher rate of interest and profit and the greater amount of liabilities of the private companies. By far the most interesting part of Mr. Maltbie's conclusion, however, is that actual ownership and operation is not necessary for the success of the municipal ownership idea. He says that the power to operate, if necessary or desirable, in many instances, has been as effective as actual operation and that the fact that a city has the power to step in and operate an undertaking itself often makes the exercise of this power unnecessary. "It has been found in Great Britain that no system of control or regulation is complete without the power in the hands of the municipalities for purchase and operation," says Mr Maltbie. "If one company may be succeeded only by another or only hedged about by restrictions, there come times when action, not repression, is wanted, and then no remedy is adequate unless it be the power of the city to step in and operate the undertaking itself. But the mere fact that it has the power often makes its exercise unnecessary, and what the Britishers desires is not the universal adoption of some method of producing results, but the results themselves.

"In the following analysis of the results of public and private management it should be borne in mind that such a comparison is not a comparison of municipal with private operation subject to no restraining force, but with private operation under systems of regulation which are claimed to be the best watch have yet been devised in Great Britain and with private management that has been chastened and bettered by the fear of public condemnation, by the restraint of government regulation and the possibility of municipalization. Thus the low price at which gas is supplied by the Sheffield company is largely the result of the avowed determination of the men in control to head off municipalization. If municipal operation had not been a possible alternative nothing above the horizon, it is likely that even now the consumers would be paying very much higher rates; and the present low rates so far as they are due to the desire to prevent municipal operation should be counted as one of its indirect results."

The reasons that have led to British municipalization, Mr. Maltbie finds, are many. First among them, although not the most general nor the most important, is the desire to secure for the public the financial profits of the undertakings. Second, there is the desire to keep the city from being mulcted by a private company and third, the general demand for better service at lower rates. He mentions also, a fourth cause, which has played a prominent part in the United States, and which is not unknown in Great Britain, namely, opposition of privately operated public utilities companies to the welfare of the city. A fifth factor has been the belief that municipal operation would permit the coordination of public services in a way that is not possible where different services are operated by private companies.

Quite a different view of the subject is taken by Messrs. Edgar and Clark. They favor some form of regulation of private companies rather than the adoption of the municipal ownership idea. Basing their opinions upon the same reports of experts from which Mr. Maltbie draws his conclusions, the other reviewers declare it to be plainly proven that municipal ownership is productive of many and serious ills with little or no compensating good. They hold that the solution of present difficulties is to be found, not in municipal ownership and operation of the public utilities, but in the election of municipal officers who will protect the governed against injustice on the part of individuals or corporations.

ARE EARLY IN THE FIELD

Prohibition Organizers Will Build Up a Political Machine.

Effort Will be Made to Elect "Lid" Legislature.

Minnesota Prohibitionists are planning to elect a "lid" legislature next year.

N. B. Eldredge, representing the state Prohibition committee, whose headquarters are in Minneapolis, has arrived in Duluth to join Ellis Lininger, also representing the committee who has been in the city for the past ten days, and these two men have outlined the plan of campaign to be adopted by the Prohibition party next year.

The state will be organized thoroughly and an active "Prohibition machine" will be in charge of the campaign.

The whole state will be divided into districts. Each congressional district will be in charge of a Prohibition leader, making nine leaders for the state. Under each congressional district leader there will be ten subleaders, each of whom will be in charge of a certain subdistrict.

In this way an active Prohibition campaign will be carried on and the leaders of the society think that there will be a good chance of the success of the plan. The Prohibition workers will go among the people themselves and urge them to put up good strong Prohibition candidates and afterwards support them to the finish.

Mr. Eldredge and Mr. Lininger are in the city for the purpose of making the preliminary plans for the organization of the "machine." Leaders for this congressional district will probably be selected at this time or at least the available men for such work will be looked over at this time.

Next Sunday there will be several Prohibition services at two or three of the Duluth churches and Messrs. Lininger and Eldredge will deliver several addresses. The announcements for the services will be made later in the week.

Governor of Hawaii Says There is No Feeling Against Them.

Seattle, Wash., July 18.—Governor George R. Carter of Hawaii last night summed up race conditions in the islands by saying:

"There is no anti-Japanese feeling in Hawaii. Twenty-nve per cent of the children in the territorial schools are Japanese, studying side by side with the whites, and there has never been even an intimation of a demonstration. I regard the Japanese as desirable."

Governor Carter stated that he will retire from office on Aug. 15. Oscar Strauss, secretary of the department of commerce and labor, who has been in Seattle for several days, will go to Hawaii on the same steamer as the governor.

TRAIN HELD UP BY MOSQUITOES

Passengers Are Stalled for Two Hours by the Pests.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 18.—A swarm of mosquitoes, millions in number, literally stalled a Minneapolis & St. Louis train at Badgeley Tuesday night. For two hours the heavily-loaded train was tied up by its fight with the pests, and the 120 passengers were almost crazed before they escaped.

The attack was made early in the evenning, just as No. 2, southbound passenger, started to pull out of Badgley. Because of the hot weather the windows in the passenger coaches had been left open, and the mosquitoes, driven from the marshes by the train, swarmed through the windows, attacking the passengers by the thousands. For a while the passengers attempted to fight the pests with handkerchiefs and hands, but as they increased in number and ferocity the conductor was appealed to and stopped the train. For two hours the train was stalled while the passengers driven from the coaches, built fires along the right of way, making a dense smudge, which afforded them a little relief. The smudge was then carried into the coaches and the mosquitoes finally driven out. Many of the passengers had hands and faces almost eaten raw by the attacks.

SHOULD NOT TAKE CHANCES

Duluth People Should Not Neglect to Vote Saturday.

"Duluth people can't afford to take any chances of losing J. L. Washburn from the school board," said an East end man this morning. "When you get a man of Mr. Washburn's ability and public spirit to run for such an office, the least the people can do is to turn out and vote for him to make sure of his election. He hasn't but a very few enemies, but the danger is that his friends will think that his election is certain and will neglect to vote on Saturday."

HAU MAKES ADMISSIONS

Concerning Incidents He Had Refused to Discuss Before.

Witness Says He Showed Early Signs of Amatory Aberrations.

Karlsruhe, Germany, July 18.—The trial of Karl Hau, formerly professor of Roman law in George Washington university, Washington, D. C., on the charge of having murdered his mother-in-law, Frau Molitor, in Baden Baden, on Nov. 6 of last year, was resumed here this morning.

Hau appeared in the court room looking as cheerful and as confident as yesterday. He surprised the court by making important admissions concerning incidents of which he had hitherto refused to speak. When the presiding judge called hand writing experts to identify Hau's writing in the dispatch sent from Paris calling Frau Molitor to that city, Hau, anticipating the testimony, arose from his seat and said that in order to expedite the case he would admit that he wrote this dispatch. The judge inquired whether or not he had sent it off, but this Hau declined to answer. He also refused to say whether his wife was aware that this message had been sent.

Philip Uhlig, a merchant of Frankfort-on-the-Main, testified he saw a man on Nov. 6 in the Frankfort railroad station, wearing a false beard and mustache. The judge here asked Hau to put on similar disguises and Uhlig then recognized him as the same man.

Anna Lerch, who left Washington with Mr. and Mrs. Hau in the capacity of a maid servant, testified that when Hau left London to return to the continent he cautioned his wife to keep his London address secret. The wife asked if she might write to her mother and Hau replied, "of course."

C. A. Bratter, a newspaper man of Constantinople, testified that while Hau was in the Turkish capital he played the role of a man of wealth. He spent money lavisaly, chartered a yacht, organized revels at a hotel with dancing girls, and boasted of his wild life as a student. He claimed to have an immense income and showed a passion for collecting precious stones.

Frau Mueller, a sister of Hau's stepmother, testified that she accompanied Hau, Sr., to London. Upon hearing of the arrest of Hau she had an interview with him in prison. She found him much altered and in a state of great mental excitement. He gave her the impression of a crazy man, holding his arms rigidly to his sides and then touching his forhead in a singular manner. She said to him

To this the prisoner answered: "No, I did not do it."

Hau boarded with Frau Mueller while attending the classical preparatory school at Treves. She said he was a god boy and a model student, but that he commenced to show signs of amatory aberrations as soon as he left the school. Referring to Hau's elopement with Lina Schiffer, the witness said the couple went to Switzerland, where they were visited by Mr. Hau, Sr. They soon after ran out of funds and were in despair. She testified, the witness continued, that the couple intended to committ suicide and that Hau had shot at Lina, but missed. Lina then requested Hau to shoot a second time, but the man's courage failed him. They then planned to end their lives by poisoning, but this project also was abandoned. Upon hearing of his son's trouble, Mr. Hau, Sr., decided that the couple must carry, go to America and start life anew. He undertook to assist them financially.

SHOT SEVEN AND THEN IS KILLED

Wild Man From Northern Minnesota Causes Reign of Terror.

Chicago, July 18.—After having lived in the historic cave of the car barn bandits, among the sand dunes of Indiana, foraged like a beast for food and dressed in naught save a union suit and two cartridge belts, the wild man who shot seven persons in two days and created a reign of terror in the vicinity of Gary, Pine Station and Hammond, Ind., was driven to bay and shot to death in a swamp Tuesday night.

Posses of more than 100 citizens and policemen, many of them using automobiles, tracked the wild man. Before they succeeded in surrounding their quarry he had fatally wounded two of their number and bullets from his gun had lodged in the bodies of five more.

But for the bravery of George Hanlon, the crack shot of the Hammond police force, more lives might have paid toll to the blood lust of the wild man. For Hanlon after three Gary policemen had been laid low, swam alone into the swamp, a rifle beneath his shirt, on his back, stalked the wild man from a knoll in the center of the swamp and put a bullet through his head.

The injured:

Frank Chambers, captain of Gary police, shot in abdomen, will die.

Frank Mortin, chief of Gary police, shot in breast, will die.

Joseph Martin, Gary policeman, shot in forehead.

Henry Anderson, section hand, shot in shoulder.

William McKay, East Chicago, shot in tae leg.

Edward Jenkins, shot in arm.

Edward Williams, hand shot off.

When the body of the wild man was taken to Hammond by the police it was identified as that of Julius Polinski, 22 years old, who had been employed as a section hand on the Michigan Central railroad up to Thursday. He had come from Northern Minnesota and left the camp of the railroad Friday morning complaining of being ill. It is said that Polinski refused to accept the services of a physician, but insisted that he could cure himself. Overdoses of medicines are believed to have made Polinski lose his reason.

A Beautiful Face

The Secret of Parisian Women's Beautiful Complexions

To the minds of most women, Parisian means beauty—so world-famous are the ladies of Paris for making themselves charming and beautiful. And yet it is a fact that Parisiennes, so far as features are concerned, haven't beautiful faces, as a rule. Their beauty consists largely of immaculate complexions. An American lady, visiting a friend in Paris, obtained from her the secret of the clear, charming complexions of French women and says it is a wash that is prepared at home and applied to the face daily.

Obtain at your drug store Rose Water, 2 ounces; Cologne Spirits, 1 ounce; Eppotone (skin food), 4 ounces. Put the Eppotone in a pint of hot water (not boiling), and after dissolved, strain and let cool. Then add the Rose Water and Cologne Spirits.

The above wash is easily and quickly prepared at home, and is a most delightful toilet preparation, harmless even to a baby's face, and soothing to tender skins.

FAMOUS WESTERN BANDITS.

W. A. Pinkerton Recalls Exploits of Train Robbers Who Terrorized West.

More than two-thirds of the famous train robbers who have figured in the criminal history of the United States since the Civil war have either been killed outright, lynched or "died with their boots on."

Of the remaining third, many died of wounds or were captured, imprisoned or driven into exile in lands beyond the sea, says the Chicago Tribune.

So declared William A. Pinkerton of Chicago recently in an address to the annual convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Mr. Pinkerton's address was a complete epitome of the history of train robbing in the United States from the close of the Civil war down to the present time. In this history the Pinkertons, father and son, were personally associated, their work covered a period of half a century of almost constant battle with the most desperate bands of robbers known to this or any other country.

In his address Mr. Pinkerton said, by way of introduction:

"It is somewhat remarkable and peculiar that many of these criminals were brothers, or members of one family. Of these I recall the Reno brothers, John, Frank, Sim and Bill; the Reltenhouse brothers, the Miles brothers, James K. and Joe, all of Indiana; the Farrington brothers, Levy and Hilary, of West Tennessee; the James brothers, Frank and Jesse; the Younger brothers, Cole, Jim, John and Bob; the Logan brothers, Harvey and Louny; the Collins brothers, part of the Sam Bass gang, Joel, William and Albert; the McDaniels brothers, part of the Jesse James gang, Bud and William, of Missouri. The state of Missouri, strangely enough, produced more train robbers than any other state in the Union. These bands for many years retarded progress in Western Missouri. The Dalton brothers, Bill, Bob, Emmet and Gratton, of Kansas; the Burrows brothers, Rube and Jim, of Alabama; the Suntag brothers, John and George, of Minnesota; the Gates brothers of California, the Jones brothers, the McCarthy brothers, Tom and Bill, of Colorado; the Cook brothers, Bill and Jim, of Arkansas, who were part of the Dalton gang, and the Carver and Kilpatrick brothers, of Texas.

"The 'hold-up' robber originated among the bad men in the gold mining camps, unsuccessful as a prospector, too lazy to work, and with enough bravado and criminal instinct to commit these crimes. He first successfully robbed prospectors and miners of gold nuggets and dust, on foot to stage stations, becoming bolder, looting stages, and eventually after the railroads were built held up railway trains and robbed express cars.

"During the Civil war there were a number of 'dare-devils' from the Southwest engaged in guerrilla warfare who were the pride of the states which sent them to the front, and as a result of their ambuscades, raids and lawless acts during the war, were received as warriors when they returned home.

"This can especially be said of the James boys, the Youngers, the Renos, the Rerringtons and the bands who operated immediately after the war. During the war they experienced a reckless life which they longed to pursue, eventually engaging in these crimes. The over-drawn newspaper accounts of the exploits of the Renos, Jameses, Youngers and others of their class were responsible for many of their imitators."

Mr. Pinkerton then took up his reminiscences of the various bands of train robbers, beginning with the depredations in Indiana shortly after the close of the Civil war. It was in Indiana that the Reno brothers operated. They made their headquarters at Seymour and headed a large gang of desperate men. They committed robbery after robbery, principally on the old Jeffersonville & Indianapolis railroad, now a part of the Pennsylvania system. They terrorized the whole part of Southern Indiana.

Eventually Allan Pinkerton ran the Reno gang to earth. In the winter of 1867-68 John Reno robbed the county treasurer of Gallatin, Mo., of $20,000 and returned to Seymour. Allan Pinkerton and six Missouri deputies seized Reno at the railway station at Seymour and, putting their prisoner on board a through train, got him beyond the reach of a writ of habeas corpus and landed him in jail at Gallatin. He served twenty years in prison.

Frank Reno and three others were captured by W. A. Pinkerton in Council Bluffs after they had robbed the county treasurer at Glenwood, Iowa, of $20,000. They escaped from jail and went to Canada, where they were arrested and brought back to New Albany, Ind. A vigilance committee entered the jail and hanged Frank, Sim and William Reno and a fourth member of the gang.

Mr. Pinkerton then took up in detail the history of the gang of which Frank and Jessie James were the leaders, and which terrorized western Missouri for so many years. He says:

"Among the Kentuckians who settled in Clay county, Mo., before the war, were Dr. and Mrs. Samuels and their sons, Frank and Jesse James, who were sons by a previous marriage, who, when the war broke out, joined the Quantrill band, carrying on a guerilla warfare. After the war the James boys, under the leadership of Bill Anderson, with some other members of Quantrill's organization, began prowling through West and Southwest Missouri and Eastern Kansas, looking for what spoils they could get.

"From that time until April 3, 1882, on which date Bob Ford, for a reward of $10,000, offered by Governor Crittendon for Jesse James, dead or alive, killed him in his home at St. Joseph, Mo., and until Oct. 5, 1882, when Frank James surrendered to Governor Crittendon in Jefferson City, Mo., these outlaws, operating with Cole, Jim, John and Bob Younger, Clell and John Miller, Charles Pitts, the Tompkins brothers, Jim Cummings, Dick Liddell, Bob Anderson and other members of Quantrill's band, committed a series of the most despicable crimes of that period in Missouri, Kentucky and Minnesota, holding up with force and arms banks in the daytime, robbing trains at night, murdering respectable citizens who attempted to resist them, and killing officers who attempted to arrest them.

"The published tales of their deeds of daring were ridiculously overdrawn and misleading, and contained many glaring misstatements."

The first robbery undertaken by the James and Younger brothers is thus described by Mr. Pinkerton:

"June 3, 1871, the James and Younger brothers on a raiding expedition visited Corydon, Wayne county, Iowa, having learned the taxes were collected about this time, and intended to rob the county treasurer, whose office Jesse James entered, requesting that a $100 bill be changed, and the clerk informed him that the county treasurer, who held the combination of the locked safe, was attending a public meeting on the outskirts of the town, where a proposition to build a new schoolhouse was being discussed.

"Just as James was leaving the building the clerk told him that he might get the bill changed at the new bank across the square, which had been opened that day and had one-half of its capital on deposit. Hearing this James consulted with his associates, and the robbery of the new bank was agreed upon. When James offered the $100 bill the cashier opened the safe to change it, but, facing the new customer, found himself looking into the muzzles of two revolvers.

"Other members of the band had meanwhile entered the bank, all forcing the president and cashier into a back room, emptied the contents of the safe, about $15,000 into a saddle bag, and just as they were leaving the bank, they met a new depositor, a negro preacher, with a handful of money, and ordered him to drop his money in the saddle bag, which he did.

"The robbers then mounted their horses and in fleeing from the town passed the public meeting where the new schoolhouse proposition was being discussed, began firing their revolvers and rifles in the air, informing the committee that the Corydon bank had just been robbed and that they had better get back in town and start a new bank quick."

The first train robbery by the James and Younger brothers was on July 20, 1873, when they robbed a Rock Island train fifteen miles out of Council Bluffs, and murdered the engineer. In January, 1874, they robbed an Iron Mountain train of $30,000. It was after this robbery that the James brothers captured Detective Joseph Witcher of Chicago, and murdered him while he was bound hand and foot. A few days later Detective Louis Lull, former police captain of Chicago, killed John Younger, while attempting to arrest him. Lull himself died of his wounds.

Mr. Pinkerton gives in detail the attempt to rob the Bank of Northfield, Minn., which resluted in the killing of three members of the James gang, the capture of Cole, Bob and Jim Younger, and their subsequent imprisonment in the Minnesota state penitentiary.

Not the least interesting part of Mr. Pinkerton's reminiscences was his description of "Black Bart," the famous "lone bandit" of California. He says:

"From 1877 to 1883 stages in the mountains of California were held up by a lone highwayman, always wearing a jute mealbag on the lower part of his legs, an old linen duster, his head and face covered with a white flour sack, through which gleamed bright black eyes, with a conical circus clown hat. He was always polite to the passengers, and especially to the ladies, never robbing them but always requesting the stage driver to throw out the box and mail bags. Then the lone robber, at the point of a rifle, would order the stage driver to pass on. Altogether this lone highwayman committed twenty-three robberies.

"'Black Bart,' was also known as Charles E. Benton and Charles D. Bowles. He had lived at an unpretentious boardinghouse in San Francisco, where he informed the landlady and his acquaintances that he was a mining man, which accounted for his occasional absence. He was originally from Decatur, Ill., near which place he worked on farms. He enlisted in Company B, One Hundred and Sixtieth Illinois regiment, serving three years in the Civil war, and was known in his regiment as 'Wrestling Charlie.'

"After his capture he pleaded guilty to one of the robberies, but strenuously denied that he was the former stage robber, and declared to the court that it was only an urgent necessity that drove him to commit this crime, as a result of which, on Nov. 17, 1883, he was sentenced to six years in prison at San Quentin, Cal. Since his release he has been seen more or less in honest occupations on the Pacific coast.

"During 'Black Bart's' career as a robber he never took the life of or injured a human being. He was a remarkably good story teller."

The story of the exploits of the famous Bill Dalton gang was vividly told by Mr. Pinkerton. Eight members of the gang were killed while resisting arrest. The others were captured.

Of the "Black Jack McDonald gang" every member was killed.

One of the sensational train robberies of more recent date was thus described by Mr. Pinkerton:

"Edward Estelle, alias Conn Eddy; George Gordon, alias Brooklyn Blacky; William Browning, alias Browney; Thomas Clark, alias P. A. Butch, and Johnny Bull, all yeggmen, on Aug. 5, 1902, held up a train of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad near Marcus, Ill., stealing $3,000 therefrom, after subduing the engineer, fireman and conductor, and shooting up and down the railroad track to intimidate the passengers.

"George Gordon, alias Brooklyn Blacky, approaching from the front of the locomotive was mistaken for a railroad man and shot in the thigh by Estelle, who, when he discovered he had wounded a member of the gang, endeavored to have Gorden flee with him, but the latter said that he was too badly wounded, beforeupon Estelle blew Gordon's brains out, uttering an oath and telling him that he would not be left to squeal on anybody. Estelle, who was an escaped life convict from the Leavenworth Kan., penitentiary, wanted to burn Gordon's body in the fire box of an engine, but Clark would not consent to this."

Another recent tragedy in the train robbing line also touched Chicago closely. Mr. Pinkerton's story of it follows:

"A gang of robbers held up a through train of the Illinois Central railroad near Harvey, Ill., on the night of Aug. 1, 1904. The express car was not attacked, but at the point of revolvers the passengers were compelled to deliver to the robbers their money and valuables. These holdups were traced to a St. Louis lodging house by St. Louis and Kansas City police detectives, and as he was leaving the house one of the men suspected of having committed the crime was arrested by the St. Louis detective. When others entered the house and attempted to arrest William Bruce Morris and Albert Rosenauer a fierce battle ensued, both suspects were killed, but not before they killed Detective John J. Shea and Special Officers T. F. Dwyer and James A. McClusky. Morris in an ante-mortem statement confessed to the Illinois Central holdup, also to the attempted holdup of a Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific train near Leets, Iowa, July 29, 1904. It is indeed regrettable that these brave officers lost their lives battling with this cowardly gang of desperadoes."

One of the most daring train robberies recounted by Mr. Pinkerton was the following:

"September 30, 1891, Oliver Curtis Perry boarded a New York Central railroad train near Utica while the train was in motion, cut his way into an American Express company car, and, covering the messenger with a revolver, stole $5,000 and some jewelry therefrom, cut the air brakes, which reduced the speed of the train, and made his escape.

"Feb. 21, 1892, Perry again boarded an express train near Syracuse, N. Y., concealing himself on the roof of the express car until the train was in motion, when, by a hook and rope fastened to the roof of the car while the train was moving at 50 miles an hour, he lowered himself to a window and, covering the messenger with a revolver, ordered him to throw up his hands. The messenger attempted to pull the bell cord, but Perry shot him in the hand, the messenger returned the fire with several shots. Just as the last shot was fired by Perry the train pulled into Lyons. He attempted to escape by driving the fireman and engineer from a locomotive which stood on a siding, which he boarded, and started to escape in it full speed, but was followed by railroad employes in another locomotive, who subsequently overtook him and after considerable shooting caused his arrest.

"After his return to Matteawan asylum Perry punched his eyes out with a saddler's needle, and is now a blind, raving maniac."

Mr. Pinkerton believes that train robbery as a criminal profession has practically been wiped out.

HEIRESS TO WED A SYRIAN GUIDE

Dragoman Captures Her Heart While Touring Holy Land.

New York, July 18.—Announcement was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Elsie Ellwood, daughter of W. L. Ellwood, and granddaughter of Isaac L. Ellwood of DeKalb, Ills., the steel wire millionaire and business associate of John W. Gates, to said Kalil Halek, who declares he is wealthy, of a fine Syrian family and lately conductor to tourists making the tour of the Holy Land.

The friends of Miss Ellwood are surprised that she should have agreed to marry a foreigner who accompanied her in an employed capacity at first and continued with her as far as New York. Both young folks arrived here last week and plan to marry at the Ellwood home in DeKalb, Ill., Wednesday. Acquaintances of Said Kalil Halek are surprised that one they declared a dragoman, sort of steward who furnished tents and supplies for tourists of the Holy Land, should have become engaged to an American heiress.

"I don't know that they will get married," said Isaac Ellwood at the Waldorf-Astoria. "I saw my granddaughter last Saturday for about ten minutes just before she left for the West with her mother and father and sister. She was feeling saddened then. Her unhappiness was caused, I suppose, by the fact, that her father was surprised and upset by the story she told him of having become engaged to the Syrian. I don't know anything about him, except that he does not claim to be a prince or to have any title whatever."

TERRIBLE DEATH.

Woman Throws Herself From Fifteenth Floor of Masonic Temple.

Chicago, July 18.—While talking to friends on the fifteenth floor of the Masonic Temple, Miss Annie Marmolee, a stenographer, deliberately walked to an open window and without warning threw herself over the ledge and was dashed to death on the stone pavement of the rotunda, 150 feet below. The force of the fall was so great that the body of the girl was mutilated beyond recognition. No cause for the suicide is known.

Marshall-Wells Hardware Company Institutes Suit for That Purpose.

The Marshall-Wells Hardware company has begun a suit in the district court to clear up the title to some lots in blocks 7 and 8. Industrial division on which buildings are occupied by the Clyde Iron Works. Last year, the lots, without improvements, were assessed at $8,400.

A legal tangle resulting from several quit claim deeds, liens and mortgages has clouded the title to a certain extent and the Marshall-Wells company desires the court to define the exact legal status of the land and determine the equity of all parties interested.

COWARDLY MAN

Hides Himself Behind Poor Woman, Says Marie Corelli.

London, July 18.—This is Marie Corelli's criticism of the other sex, contained in the introductory note of a new volume of stories:

"They have not either the courage or intelligence to fight the world for themselves and, seeing the fierce heat of competition in every branch of labor, they gladly sneak behind woman's petticoats to escape the general fray.

"When they have secured the ignoble end of their ambition they first run down woman's work and woman's privileges, then woman's attainments and woman's honor."

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

Strikers Agree to Hold Conference With Company Officials.

Declare, However, That They Will Consider No Compromise.

Mayor M. B. Cullum and Bishop James McGolrick took the first step toward a settlement of the big strike of the ore dock laborers last night at a meeting at the city hall, and although the immediate results of the attempt were not very promising, the movement for peace has been begun and it is hoped will end successfully within a few days.

A committee named by the strikers was appointed consisting of twelve men, who were to meet with the officials of the railroad at 10 o'clock this morning, but the strikers refused to give these men any power to grant concessions or compromise on the demands. There were about 400 men present at the meeting and it seemed to be the unanimous desire to continue the strike until their demands for a 25 cent a day raise are granted by the railroad officials.

As soon as the meeting had been formally opened, Bishop McGolrick suggested that the committee be appointed to represent the strikers at a conference with the railroad officials. The following men were appointed: Joseph Shudock, Angus Lepinski, Steve Landoski, William Perry, Nelson Perry, Mike Dutkowski, Oscar Noust, Gust Johnson, Thomas Konesky and J. W. Comber.

Company Stands Firm.

It was stated yesterday by President Olcott of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad that the demands of the men would not be granted. He had conferred with Thomas F. Cole, president of the Oliver Mining company, W. A. McGonagle, vice president of the Missabe road, and F. E. Houser, president of the Duluth & Iron Range road, and it was the general opinion that the demands of the men should not be granted as they had violated the agreement of the first of he season.

After this statement has been issued by the railroad officials, and the fact that the strikers have refused to consent to a compromise, it is difficult to see how the strike can be settled. At the same time something has been gained in the fact that a committee has been appointed to represent the laborers and something may turn up at the conference.

The meeting last evening was called to order by Mayor Cullum. He made a brief address informing the men that the strike was working great harm to both the strikers and the railroad and that the city would suffer if it continued. He advised the men to get together with the railroad officials and talk over the situation and that a step toward the final settlement could then be made. The mayor then introduced Bishop McGolrick, who took charge of the meeting.

The strikers were advised by the bishop that as they had no formal organization they had best appoint a committee to represent them in a conference with the railroad officials. After the committee had been appointed Bishop McGolrick urged the strikers to make some compromise in their demands, but the men were apparently against the compromise idea and during the bishop's talk they frequently interrupted him with cries of "No compromise" or "Quarter raise."

Men Will Hold Out.

A strong plea for a compromise was made by Bishop McGolrick, but his words seemed to have no effect as to changing the sentiment of the men present. He stated that the railroad officials would not grant the 25 cents increase, but that if the men would consent to compromise the officials could probably be induced to grant a smaller increase. The men should get back to work at any rate urged the bishop and should not longer tie up the steel industry.

J. W. Comber, who was one of the committee chosen to meet the railroad officials made a stirring address to the strikers in which he urged that the men should organize, and his statements were greeted with tremendous cheering. If the men were unionized they would be in a position to enforce their demands for increased wages, but under the present circumstances they were much weaker, the speaker said.

Since last Monday morning when the men first went out, nothing has been done at the Missabe docks and the Two Harbors docks have been quiet since Tuesday night. There has been no violence, however, and the strikers are acting in a most orderly manner. No effort is being made so far to get strike breakers.

Including the 600 men who went out at Two Harbors yesterday there are in all about 1,200 laborers who are idle on account of the strike. Besides these there are hundreds of trainmen who are doing nothing and many of the miners on the range are also idle. The ore traffic on the Great Lakes is directly affected and navigation as far as Two Harbors and Duluth is concerned, is almost paralyzed. The Great Northern dock at Allouez is the only one at which vessels are now being loaded and over thirty ore carriers are being held at Duluth and Two Harbors waiting for developments in the situation.

WIFE CHASED HIM WITH GUN

Found Her Husband Paying Court to Another Woman.

Baltimore, July 18.—Harold Edward Pine, a young real estate dealer, with offices in the Law building, this city, figured in an exciting episode at Aberdeen, about twenty-five miles from Baltimore.

Mr. Pine was chased for nearly six miles by Mrs. Pine, who came upon her spouse just as he was returning from a drive with a young woman, the daughter of a wealthy merchant of Hartford, to whom he had been paying court for some time, it is said, under an assumed name. Mrs. Pine was armed with a revolver, and the chase after her fleeing husband was enlivened by frequent use of the firearm every time she got within shooting distance.

Pine reached the railroad station at Aberdeen, unscathed, but very much excited over his strenuous experience. He boarded the midnight train for Baltimore, but did not come to his office yesterday afternoon.

Pine, it is said, had for the past six months been visiting the family of Levi Bechtel of Carsin's Run, who has a pretty daughter, to whom Pine had been paying attention.

On Monday afternoon a young woman got off the train at Aberdeen, and at night was driven over to Carsin's Run, where Mr. Bechtell is engaged in the merchandise business. She entered the store, and after making a few small purchases, lingered about the front of the place, evidently waiting for some one. Just about dark, Mr. Pine and Miss May Bechtell drove up to the front of the store, and the man had just assisted the young woman to alight when he caught sight of the woman on the porch.

Without a word of explanation, he jumped back into the vehicle, and, plying the whip on the horse, started away at breakneck speed.

The woman on the porch, who was Mrs. Pine, called to several bystanders to stop the horses, and one of them, John Bowen, sprang forward to do her bidding, when Pine drew a revolver and it is said threatened to shoot the man if he laid hands on the bridle of the horse. Mrs. Pine got into the vehicle in which she had come to Carsin's Run from Aberdeen and started in hot pursuit of her fleeing spouse. The horse driven by Pine, however, was the fleeter, and he distanced his pursuing wife and reached Aberdeen in safety.

Digesto

MALT EXTRACT

Like the Famous Hamm's Beer it

"Leads them All"

In placing the thousandth and first Malt Extract on the market, it has been our aim to arrive at something better than just an ordinary extract of malt. There is a very strong demand for a malt which not only contains all the vitalizing elements of the various ingredients in the highest degree, but one that is palatable as well.

In Digesto we have evolved a perfect Malt Extract. It is composed of the highest grade of Imported Hops, the choicest selections of Barley and pure Artisian Water. In the brewing of Digesto, we have overcome that sweet taste which is objectionable in nearly all Malt Extracts, and have produced an extract so pleasant to the taste and so beneficial in the results obtained from its use that a success, fully as great as that attained by the famous Hamm's Beer, is assured.

FITTING SPECTACLES.

State Opticians Discuss Their Business at St. Paul Meeting.

St. Paul, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Interesting addresses are being delivered and discussed at the annual meeting in the old capitol of the Minnesota Association of Optometrists which about forty members are attending.

Arthur Williams of St. Paul gave a demonstration in frame fitting and frame bending.

He showed how to get the best results for the person who was to wear the glasses, and how to make them comfortable. He gave a short talk on the judgment which an optician ought to exercise in selecting a certain style of frame for each person. There was no set rule to go by, but it was generally known that women preferred the bow-shaped nose guard, while gentlemen usually selected the round shape. People who have a short nose looked better in a high guard and vice versa.

J. M. Radabaugh of Hastings talked on his method of using the stenopaic disc. The dissolution developed the fact that opticians experience much contradiction on the part of the patient in determining which lenses are most suited to his needs.

One of the most interesting talks of the session was that made by Dr. Arthur Campbell of Topeka, Kan. He is the inventor of the Health Ray lenses, which are the result of much experimenting to determine the physiological effect of light. He said the quality of the light of the ordinary lenses did not allow the true light to reach the eye. This resulted in tiring the eye.

R. D. N. Springer of Anoka was to have read a paper on "The Optomerist and Occulist," but owing to his inability to be present, his paper was read by H. O. Schleuder of Springfield.

WILD WEST ONLY FAIR.

Pawnee Bill's Show Disappointing to Duluth People.

Pawnee Bill's official lithographers and couriers in advance laid great stress upon the fact that his Historic Wild West and Great Far East exhibition was a big hit in Greater New York for six weeks last year, but if Greater New York which can pick and choose its amusements—ever approved of the entertainment which Pawnee Bill and his understudies presented in Duluth yesterday afternoon and evening, Gotham is more of a jay town than New Rochelle.

The official program—an advertising dodger for which people who bought were soaked 25 cents a copy—stated that Pawnee Bill was the president of a bank down in Oklahoma somewhere. He probably knows more about counting money than he does about giving a real good show. He could count the money yesterday, though, for two big crowds greeted him.

The show is very good in spits, but there is a dash and go characteristic of other big ones, which seems sadly lacking in the Pawnee entertainment. Maj. Lillie seems to have enough people and enough equipment to give a better show, but an Al Ringling or some other good man is needed to whip it into shape and make it slide along easier.

The much advertised "Great Train Robbery" is an unconvincing spectacle and all of the other acts should be toned up. Hardly any of the performers seemed to have their heart in their work and on the whole, the show was pretty quiet for a Wild West exhibition.

Incidentally, everyone on the grounds was out for the money. When not employed in cavorting in the arena, the performers were endeavoring to sell wares—from East Indian beads made by a Chicago firm to imitation photographs of "dope" fiends. The "big after concert" ticket seller was also more than usually active.

DOWN WITH THE RED FLAG!

The Herald has noted that of late, on several occasions, bodies of men have marched upon the iron ranges in processions headed by red flags.

It has also noted, with a good deal of pleasure, that the range newspapers have talked right out in meeting about this practice, and have condemned it in unmeasured terms.

It would be pleasanter still to find the peace authorities of the range towns taking a hint from this attitude on the part of the newspapers, and putting a stop to demonstrations of this sort.

There is no place in this country for the red flag and for the things it stands for. The men that carry it are all of foreign birth, and they are to be forgiven, perhaps, if they have not yet had time to become fully satnrated with the spirit of this country, and to find that there is no occasion for the red flag here, and no place here for the things for which it stands.

They call themselves Socialists, these men, but they are not; their flag is the flag of anarchy, and there is but one flag that will be recognized in this country. That is the Red, White and Blue, and no banner of angry red must be allowed to supplant it in any section of this broad land of the free.

At the very best the man who flaunts the red flag, and who bawls the opinions for which the red flag stands, is grossly abusing the hospitality which brought him to this country. He came in response to an invitation which this nation has extended to the oppressed and suffering people of all the world, and he found a country brimming with prosperity and thronged with opportunities. He does wrong to attempt to stir up here the passions which splash the banner of anarchy with red, and he might as well learn now as later that it will not be tolerated here.

Nor need this man, in response to this attack, let loose a harangue about the evils of capitalism and the despotism of the trusts. We recognize those evils just as clearly as he does, and we are going to remedy them. But we are not going to cure them in his way, nor are we going to let him and his red flag and his bombs do the work for us. If he gets in the way while we are working out our destiny, why so much the worse for him and his dastardly banner of red and his cowardly principles of slaughter and revolution and assassination.

There is not a community of workers on earth where the wages are better, the conditions more comfortable, or the treatment of the workers by the employers more considerate, than in the average mining community of the Minnesota iron ranges.

If there is anywhere in this country an excuse for anarchy and the flaunting of the red flag that spells disorder and thorough hostility to American institutions, it is not in the range country.

The red flag should be suppressed, and it will be better to do it quietly now than when it has grown so arrogant that it will be necessary to do it with violence later.

UNREGULATED PUBLIC EXPENSES.

The report of the public examiner on the condition of six school districts in St. Louis county is ample justification for the new law authorizing an examination into the affairs of local subdivisions that are without any other check upon their expenditures. It is justification, too, for the law providing for a county examiner for this county, which was unfortunately so framed as to be unconstitutional and therefore valueless.

One concern alone, the United States Steel corporation, pays in this county more than $1,000,000 in taxes to local governments which are absolutely without official check except such as this law provides.

Perhaps there is no actual criminality in the matters discovered, but there is much illegality and vast irregularities, and there must be great waste. Furthermore, the opening for peculation is too tempting to be long neglected by those who lie in wait everywhere for such chances.

The work of examining these local accounts should be pushed as far as possible, and at the next session of the legislature a new bill should be passed providing for a county examiner for this great county with its multitude of local governing bodies that should have some official check upon their extravagances and irregularities.

OUR ISLAND POSSESSIONS.

You wouldn't think that this country had gone so far in its expansion that nobody knows how many islands of the sea it controls, but such is the fact.

Two Western newspapers have been waging a heated debate over the question, and neither of them has settled it correctly yet, nor is either likely to settle it.

Indeed, not even the geographers, who ought to know, can give definite information, so that it is at present useless to inquire, and it might not be a bad idea for the government to take a census of its islands and publish a catalogue.

It would be particularly interesting if this catalogue showed, in addition to the names and locations of the islands, the political status of each.

Some of them are under the constitution, and some are only under the flag. That is, it has not yet been proved that the constitution covers all of them; indeed, the condition is so hazy with doubt that it is perhaps better to drop it without puzzling one's brains too severely over it during the heated season.

The latest collection of islands is the Philippine archipelago, which is vaguely supposed to contain something more than 1,200 islands. Just how many there are nobody knows, for the number is variable. Some of the little ones have a habit of ducking beneath the ocean when earthquakes are going on, and the earthquakes sometimes bring up new ones.

There are hordes of American islands along both seacoasts of the country. The Alaskan coasts are skirted by an innumerable brood. Massachusetts and Maine possess many islands, and islands are scattered over all the seas through which our rule extends.

The most remote group that is definitely under the constitution, without possibility of dispute, is the Sandwich or Hawaiian group. Then, between Hawaii and Manila, is little Guam, which is governed by a naval officer, who has an easy time with the amiable but unenterprising inhabitants. In the South sea we own one of the Samoan group, a little one, which is also governed by a naval officer. Its inhabitants are also of a kindly disposition, but very much disinclined to the wearing of clothes.

Our islands are in every climate, and the natives are of many races. Some of the islands are profitable to us, others are nuisances, and some, such as the Philippines, are a positive source of danger and discomfort.

We shall probably continue to keep most of them, without bothering our heads over whether it is worth while to do it or not, but as to others, such as the Philippines again, we are very hopeful that some time we shall be able to lose them.

PLAIN TALK TO TRAITORS.

That was a terrible arraignment of the combination between business and politics said to exist in Colorado that was made by Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver at Chautauqua, N. Y., reported in The Herald last night.

He said that the gallows, not the senate chamber, is the place for Simon Guggenheim and for William G. Evans, the Republican boss of Colorado.

"If Moyer and Haywood are guilty," said he, "these other men deserve hanging more than they do, for their crimes are infinitely more far-reaching."

If what Judge Lindsey says is true—and there is good reason to believe it to be true in the light of what is already known and of the fact that the people have come to respect Lindsey for honesty of purpose and truthful plain speaking—it is too bad he is not talking in an official capacity, instead of merely relieving his feelings as a citizen.

Whatever the truth may be about Moyer and Haywood, the public is pretty clearly convinced that the mine-owners of the West have done as much to stir up class warfare as the workers, if, indeed, the horrible initiative was not with the mine-owners. The man that sows class hatred in this country is a traitor, whether he is an employer or an employe, and it is an uncomfortable fact that too often class bitterness has had its origin in the injustice of employers.

There should be some terrible punishment for those who awake this deadly spirit which divides society when it should be united for the common good. The criminal rich, as Judge Lindsey says, have bought control of Colorado and other Western mining states, and have used their power criminally.

The men on both sides of the labor question who appeal to class prejudice are enemies of the republic, and stern punishment should be meted out to the Guggenheims and their tools, the professional politicians who sell their states into slavery to the cause of greed.

TWO-CENT FARE THEORIES.

The 2-cent fare laws are being tested, or are about to be tested, in numerous suits in various parts of the country, and there is hope that presently our anxiety on the question of whether or not the new maximum rate is confiscatory will be soothed by some real information.

There has been a great scarcity of it so far. There has been much opinion, a lot of theory, and many more or less vague speculations, from both sides, but very little real information.

In a Philadelphia court the other day the president and vice president of the Pennsylvania road were giving testimony in relation to the matter, and of course they said that the 2-cent rate is confiscatory. James McCrea, the president, went so far as to say that the theory that the new rate would pay because cheaper fares would attract greater travel was a grievous error, for in his opinion cheaper rates would do no such thing.

It does not appear that anybody asked him why it was that railroads have in the past advertised cheap-rate excursions, and have seemed to make money by giving them, but it is unfortunate that he did not have a chance to explain this, since it seems to leave an embarrassing gap in his reasoning.

As a matter of fact, it is going to be hard to find out just whether the 2-cent rate is fair or not, judging from the experience of the committees of the Minnesota legislature that spent some time in investigating the matter last winter. Though they presented plenty of figures to prove that 2-cent business would have to be done at a loss, when pinned down to the facts the railroad representatives had to admit that it was an impossibility to separate the earnings of a railroad into their various divisions, and to say how much was made from the passenger business and how much from freight. It was easy enough to determine the receipts from the various sources; the books showed that. But when an attempt was made to divide the cost, and to find the net passenger earnings and the net freight earnings, the traffic men confessed themselves to be baffled.

If this is correct, how is anybody going to know whether the 2-cent rate is fair or not? How, as a matter of fact, are we to be sure that the 3-cent maximum has not been confiscating the profits of the railroads for the benefit of the people all these years? Of course we have a pretty good idea that it hasn't been doing anything of the sort, but we haven't the figures to prove that idea.

But at any rate, decreased passenger rates certainly will tend to stimulate passenger traffic, possibly to the extent of making the 2-cent maximum more profitable than the 3-cent rate. The only way to come anywhere near knowing what the effect of the 2-cent rate will be is to try it, and that is what we are doing.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"This is the season of the year when trainers through the Dakotas and in other chicken regions of the country are breaking in their young dogs so they will be ready for their masters in the fall," said M. S. Allsworth of Fargo, N. D., at the St. Louis. "In the chicken country there are always men who, for a reasonable price, will take a dog in charge, and teach him the gentle art of hunting, if the canine is teachable. Sometimes animals are found which simply refuse to learn, but as a rule a dog of good breed soon gets onto the principle of the game.

"Different trainers have different systems. Some take old experienced dogs along with the youngsters, and others do not bother with any assistance in this line. Bird dogs of reliable breed will virtually train themselves, if a little care is exercised on the part of the owner, but of course, the retrieving part calls for some attention in the best of dogs. It seems to come perfectly natural for a pointer to point, whether he has ever been in the field or not. It is rather odd that a dog which has never been in the field before should come to a point when he gets near a flock of chickens. Some of them freeze to veritable statues the first time, and can scarcely be gotten to move. Others point only an instant, and then make a leap for the middle of the flock. They are the ones that need the most attention, for they are expected to hold the point until told by the hunter to go ahead.

"By taking the dogs out now and then can be trained on the young chickens, without violating the laws, as long as no gun is taken along. According to all reports, hunting should be fairly good the coming fall, although I guess the birds are not any more plentiful than usual. There is always good hunting if you get in the right place, and poor hunting if you go to the wrong place. Where there was good sport to be had last September it may be poor this fall, and where there were almost no birds at all last fall, there may be a lot of them the coming season."

"The coast extension of the Milwaukee road will mean great things for South Dakota," said F. C. Perrin of Aberdeen, S. D., at the McKay. "Until this spring a big part of the state was almost a wilderness, with virtually no white settlers. With the promise of a railroad, however, things have changed, and people are flocking into the agricultural districts. At the present time there are prosperous little towns located forty miles from a railroad, but these will be on the Milwaukee when the extension is built, and probably some of them will develop into cities of considerable size.

"Land locaters have done a big business this year in South Dakota, particularly in the northern half of the state. The American people seem to be land hungry, and as soon as they learn of a new field where government claims are to be had, with a possibility of the land becoming valuable in a decade or two, there is a rush for that field, and it isn't long before all the desirable claims are taken up.

"Up to the present time there has been special object in settling in the more remote districts of South Dakota, because of the fact that the markets were so far away. Those who had foresight enough to see that in time even the wilderness would be in demand are now in a position to realize a profit from this foresight, for they got the pick of the land by arriving on the ground early."

THE WEATHER.

Still warm, still fine, still charming. This morning it had a threatening look at times, but nothing more serious than scattered showers were threatened, and the weather man thought that they might happen tonight or tomorrow, or even both. He expected it to be a little cooler tonight. Yesterday's highest temperature was 78 degs. and last night's lowest was 60 degs.

A year ago today it was fair and warm, with a cooling breeze.

The sun rose this morning at 4:31, and sets at 7:57, making 15 hours and 26 minutes of sunshine.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "High temperatures prevail throughout the South, Lower Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio valleys, the southern lake region and Atlantic states, due to high pressures and southerly to easily winds in those districts. The barometer continues high off the Oregon coast. Pressures are relatively low over Rocky mountain states with lowest readings over Arizona. This depression caused light to copious showers over Alberta, Montana, the Missouri valley, Gulf and Atlantic states during Wednesday or last night, and its low easterly movement may be attended by scattered showers in this section this afternoon, tonight and possbly Friday."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

Minnesota and the Dakotas—Fair tonight and Friday.

Upper Lakes: Superior—Light to fresh variable winds tonight and Friday; showers tonight. MIRTHFUL REMARKS.

Washington Star: "Are you going to Europe this summer?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Comerox. "Mother and the girls say that rich people are getting so numerous in America that we've got to go to the Old World to get appreciated."

Harper's Weekly: First Summer Girl—Who is that clean-shaven, handsome boy?

Second Summer Girl—Oh, he's an actor.

First Summer Girl—No; I mean the other one.

Second Sumer Girl—Oh, he hasn't any money either.

New York Sun: Kleker—Why did the Smiths divorce? I thought they were perfectly happy.

Bocker—Yes, but the ukase is, if a concern is too prosperous it must have a receiver.

Chicago Tribune: All at once there came a yell from the bleachers whose dry throats emitted a hoarse sound as they hurled past the umpire's ears.

"Empty honors!" he muttered, his lip curling with scorn.

Philadelphia Press: "Them lawyers do say awful funny things to you."

"What kind of things?"

"The one that came to see me yesterday about that there accident said he wanted a paregorical answer to his questions."

Philadelphia Ledger: Boldly the robbers boarded the train and demanded that it halt, but the engineer went ahead at full speed and at the first station the robbers were captured.

"Mighty serious business," said the officers to the trainmen. "Didn't you know it was against the law to carry passengers without tickets?"

Not Kellogg's Reputation.

Omaha World-Herald: It is reported from Washington that Special Attorney Kellog of the inter-state commerce commission is at Oyster Bay trying to persuade the president that Mr. Harriman should be prosecuted for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Mr. Kellogg so contended in his report which was recently prematurely published. A dispatch to the Chicago Inter Ocean has it that Mr. Kellogg, in his effort to convince the president that a prosecution should be ordered, is merely "endeavoring to save his reputation as a lawyer."

This is a mistake. Mr. Kellogg's reputation as a lawyer is firmly established. It is not his reputation that is at stake. It is the reputation of the Roosevelt administration.

Messrs. Jordan and Harmon were attorneys of the highest standing. They were unable, however, to make the administration do its plain duty by prosecuting Paul Morton, then a member of the cabinet. Their reputations as lawyers did not suffer in consequence; but the reputation of Mr. Roosevelt as a "trust-buster" did suffer, severely.

Other eminent men, lawyers, college presidents and business men, have vainly tried, since that time, to induce Mr. Roosevelt to order criminal prosecution of the trust criminals. They have failed—but their reputations are intact.

It is possible—nay, probable, that Kellog will fail. It will not be his fault. It will not be because Mr. Harriman is not guilty. It will be simply and solely because Mr. Roosevelt refuses to do his duty.

The administration "war on the trusts" is a cheap burlesque, a miserable imitation, and will continue to be such until the criminal law is invoked. Meanwhile, whose ever reputation suffers it will not be that of an eminent attorney like Mr. Kellogg who, when he points out and urges the right course, has done all he can do.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A pretty sure way not to be a good husband is to be married.

From 20 to 30 a man seeks honor, from then until he dies comfort.

A girl is never sure she couldn't love a man just to be able to think so.

A person's morals are like his best clothes—to be worn on special occasions.

The trouble with giving money to charity is you haven't any chance to get even with anybody the way you have after a horse trade.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1887.

The return of Company K, which has carried off the honors at the encampment at Mankato, was greeted by the mayor and a number of the city officers, as well as many citizens, who, with music and praise, escorted them from the depot to their armory. One of the memorable events of the "campaign" to the boys as soldiers was the compliment by the colonel and staff and the appointment of Capt. DeWitt as aide during the sham battle.

Capt. Ira F. Holt, the well and favorably known vessel owner of Detroit, who has spent much time in Duluth during the past few years, has arrived in the city and will remain some time. He is the owner of the steamer A. G. Stewart, now running between Duluth and Port Arthur.

It has leaked out that the new pitcher of the Duluth club, known as Brewster, is really Isaac Bingham, the famous twirler of Harvard university, who determined to pitch professional ball this year and hoped, by assuming another name, to preserve his amateur standing. He is pronounced a better pitcher than Stagg of Yale, for whom Duluth offered $3,500.

The Northwestern Railroader refers to the large number of roads projected with Duluth as their terminus, and thinks it is not unreasonable to say that in three to five years fifteen railroads will radiate from and enter Duluth.

The election for members of the school board resulted in A. W. Bradley and J. T. Hale being chosen. The other candidates were J. W. Norton, James R. Carroll and A. E. Townsend. The total vote was 1,451, a majority being cast by the ladies.

Dr. J. N. Hathaway of Howard City, Mich., is here visiting his brother, George Hathaway, chief of the fire department. It is the first time they have met in twenty-three years. They are the only surviving members of the family.

E. E. Quinlan and D. W. Scott of Towanda, Pa., are looking over Duluth with J. D. Stryker and will probably buy some real estate.

Peter Valcovick was injured at the Northwestern coal docks this afternoon, one arm being broken in two places. Dr. Slaughter was called.

Miss Etta Allen of Moorhead is visiting friends in Duluth.

Stiles P. Jones, for some time past on the city staff of The Herald, has accepted a position on the Minneapolis end of the Pioneer Press.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Walker Pilot: The village blacksmith was able to look the world in the face, but not so with John D. Rockefeller. They had to chase all over the country for him just to face a Chicago judge.

Breckenridge Gazette (Rep.): The state political pot is beginning to simmer already—a year in advance of the state convention, and many of the newspaper boys are busy picking candidates for governor. "Any good Republican" ought to be the slogan for 1908.

Hibbing Tribune: Notwithstanding all his assertions of ignorance it is suspected that John D. knows some things that he does not tell his Sunday school class.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: The daily papers had a "follow-up" every day about the strenuous search made for John D. Rockefeller, by the process servers. Let John D. disguise himself as a tramp and steal a loaf of bread and the minions of the law would have him inside of twenty-four hours, no matter what pains he took to conceal himself.

Zumbrota News: To our notion the war department is doing altogether too much explaining why the Atlantic fleet is going around the horn. Whose business it is, anyway?

Minneota Mascot: Why is it that no one ever gets credit for good intentions in politics? Every move made by a politician is questioned by his opponents and it would seem that as soon as a man enters politics he becomes a rascal, if we are to believe what the "other fellow" says about him. Why is it that men can not, or will not, be fair in dealing with their political opponents?

Madison Independent Press: And now it is dear brother Eastman, of the St. Cloud Journal-Press, who fears the trust crowd is trying to capture the state and dictate the Republican nominee for governor. Isn't it just as well to have the trust gang capture the state organization as that it shall be dominated by the ragged-and-bobtail crowd who assassinated the party in the campaign of 1906? The party success is what is wanted in 1908 whether Mr. Eastman and his kind approve of the candidate or not.

Fairmont Sentinel: Fairbanks, Cannon, Foraker, Knox — all corporation men. Bryan or Johnson or any other good Democrat can beat any one of them with both hands tied behind him.

Waseca Herald: Judge Lochren holds that the state may be enjoined from enforcing its own laws. A strange opinion, and one that should be resisted by every means known to law and courts! It is a monstrous doctrine!

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Past friends should be slow to disagree.

When a man earns his money he never has any to burn.

Business is business for those who mind their own business.

In the race for popularity truth is the hare and flattery is the tortoise.

If Jonah had been after inside information he certainly would have got it.

The Real Issue.

The committee must decide whether to establish international rules for the opening of hostilities.—Hague dispatch.

Disciples of the olive branch
Have come from near and far
To pitch their tents on Holland's soil,
And talk awhile of war;
Reports, so far, are meager, but
We know this much is right;
The vital question at The Hague
Is: "How to start the fight?"

The delegates have all agreed
That though they do their best,
The cannon's mouth is not yet fit
To be the robin's nest;
If wars must come—and they're afraid
That there'll be many yet—
The nation ought to put in force
Some rule of etiquette.

So when a country's flag is trailed
By foemen in the dust,
And diplomats give up the job,
And sigh, "If fight we must,"
The least that any power can do
Is be a bit polite.
And so the vexing problem still
Is: "How to start the fight?"

—C. H. MUSGROVE in the New York Times.

Course of Japanese Bonds.

Philadelphia Inquirer: Any one who is inclined to worry over the current reports about the possibility or the probability or the imminence of a war between the United States and Japan may derive some comfort and encouragement from watching the course of Japanese bonds on the American market. The ticker tells the story and the story it tells is one of confidence in the maintenance of peace. In this connection stock market quotations present a pretty faithful reflex of the facts. They constitute a kind of barometer, which is, perhaps, unduly sensitive to unfavorable conditions, but which never fails to indicate the gathering of a storm.

Prepared.

Life: "Johnny, where have you been? Your hair is suspiciously wet. School was out two hours ago."

"I fell in the creek."

"But your clothes are not wet."

"Well, you see, mamma, while I was standin' on the bridge I thought maybe I'd fall in, so I took off my clothes; an' I did."

LANDSLIDE FOR FAIRBANKS.

New York Sun: Boston, July 33.—Charles Warren Fairbanks of Indiana was elected to full membership in the Ancient and Honorable Artillery at a meeting in Fort Parker this morning. The cocktail consisting of one-half dry gin and one-half dry vermouth was named in his honor "The Fairbanks Favorite."

Duluth, July 33.—The Bartenders' Benevolent and Fraternal association this evening changed its name to the Fairbanks Legion and will support Mr. Fairbanks for the presidency. A design for a banner, showing Mr. Fairbanks seated on a cloud and handing a cocktail to the world, was approved.

New Orleans, July 33.—Judge B. I. Bulous declared today that he was heart and stomach for Fairbanks for president.

El Paso, Texas, July 33.—The Anti-Temperance union of El Paso county sent this congratulatory telegram to Vice President Fairbanks this afternoon: "Thanks. We usually take ours straight, but we know Indiana whisky and understand. You have our support and sympathy."

Indianapolis, July 33.—The Hon. Charles Warren Fairbanks has been chosen chairman of the legislative committee of the Saloonkeepers' league. This honor has never been conferred on a layman before.

Drink Fairbanks Blend—The brand that made the vice presidency famous.—Adv.

Philadelphia, July 33.—James Jammes narrowly escaped death today at the hands of a mob in front of the Bellevue-Stratford hotel. Mr. Jammes has been a notorious total abstainer, and in the delirium of sobriety he screamed "Fairbanks drinks buttermilk!" Hardly had the words been uttered before a Fairbanks man who happened to be entering the hotel bar turned and denounced Jammes. A crowd collected and the unhappy Jammes, whose condition prevented him from recognizing his peril, repeated the slanderous charge. Immediately the cry "Lynch him! Lynch him!" was raised. Fortunately there were many drunken men about and they succeeded in holding the infuriated citizens at bay until the police arrived. Jammes was taken to the city hall and recovered his senses after treatment.

Try Fairbanks Blend as a nightcap.—Adv.

Portland, Me., July 33.—Vice President Fairbanks has consented to make three speeches in this state against the Dow law in the next campaign.

The Mean Effect.

Of course, the flat's a trifle hot
On July nights, and there seems not
A bit of air to breathe, or cool
The gasping tenant there, but who'll
Complain about conditions, for
By counting in last winter's more
Than ample cold you'll find it would
The average make pretty good.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MINNESOTA

CROPS ARE ALL RIGHT

Beltrami Cut-Over Lands Are Making a Very Fine Showing.

Farmers Report Their Crops Are Coming On Nicely.

Bemidji, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Farmers living in the township of Frohn, the first township east of Bemidji, report there is every prospect of banner crops of all kinds of grains and vegetables this year, and that the growth of all farm products during the past month has been phenomenal. Despite the cold, backward spring crops are as far advanced now as they were at this time last year.

O. S. Husett, who owns a fine farm in Frohn township, while in the city, speaking of crop conditions, said:

"I will begin haying next week, and all my neighbors will start cutting their year's crop of feed for the horses at the same time. The hay crop was never so good as this year, and I have been in this part of the country for the past thirteen years.

"Clover and timothy will average two and three tons to the acre. All we need to make a record-breaking hay-luk season is plenty of sunshine to dry the hay.

"The grain crop is coming along nicely, and timothy is from three to four feet high.

"I find that Beltrami county cut-over lands are as good as any I have known in any part of Minnesota."

Sergt. George B. McGhee has arrived in the city from La Crosse, Wis., and will have charge of the local recruiting office for the United States marine service, succeeding Sergt. Phillips, who was removed from the office and transferred to ship duty at Philadelphia.

Private Frank Stubenich, who has recently returned from service in the Philippines, will assist Sergt. McGhee and relieves ex-Corporal Mayer, who was also transferred to Philadelphia.

MARTIN BROS.' DRIVE.

Sixty Thousand Pieces of Timber Belonging to Duluth Firm.

Bemidji, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. C. McLean, the local representative for Martin Brothers of Duluth, has returned from Boy river and Leech lake, where he has had charge of the driving of a quantity of timber for the Martins.

Mr. McLean says that there are some 60,000 pieces in the drive, consisting of cedar poles, pulpwood and ties, and that the timber was driven down the Boy river to Leech lake, and will be taken from the lake to the Kabekona hoist. A spur has been built to the hoist, and the timber will be taken to Brainerd over the M. & I. railway, the Northern Pacific railway having purchased the output.

SWIMMING MASK.

Novel Device Patented by Congressman Steenerson of Crookston,

Crookston, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Congressman Steenerson of this city, has patented a novel device for the convenience of swimmers. It is called a swimming mask and will prove a boon to those who swim in salt water. It will also be a great help for swimmers when the water they are in is topped with waves. Swimmers at the lake summer resorts know the difficulty in swimming when a heavy wind is blowing, causing waves. The waves sometimes follow so quickly that they cannot be avoided by the swimmer and mouth and nose is filled with the rolling water. Congressman Steenerson's invention is a hood-like contrivance which fits snugly over the swimmer's head. In the top will be two long tubes which stand erect above the head and furnish air to the swimmer. This will allow the swimmer to swim a foot or two below the surface, and, as has been explained, will keep the waves from filling eyes and mouth with water and will enable one to enjoy a swim no matter what the condition of the surface of the water.

There was only one other contrivance patented at Washington which in any way conflicted with Mr. Steenerson's device and that was a swimming mask, invented by the emperor of Germany and patented by him in the United States jointly with a man by the name of Schwartz. This device however, is patented simply for life saving purposes and, therefore, Mr. Steenerson's invention did not conflict.

RETURNS TO RECEIVE PUNISHMENT FOR ACTION.

Minneapolis, July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Erick Rosten, long mourned as murdered, returned to Minneapolis Wednesday, and was at once arrested and has been sent to the workhouse for a month. Rosten disappeared Nov. 27 last. He was last seen with E. J. Lovold in the vicinity of Bridge square, then mysteriously disappeared and no trace of him could be found by his wife, who was left with four young children to care for. Friends of the missing man and the deserted wife sought to uphold Rosten's good name by insinuating that Lovold had murdered Rosten. Detectives for a while shadowed Lovold and haunted his home, but could get no evidence. Lovold, himself, felt the humiliation, and finally sought solace in religion. He kept up the search for Rosten, however, in order to clear his own good name. Finally he ran across Rosten in Bridge square, near the very place from which Rosten had disappeared last November. Rosten was led to the Humane society by Lovold, and there put under arrest. It was found he had been wogking during his absence, and several times returned to Minneapolis without ever going near or aiding his suffering family. In court Rosten was given thirty days at the workhouse, and the wages he had coming to him and yet unpaid, will go to his family.

VILLAGE HALL AT KELLIHER

Public Improvement Long Needed is Now Answered.

Kelliher, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Kelliher is to have a new village hall—a public improvement that will be a credit to the community.

The erection of the hall was decided upon several days ago, and J. R. Strassburger, an architect living at Crookston, was summoned to look over the grounds and draw plans and specifications.

Mr. Strassburger assured William Lennon, president of the village council, that the plans and specifications would be speedily forthcoming, when bids for the erection of the hall will be advertised for and the contract let. It is the intention to erect a building that will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000. The hall will contain an assembly room for the use of the council, and a hall for public gatherings, shows, etc.

A hall is much needed to replace the one that was burned some time ago.

The Bank of Kelliher has been incorporated under the laws of the state of Minnesota as a state bank and will hereafter be known as the First State Bank of Kelliher.

The new institution is capitalized at $10,000, and the following are the officers who will have charge of the bank under the new regime: E. P. Sheldon of Grand Rapids, president; W. H. Roberts of Bemidji, vice president; J. W. Murray of Kelliher, cashier.

Dr. C. E. Reeves of Clarissa, Minn., has purchased the Kelliher hospital and will return to this village in a few days and open the institution to the patronage of the public. The building is now being renovated and placed in good condition for the occupancy of Dr. Reeves when he returns.

Dr. Reeves comes well recommended as a first class physician.

TWO NEW PICTURES.

Those of Editor Wheelock and James Fergus Presented to Historical Society,

St. Paul, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Ellen Wheelock of St. Paul has presented to the State Historical society a large portrait in oil of her father, the late Joseph A. Wheelock, for many years editor of the Pioneer Press. The portrait was painted by Miss Wheelock. It represents Mr. Wheelock seated in a natural pose, and is considered a good likeness.

Another portrait received by the historical society today is one of James Fergus, who was one of the territorial pioneers of Minnesota and for whom the town of Fergus Falls was named.

Mr. Fergus, who was born in Scotland in 1813 and came to America when he was 19 years of age, founded the Minnesota town of Little Falls in 1853. It was several years later that he and several others founded the town of Fergus Falls. In 1892 he removed to Montana, and one of the counties of that state bears his name.

MINNESOTA IN BRIEF

Moorhead—Charles Fairchild, who was arrested on a charge of forgery, was arraigned Tuesday and asked for a continuance of one week. His request was granted and he was remanded back to jail.

Anoka—A log cut last winter at Swan River landing was pronounced by lumbermen to be the largest ever cut in the state of Minnesota. It measured fifty inches at the smallest end and scaled 2,222 feet. Instead of being loaded on the cars, it will be floated down the Mississippi to Dubuque, Iowa.

Minneapolis—Word has been received from Helena, Mont., that the body of Roger M. Hoagland of Minneapolis, who was drowned in the Missouri river last week, has been recovered. A brother who arrived from Idaho took charge of the remains and will accompany them to Minneapolis for burial.

Lake Crystal—Mrs. M. S. Hall of Garden City accidentally shot herself through the hand with a 32-caliber revolver while demonstrating to her son and nephew how the revolver worked.

Hallock—Alexander Olson, aged 75, was accidentally shot and killed by an old muzzle-loading shotgun.

WISCONSIN

KEEP OPEN ON SUNDAY

That is Decision of the Common Council of Washburn.

Will Not Take Lead Over the Other Bay Towns.

Washburn, Wis., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lid will not descend on this city, at least not for the present, judging by the decisive vote in the city council on the matter.

The Civic league is said to have received quite a set back at the hands of the city lawmakers, a resolution asking for Sunday closing of saloons being turned down with only one dissenting vote.

The only reason given for the turning down of the wish of the league was that other towns on Chequamegon bay were running wide open on the Sabbath and it was not proper for the city to take the lead on account of Sunday business that the place would loose.

FIRES HIS HOUSE, THEN KILLS SELF

Wisconsin Man Fails in Attempt to Cremate Family.

Pepin, Wis., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—After setting fire to his house in which his family was asleep Fred O'Mallery, a poultry dealer, shot himself.

Early in the morning, Mrs. O'Mallery was awakened by the crackling of fire and rushing down stairs found the parlor a mass of flames. These were subdued after she gave the alarm.

She went back up stairs to awaken her husband, she thinking that, on account of his deafness he had not heard the noise. But he was nowhere to be found. His bed had been occupied during the night. The neighbors were immediately aroused and search for the missing man was begun. The search lasted until 9 o'clock, when a young man discovered some tracks leading from the house into a corn field close by. He, followed the tracks and soon came upon the dead body of the missing man. He had shot himself in the mouth and his revolver was lying by his side. It was a clear case of suicide.

The fire, which he undoubtedly had started with the intention of killing the remainder of the family, had been burning for some time before it was discovered.

Trouble in the family was presumably the cause of the terrible deed.

TRANSFER MEN QUIT.

Omaha Freight Employes at Eau Clrire Want More Pay.

Eau Claire, Wis., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several of the truckers and transfer men employed at the Omaha freight office in this city quit yesterday noon and refused to go back to work unless their demands were acceded to by the railroad company.

The walk out blocked the work of transfering but the freight department stated that it would not be serious as men had been secured to take the places of those who had quit.

The reason for the strike was dissatisfaction on account of wages. Two or three days ago the transfer men sent the following petition to the officers of the company:

"We, the undersigned members of the Omaha warehouse, dissatisfied with the small sum of $1.50 per day for amount of work which is required of us do hereby ask for an increase of 25c per day or $1.75 per day of ten hours."

When no answer had been received to their demands at noon the petitioners quit work and walked out.

UPPER MICHIGAN

IS CAUGHT AT SENEY

Escaped Convict's Freedom Cut Short by Deputy Sheriff Harcourt.

Peverette, Who Broke Away at Penitentiary Gates, Taken.

Marquette, Mich., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Albert E. Peverette, known as "Whitey," who made a sensational escape from officers at the gates of the penitentiary last Thursday night, is again in custody and this time has been safely locked up in the big institution. Peverette was captured at Seney, seventy-five miles east of here by Deputy Sheriff James Harcourt after four days' exciting chase.

News that the notorious criminal had been caught and that he would arrive on the 11 o'clock train brought a crowd of 200 people to the station. The stage of the coach from which Peverette alighted were hemmed in by the curious throng as soon as the train stopped, and as the prisoner, handcuffed to Deputy Sheriff Harcourt stepped down, he smiled broadly as though he appreciated the welcome he was receiving. Albert Foubert, a guard from the prison, was standing near the train steps, and Peverette recognized him with a smile.

"Well, I'm back for awhile," he said to Foubert, extending his manacled hand. Foubert greeted him warmly.

Deputy Warden Catlin and Guard Thomas Horn took charge of Peverette as soon as he alighted from the train. Deputy Sheriff Harcourt unlocked the handcuff from his wrist and transferred it to the wrist of Deputy Warden Catlin. The crowd followed as Peverette, walking between Catlin and Horn, was led to a wagon and driven away.

Deputy Sheriff Harcourt said that the arrest was accomplished without difficulty, but added that this was probably due to the fact that the fugitive was starving and had eaten nothing since his escape Thursday night.

READY FOR STATE FAIR

Grand Forks is Preparing to Entertain Northwest Next Week.

Grounds Generally Improved and Fixed for Fine Display.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Grand Forks is all ready to entertain her visitors next week when the big state fair opens Tuesday. Her house is in order and the hostess indicates already that the guests will be royally entertained from arrival to departure. The fair ground has been a scene of activity for weeks, while the work for arranging for the fair, making many improvements and otherwise sprucing up has been going on. Exhibits are now being installed, and the management hopes to have everything in readiness when the gates open to the public on July 23. In every way the exhibition of the resources of North Dakota promises to be on par with other state displays of that sort.

Visitors will be more than pleased with the setting of the fair. The grounds have been entirely overhauled and renovated. New buildings have been erected to care for the increasing number of displays. Chief of the new buildings is the mammoth new machinery hall. It is 100 by 140 feet in dimensions and will be entirely for the exhibition of lighter machinery. The increasing displays in the live stock department have called for the erection of additional stock space. A new building for sheep and swine has been provided and will be specially attractive. Additional stalls for horses and cattle are ready and the call for reservation assures a full line of exhibits.

Among the other improvements will be a new station at the fair grounds for the accommodation of visitors who use the Northern Pacic trains to reach the fair grounds. A station platform, 100 feet long, has been provided, and large crowds can be handled safely and with ease. Then entrances have been enlarged and are equipped with registering turnstiles, so that it will be possible to keep exact tab of the number of persons visiting the fair. Wide stone sidewalks reach from the main entrance to all parts of the grounds, and this improvement will be most welcome.

Everything in sight on the grounds will shine resplendent in a new coat of shinning white paint. Old and new buildigs have been painted. Even the fences have been painted. All roofs are stained a deep soft green that harmonizes with the grat white buildings and makes them a symphony in color. Care has been given to the grass and to the parking of the grounds with shrubs and plants.

For the amusement of the crowd that will throng the grounds, the management has secured the Parker Carnival company, which is the best in the business in every way. This company carries twenty-seven carloads of mirth and will offer something to please everybody. The shows include such wonders as the great spectacles that have distinguished the huge national expositions. There are the Alps, tours of the world, Superba, Katzenjammer castle, with its mysteries; the still more and wonderful and mystifying conceit, How Old is Ann? the old Plantation, a wonderful animal show and many others. The Carry Us All is a wonder of mechanical skill. Three abreast the horses and tigers and other animals come charging about loaded with their happy riders, and canter along in a most invigorating manner. The huge Ferris' wheel, ninety feet in diameter, is the largest ever seen in the Northwest. It is brand new and strong enough for the heaviest loads.

"FRAT" CLUBHOUSE.

Ten Thousand Dollar Building to be Built at North Dakota University.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ground will be broken next week for the Bachelor club's home at the university. The "frat" house, the first of its kind to be erected in North Dakota, will be a fine building according to the plans now being prepared by Architect Rosa.

The club house will be located on the university campus, just south of Davis hall, on the banks of the coulee. It will be two stories above a basement, with a high attic. The building will be of pressed brick, 26x58, and will be complete in every detail. The total cost will be $10,000, and the building will be somewhat along the lines of the M. J. Moran residence on North Third street, now in process of construction.

The clubhouse will be for members of the club. There will be ten or twelve bedrooms in the building, a kitchen and dining hall, two large parlors and a library.

DRAMATIC SUICIDE.

Minot Man Expects to Meet Wife in Heaven Then Takes His Life.

Minot, N. D., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of William E. Lunsford, a salesman, formerly employed by the Imperial Lumber company here, who killed himself Monday by taking carbolic acid, was held yesterday afternoon. Lunsford was found dead in a room at the Dakotah hotel. Prior to taking his life he wrote a very despondent note to his wife, in which he said:

"When next you see me my body will be cold in death, be Christians and we will meet in heaven."

At the coroner's inquest Mrs. Lunsford, his wife, said:

"I last saw 'Billy' Saturday evening. He started to go away about dark and I asked him to stay at home and go to bed early. He said that he had to go and see about rates to Eureka. I then handed him the baby and said:

"'There, Billy, is a bundle of kisses for you.'

"He took the baby and foundled it a while and then left. He had not been well of late and this combined with financial troubles had made him despondent."

She also testified that during the last year she had noted a change in her husband and that he was not the same man he had been a year or two ago. For some time he had been out of employment. Just before his death he was employed by the Imperial Lumber company. She stated that they had been married for sixteen years.

The deceased was a Mason. He was a member of the Winona, Minn., lodge, where he came from to Minot about two years ago.

SPORTS OF THE DAY

SLOW GAME BY CRIPPLES

Houghton and Calumet Play an Eleven Inning Contest.

Game Pulled Out of Fire by Giants in Eleventh.

The Houghton and Calumet baseball nines played yesterday afternoon at Athletic park. "Nines" is correct. One couldn't say clubs, for there were but nine men to each team, and the but boys had to make the tenth members, who were supposed to occupy the bench. Both clubs were shy two or three men. They expected new players to join them here, but there were none of them in sight, and Newcombe had to pick up Deetz, a local amteur, to fill up his team.

After eleven long-drawn-out innings, Houghton pulled a victory out of the fire. It was a listless game up to the eleventh. But then there was plenty of excitement. Sincock rapped out a two-sacker and scored when Si Loughlin bungled on a fly ball from Lewis' bat and ran into Olson, letting the ball drop.

It looked very much like Calumet then. But the Giants were going to die game at that. Solbraa singled and swiped second. Loughlin took a walk and Kaiser laid down a pretty one. Solbraa poked his feet off the ground and scored from second on the sacrifice. Rogers reached first safely on a fielder's choice and Wallace took Miller's grounder and beaved the ball past Egan at second, Loughlin crossing with the winning run.

SOX LOSE ONCE MORE

Maroons Bunch Hits on Krick and Win by 5 to 2 Score.

Giencke and Terry Hold the Sox to Five Hits.

Winnipeg, Man., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Duluth couldn't hit yesterday, therefore the Maroons won again, the score being 5 to 2. It was easy for the home team. Krick was a volume opened at the right page, and the swats of the 'Peggers were gathered into nice bundles and made to count.

The men from the United States couldn't see much in the batting line. They did succeed in rapping out five singles, but they came far from each other and couldn't be made to count for enough to won. Giencke started to pitch for Winnipeg, but was injured in the third inning and had to retire to right field, Terry finishing the game in brilliant style.

SYLPH IS WINNER.

Record Race in Series for 22-Footers at Yacht Club.

With the Allouez contesting every foot of the course and running close up in the finish, the yacht Sylph won the second race in the series for 22-footers at the Duluth Yacht club. The race was sailed last evening over the club course and was one of the prettiest events held this year.

There were four entries, the Sylph, Allouez, Oneota and Onika. The Sylph took the lead shortly after the boats left the line and held it all the way through. The Allouez pulled up and fought for the lead position, but the Sylph succeeded in holding its lead. At the finish the yachts pulled close together and the Sylph crossed a winner by a narrow margin.

Lajoie ready to back throw from catcher to second

Lajoie

the greatest ball player in the world, after drinking it for years, says that is the ideal beverage for athletes.

Coca-Cola

See what Lajoie — the great Lajoie — says about Coca-Cola:

"I drink Coca-Cola regularly and have been doing so for several years. It is the most refreshing beverage an athlete can drink. I can make $10,000 a year playing base-ball while I couldn't make more than 50c. a day at anything else, and I am taking care of myself so that I may be in the game for several years yet to come."

You know, and we all know, that no athlete who expects to get to the top (as Lajoie undoubtedly is) can afford to put anything into his stomach that will not strengthen his nerves, muscles and body, and keep his brain clear and active. Neither can you whether or no you are an athlete. What is good for athletes certainly is good for you — then drink Coca-Cola.

COMPLETED IN AUGUST

Work on New Yacht Club Building Progressing Well.

Launch House and Ball Room on the Same Level.

It is now fully expected that the middle of August will see the completion of the launch house and ball room at the Duluth Yacht club property on Park Point. Work is progressing in good shape on the structure, and it is getting well along towards completion.

Contrary to the former expectations of many members, the ball room will not be built above the launch house. The place for launches and the place for dancing will occupy the same building, but they will be on the same level. The structure is being built out over the water, and the outer end will be for launches. That portion toward the shore, measuring 90 by 42 feet, will be the ball room.

Construction is such that the ball room can easily be extended the full length of the launch house, doing away with the stalls altogether, and an extension can be built between the outer end and the breakwater, either for additional dancing room or for boats. The whole space provided for the building is 244 feet long, and the structure is so located that still more extensions can be made to the shore end. A wide veranda is being built all around the structure.

An unusual interest is being manifested in yachting this year, and the club was never in such a good condition as it is today, and never before was the outlook for its future so bright.

RUBY ROBERT IS DEAD ONE

Johnson Knocks Out Grand Old Man of Ring.

Philadelphia, July 18.—Jack Johnson stopped Bob Fitzsimmons in the second round of a six-round boxing bout before the Washington Sporting club yesterday. Fitzsimmons did not show a trace of his former prowess, and it is believed that Johnson could have stopped him in the opening round if he had cared to do so. The blow that put Fitzsimmons out was a light right to the jaw. The old man fell to the floor, and as he made no attempt to rise, the referee stopped the bout. The hissing which usually folows knockouts of this character was absent, the spectators evidently taking compassion on the former pugilistic star.

Referee Keenan refused to act in the ring because he had heard that Fitzsimmons had a badly sprained arm. The manager of the club then entered the ring and watched the uneven match in the opening round Johnson tapped Fitzsimons when and where he pleased, but the latter was unable to land his famous counters.

McGRAW HAS RESIGNED

The Chicago Cop Wanted More Money for Umpiring.

New Umpire is on the Way From Rochester, N. Y.

If there is any minor league executive in the United States, who has had more trouble with his umpires this year than President Glass of the Northern-Copper Country league, he should make a trip to Lake Linden, Mich. Dr. Glass has a shake coming. He certainly can listen to the troubles of any other minor league president, with a sympathetic ear, for he has troubles of his own.

Tommy McGraw has jumped his job.

After sticking through rain and shine, praise and abuse, victory and defeat, glory and disrepute, for nearly two years, the Chicago cop has thrown up his hands.

He saw umpires come and go in a seemingly endless stream and, though sometimes the fans wished him on the other side of the earth, it looked as though he were destined to go on forever.

The fact remains he has quit. He wasn't thrown out like Nolan, nor scared out like Wiesler, nor promoted to a managership like Flaherty. He just quit. And all because he thought this long-drawn out circuit could and should be pulled for a little more money. Thomas J., wanted a raise; Dr. Glass refused; so Thomas J. quit cold, and two players are again umpiring in Winnipeg.

Returning to Dr. Glass' predicament, the Northern-Copper Country league will be getting an unsavory reputation soon. Three umpires have worked with McGraw already this year and now that McGraw is going, it will be up to Glass to provide an entirely new force. He has one C. E. Danahy of Rochester, N. Y., who is now enroute to Duluth to take an indicator and he is expected here for the opening of the Calumet series tomorrow. In the meantime, players will continue to officiate at Winnipeg, providing nobody is killed in the act, and the president will go umpire hunting once more.

GOOD GOLF PLAYED.

Excellent Scores in Qualifying Round at Rock Island.

Rock Island, Ill., July 18.—Ardo Mitchell of Rock Island made the best qualifying score in the medal play rounds of the tenth annual tournament of the trans-Mississippi Golf association which opened on the Rock Island arsenal links yesterday. Mitchell negotiated the thirty-six holes in 158. President Talbot of Hutchinson, Kan., and H. G. Legge of Minneapolis were next with 160 each. Legge equalled the course record of 74, held by Mitchell, in the afternoon round.

G. J. Jaffray, present title holder, was eighteenth on the qualifying list with 165. The qualifying scores showed good golf in view of the conditions of the course, which was made soggy by recent rains. The field of 130 in the qualifying rounds is the largest in the history of the association.

WATER WALKER KILLS HIMSELF

Oldrieve Ends Career Out of Grief Over Wife's Death.

Memphis, Tenn., July 18.—A remarkable career was ended here by the suicide of Prof. C. W. Oldrieve, the water walker.

Oldrieve, who claimed Boston as his home, and who is well known in this city, became despondent over the death of his wife, who was fatally burned by the premature explosion of fireworks at Greenwood, Miss., the night before the Fourth, and took his life by drinking chloroform. Oldrieve and his wife were giving an exhibition at the time. Crazed by her death, he began to drink heavily, and finally reached the suicidal stage.

Using a pair of cedar shoes, Oldrieve performed wonderful feats of walking on the water. In February last he walked from Cincinnati to New Orleans, a distance of 1,600 miles, in forty days, winning a $5,000 wager. In that voyage he was almost drowned by the slipping of his shoes, but he was rescued by his wife, who accompanied him on all his walks in a rowboat.

Years ago Oldrieve startled the world by announcing that he could walk on the water. One of his first appearances was in the old Globe theater here, where he starred as the man who could perform this supposedly impossible feat. He was 21 years old at the time, and scored a success by walking on the water in a tank on the stage.

Oldrieve started in life as a high-wire performer, with a traveling circus. The idea of walking on the water was not original with him, as he got it from Edward Hanlan, who in turn had the idea from somebody else. Oldrieve was, however, the first to demonstrate the theory, and in doing so he made some remarkable records. Several years ago he walked from Ocean Pier to Nahant, a distance of seven miles, in three and one-half hours, against wind and tide.

One of his greatest feats was walking down the Hudson river, from Albany to New York, in 1888.

Shortly after this exploit Oldrieve walked from the Grand street ferry in New York to the Annex dock, Brooklyn, winning a bet of $100 from Steve Brodie. He also walked the rapids at Lawrence, meeting on that occasion with an accident in which he broke two of his ribs by striking against the rocks. On many other trips he was forced to leave his shoes and take to swimming to save his life.

NINE KILLED BY AUTOMOBILES

In Past Twenty-Six Days in State of Massachusetts.

Boston, July 17.—Nine pedestrians have lost their lives and thirty-four have been injured as a result of automobile accidents in Massachusetts within the past twenty-six days, according to statistics compiled and made public today by the Safe Roads Automobile association. During the twenty-six days there have been ninety-two collisions in which automobiles have figured. The investigations conducted by the association show that out of sixteen cases looked into the operators was to blame in thirteen.

Convinced that radical measures must be adopted if these accidents are to be stopped, the association has offered rewards for conviction of operators who do not leave their names after an accident, and have also offered to reward evidence which shall secure the conviction of persons operating automobiles while under suspension or after revocation of their licenses. Evidence leading to the conviction of persons attaching numbers to vehicles other than those to which the numbers have been assigned will also be rewarded by the association.

S.S.S. CURES CATARRH

Catarrh is not merely a disease of the mucous membranes and inner linings of the body as some of the symptoms would seem to indicate; it is a deep-seated blood disease, in which the entire circulation and the greater part of the system are involved. Like all other blood diseases, Catarrh comes from poisons and impurities accumulating in the circulation which irritate and inflame the tissues and mucous surfaces, and then the unpleasant symptoms of the disease are manifested. There is a ringing noise in the ears, a thin, watery discharge from the nostrils, filthy matter drops back into the throat, the breath has an offensive odor, and many other annoying and unpleasant symptoms are characteristic of the trouble. Sprays, washes, inhalations, etc., cannot reach the blood, and are therefore valuable only for the temporary relief they afford. To cure Catarrh the blood must be purified. Nothing equals S. S. S. for this purpose; it goes down into the circulation, removes the catarrhal matter, purifies the blood and makes a lasting cure. When S. S. S. has removed the cause, the blood being pure and healthy nourishes the membranes and tissues instead of irritating them with noxious matter, and the symptoms all pass away. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

NORTH WEST'S STAY IN DULUTH

Efforts of Commercial Club to Get Change in Schedule.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your paper last evening, an article appeared quoting Henry Abraham as being indignant that the North West did not stop over longer in Duluth, and further stating that it was a shame that the Commercial club was so indifferent to the welfare of the city as to allow this condition to continue.

The Commercial club is always pleased to receive, and in fact solicits suggestions and ideas from its members and citizens at large, and had Mr. Abraham taken the trouble to investigate, he would have found that the boat is running here through the efforts of the Commercial club, and that the matter of a stop-over has been threshed out to the satisfaction of any fair minded person, that a longer stay is not feasible.

During the year 1902, the North West and North Land did not make Duluth, but were placed on the Chicago and Buffalo run. In November, 1902, F. A. Patrick, then president of the Commercial club, appointed a committee of which George H. Crosby was chairman, to take the matter up with the Northern Steamship company, and again endeavor to have the boats run to Duluth. The efforts of the committee were successful inasmuch that the steamship company agreed to place one of the boats on the Duluth run and have continued to do so ever since.

In 1904, the question of a change of schedule which would enable he boat to make a longer stay in Duluth was broached, with the result that a committee was appointed by T. W. Hugo, chairman of the public affairs committee, of which L. W. Powell was chairman. This committee went to St. Paul, taking the matter up personally with Mr. Hill, who explained that, in order to make train connections, the steamer must leave Buffalo in the evening and that the cities of Cleveland and Detroit, being the important passenger points, must be reached at seasonable hours, and further, for physical reasons, it is necessary to pass the Soo and Portage canal in daylight, and the only success attained, was the arrival of the boat at 8 p. m., which was slightly earlier than previous seasons.

While it would be a nice thing for Duluth, and Duluth merchants, to have this boat stay over a day, it is not a fair proposition to ask even transportation companies to lose hundreds of dollars for the sake of one day stop-over. Under the present arrangement, passengers have the privilege of a stop-over until the next boat, and also have the privilege of changing their transportation and returning by rail if desired.

In justice to ourselves and our various committees who endeavor to cope with every question of public interest, it would seem eminently fair to first ascertain if anything has been done regarding any matters for the welfare of our community before rushing into print in a spirit of condemnation. Very respectfully,

HUBERT V. EVA,
Commercial Club of Duluth.

OLD OPERA BY VERDI HAS BEEN DISCOVERED.

Milan, July 17.—In a box of old papers in Verdi's home there has been found the manuscript of an hitherto unknown opera written by the great composer. In accordance with the will of Verdi the contests of this box were to have been destroyed and it was while going through the papers prepatory to carrying out the dead man's wishes that the opera was found. It has not been decided by Verdi's executors what will be done with the manuscript. It is supposed to have been one of his early works.

BLIND PIG SITUATION

More Prosecutions Since January Than in Any Year Past.

County Authorities Have Been "Sawing Wood" and Keeping Still.

Some of those people who have been critisizing the county authorities for not being active enough in the matter of closing up the blind pigs, which are alleged to abound in some parts of St. Louis county, would, doubtless, be somewhat surprised if they examined the criminal records and found out that, as a matter of fact, there have been more criminal prosecutions for selling liquor without a license in the county during the past six months than for any previous twelve months in a number of years past.

It has been a matter of common knowledge that blind pigging has, and is, being carried on within the county, particularly around the range locations where there is a large population of foreigners and where it is most difficult to get a conviction by reason of the suspicion that such classes of people have for persons not of their own nationality who may attempt to get evidence, and because of the dense ignorance, either natucal or assumed, when one of them is hauled into court to answer to a charge of running a blind pig. People of their own nationality who may have purchased liquor at the boarding houses in mine locations, right along, will, when subpoenaed as witnesses, swear by all that is good that they do not know of any liquor being sold.

Out in the lumber camp districts, and outlying portions of the county, which are pretty well beyond the reach of police protection, blind pigs have been, and are now doubtless, being operated, but the court records show that prosecutions of the proprietors of such places are being made as fast as the county authorities can get evidence against them.

That it would not be good policy for the county authorities to tell before hand what they will attempt to do can be readily understood, for the minute a note of warning is given the blind piggers either develop a remarkable degree of caution, or else they keep under cover until the scare blows over. If the authorities on the other hand were to give it out that nothing was to be done in the way of prosecutions they would receive the censure of the people. Practically the only safe course left to the officials, who are engaged in rooting out the evil, is to say nothing, when criticized, but just "keep sawing wood" as quietly and effectively as possible. The record of convictions already had on blind pig prosecutions this year would tend to show that this last course has been followed to a considerable extent.

Towns Can Prosecute.

"Another thing that some of those who are so free with their criticisms about the alleged inaction of the county officers in regard to the blind pigs do not seem to realize," said a well known local attorney, the other day, "is that the city, village and town authoritles have ample authority under the law to prosecute blind-piggers, whenever they find them within their district. The expense of such a prosecution is chargeable against the county, but it can be carried on at a figure far below what it would cost the county authorities to take the initiative in the matter. It is the sentiment of the people in every community that is largely responsible for the prosecution of blind piggers and it is a certainty that if the people don't care whether liquor is sold illegally within the boundaries of their towns or villages the authorities there are not going to long survive for trouble.

"I have been watching this matter of blind pigs pretty closely and my observation is that the people who are making the greatest noise over the alleged large number of blind pigs operating are retail liquor dealers who have paid their license fee, and justices of peace and constables who are in line to get good fees in case of a prosecution. The city and town authorities, if they want to, can get all the evidence they need to prosecute and the county will stand the expense. The county commissioners, as I understand their policy, have granted licenses to men to sell liquor in certain localities for the purpose of rooting out the blind pigs. The licensed saloonkeeper will be an active foe of the blind pigger who does not pay a license, and will leave no stone unturned to get enough evidence to put the latter out of business."

Bill Was Killed.

Those who followed the run of things in the last legislature, as regards matters of special interest to St. Louis county will, doubtless, recall a bill that was introduced by the St. Louis delegation entitled "an act regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors." The bill, which is said to have been drawn up by W. J. Stevenson, the present first assistant county attorney, was aimed directly at the blind pig business and would, it is claimed, have been a most effective weapon against them had it ever become a bill. The bill was "killed" in the committee, and if anybody were to investigate the matter very carefully it is quite probable that they would not have to go very far to locate the interests responsible for the killing of the bill.

Under the provisions of this bill any person who received an order for intoxicating liquor in quantities of five gallons or over from any person in this state, other than those duly licensed to sell intoxicating liquors, or any person who contracted directly or indirectly for the sale of intoxicating liquors in quantities of five gallons or more, unless to those duly licensed to sell such liquors, should be held guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction would be liable to a fine of not less than $50, and the costs of the prosecution, and by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than thirty days.

The effect of the proposed law is apparent. It meant, if passed, that any wholesale liquor dealer furnishing supplies to a blind pigger would be guilty of misdemeanor and liable to a fine and imprisonment. There are a great many people in St. Louis county who believe the bill should have been passed.

The bill drawn by Mr. Stevenson would, it is said, have aimed a blow at the very root of the blind pig evil, and the "contingent fund" for criminal prosecution within the county would have been almost unnecessary.

The last legislature provided for a "contingent fund," in St. Louis county, not to exceed $1,000. This fund is available for the expense connected with grand jury investigations and for the purpose of collecting evidence in all criminal prosecutions within the county, whether against blind pigs or murderers. A large amount of criminal business is handled in the county and this necessitates a pretty heavy draw on the fund so that the authorities cannot, with any degree of safety draw too heavy on it for blind pig prosecutions for there might be a number of murder cases arising where funds would be necessary to secure the evidence for the state, and the contingent fund is the only source on which the prosecutor can fall back.

Fund Was Left Out.

J. M. McClintock, while county attorney, had a contingent fee until the last year of his term. When the legislature revised the laws of 1905, the contingent fund for St. Louis county was, through some inadvertence, left out. This was not discovered for some time, until after Mr. McClintock had employed men to secure evidence against some blind pigs during 1906 and found that he had to pay the expense out of his own pocket. Mr. McClintock promptly dropped the prosecutions of blind pigs, unless evidence could be procured without extra expense.

The court records show that in 1902 there were twelve arrests of blind piggers. One was convicted, one pleaded guilty, one was acquitted, and the remaining nine cases were nolle prossed.

In 1903 there were six prosecutions of blind piggers. One was convicted, and five pleaded guilty.

In 1904 there were three prosecutions of blind piggers. Two pleaded guilty and one, so far as the records show, was never disposed of.

In 1905, a year when the county authorities raided the blind pigs, vigorously, there were sixteen prosecutions. Thirteen pleaded guilty, two cases were nolle prossed, and the records do not show what became of the remaining case.

There were few prosecutions of blind piggers last year for the reason the county attorney's office had no contingent fund to depend on to hire special detectives to secure evidence.

COUNTRY IS PROSPEROUS

Despite Pessimistic Stories That Come From Wall Street.

New York, July 18.—If the country took its tone in business matters from Wall street it would be decidedly blue, and if Wall street could only realize the ease with which the country pursues its independent, prosperous career, Wall street would lose its arrogance and self-conceit.

Wall street sentiment is not that of the self-confident manufacturers of oil, steel, iron, copper, cotton, sugar, lumber, or of a thousand other articles deserving of a place in the lists of commerce. The interviews of Gary, Frick, Carnegie, Rogers, Rockefeller, the annual reports of the Claflin company, the Pullman company, the railway companies all give the seal of prosperity to their business certificates and all give denial to the pessimistic views of Wall street. Wall street is dominated by trust managers, combine agents, merger promoters, and men active in these illegal combinations or interested in the profits of schemes forbidden by law are naturally disappointed, sore and pessimistic over a future which bids fair to destroy their methods and forbid their plunder profits. The promoters of the Louisiana lottery felt that their personal liberty of action was interfered with by the state and federal laws which closed up their enterprise. The country at large, however, has not suffered from the breaking up of that game. The country will not suffer if the utmost publicity would be given to all corporate proceedings.

There are thousands of persons who are investors, and hundreds who manage and control investments who have no interest in common with those who have grown rich from these questionable practices of modern finance. There are scores of millionaires in this country whose fortunes have been acquired in an honorable manner and whose financial interests are not endangered by the elimination of illegal combinations. There is safety and security for such persons in the prompt and effective enforcement of the law which delivers the public from monopolies and leaves the field open to individual effort.

The United States has grown to its high station in all that counts in modern civilization through the great freedom it has given to the individual. The sentiment adverse to corporations today, in a large measure, comes from the innate opposition of our individual citizens to exactions and limitations placed upon them by corporations without their consent or approval, and these corporations at the same time stifling all measures looking to competition in their several spheres, whether by individual or associate effort.

The rights and equities of investors and of the public often assume very complex relations, and it is very difficult in many instances to rightly and fairly adjust them. Through all this turmoil and discussion there are apparent two most gratifying facts. First, solid public sentiment exists against monopoly and undue exactions from the people; second, there is equally pronounced opposition to anything that savors of confiscation, or inadequate returns on capital actually invested. With these two foundation stones, public sentiment can be said to be strongly, firmly and soundly based. No reforms that are not along the lines approved by the American people can be lasting, and the American people will not stand for any reform that does not do justice to both capital and the general public. Our farmers believe the railway rates will be made fair and equitable. Our manufacturers know they have a board of appeals in the interstate commerce commission for all shipments overcharged. The traveling public are keenly alive to the doings of the members of the various legislatures and the congress of the United States. The consumers of coal and of provisions watch with interest the contest and its results on the necessities of life. It is a far-reaching question, affecting directly or indirectly nearly every individual in the republic.

It will be solved slowly, perhaps, but solved in the interest of the people without taking from the investor his rightful dues, or, in other words, his due rights. The vast majority of our people have full confidence in the present and in the future, and proceed with energy to the transaction of affairs without doubts or hesitation. They know that the interests of the masses of the people are being safeguarded, and that no one who is doing business lawfully will be injured. The crop reports are far better this week from all sections of the country, and, as they stand today, seem to average up in tonnage aggregate to the crops of the last two great years.

If there is a little less wheat, there seems a greater total of corn, more hay if fewer oats, and the cotton estimates are growing higher with the weeks since June 1. Taking into consideration the reports received by the merchants of New York, the opinions based upon those reports, there seems to be concurrence of views that the business of the country by the 15th of September will be far greater than ever recorded, and that our financial resources and our transportation facilities will be tested to the utmost by the tremendous activity of the country's trade.

The tonnage of the Pennsylvania and of the New York Central roads continues at record-breaking figures, and all through New England and the Eastern states industrial demand for labor is pressing. Thousands of aliens, as quickly as they land in New York, secure employment at the coke, coal and steel establishments of Pennsylvania, showing that there is not the slightest check to busines in those important fields. In the closest observation of the movements of commerce throughout all parts of the United States nothing reveals itself as adverse to the continuance of the present good times, and in every section there is ample evidence of still greater results, provided greater money resources were made available. The banks of the country are acting wisely in discouraging speculation in Wall street securities and retaining their funds for the needs of legitimate business of the country. It has been said that the rich men have had the values of their stock holdings reduced many millions of dollars. This is but temporary reduction, and the dullness in the stock market is exceedingly salutary for the people at large. The majority of the owners will hold their stocks and eventually realize full value, while the attention of the bankers and the funds at their disposal will be active in directions of much greater importance than in boosting new or old speculation s.

An active West, a prosperous South, a sound, energetic North and East will be productive of good to the entire country, and if the demand in other sections of the republic for money produces a dull and listles Wall street, so let it be, for the common weal.

Lower row—J. C. Schnacke, G. S., St. Paul; Don E. McLennan, G. G. S., Minneapolis; Hon. Geo. R. Laybourn, G. P. G. S., Duluth.

Tomorrow evening at the Elks hall, 118 West Superior street, the Alpha council of the Modern Samaritans will initiate a large class of Duluthians, mostly young people, into the mysteries of Samaritanism. The ceremonies will commence at 8:15 p. m. and the journey "from Jerusalem to Jericho" is to be one of the strangest and most mystifying of any that the new Samaritans ever took, according to the officers who will be in charge of the affair.

The grand officers of the order will all be in attendance and view the caravan and special privileges will be extended to visiting Samaritans. They will be "allowed to sit on the top board of the fence to see the procession pass," to quote from the announcement."

Though the actual journey will not begin until 8:15, all Samaritans are requested to be at the hall at 8 p. m. sharp. The committee in charge is confident that the program will be sufficiently attractive to bring out a large attendance.

The instrument far superior to every other for the home entertainer is the Victrola. It is always ready to laugh, sing or play and it does it in the most life-like manner. No mechanical sounds, no grating, jarring or squeaking. Clear, deep-toned melody always at your command.

The Victrola has no horn showing, it may be tightly closed like a music cabinet and is finely finished in dull mahogany, forming a handsome home decoration. No more universal entertainer could be imagined.

The Price Is $200.

RAILROAD NEWS

NEW RATES ANNOUNCED

Beginning Friday, the Duluth-Chicago Fare Will be $11.10.

Substantial Reductions to All Points in Territory Affected.

The new Duluth-Chicago rate, which becomes effective tomorrow, will be $11.10, according to official announcement made by the Omaha road today. Heretofore the rate has been $13.55. The new fare via the Omaha will be 69 cents lower than the fare to the Windy City by the way of St. Paul, unless Duluth-St. Paul roads meet the rate, which they probably will.

The new tariff sheets giving rates to various points in the states where new rate laws have recently gone into effect, figured on the lower rates in these states, have been issued, and will become effective tomorrow. The rate to Milwaukee will be $9.44, and from Duluth to Kansas City it will be $13.20, where formerly it was $18.40. The rate will be $10.05 from Duluth to Omaha, instead of $14.55 as before. To Des Moines the new rate is $8.93, where before it was $12.30. Rates to other points in the district affected have been reduced in proportion.

Through rates to such points as Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo, Cleveland, Pittsburg, etc., are not affected by the new tariff. If the local rates were used as a basis, the tariff would mean quite a substantial reduction in the rate between Duluth and any of these points, but the agents have instructions to sell to such points as these under tariff sheets now being used, not basing the through rate on the new locals. Where such through rates are published it will be compulsory to sell under those rates, despite the fact that the rate from Duluth to Chicago, added to the rate from Chicago to different points farther east, would be lower than the published through rate.

This being true, a person going to any of the leading cities in the East, with the exception of those in the extreme East will save money if they will purchase a ticket from Duluth to Chicago, and then buy another ticket in Chicago to their final destination. A person going to Cincinnati, for example, would save about $2 by this simple process.

NOT A SUCCESS.

Disintegration of the American Railway Clearing House Brought About.

The disintegration of the American railway clearing house, which has been trying for eight months to perfect a pool of all freight cars in the country, is being brought about. One of its strongest advocates at the beginning of the movement, the Chicago & Alton, will withdraw July 31. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul has withdrawn, and other eastern and western lines plan to do so.

The breaking up came about through the utter failure of the clearing house in its prime object, insuring each road having on its own rails all the time the number of cars owned by it. It has failed to do this because it had no power to penalize the roads for disobeying its mandates, beyond the imposition of the established rate of rental per diem. When all roads were short of cars no road would give up any when told to do so by the pool managers, and now when most of the roads have more cars than they actually need, the pooling scheme does not result in creating more traffic to utilize the cars that are idle.

The plan to have the clearing house keep a record of the interchange of all cars and collect the per diem rental due each road has failed because all of the big companies have insisted on keeping their own records of their cars and making the collections due them.

RAILROAD MEN ANGRY

Are Innocent Sufferers as Result of the Strike.

Hope to See the Trouble Settled in Near Future.

Every day the strike of the trimmers at the ore docks here and in Two Harbors is prolonged brings concern to thousands of people, but to none more so than the employes of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and the Duluth & Iron Range. The tying up of the ore docks laid both systems practically idle and hundreds of men were thrown out of work. The railroad men do not take kindly to the strike idea. They are losing wages and can gain nothing by the strike, regardless of which way it goes, so they will be well pleased if it is quickly ended.

"I hope that they bring this strike to an end quickly," said a Duluth, Missabe & Northern employe this morning, while discussing the strike. "I am losing $5.25 every day the strike is prolonged and there are hundreds of other men in the same position. We would just as soon see the trimmers win their point, but I think I am voicing the sentiments of the railroad men when I say we don't care to lose very much more by it.

"We're going to lose a good deal if they don't bend soon. The company evidently intends to maintain its position, for they are letting the engines die in the roundhouse. They wouldn't do that if a settlement were likely in a day. The yardmasters have nearly all been laid off and the entire system is tied up. Not a wheel is moving on the ore lines.

"The company is losing money every day, too. The Duluth, Missabe & Northern must be out thousands of dollars a day in possible earnings by the strike and that's no small figure. The trimmers are losing money and everybody concerned finds that the strike is a mighty expensive luxury."

HE SWORE AT CENTRAL GIRL

Blankety-blank-blank blank you anyway." Those quoth Guy Dean over the telephone in Joe Rich's candy store, across from the Union depot, yesterday afternoon, to the young lady who officiates at the other end of the telephone wire. At this juncture Mr. Rich butted in.

"Heah, heah, ma boy," said the big Italian quietly, "don' you know betta dan talka young lady lika dat? What? You ged out!" and he proceeded to hurl the offending Dean into the street. When the two got outside Dean swung around and hit Rich on the side of the head, and just then an officer arrived and arrested Dean. Dean was arraigned this morning in municipal court, and on Rich's testimony, was sentenced to ten days in jail. Dean said he came from Chicago, and he is an Italian, in spite of his name.

DULUTH TURNED DOWN BY FRATERNAL BODIES

The National Fraternal Congress is Switched to Buffalo.

Executive Committees Claim Inability to Make Hotel Reservations.

Duluth has lost the National Fraternal Congress and the Associated Fraternities of America, big conventions, which were to have been held here the first week in August.

A dispatch to The Herald from Detroit, today says: "At a joint meeting here today of the executive committees of the National Fraternal Congress and the Associated Fraternities of America, it was voted to hold the meeting of the two bodies Aug. 21, in Buffalo, N. Y., instead of Duluth, Minn., owing to the inability to secure hotel reservations in the latter city."

The news of this change of plans of the two big conventions, at practically the last moment, comes as a thunderbolt to the local people who have been working for almost a year, hard and enthusiastically, to complete the arrangements for the meetings proposed next month and everything was in readiness to take care of the conventions and all the delegates and visitors that might come here.

Great indignation is expressed by those in charge of the arrangements and they declare that not only has Duluth received an undeserved black-eye as a big convention city, but the course that has been taken shows pretty shabby treatment of all the local fraternal bodies and their representatives who have expended time, labor, and money to make the coming affair a great success.

What makes the matter worse is the fact that the executive committees of the two fraternal organizations have waited until within a few days of the time that the convention was to have occurred, before putting the skidoo stamp on Duluth, no intimation having been given the local people that there was under contemplation any plans for switching the meeting to some other city.

Hotel Men Not to Blame.

As to the intimation in the dispatch that Duluth has been relegated to a back seat for Buffalo because of "inability to secure hotel reservations" in Duluth, it is asserted here that the hotel men of the city guaranteed to take care of the delegates to both conventions, but would not make reservations of certain rooms ahead. It is claimed that there is not another city of any size where the hotel people will promise any more than the Duluth men.

It has been rumored that prominent people at the head of certain fraternal orders, some time ago, wrote one of the local hotels and engaged a suite of rooms for the August convention, and that the order was afterward cancelled by the hotel people. It is further rumored that the cancellation of the room order resulted in the matter being taken up with the executive committees of the fraternal congress and the associated fraternities with the result announced.

That a great injustice has been done the city and the people who have worked so hard to get the big meeting here and to entertain the visitors is the prevailing sentiment.

Much Money Wasted.

Money has been collected per capita, from practically all the local fraternal bodies and the committees have been to a considerable expense in arranging matter 1 ngeneral. The high school had been engaged for one organization, and the Maccabee hall for the others. A large amount of printing has been ordered and executed, and options have been taken on rigs and steamers for the entertainment of the delegates and their friends. Governor Johnson and numerous other prominent public men had been invited to be present.

The turndown that has been given Duluth by the National Fraternal congress and the Associated Fraternities of America will not be forgotten here very soon.

Duluth citizens and commercial organizations have been endeavoring for some time to have the city widely advertised as a convention city and, already, some large gatherings have been held here, and everybody was taken care of in a satisfactory manner. The action of the executive committees of the big fraternal organizations has, it is believed, given the city a "hard knock."

Significance is laid to the fact that C. A. Gower of Lansing, Mich. secretary-treasurer of the National Fraternal congress, was here several weeks ago for the purpose of investigating the hotel accommodations, and when he returned East he expressed himself fully satisfied that Duluth could take care of the conventions.

FIERCE HEAT IN THE EAST

New York and Philadelphia Suffering From a Severe Scorcher.

New York, July 18.—New York is suffering from a scorching heat wave which has caused three deaths and scores of heat prostrations. The high temperature reached today, which nearly 90 degs. at noon, was accompanied by extreme humidity and the weather bureau holds out little prospect of abatement of the distressing conditions.

Last night hundreds were driven from the sun-baked tenements of the East side to the city parks, where they slept all night on the benches. Others slept on fire escapes and roofs to catch what vagrant breezes might be astir. The beaches at Coney Island were the resting places of many thousands last night.

Philadelphia, July 18.—Today proved to be one of the hottest of the summer, resulting in the prostration of hundreds of persons who were watching the Elks' parade. The jam of people was terrific and the greatest difficulty was experienced by the worn out policemen in getting the prostrated persons out of the crowds. About seventy-five persons had been treated at various hospitals up to 2 p. m., 100 were given attention elsewhere and scores were looked after along the line of the parade.

SUPT. HAWKINS DENIES REPORT

Men Not Laid Off Because of Political Belief.

Virginia, Minn., July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. M. S. Hawkins of the Oliver Mining company in mines of the Virginia district asked The Herald correspondent this afternoon to deny the story in the Duluth News Tribune to the effect that 200 men had been laid off at the Mountain Iron mine because they were Socialists. Mr. Hawkins said there were nearly 200 men laid off because the company cannot employ them at present during the dock trouble at Duluth. The men are mostly engineers and firemen and some working on the steam shovels at the Mountion Iron and the Higgins mines. Not a man was laid off because of his political belief or because he belonged to any particular race.

"FLAREBACK" CAUSED ACCIDENT IN GEORGIA.

Washington, July 18.—The naval court of inquiry in the case of explosion on the Georgia will find that the accident resulted from a "flareback," meaning that when the breech of the eight-inch gun was thrown open after it had been discharged, some shreds of burning cloth or unconsumed gas was driven into the turret and upon the powder about to be inserted for the next charge.

WEST DULUTH

CARS LEAVE THE TRACK

People Want the Third Street Track Improved Soon.

The Piedmont Avenue Hill is Considered Dangerous.

West Duluth people, who use the Third street car line, have been aroused to a high pitch of indignation by the continued failure of the street railway company to improve the line. The frequency with which the dinky cars jump the track on Piedmont avenue going east and on Third street just west of Piedmont, when going west, has caused a good many people to stop using the line entirely, although they may be inconvenienced by the change.

Yesterday, during the circus rush, a car left the rails while going down the Piedmont avenue grade, and Tuesday one also jumped the track at practically the same place. Sunday, while one car was going west and the other east on the Third street grade, the west bound car left the rails, crossed the intervening space and collided with the other car. It is said one passenger was slightly injured, by the shock of the collision.

The street railway company has made numerous promises to thoroughly overhaul its track on Third street and remedy defects, of which there are a number. On Piedmont avenue, in particular, there must be a poor spot in the track, but the cars run off at practically the same point on every occasion. The officials are expected to take action at any time and until they do, people do not feel entirely safe in traveling over the line.

FATHER AND SON DRUNK.

Anton Olson and Son Draw Thirty Days in Jail.

The family of Anton Olson and Justice J. B. Flack are becoming quite well acquainted. A few days ago, Anton, the husband and father, appeared before the justice, involuntarily, and was fined $10 and costs for being drunk and abusing his wife. Anton was back for another session this morning, and his son was with him.

In his sorrowful state of mind after paying the fine, his system demanded a stimulant and that he might have someone, into whose ear he might pour his tale of woe, he took the eldest son, Edward, with him. They lingered long over the bowls and when their money was gone, they returned home, waved aside the protesting wife and mother, and began to carry off the furniture and every movable object of any value in the house. They turned them into money and shot the money over the mahogany.

Last night, Mrs. Olson thought it about time to appeal to the law once more. Father and son were looking for more articles of value, so a policeman was called and they were both taken in. The younger brother signed the complaint, charging them with drunkenness and disorderly conduct and they were brought up on the charge this morning. They were found guilty and given a fine of $25 and costs each, or thirty days in the chain gang. They took the days, and for the next month will be employed by the city.

BOARD MAY HAVE A WARM SESSION

Ramsey Street Assessment and Paving Bids to Come Up.

The meeting of the board of public works to be held tomorrow will be an important one and there may be some stormy times before the session closes. The confirmation of the Ramsey street paving assessment will come up at this time, and as there was considerable objection to this improvement from a portion of the Oneota street owners some time ago, it is expected that there will be some lively argument tomorrow.

One of the property owners has retained an attorney to fight the case, but whether he will do it before the board or by means of an injunction, is not known.

The bids for Fourth avenue west will be opened at the meeting tomorrow. The bidding on this is expected to be close. McDonnell had a cinch on the East end jobs because of the cheapness with which he could secure rock, from the Twenty-fourth avenue east cut, but here he will not have this advantage and there is considerable speculation as to who will be the lowest. Steele was the lowest by a narrow margin at the first bidding.

The engineer has prepared the second set of specifications for the job, providing for cedar blocks between First and Second streets, and the cost will, according to his figures be about $400 less on this paving than when sandstone was put cigar through. The old estimate was $13,450 and the later one $13,050. It is rather expected that the council will turn down the petition from the county board asking that the upper block be left unpaved for a year, as this would knock out the whole job. The Lake avenue paving job will also be let tomorrow morning, subject to the approval of the council Monday. This is another sandstone job and the result of the bidding is as much in the dark as on the other job.

CONVICT LABOR

In Wisconsin Will be Fought by the State Federation.

Racine, Wis., July 18.—A fight against the use of convict labor in the state of Wisconsin will probably be taken up by the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor as a result of the two days' session of the convention now being held here. A resolution was introduced by P. T. Mehns of Milwaukee condemning the employment of convict labor and advising that the federation use every honorable means in fighting them. It also demands that all steps be taken to prevent the manufacture of brooms by convicts. The matter was referred to a committee and will probably be passed by the convention.

NEEDS OF THE ARMY

Will be Presented to Congress at Its Next Session.

Almost Impossible to Secure the Necessary Men Needed.

Washington, July 18.—"There is something wrong with the army," said Gen. Bell, chief of staff, in a Western speech, recently, and that statement is being echoed in various bureaus of the war department. There are different explanations advanced for that dispiriting criticism, but the weight of opinion at the war department is that Secretary Taft summed up the case when he remarked that the trouble with the army was that there was not enough of it. The general staff has been compiling some tables that bear out this statement and these will be made the basis for a strong presentation of the needs of the army to congress at the next session.

For instance, there is a company of coast artillery, the regulations required to manage his men, which according to the last return to the department masters just eight enlisted privates in its ranks. Of course, the company drill with such a skeleton organization is impossible. And this is only one of a number of such organizations, mainly in the coast artillery, it is true, but every branch of the service feels the same decline.

According to the statement, the men will not re-enlist at the expiration of their three terms of service. Wages outside the army are so much higher that they attract the most energetic soldiers into private life. Never before have the recruiting officers found their work so hard and unprofitable. The demands upon likely young adventurous men for the rapidly growing navy has also developed a new competitor for the recruiting sergeants.

Another reason for the refusal of the coast artillery men to re-enlist is that they are obliged to do a large amount of mechanical work in caring for the complicated fortifications, dressed only in working overalls or jumpers and getting few opportunities to wear their soldiers' uniforms, which is one source of pride with them and a factor in attracting them into the army. As to the other branches of the service, it is believed that the men are being called upon to do too much hard work which they regard as unnecessary. Particularly do they object to the long, hard and periodical practice marches which they are obliged to make carrying the full heavy field kit. Many desertions are traceable to this dissatisfaction.

The staff is trying to find corrective measures, but some measures, will require legislation to make them effective. The "hikes" are made by direct order of the president, so the same authority can dispense with them or reduce the requirements. But it is certain that congress must provide for a general and large increase of the pay of the soldier, if the regular army is to be maintained at its authorized strength. Officers may be had, even though Gen. Funston has reported that a captain's pay is less than the wage of a plumber or house mechanic in California; but the war department contends that the private soldier cannot longer be kept in the ranks for $13 a month, while wages in civil life remain at their present standard.

BEGGED FROM A POLICEMAN

Boys Arrested by Sergeant Gillon at His Doorstep.

Ed Smith and Tom Clark, 16-year-old boys, came up the lakes as firemen on one of the big freighters and quit the boat in Duluth. Because the captains make it a rule never to pay except after a round trip, the two young men were broke when they struck town.

They started out to get a living begging in the West end. All went well until shortly after noon today when they approached one of the West end houses and asked for food.

"Hey, what's that?" said a voice from inside, and Sergeant Gillon of the police force made his way to the door.

"You fellows come with me," he said briefly. "We don't allow this here," and the two amateur tramps were taken to the station and locked up. It is probably a case for the juvenile court.

MEN SAY THEY WILL SEE STRIKE THROUGH TO END

Refuse to Yield at Open Meeting in Lincoln Park.

Talk of Forming a Union Heard on All Sides.

"We will carry this strike on until we are victors. We are not going to give in an inch." This was the decision of the ore dock laborers assembled at Lincoln park this afternoon to listen to the report of the committee, which had been appointed last night to meet the officials of the Steel corporation.

The men had assembled 400 or 500 strong, and at the opening of the meeting at 1 o'clock, were gathered in the shade of the trees at the further end of the park pavilion. It was a very orderly crowd, and as soon as the meeting had been called to order by one of the committee the men gathered closer together and listened to the report.

J. W. Comber, one of the committee, acted as spokesman, and explained what had been done at the conference this morning. He declared that, as far as results were concerned, the meeting had been a flat failure and the two factions were no nearer a settlement now than ever. The officials of the railroad had refused to give in to the demands of the men, and the committee could not consent to compromise.

"One thing they offered us, however," said Mr. Comber, "which had nothing to do with our demands. President Olcott offered to give us extra pay for Sunday work. We told him that we did not want to work Sundays, and that the question of Sunday wages was not involved in the strike situation at all.

"At the conference they again rang in something about an agreement made last spring, which is claimed to have been violated by us. There was never any written agreement, and if there was a verbal agreement, which we do not admit, that is not binding. Who ever heard of a verbal agreement being binding.

"Now, gentlemen, what do we want to do? Shall we let these railroad officials lead us back to work again at the same pay as before, or shall we stick it out until they are compelled to grant the wage increase? I advise you, and so do the other members of the committee to stick to the fight and never give in. The committee is confident that we will win if we stick to it for a few days longer."

As Mr. Comber asked this question of the men, there were loud cheers and cries of "hold out to the end. We can make them give in."

Mr. Comber stated that now that the Two Harbors laborers had also struck it makes nearly a total of 1,500 men who are out and the railroad officials will find it rather difficult to find enough strike-breakers to take the places of all these. He stated that the strikers should send thanks to the Two Harbors laborers who had struck in sympathy for the Duluth men. He also advised that a committee of two be appointed to visit the Two Harbors men and talk over the situation with them so that the men at both cities would know how the others felt about the matter.

Unionism was also touched upon by Mr. Comber before he had completed his address. The men seemed very anxious to organize and repeatedly called for more facts about "What about the union?"

It was the advice of the committee that all of the strikers who had not yet drawn their pay that they should do so at once. Mr. Comber, himself, stated that it was his opinion that the men should not draw their pay until it was absolutely necessary.

The committee advised that a vote of thanks be extended to Mayor Cullum and Bishop McGolrick for their kindly attempts to settle the strike.

ADVERTISE RESOURCES

Commercial Club Committee Favors Car of Grassland Type.

Would be Sent Over the Country With Agricultural Exhibit.

At a meeting of the agricultural committee of the Commercial club, held this noon at the club rooms, the matter of advertising the agricultural resources of Northern Minnesota was taken up, and authority was given for the appointment of a committee to look into the feasibility and advisability of securing a car for advertising purposes, very similar in design and purpose to "Grassland," the car used by the Northern Wisconsin Farmers' association.

Probably such a car will be secured this summer, for it is expected the report of the committee will be a favorable one. If the car is equipped in time, it will be taken to the Minnesota state fair this year, in lieu of a regular exhibit along the usual line. It is the intention to arrange a comprehensive exhibit of vegetables, grains, grasses, fruits, etc., in the car, as showing what this part of the state will produce, and also to provide the car with a complete set of advertising literature, setting forth all the advantages of Northern Minnesota as a place of residence. Perishable goods will be placed in alcohol under glass covering.

The car thus equipped would be sent about over the country, wherever it might be expected to do the most good, and would be in charge of persons capable of doing the work expected of them. It was suggested at the meeting today that a stereoptican outfit with a full set of views of Duluth and vicinity be taken along, together with views of interest of other scenes by way of variety, in order that stereoptican entertainments of an advertising nature might be given in such small towns as the car stopped in over night. It seems to be the sentiment of committee members that this would be the most effective possible method of advertising Duluth. The club has had the matter of the car under advisement for some time past, and Secretary H. V. Eva has been investigating the matter on his own hook. The chances are that the car will be forthcoming before fall.

PAINTER HAS FOOT CRUSHED

Hans Oleson Loses Toes While Painting at Coke Ovens.

Hans Oleson, a painter, was the victim of a peculiar accident while at work on the superstructure of the coke ovens at the Zenith furnace this morning about 9:30. He was painting some of the iron work, and for some reason desired to descend. In order to do this he placed one foot on the elevated rail of the car which conveys the coal from the bins and distributes it to the various ovens. At this moment the car came along, and before Oleson could transfer his weight to another point and remove his foot from the rail it had caught it and crushed it horribly.

He was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where the physicians removed all the toes on the foot and a portion of the foot itself.

RAILROAD FARES ARE REDUCED

New Rate Between Milwaukee, Chicago and St. Paul.

Milwaukee, July 18.—The regular rates on the Milwaukee-Chicago and Chicago-St. Paul roads at midnight tonight will be placed at $1.30 between Milwaukee and Chicago and at $7.55 between Milwaukee and St. Paul. These are reductions in the regular one way rates from $2.55 between this city and Chicago, and $9.70 between Milwaukee and St. Paul. At the same time the regular rate between Chicago and St. Paul will become $8.75 instead of $10.50 as in recent years.

When the new 2-cent rate law becomes operative in Wisconsin on August 15, unless some one or more of the Wisconsin lines take the matter into the courts the new rates to go into effect at midnight may be more or less changed to conform to the new rate basis of 2 cents a mile.

PASSES AWAY ON THE TRAIN

Frank Schon of Minneapolis Expires in Sister's Arms.

In the arms of his sister, Mrs. Anderson of Minneapolis, Frank W. Schon passed away on the train between Duluth and Alborn this morning, a victim of the ravages of quick consumption. He went to Alborn some time ago in the hope that work outdoors in that vicinity might save him. He has been constantly failing, however, and early this week his brother and sister from Minneapolis came up to take him back with them. It was thought that he was able to travel, but before reaching Duluth he falnted in Mrs. Anderson's arms and expired.

The body, which is now at Durkan & Crawford's, will be shipped to Minneapolis tonight.

JAPS SEIZED FOR POACHING

Gathered in by Revenue Cutter Manning Near Seal Island.

Washington, July 18.—The state department has been informed that the revenue cutter Manning on the 5th inst. seized two Japanese vessels within about a mile of the seal islands of St. Paul. Both of the vessels were fully equipped for sealing and there were evidences that they had been plying their craft in the shape of fresh sealskins in the small boats. The seized vessels were taken to Ounalaska and left in charge of the United States marshal. The crews were taken aboard the Manning and conveyed to Unga in charge of a United States marshal, where they will be tried before a United States commission on the charge of violating the sealing regulations.

The Japanese government has been notified by the state department, but as the case appears to be an ordinary one of poaching it is not expected that any diplomatic incident will result.

NEEDS OF THE ARMY

Will be Presented to Congress at Its Next Session.

Almost Impossible to Secure the Necessary Men Needed.

Washington, July 18.—"There is something wrong with the army," said Gen. Bell, chief of staff, in a Western speech, recently, and that statement is being echoed in various bureaus of the war department. There are difficult explanations advanced for that disquieting criticism, but the weight of opinion at the war department is that Secretary Taft summed up the case when he remarked that the trouble with the army was that there was not enough of it. The general staff has been compiling some tables that bear out the statement and these will be made the basis for a strong presentation of the needs of the army to congress at the next session.

For instance, there is a company of coast artillery, by regulations required to number 155 men, which according to the last return to the department numbers just eight enlisted privates in its ranks. Of course, the company drill with such a skeleton organization is impossible. And this is only one of a number of such organizations, mainly in the coast artillery, it is true, but every branch of the service feels the same decline.

According to the statement, the men will not reenlist at the expiration of their first terms of service. Wages outside the army are much higher that they are, and the most energetic soldiers go into private life. Never before have the recruiting officers found their work so hard and unprofitable. The demands upon lively young adventurous men for the rapidly growing navy has also developed a new competition for the recruiting sergeants.

A special reason for the refusal of the coast artillery men to re-enlist is that they are obliged to a large amount of mechanical work in caring for the complicated fortifications, dressed only in working overalls or jumpers and getting few opportunities to wear their soldiers' uniforms, which is one source of pride with them and a factor in attracting them into the army. As to the other branches of the service, it is believed that the men are being called upon to do too much hard work which they regard as unnecessary. Particularly do they object to the long, hard and periodical practice marches which they are obliged to make carrying the full heavy field kit. Many desertions are traceable to this dissatisfaction.

The staff is trying to find corrective measures, in some measures, will require legislation to make them effective. The "strikes" are made by direct order of the president, so the same authority can dispense with them or reduce the requirements. But it is certain that congress must provide for a general and large increase of the pay of the soldier, if the regular army is to be maintained at its authorized strength. Officers may be had, even though Gen. Funston has reported that a captain's pay is less than the wage of a plumber or house mechanic in California, but the war department contends that the private soldier cannot longer be kept in the ranks for $13 a month, while wages in civil life remain at their present standard.

BEGGED FROM A POLICEMAN

Boys Arrested by Sergeant Gillion at His Doorstep.

Ed Smith and Tom Clark, 16-year-old boys, came on the rikes as firemen on one of the ore freighters and quit the boat in Duluth. Because the captains make it a rule never to pay except after a round trip, the two young men were broke when they struck town.

They started out to get a living begging in the West end. All went well until shortly after noon today when they approached one of the West end houses and asked for food.

"Hey, what's that?" said a voice from inside, and Sergeant Gillon of the police force made his way to the door.

"You fellows come with me," he said briefly. "We don't allow this here," and the two amateur tramps were taken to the station and locked up. It is probably a case for the juvenile court.

MEN SAY THEY WILL SEE STRIKE THROUGH TO END

Refuse to Yield at Open Meeting in Lincoln Park.

Talk of Forming a Union Heard on All Sides.

"We will carry this strike on until we are victors. We are not going to give in an inch." This was the decision of the ore dock laborers assembled at Lincoln park this afternoon to listen to the report of the committee, which had been appointed last night to meet the officials of the Steel corporation.

The men had assembled 400 or 500 strong, and at the opening of the meeting at 1 o'clock, were gathered in the shade of the trees at the further end of the park pavilion. It was a very orderly crowd, and as soon as the meeting had been called to order by one of the committee the men gathered closer together and listened to the report.

J. W. Comber, one of the committee, acted as spokesman, and explained what had been done at the conference this morning. He declared that, as far as results were concerned, the meeting had been a flat failure and the two factions were no nearer a settlement now than ever. The officials of the railroad had refused to give in to the demands of the men, and the committee could not consent to compromise.

"One thing they offered us, however," said Mr. Comber, "which had nothing to do with our demands. President Olcott offered to give us extra pay for Sunday work. We told him that we did not want to work Sundays, and that the question of Sunday wages was not involved in the strike situation at all.

"At the conference they again rang in something about an agreement made last spring, which is claimed to have been violated by us. There was never any written agreement, and if there was a verbal agreement, which we do not admit, that is not binding. Who ever heard of a verbal agreement being binding.

"Now, gentlemen, what do we want to do? Shall we let these railroad officials lead us back to work again at the same pay as before, or shall we stick it out until they are compelled to grant the wage increase? I advise you, and so do the other members of the committee to stick to the fight and never give in. The committee is confident that we will win if we stick to it for a few days longer."

As Mr. Comber asked this question of the men, there were loud cheers and cries of "hold out to the end. We can make them give in."

Mr. Comber stated that now that the Two Harbors laborers had also struck it makes nearly a total of 1,500 men who are out and the railroad officials will find it rather difficult to find enough strike-breakers to take the places of all these. He stated that the strikers should send thanks to the Two Harbors laborers who had struck in sympathy for the Duluth men. He also advised that a committee of two be appointed to visit the Two Harbors men and talk over the situation with them so that the men at both cities would know how the others felt about the matter.

Unionism was also touched upon by Mr. Comber before he had completed his address. The men seemed very anxious to organize and repeatedly called for more facts about "What about the union?"

It was the advice of the committee that all of the strikers who had not yet drawn their pay that they should do so at once. Mr. Comber, himself, stated that it was his opinion that the men should not draw their pay until it was absolutely necessary.

The committee advised that a vote of thanks be extended to Mayor Cullum and Bishop Mackbrick for their kindly attempts to settle the strike.

ADVERTISE RESOURCES

Commercial Club Committee Favors Car of Grassland Type.

Would be Sent Over the Country With Agricultural Exhibit.

At a meeting of the agricultural committee of the Commercial club, held this noon at the club rooms, the matter of advertising the agricultural resources of Northern Minnesota was taken up, and authority was given for the appointment of a committee to look into the feasibility and advisability of securing a car for advertising purposes, very similar in design and purpose to "Grassland," the car used by the Northern Wisconsin Farmers' association.

Probably such a car will be secured this summer, for it is expected the report of the committee will be a favorable one. If the car is equipped in time, it will be taken to the Minnesota state fair this year, in lieu of a regular exhibit along the usual line. It is the intention to arrange a comprehensive exhibit of vegetables, grains, grasses, fruits, etc., in the car, as showing what this part of the state will produce, and also to provide the car with a complete set of advertising literature, setting forth all the advantages of Northern Minnesota as a place of residence. Perishable goods will be placed in alcohol under glass covering.

The car thus equipped would be sent about over the country wherever it might be expected to do the most good, and would be in charge of persons capable of doing the work expected of them. It was suggested at the meeting today that a stereopticon outfit with a full set of views of Duluth and vicinity be taken along, together with views of interest of other scenes by way of variety, in order that stereopticon entertainments of an advertising nature might be given in such small towns as the car stopped in over night. It seems to be the sentiment of committee members that this would be the most effective possible method of advertising Duluth. The club has had the matter of the car under advisement for some time past, and Secretary H. V. Eva has been investigating the matter on his own hook. The chances are that the car will be forthcoming before fall.

PAINTER HAS FOOT CRUSHED

Hans Oleson Loses Toes While Painting at Coke Ovens.

Hans Oleson, a painter, was the victim of a peculiar accident while at work on the superstructure of the coke ovens at the Zenith furnace this morning about 9:30. He was painting some of the iron work, and for some reason desired to descend. In order to do this he placed one foot on the elevated rail of the car which conveys the coal from the bins and distributes it to the various ovens. At this moment the car came along, and before Oleson could transfer his weight to another point and remove his foot from the rail it had caught it and crushed it horribly.

He was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where the physicians removed all the toes on the foot and a portion of the foot itself.

RAILROAD FARES ARE REDUCED

New Rate Between Milwaukee, Chicago and St. Paul.

Milwaukee, July 18.—The regular rates on the Milwaukee-Chicago and Chicago-St. Paul roads at midnight tonight will be placed at $1.50 between Milwaukee and Chicago and at $7.55 between Milwaukee and St. Paul. These are reductions in the regular one way rates from $2.55 between this city and Chicago, and $9.70 between Milwaukee and St. Paul. At the same time the regular rate between Chicago and St. Paul will become $8.75 instead of $11.50 as in recent years.

When the new 2-cent rate law becomes operative in Wisconsin on August 15, unless some one or more of the Wisconsin lines take the matter into the courts the new rates to go into effect at midnight may be more or less changed to conform to the new rate basis of 2 cents a mile.

PASSES AWAY ON THE TRAIN

Frank Schon of Minneapolis Expires in Sister's Arms.

In the arms of his sister, Mrs. Anderson of Minneapolis, Frank W. Schon passed away on the train between Duluth and Alborn this morning, a victim of the ravages of quick consumption. He went to Alborn some time ago in the hope that work outdoors in that vicinity might save him. He has been constantly failing, however, and early this week his brother and sister from Minneapolis came up to take him back with them. It was thought that he was able to travel, but before reaching Duluth he fainted in Mrs. Anderson's arms and expired.

The body, which is now at Durkan & Crawford's, will be shipped to Minneapolis tonight.

JAPS SEIZED FOR POACHING

Gathered in by Revenue Cutter Manning Near Seal Island.

Washington, July 18.—The state department has been informed that the revenue cutter Manning on the 5th inst. seized two Japanese vessels within about a mile of the seal islands of St. Paul. Both of the vessels were fully equipped for sealing and there were evidences that they had been plying their craft in the shape of fresh sealskins in the small boats. The seized vessels were taken to Ounalaska and left in charge of the United States marshal. The crews were taken aboard the Manning and conveyed to Ungi in charge of a United States marshal, where they will be tried before a United States commission on the charge of violating the sealing regulations.

The Japanese government has been notified by the state department, but as the case appears to be an ordinary one of poaching it is not expected that any diplomatic incident will result.

Alexander Hamilton, deputy clerk of the district court, who is now in the East on a vacation trip, has adopted a unique and pleasing scheme for remembering his friends. Mr. Hamilton sent a box of cigars to another of the deputies as custodian and then mailed a number of his friends souvenir postal cards on which it is stated that if they are presented to the deputy clerk the holder will receive a cigar. Up at the courthouse today they are "smoking-up" to a good time for Mr. Hamilton.

THE WHEAT IS BULLISH

Reports From Northwestern Fields Put the Prices Up.

Flax is Lower at the Close of the Session.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 18.—Wheat closed at higher prices after a lively session in the American markets today. Bullish reports from the Northwest and higher cables put prices up at the opening and were responsible, with a good demand, for the bulge at the close. During the middle, prices sold off to yesterday's prices, but rallied. Liverpool closed ½d to ⅝d higher, Berlin ½c higher and Budapest ⅞c higher.

Broomhall estimates the Argentine shipments of wheat this week at 1,600,000 bus.

The September option closed 1c higher in Duluth, ⅝-¾c in Chicago, ⅝c in Minneapolis and New York and ¼-⅝ in St. Louis and Kansas City. The October option closed ⅝c higher in Winnipeg. The December option closed 1c higher in Duluth, ⅝c in Chicago and Kansas City, ⅞-1c in Minneapolis, ⅝c in New York and ⅝-¾c in St. Louis.

September corn closed ⅝c higher in Chicago and unchanged in Liverpool. September oats closed ⅛-¼c higher in Chicago.

Car receipts at Duluth were 117 against 31 last year, and at Minneapolis 175 against 117 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 292 against 148 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 738,000 bus., last year, 1,200,000 bus.

Shipments, 341,000 bus., last year, 410,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 120,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 406,000 bus., last year 1,000,000 bus.

Shipments 665,000 bus., last year 520,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 4,000 bus.

Wheat was active in the Duluth market today, and showed a bigger bulge at the close than any of the other American markets. July wheat was inactive and closed 1¼c higher than yesterday at $1.01⅝. September wheat opened ¼c higher at $1.01, went up to $1.01⅝, declined to $1.00⅝ in the middle of the session, rallied to $1.01, went off to $1.00⅞, reacted to $1.01⅝ and closed at $1.01⅝, a gain of 1c over yesterday. December wheat opened ½c higher at $1.00⅝, advanced to $1.01, declined to 99½c, rallied to $1.00⅝ and closed at that price, a gain of 1 over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ½c higher and cash spring wheat was selling at the September price for No. 1 northern.

Flax was active throughout the session and closed lower, the tone being weaker during most of the day. July flax opened unchanged at $1.19⅝, declined to $1.19, rallied to $1.19⅝, went off to $1.19 and closed at that price, a loss of ⅝c from yesterday. September flax opened ¼c lower at $1.19¼, advanced to $1.19⅝, went off to $1.19, rallied to $1.19⅝ and closed at $1.19⅜, a loss of 1c from yesterday.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Higher Prices in Northwest and Liverpool Strengthens Wheat.

Chicago, July 18.—Higher prices for wheat at Northwestern markets and at Liverpool had a strengthening effect today on the local market. There was an urgent demand from shorts in evidence but offerings were small. September opened a shade to ⅛@¼c higher at 93¼c to 93⅝c advanced to 94⅛@94⅜c and then settled back to 93⅝c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 314 cars against 251 cars last week and 549 cars a year ago.

The market weakened materially about the noon hour on selling by cash houses and longs, September declining to 93c. Renewed covering by shorts, however, soon came. Another upturn and September advanced to 94¼c. The close was strong with September up ⅝c at 94⅜@94½c.

Trading in corn was very quiet and the market was easy. Favorable weather for the new crop was the chief weakening influence. September opened a shade lowwer to a shade higher, at 55⅞ to 56⅜c, sold up to 56⅝c and then declined to 55½@55⅝c. Local receipts were 209 cars with 24 of contract grade.

The market weakened with the break in wheat and continued weak the remainder of the day. The low point for September was reached at 53c. The close was weak with September down ⅜c at 53½@53⅝c.

Oats were active and strong on a big general demand. Crop damage reports from the Northwest accounted largely for the activity. September opened ⅛@¼c at 28⅝c to 28⅝c and sold at 28⅝@29c. Local receipts were 91 cars.

Provisions were quiet and steady. September lard was unchanged at $8.92½. Ribs were a shade lower at $8.85. September pork opene 02½c lower at $16.30.

Grain Gossip.

Minneapolis wires—Johnson of Piper, Johnson & Co., who spent a few days in Manitoba says: "The southern part of Manitoba is very poor and unless they get seasonable weather with rains, conditions in this section will be deplorable. He interviewed people from all parts of the Canadian Northwest and estimates run all the way from 50,000,000 to 75,000,000 bus, as against a crop last year of practically 96,000,000 bus.

James A. Patten wires from Glenboro, Manitoba: The wheat crop is very poor and suffering from drought; average 6 to 8 inches high. Doubtful is the average is over eight bus per acre. A good deal will never be cut. A railroad conductor says it is the poorest crop he has seen in twenty-eight years.

* * *

Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co.: There was an excellent trading market in wheat all day. There is good foundation for the very bad crop news coming from the spring wheat country then the troubles for short sellers in this market are just beginning. Chicago has practically no receipts of wheat. The truth is the country does not appear to be anxious to sell the new crop. Think things shaping for a broad bull market, but would buy on the reactions like that of this morning.

Corn—Practical corn raisers in Iowa say that plant is not strong enough to produce good ears. Mankato, Minn., reports claim corn making good progress, but very thin on the ground.

Oats—Believe certain strong bull leaders in the oats trade report playing a waiting game. Crop news from Iowa and Wisconsin as bad as at any time. Remember there is a very short harvest approaching and that should make oats a purchase on any little depression.

Minneapolis Flour.

Minneapolis, July 18.—The flour market is improved. Millers reports were mixed but were generally more favorable than otherwise. Buyers are still diffident about taking hold for much more than immediate wants but quite a little new business of this character has been consummated. Shipments, 47,395 barrels. First patents, $5.00@5.10; second patents, $4.90@5.00; first clears, $3.55@3.65; second clears, $2.75@2.85.

SHOWS GROWTH OF THE CITY

Secretary Eva of Commercial Club Comments on Hotel Conditions.

Telegrams from the executive committees of the National Fraternal Congress and the Associated Fraternities of America, announcing the change of the meeting in August from Duluth to Buffalo, were received today by A. E. McManus, chairman of the local committee in charge of convention affairs and by Secretary Eva of the Commercial club.

Mr. McManus was a delegate to the congress at Montreal last year and was mainly instrumental in securing the choice of Duluth for 1907 and expresses his disappointment in the turn in affairs. Mr. McManus says he did all that he could to get the convention here and that if the city has lost it he is in no way to blame.

"Of course, it's a great disappointment to lose the convention, in view of all the trouble and expense that the citizens and local fraternal bodies have been put to in arranging for the meeting and entertainment," said Secretary Eva of the Commercial club, "but in one way the decision to switch the convention to Buffalo because of the alleged inability to get hotel reservations here, is a good advertisement for Duluth, showing, as it does, that the city is growing in population with tremendous strides, that the influx of people is so great that the hotels are full all of the time, and specific reservations of rooms cannot be made ahead."

Arrested for Raising Check.

Donley Davenport was arrested this afternoon while trying to pass a check on the Duluth & Northrn Minnesota railway, which had been raised from $9 to $90. He admits the act, and is locked up at the central station.

A STINGING REPORT.

Sketch: A gentleman purchased at the postoffice a large quantity of stamped envelopes, newspaper wrappers and other postal requisites.

Finding them somewhat difficult to carry, he asked one of the counter clerks if he could supply him with a small quantity of string.

"We are not permitted by the department to supply string," was the reply.

"Then give me a bit of red tape," was the sarcastic retort.

The string was supplied.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

At the Close and the Price Movement Was Confused.

A Reactionary Tendency Was Shown Throughout the Session.

New York, July 18.—Opening prices of stocks for the most part pursued the declining tendency in force at the closing last night. Exceptions were St. Paul with a gain of nearly a point, and United States Steel a small fraction. Baltimore and Ohio fell 1½. Otherwise the changes were small and the volume of dealings was light.

The desultory support of prices was not long pursued. Small advances were followed by reaction and extreme dullness.

Buying orders in some volume were recorded for the Westerners and Pacifics today, and the general list rose in sympathy. St. Paul and Northern Pacific were marked up 2 and Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Great Northern preferred and Atchison 1. International Pump gained 1½. American Locomotive preferred 1¾ and United States Rubber 2½. Pacific Mail fell 1, New York Air Brake 2, Federal Sugar 2¾, and the preferred 10. Bonds were irregular.

Northern Pacific rose an extreme 2⅝. This held the general list firm, although the prices generally got no higher. Brooklyn Transit fell 1.

The completion of large buying orders in Northern Pacific left the market without adequate support and prices sagged back. The reaction ran to a point in a few conspicuous stocks. The rise of 1½ in Amalgamated Copper pulled the list up at the end of the hour.

The market closed dull and irregular. Amalgamated Copper reacted a point and the price movement became confused. Northern Pacific's renewed advance to 3¾ over last night caused prices to harden again. Amalgamated Coper rose an extreme ¼. Erie second preferred lost 2 and General Electric gained 1¾.

Stock Gossip.

Logan & Bryan, New York, to Paine, Webber & Co.: The New York stock market displayed a rather reactionary tendency throughout the entire session. After the announcement of a 2 per cent dividend on Amalgamated the market broke sharply, but rallied later and closed near the best prices of the day. Trading was confined mostly to specialties with the view in mind perhaps of enticing public buying at higher levels. There is nothing new in the situation except that call money continues easy. The market is likely to continue to be a scalping affair with purchases more profitable on declines than sales on bulges.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: Recent events have led me to radically change my position in the market. I still do not expect any continued upturn, but think the time is ripe for a 2 or 3-point rally. Short selling has been noticeable the past two days and the buying has been good. Amalgamated was placed on an 8 per cent basis for the first time in its history, and certainly shows the confidence the Standard Oil people have in the situation. Ten million pounds of copper sold at 22c today, and it is expected large sales will be made tomorrow. Altogether news is much too bullish on copper and the stocks are surely cheap.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: The tone of the general market was firm today with Hill stocks in the lead. Northern Pacific was the strongest stock and closed at highest price since early April.

The news of the day was the action of the Amalgamated directors in declaring a regular dividend of $2 per share. This is a distinct improvement over $1.50 and 50c extra which constituted former dividends at same rate and if it indicates anything it shows Amalgamated interests feel sanguine on outlook for copper. From this point of view it is a distinctly bullish circumstances and should soon reflect itself in the local market.

There was a slightly firmer tone in coppers this afternoon. Inasmuch as a slight easing in time money has taken place for short periods it seems reasonable to expect further improvement.

We would suggest the exchange of S. & P. for Greene Cananea at present prices, believing that a profit is much more certain in the latter than in the former.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: The fire at the Minnie Healey property has spread down to the 1,200-foot level, but has been extinguished between the 1,200 and 800-foot levels. Steam and water are both being applied to the lower level in an effort to put out the fire. The fact that the fire has spread indicates that conditions are more serious than at first believed.

Mining in the Minnie Healey and West Colusa has been entirely suspended, and the output of the Leonard property has been greatly reduced.

More extended and vigorous measures are being employed in fighting the fire.

The Cotton Market.

New Yrok, July 18.—The cotton market opened steady at unchanged prices at a decline of 4 points, which was just about as due on the cables. There was some buying on the theory that leading bears were trying to cover, but the weather map made a favorable showing, and prices here sagged off slightly after the opening under scattered realizing by recent buyers. During the middle of the morning prices were a point or two up from the lowest at a decline of 3 to 5 points.

MUST TAKE $30,000 OR HAVE A NEW TRIAL.

St. Paul, July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Kelly, in an order filed today in the personal injury suit of Albert Sprague against the Wisconsin Central Railway company cut down the verdict of $40,000 to $30,000. That is, he granted the motion of the defendant for a new trial, unless the plaintiff shall, within thirty days, consent to have the verdict reduced to the lesser figure.

The plaintiff lost both his legs while working for the defendant company as a brakman at Gladstone, June 10, 1906. He was at the time making a coupling between a train that was being switched and a car stationary on the track.

CONFER WITH COMMISSION

Attorneys for Steel Corporation Give Information on Taxation.

St. Paul, July 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Cotton of Duluth, and F. B. Kellogg of St. Paul, representing the United States Steel corporation, conferred with the state tax commission today regarding the details wanted in connection with information now being sought regarding the mining properties on the range. T. F. Cole, president of the Oliver Mining corporation, was to have been present, but was absent, owing to a strike now on at Duluth.

For future taxation purposes, the commission has sent blanks to the owners of mines, requesting certain information concerning the properties, and it was these that were under conference. It was thought by some of the owners that many of the questions asked were not pertinent to the matter at issue.

The commission is learning the number of tons mined annually, the character of the ore, the percentage of iron in the same, and the cost of mining.

A THOUSAND PROSTRATED

By the Heat While Watching Elks' Parade in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, July 18.—At 3 p. m., it was estimated that more than 1,000 persons had been prostrated by the heat. The nearby hospitals were crowded. One of the most serious cases reported was that of an unidentified man taken to the Jefferson hospital. It took eight men to put him in an ice bath and he broke the nose of an attendant before he was finally subdued.

The parade, which has gone beyond the expectations of its managers was still in progress at 3 o'clock and many other cases of heat prostration were expected before the crowds dispersed.

HOPE FROM THE SEASIDE.

New London Day: The first deposit this year of miniature lobsters, just through the propagating jars at the Noank hatchery, was made Friday by A. W. Rathbun, collector for the hatchery.

The small fries numbered about 5,000,000, as near as can be estimated, and were liberated in adjacent Connecticut waters. Over 100 lobsters were scraped to secure this first hatching, and the force at the hatchery were engaged in relieving many female lobsters of their eggs for the propagating

BUSINESS CHANCES.

MOST BUSINESS IF COMBINED with pleasure leads to success—all business ground out in desperation fails in time. Fifty-five miles of virgin woodland, rich in soil and rich in timber, can be traversed by writing to Edmund G. Walton, 114 South Fourth street, Minneapolis, for a permit over the constructing route of the Northern Pacific from Big Fork, Minnesota, to Little Fork. At Little Fork, a large and commodious steamer takes you thirty-three miles up the Rainey river tot International Falls. Total expense from Minneapolis, $7.85. Now, then, what will you see? A new country with marvelous possibilities, a water power of 30,000 horse power; 5,000,000,000 feet of pine and spruce—a farming country with soil as rich as the richest in Iowa, an ideal climate, a net work of lakes and streams filled with all the usual varieties of fresh water fish, and money to be picked up for the asking. Read Christopher Columbus' report of America to the court of Spain or "Monte Christo" and you will then partly understand what the riches of Koochiching county really are. No one really knows what wealth there is there, but a little fishing trip will open your eyes and tell you more than all the writing in the world. PICKETT'S OLD FRIEND.

The day after the great fire following the fall of Richmond, Lincoln, with a small bodyguard, walked through the streets of the charred city. As he approached the corner occupedied by Gen. Pickett's residence he directed the guard to wait, and to their astonishment ran two steps at a time up to the door and rapped. The servants had fled. The "baby bride" had never seen President Lincoln, but she had read his letters to her husband and from him had learned to hold in the highest esteem the great Northern president. With her baby in her arms she opened the door, says The World today, and looked up at the tall, gaunt man with the sad face and uncouth ways.

Without a word of explanation he asked:

"Is George Pickett about?"

To hear the husband's name bereft of its title by a Yankee at that moment was almost the limit, especially as many a rumor had floated about Richmond concerning the fate which awaited the leaders of the Confederacy.

With all the proud dignity she could command the baby bride replied,

"Gen. Pickett is not at home."

The stranger seemed disappointed and as he turned to go remarked:

"I am Abraham Lincoln, an old friend of George's."

"Not President Lincoln!" Mrs. Pickett exclaimed. The tall man shook his head, repeating:

"No. Just Abraham Lincoln, George Pickett's old friend."

Following the instant promptings of the heart which still governs her, the baby bride thrust her baby boy into the arms of the gaunt Yankee, as her best effort to express her veneration and confidence, saying:

"I am George Pickett's wife and this is George Pickett's baby."

PEAT AS FUEL.

Germany has vast fields of peat, containing a large proportion of combustible material, and it has worried the economists and scientists of the empire for years that the use of turf as fuel was steadily declining. This has been due, of course, to the superior qualities of coal, and especially to the troublesome process of drying the peat to fit it for fuel after it had been cut, says the New York Sun.

Now it is believed all the drawbacks have been overcome, and there is going to be a serious boom in the use of turf for fuel for industrial purposes. Prof. A. Frank of Charlottenburg made the first step.

He proposed to utilize the peat by converting it into gas, and he demonstrated that for this purpose it was entirely unnecessary to dry it, water being in fact a principal ingredient in the up-to-date manufacture of gas for illuminating and heating purposes.

Next came Dr. N. Caro, a colleague of Prof. Frank. He greatly improved the type of generator by which the gas is produced. He brought these to such perfection that in some experiments made with his apparatus at Stockton, Eng., coaldust, sawdust and peat containing 50 to 55 per cent in weight of water was turned into commercial gas, while valuable byproducts, including a large percentage of sulphate of ammonia, were secured from the peat.

The experiments to date indicate that from about 2,200 pounds of turf as cut, about 87,500 feet of gas can be distilled, capable of developing 600 theoretical horse power hours when used for mechanical purposes through the medium of a gas engine. The cost of cutting the turf is, of course, small, and if power plants are set up near the peat bogs, the cost of moving the weight of water it contains is negligible. The ammonia byproducts can be utilized in the manufacture of fertilizers.

Several considerable plants are said to be contemplated in various parts of the country.

HOME What a wonderful institution is the home. What a wonderful power is the home newspaper. The Herald has long been the home newspaper of Duluth. The Herald reaches the home at the evening leisure hour. The Herald is not carried down town on the car. It stays home, is passed from one member of the family to the others. It is read from page to page, every night in nearly every home in Duluth and Northern Minnesota. The Herald is a vital force in the homes of its patrons. It is the one newspaper in nearly all homes, the only newspaper in thousands of homes.

AGITATED EMPEROR OF KOREA SIGNS AWAY HIS THRONE TO ELDEST SON

Memorable Scene as He Affixes Signature to Document.

Deserted by All Friends, He is Forced to Act.

Koreans Incensed Against Japan and Trouble May Follow.

YI HIUNG,
Emperor of Korea, Who Abdicates His Throne Amid Pathetic Surroundings.

Seoul, July 19.—It is reported that a most dramatic scene occurred at the palace Thursday night when the ministers, headed by Premier YI Wang Yong, appeared before his majesty and made the cabinet's final representation in urging the emperor's abdication. His majesty was in a high state of excitement but the premier, in the most humble, but firm tone, dwelt at length on want of precaution and prudence of the emperor's policies hitherto, especially in diplomatic affairs whereby he was endangering the safety of the nation. The premier enumerated the fact of his majesty's duplicities which culminated in the dispatch of a delegation to The Hague peace conference and forcibly reasoned the uselessness of the emperor's disavowal of his relation with The Hague affair.

Unable to successfully combat the logic of the premier's representation, the emperor sought a last refuge in the council of elder statesmen, doubtless anticipating their sympathies. The council immediately convened. Four elders quickly responded and appeared before his majesty at 1 o'clock this, Friday, morning.

The emperor's disappointment and surprise was boundless when they unanimously agreed with the ministers' advice. His majesty's mind was finally made up and he consented to the draft of an imperial rescript announcing his abdication, which was placed before him for his signature.

The emperor's condition was indescribable. Greatly agitated and perturbed he signed the document, and the seal was affixed amid impressive sil-

CAID MAC LEAN HAS NOT MADE HIS ESCAPE.

Tangier, Morocco, July 19.—The reports brought in here by courier that Caid Sir Harry MacLean had succeeded in escaping from the hands of the bandit, Raisuli, now appear to be untrue. The latest letter received from the caid is dated July 13. It says, among other things, that a deep ditch has been dug around his tent in order to prevent his escape.

R. M. BASHFORD WILL BE BARNES' SUCCESSOR.

Madison, Wis., July 19.—Official announcement that Chairman John Barnes of the state railroad rate commission, had resigned was made today by Governor Davidson. The resignation is believed to result from the passage of the 2-cent fare law by the legislature overriding acts of the commission. R. M. Bashford of Madison is said to be slated as Barnes' successor.

MIDSHIPMAN CRUSE DIES OF HIS INJURIES.

ANDERSON RELEASED

Pardoned by President, He Leaves Prison a Free Man.

Petitions in His Favor Contained Over 50,000 Names.

Fort Leavenworth, Kan., July 19.—William January, alias Charles W. Anderson, for whose pardon a petition containing the signatures of 50,000 persons was presented to President Roosevelt three months ago, was released from the federal prison here today. Anderson will return to Kansas City, where he will engage in business.

Anderson was convicted eleven years ago of robbing an Oklahoma postoffice and sentenced to the penitentiary for three years. He escaped two years later and went to Kansas City, assumed the name of Anderson and married. In April this year, an ex-convict, who had known January in the penitentiary, notified the warden of the man's where-

DETECTIVE McPARLAND APPEARS IN COURTROOM

First Time Noted Sleuth Has Been Seen ---Judge Not Quite Ready to Rule.

Boise, Idaho, July 19.—For the first time since the Haywood trial started, James McParland, the detective, whose name has been so often mentioned in connection with the securing of evidence against the Western Federation of Miners, was in the courtroom today. He had come to listen to the arguments in the case, and attracted considerable attention. Judge Wood announced at 10 o'clock that he would not be ready to rule on the matter of excluding certain evidence from the consideration of the jury and the arguments of counsel until 2 p. m. He instructed James H. Hawley, leading counsel for the state, to be ready to proceed at that time. Mr. Hawley is not expected to conclude until tomorrow afternoon. The opening address for the defense will be made by Attorney E. F. Richardson of Denver on Monday morning. To preserve the record Mr. Richardson again today moved that the jury be instructed to return a verdict of not guilty on the ground that the defendant Haywood has not been connected by the evidence with the crime alleged.

The motion was formally made and formally denied.

Mob Gathers to Lynch the Four Italian Kidnapers.

Prompt Calling Out of Troops by Governor Restores Quiet.

New Orleans, July 19.—With the peaceable dispersal early today of a posse of 300 men who had formed at Gretna, La., to lynch the Italians convicted last night of the Lamana murder, the acute crisis in the kidnaping incident is believed to have been safely passed.

This posse was the last of several small mobs which formed at widely separated points and threatened hanging of the Italians if favorable opportunity presented. Governor Blanchard's prompt action in ordering out two companies of state militia within two hours after the verdict is believed to have saved the Italian's lives. The soldiers arrived at the Hahnville jail where the prisoners were confined shortly before midnight in time to forestall plans which were on foot to take possession from New Orleans.

Nearly one hundred soldiers guard the lonely and exposed Hahnville jail today and it may be necessary to keep them on duty there until the Italians are removed to a safer place. The prisoners must first be sentenced.

Indignation over the jury's mild verdict has grown considerably and many of the reports of the court proceedings, while they show a fair trial, comment to the effect that several of the jurymen are large employers of Italian labor, which augments the resentment. The police regulations in New Orleans have been strictly enforced since last night in order to reduce to the minimum chances for a gathering hostile to the convicted Italians.

The verdict was reached just before dark last night, after the jury had been out forty-five minutes, and at the close of a four days' trial full of excitement, and was guilty, without capital punishment.

Absolute silence greted the foreman's announcement. The spectators listened quietly while the jury declared that its verdict was unanimous, and then court adjourned. An hour afterward it was reported that preparations for lynching were under way. A physician gave out a statement declaring "that the good people of St. Charles repudiate the verdict," and calling it a "prostitution of justice."

In the trial the state did not succeed in proving that any of the accused committed the actual murder. It was testified that Campisciano and his wife shielded the kidnapers from capture, even throwing the police off the trail when they were within a short distance of the boy's hiding place an hour before his murder. Campisciano did not deny this, but claimed that he had been forced by threats of death to act as he did. Gendusa was the go-between for the ransom money and Costa, according to witnesses, was the actual kidnaper who stole the boy and gave him to the kidnapers. Costa denied this while testifying in his own behalf.

Campisciano testified that the murderers were Angelo Incarcaterre, Tony Gendusa, Staffano Monfro and Chico Luchesi. These four have not been captured.

Campisciano also implicated in the plot Leonarde Gebbia and Nicolina, his sister, both of whom will be tried next week.

FRED H. MAGILL
Of Clinton, Ill., Who Is Under Arrest at San Diego, Cal. for the Murder of His Wife.

SAYS ORCHARD WILL BE HANGED ANYWAY

New York, July 19.—"There is just one thing absolutely certain about the Haywood case," said John A. Bagley, attorney general of Idaho in 1902-1904, who is in this city "and that is, no matter what may happen to Haywood and his associates in the miners' association Harry Orchard, the self-confessed assassin of Governor Stuenenberg will be hanged.

"Orchard has not been promised immunity in Idaho, and even if he were extended executive clemency, he has confessed to thirteen murders outside the state, of which he could be convicted, and from punishment for which Idaho could not absolve him.

"How the Haywood trial will end, no one knows. All the people want—and in this they are a unit—is that exact justice be done."

FOUR CARS DERAILED.

Wreck on the Virginia Branch of Iron Range Near Corsica.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A wreck on the Virginia branch of the D. & I. R. near the Corsica mine, in which four cars were derailed and the track badly damaged, called out the wrecker crew Wednesday afternoon and several hours was taken to clear the wreck. Ore traffic on the Virginia line was suspended and it was necessary to transfer passengers and baggage around the obstruction.

DEATH LIST WAS SMALL

Considering the Hundreds Who Were Prostrated by Heat.

Many of the Visiting Elks Are Leaving the City.

Philadelphia, July 19.—Of the thousands of persons overcome by the heat while watching the Elks' parade yesterday about 100 spent the night in hospitals. Many of them were discharged today. The number of deaths, due more or less to the heat and humidity, numbered four, and there are about a dozen cases considered serious by the hospital physicians. The dead were residents of this city, and those still in a serious condition are also Philadelphians. The fact that the death list was small, is principally due to the prompt relief given by the authorities who were prepared for a large number of heat cases.

The number of prostrations, however, went beyond their expectations, and in consequence all hospitals and temporary hospital quarters were swamped.

The big feature of Elks' week being over, thousands of visitors left town either for the various seashore resorts, the Jamestown exposition or their homes. There is still a great number in town, however. The grand lodge has adjourned and the delegates will devote the day to a pilgrimage voyage to historic Valley Forge, where Senator Knox, whose residence adjoins Washington's camp grounds, will deliver an address of a historic nature to the Elks. Another feature arranged for delegates is a trip on the Delaware river with stops at the shipbuilding plants, the League Island navy yard and other places. Beginning at 11 o'clock tonight the Pen & Pencil club will entertain visiting Elks at a "Night in Bohemia." The official records show that 79,000 persons registered at the registration bureaus provided for the membership of the order and their ladies.

Announcement of prizes in connection with the reunion probably will not be made until tonight.

Of cruisers Great Britain has 32, the United States, 12; France, 18; Germany, 6 and Japan, 10.

HUSBAND AND WIFE ARE ARRESTED ON SUSPICION OF SHOOTING NEGRESS

MRS. EVA PATTERSON,
Colored Woman, Who Was Murdered

Woman Was Shot Down at Door of Her Room.

Wife Claims Husband Confessed the Shooting to Her.

Police Find Revolver With Empty Chamber in Room.

"Ah nevah done it. Mah husband came home 'bout 1 o'clock last night. He tell me he killed 'Pat.'"—Mrs. Mandy Johnson, accused of the murder of Mrs. Eva Patterson last evening.

"Ah wasn't neah that place last night. Ah doan' know if mah wife done it or not. Ah nevah got home till aftah the murder was done an' she was home then."—John Johnson, her husband, also under arrest on the same charge.

The Johnson pair were arrested early this morning by Frank Schulte in their rooms at 20 Sixth avenue west on suspicion of having been connected with the murder of Mrs. Eva Patterson, shortly after midnight.

Detective Schulte had been working among the colored people all night and learned of the possible connection between the Johnsons and the crime by accident. He went at once to their room and found Mrs. Johnson in bed, asleep. When she awoke and saw the detective, she broke into violent trembling and appeared so nervous and frightened that the detective at once suspected that she knew a good deal of the affair, and ordering her to dress, took her to the station.

Johnson was arrested a little later and also locked up. They were both cross-questioned vigorously, early this morning, but beyond the above statements little of importance could be secured from them. Johnson had been out all evening at work. He is a porter for Parker's barber shop, which was moved last evening from 206 West Superior street to 210 West Superior street, and he was assisting in the work of transferring the fixtures. The work lasted far into the night, he says, and he did not get home until after the murder had been accomplished.

Was With Mrs. Patterson.

Mrs. Johnson admits having been with the Patterson woman until 11 o'clock last night, drinking beer, and a pail and two glasses are standing on the bed in Mrs. Patterson's room. She says that from there she went down to First avenue west and Michigan street, and she and her husband met there and went home together. Johnson went out, was gone about half an hour, and returning excitedly, told her he had shot "Pat," as the colored people referred to the murdered woman, according to Mrs. Johnson's story.

Johnson denies all this and says he found his wife at home when he returned from work. He says that he has had trouble with his wife over the

TORNADO AT ST. JOSEPH

Houses Wrecked and Much Other Damage Done by Storm.

Scores of Buildings Are Washed From Foundations by Cloudburst.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 19.—A tornado and tremendous rain did heavy damage in St. Joseph and vicinity last night. Houses were wrecked, street railway tracks torn out and cellars flooded. The family of Daniel Riordan, one mile east of the city, had a miraculous escape from death. The residence, two stories in height, was torn from the foundation and demolished. Riordan, his wife and three children had taken refuge in the basement. They were buried under debris, but the wind lifted the house bodily from the foundation and none of the heavy timbers fell on them. Scores of houses were washed from their foundations in the city by the rain, which amounted to a cloudburst. In Brookdale, a suburb, a score of families were driven from their homes by water, which reached the windows on the first floor. A dozen residences were struck by lightning, but no fatalities are reported. The loss to crops will be heavy.

Kansas City, July 19.—Further heavy rains, north of here, last night caused the Missouri river at Kansas City to rise a litle higher, and as a result the cellars in two dozen wholesale houses in the West bottoms were partially flooded this morning. Stocks had been removed and the damage was slight. Truck gardens at Quindaro have been damaged $20,000 by floods. The Kaw is rising slowly also.

UNION ORGANIZED BY STRIKING DOCK WORKERS

Men Get Together to Push Strike--- Mining Operations at a Standstill.

An abundance of determination and enthusiasm was manifested by the striking ore handlers of the Missabe dock at a meeting held this morning at the Lincoln park pavilion. The meeting was called for the purpose of perfecting an organization among the strikers and several leading labor men of the city were present.

The men were in favor of organization to a man, and before noon 600 members had been secured out of a possible 750 men who are employed at the Missabe dock. The laborers crowded about the temporary secretary and jostled each other in their effort to get their names down on the list among the leaders.

More than 600 laborers were gathered at the Lincoln park pavilion before 9 o'clock this morning and more kept coming up to 10 o'clock when the big auditorium was packed almost to the limit. As was the case yesterday the men are as determined as ever to hold out for the increase in wages and it looks as though the strike would continue for weeks unless the railroad officials decide to grant the demands of the workmen.

The meeting this morning was called by J. W. Comber and other leading spirits among the strikers, who had sounded the men on the union question and had found the majority in favor of organization.

W. E. McEwen and James Walsh, two of the best known union labor leaders in the city, were present and Mr. McEwen called the meeting to order. He outlined to the strikers the advantage of being organized and stated that if they had been organized before the strike was called they would have stood a better show of winning out immediately.

Cannot Affiliate Now.

The strikers were informed by Mr. McEwen that even if they did organize at this time it would not be possible for them to become affiliated with any other labor organization until after the strike had been settled. It is a rule of the longshoremen's union and most others, that no organization which is formed during a strike shall be admitted until after the conflict is settled.

In an interview this morning, Mr. McEwen explained his action in coming to the help of the strikers by saying that although it is not generally the policy of labor organizers to attempt to organize a body of men who are on strike, he thought it would be to the best interests of all concerned to get the men organized. The railroad officials will then have somebody to work with, and there will be a much better chance of bringing about a settlement than under the present conditions.

"Mr. Walsh and myself were approached by some of the strike leaders upon this subject this morning," said Mr. McEwen, "and were asked to come out here and help them out as none of them knew anything about organizing and did not know how to begin. We consented and have now entered into the work with considerable enthusiasm. If an organization is perfected there will be somebody to manage the strike and a committee will have power to make a binding contract with the railroad officials. And if a contract is made after the organization is perfected, there will be no danger of it being broken."

During the forenoon the temporary meeting elected two temporary officers, J. W. Comber was chosen as the president of the organization and Thomas Kleach was made the temporary secretary. A committee of men known as a "new strength committee" was also appointed. It will be the duty of this committee to go about among the men to encourage them and inform them how the situation stands. In case any need help the committee will assist them.

As soon as the temporary officers had been elected the work of admitting the members commenced. Practically all of the men at work on the Duluth docks was anxious to join and up to noon more than 600 men had given in their names as members of the organization. Representatives of the Two Harbors strikers were present at the meeting and stated that as soon as an organization was perfected here, a branch would be formed there.

The men are now preparing a statement concerning the alleged contract of last May. The statement will also include a comparison of wages made with other laborers employed in longshore work, such as lumber handlers, freight handlers and others, outside the ore handling work. In all other occupations it is claimed the men receive better pay than do the ore handlers and this will be made a strong point in the statement.

Mines Close Down.

Mining operations on the Minnesota iron ranges have suspended, because of the strike of the ore dock laborers at the Head of the Lakes.

Many of the open pit mines on the Mesabi range were obliged to shut down very soon after the strike at the Missabe docks began and now that the workers at the Two Harbors and Allouez docks have gone out, all the mines, open pit and underground, are idle.

"Mining has been suspended and probably 2,000 men are idle," said John H. McLean, assistant general manager, when speaking of the effect of the strike on the Oliver Iron Mining company's operations in this state, today.

All of the other operators on the Minnesota ranges report the same conditions.

The Adams and Fayal and all the big underground mines on the Mesaba and Vermilion ranges have shut down.

Stripping operations are being continued, but it is impossible to give many of the men made idle by the cessation of mining, work of this kind.

No News, Says Mr. Olcott.

"There is nothing new in the strike situation so far as the Duluth, Missabe & Northern is concerned," said W. J. Olcott, president of the line, this morning.

"Some one has told me there was a meeting of the strikers in the West end some place, this morning, but we had no representatives there nor have received no word whatever from the strikers today. We have not receded one bit from our position, however, and are not any disposed to grant the demands of the men now than we were when they walked out."

"Are you making any efforts to secure men either here or from the outside, to take the place of the strikers?" asked the reporter.

"No, we are doing nothing along these lines and have not even figured on it," said Mr. Olcott.

The Allouez Situation.

Supt. D. M. Philbin of the Great Northern says that he had hoped that the 300 to 400 men employed at Allouez would have sense enough to continue to work and allow the matter of increased wages to be settled by the other companies, as they might know that, as in the past, the Great Northern would undoubtedly meet the wage rate paid by the other companies.

"This would have enabled the Allouez ore dock laborers to have continued to have earned the daily wages above stated," says Mr. Philbin, "and would also have enabled the 100 or more engineers and firemen, conductors, brakemen, switchmen and others employed in the ore service to have continued in service and at good going wages."

"The D., M. & N. and the D. & I. R. will undoubtedly be joined by the Great Northern in a refusal to grant the advance in wages, because the ore dock laborers are now being paid the highest rate of wages for that class of work, and can earn, if they wish to do so, for day work, $75 per month, and for night work $82 per month, working ten hours a day or night shift, as the case may be.

Gets Full Time.

"The ordinary laborer employed in extra gangs on track work, street work, stevedore work or coal dock work, is paid only for the actual time that he works, but the ore dock laborer makes full time. For instance, if he reports for work at 7 a. m., and it is raining so hard as to prevent his working, he is allowed to go into a shelter house provided for the purpose, and there rest and smoke his pipe until the rain is over, and if the rain continues during the whole forenoon, he repeats the operation during the afternoon, and always under full pay; this because the railway company is anxious to do a big business in a short navigation season, feeling that it is necessary to hold the men, so that if the rain lets up for even but two or three hours during the day, they will have them on hand for two or three hours of good, energetic work.

"The work is not as hard as ordinary labor, because the men never lift the material handled.

The ore is all handled by gravity, simply needing the assistance of the men in the way of lowering and raising the spouts, loosening and afterwards tightening the hopper bottoms of the cars, and assisting the ore in its gravity motion by loosening it from the cars with bars and from the pockets with poles, provided for the purpose. This work does not require half the physical exertion ordinarily exerted in a common work of grading streets or handling coal or other material.

Movement Has Been Heavy.

"The ore movement to the East has and the result is that the furnaces have been heavy during the season to date, big supplies on hand and will not suffer by reason of strike at Superior, Duluth and Two Harbors even though the trouble lasted for thirty days, and the fact is that there is plain indication that the iron business has been just a little overdone. Orders are not coming to the furnace men and steel manufacturers as they were six months and a year ago and it looks as though the time had come for a little let-up in the business. This is plainly evidenced by the fact that the buyers of the ore have not lately seemed as anxious to move it to Lake Erie ports, as they were last fall, and during the first two months of the current season. Another such evidence is the fact that some of the mines have discontinued loading stock pile that was accumulated during the winter months and which ore was last year moved with all possible speed.

"As recently stated, in issues of our local papers in May last, the committee of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern ore dock men agreed with the officers of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern company that if they were advanced from $2 to lay work and $2.25 for night work, to the rate of $2.25 for day work and $2.50 for night work, they would make no further demands until the first of November, at which time, it seems to have been a custom to make a little advance in the daily wage scale because probably of the cold weather making outdoor work disagreeable."

Choice For Only $15.

The "Fitwell Clothing parlors offer the choice of any summer suit in the house for $15. Values up to $30 are included in this sale.

PRESIDENCY SEEKERS.

Leslie's Weekly: Fate has a feud with the persons who seek the presidency too early and too often. This is a truth which some of the present Republican and Democratic aspirants, especially Mr. Bryan, should grasp. "I am the most unfortunate man in the whole history of American politics," said the nomination of "Tippecanoe" Harrison for the campaign of 1840. "I am always put up in the years when no Whig can carry the country, but whenever any Whig can win, the candidacy always goes to somebody else. Clay received electoral votes in the quadrangular contest of 1824 when the victory went to John Quincy Adams. In 1832 he was the Whig candidate, and Jackson swept the country. In 1844, when he was once more the Whig nominee, Polk won. Had he been nominated instead of Harrison in 1840—and a large majority of the Whig voters wanted him for the candidacy—he would have been overwhelmingly victorious at the polls.

Webster's and Calhoun's long and futile endeavors to reach the presidency are well known to the country. So are the persistent efforts and failures of Seward, Chase, Cass, Douglas, Blaine, Sherman, and others. When the Republican convention of 1860 met, a large majority of the Republicans of the country, Lincoln included, believed that Seward, instead of Lincoln, would be nominated. The candidacy came to Lincoln. Grant, and all their successors, including Cleveland, without much preliminary working for it by themselves or by any of their supporters. The candidacy came to Bryan in 1896 unexpectedly to himself and to everybody else, but he has been a presidency seeker ever since that time; and now after eleven years of office seeking, he has placed himself in the category of persons against whom destiny has been waging a vendetta from the beginning. No persistent presidency seeker ever reached the presidency except Van Buren and Buchanan. Van Buren won through the idiocy of his Democratic rivals and because of the stupidity of his and Jackson's Democratic and Whig enemies. Buchanan got the presidency because, being on duty abroad (he was minister to England) when Douglas, in 1854, flung his dynamite bomb of a Kansas-Nebraska bill into congress, he saved himself from the necessity of taking sides on that disruptive issue and thus was the only availability in 1856. When the presidency came to him in that year he had ceased to expect it or to aspire to it, and he was too old to enjoy it, or to rise adequately to its duties and responsibilities.

SIAMESE MONARCH

Has Eighty Wives and Blessed With Seventy-Two Children.

Celebrated for His White Elephants and Numerous Relatives.

Paris, July 19.—The king of Siam has been a welcome visitor here in France as well as most of the European centers. To the general regret his majesty is not accompanied by the queen of Siam, who is one of the most picturesque of royal consorts. Queen Pongsi, who lives a secluded life at Bangkok, wears Siamese dress, which includes a close fitting tunic with lace and frills, silk knickerbockers, white silk stockings and black patent leather shoes with gold buckles.

The ruler of Siam generally wears Siamese clothing when at home, but when he travels he abandons silk jackets and knee breeches in favor of European dress.

The king's own education was supervised partly by an English governess and partly by Buddhist monks. He has shown himself a capable monarch and has largely accepted the ideas of Western civilization.

Small in figure, dapper in dress with an olive complexion, black hair and mustache, King Chulalongkorn looks much like a Japanese. He is celebrated both for his white elephants and the number of his relatives. Besides Queen Pongsi, who is "first queen," there are eighty other wives, and his offspring are said to number seventy-two.

His majesty has fifty brothers and sisters and even a larger number of uncles. The whole royal family inhabits an immense palace town at Bangkok.

No one in Siam ever calls him "King Chulalongkorn," which is a family name like Guelph. He is simply called "the king," or more often "the supreme king." He takes a delight in eccentric wagers and at one time he was famed as a great collector of matchboxes. He never misses a new variety and his representatives are always sending him these from all parts of the world. Several years ago while walking down Piccadilly on the occasion of a former visit to London, so the story goes, he saw some one drop a matchbox from the top of an omnibus and at once, to the horror of his escort, he dived among the traffic. A policeman quickly stopped the traffic and King Chulalongkorn returned triumphant to the pavement with a muddy matchbox between the thumb and the finger of one of his new kid gloves.

Woman's suffrage apparently does not make the progress in France that it is making in England and other parts of the world. Thirty women made a demonstration on the boulevards the other afternoon in favor of female suffrage. They drove along in open vehicles brandishing paper banners on which were inscribed the words, "Women ought to vote," and scattering broadcast printed appeals to members of their sex for their support of the movement. The whole thing went off very tamely, many of the passers-by indulging in mocking remarks at the expense of these particular suffragettes.

Americans will naturally care to know more about the "land of revolt and perfidy"—the revolt of the French wine growers against the authority of the central government of the republic. The "wine war," was largely confined to the department of the Herault and the Aube. These two provinces are on the shore of the Gulf of Lyons, and they form part of the ancient kingdom of Languedoc, which lay between Gascony on the west and Provence on the east.

The whole of this great stretch of country in the South of France has a history of marked turbulence and equally marked romance. Provence and Languedoc are closely allied ethnologically, and the people of both provinces speak the ancient Provencal language.

It is curious to note that two of the most famous heretics that France has given to the world have both lived at Languedoc. The great humorist, Rabelais, was a student at the University of Montpelier in 1530, and his life is largely associated with the district and Auguste Comte, the inventor of Mr. Frederick Harrison's "Religion of Humanity," was also a native of the same town.

As for poetry, one of the most famous kings of Provence was Rene, himself a poet, and who surrounded himself at Arles with a court of artists and philosophers. Teresy has more than once found a home in these particular provinces, and as a converse it is interesting to note that Avignon, which was for years a refuge for the popes, is a Provencal town. The very region seems to reek with romance. One thinks of Gascony and at the same time thinks of the beautiful, picturesque, indomitable heroes of many a stirring story. To Englishmen, Gascony spells the incomparable d'Artagnan and the equally famous Cyrano de Bergerac.

Carcassone, Froix, Arles — the very names of the towns where the recent revolt of the peasantry against the adulterations of the wines has alarmed even the French government—the very names suggest Dumas or at any rate Stanley Weyman, while near Avignon there is a town of Tarascon that brings to mind the immortal Tartarin, the Don Quixote of an unromantic age. As for Narbonne, it was the birthplace of three Roman emperors, one martyr and at least two famous troubadours. It may be true that France gets its revolutions by telegraph from Paris during these latter days, but to forget that figures in the glory, not only of the wines and the wars, but the poetry and the rebellions of France.

WEST DULUTH

INTEREST IN ELECTION.

West Duluth Has Two Candidates for School Board.

West Duluth people are taking more than an ordinary interest in the school election, to be held tomorrow, for two West Duluth men are among the candidates for the three places on the board. They are L. A. Barnes and Dr. David Graham.

Both West Duluth candidates are popular in their home district and they will both undoubtedly poll large votes, both from West Duluth and other portions of the city, where they are known. Mr. Barnes is a former alderman, having served several years on the city council, with marked success. Dr. Graham is known as a man who takes a keen interest in public affairs and he would make a valuable member of the board.

Commercial Club.

The regular weekly meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club will be held tonight and unless something unforeseen happens, it will be a quiet one. The matter of the safety of the Third street car line will probably come up, the frequency with which cars have jumped the track on Piedmont avenue of late, having aroused a good many people. The dangerous point is not in West Duluth, but West Duluth people use the line for the most part and, for their safety, the club may recommend the improvement of the road.

West Duluth Briefs.

BIRD'S QUEER PLIGHT.

Columbus Dispatch: A fluttering in the flue leading from the kitchen stove attracted the attention of Mrs. J. Edward Sims the other morning.

When Mr. Sims came in he was asked to investigate, and much to his surprise found in the stove pipe, only a few feet from the gas flame a red headed woodpecker. How the bird got into that predicament cannot be explained, but he must have entered at the chimney top and worked his way downward. Perhaps he was lazy and was looking for a hole to build his nest in, without drilling one into the wood. His bright coat of red, white and black was subdued to a sooty brown, and in outward appearances he resembled the chimney sweep, and he was gasping for fresh air when released.

WIRELESS TELEPHONY.

Wireless telephoning has been making steady progress of late, although its achievements are still far behind those of wireless telegraphy.

The range of practicable telephony is as yet only ten miles or so.

One reason for this, says the Review of Reviews, is the feebleness of the electric currents used in telephonic conversation over wires as compared with those that are capable of being used in telegraphing either with or without wries.

Telephonic conversation has never yet been successfully carried to a distance of 50 miles of submarine cable under the ocean. The limiting telephonic range over such cables has been about sixty miles. Consequently wireless telephony does not have to be carried to many times its present range in order to beat wire telephony on submarine cables.

The conditions are, however, very different over land. Wire telephony is commercially practised up to distances of 1,500 miles, and is capable of being extended by sufficient expenditure of money on the wires to 2,500 miles, or even more.

Wireless telephony has, therefore, to be vastly extended in range in order to beat the record of wire telephony over land.

F. E. RESCHE APPOINTED

Will Take Up Work of Probation Officer Aug. 1.

Mrs. D. S. Forgy Will Remain Assistant as Before.

Capt. F. E. Resche, now employed as captain in the police department, is to be the successor to H. W. Withrow as probation officer, and possibly as humane agent. He will begin his duties as probation officer on Aug. 1, and the question as to whether the policy of combining the two offices is to be continued is still in the air.

The appointment will give very general satisfaction as the police captain has established a decidedly enviable reputation throughout the city during his work here, and it is believed that he will be fully equal to the rather strenuous duties of both offices if this is required of him. He was not an applicant for the position of humane agent as he was not confident of his own ability in filling it, but those who know him are sure that if the humane agent's job is included with that of probation officer, he will be fully equal to both.

He is perhaps as well known as any of the applicants for the position as he has been prominent in militia work in Duluth as well as in the police department. It is understood that Mrs. Forgy, who was Mr. Withrow's deputy, will continue in the work under Capt. Resche, and the new officer will have an able and experienced assistant.

40 YEARS OF WALL PAPER.

S. S. Conner of Westfield, Mass., is said to have been in the wall paper business longer than any other man in this country. It was forty years ago that Mr. Conner made his first venture. Machinery such as is now used was of course unknown, and all the wall papers were printed by hand.

A modern wall paper manufacturer boasts that in two hours time he can convert a tree into pulp, manufacture it into wall paper and have it on the wall.

But the use of the wood pulp without other stock to strengthen the paper makes it so brittle that it is hard to handle and has little wearing quality.

Early wall papers were intended by the manufacturers to last more than a year. Mr. Conner has sold paper for $4.50 and $5 a roll. Of course, says the Springfield Union this was of the finest quality and design, which required considerable time in the process of manufacture.

The most difficult and tedious part of the work was putting on the designs. The paper came in a big roll drawn over some flat surface and the block on which had been cut the design was dipped in the color and it was then pressed upon the paper.

This operation was repeated with a number of blocks until all the colors required in the design were put on. The paper was removed along a short space and the process repeated.

So well was this paper made that it would last a lifetime, and the housewife never dreamed of having it pulled off every spring or fall to be replaced with new, as is the custom nowadays, when paper can be bought for taree or four cents a roll.

In the old-fashioned days the wall paper came in rolls twenty inches wide instead of eighteen inches as at present. Borders were not made to match the designs in the wall paper so the customer selected the decoration he wanted for his wall and then took the border that looked best with it. Border with gilt background were the general favor and most of them were decorated with dark red flocking.

Flocking was produced by covering the gilt paper with a mucilaginous substance and then sifting through the design velvet trimmings. After the velvet had dried on, the trimmings that did not adhere to the glue were brushed off.

Sometimes these borders were flat gilt papers, sometimes the flocking was put on solid. Solid flocking was used for wall decoration up to fifteen years ago when the modern wall papers began to come into the market.

English wall paper came in rolls of eighteen yards, but after the industry secured a foothold in this country the length of a roll was reduced to sixteen yards and the cutting down has been going on ever since until some rolls do not contain more than thirteen yards.

Early manufacturers paid high wages for color mixers and block cutters, men who cut the designs in wood blocks, and the result was the manufacture of fast colors. It is said that one firm in New York paid its color mixer $60,000 a year and he had as an assistant his son, who drew $15,000 a year salary, and they only worked eight months in a year at that. Designers and cutters received $8 a day.

Color mixers soon discovered that arsenic produced the most beautiful green for printing wall papers and its use quickly became general. It was not long before its poisonous effects were discovered, the paperhangers being the first to suffer from it.

Physicians have reported many cases of arsenical poisoning from wall paper and only a few months ago the newspapers printed a story about an Illinois farmer who lost three wives in three years by death, the cause of which was found to be the arsenic in the parlor wall paper.

According to the story the women were taken ill immediately after the spring house cleaning, during which the wall paper in the parlor had been brushed. An investigation of the house led to the discovery of the cause of the women's deaths.

General knowledge of the dangerous properties of green wall paper caused a falling off in the demand and dealers soon stopped buying it, with the result that the manufacturers to a large extent abandoned the use of arsenic, so that today there is very little of this kind on the market.

Soon after the introduction of the printing presses the manufacturers vied with one another in producing artistic wall papers, the principal object being to put the largest number of colors into a design. One Philadelphia firm surpassed all its competitors in this work and succeeded in producing designs having eighteen different colors, but this fad died out and now not more than eight colors are found in one design.

Borders are manufactured to match design in the wall paper and the paper is trimmed and butted so that there is very little waste. When wall paper was made by hand, the borders sold as high as $3.50 a single roll or $7 a double roll, but now the border and wall paper are sold for the same price.

THE NIGGARD'S WAY.

A Philadelphian said of Miss Anna T. Jeanes, who has given $1,000,000 for negro education in the South:

"Miss Jeanes is a splendid philanthropist. To a good cause she is generosity itself. Giving promptly and freely, she has no sympathy with niggards. I once heard her tell a story about a niggardly rich man of her childhood.

"This man visited a school and made an address. At the end he called a little boy up to him and said:

"'My lad, have you a purse?'

"'No, sir.'

"'I'm sorry,' said the rich man. 'If you had had a purse I should have given you a dime to put in it.'

"This man was scheduled to speak again at the school the next month, and when he came, the boys were prepared for him. An empty purse lay hid in every little pair of trousers.

"And sure enough, at the end of his speech, the man called another boy and said:

"'Have you a purse, son?'

"'Yes, sir,' was the eager answer.

"'I am glad of it,' said the other. 'If you hadn't, I should have given you a dime to buy one with.'"

DRAMATIC INTEREST

Given to Hau Case by Testimony of Lieut. Moliter.

Tells of His First Suspicion of Prisoner as Murderer.

Karlsruhe, July 19.—The third day of the trial of Karl Hau, who is accused of the murder of his mother-in-law, Frau Molitor, at Baden Baden on Nov. 6, last, brought a climax of dramatic interests at the morning session. Testimony was given by the sisters and brother of Hau's wife, who has committed suicide, and the letters she wrote just before taking her life, together with the statement made by Hau after his last interview with his wife in jail on June 7, were read in court.

Lieut. Moliter, who is stationed at Metz, swore he suspected Hau immediately after he heard of the murder of his mother. His explanation of the dispatch sent to Frau Moliter by Hau from Paris was that his mother, as Hau knew, was easily agitated and excited over bad news. The accused therefore sent the message saying her daughter, Olga, was dangerously ill, in the hope that its receipt would cause a stroke of apoplexy.

Describing his talks with the late Mrs. Hau, his sister, after he returned from London, the lieutenant said his sister's first theory was that some enemy of Hau had killed her mother in order to throw suspicion on her husband. It fell to the lieutenant to explain to his sister all their knowledge of the case, pointing to the guilt of her husband. At her request the lieutenant cabled to Washington asking if his sister's patrimony of $15,000 was still in the Union Trust company. The answer was that her husband had drawn all this money. Mrs. Hau said her husband had repeatedly assured her that this money was still intact in the trust company. After his sister became convinced that her husband was guilty she sent a cablegram to her husband's counsel in London saying she was no longer able to maintain his innocence.

The lieutenant next described his trip to Zurich to take possession of the papers left by his sister after her suicide. He found poison in her handbag and assumed that she had taken poison before going into the waters of the lake where she met her death. Otherwise he could not explain the suddenness of her ending, as Lina Moliter was an excellent swimmer. She left a letter addressed to the police saying the reasons for her act were easy to guess —her mother had been murdered and her husband, the man she had loved above all else in the world, was said to be the murderer. "Death is bitter," the unfortunate woman wrote, "because of my little daughter."

Dr. Dietz, counsel for Hau, then asked the court to read a letter which Mrs. Hau had written him from Zurich regarding her last interview with her husband, which took place in prison June 7. Mrs. Hau wrote this interview was rather unsatisfactory and exciting; "We were near to having hysterical attacks," she said. She referred to her husband as a weak man. "Stand by him," the letter read, "and bring pressure to bear upon him."

At this point Hau arose from his chair and asked the permission of the court to make a statement. Speaking slowly and in a very low voice the prisoner said his wife had told him at this interview that she intended committing suicide because she was unable to hear all her family matters discussed before the public. He tried to persuade her to desist from this course as it would create a suspicion that he was guilty.

JOHNNIES ON THE SPOT.

Two men stood at the Manhattan end of Brooklyn bridge in the afternoon at the hour when the multitude assembled to watch the baseball scores. They indulged in various speculations concerning the makeup of the increasing numbers, says the New York Sun.

"How many men in that push do you think are named John?" asked one.

The man questioned, a matter of fact individual, didn't have an idea about it. He went out of his way to say that it was a fool question. And he added:

"You are going to get the worst of it some day on your inquisitiveness."

This nettled his friend, who said, "When I asked you the question I really did not think much about it, but I'll go you a dinner that the majority of the bunch of people within the sound of my voice are named John."

"How do you propose to prove it?"

"By shouting the name from where I stand. I'll bet you the dinner that a majority of those who hear me shout the name will look up responsively."

"I'll go you, just to cure you of a fool habit you have."

The banterer thereupon inflated his lungs and called out, looking down upon the crowd.

"Hello, there John, how's the game?"

The man who lost the bet said:

"Within the sound of my friend's voice there were at least 200 people. I should say that two-thirds of that number lifted up their faces, and at least one-half of the number shouted up the last return on the blackboard. It cost me the bulk of $10 to find it out."

GAME WARDEN AND LIAR.

Kansas City Star: A Colorado man who is visiting in Wellington, told H. L. Woods this story: The game warden of Colorado was walking out in the mountains the other day when he met a hunter with his gun. The officer suggested that that ought to be a good country for hunting.

"It certainly is," said the hunter, proudly. "I killed one of the finest bucks yesterday I ever saw, and he weighed over 200." It was the season when deer may not be shot without subjecting the hunter to a heavy fine.

"Well, that's a fine one," said the warden, "and do you know who you are talking too?"

Being assured that he did not the officer said:

"Why, I am the chief game warden of Colorado."

The hunter was only taken back a moment, when he said:

"And do you know who you are talking too?" The game warden did not know.

"Well, sir," said the hunter, apparently much relieved, "you are talking to the biggest liar in the whole state of Colorado."

ANOTHER SITE IS CONSIDERED

Eighth Avenue West and Second Street a Hospital Location.

Although two possible sites for the proposed city hospital, Craggencroft and the City park at Fourteenth avenue west and First street are not available those interested in securing the institution are quite hopeful that some other location as good, or better, than those mentioned will be found.

Ever since it was determined that the city charter had a clause preventing the use of a city park for any other than park purposes the committee that was appointed at the Commercial club meeting to investigate the matter of site has been considering other locations and, it is said, that several of its members have made favorable mention of the southeast corner of Second street and Eighth avenue west.

The location has been viewed by some of the committee, and it was suggested that if the city would purchase four 50-foot lots on the corner, making a tract 200 by 140 feet, the location would be an ideal one for a hospital.

The 100-foot property on the corner is owned by Edward Patterson, one of the county commissioners. It is unimproved. The adjoining 100 feet is owned by Volney Wilkinson, who resides on one of his lots. It is understood that both Mr. Patterson and Mr. Wilkinson would be willing to sell their property, and that, in view of the object to be attained, they would part with their properties at a very reasonable figure. While no definite figures have been stated it seems to be the understanding that the city could buy the whole 200 feet for about $12,000. Local real estate men claim that this a reasonably low figure for the property, considering the location.

While a portion of the proposed site is quite rocky it is claimed to be the right sort of a place for a hospital for the reason that the rear of the lots on the alley are high above the property below the alley, and a building erected on the corner proposed would never have another building shutting off the view of the lake and harbor, which is especially fine from this point.

It is further claimed that the location is nearer the depot and the business center of the city than either of the other sites considered, and yet far enough away to avoid the noise from heavy traffic.

HER WEALTH DISSIPATED.

Woman, Once Estimated Worth a Million, Makes an Assignment.

Bowling Green, Ohio, July 19.—Jane W. Stone of Brooklyn, N. Y., at one time probably the most extensive oil operator in the world, has filed a deed of assignment in the probate court in this county. Charles W. Solether of Cygnet is made assignee. The deed covers 612 acres of land in Douglas county, Georgia; 47 acres in Carroll county, Georgia; six acres in section 2, Liberty township, Wood county; 160 acres in Portage township, Wood county; 135 acres in Henry township, Wood county; 329 acres in Marion township, Hardin county; the lands and buildings known as the old Lock factory, Celina, Ohio, and all the oil well tools and appurtenances used in operating all of her oil leases.

It is understood that the various sums due creditors will aggregate about $35,000, which is much less than the value of her property.

Miss Stone was a familiar character about the oil fields of Wood county fifteen years ago. She personally looked after her leases, and, clad in waterproof clothing and high boots, waded the swamps and pools of oil in this personal supervision. The production from the wells on her lands was enormous, and estimates as high as $1,000,000 were placed on her stuff in Wood county. Since that time Miss Stone has become feeble, and for some years, it is alleged, her wealth has been dissipated, and now she claims that her total possessions will aggregate $70,000.

WIFE MUST FOLLOW

And May Not Choose Where the Family Shall Live.

Detroit, Mich., July 19.—Even the granddaughter of an Ohio governor may not choose her own home is the gist of a decision of the supreme court of Michigan, which has just set aside the divorce recently granted to Mrs. Anna Eliza Wisner. Mrs. Wisner is a granddaughter of the late Governor Dennison of Ohio. She married R. E. Wisner, son of the late George Wisner, who was nominated for a place on the deep waterways commission and a prominent engineer. Young Wisner is in charge of large mining operations at Oeanto, Mexico.

The trouble between the Wisners arose over their home location. The husband's business called him to Mexico, where he offered to provide her a home. She refused to live in Mexico and secured a divorce. This divorce is now set aside, and the supreme court decides that a wife may not choose where the family is to live, but must go wherever her husband destres, provided he treats her kindly and furnishes adequate support.

CITY ENJOINED.

Oneota Street Property Owners Fight Paving Improvement.

On petition of about 90 per cent of property owners to be affected by a paving on Oneota street, Judge Dibell has issued a temporary restraining order and directed the city of Duluth and the board of public works to show cause why the order should not be made permanently.

The West Duluth Land company is said to be the only owner that signed the petition for a pavement, and it is claimed that the subsequent action of the board of public works was illegal and not in accordance with the provisions of the city charter. The plaintiffs are George L. Raymond, the Nikanlss company and the Wheeler estate.

WORMS

"I had for years suffered from what medical men called Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach. In August I purchased a box of Cascarets and was surprised to find that I "had 'em"—yes—a wiggling, squirming mass left me. Judge our doctor's surprise when I showed him thirty feet, and in another day the remainder about the same length of a tapeworm that had been sapping my vitality for years. I have enjoyed the best of health ever since. I trust this testimonial will appeal to other sufferers."

TELLING A SKELETON KEY.

What is a skeleton key?

The question was presented to a jury in circuit court here this week, says a Kirksville, Mo., correspondent of the New York Sun. John Allen, a pale faced wanderer, had been caught at Novinger, Mo., with a job lot of steel tools that looked like toothpicks or jackstraws. Missouri law makes it a felony to carry burglar tools, so the prosecuting attorney threw out this sort of a dragnet information: "By then and there having in his possession a lot of skeleton keys, nippers, jimmies, pliers, lockpicks, files, saws and lock breaking tools, against the peace and dignity of the state."

Allen laughed when he read all that. "The rubes wouldn't know a burglar's kit from prize package jewelry," he said. "Them ain't burglar tools; them's what you use to solder tin cans with."

In court the queer looking instruments were spread out on the stenographer's table. The circuit clerk inspected them and said he didn't see anything there that looked like a key. Sheriff Curry said he had tried the locks in the courthouse and jail and he could open every one of them with the outfit. Still he confessed he didn't know what a skeleton key was. The janitor exhibited a ring full of keys, two of the latter being somewhat ambiguous.

"They will open several different locks," he said. "They're what I call skeleton keys."

A gentleman with a large star said he was a deputy sheriff at Novinger and it had been his official duty to arrest a large number of crooks. He had served several years and considered himself experienced in the manners of those whose ways are dark.

"What are burglar tools, Gene?" asked the prosecuting attorney.

"Why, burglar tools—are—er—tools you find on burglars," replied the deputy.

"Thank you," said the prosecuting attorney; "I just wanted to know."

The little prisoner smiled complacently as a long, lank man from St. Louis took the chair. This man looked so mild and inoffensive that to associate him with the craft of the fly-by-nighters seemed almost sacrilegious. The witness muttered something about some detective agency and said his name was Bill Stamper.

"Do you know a skeleton key when you see it, Mr. Stamper?" asked the prosecuting attorney.

"I think so," said the witness, cautiously.

"Where did you learn what a skeleton key was?"

"When I belonged to the Lone Jim gang."

The prisoner quit smiling at the thin man in the witness chair. Instead he looked grave and bent his head forward on his chin.

"The profession calls 'em 'screws,'" said the witness. "They'll open any lock you can make in these parts. I've tried 'em. In '96 I had an order from the chief to capture Lone Jim, Illinois Blackey and Syracuse Slim. I forget their other names. The department didn't have their photographs and not a man on the force knew 'em by sight. There was only one thing to do—to join the gang. I did this and they showed me where to get a set of 'screws' about like this gentleman here has. They were hand-made by a mechanic in Warsaw, Ill., and cost $10. That's cheap, though, because it puts every country store at your mercy in the night. I went along with Lone Jim on several hauls; had to until I learned where Illinois Blackey and Slim was. I ate, slept and run with the gang same as one of 'em for two weeks. One day I got Blackey and Slim together and run 'em against the cops I had stationed. Then I took Jim at the point of the gun. He had a batch of 'screws,' a bottle of 'oil' and two good guns. Here's his 'screws.'"

"Skeleton keys!" suggested the prosecutor.

"Oh, yes, that's what they call 'em in the story books. When you get a set you can have a spring opening in somebody's dry goods store every night. They're worth the money, all right."

The captor of Lone Jim produced a bunch of slender tools that looked like they were blood kin to those in evidence.

When it came Allen's time to explain he said:

"Gentlemen, if they're burglar tools I have been shamefully imposed on. I heard this was a great apple country, and I got 'em to fasten up the cans. I've been swindled, I have."

The jury gave him four years in the pen—two on the information and two for using burglar tools to put up fruit with.

DROVE FOR LINCOLN.

"Abraham Lincoln was the best man I ever saw," said Wichita's oldest auctioneer the other day. J. A. Benner of 72 years of age and probably the oldest successful auctioneer in the state of Kansas.

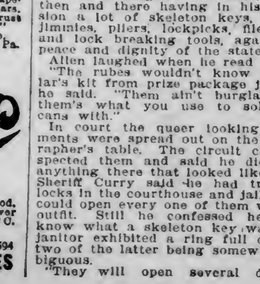

It is known among the friends of the old auctioneer, says the Wichita Eagle, that he and Abraham Lincoln were warm friends along in the early '50s. When Mr. Benner was waiting for a salt the other day he came over and sat on the curbing in front of the Eagle office and some of the boys got to talking about Lincoln. "Did you consider Mr. Lincoln a very good man?" asked a young man who had evidently read of the martyred president in his school history.

The plucky old auctioneer seemed to be horrified at the question. He wondered that anybody should ask such a question. His chin dropped and he spread out his hands palm upward like one in the presence of what he considered some great sacrilege, and said: "Oh, he was the very best man I ever saw, and he was as courageous as he was good. In his treatment of men he was a prince, and his every action forced the conviction that he thought the man with an apron cutting stone or the man with overalls carrying brick as good as the president of the United States. He was great by nature and the assumed greatness of small men failed to impress him.

"My father used to own a livery barn at Urbana in Champaign county. W. W. Davis was Judge of that judicial district, and Leonard Sweat was state attorney. He and Judge Davis were great friends of Lincoln, and when Mr. Lincoln was elected president he appointed Judge Davis a judge of the supreme court of the United States the very first opportunity.

"I was considered a kid by those men when I first became acquainted with them. Lincoln had partners in those counties and when they would get cases of importance Lincoln would come over from Springfield to help them, and of course, he was at Urbana, Mattoon and Danville every term of court. Father had a double seated carriage and a fine team of bobtailed sorrel horses. I used to take that rig and drive Judge Davis, Mr. Lincoln and Leonard Sweat from Urbana to Mattoon and Danville and go after them when they got ready to come back. They used to depend on the carriage and the kid, but they called me the boy. That was before they had learned to call young people kids.

"Lincoln was a great talker and they used to have lively times on those trips. I have often thought that I never saw one of the party take a drink. Men inclined to drink would certainly have had something along on such trips. The very fact that they did not have anything along has convinced me that none of them ever took a drink."

The Charming Woman.

is not necessarily one of perfect form and features. Many a plain woman who could never serve as an artist's model, possesses those rare qualities that all the world admires: neatness, clear eyes, clean smooth skin and that sprightliness of step and action that accompany good health. A physically weak woman is never attractive, not even to herself. Electric Bitters restore weak women, give strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, beautiful complexion. INCREASE IN VENEER

Output of Wood Veneers Was Almost Doubled Last Year.

Best Veneer is Used as an Overlay for Furniture.

Washington, July 20.—A census report recently issued by the government on the manufacture of wood veneers in the United States brings out the significant fact that the output was almost doubled last year. It rose from one billion square feet produced in 1905 to nearly two billion in 1906.

In one form or another veneer is almost as old as civilization, but its extensive use is very recent. In 1905 the forest service issued the first official report concerning it in this country. This year the bureau of the census, co-operating with the forest service, published the second report, coming down to Dec. 31, 1906.

Most people probably think of veneering as a process by which a cheap article is made to look like an expensive one. A common figure of speech contrasts a thin veneer, as of good manners, civilization, etc., with the solid, real thing. In point of fact, an article made of veneer is often superior to and more expensive than one made solid. A veneered door is the proper article for use in a well-built house, because a solid door is more likely to warp.

The main impetus to the use of veneer, however, is the necessity for economizing in the use of material forced by the growing scarcity and rising prices of wood in this country. Naturally, the pinch was felt first in the woods most generally used and most highly prized for finishing woods, furniture, and similar uses—black walnut, white oak, yellow poplar (or "whitewood," as the consumer generally knows it), etc. In the case of white oak, for example, so much in demand for many purposes, and so rapidly falling, the recent extensive use of veneering processes has in some high degree checked the rise in price of quartered sound material. Obviously it has acted to make the limited supply go much further than it would otherwise. In many kinds of manufacture veneering affords a means of economizing wood, not by overlaying one kind of wood with another, but by using a much thinner piece of wood and by securing close utilization of all material with as little waste as possible.

Furniture inlaid with woods of different colors and kinds has had a place in many well-to-do homes for generations, and bookcases, desks, bureaus and articles of that kind are now highly prized as heirlooms, or in collections of antiques. But that use of veneer was very different from its present enormous utilization. It is now employed not only in the making of furniture, but also in many other ways not thought of a few years ago.

Its manufacture forms a distinct industry, and a very important and widespread one. The three hundred or more mills making veneer are scattered through two-thirds of the states. Some states, however, have many more mills than others, just as some produce more lumber than others. It would be misleading, however, to assume that sections producing much lumber necessarily rank high in their veneer output. The Pacific coast makes little, although it cuts vast quantities of other lumber. Yellow pine is second in the list of veneer materials, but other pines are scarcely used at all. Door makers employ yellow pine in large quantities. The beautifully grained Georgia pine doors which are seen in so many homes are often pine veneer laid on some other wood.

The cutting of wood in very thin slices for veneer is done in three ways, and special machinery is necessary. The most valuable is cut from the log by very thin saws, and high-grade wood is usually selected, walnut, oak, yellow pine and maple. The pieces so separated exhibit the grain of the wood, take finish and polish, and command high prices. Perfect pieces not more than one-twentieth of an inch thick are thus produced. Furniture makers are the largest consumers of this clas of veneer.

A second method of cutting the thin pieces from the log is by using a powerful knife instead of a saw. The log is usually scalded with steam prior to sending the knife through it. This renders the process easier, and does not injure the wood. The part cut off is really a broad shaving, the full length of the log, and a thinness of one-hundredth of an inch is not rare, although that is under the usual thickness.

The third method of cutting veneer from the log is also by a knife, but instead of slicing a long shaving from endward, the log is given a rotary motion, and the veneer is cut as an apple is peeled, round and round.

Veneer makers use almost any wood that comes to their hands, but red gum heads the list, followed in the order named, by yellow pine, white oak, maple, cottonwood, yellow poplar, basswood, birch, elm, tupelo, red oak, spruce, beech, ash, walnut and sycamore.

The best veneer is used as an overlay for furniture and finishing for interior of houses, but the cheaper grade are seen almost everywhere. Among the articles made of it are berry boxes, banana crates, peach baskets, and egg crates. Beech has a special quality which fits it for dinner plates, the thin, cheap kind taken on picnics, and usually thrown away afterwards? Nearly the entire output of beech veneer goes into these little plates.

A list of all the uses of veneer would surprise almost anybody. Fine grade Havana cigars come in fragrant Cuban cedar boxes. They are never seen in any other kind. But that fine cedar is so scarce that the boxes are only covered and lined with it—the thinnest veneer possible—while the principal substance of the box is poplar.

The poplar cigar box with its thin covering and lining of costly cedar is an instructive example of economy in the use of scarce and valuable wood. Crates and baskets show economy also, but with cheaper wood, which is cut thin to make it go farther. The furniture maker is likewise economical for he overlays a frame of common and coarse wood with a beautiful material, and the finished article, because of its freedom from checks and warping, is often better than one made of solid wood of high grade. Scraps, knotty pieces, and odds and ends are worked in the centers and covered up. Some factories even so so far in saving waste that they employ a process of gluing odd bits in thin sheets, covering both sides with veneer, and producing an article of much value in constructing interior walls and partitions.

The scrap heap in the lumber yard is the latest by-product of timber operations to be turned to account.

"BAD CHICKIE"

Attacked Tot, Knocking Him Down and Pecking at His Face.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 19.—A small game rooster attacked little Albert Stein, 2 years old, 14 Bright street, in West Indianapolis, and in the struggle that followed the child was badly wounded about the face and head. The parents were walking along the street when Stein heard the child scream, and, turning around, saw that it was being attacked by the rooster.

"Bad chickie," screamed the child, who was lying in the street on his back, while the rooster was standing on his body and pecking at his face and head. Stein drove the rooster away and then took the child to police headquarters. The child will recover.

Bad sick headaches, biliousness or constipation are quickly relieved by DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Sold by all druggists.

FINE IMPOSED ON MINISTER

For Refusing to Tell Where the Beer Came From.

Anderson, Ind., July 19.—In police court Rev. Thomas W. Grafton, pastor of the Central Christian congregation, the largest in this city, was fined $25 because he would not tell who furnished him with a bottle of beer that he held up in his pulpit Sunday and declared was purchased on the Sabbath while the police were contending that the lid was on tight.

When the minister was put under oath on the witness stand in court and questioned by State's Attorney Van Nuys, Rev. Grafton surprised the court and many spectators by refusing to answer questions satisfactorily to the court.

As to the bottle of beer exhibited in church Sunday night, Rev. Grafton said he positively knew that it was bought on Sunday; that a committee caused a man to go into a saloon, not far from the church, and that the man entered a saloon from an alley door and soon emerged with the bottle of beer.

The minister refused to tell the name of the man who bought the beer or designate the saloon he entered. He was then asked for the names of the men on the committee, but he declined to name them. He said that he had promised not to divulge their names, and he would not violate his promises.

City Judge Horne finally told the minister he would have to tell the names or he would suffer the penalty for refusing to answer legal and legitimate questions of the court. The minister declared he would not tell the names, and was ready to submit to the finding of the court.

Judge Horne then fined Rev. Grafton $25 for contempt of court. The minister at once said he would appeal to the circuit court, and he proceeded to put up a cash bond. Judge Horne told him he would have ten days in which to perfect an appeal, and that meanwhile a bond would not be required.

Rev. Grafton is among the most popular ministers in this city and one of the leading men of the Christian church in the Central states. His congregation, with 2,000 members, was declared, a year ago, to be the largest Christian organization in the United States. In the Christian church Sunday school Rev. Grafton has a class of men whose attendance averages 135. Before coming to this city, six years ago, Rev. Grafton was located at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Not long ago Rev. Grafton created a stir here by denouncing a fraternity dance, where he said the lights were turned low, if not out, during one number of the program.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

By the explosion of the boiler of a locomotive drawing a freight train near Latham, Wyo., Thursday, an unknown tramp was killed and Engineer Robert C. Atkins, Fireman E. B. Verry and Brakeman Charles Howard, all of Rawlins, were fatally injured.

Judge George B. Adams, in a decision rendered in the United States district court in New York Friday, declared constitutional the employers' liability act passed by congress June 11, 1906. The same act has already been passed upon by the federal courts in other states, several times having been held constitutional and several times unconstitutional.

James V. Dale, who murdered Peter Godereau and Joseph Cello at Carmi, near Greenwood, last October, was hanged in the jail yard at Kamloops, B. C., Friday morning.

Henry White, a negro, convicted of the murder of Marshal Basore of Franklin, Ohio, in October, 1906, was electrocuted in the annex at the Ohio penitentiary a few minutes after midnight Friday. White was indifferent to his fate.

PUSSY JUMPED FOR MOTH

And Upset Lamp, House and Two Negroes Being Burned.

Eudora, Miss., July 19.—An explosion of a lamp overturned by the pet cat of the James' household at Clark's station, resulted in the destruction of the homestead and the death of two negro servants who were asleep in the premises. The cat, a valuable Persian type, and the pet of "Aunt" Susan James, an old maid, well known in this community, jumped for a moth that was flying at the lamp. The tablecloth was pulled off by the claws of the cat and the lamp dashed to the floor.

Before help could be called the oil had scattered over the room, enveloping it in flames, and the residence was soon reduced to ashes, the negroes being forgotten in the excitement. The property loss is estimated at $10,000, partly covered by insurance, but many old-time relics went up in smoke. The cat has not been seen since.

HER OWN STEPMOTHER.

Kansas City Star: "I am my own stepmother," testified Mrs. Emma Rose, who was a witness in Justice R. E. Barnard's court in a Memphis larceny case.

Her statement so astonished the justice that he asked Attorney B. F. Powell whether or not the woman was in her right mind.

"Oh, I'm sane, Judge," interrupted the witness. "You see I recently married the son of my first husband by another wife and this makes me, so my neighbors say, my own stepmother. I got a divorce from my first husband and married his eldest son.

Her explanation seemed satisfactory for the moment, but Justice Barnard said there should be some law to prevent women being their "own stepmother," to say to say the least.

MARE 45 YEARS OLD.

An inquiry as to the limit of age of horses is reported in a German farm journal by Dr. Norner-Barensburg, who has collected information far and wide on the subject. According to his conclusions thirty years would seem to be the equine equivalent for the human "three score years and ten." It is a good old age for horses, but many reach it and not a few surpass it, says the New York Sun.

The oldest horse of which he could learn any definite facts was a roan mare bred in the government stock farm in Hungary, and she was at least 45 years old when she died. In 1852 she was assigned to Lieut. Theodore von Leyes of Lemburg, serving in the Fifth Regiment of Uhlans. In the next year horse and rider were transferred to the Twelfth regiment, and in 1850 they made the entire Italian campaign together. At the battle of Magenta the lieutenant was cut off from his regiment by a body of French troops. His brave mare carried him to safety by an extraordinary leap over a stone wall.

In 1863 Van Leyes got into financial difficulties and in the following year he was obliged to part with his mare to a comrade who used her as road horse until 1865, when she passed into the stable of a major of infantry. With him it is believed she made the campaign of 1866. Then Von Leyes, who furnished the facts to Dr. Norner-Barensburg, lost sight of her until 1873, when he found her, alas, serving as a cab horse in Vienna. He kept his eye on her after that and in 1882 she had sunk to drawing a delivery wagon for a manufacturer of paper boxes. Von Leyes by this time was in better circumstances and he bought back his old friend and comrade to take care of her until her death.

This took place in 1892, when she was fully 45 years old, according to the stock farm record. Down to the end she was employed daily at light work. She was a well set up animal with unusually clean cut, graceful build and limbs. Two days before her death she refused feed for the first time in her life. Her skeleton is now set up in the veterinary college in Vienna.

The great age she reached is all the more remarkable when her military experiences, including the hardships of two campaigns, are considered. Her biographer considers her career as establishing the advantage of allowing horses to become fully matured before they are put to work. No horse set to work while green, he thinks, could possibly have gone through so much and lived to such an age.

MILLIONAIRE A CROQUET FIEND.

New York Press: John W. Gates is an ardent devotee of modern croquet. One of his latest portraits shows him on the lawn of his country place about to make a stroke for the post. A croquet mallet is grasped in his right hand and he addresses the ball with an expression that seems to say, "Bet you a million I make it." From the crown of his snowy Panama to the soles of his white canvas shoes, every line of his figure betokens concentration on the shot. Gates is not yet so corpulent that he needs a series of mirrors to see his shoes. Perhaps he plays croquet to avert that unhappy state. Anyway, when in the country he puts in hours every day in utter abandonment to the seductions of that game, undeterred by the fact that John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie think golf is the only sport under the canopy. Mrs. George W. Guthrie of Pittsburg, while by no means in the dowager class, is an expert at croquet, and has done much to popularize the game among the matrons of her set.

WEST END

WILL VOTE FOR J. J. MOE

West Enders Will Turn Out at School Elections.

Other Live News of a Live Part of Town.

The West end is expected to cast a large vote at the school elections which will be held tomorrow, as it is the desire of the citizens to re-elect John J. Moe to the school board. Mr. Moe is the only candidate from the western end of town and his work as a member of the board of education during the past three years has been much appreciated by the voters.

All of the three directors to be named tomorrow will be directors at large—all members of the school board as so named—and it will be necessary for a large number of Mr. Moe's friends to turn out and vote for him, although he has no opposition in the West end, lest that part of town lost out in the matter of a representative on the board.

There are two candidates from the central part of the city, one from the East end and two from West Duluth.

The polls will open at 6 a. m. and will close at 7 p. m., so that this year, every voter will have an opportunity to mark a ballot at some time during the day.

The polling places in the West end are as follows:

PREACHER IN ACCIDENT.

Is in Sailboat Which Tips Over on the Bay.

Although nothing was said about it at the time, Rev. H. K. Madsen had a very narrow escape from drowning in the bay this week. He was a member of a yachting party which met with an accident and all were thrown into the water.

When the boat capsized, every member of the party made frantic efforts to regain the overturned craft. Rev. Mr. Madsen and every other member of the party, except one, could swim, and the latter was given some assistance.

When all had regained the boat, it was evident that the capsized vessel would not support all of them, and had it not been for the timely arrival of a gasoline launch, which took off two victims of the accident until the life saving crew could arrive, several members of the party would probably have lost their lives.

WEST END BOY HURT.

Member of Surveying Party Gets a Nasty Cut.

George Hanson, son of Swan Hanson, of 1523 West Superior street, was brought to his father's home yesterday from New Duluth, where he was so severely cut with an instrument used by surveyors for cutting down weeds, that he nearly bled to death.

Young Hanson was a member of a surveyor's crew at work up the river and another member of the party accidentally struck him in the back with the instrument. The blow caused a deep wound in Hanson's back, and he suffered greatly from loss of blood before a physician could be summoned.

He was attended by Dr. Greeley, who reports that he is now on the road to recovery, although still very weak.

CONDITION UNCHANGED.

Victim of Street Car Accident Still in Dangerous Condition.

The condition of Mrs. J. L. Myers, the woman who was injured by being thrown from a crowded street car on Piedmont avenue, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth avenues west, Wednesday afternoon, is unchanged today. She lies dangerously hurt at her home, 2420 West First street.

The car Mrs. Myers boarded was so crowded that she was obliged to stand on the platform and when the car suddenly gave a lurch, she was thrown into the street. Carried to a dwelling nearby, it was seen that she was seriously hurt. A physician was called and she was removed to her home a little later.

She has a chance of complete recovery, but there is danger that she will always feel the effects of the accident.

LAYING UP STEAMERS

Some Steel Trust Vessels Temporarily Out of Commission.

Shippers in Other Trades Now Get Plenty of Tonnage.

As a result of the strike of the ore handlers at the Missabe dock at Duluth and the Duluth & Iron Range road at Two Harbors, several barges and one or two of the steamers of the Steel trust fleet have been ordered to go to Erie and lay up their for the time being. This was forecasted the first of the week and more boats will probably be laid up if the strike continues much longer.

Word was received in Duluth today that the steamers La Salle, Saxon and Mariposa of the Pittsburg Steamship company had received orders at Ashtabula to clear for Erie and lay up there until further orders. It is said that the order is a direct result of the strike at this end of he route.

At Port Huron the Pittsburg Steamship company's barge 118 which unloaded there has received orders to pay off the crew and lay the vessel up temporarily on account of the strike of the ore handlers. Besides these several other boats of the big ore-carrying fleet of the Steel trust are being put in ordinary for the time being.

One result of the strike is that coal shippers and shippers in other trades outside of the ore-carrying industry are getting a better supply of tonnage than for months before. At Buffalo the shippers are unable to take care of all the tonnage offered and the boats are unable to get cargoes. Nearly all the boats of the other fleets besides those of the Steel trust are still running, but after this trip many of them will be forced to lay up.

It is said that President Coulby of the Pittsburg Steamship company is now on his way to the Head of the Lakes on the steamer Thomas F. Cole and something may be done to settle the strike when he arrives in this city. The strike will cut down the shipments for the month enormously and the movement for July will not be as heavy as it was in June.

CAR FERRY LOSES WHEEL.

Is in Drydock at Ludington as Result of Accident.

Ludington, Mich., July 19.—As the result of a peculiar accident the car ferry Pere Marquette No. 20 now lies at her dock awaiting a berth in the Milwaukee drydock. The big ferry had started for Milwaukee but had only proceeded a few miles in the lake when she lost her starboard wheel and about six feet of outboard shaft. No cause is assigned for the strange accident except that there must have been a flaw in the metal.

The weather was quiet and the craft was moving along at ordinary speed when, without warning, the shaft parted with the result that the wheel dropped off and sank to the bottom of the lake.

Capt. Ackerman turned his boat around and was able to reach port by means of the remaining port wheel. A new casting has been ordered which will cost several thousand dollars and No. 20 will go into drydock for two or three weeks to repair the damage.

Meanwhile car ferry No. 15 will be fitted out and take No. 20's place. Two years ago a similar accident befell No. 17 and but for quiet weather the big ferry might have met with serious accident.

STRANGE WEATHER SIGNALS.

Tip is Given as Warning to Vessel Masters.

Chicago, July 19.—Vessel masters need not feel alarmed if they observe a strange and wonderful display of signal flags flying at weather bureau stations on Lake Michigan during next week. The big annual cruising race of the Chicago yacht clubs to Mackinac island starts from Chicago on Saturday next, and special signals to forecast the direction of the wind for the amateur skippers have been arranged by Prof. H. J. Cox, of the weather bureau. Should there be an occasion to hoist storm warnings during the period of the race they will take precedence over the yachting signals. During the race the display men at the different stations will report the passage of the yachts by wire.

Steamer Libeled.

Detroit, July 19.—The steamer Byron Whitaker was libeled today by the Great Lakes Engineering works for a $15,000 repair bill. The boat was seized by a deputy United States marshal and will be sold unless the claim is liquidated.

AFFECTS RECEIVING DOCKS.

May Have to Quit for Lack of Cargoes.

Cleveland, July 19.—With three of the principal ore shipping ports, Duluth, Superior and Two Harbors, now tied up by the ore handlers' strike, it is certain that a large number of ships will be forced to remain idle until a resumption of work.

The tie-up in the ore shipping business will begin to be felt at Lake Erie ore receiving ports early, when some of the docks may have to go out of business for lack of cargoes.

NEW ORE PORT.

Indiana Harbor Will Soon Receive Its First Cargo.

Chicago, July 19.—A new ore receiving port will be opened to lake trade in about two weeks, when Indiana Harbor will receive its first iron ore cargo.

Extensive additions have been made to the plant of the Inland Steel company at that point and it is planned to have 20,000 tons of ore on the docks before the close of navigation. The steamer Wahula, which brought up a deckload of machinery in addition to its cargo of coal, was the first large boat to visit the new harbor.

WILL INSTALL LIGHTS.

At Request of Lighthouse Board Engineers Will Do Work.

The work of setting out the light posts and buoys for the new St. Louis river channel connecting the north and south routes to the Missabe ore docks will be done by the local government engineers' office by request of the lighthouse board. The new channel will be furnished with lights the same as the other harbor channels.

John H. Darling, junior engineer, was yesterday looking over the new channel in order to estimate the number of posts and buoys needed for the channel. It will not take more than a short time to locate the lights, after which the channel will be declared open for commerce.

LAST ORE GOING DOWN.

Two Steamers With Ore Cleared From Allouez Thursday Afternoon.

Two ore laden steamers departed yesterday afternoon from the Allouez docks, they being the last ore boats which were loaded before the strike at Allouez was declared at noon. They were the steamers A. Stearn and Mars.

No boats have passed out of the Duluth canal with ore since last Sunday morning. And since Wednesday morning none have been loaded at Two Harbors. At that point there is a big fleet of empty boats waiting for orders.

In the Duluth harbor there are about half a dozen boats which came up light and can not get loads. Some of the vessels are being transferred to Ashland and other Lake Superior ports.

Ferry Steamer Is Fined.

A fine of $200 was yesterday imposed on the ferry steamer Crescent by L. M. Willeuts, customs collector of this port, for violating Rule 25 of the pilot rules. The Crescent failed to answer the passing signal of the tug Record on Sunday and it was reported to Mr. Willeuts.

Cold Still Uncertain.

Buffalo, July 19.—Shippers report a considerable quantity of coal en route to this city, but on account of rail delays it is still arriving in an uncertain way. The following charters were reported today: Manchester, Flower, Milwaukee; Merrimac, Cumberland, Chicago.

On Duluth Run.

Buffalo, July 19.—The steamer Auburn of the Western Transit fleet has been withdrawn from the Chicago route and placed in service between Buffalo and Duluth to assist in carrying the unusually heavy westbound movement of freight for Lake Superior. The steamer Codorus of the Anchor line came out of drydock today and cleared for Chicago with package freight.

A SMALL SECRET.

Couldn't Understand the Taste of His Customers.

Two men were discussing the various food products now being supplied in such variety and abundance.

One, a grocer, said, "I frequently try a package or so of any certain article before offering it to my trade, and in that way sometimes form a different idea than my customers have.

For instance, I thought I would try some Postum Food Coffee, to see what reason there was for such a call for it. At breakfast I didn't like it and supper proved the same, so I naturally concluded that my taste was different from that of the customers who bought it right along.

A day or two after, I waited on a lady who was buying a 25c package and told her I couldn't understand how one could fancy the taste of Postum.

"I know just what is the matter' she said, 'you put the coffee boiler on the stove just fifteen minutes, and ten minutes of that time it simmered, and perhaps five minutes it boiled, now if you will have it left to boil fifteen minutes after it commences to boil, you will find a delicious Java-like beverage, rich in food value of gluten and phosphates, so choice that you will never abandon it, particularly when you see the great gain in health.' Well, I took another trial and sure enough I joined the Postum army for good, and life seems worth living since I have gotten rid of my old time stomach and kidney troubles."

Postum is no sort of medicine, but pure liquid food, and this, together with a relief from coffee worked the change. "There's a Reason."

"NUMBER TWENTY-THREE."

The Boarding House on Fifth Avenue West, Where the Murder Was Committed.

HUSBAND AND WIFE ARRESTED

Patterson woman, who had a rather questionable reputation, and that she was insanely jealous of her. Mrs. Johnson also admits this, and it is thought the she would have had much more reason for the shooting than her husband.

The fact that one of the Johnson pair did the deed was more firmly established this morning when Detective Norman Terry, searching the rooms of the couple, found, in a trunk used by both of them, an Iver Johnson hammerless 38 revolver, with one shell discharged, corresponding to the bullet found on the floor of the room, where the body was found. The gun had not been cleaned since the discharge. A search of the pawnshops is being made to try and ascertain whether Mr. or Mrs. Johnson purchased the weapon.

Story of the Shooting.

Mrs. Patterson was murdered about 12:20 last night in her room at her lodging house, 23 Fifth avenue west, the deed being committed with a revolver. The bullet, which entered her breast bone about the center, passed clear through the body and emerging under the left shoulder blade dropped on the floor of the room, where it was found later. After being shot she ran from her room and fell at the head of the stairs leading down to the street in front. C. H. Hamm and Miss Frances Cooper, who were drinking beer together just across the hall, heard the pistol shot, but were too frightened to go out in the hall, and the terrified pair waited in the room without giving an alarm. Some ten minutes later, however, Arthur Lewis, who also rooms at Mrs. Patterson's boarding house, coming home for the night, almost fell over the body in the darkened hall and, running back down stairs alarmed Link Speers, colored, and a white man, who was passing, of the tragedy. An alarm was sent at once to the station and Lieut. Fiskett, Sergeant Gillon, and a number of officers went hurriedly to the scene of the murder.

The Cooper woman and Hamm were given a rigorous cross-examination, and it is believed that they were telling the truth. They heard the shot, Mrs. Patterson's scream, and the heavy thud as she fell at the head of the stairs. They waited breathless for the ten minutes before Lewis arrived with the police.

It is thought that the murderer made his escape in a quiet manner by the front stairway, the theory that he dropped from the back window being scouted by the police. There is no evidence of any one having gotten out this way.

Woman Had Retired.

When the police arrived the door of the murdered woman's room was closed but not locked and it is thought that she slammed it together as she rushed into the hall. Her bed showed that she had retired for the night, and the body, when Lewis found it was clad only in a night gown. Directly in front of her door are blood stains and the door is also spattered. It is thought that someone rapped on the door and shot as it was opened. The bullet must have been fired at close range to have made so complete and clean a penetration as that evident on the body.

Had Several Enemies.

Mrs. Patterson's life has been a checkered one during the past year, and there are one or two persons who are said to have motives which might lead to killing her. Several weeks ago she was terribly slashed in her room by another colored woman, Mrs. Carrie Buchanan, who is now serving a three year term in Stillwater. Mrs. Buchanan's motive for the deed was also jealousy, as she followed her husband to the door of the Patterson woman's room, and after accusing him of faithlessness, produced a razor and started to make things warm. Buchanan fled and has not been seen since, he vanished into the darkness on that night, but Mrs. Buchanan turned her attention to Mrs. Patterson and slashed her terribly.

Patterson Is Missing.

Patterson was arrested and given sixty days for beating his wife early this year. He was released during the first part of June, and since served a sentence as a plain drunk. Since that time he has disappeared and has not been located. It is not believed by the police that the participants in this affair had anything to do with the murder last night.

The police placed all the boarders at Mrs. Patterson's under arrest last night but they were released this morning.

Residents of the house on Sixth avenue west, where the Johnsons were rooming say that Mrs. Johnson was out about the time the murder was committed, and upon returning acted in a very nervous and excited manner. This morning at the police station she was exceedingly nervous, the ringing of a telephone bell causing her to almost leap from her chair.

INVENTS NEW ENGINE

Which, It is Claimed, Will Revolutionize Steam Power.

Washington, July 19.—Senor Pedro Purigjaner, a well known engineer of Barcelona, has invented and submitted to practical trials a rotative steam engine, which, it is asserted, will cause a revolution in all countries where steam power is used.

It is claimed for this remarkable engine that it may be applied to all purposes for which steam is required, whether on land or on sea, and that it consumes but one-fifth of the coal per horse power that ordinary engines consume. For example, it is declared that a ship burning 500 tons of coal per day with the ordinary marine engine would burn but 100 tons with the new invention.

BOY AND GIRL CURED OF SORES

Which Broke out on Face and Body — Medical Treatment Did Them No Good — Mother Cured Both Her Little Ones and Now The WHOLE FAMILY JOINS IN PRAISE OF CUTICURA

"My son's trouble was running sores which first appeared on his face and then broke out all over his body. I had tried doctor after doctor for three months but none helped him. Then I was advised to try Cuticura. My druggist said that he could give me a salve that would help him, but I demanded Cuticura Ointment and after using it for a while I was surprised to see an improvement. I treated the sores with Cuticura Ointment on soft bandages after washing with warm water and Cuticura Soap, and gave him the Cuticura Pills. In two weeks he was almost cured, and after the steady use of Cuticura Remedies for two or three months I can now say that I have one of the finest boys in town, and I tell all my neighbors that he owes his health to Cuticura. Later my little daughter was all covered with sores on her face and body. I didn't waste much time or money with doctors, as I had done when my boy was sick, but used the Cuticura Remedies on her, and now my little girl is entirely cured. I send you her photograph to show how she looks after we used Cuticura. I know of several other cures which Cuticura Remedies have effected, including that of our domestic, Miss S——, whose face was covered with mosquito bites which she scratched until they became a mass of sores and which she cured in no time with Cuticura Ointment. Our whole family joins in sending their thanks and praise for all that Cuticura Remedies have done for us. Mrs. Rose Floss, 1206 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill., Nov. 3 and Dec. 3, 1906, and Jan. 24, 1907."

SENATOR FORAKER

Has Won Support of Colored Voters in the South.

Regarded as Presidential Timber by His Admirers There.

Washington, July 19.—The managers of the presidential candidates, who have been canvassing the South for delegates, have discovered that Senator Foraker has considerable strength below the Mason and Dixie line. The part that Senator Foraker has taken in the Brownsville investigation has won the colored population of the South. While the colored voters are not allowed to participate to any great extent in the elections of the South, they do take part in the Republican primaries. The delegates to the national convention are usually either colored, or white men selected by colored Republicans.

In former years the national committeemen and federal officeholders have been able to control the colored voters in the South. But the situation, it is claimed, has been radically changed by the Brownsville investigation.

Now, the negroes of the South are determined to show their appreciation of Senator Foraker's efforts to bring about an investigation of the Brownsville riot. Even the colored leaders, who are favorable to the administration and other candidates, are experiencing great difficulty in resisting the tide of Foraker sentiment among the negroes. Senator Foraker is as popular among the Southern colored men of all classes as is the president throughout the North and West. It is political suicide for the colored leaders to talk against Senator Foraker among their own people. Even the ministers must sound the senator's praise, if they wish to retain their pulpits. At colored educational meetings the speakers are mentioning his name in connection with Lincoln, Sumner, Garrison and the other great abolitionists And, not infrequently at church conferences, do ministers give utterance to fervent prayers for the health and the welfare of Senator Foraker.

With such intense sentiment for Senator Foraker, it is not strange that the colored politicians of the South are falling in line for Senator Foraker, and will go to the next national convention instructed to vote for the senior senator from Ohio.

The first demonstration of the strength of Senator Foraker in the South has been developed in Alabama. The control of the Alabama delegation is being eagerly sought by the managers of all presidential candidates. It is of great strategic value, as this state is the first on the roll call of states. In 1896 and again in 1900, Alabama was for McKinley, and when the name of the state was called in these two national conventions, the chairman of the delegation yielded to the gentleman from Ohio. In both conventions Senator Foraker was the "gentleman from Ohio," and he nominated McKinley, who proved to be the successful candidate. This performance was repeated again in 1904, when Alabama yielded to New York, and Secretary Root nominated President Roosevelt.

It is highly important to have a candidate's name placed before the convention at the earliest moment possible for the effect that it will have on wavering delegates. Through the control of Alabama the last two successful presidential candidates were nominated and the managers of the candidates now in the field are anxious to secure this advantage. Besides this, when the vote is cast, it has an important effect upon any convention to have the first twenty-two votes cast for any candidate.

Politicians in canvassing Alabama have found that the delegation is very apt to be for Senator Foraker. Down in Alabama some of the most prominent and influential colored leaders insist that Senator Foraker is presidential timber, and that unless the senator prevents it, the state's delegation will go to the convention instructed for Foraker. Even if Senator Foraker should not be a candidate, it is insisted that the Alabama delegation will not be for anybody that Senator Foraker opposes. Unless there is a change in the situation, the Alabama delegation will be virtually at the disposal of the senior senator from Ohio.

CONDITIONS IN ARMY ARE BAD

Wages Too Small and the Men Will Not Re-Enlist.

Washington, July 19.—"There is something wrong with the army," said Gen. Bell, chief of staff, in a Western speech recently, and that statement is being echoed in various bureaus of the war department. There are different explanations advanced for that disquieting criticism, but the weight of opinion at the war department is that Secretary Taft summed up the case when he remarked that the trouble with the army was that there was not enough of it. The general staff has been compiling some tables that bear out this statement, and these will be made the basis for a strong presentation of the needs of the army to congress at the next sesion.

For instance, there is a company of coast artillery, by regulations required to number 166 men, which, according to the last returns to the department, musters just eight enlisted privates in its ranks. Of course company drill with such a skeleton organization is impossible. And this is only one of a number of such organizations, mainly in the coast artillery, it is true, but every branch of the service feels the same decline.

According to the statement, the men will not re-enlist at the expiration of their first term of service. Wages outside the army are so much higher that they attract the most energetic soldiers into private life. Never before have the recruiting officers found their work so hard and unprofitable. The demands upon likely young adventurous men for the rapidly growing navy has also developed a new competitor for the recruiting sergeants.

A special reason for the refusal of the coast artillery men to re-enlist is that they are obliged to do a large amount of mechanical work in caring for complicated fortifications, dressed only in working overalls or jumpers and getting few opportunities to wear their soldiers' uniforms, which is one source of pride with them and a factor in attracting them into the army. As to the other branches of the service, it is believed that the men are being called upon to do too much hard work, which they regard as unnecessary. Particularly do they object to the long, hard and periodical practice marches which they are obliged to make, carrying the full, heavy field kit. Many desertions are traceable to this dissatisfaction.

The staff is trying to find corrective measures, but some measures will require legislation to make them effective. The "hikes" are made by direct order of the president, so the same authority can dispense with them or reduce the requirements. But it is certain that congress must provide for a general and large increase of the pay of the soldier, if the regular army is to be maintained at its authorized strength. Officers may be had, even though Gen. Funston has reported that a captain's pay is less than the wage of a plumber or house mechanic in California; but the war department contends that the private soldier cannot longer be kept in the ranks for $13 a month while wages in civil life remain at their present standard.

CHILD LOST ON DESERT.

Friday evening the 17-months-old son of John Brown, was lost on the desert northeast of town, writes a Mesa correspondent of the Arizona Republican. A large number of men started out at once to search for the wandering baby and the search was kept up all night. The early part of the night was dark, and lanterns and bicycle lamps were used, but no trace of the little one was foun duntil about 1 o'clock Saturday morning, when the moon was shining.

A tiny track was found nearly two miles from the child's home. This was soon lost, but the tired searchers continued the task of looking for a very small child in a big desert covered with cacti. About daylight a new relay of searchers put in an appearance and took up the hunt. It was feared by that time that the little one had perished from thirst and exhaustion, and only the lifeless body, it was thought, would be found.

It was just a short time before 6 when Charles and Paul Lesueur again found the trial of the baby, which they followed, and at 15 minutes past 6 they found the lost child standing in a group of cactus, itself so covered by the cactus thorns that it was almost indistinguishable from its surroundings. The child was literally covered with cactus on its face, its arms and body, and even in its mouth the cruel thorns were torturing the little one. It was incapable of crying or making a sound of any kind, and the men who found it might have passed within a very few feet and missed it, but for the tracks which had been made in the sand.

It seems that Mr. and Brs. Brown came to town Friday, leaving the baby with the older children. It wandered away and the children could not find it. The parents returned about 4 o'clock and themselves spent considerable time in searching for the child before the alarm was given. According to the older children they missed the little one about 11 o'clock, so it must have wandered on the desert during the fierce heat of the afternoon and then went on in the dark until unable to travel any longer.

Postmaster Eaton Is Preparing Booklet on Local Postoffice.

Statistics of the business of the local postoffice for the years 1905 and 1906 and the first six months of the year, 1907, are being prepared by Postmaster Guy A. Eaton and will be put into a booklet.

Mr. Eaton is planning to use the figures to prove to the authorities at Washington that the local postoffice should have more help in numbers of clerks and carriers. Compared with other offices in the same class as Duluth Mr. Eaton has found far larger forces of clerk and carriers.

At present the local office is short about five postal clerks and several carriers. Mr. Eaton will go to Washington early in the fall and will again take the matter up with the postoffice depart-

SUCH A FRIGHT!

Goodness, how we shiver! Is it fright, or are ebullitions of merriment giving premonitory symptoms of an imminent breaking forth?

It would be comforting to know just which it is.

The occasion, anyway, is a story which the New York World, a newspaper that has been valiantly combatting the jingoes and yellows that have been disturbing themselves and others about the "war with Japan," publishes from its correspondent at Mexico City.

Let the horrible worst be bared as soon as may be. The story is that veteran Japanese troops are being massed in Northwestern Mexico and Southwestern United States.

Nine thousand soldiers of Nippon, veterans of the war with Russia, are stationed in the Mexican states of Sonora, Sinoloa and Chihuahua, along the United States border. They are divided into groups, and with each group are skilled commanders. Three Japanese generals who served in the Russian war have been in Mexico for several months, dressed as Mexican ranchmen and ostensibly buying land.

Thirty thousand Japanese, the vast majority veterans of the Russian campaigns, are in Southwestern United States and Lower California.

Not only has this correspondent discovered these tremendous facts, but the plans of the campaign have been entrusted to him. In case of war the Japanese fleet is to sail up the Gulf of California, capture the port of Guaymas, and use the state of Sonora as a base of operations in a campaign against the United States. "This plan," sagely adds the correspondent, "will practically duplicate the operations against Russia when Japan seized Korea at the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese war. Japan in her war with the United States will despoil Mexican teritory, just as she did that of Korea in the war with Russia."

Fine! There's a correspondent for you! He has not only run down the most stupendous military plot in history, but he's got the entire plan of campaign for publication in the New York papers.

But isn't it all rather absurd, that such things can secure publication as are appearing in many American newspapers nowadays? Aren't we getting on the verge of the condition where people see things at night?

The attention being paid to this matter throughout the country reminds one of the absurd tremblings that afflict a monster elephant when it sees a mouse.

We are grateful to this correspondent for his story, of course, but a little inclined to be cross with him nevertheless. Why is he content with talking about a few thousands of Japanese troops?

Wouldn't it have been quite as convincing, and much more deliciously alarming, if he had made it millions instead of thousands? Also much safer for the Japanese army?

TOMORROW'S SCHOOL ELECTION.

Don't forget the school election tomorrow.

Get out and vote. Don't get it into your head that any candidate has a certainty of election, and stay away. There are six names to be voted upon, and only three to be elected. Mistakes sometimes occur under such circumstances.

Vote first, in all parts of the city, for J. L. Washburn. The city cannot spare him from the board, and he has been forced to run against his personal wishes.

Vote second for John J. Moe, who is the West end candidate, and who has shown his worth by faithful service on the board.

Vote third for the best man among the remaining four: Dr. David Graham and L. A. Barnes of West Duluth; C. W. F. Hegg and Samuel Nixon of the downtown district.

But whatever you do with your ballot-marking, get out and vote. This is an important election, even if there isn't any exciting and spirited rivalry between candidates for an office that pays a fat salary. It is not that, but a matter of selecting the men best fitted to spend the money of the taxpayers and to safeguard the city's educational interests.

Remember, the polls are open this year from 6 o'clock a. m. to 7 o'clock p. m., so there is plenty of time for you to vote.

It is your duty to vote.

Don't overlook it.

THE TARIFF AND PIRACY.

A correspondent seeking information from an Eastern newspaper betrays a curious confusion of ideas, the cause of which it is not hard to trace.

He states in his letter that in a political speech in the last campaign the speaker said that the word "tariff" came from the name of certain ancient pirates. He did not remember the exact words, but that was the idea absorbed by the anxious inquirer.

It is not at all strange that an association of ideas should create in that inquirer's mind the belief that the tariff had its origin in piracy. It didn't, exactly, nor did piracy have its origin in the tariff.

Still—

In latter days there have come to be some elements of piracy in the tariff, too; not piracy upon the high seas, but upon the dry land. Though it is created and continued by law, and by a law that has advocates so devoted that they have placed it upon a shrine and made a god out of it which they bow down and worship, and which they try to make the rest of us bow down and worship, too, it has fathered a brood of trusts, which are the pirates of modern times. Under the benevolent protection of the tariff, they are enabled to make the American people stand and deliver. The tariff keeps out foreign competition or adds so much to the cost of foreign products that the trusts may wax fat by charging us the cost of the goods and the amount of the tariff and the ocean freight rates as well.

This isn't exactly piracy, but it is something very like it, so it isn't at all surprising that a few months after this inquirer had heard the origin of the word "tariff" explained, an association of ideas had created in his mind the impression that it was named after some ancient pirates. The modern pirates that benefit from it at his expense and ours have given him every reason to acquire that impression.

No, the word "tariff" did not come from any ancient pirates. The newspaper to which the inquiry came said that the word comes from Tarifa, a seaport of Spain about twenty miles from Gibraltar, where the Moors, during the supremacy in Spain, levied contributions on vessels entering the Mediterranean sea. This is interesting, though Webster says it comes from an Arabic word meaning "explanation" or "information."

But how the word originated is not nearly so important as the fact that there are associations with the idea that would lead an unsuspecting citizen to think that its origin had some relation with piracy because piracy has a very intimate relation with the modern application of the policy.

Most people will be more interested in plans for the reform of the scheme than in theories about the origin of its name.

A NASTY SLAP.

Full information is not at hand at present, but at this writing it looks very much as though the executive committees of the fraternal societies that were to have held a big gathering here next month have played Duluth a very scurvy trick, and that without any excuse or warrant.

When the local committees were fast getting their plans into shape, and after much work had been done and much expense incurred, without a word of warning came the announcement that the meeting will be held in Buffalo instead of Duluth, "owing to the inability to secure hotel reservations in Duluth."

This announcement, going broadcast over the country, will tend to create the impression that Duluth could not furnish hotel acommodations for the delegates, when as a matter of fact ample accommodations had been guaranteed, and would have been furnished. The association for the change seems to have been the personal pique of certain members of the executive committees, who wanted to make specific reservations of rooms for themselves. This the hotel men could not do, because of the large travel through Duluth, and irritation because of this refusal seems to have resulted in the sudden decision to change, which is fair neither to Duluth, to the local committees that have worked so hard to make the affair a success, nor to the delegates that had based their plans on a trip to Duluth.

To be sure the impression that will go forth will advertise Duluth's prosperity and show that business activity keeps her hotels crowded, but with some it will create the false and damaging impression that this is too small a town for conventions because of a lack of hotel accommodations.

At best it is a sorry and unwarranted affair, lacking wholly in the good faith that should characterize such bodies.

NINE-FOOT SHEETS.

Hereafter the sheets upon every bed in Texas must be nine feet long.

The legislature of that state passed a law to that effect, which has lately gone into effect.

The Travelers' Protective association asked the legislature for such a law, and the legislature obligingly complied, much to the consternation of the keepers of hotels and lodging houses, who have been compelled to go out and buy new supplies of sheets, as none of the old ones were anywhere near so long.

The newspapers of the country are having a lot of fun with Texas over what some of them are pleased to term a piece of freak legislation.

They needn't be so much amused over it, however. It is a good law. It was asked of this state by the travelers, but the lawmakers made merry with the bill, and refused to pass it.

The aim and end of the law is hygienic, and it seeks to protect travelers from the germs of disease deposited by sick people who have occupied the beds before them.

The customary hotel sheet, because linen costs money, is so short that it will not turn over the blankets and quilts. So the sleeping traveler has in close contact with his mouth the wooly end of a blanket which may harbor millions of germs. With a nine-foot sheet he can fold it down over the other coverings, thus affording him ample protection from the deadly microbes.

This legislation looks freakish, but when it is understood it is quite clear that it is entirely proper, and deserving of the attention of lawmakers. It will always be hailed with merriment by those that do not understand, and under cover of that merriment the inn-keepers, who dislike the expenditure for new linen that it would require, will probably be able to defeat it for a time. It is not, of course, the most vital legislation imaginable. It can hardly vie with 2-cent fare bills and anti-pass measures in the public esteem, but it is a wise measure, and may save many lives.

Those who travel much realize the importance of regulations such as these. It ought not to be necessary to pass laws requiring landlords to give every guest fresh towels, pillow cases and sheets, and to make the latter long enough to cover the diseases-laden blankets, but it is, for many economical landlords try to save a penny here and there by making these conveniences do service as long as possible.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"When you come to think of it, it is rather queer that there are not more vegetarians," said I. E. Wilson of Milwaukee, Wis., at the St. Louis. "The practice of the vegetarian diet is spreading, but very slowly. "It doesn't seem to take well with the popular fancy. Most people seem to have a lot of trouble controlling their craving for flesh. Fish, eggs and vegetables appear insipid beside poultry, beef and good mutton, to say nothing of ham.

"Much of this feeling comes from habit. The Italians before they come to this country live almost exclusively on macaroni, and the Japanese upon rice. The Japs are so accustomed to rice that they could not get along as well without it as could the average American without meat; while the American rice is a paltry dish, fit only for puddings when nothing else can be had, and even then not tempting without some good sauce. I am not a strict vegetarian myself, but do not eat half as much meat as I did two or three years ago, and I feel better for it."

"There is a question among sportsmen as to whether there should be a law prohibiting the use of repeating shotguns, more familiarly styled 'pump' guns," said R. J. Phoenix of Grand Forks, N. D., at the McKay. "It is admitted that a man can slaughter more birds with a pump than he can with any other style, but if he is a true sportsman he will stop when he has a reasonable bag, whether he is shooting with a repeater or some other style, but if he is a game hog he will shoot all he can, whether carrying a double-barrel or a pump. Sad to say, there are a good many of these game hogs who enter the field every fall, and naturally their work of destruction would not be so extensive if they were not allowed to carry pumps.

"It makes my blood boil every time I hear of a hog who gets into a good country and kills more birds in a day than he has any right to in a week. I feel like emptying a dose of birdshot into his back. He deserves it. Twenty-five birds in one day should be the limit at the outside, and fifteen is really enough for a reasonably-minded person. Any one running over the twenty-five limit is not worthy the name of sportsmen, and should be heavily fined. Most states have a law making twenty-five the limit, but, of course, there is no way of enforcing the law.

"Investigation will show that almost invariably these hogs come from the city. They get into a country and have no regard for anything. They figure that probably they will never be there again, and that they might as well get all they can while they can. A party of them sweeps across the fields, and their advance sounds like that of a regiment of soldiers in battle. People living in the district are anxious to see the game preserved as long as possible, and seldom shoot more than eight or ten birds at a time. Another thing that has prejudiced the country resident against the city hunter is the fact that he seems to have no regard for the property rights of others. He ruthlessly tears down fences and otherwise does damage about the farm. Often strangers think it a huge joke to shoot the cemetens, ducks and geese belonging to the farmer. It is not any wonder that most country districts extend rather a cold welcome to the city sportsmen in the fall."

Heyday of Melon Time.

When at night, begowned, beslippered,
Mother searches for the draught
That shall cure the hasty colic and with splendid handicraft
Mixes up a soothing potion that shall quiet Jim or Jack,
Who is full of writhing torments from his swollen front or back;
When, awakened from his slumber in the middle of the night,
Mother's youngster begs for medicine and loudly cries for light.
When hot water bags are carried up the stairs, 'tis then that I'm Quite assured it is the heydey of the watermelon time.

—J. W. FOLEY in New York Times.

THE WEATHER.

The rain has taken on a pleasant habit lately of coming in the night, and thus supplying the moisture needed by the verdure, and giving us our days untarnished. Last night it rained pleasantly, and this morning it cleared up for a pleasant day. It was inclined to be sultry, however. Yesterday's highest temperature was 76 degs, and last night's lowest was 58 degs. The weather man looks for partly cloudy weather tonight and tomorrow, with slightly cooler conditions tonight.

A year ago it was cloudy and warm after a night of hard rain.

The sun rose this morning at 4:32 and sets tonight at 7:56, making 15 hours and 24 minutes of sunshine.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "High temperatures continue throughout the South and from the Mississippi valley eastward to the Atlantic coast except near Lake Superior. The temperature is cool in Rocky Mountain districts and the Northwest generally. Light to heavy showers fell during the past twenty-four hours over Western Canada, Northwestern states, the Missouri and Mississippi valleys. Western Gulf and Middle Atlantic states to slight barometric disturbances central over Minnesota, the extreme Southwest and Alberta."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures, as recorded by the Weather bureau:

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1887.

Rice's Point now has a fire department of its own. Temporary quarters have been fitted up in a portion of Darling & Hall's livery stable.

Ex-Lieutenant Governor Marye of Virginia is in the city. The governor is interested in some acre property in Duluth. He is the father of John L. Marye, civil engineer of this city.

Mrs. T. B. Brooke, son and daughter departed yesterday for La Crosse, where they will visit Mrs. Brooke's father, ex-Mayor Fox, for some time. The professor has accepted the directorship of the Port Henry, N. Y., band, and will soon depart for his new home.

James B. Edwards of Houghton arrived in Duluth last evening and is shaking hands with his old-time Duluth friends who now reside here.

Edward Evans of Tonawanda, N. Y., a very prominent Prohibitionist, arrived in Duluth last evening. He is the owner of the handsome row of cottages in the Glen, known as the Evans' cottages, and will remain in Duluth for some time visiting his daughter, Mrs. B. G. Yocum.

The New York Herald prints a two-column interview with Henry Watterson on politics in general. Mr. Watterson says that the Democrats are bound to renominate Cleveland whether they like him or not, as there is no one to contest with him. He was asked if he liked Cleveland, and he replied: "Well, as the old lady at the mourner's bench observed, when asked if she loved the Lord, 'I may, I ain't nothing against him.'"

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dawson of Michigan City, Ind., are visiting at the residence of W. G. Peck.

There is no city with an equal number of houses that contains as large a population as Duluth. Every building is filled to its utmost capacity, and it is with the greatest difficulty that visitors are accommodated.

The double scull race announced for last evening with E. J. Gruber and A. W. Frick, and J. W. Bennett and Raymond Moore as contending crews, resulted in a "water log" for Gruber and Frick, and the race was awarded to the other crew.

The following real estate transfers have been recorded:

W. D. Rombach to Charles Boyle, fractional lots 34 and 35, East Superior street, $1,400.

West Duluth Land company to William McKinley, lots 15 ad 16, block 26, West Duluth $800.

J. D. Ray to George S. Phelps, fractional block 64, Portland, $3,000.

Kimberley & Stryker to Thomas Tullock, Jr., lot 180, block 98 Second division, $2,025.

"JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA."

Bixby in Lincoln, Neb., Star-Journal: It seems strange that among those who are throwing cold water on the John A. Johnson presidential boom are a number of radical Democrats of the North Star state. One of the most pronounced opponents of the change from Bryan to Johnson is Hon. H. G. Day of the Albert Lea Standard. This man Day is one of the influential Democrats of Southern Minnesota and is an elder brother of the governor's private secretary. The Standard says that Governor Johnson has "too level a head to be caught in the Belmont-Ryan-Parker-Jim Hill-Sullivan-Watterson-predatory-plutocratic trap for the presidential nomination." But suppose all these men, including John G. Mather of Lincoln and C. W. Bunn of St. Paul, are humbly instrumental in helping to secure the nomination for Mr. Johnson, will he be any less a Democrat and a reformer for the part these men and interests may have played in securing for him the necessary delegations? If you think so, you don't know Johnson. He cleaned out the nomination without the hearty support of men who believe as he does; and if these other men who do not like Mr. Bryan because in times gone by he has called them hard names, choose to align themselves with the followers of the Minnesota man, and to assist in making his nomination unanimous, is the joke on him or on them?

From Key West to Wisconsin
The cry arises strong:
"We all have faith in Johnson;
We'll help his cause along.
If any plute shall follow,
Or old-style Democrat,
The dose is his to swallow—
What harm can come of that?"

I care not in what manner
He wins the first great fight,
I carry Johnson's banner
And Johnson is all right.
Success can never fail us,
When all is said and done,
Unless our friends assail us—
Who cares a dam for Bunn?

Support from righteous sources
Is what we most desire,
But all may join our forces,
Who do not howl for hire.
The genius of his action
In nation and in state,
Is killing feud and faction—
That's what makes Johnson great.

The gates of wrong will crumble
Before the hosts of right;
Let Bryan take a tumble
And join us in the fight.
If Parker comes a-dying
To join us in the strife,
Praised be, the man is trying
To lead a better life.

Albert Lea Standard: The Anoka Free Press and all others who may be inclined to misconstrue the Standard, will please be accurately advised that our observations concerning certain obnoxious promoters of Governor Johnson's presidential fitness, were not inspired by or the echo of any "inside" opinions whatsoever—only our own uncolored, uncollared and independent views of the situation. And now it should be further said, that recent developments have greatly changed the situation. Sentiment in favor of Governor Johnson is spreading among all classes. In many states—among the best and most Democratic men of the Democratic party, and both Governor Johnson and his most trusted advisers seem unable to discourage or check it.

Buttermilk Cocktail.

New York Press: Long before Fairbanks learned to milk a cow Tip invented the buttermilk cocktail. As a blood cooler in hot weather it has no equal. As a tonic it is superior to everything alcoholic. As an alterative it is without a rival. A glass. A cube of dill pickle. A lump of ice. Buttermilk to the brim. Quaff and rejoice. Such a drink would not hurt the chances of any prospective candidate for president.

Only Be Kind.

Only be kind, I do not ask thee more;
Yet thou hast proffered all thy wealth of love,
In words that e'en a heart of stone
would move!
I ask, though grieving to the heart's own core,
Only be kind!

Only be kind, I cannot lose thee now,
Thy friendship, dear, has meant so much to me,
And loyal as a friend I e'er would be!
Let not the shades of anger cloud thy brow,
Only be kind!

Only be kind, though hard indeed it seem,
Thou knowest we cannot always choose
our way!
Perchance e'en thou in some bright future day
May look on this as but a passing dream,
Only be kind!

Only be kind! I, too, a cross must bear!
I know the sorrows of the aching heart,
And Love and Duty seem so far apart,
In all the future, crowned with smile or tear,
Only be kind!

Tit-Bits: It is said that once when the late Dr. Tanner, the Irish M. Jones of Penzance was so outraged that he challenged Dr. Tanner to a duel, and the following telegraphic correspondence took place:

"In reply to your despicable question about the duke of Cambridge, I designate you a coward. Delighted to give you satisfaction across the water. Pistols!"

To this Dr. Tanner at once replied:

"Wire received. Will meet you tomorrow in Constantinople, under the Tower of Galata, midnight. Being challenged; prefer torpedoes. Bring another ass."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Rush City Post: Governor John A. Johnson has no need to run for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, he can win in a walk.

Morris Sun: The railroads are continuing their fight against state control. This being so, it is easy to see that the people will provide for placing them under federal control at the next opportunity. This will eventually prove the only way to handle the railroads, for they must be controlled in a manner to effect interstate traffic.

Sauk Center Herald: Support home industries and thus help yourself and the other fellow and your town. What helps one helps all.

Perham Enterprise: The Enterprise editor is for Governor Johnson for president first, last and all the time. He has made one of the best governors this state has had and he is deserving of higher honors. Were he elected to the presidency, we feel certain that he would "make good" in that exalted position and give our nation an administration that would serve as a model for his successors.

Anoka Herald: A little kindness often acts like a split log drag on the rough and toilsome highway of life.

Le Sueur News: In twelve times at bat, since 1856, the Democrats only made two scores, both of which were won by Grover Cleveland, and strange as it may seem the Democrats do not like him.

Lake Crystal Union: If you don't think farming is an easy job, get up at midnight at the time of the year when the sweet corn in the garden is beginning to tassel, and with a lantern, hunt for a stray cow. When you hear the brute chewing the tender stalks as she stands hogging it down, and you cautiously approach her pleadingly holding out your hand, she twists her tail and frolics off to another patch several blocks away to repeat the operation time and again until daylight comes. It makes one forget all about the Garden of Eden.

Albert Lea Standard: The New York World is keeping up a senseless inquiry: "What is a Democrat?" Bryan has fairly and squarely answered it, but still it is not satisfied. Why does it not, if it would be fair, fret the other side with the question, "What is a Republican?" The truth is, forty-nine out of fifty of the voters who "stand by the party" are neither Democrats nor Republicans—they are only partisans by habit, and they are rapidly becoming independents—and freemen.

Stillwater Gazette: There may be a country somewhere under the shining sun where larger, better and sweeter strawberries grow than in Minnesota, but if there is it has never been discovered. We are the bread and butter and strawberry state, and what is better than that combination?

HORRORS OF PEACE

The Hague Conferees Find Them in High Prices.

Inn Keepers Reaping a Golden Harvest From the Delegates.

The Hague, July 19.—War has its horrors, but the price of peace—or at all events peace conferences—is sometimes hardly less terrible. The good people of The Hague are evidently bent on reaping a golden harvest from the delegates and their suites and the other persons whom business has called to The Hague in connection with the conference.

The prices demanded for everything are tremendous. They decline to serve table d hote dinners; you are obliged to dine a la carte at prices which are simply out of proportion to the established order of things. Altogether the Dutchmen of The Hague appear to have had the best of the peace conference.

When the home offices of some of the peace correspondents receive the bills for expenses turned in by the correspondents they will undoubtedly come to the conclusion that war prices are to be preferred to peace prices.

Americans will naturally be interested in learning something about the personalities of the diplomats at the peace conference. For no matter whether the peace conference is in reality making for weal or for woe, for war or for peace, European countries did send the elite of their diplomatic corps to the peace conference at The Hague.

One of the most distinguished, of course, is M. Leon Bourgeois, the French plenipotentiary. M. Bourgeois has been prime minister, minister of foreign affairs, minister of public education and president of the chamber of deputies. He is a man of high literary attainments and is a polished and eloquent speaker; a man of letters, a statesman and a born diplomatist. But probably just because he is so many-sided he has never taken the position in France that he might have done. He is too much the Admiral Crichton of French public life.

In order to be a great success in modern French politics a man requires more concentration and less universal ability. But at the peace conference he has naturally been playing a leading role.

His colleague, Baron d'Etournelle Constant, is a man of much smaller caliber. The preaching of peace and disarmament has become a sort of monomania with him, and he puts his views before his countrymen in season and out of season. He is a good speaker, but somewhat apt to become tedious. One thing it must be admitted, Baron d'Etournelle de Constant has worked in the cause of international arbitration as few men have done, even if in the working he has at times bored his fellow countrymen.

Undoubtedly one of the most interesting figures of all of the diplomatists assembled at The Hague is Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, the German plenipotentiary. He is certainly one of the most capable among the statesmen of Europe. He was for many years secretary of state for foreign affairs before going to Constantinople as German ambassador. He probably stands higher in the confidence of the kaiser than any other ambassador or minister. The Eastern policy of Germany is undoubtedly the work of the kaiser, but it is equally certain that he relies greatly in this respect upon Baron Marschall von Bieberstein. The days when Prince Bismarck declared that he "would not risk the bones of a single Pomeranian grenadier for the whole Eastern question" are long past. Since the kaiser's famous visit to the sultan on his way home from the marriage of his sister at Athens, the Eastern policy of Germany has been changed, "lock, stock and barrel."

It is the kaiser now who appears to have adopted the advice of Peter the Great to his descendants, the czars of Russia, "Never take your eyes off from Constantinople." And in this policy Baron Marschall von Bieberstein has long been his right hand man. He is a tall man of Bismarckian mold, heavy, stout, with broad shoulders and something of the iron chancellor's rough joviality. But he also has Prince Bismarck's brutal force of character and stands like a rock, always and ever for German interests. And it was for precisely this trait in his character and not because he is an authority upon the Eastern question, for the Eastern question is not likely to figure in the calculations of European diplomats for some time to come, that the kaiser selected him to represent Germany at the conference.

M. Nelidoff, the president, belongs to the older school of Russian diplomatists which has nearly died out. A man of imposing presence and courtly manners, he is undoubtedly a very fox for cunning and has the reputation of being none too scrupulous when the interests of Russia are at stake. He and Baron von Bieberstein are old adversaries. M. Nelidoff succeeded Gen. Ignatieff, the famous "father of lies," and the generally accepted father of the Russo-Turkish war, as ambassador at Constantinople, and he it was who wrung the treaty of San Stefano from the vanquished Turks and brought about European intervention and the Berlin congress. From Constantinople he went to Rome and two years ago was given the blue ribbon of the diplomatic career, the Paris embassy.

Though he is undoubtedly one of the strongest of personalities at The Hague, if it were possible to read his innermost thoughts it would undoubtedly be found that he is not as fervent a believer in the efficacy of any peace conference as his royal master, the czar of Russia.

Though it is talked about in a rather suppressed fashion, there is a feeling, religious questions to one side, that the papal see ought to have been invited to send some of its trained diplomats.

SILK DRESS DECIDED

Location of Railroad in Central Illinois in the Fifties.

Bloomington, Ill., July 19.—A silk dress decided the location of the Chicago & Alton railway through Central Illinois in the fifties. Lee Hickox of Sagamon county, recalls the incident. His father constructed the road from Joliet to Springfield. The right of way, as selected by the promoters, extended south from this city through what is known as Funk's grove. All of the land through this section was owned by Isaac Funk. He was willing to sell what land was needed for the road, but his wife refused to affix her signature to the deeds and the project was temporarily blocked.

Finally Mrs. Funk agreed to sign if she was given a silk dress, an unheard of extravagence in those days. She remained firm, and finally the promoters, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Funk, came to Bloomington, where the finest silk dress pattern that money could buy was ordered for her. After this was accomplished she called for a pen and attached her signature to the papers. The right of way which she signed for is now occupied by the towns of Shirley, Funk's Grove, Atlanta and McLean. If Mrs. Funk had been refused the dress the road might have been constructed in another direction and as the Funks owned vast tracts on each side the detour would have been considerable.

History does not record whether Mrs. Funk ever wore the dress, as there were few occasions in those days when it would have been in form.

NAVIES OF THE WORLD

Great Britain Below Two-Power Standard of Safety.

The United States is Fourth in Battleships Completed.

London, July 19.—The admiralty has issued a return which shows that Great Britain in point of numbers is not only below the two-power standard safety, but that many obsolete battleships are still included in the effective strength of the navy. The return gives a list of the fleets of Great Britain and various foreign countries, the figures including ships both built and building. In regard to battleships, on which the two-power standard is based, the figures for the various countries are as follows:

	Built.	Building.
Great Britain	60	5
France	31	10
Russia	10	4
Germany	32	8
Italy	15	5
United States	23	7
Japan	15	2

From these figures it will be seen that while Great Britain has only sixty-five battleships built and building, France and Germany combined have eighty-one battleships. This preponderance over British ships is serious, but not so overwhelmingly as would appear from the table. In the first place, the return of British ships does not go beyond the ships being built under the 1906-7 program—the two Lord Nelsons and the three Dreadnoughts, which are shortly to be launched. No mention is made of the two (or three) Dreadnoughts to be laid down under the 1907-9 program.

On the other hand, the French returns include the Iena, which was badly damaged by the explosion in the magazine, the Neptune, which will probably be condemned, and six ships ordered to be laid down in 1906, and on which work has been begun, although it is uncertain if all the keels have been actually laid. The German returns of ships building include the Ersatz Sachsen (of the Dreadnought type), which has been begun; her sister ship, the Ersatz Bayern, which was "to be laid down about April, 1907," and two other Dreadnoughts of the 1907-8 program. But even if the eight French ships referred to and the two German Dreadnoughts, which have not yet been begun, are excluded, Great Britain still shows an inferiority in point of numbers, the actual figures for battleships built and building being:

Great Britain	65
Germany	38
France	33—71

As a matter of fact, however, the return is misleading, inasmuch as it fails to distinguish between effective and non-effective vessels. For instance, of the sixty battleships built, five—the Anson, Camperdown, Benbow, Howe and Rodney—are not kept in readiness for war, because, as the secretary to the admiralty explained in the house of commons last November, they are to be removed to the sale list this year.

Then five of the Royal Sovereigns included in the list are laid up with skeleton crews, and are destined to be removed from the list of ships fit for service. The other three are used for training purposes. The Renown has been turned into a royal yacht, and is laid up, and the Edinburg, Thunderer and Devastation—all of them included in the list—are also laid up. There are other useless ships mentioned in the list, the total number being twenty-one. Thus the effective battleships built number only thirty-nine, instead of sixty. In regard to gun power the German Dreadnoughts will be more powerful than the British.

The return of armored cruisers built and building is as follows:

	Built.	Building.
Great Britain	30	8
France	18	5
Russia	8	4
Germany	6	4
Italy	6	4
United States	12	3
Japan	10	3

The British cruisers include the three Invincibles, which are of the Dreadnought type, and have recently been launched. Great Britain is thus ahead of both France and Germany combined in armored cruisers. But here again the return is misleading, as no fewer than fifteen cruisers are worthless for war purposes. Indeed, the secretary to the admiralty has himself admitted that they were "available for subsidiary services, hulks and vessels for sale." For other vessels the returns are as follows:

	Torpedo Protected boats and Cruisers.	Destroyers.	Submarines.
Britain	82	277	48
France	36	378	99
Russia	5	266	28
Germany	43	132	3
Italy	17	139	6
United States	26	62	12
Japan	26	136	7

Great Britain and Italy have no armored coast defence vessels, and France has 8; Russia, 2; Germany, 11; United States, 11, and Japan, 1. Great Britain has 8 scouts built, and the United States 3 building. The other powers have none.

Nailon Found His Wealthy Parent, Whose Mind is a Blank.

Pittsburg, July 19.—About a week ago John Nailon of Belmar, Ill., received a telegram from his aged father, James Nailon, a wealthy oil operator in Alabama stating that he was lost in Pittsburg, and to come to him at once. The son started for this city, but when he searched all of the hotels he could find no trace of the man.

The police were called into the case, and yesterday stories of the strange disappearance of the aged oil man appeared in the newspapers. Warden Lewis of the Allegheny county jail read these and recognized from the description given an aged prisoner in his care, sent down a few days before on the charge of vagrancy. He sent for the son, and with officers took him to the cell of the man, who turned out to be the wealthy operator, and he was at once released.

Nailon says he lost all recollection of himself or his business. He remembered telegrahping his son, and then all became a blank. He will be taken to his home at once.

PEPPERED EVERYTHING

With Airgun When Young Inman Visited Prospective Father's Estate.

Plainfield, N. J., July 19.—While rumor is rife that J. B. Duke, the tobacco trust head, is to marry Mrs. W. H. Inman of Atlanta, Ga., in the near future, the reputed bride-to-be is enjoying herself as his guest in his country estate near here. With her is her young son, who is giving the natives all kinds of scares. Accompanying Mrs. Inman is her mother and several other guests, but the young hopeful of the family is the one they are talking about.

The youngster, full of youthful pranks, into which he has also led boys of his own age in the neighborhood, secured an airgun in town and with an enthusiastic gathering of boys in his wake began practicing shooting.

When he reached the Duke residence and began on the imported ducks and swans in the lake, in Duke park, the foreman decided to quell the lad's antics. It was not until he had peppered several of the valuable birds, however, and the foreman began wondering what would be his fate when the fact became known. Then a band of Italian laborers, working at a distance, began to look up and take notice as a few shots came their way, and some took to their heels, followed by a fusillade. After a while the gun was taken from the lad when the glass in the conservatory and some in the house had been broken.

SHAPED LIKE MERMAID

Is the Daughter Born to a West Virginia Couple.

Elkins, W. Va., July 19.—Shaped like the proverbial mermaid of fable and fiction, a daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Campbell of this city, is puzzling the local physicians. Although the infant has two distinct leg bones there is but one leg, ten toes and one heel. Abnormal as the infant is from the waist down, it seems to enjoy vitality of the ordinary infant. Its shape, too, is out of ordinary. Its body literally describes a triange, the one leg curving up toward the head. The child has no power as yet to straighten the one member out into the usual recumbent position. Although distressed by this birth freak, the parents find some hope in the skill of the surgeons to give the child the use of both legs by a severance operation.

MIGHT HAVE HAPPENED HERE.

Chairman Knapp, of the interstate commerce commission, told in New York the other day a French railway story.

"A traffic manager," he said, "came to the president of the line and exclaimed disconsolately:

"'We are having no end of trouble with the public, sir, about those old dark blue cars. Everybody says they bump so frightfully in comparison with the new light blue ones, which, of course, run very smooth.'

"'Humph,' said the president, 'we must attend to this matter at once. Have all the old cars painted light blue immediately.'"

HER STORY DISPROVED

State's Chief Witness in Murder Case Can't be Believed.

Attorney Cochran and Fred Anderson Will Not be Tried.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—From the state's star witness in a murder trial, Mary Rosen has become defendant in a charge of perjury, and two men who have been under a cloud are discharged from custody. This sensational move was made in the district court here yesterday when the case of the state against Attorney Cochran of Deer River and Fred Anderson, indicted for killing Allen Whitt at Wirt, near Big Fork, Itasca county, May 16 last, was called for trial. A special venire of 150 from which to select a jury was present, and everything was ready to proceed, when County Attorney Thwing fairly took the breath away from the spectators by asking the court to nolle the indictment against Cochran and Anderson, because he believed it would be impossible to secure a conviction. He explained that Mary Rosen, who claimed to be the wife of the murdered man, had told so many and conflicting stories that he did not believe it would be possible to establish a case. He frankly admitted the woman had proved herself to be such a disciple of Ananias that it would be a waste of time and money to proceed further with the case. Judge McClenahan granted the motion, and on the showing made, requested the sheriff to arrest the woman for perjury, and ordered the county attorney to proceed against her on that charge.

Messrs. Cochran and Anderson, who have been placed in a very unconfortable light by the woman's evidence at the preliminary hearing and before the grand jury, were promptly discharged, and received the congratulations of their friends. Mr. Cochran's daughter had just arrived from Grafton, W. Va., to be with her father during the trial, and she was greatly overjoyed at the outcome. Both Cochran and Anderson have the sympathy of the community over the unfortunate position in which they were placed.

The Rosen woman's claim that she was the wife of Whitt was naturally a very material fact for the state, especially since she said she was the only witness of the tragedy, and that as Whitt died he murmured "My wife." The defense was prepared to prove she was not his wife; that she recently wrote to an attorney at Abbotsford, Wis., where she formerly lived, asking that he procure and send her a marriage license. The defense also was in a position to show that the woman was known all through Northern Wisconsin; that she had participated in various escapades at Cadott and Abbotsford, and also Curtis and Chippewa Falls; that her husband was Harry H. Rosen, who obtained a divorce from her in the district court of Hennepin county in April of this year, on the ground that she had committed statutory offenses with Allen Whitt, George Stacy, Tony Olson and other persons.

It is estimated that the case has cost the county of Itasca at least $2,500 for its prosecution thus far. The defense has probably expended as much more.

SPECIAL POLICE AT TWO HARBORS

Mayor Prepares for Emergency, But Quiet Reigns.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The strike situation here remains at a standstill and, so far as known, no effort is on foot looking towards a settlement of the dispute. The men are all quiet and orderly, but to preclude the possibility of any disturbance Mayor Rothfus has appointed about twenty-five special policement to look after things, and any disturbance will be promptly taken care of.

Ore business on the road is practically suspended, and the mines have stopped all shovel work and have commenced stockpiling ore from the shafts.

Besides the 400 dock men idle, there are probably as many more in the tram and engine service and other work made idle by the strike.

A number of the ore boats, which were unable to secure loads here on account of the suspension of dock work, have gone to Ashland and Escanaba for cargoes.

BROKE QUARANTINE.

William Peters is Given Sixty Days in the County Jail.

Eveleth, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Peters, a mine foreman, is spending sixty days in the county jail in lieu of paying a fine of $25 and costs for breaking a quarantine. Judge Prince imposed the sentence in the municipal court. Peter's offense consisted in going into the residence of William Trebilcock, which is quarantined for diphtheria and then coming out again. His purpose was to get his trunk.

Judge Prince has said that he will punish severely all infractions of the health regulations as he deems them to be of the greatest importance.

MINING MEETING IS CALLED OF Sessions of Lake Superior Institute Are Indefinitely Postponed.

The meeting of the Lake Superior Mining Institute has been called off, as a result of the strike of the ore dock laborers, which has tied up mining operations on the Minnesota ranges. The meeting was to have been held next week.

Formal notice of the postponement comes from the local mining men who had charge of the arrangements and is as follows:

"Owing to the fact that ore docks at the Head of the Lakes are idle and mining operations suspended, it has been decided to indefinitely postpone the meeting of the Lake Superior Mining Institute that was called to meet at Duluth and on the range from July 24 to 27."

BOY IS ATTACKED BY HUMAN FIEND

Two Harbors is Torn Up Over Disgusting Affair.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lured to the ore docks by an unknown man, the 6-year-old son of Oscar Dahl, who was missing from his home for several hours and who it was afraid had been killed, claims he was subjected to an indignity. The city is considerably worked up over the affair and if the brute is caught it may go hard with him. The boy says the man had induced him to come down near the ore docks by giving him a quarter. The boy was not badly injured and has given a good description of his assailant. The latter is described as a fat, dark complexioned man, and is supposed to be a laborer on one of the boats now in port.

BIG MINE QUITS.

Adams-Spruce Property at Eveleth Lays Off Many Men.

Eveleth, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Owing to the dock troubles the Adams-Spruce mine has been forced to shut down. This lays off about 500 men. It is said to be the first shut down at this property on account of labor troubles for ten years. The Fayal mine is preparing to stock pile. At the Spruce-Adams and the Fayal stripping by Drake & Stratton still continues, however, three shovels being at work.

ANNUAL PICNIC.

Ladies of Macabees Enjoy an Outing at McKinley Park.

Tower, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the local lodge of Ladies of the Maccabees held their annual picnic Wednesday at McKinley park. The Lady Bees together with their families and several invited friends enjoyed the boat trip to the park on the steamer Olive which had been chartered for the occasion. The day was pleasantly spent in boating, bathing, etc., and refreshments were plentiful and thoroughly enjoyed. This outing is an annual event with the Lady Maccabees and the usual good time was enjoyed.

TO STOCK LAKE.

Fish Fry to be Placed in Cedar Island Very Soon.

Eveleth, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Word has been received from S. F. Fullerton, state superintendent of fisheries, that he will send a consignment of bass and croppy fry for Cedar Island lake as soon as he receives the name of the party who will meet the fish, and the station to which they should be shipped. In reply Mr. Fullerton has been requested to send the fry to D. M. Mouser and Peter Cosgrove at Sparta.

WANT NEW CHIEF.

Eveleth Firemen Not Very Fond of the Present Head.

Eveleth, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alderman Murray, who is also chief of the volunteer fire department, appears to be persona non grata with the firemen as the council has been requested by them to appoint "some competent person" to take charge. This followed the request of Mayor Jesmore made to Murray some months ago that he resign but Mr. Murray did not appear to heed it. There is a movement on foot to have a regularly paid fire chief who shall devote his entire time to that part of the city's business. In such an event the volunteer force would be cut down to about fifteen.

MARY BELL AGROUND.

Berry Pickers Wait All Night to be Carried Home.

Tower, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mary Bell, a new boat here, went aground near the Vermilion dam Wednesday afternoon, and it was several hours before the vessel was floated. Some berry pickers that had been taken to Greenshoots waited until early Thursday morning before they were picked up and landed here about 7 a. m.

So far as known the Mary Bell was not injured by going ashore.

AGITATED EMPEROR

ence. A suppressed sigh from the emperor was the only sound which broke the death-like stillness that reigned throughout the memorable scene. Briefly, the emperor, in the imperial rescription of abdication, expresses his regret that during the forty-four years of his reign national calamities have followed in rapid succession and the people's distress has become so aggravated that he deemed it now time to transfer the crown to the heir apparent in compliance with ancestral usages.

Tokio, July 19.—While much sympathy is expressed here with the Korean emperor, who has retired, the public is breathing easier for the sake of both countries, now that the arch intriguer has been completely disarmed.

It is confidently expected that hereafter the relations between Japan and Korea will be smooth.

Unqualified admiration is felt for the capacity of the ministers of the present Korean cabinet in effecting the solution of a most aggravated situation without the shedding of any blood, and in a manner evincing more than ordinary moral courage.

It is felt here that the commotion among the populace at Seoul is not actuated by the spirit of true loyalty to the retired emperor, but out of fear of the adoption of drastic measures by the Japanese government toward Korea as a nation and until the Pacific intention of Japan is fully understood, some agitation is naturally anticipated.

The ceremony of abdication, it is expected, will assume the form of a rescript transferring the throne to the late emperor's successor. The date for the coronation of the new emperor has not been fixed.

Reports from Seoul are silent on the action Marquis Ito is likely to take after the rescript transferring the throne has been issued, but no doubt he will do his utmost to placate the excited populace.

Seoul, via Tokio, July 19.—Evening—Enraged crowds are assembled at various points throughout the city, and inflamatory documents against the Japanese are being freely distributed, giving rise to a forlorn hope that some active opposition is about to begin.

Serious collisions, it is believed, will take place tonight between the police and the rioters.

Marquis Ito is not likely. It is thought, to resort to extreme measures of repression until all mild means of pacification have been exhausted.

Extraordinary police precautions are being taken throughout the city.

abouts and he was re-arrested and taken back to Fort Lavenworth. Owing to the exemplary life Anderson had led in Kansas City, his neighbors started a movement for his release. The newspapers took up the case with the result that a petition on which is said to have contained the largest number of signatures ever appended to an appeal for a pardon was forwarded to Washington. President Roosevelt reviewed the case and upon recommendation of Attorney General Bonaparte, granted a pardon effective at the expiration of three months from the time of his arrest. January has proved a model prisoner. He says he will seek to have his citizenship restored, and if successful, will then ask the courts to change his name to Anderson for the protection of his wife and child.

Kansas City, July 19.—Charles W. Anderson reached Kansas City this morning and went directly to his home, where a family reunion was held. Later, when a newspaper man called he found the little group radiant with happiness.

With his 4-year-old child on his knee, Anderson talked of himself.

"I have no plans for the future," said he, "save that I will remain in Kansas City. I am just glad to get back to my wife and my baby."

"MADAM SATAN."

Audience Delighted With Performance of Mack-Leone Company.

The Mack-Leone company gave its first production of "Madam Satan" at the Lyceum last night before a crowded house. The play is from the pen of an Australian, and has made a decided hit wherever it has been staged. It is entirely new to Duluth. It will be played exclusively by Mrs. Patrick Campbell next season.

The plot, though it deals principally with a woman who has a past, is not in the least offensive, and does not contain a suggestive line or situation. It is of a different order than the problem plays which have been nauseating the public during the last two or three seasons. Madam Satan is a woman who has wandered from the straight and narrow path, and who tries to get back into society again. She does not believe that there should be one law for the man, and another for the woman.

The same high standard of acting is maintained in "Madam Satan" as in the other pieces played in Duluth by this company. There were numerous curtain calls for the principals last evening, and after one act Miss Leone was recalled even after she had retired to her dressing room.

The play is one of the strongest that has been played in Duluth this season. Miss Leone and Mr. Mack appear to their usual good advantage, and the other participants handle their parts with considerable credit to themselves. "Madam Satan" will be the attraction during the remainder of the week, including Saturday matinee.

The White City.

One of the principal assests of the White City is its lake front, the cool breeze that sweeps from it and the glory of sky and water at day time and at night, particularly in these days when the weather man is releasing the hot weather he had stored up in May and June.

Next Monday will be Ladies' Day when all ladies and children will be admitted free of charge to the White City. Special games and contests will be held for the benefit of the ladies and children, and prizes given.

THE CULTURE OF STRAWBERRIES

W. C. Sherwood Says Duluth is Unexcelled for the Purpose.

The possibilities in the culture of strawberries about Duluth are splendidly shown by the products of the garden of W. C. Sherwood of Hunter's Park, which is producing a harvest of strawberries that cannot be excelled in quality or size. Mr. Sherwood was today showing some of his friends some berries of an extra large size and delicious flavor.

"It seems almost criminally neglectful that there is not a quantity of these berries available in the Duluth market, for the country about here is unexcelled for the raising of the fruit, and market gardeners could not do better than start the industry right here," said Mr. Sherwood this morning. "Berries are shipped into Duluth from the South and the West, when vast possibilities of the country at home makes it possible to raise berries that cannot be improved upon. Raspberries and goosberries and the other later berries could be raised in equal excellence, and it seems too bad that this opportunity is allowed to go unimproved. The prophet is not the only person or thing not approved of in his own country. Too often the country itself is not appreciated by its inhabitants. When some out of town person with judgment and foresight comes here and establishes a large berry growing business, Duluthians will awaken to the opportunity allowed to pass. It is possible now for the amateur gardner to provide this lucious delicacy for himself with little trouble, for the soil and conditions for this product are splendid."

FATE OF A PRINCE ALBERT.

Boston Herald: When Commander Peary went on his first trip in search of the pole he won the gratitude of an Esquimau by presenting him with an ancient Prince Albert coat and an extensively creased sombrero. Years afterward, when again in the north, the explorer received a ceremonial visit from a native, and, to his surprise, set eyes once more on the discarded vestments.

On the occasion of the commander's latest dash for the pole the aborigines took him aside and pointed to a rude mausoleum. By its side stood the disused sledge. Its six dogs had been strangled to make an appropriate funeral. On the pile of stones lay what was left of the Prince Albert coat and the sombrero.

TAX AMENDMENT WIPED OUT BY WIDE MARGIN

Recount Has Changed 14,000 Votes Accredited to It.

State Canvassing Board Said Amendment Carried by 13,800 Votes.

This week the ballot inspectors appointed by the district court of this county to recount the votes cast on the tax amendment at the last general election passed the mark establishing the fact that the tax amendment was lost instead of carried, as announced by the state board of canvassers on the original count of the votes.

The report of the inspectors, for Benton, Morrison, Sherburne and Stearns counties, was filed today with the clerk of the district court and showed that, with the corrected return from St. Cloud, Little Falls and Brainerd, a total of 14,000 votes originally counted in favor of the amendment were erroneously accredited, and that the tax amendment, instead of being carried by 13,800 votes, as announced by the state canvassing board, has lost 14,000 votes, so far as the recount has been counted, and is still losing more as further returns are being made.

Although the inspectors have established the fact that a big mistake was made by the election clerks all over the state in regard to the official count of the votes on the tax and the good roads amendments, the recount is not to be stopped right away. In fact the inspectors are now making a recount of the votes on the amendment in Aitkin county and will, later, perform the same work at Wadena, Detroit and Moorhead.

It is the intention of those who are contesting the case to carry the recount to a point where it is certain, beyond any possible doubt, that the tax amendment was lost, even though the recount is not made in the remaining smaller precincts of the state and where, if such recount were made, there could be no material change in the results.

That the good roads amendment was carried and lost, as announced by the state canvassing board, was established some weeks ago by the ballot inspectors' returns.

The contest case, which was started by a taxpayer of this city and one in Carlton county, will be heard at the September term of the district court.

H. H. Phelps represents the contestants.

It is understood that on the recount the tax amendment lost 200 votes in Brainerd and a nearby town, and that it lost between 300 and 400 votes in St. Cloud and Little Falls, on the recount.

It was at Little Falls that the inspectors found enough mistakes to bring the total up to a point where the 13,800 majority declared in favor of the amendment was overcome.

---

they should. Of course, they have it classified and all that, but then few of its quaint characteristics are studied, and little is known about its domestic side."

Harry Benson, employed at a sawmill in Washington parish, in the city on business, sat in the cool reading room of the Contractors' and Dealers' exchange a few evenings ago and told stories that proved most interesting to the gentlemen seated at the big magazine table, but the visitor's most entertaining effort was the yarn of which a little black crow named Jack was the hero, says the New Orleans Picayune.

"This crow Jack that I'm going to tell you about," Mr. Benson took up his story, "belonged to the Roberts family, who lived in the sawmill district near Lake Maurepas. In fact, he was the pet of little Walter, the only son of the hardy farmer and his wife.

"Walter was a wanderer in the woods and fields, and one day in his father's cornfield he found a little crow flapping on the ground in front of a long black snake, which was about to crush and devour it. The crow was not under a spell, but it must have been hurt in learning to fly and was unable to escape. Walter, with the big, long stick he had in his hand, promptly killed the snake, and picking up the badly frightened crow, carried it home with him.

"Walter's parents were very indulgent, and when the boy appeared at home with the crow, carried tenderly in his arms, his mother and father smiled, and of course offered no objections to the lad's keeping the bird.

"Well, that crow, from the very first, seemed to appreciate that Walter had saved his life, and he showed a genuine affection for his little master. He grew rapidly and learned to fly well, but, although his wings were never cut, and he was allowed to course about in the air as he pleased, he was sure to come home in time to go to roost in his little barricaded pigeon house, which stood on a long pole just behind the kitchen. Jack was given the pigeon house as a protection against owls, hawks, and such birds of prey, and frequently when a fierce chicken hawk was hovering near in the daytime, Jack would speed home to his refuge, and peeping from the narrow entrance, would scan the blue distance and watch with his sharp little eyes for the dreaded enemy. When the crow was satisfied that the hawk had departed, he would leave his refuge and come forth for another fly.

"When Jack had developed from a little chap into a full-fledged adult he had mastered many funny tricks, would allow himself to be harnessed to a little cart and drag the kitten about the floor in the abbreviated vehicle to the delight of the whole family. Jack seemed to know when people were laughing at his antics, and he would flap his wings playfully, emit the deep 'caw' peculiar to his kind, and often his exercise would take such a violent turn that the kitten would be sent sprawling from the wagon, growling and spitting.

"But Jack proved his real value as a protection to the Roberts cornfield. Mr. Roberts, of course, kept the conventional bogie man with straw head and a body made of old clothes stuffed with various objects, and the bogie stood out in the cornfield on long poles. Jack was just a little bit afraid of the scarecrow at first, being naturally backward with strangers and thinking that the grotesque object belonged to the human race, but soon his favorite perches was on the bogie's ragged head. The wild crows learned to laugh the bogie to scorn, and they gathered thick in the field and helped themselves to the corn until Jack was the means of getting rid of them. Jack was well fed at the kitchen door of the house by his young master and his regular bill of fare consisted of a variety of things. He learned to eat anything and everything, and his appetite was so well catered to that he never thought of stealing a piece of corn from the field.

"When the wild crows, with whom Jack associated but little, began to treat the bogie with contempt, Mr. Roberts, to protect his corn, would have to make repeated trips to the field to shoo the black robbers, and by the arrangement lost much of his time. The crows would take wing as soon as they saw him approaching, but once he had turned his back and gone to some other quarter the thieves would resume their morning meal. Mr. Roberts was afraid to use his shotgun on the band, for sometimes Jack consorted with the vandals, and had he shot Jack, either by accident or design, he would have lost his home, as Jack was the king pin with everybody about the place.

"By some process of reasoning Jack figured it out that his wild brothers and sisters were burglars of the worst type, and that they should be kept off the place. Of course, he felt, no doubt, that his own weak strength opposed to such an army would not be sufficient to repel the attacks on the cornfield, but he concluded that if there was a watchman close by, who would give the alarm whenever the bandits drew near, the farm hands could come and chase them away.

"Jack constituted himself a watchman and took his roost on the bogie man's hat. One morning Mr. Roberts heard a terrific screeching and cawing, and, turning from his work in the hayloft, saw Jack flying back and forth before the window. Mr. Roberts looked out the window toward his cornfield and saw the vandal crows at work on his budding crop. As he quickly climbed down the ladder and hastened to rescue his corn he saw Jack flying in a straight line ahead of him, still cawing and screeching, as though showing him the way and bidding him follow.

"Of course, when Mr. Roberts reached the cornfield the crows took flight. Day after day Jack gave the alarm, and either Mr. Roberts or the hored man ran at the tame crow's bidding, and so persistent were the repluses they sustained that the crows gradually left the locality to seek pastures new and easy.

"In time the crows came to know Jack as the watchman, and before they finally departed altogether from the district they were so afraid of Jack that they would take wing the minute he began his screeching, without even having tasted of the juicy corn. That was a crow worth having, and if I had the time I could tell you of many other wonderful things the clever bird did."

NO CHANGE IN STRIKE

No Steps Are Taken to Settle Differences at Dock.

Men Are Ready to Hold Out for a Long Siege.

There was no change in the strike situation at the Allouez ore docks today. Everything is quiet about the docks and the strikers show no inclination to make trouble.

The men say they are prepared to hold out until their demands are granted and they will submit to no compromise. They say they have saved their money for some time past in anticipation of a strike, and they will be well prepared to remain idle as long as is necessary.

At the offices of the railroad, nothing would be given out. The officials intimate that they will not import men, although they say they could easily secure a sufficient number to fill the places of the strikers. They appear to be satisfied, however, to let the strike run along, and little is being done on either side to effect a settlement.

In the meantime those affected indirectly by the strike are not resting so easily. The railroad men and others, who were thrown out of work by the action of the trimmers, are anxious to return, and businessmen would also like to see a settlement brought about. It is possible steps will be taken to bring the conflicting parties into conference in a day or so that the situation may be gone over with a view to bringing about a settlement of the differences.

GUILTY OF ASSAULT.

Boy Hit Man on Head With a Beer Glass.

Charles Bowersox, a boy 19 years of age, was arraigned in municipal court this morning on a charge of assault preferred by Charles Cowfelt. Cowfelt is a Duluth man, who addressed a labor meeting here last evening. After the meting he, with other men, was in a saloon and a dispute arose between Cowfelt and Bowersox. Cowfelt claimed Bowersox hit him over the head with a glass, inflicting a wound, which he exhibited to the court.

Bowersox told his story, saying he was leaning against the bar with a glass in his hand, and during the dispute, Cowfelt bumped into him, breaking the glass against the bar. He threw the pieces of glass at Cowfelt, one of them cutting his head. Bowersox was found guilty, however, and fined $10 with the alternative of fifteen days in jail. He was still trying to raise the money this afternoon.

CONTRACT IS AWARDED.

J. E. Erickson to Grade New Northern Pacific Yards.

That J. E. Erickson has been awarded the contract for the improvement of the Northern Pacific yards on the bay shore was unofficially announced this morning. No confirmation of the report could be secured, although reliable authority gave it out.

The contract calls for the grading and improvement of the entire district on the bay shore from the East end to the West end. It is a work of several months, and it is said, Mr. Erickson will put a force of men on the job immediately. The new yards will give the company much more room and better yard facilities and will be a marked improvement over the arrangement in use at present.

PLUNGES OFF BRIDGE.

Two Men Injured in Runaway at Nemadji Bridge.

Sam Goldfine, a peddler, was probably fatally injured, and his son, Harris, received serious wounds, yesterday afternoon in being carried over the side of Nemadji river bridge on Fourth street, Superior, by a frightened horse. The animal was so badly injured that it had to be shot.

The Goldfines had been collecting scrap iron and were on their way home from Allouez when the horse became frightened, swerved to one side and went through the wooden railing before the men had time to get out of the wagon. The horse, rig and men landed in a heap on the hard ground, thirty feet below. The son was injured about the hip, but he managed to summon assistance.

COMPLETES ITS WORK.

The Federal Court Session at Superior is Finished.

The work of the federal court at Superior was completed at noon yesterday and the attaches left for their several homes. The grand jury returned a total of thirty-three indictments, most of which were against persons charged with the illegal sale of liquor to Indians or who were claimed to have tampered with the liquor laws in some way.

In the case of the government against Valentine Aho and others, Judge Sanborn agreed that those interested might effect a settlement. The case was held open toward that end. Aho is claimed to have jumped a contract to carry mail between Waino and Brule, and the government started suit to recover the amount of his bond.

Breaks All Records.

The month of July will break all records for number of arrests by the police department in any one month. Up to today, there were 270 arrests registered on the book since the first of the month, which is considerably more than the entire number recorded for any previous month in the history of the department. The patrol wagon has been going regularly since the first of the month, and municipal court has had an unusually heavy month.

Soft Goods in Court.

The Great Northern Bottling works this morning began criminal action against the Superior Bottling works, charging that the latter concern used the bottles of the former for its own goods, shipping them out and disposing of them. Several cases of soft goods were seized by the police, to be used as evidence, and were plied up in the vault in municipal court. The vault looked like an ice box in a soft drink emporium this morning. No date has yet been set for the trial.

BUSINESS VERY GOOD

Produce Dealers Kept Busy Supplying Wants of Public.

Minnesota Product is Now Winding Up Strawberry Season.

Summer is now pretty well along, and the regular summer fruits and vegetables are to be found in the commission houses and retail stores in abundance. Business is good, too. Dealers along Michigan street say they are enjoying a profitable season, with a big demand for almost everything in the way of produce. The country tributary to Duluth is sending in numerous liberal orders, and the city itself manages to consume enough to keep the dealers busy supplying the wants of the public.

There have been plenty of new vegetables on the market for several weeks past, but they are more reasonable in price now than they have been before this year. New potatoes are about the only vegetable that are holding up very high, and they are on to toboggan now. It will not be long before they will be on the market at an easy price. They have almost shoved the old stock off the list as it is, and very soon old potatoes will be a thing of the past for a time.

Railroads are in a better condition to handle shipments now than they were a short time ago, and consequently fruits and vegetables are more prompt in arriving than they were in the spring, when it was merely a matter of speculation with the commission men when orders would be delivered on the local market. They know that if a car is sent forward at a certain time it will be received here at a certain time, and plan accordingly. It is a good thing for the fruit and green vegetable business that the railroad situation cleared up as it did, otherwise the delays in summer time would be fatal, in spite of cold storage and refrigerator cars.

A good many of the strawberries now offered on the local market are Minnesota grown, and it may be said with truth that they are of a better quality and better flavor than almost any of the shipments that have been received from the outside during the season. Northern Minnesota in particular raises some fine strawberries, and it is a pity that more people are not engaged in the business. The crop here comes so late that good prices are obtained, and there is money in it for any one who raises them. The berries brought in from Wrenshall this week were the first shown on the local market this year. Blueberries are commencing to arrive, and a few red raspberries are coming in. Receipts of the blueberries and raspberries will be quite liberal by the latter part of next week.

This is the height of the California fruit season, and several carloads of the fruit are arriving every day. Peaches, pears, cherries and plums of all varieties are coming in freely. The dealers do not look for the California plums to go much lower at any time during the season than they are at present. The first of the Bartlett pears are arriving. The quality is very fine, although the price is still a little high. California cherries are practically out of the market, but some are still to be had. The peaches being received are of excellent quality.

There is nothing particularly new to note in the banana situation. Prices are holding about the same as they did before the Fourth of July. The importations are apparently light, much lighter than they usually are for this season of the year. The importers are not having any trouble in keeping the prices up.

* * *

Cabbage is now coming forward from Muscatine, Iowa, and it is of good quality. Some Minnesota grown cabbage is also being offered, and from now on cabbage prices should be quite reasonable. Prices on green vegetables in general are very reasonable.

* * *

The receipts of butter are light and prices are holding firm, with a slight advance in some instances. Dairy butter is not arriving very rapidly, and the heavy demand prevents a lower price. Eggs are about the same as last week. The same may be said of fish and poultry.

JEWELS WORTH THOUSANDS LEFT

By the Fair Unknown, But Not a Cent of Cash.

St. Louis, Mo., July 19.—Who was Mrs. Nannie Long? Where did she come from? Who and where are her relatives? are unanswered questions to Public Administrator Harry Troll. The woman, strikingly handsome, of the highest education and evidently of social position, died at the Montecillo hotel, July 5, of heart trouble. She was 36 years old, a brunette and about six feet in height. Up to the very moment of her death she refused absolutely to give any information as to her past, but simply said she had a will and her affairs were arranged. Her friends were society people here. The only person who probably knew all about her affairs was the late William Taussig, her attorney.

Diligent search by the administrator has failed to bring to light any safe deposit box or bank where Mrs. Lang was known.

The effects found in her apartments consisted of four trunks filled with clothing of the finest quality, over $1,000 worth of furs in storage and jewelry and diamonds worth several thousands of dollars, but not one cent of money, although during her lifetime she was always plentifully supplied with cash and paid cash for everything she bought.

The administrator heard she had been the wife of a Col. Bertram of New Orleans, who died a few years ago, leaving a large estate and a widow and one son; that the son, Woodward Bertram, was a student of Cornell university, but the faculty of the university and the city authorities of Ithaca, N. Y., says they never heard of him. Another friend understands the young man's father left him a separate legacy of $20,000 a year.

Following Col. Bertram's death Mrs. Long was supposed to have married a Dr. Long of New Orleans, but every person inquired of in the South replied they never heard of Dr. Long. There was not a single letter or paper of any kind in her apartments to give the slightest clew.

The hotel people say she received many letters daily, always placing the answers in the mail box herself. Her baggage shows she traveled a great deal. It is evident from the hotel tags that she has been in the habit of spending her winters at Los Angeles and other California resorts and her summers along the Canadian border.

Another of her friends here believed the greater portion of her means came from a manufacturing plant she was supposed to own in Columbus, Ohio, but inquiry in that city brought the same negative result. A number of photographs of her were received by friends on the day of her death.

Long Live the King!

is the popular cry throughout European countries; while in America, the cry of the present day is "Long Live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of Throat and Lung Remedies!" of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Paine, Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throats after all other remedies have failed; and for coughs and colds it's the only sure cure. Guaranteed by all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

Jury Finds Herman Bilik Guilty of Murdering the Vrzal Family.

Chicago, July 18.—Herman Bilik, who has been on trial charged with killing by poison, Adolph Vrzal and five of his children, was found guilty last night and the jury fixed his sentence at death. Vrzal and his children all died within a few months of each other under suspicious circumstances. Bilik had been a friend of the family for years and in his capacity of fortune teller had administered medicine to the children. An investigation showed that Vrzal and the children all suffered from the same complaint before death. Bilik was arrested. The day after his arrest Mrs. Vrzal committed suicide by taking poison.

During the trial testimony was submitted by the state charging Bilik with having killed Vrzal and his children in order to collect the life insurance they carried.

PICKETING FORBIDDEN.

Detroit, Mich., July 18.—Judge Hosmer, in the Wayne circuit court yesterday, issued an injunction on the petition of the Morgan & Wright company, forbidding the striking machinists of the company from picketing the plant, loitering near it, molesting the company employes, intimidating them or attempting a boycott of the company by circulars or other means. The injunction is also effective against the local union of the International Association of Machinists. The company alleges that the strikers threaten serious trouble.

WATTERSON'S BATTLE CRY

For the Democratic Party Is "Back to the Constitution."

Would be Insanity for Roosevelt to be Candidate Again.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 19.—A special dispatch to The Enquirer from Louisville says: "Back to the constitution" is the battle cry which Henry Watterson is raising for the Democratic hosts in 1908. The veteran Democrat, and the last one left of a group of great editors, is taking just as keen an interest in American politics today as he did in 1892 when he advised the Democrats against nominating Cleveland and told them they "were walking through a slaughter house into an open grave."

Mr. Watterson will not name his "dark horse" for president, but says he will whisper the name into W. J. Bryan's ear whenever the Nebraskan asks him to do so. He declares that no one can win without Mr. Bryan's backing and that the Democratic party needs harmony. He believes the tariff and trust questions should be two chief issues of the Democrats. He does not believe that either Roosevelt or Taft will be the Republican nominee for president, but that Hughes or Fairbanks may be in the running.

He declares that it will be nothing more than insanity itself for Mr. Roosevelt to become a candidate for a third time. He says he wants to see one more Democratic president before he dies.

"As to the Democratic party," said Mr. Watterson, "its chief trouble is its talk of unity. Unfortunately it is not one with itself. It represents two branches, the Radicals, so called, and the Conservatives, so called, of the North, projected from a huge trunk known as the Solid South. In three presidential elections, while the South has stood firm to its colors, the two Northern branches have steadfastly refused to vote for one another. Why? Because there have been serious though not now irreconcilable differences of opinion, but mainly because of frictions, some fanciful and some real, largely personal in kind, growing out of the lack of discipline and fixity of purpose inevitable to continuous defeat. Mr. Bryan himself is one cause of dissension, and Mr. Bryan is not guiltless of his share of responsibility for this.

Bryan's Weakness.

"Yet his leadership remains intact and unchallenged. He should be treated with respect; but no good end can be served by treating him with reserve. He has no reserves himself, and while this might be a virtue in a private citizen, it becomes a weakness in a public man, and something more harmful still in a party leader.

"Leaders in politics, like generals in the field, must win victories, not lose them. Neither politics nor war, may be what is called an exact science, but neither is quite empiric. In presence of the voters the party leader can quite as little afford to theorize as can the general in the face of a marching army. Each must first beat the enemy."

The correspondent asked Mr. Watterson whom he favored as the next Democratic candidate.

"I have no favorite," Mr. Watterson promptly replied, "and no candidate. If I had I would keep him to myself, because any suggestion from me, though it were never so disinterested and so wise, would arouse in a certain class of Democrats, and I am sorry to say, a very large class, positive resentment. They have never forgiven me for their own foolishness. They are one-man idolators. With them it is Bryan first, last and all the time, whether he can elect him or not. Now, I want to see one more Democratic president before I die. That is the difference and about the size of it."

"But the 'dark horse' about which the newspnewspapers have been talking so much?"

He Has a Horse.

"The boys have been having a great deal of fun with themselves during the hot weather, haven't they?" he replied, and continued: "The sum of it, so far as I am concerned, is this, that when Mr. Bryan said he did not want the race; if some good, regulation Democrat could be found likely to get more votes than he, to take him, I knew of just such a man. But without Mr. Bryan's backing nobody can win. Just as they knifed Judge Parker, they would knife any candidate not chosen by themselves. As soon as Mr. Bryan tells me he is out and asks me for my man I will whisper the name to him, and not before."

"Don't you think Mr. Bryan can be elected?"

"I do not say he cannot be," said Mr. Watterson. "To me personally he is wholly agreeable and acceptable. He is a fine type of the best class of the average American. His personality and his purposes are everywhere conceded to be above reproach. That is a distinct and very great asset. Like many other idealists, seeing many things to be done, he wants to do everything at once. The mistakes he may have made, however, have been honest mistakes. They belong to the past. There is no one of us but has his mistakes to answer for. What Democrats want to know is this: Have we a Democratic party—or, in case we have not, but only an apothecary's jar with a mutilated label—can we recall the elements that once constituted a Democratic party and bring those to think alike and feel alike, so as in 1908 to move on the common enemy, whether he be a Republican Socialist favoring special privileges or a Populistic Socialist, favoring the commune, both equally as war with the spirit of American institutions as these are imbedded in the Constitution of the United States? If we can do this we shall carry the country, no matter who becomes our standard bearer. It we can't, we shan't."

Bryan Doesn't Answer.

"Can Mr. Bryan effect the necessary union of issues?"

"I am afraid he cannot. Mr. Bryan and Mr. Roosevelt are too much alike. They are too closely associated in the public mind. Next year we need that the issues between the parties shall be sharply drawn. The Republican party is the creator of trustism—its high protective tariff, the father and mother of the trusts. Historically and actually the Democratic party is the antagonist of trustism as expressed by corporate rapacity and the robber tariff with its class favoritism. As a matter of fact, high tariff and high finance by collusion and sympathy go hand in hand.

"Mr. Roosevelt, for all his ingenuity, cannot erase the leopard's spots. But Mr. Bryan may disguise the Democratic party by a series of novel and shifting expedients, which, though they draw great lecture audiences, will drive away votes. Some reserve should be imposed on party leaders if they do not practice it. Mr Bryan might afford to gather in fewer returns, whilst the Democratic party could afford to stand upon its historic record To exchange its character of a constitutional opposition for that of a Socialistic opposition for to fall betwixt two stools

"What the party needs after its ten years' wandering through the wilderness is credit Mr Hearst has put himself at the head of a new party called the Independence League. This will cut into both the older parties Can Mr. Bryan hope to undercut its extremeism? Mr. Hearst? It is not the line of the Constitution a good line to form on in making a Democratic campaign against the protective tariff and in favor of the corporations? There is such a thing as trying to do too much, as well as doing too little. Paramount issues are not made to order. They make themselves and fit into the situation, as this is developed out of the womb of time."

Is Bryan's Friend.

"You are not hostile, then, to Mr. Bryan?"

"Not in the least. On the contrary, I am his friend and would advise him to his own good and to the party's good. Personally I am quite out of it. I shall not be in the next Democratic national convention. Let us remember that there are twelve months between now and the nominating convention of 1908, and hope that both Mr. Bryan and the Democratic party may grow in wisdom and grace. If Mr. Bryan is bent upon making the race, he should quit the lecture platform. That would answer the charge that he is making money while the party is losing strength. He owes so much of reserve to the position of a party leader and a candidate for president.

"A letter defeated Mr. Clay. A sentence defeated Mr. Blaine. Yet Mr. Bryan is making speeches every day for great sums of money, and most men will agree with Chairman Guffey that though he may be able to afford another defeat, the Democratic party can't. The truth is, for his own sake Mr. Bryan should begin to consider the danger of being placed in the attitude of the dog in the manger, unable to win himself and unwilling for any other Democrat to win."

"And the platform?"

"It should, in my opinion, be short and breezy. It should be so simple that he who runs may read. The tariff must be reduced to a revenue basis. The government has no right, either in equity or law, to collect a dollar of taxes except for its own support. Publicity for the franchise corporations. The railroads to be reached and regulated through the interstate commerce commission, but the law to be limited to the supervision of their capitalization and their relation to the general public, striking down the possibility of discrimination and excesses, either as to passengers or shippers. The railways are the property of the people.

Must Obey the Laws.

"Their managers should be made to obey the law. But all laws enacted in hot blood, or for revenue, can in the end only recoil upon the people. The further improvement of the labor laws so as more fully to meet the reasonable demands of labor as against the frequent impositions of capital, and thus by eliminating just causes of discontent to allay agitation and make progress toward the complete reconciliation of capital and labor."

"And," the correspondent interposed, "back to the Constitution?"

"Yes," said Mr. Watterson, "back to the Constitution. Do you think the Constitution assailed from so many quarters and in so many ways, fallen so out of the popular mind and heart that the summons 'back to the Constitution' will fall on deaf ears? He who swears not by the Constitution is no Democrat. Here is the confession of faith I would hold up before each delegate to the next national Democratic convention, he who hesitated or quibbled over an item of it, him I would throw out of the window. Listen:

"I believe in the Constitution of the United States, strictly construed, as the ark and covenant of our free institutions.

"I believe in the co-ordinate branches of the federal government as the sure safeguards against the usurpation of power with which history makes us familiar, as the rocks upon which freedom has been so often shipwrecked.

"I believe in the maintainence of the federal power and the state power, unimpaired in their several functions, national and local, the one sustaining the other, both subservient to the organic law of the land.

"I believe the system established by the convention over which Washington presided, and in which Franklin and Hamilton and Jay and Madison sat as members, an inspiration from God Almighty, and the government established thereby the best government in the world.

"I believe that it embodies political immortality, within the original chart of its being, which covers all known dangers and specifies how it may be amended to meet those dangers that were unknown to its authors and have been incident to human development and the world's progress.

"I believe, finally, that, if through the treason of some and the indifference of others, the foundations of this sublime edifice could be loosened we should repeat in the twentieth of the centuries all the errors and horrors of the eighteenth and the nineteenth, with no other result than which, like the work of Samson, follows reckless destruction.

Must Unite Factions.

"The Democratic party may as well make up its mind now that it will have next year to meet the strongest and best the Republican party has in stock, and if it is not able to find some nominee who can still the discords and unite the factions, then the Republicans will elect their ticket, and, in case Democracy is to survive, we shall have to do it all over again. Mr. Bryan alone out of his leadership and lectures, having something to show for our great and many sacrifices."

"Who is he, Mr. Watterson?"

"That I will tell only to Mr. Bryan in case he asks me."

Some newspapers say Mr. Watterson is his own "dark horse," but it is known this is not true.

However, there are Democrats, who, on account of Mr. Watterson's tariff views, favor him. Numerous publications are printing articles on possible Southern nominees for president by the next Democratic national convention. Many Southern Democrats say most of them are either unknown to the country or else have records which would destroy them in a week, and that there is but one Southern man who is known to the people in the North or West, and whose record would stand the fire of a presidential campaign. These say the man lives in Kentucky.

BUSINESS OF MACCABEES.

Detroit, July 19.—The supreme tent, Knights of the Maccabees of the World yesterday voted in favor of increasing the representation in the supreme tent from 75 delegates to 150. The general relief fund for the care of totally disabled members who were admitted into the order prior to Aug. 1, 1904, which was abolished three years ago, was re-established. The rate increase made at the last convention was discussed and it was evident that the opposition to the new rates has disappeared.

BAROMETERS FOR MOTOR CARS.

New York Herald's Paris Edition: It is diverting when touring to have fitted to the front splash board, in addition to the usual "compteur kilometrique" and watch, a thermometer, a barometer, a compass and speed indicator. The thermometer should be fixed where its bulb receives indirectly the heat of the air drawn through the radiator and thrown off from the motor, and will thus furnish an excellent guide to the temperature of the latter. In case the pump should fail to work, or a connection in the water cooling system break, a dangerously high temperature of the motor would at once show itself on the thermometer. The barometer is not only useful in enabling one to know the probable state of the weather during the ensuing twenty-four hours—a great advantage when engaged in mountain touring—but it also shows constantly the exact number of meters above sea level, and the altitude of each spot over which the automobile travels.

If being out of work is a serious matter for you—and you are out of work—a small Herald want advertising campaign is a highly important thing for you to focus your attention upon.

FACILITIES FOR A BATH.

Henry James, the famous novelist, arrived at 10 o'clock one night at a Florida hotel, and could get nothing to eat. The hotel was magnificent and expensive, but its rule was to serve no food after a certain hour, and in consequence Mr. James went hungry to bed.

Discussing this hardship afterwards, he said:

"I felt, indeed, like the tenderfoot who visited an Arkansas hotel back in the '70s. It was a primitive hotel, and the guest, on his arrival, said to the landlord tentatively:

"'Landlord, I'd like a bath.'

"'All right,' was the reply.

"And the landlord went out, returning in ten minutes with a tin can of soft soap, a towel, a pick and shovel.

"The Eastern guest took up the can of soft soap and the towel, but at the pick and shovel he looked askance.

"'What are these for?' he said.

"'Wall, stranger,' said the landlord, 'the water's low, an' ye'll hev to dam up the creek.'"

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

SHOULD BE GOOD MATCH

Kerry Kid and Ben Tremble in Training for Fight.

Duluth and Superior Will Send Crowd to Hibbing.

Duluth followers of the fight game are awaiting with considerable interest the coming go at Hibbing between Ben Tremble and the Kerry Kid. The match will be held this month, and it will undoubtedly draw a big crowd from all of Northern Minnesota. Duluth and Superior will probably send a large contingent, for both men are well known to local sports and the go will, from all indications, be well worth seeing.

Tremble and the Kerry Kid are both at Hibbing now with their managers, and reports from the training camps are that they are both getting in fine condition for the match. Tremble has kept himself in pretty good shape for months past, and the Kerry Kid has also been working out to some extent, so when they go in the ring they will be at their best.

Tremble and the Kerry Kid met once before at Hibbing in a 15-round go, which resulted in a draw. Both men exhibited considerable cleverness at that time, and they have improved since then, so the coming bout should be even better than their former match.

Tremble appears to be a favorite among Duluth people. Those who saw him in his go with Mike Schreck are convinced that he can put the Kerry Kid away. He is fairly fast, clever with his hands, has the beef, and knows the game. On the other hand, the Kerry Kid has been in the fight game in Northern Minnesota for several years back and has hundreds of friends, who are willing to back him against any of the heavies who have performed here. The Kid is especially strong on the ranges, and considerable money will be floating around to go on him the night of the fight.

Some good preliminaries are also being arranged for the card. Duluth and Superior can furnish some pretty good youngsters for the ring, and there will be a couple of corking good lightweight bouts at Hibbing when the big fight is pulled off. The preliminaries have not been fully arranged yet, but the promoters will have no trouble matching aspiring youngsters, who will be certain to put up slashing good matches.

McGRAW WAS FIRED OUT

Umpire Tried to Hold League Up for More Money.

Tommy McGraw didn't quit his job with the Northern-Copper Country league. He was fired. So says President Glass, according to a story from Houghton. And the unintelligible growl will be heard no more on the circuit, as Glass will not back water and McGraw is out of a job for good and all, as far as this league is cncerned.

McGraw, it seems, thought that he should have had extra pay for umpiring double-headers. Last Saturday he officiated at two games at Winnipeg, and at the termination of the second contest he tried to collect extra pay from the Winnipeg management. The league president was wired, and he notified McGraw to submit his grievances to him. McGraw refused to work Monday, and he wanted $30 down. The $30 wasn't coming, but there came a blue ticket from the league president, and McGraw left for Chicago.

J. T. Sweeny of Chicago has been engaged to take McGraw's place and he will go direct to Winnipeg and take up his work there. C. Danaby of Rochester, N. Y., is expected to arrive in Duluth tomorrow to handle the games here.

FREEMAN IS DEFEATED

Former Champion Golfer Loses to Cleveland Man at Chicago.

Chicago, July 19.—A. M. Brittain of Cleveland, and J. J. Hazen of New York, won their semi-final matches for the championship of the American Golf Association of Advertising Interests at Midlothian yesterday, and these two players meet today at thirty-six holes to decide the final round. Hazen won from A. K. Oliver of Pittsburg, by 1 up, while Brittain defeated E. A. Freeman of New York, by 3 up and 2 to play.

Brittain's defeat of Freeman was the surprise of the tournament. Freeman, who led the qualifying field, won the tournament two years ago and was figured on by most of the players to win the main trophy this year. Brittain, however, gained an early advantage in the first nine holes, which Freeman was unable to overcome.

In the finals for the second flight cup, E. M. Gould of St. Louis, will meet E. J. Ridgeway of New York. Gould won from R. R. Whitman of Chicago, in the semi-finals, by 5 up, 4 to play, and Ridgeway won from W. A. Beckler of Chicago, by 1 up.

Following are the scores of the semi-finals for the other six cups:

Third flight: W. R. Butler, Chicago, defeated A. H. Sanders, Chicago, 1 up 19 holes; G. T. Hodges, Chicago, defeated G. D. Bates, Akron, Ohio, by 3 up and 2 to play.

Fourth flight: S. G. Rigdon, Akron, Ohio, defeated B. D. Butler, Minneapolis, 3 up and 5 to play; H. E. Crall, New York, defeated Frank Presby, New York, 2 up.

Fifth flight: J. H. Hawley, New York, defeated W. B. Biddle, Chicago, 4 up, 3 to play; Joseph E. G. Ryan, Chicago, defeated J. D. Plummer, Springfield, Mass., 4 up, 3 to play.

Sixth flight: R. C. Hoyt, Chicago, defeated K. V. S. Howland, Chicago, 5 up, 4 to play; H. R. Reed, Chicago, defeated W. P. Champion, Chicago, 4 up, 2 to play.

Seventh flight: W. Evans, Jr., Chicago, defeated O. R. Johnson, Minneapolis, 3 up, 2 to play; K. Evans, New York, defeated S. T. A. Loftis, Chicago, 4 up, 3 to play.

Eighth flight: W. McK. Barbour, Minneapolis, defeated L. A. Barber, Chicago, 3 up, 2 to play.

Iowa Teacher, Now Visiting in Minneapolis, Starts Damage Suit.

Des Moines, July 19.—Winifred McKenzie, a school teacher at Hampton, now visiting in Minneapolis, today started a suit for $25,000 damages from J. B. Gray, a wealthy Polk county farmer for breach of promise. Coincident with the filing of the suit, it developed that Gray eloped to Chicago last summer with Marie Levke, a Des Moines teacher. The defendant is 60 years old.

Miss McKenzie alleged that Gray courted her seventeen years, but that she could not marry him sooner because of her aged parents. When she got ready she found Gray had eloped with another. The petition was sworn before Ralph Watson of Minneapolis.

CHANGES IN WHITE SOX

Spike Anderson and Two New Pitchers Have Arrived.

Summers Will Go to Devils Lake to Finish Year.

With some hope still of pulling down the flag, the management of the Duluth team has set out on a campaign of strengthening and there will probably be some extensive changes in the team. Yesterday A. S. "Spike" Anderson of Minneapolis, playing manager of the Winnipeg Maroons last year, arrived in the city, with Taylor and Dominick, two young Minneapolis pitchers, in tow. Spike will remain with the team for several weeks playing center field and he believes that the two pitchers will also be able to hold their own and win games for the Sox.

Summers, who will be displaced by Anderson, will leave in a day or so for Devils Lake, N. D., to play the remainder of the season. Summers has not been released, nor will he be, but he is being laid off at his own request. He wants to go to the North Dakota town to play Independent ball this season and, Anderson being secured, his request was granted. The Duluth management will still hold his contract and he will probably be reserved at the end of the season, but he will play with the team no more this year.

In addition to those who have already arrived, there are several more men in sight and they will probably be along in a few days. Just who are due for release is not known, but the fans are pretty good guessers and, if the new arrivals mack good, there will be little surprise when the names of the canned ones are made known.

The team arrived home this morning fro ma disastrous trip to Winnipeg. While in the Canadian city the boys played good ball, but they were unlucky. They tied two games, but couldn't pull down a victory and on their return they find themselves in third place, through the victory of Houghton over Winnipeg last evening.

This afternoon, a home series with Calumet and Houghton is opened, Calumet being scheduled for five games and Houghton for four. If Duluth can clean the Copper country teams in a majority of the coming games, there is still hope. But they will have to play good ball, as neither team from the eastern end of the circuit is weak. Calumet has been playing great ball against Houghton and there will be some strengthening here. Houghton has several new men coming and by the time they reach Duluth they will be ready for a whirlwind series.

BIG GAME IS SCHEDULED

Courthouse and City Hall Teams Are to Play Ball.

Visitors to the city hall and courthouse during the past few days were struck by the strange air of suppressed excitement, which seems to pervade both places.

There has been a run on rule books of baseball during the past few days and buried under the ledgers, journals, check books, receipt books, license registers and other official impedimenta littering the desks in the two buildings, one may discover small blue books with titles this wise: "How to Play Baseball," "How to Pitch," "How to Bat," "How to Run Bases." Every evening after the hours of labor, the centre forces repair to their respective practice grounds, post their pickets, and there, with nobody to spy upon their movements, they execute plays of such brilliancy and excellence, that were Ted Sullivan on the grounds, both city and county would be looking for new employes.

J. H. Davis happened around to the courthouse this morning. He said he had official business, but he barely escaped with his life. The courthouse gang said he came to spy on them, note their injuries and weaknesses and take a report back to the Cullum Palace on Superior street. There was a rush for him, as soon as he stepped within the building, and only after he had sworn not to mention the word "Baseball" was he allowed to enter and even look upon his enemies.

Tomorrow is the day. If the weather man is kind, official cares will be set aside. Every man, woman and child, who can break away from the city and county buildings, will hie themselves to Hunter's Park and there the question of supremacy will be decided on the diamond. Such a game as it will be. Both managers claim their team cannot be surpassed by anything in the major leagues and those who have spied on the secret practice vouch for the truth of the statement.

The courthouse crowd has filed a protest against one Stewart, who is slated to play with the city hall nine. They say he is a rank outsider and they want no added starters in this race. Davis avers with all solemnity that Stewart is a bona fide employe of the city in the capacity of assistant plumbing inspector, whatever that is.

No umpire has yet been chosen. Hank O'Day, Slik O'Laughlin, Bob Emslie and Tim Hurst have all been wired, but they cannot break away. Tom McGraw was suggested but the courthouse refused to stand for him since he is a Chicago cop. There will be a conference tonight on the umpire question, when it is expected a settlement will be reached.

TALK AGAINST REVISION

Of Tariff at Present Time Made by Senator Hopkins.

Oyster Bay, L. I., July 19.—The president had a tariff revision party Wednesday at luncheon. The tariff experts were Senator Hopkins of Illinois, who is strongly set against any revision at present, and H. E. Miles, one of the leaders of a tariff revision organization in Wisconsin, a prominent member of the National Agricultural Implement Makers' association. Senator Hopkins argued long and strenuously against any immediate change of tariff rates. He told the president that the country had reached a condition of revisionable prosperity under the present arrangement and that a change would be decidedly impolitic. Mr. Miles is said to have urged a reduction of tariff in several commodities, the prices of which are now very high.

After the conference Senator Hopkins said: "I have come to the conclusion after the talk that there would be no tariff revision until after the next presidential election. It seems inadvisable to make any change under existing conditions."

The senator was asked if anything had been said as to the possibility of Mr. Roosevelt again being a candidate for the presidency.

"I will say," replied the senator, somewhat evasively, "that I am inclined to think the president will not run again. The West is all afire for Uncle Joe Cannon for the presidency."

HEAVEN AND THE ANGELS MYTHS

Says Professor Youtz of Congregational College of Montreal.

Chicago, July 19.—Heaven, in the traditional conception of Christianity, no longer exists. Nor do the angels who were wont to descend from the painted clouds and carry the "good" to the Holy city.

Heaven has been analyzed by scientists, and found wanting, and the angels probably never were. God's home is only where there is human habitation—where there is life.

This, substantially, is the belief of Prof. Herbert A. Youtz, of the Congregational college of Montreal, Canada. He has written his views in an article entitled "Three Conceptions of God," in the July number of the American Journal of Theology, the official publication of the University of Chicago Divinity School.

Prof. Youtz declares the conception of heaven exists now among the greatest thinkers and scholars only in the paintings of the middle ages—"where the Gods are seated on the clouds." The skies, he asserts, have been analyzed, and the pictures of heaven, "whence angels descend no longer appeal to the imagination."

"Naturalism," one of his three conceptions of God, has forced divinity students to "relocate the habitation of God," he points out. God does not dwell where the poets and divines have told for so long a time in regions etherial. Instead he lives among human beings—in human beings—wherever there is life.

"His habitation is with men."

Prof. Youtz's theory of theology, which is known as the "immanence" theory, also discards the supernatural element in the Bible, including the micarles, attacks the believers in the "supernatural theory," and declares the "natural" theory of the scientists in a large measure atheistic. Prof. Youtz incidentally admits "these are difficult days for the theologian."

He concludes his views as follows:

"And so our changing philosophies are ever conceiving new Heavens and a new earth. We are trying to get better conceptions of God's relationship to us, but of the fact of that relationship our hearts never permit us to doubt. Religion abides, while theologies change.

"The supernaturalistic theory of reality is symbolized by the paintings of the middle ages, where the gods are seated on the clouds, while the earth below is the habitation of men. A scientific age has analyzed the clouds and the traditional conception of a heaven in the skies whence angels descend no longer appeals to the imagination.

"Naturalism has compelled us to relocate the habitation of God. And in this, our best revelation and our best philosophy agree, that, wherever there is life there is God. He is imminent in all his works. His habitation is with men."

Previous to his discussion on the possibility of Heaven, Prof. Youtz declared the present period in theology is one of fermented unrest.

"There is unrest," he writes. "This is a transition period in thought. I am concerned here to point out only one fundamental cause of the ferment. We are outgrowing our old conceptions of God's relationship to His world. Supernaturalism as a philosophy no longer satisfies thinking men, and we are all engaged in achieving a better philosophy and in adjusting ourselves to the new view of the facts.

"Scientific thinkers have discovered a new world, a larger world, and we are trying to find an explanation to fit the facts."

HER GERANIUM HAT.

When Uncle Nat died he left the girls nothing. Although they were his nieces neither of them was mentioned in his will. Their mother was also ignored, and all the fortune went to an unmarried sister.

This was not quite so bad as it looked. It was understood that she would leave the estate to the family on her death. So the girls ought to have realized that it was the part of wisdom to be polite to Aun Amelia, says the New York Sun.

The niece who was Aunt Amelia's namesake was so furious over the matter that she refused to wear mourning after the funeral, except when she called Aunt Amelia, says the New York Sun, that had already done service in honoring several elderly and rather remote relatives.

"I can't see why in the world I should go to the expense of buying new black," Amelia observed, "when he didn't leave me a cent.

"Then I had already bought my spring clothes. If I had got my share of the fortune—the share I though was coming to me—I could have afforded new mourning. But not now."

So Amelia clung to colored clothes and was sombre only when she paid her duty calls on her aunt. One day she had dressed for a motor trip in the park and wanted to look her best. This summer her idea of best was the geranium hat with its red plumes.

She put that hat on and started to walk around to her friend's house, where the car was to meet them. She went sauntering toward Madison avenue, buttoning her gloves and feeling that she really was looking well. Red was her color, and the black and white striped gown contrasted well with the hat.

Suddenly she lifted her eyes. There was Aunt Amelia approaching. It seemed certain that she was going to see Amelia in her gaudy finery. The sight of that geranium colored hat might affect Amelia's fortunes seriously.

Before Aunt Amelia was half a foot nearer her red hatted niece turned about and was facing in the opposite direction. Aunt Amelia plodded slowly behind.

"I must get this red hat off," was the thought that possessed the niece as she fled. "I must get upstairs and get rid of it before she sees."

She was almost running now. That safetly lay in walking straight ahead and not stopping at the home at all never occurred to her. Her plan had been to run up to her room and she thought only of that.

She reached the steps and skipped confidently up. She reached down for her night key, but it was missing. Hopeless of escape now, she rang the bell.

"The servants must be asleep," she thought as she pushed the button. "My. There are Aunt Amelia's footsteps."

Fearing to look behind her, she sidestepped in response to a sudden inspiration and got behind one of the storm doors. It was a close fit and she held her breath as she made herself as flat as possible against the wall.

She heard the rustle of Aunt Amelia's stiff crepe as she walked up the steps. The prisoner behind the door wondered if her breathing had been heard. She slipped down the steps as soon as the door was closed and darted down the street to keep her appointment. So she was not able to hear her aunt saying:

"I though I saw Amelia on the street a few minutes ago. But I was mistaken, for that girl had on a red hat. It could not have been Amelia."

"Of course not," said the loyal sister to whom this observation was made. "It could never have been Amelia in a red hat."

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

SHOULD BE GOOD MATCH

Kerry Kid and Ben Tremble in Training for Fight.

Duluth and Superior Will Send Crowd to Hibbing.

Duluth followers of the fight game are awaiting with considerable interest the coming go at Hibbing between Ben Tremble and the Kerry Kid. The match will be held this month, and it will undoubtedly draw a big crowd from all of Northern Minnesota. Duluth and Superior will probably send a large contingent, for both men are well known to local sports and the go will, from all indications, be well worth seeing.

Tremble and the Kerry Kid are both at Hibbing now with their managers, and reports from the training camps are that they are both getting in fine condition for the match. Tremble has kept himself in pretty good shape for months past, and the Kerry Kid has also been working out to some extent, so when they go in the ring they will be at their best.

Tremble and the Kerry Kid met once before at Hibbing in a 15-round go, which resulted in a draw. Both men exhibited considerable cleverness at that time, and they have improved since then, so the coming bout should be even better than their former match.

Tremble appears to be a favorite among Duluth people. Those who saw him in his go with Mike Schreck are convinced that he cut out the Kerry Kid away. He is fairly fast, clever with his hands, has a good head, and knows the game. On the other hand, the Kerry Kid has been in the fight game in Northern Minnesota for several years back and has hundreds of friends, who are willing to back him regardless any of the heavies who have performed here. The Kid is especially strong on the ranges, and considerable money will be floating around to go on him the night of the fight.

Some good preliminaries are also being arranged for the card. Duluth and Superior can furnish some pretty good youngsters for the ring, and there will be a couple of corking good lightweight bouts at Hibbing when the box draft is pulled off. The preliminaries have not been fully arranged yet, but the promoters will have no trouble matching coming youngsters, who will be certain to put up shutting good matches.

McGRAW WAS FIRED OUT

Umpire Tried to Hold League Up for More Money.

Tommy McGraw didn't quit his job with the Northern-Copper Country league. He was fired. So says President Glass, according to a story from Houghton. And the unintelligible growl will be heard no more on the circuit, as Glass will not back water and McGraw is out of a job for good and all, as far as this league is concerned.

McGraw, it seems, thought that he should have had extra pay for umpiring double-headers. Last Saturday he officiated at two games at Winnipeg, and at the termination of the second contest he tried to collect extra pay from the Winnipeg management. The league president was wired, and he notified McGraw to submit his grievances to him. McGraw refused to work Monday, and he wanted $30 down. The $30 wasn't coming, but there came a blue ticket from the league president, and McGraw left for Chicago.

J. T. Sweeny of Chicago has been engaged to take McGraw's place and he will go direct to Winnipeg and take up his work there. C. Danaby of Rochester, N. Y., is expected to arrive in Duluth tomorrow to handle the games here.

FREEMAN IS DEFEATED

Former Champion Golfer Loses to Cleveland Man at Chicago.

Chicago, July 19.—A. M. Brittain of Cleveland, and J. J. Hazen of New York, won their semi-final matches for the championship of the American Golf Association of Advertising Interests at Midlothian yesterday, and these two players meet today at thirty-six holes to decide the final round. Hazen won from A. K. Oliver of Pittsburg, by 1 up, while Brittain defeated E. A. Freeman of New York, by 3 up and 2 to play.

Brittain's defeat of Freeman was the surprise of the tournament. Freeman, who led the qualifying field, won the tournament two years ago and was figured on by most of the players to win the main trophy this year. Brittain, however, gained an early advantage in the first nine holes, which Freeman was unable to overcome.

In the finals for the second flight cup, E. M. Gould of St. Louis, will meet E. J. Ridgeway of New York. Gould won from R. R. Whitman of Chicago, in the semi-finals, by 5 up, 4 to play, and Ridgeway won from W. A. Beckler of Chicago, by 1 up.

Following are the scores of the semi-finals for the other six cups:

Third flight: W. R. Butler, Chicago, defeated A. H. Sanders, Chicago, 1 up 19 holes; G. T. Hodges, Chicago, defeated G. D. Bates, Akron, Ohio, by 3 up and 2 to play.

Fourth flight: S. G. Rigdon, Akron, Ohio, defeated B. D. Butler, Minneapolis, 8 up and 6 to play; H. E. Craft, New York, defeated Frank Presby, New York, 2 up.

Fifth flight: J. H. Hawley, New York, defeated W. B. Biddle, Chicago, 4 up, 3 to play; Joseph E. G. Ryan, Chicago, defeated J. D. Plummer, Springfield, Mass., 4 up, 3 to play.

Sixth flight: R. C. Hoyt, Chicago, defeated K. V. S. Howland, Chicago, 5 up, 4 to play; H. R. Reed, Chicago, defeated W. P. Champion, Chicago, 4 up, 2 to play.

Seventh flight: W. Evans, Jr., Chicago, defeated O. R. Johnson, Minneapolis, 3 up, 2 to play; K. Evans, New York, defeated S. T. A. Loftis, Chicago, 4 up, 3 to play.

Eighth flight: W. McK. Barbour, Minneapolis, defeated L. A. Barber, Chicago, 3 up, 2 to play.

Des Moines, July 19.—Winifred McKenzie, a school teacher at Hampton, now visiting in Minneapolis, today started a suit for $25,000 damages from J. B. CHANGES IN WHITE SOX

Spike Anderson and Two New Pitchers Have Arrived.

Summers Will Go to Devils Lake to Finish Year.

With some hope still of pulling down the flag, the management of the Duluth team has set out on a campaign of strengthening and there will probably be some extensive changes in the team. Yesterday A. S. "Spike" Anderson of Minneapolis, playing manager of the Winnipeg Maroons last year, arrived in the city, with Taylor and Dominick, two young Minneapolis pitchers, in tow. Spike will remain with the team for several weeks playing center field and he believes that the two pitchers will also be able to hold their own and win games for the Sox.

Summers, who will be displaced by Anderson, will leave in a day or so for Devils Lake, N. D., to play the remainder of the season. Summers has not been released, nor will he be, but he is being laid off at his own request. He wants to go to the North Dakota town to play independent ball this season and, Anderson being secured, his request was granted. The Duluth management will still hold his contract and he will probably be reserved at the end of the season, but he will play with the team no more this year.

In addition to those who have already arrived, there are several more men in sight and they will probably be along in a few days. Just who are due for release is not known, but the fans are pretty good guessers and, if the new arrivals mark good, there will be little surprise when the names of the canned ones are made known.

The team arrived home this morning from a disastrous trip to Winnipeg. While in the Canadian city the boys played good ball, but they were unlucky. They lost two games, but couldn't pull down a victory and on their return they find themselves in third place, through the victory of Houghton over Winnipeg last evening.

This afternoon, a home series with Calumet and Houghton is opened, Calumet leading scheduled for five games and Houghton for four. If Duluth can clean the Copper country teams in a majority of the coming games, there is still hope. But they will have to play good ball, as neither team from the eastern end of the circuit is weak. Calumet has been playing great ball against Houghton and there will be some strengthening here. Houghton has several new men coming and by the time they reach Duluth they will be ready for a whirlwind series.

BIG GAME IS SCHEDULED

Courthouse and City Hall Teams Are to Play Ball.

Visitors to the city hall and courthouse during the past few days were struck by the strange air of suppressed excitement, which seems to pervade both places.

There has been a run on rule books of baseball during the past few days and buried under the ledgers, journals, check books, receipt books, license registers and other official impedimenta littering the desks in the two buildings, one may discover small blue books with titles this wise: "How to Play Baseball," "How to Pitch," "How to Bat," "How to Run Bases." Every evening after the hours of labor, the entire forces repair to their respective practice grounds, post their pickets, and there, with nobody to spy upon their movements, they execute plays of such brilliancy and excellence, that were Ted Sullivan on the grounds, both city and county would be looking for new employes.

J. H. Davis happened around to the courthouse this morning. He said he had official business, but he barely escaped with his life. The courthouse gang said he came to spy on them, note their injuries and weaknesses and take a report back to the Cullum Palace on Superior street. There was a rush for him, as soon as he stepped within the building, and only after he had sworn not to mention the word "Baseball" was he allowed to enter and even look upon his enemies.

Tomorrow is the day. If the weather man is kind, official cares will be set aside. Every man, woman and child, who can break away from the city and county buildings, will be themselves to Hunter's Park and there the question of supremacy will be decided on the diamond. Such a game as it will be. Both managers claim their team cannot be surpassed by anything in the major leagues and those who have spied on the secret practice vouch for the truth of the statement.

The courthouse crowd has filed a protest against one Stewart, who is slated to play with the city hall nine. They say he is a rank outsider and they want no added starters in this race. Davis avers with all solemnity that Stewart is a bona fide employe of the city in the capacity of assistant plumbing inspector, whatever that is.

No umpire has yet been chosen. Hank O'Day, Silk O'Laughlin, Bob Emslie and Tim Hurst have all been wired, but they cannot break away. Tom McGraw was suggested but the courthouse refused to stand for him since he is a Chicago cop. There will be a conference tonight on the umpire question, when it is expected a settlement will be reached.

TALK AGAINST REVISION

Of Tariff at Present Time Made by Senator Hopkins.

Oyster Bay, L. I., July 19.—The president had a tariff revision party Wednesday at luncheon. The tariff experts were Senator Hopkins of Illinois, who is strongly set against any revision at present, and H. E. Miles, one of the leaders of a tariff revision organization in Wisconsin, a prominent member of the National Agricultural Implement Makers' association. Senator Hopkins argued long and strenuously against any immediate change of tariff rates. He told the president that the country had reached a condition of revisionable prosperity under the present arrangement and that a change would be decidedly impolitic. Mr. Miles is said to have urged a reduction of tariff in several commodities, the prices of which are now very high.

After the conference Senator Hopkins said: "I have come to the conclusion after the talk that there would be no tariff revision until after the next presidential election. It seems inadvisable to make any change under existing conditions."

The senator was asked if anything had been said as to the possibility of Mr. Roosevelt again being a candidate for the presidency.

"I will say," replied the senator, somewhat evasively, "that I am inclined to think the president will not run again. The West is all afire for Uncle Joe Cannon for the presidency."

HEAVEN AND THE ANGELS MYTHS

Says Professor Youtz of Congregational College of Montreal.

Chicago, July 19.—Heaven, in the traditional conception of Christianity, no longer exists. Nor do the angels who were wont to descend from the painted clouds and carry the "good" to the Holy city.

Heaven has been analyzed by scientists, and found wanting, and the angels probably never were. God's home is only where there is human habitation—where there is life.

This, substantially, is the belief of Prof. Herbert A. Youtz, of the Congregational college of Montreal, Canada. He has written his views in an article entitled "Three Conceptions of God," in the July number of the American Journal of Theology, the official publication of the University of Chicago Divinity School.

Prof. Youtz declares the conception of heaven exists now among the greatest thinkers and scholars only in the paintings of the middle ages—"where the Gods are seated on the clouds." The skies, he says, he is a rank outsider and they want asserts, have been analyzed, and the pictures of heaven, "whence angels descend no longer appeal to the imagination."

"Naturalism," one of his three conceptions of God, has forced divinity students to "relocate the habitation of God," he points out. God does not dwell where the poets and divines have told for so long a time in regions ethertal. Instead he lives among human beings—in human beings—wherever there is life.

"God's habitation is with men."

Prof. Youtz's theory of theology, which is known as the "immanence" theory, also discards the supernatural element in the Bible, including the miearles, attacks the believers in the "supernatural theory," and declares the "natural" theory of the scientists in a large measure atheistic. Prof. Youtz incidentally admits "these are difficult days for the theologian."

He concludes his views as follows:

"And so our changing philosophies are ever conceiving new Heavens and a new earth. We are trying to get better conceptions of God's relationship to us, but of the fact of that relationship our hearts never permit us to doubt. Religion abides, while theologies change.

"The supernaturalistic theory of reality is symbolized by the paintings of the middle ages, where the gods are seated on the clouds, while the earth below is the habitation of men. A scientific age has analyzed the clouds and the traditional conception of a heaven in the skies whence angels descend no longer appeals to the imagination.

"Naturalism has compelled us to relocate the habitation of God. And in this, our best revelation and our best philosophy agree, that, wherever there is life there is God. He is imminent in all his works. His habitation is with men."

Previous to his discussion on the possibility of Heaven, Prof. Youtz declared the present period in theology is one of fermented unrest.

"There is unrest," he writes. "This is a transition period in thought. I am concerned here to point out only one fundamental cause of the ferment. We are outgrowing our old conceptions of God's relationship to His world. Supernaturalism as a philosophy no longer satisfies thinking men, and we are all engaged in achieving a better philosophy and in adjusting ourselves to the new view of the facts.

"Scientific thinkers have discovered a new world, a larger world, and we are trying to find an explanation to fit the facts."

HER GERANIUM HAT.

When Uncle Nat died he left the girls nothing. Although they were his nieces neither of them was mentioned in his will. Their mother was also ignored, and all the fortune went to an unmarried sister.

This was not quite so bad as it looked. It was understood that she would leave the estate to the family on her death. So the girls ought to have realized that it was the part of wisdom to be polite to Aun Amelia, says the New York Sun.

The niece who was Aunt Amelia's namesake was so furious over the matter that she refused to wear mourning after the funeral, except when she called Aunt Amelia, says the New York Sun. That had already done service in honoring several elderly and rather remote relatives.

"I can't see why in the world I should go to the expense of buying new black," Amelia observed, "when he didn't leave me a cent.

"Then I had already bought my spring clothes. If I had got my share of the fortune—the share I though was coming to me—I could have afforded new mourning. But not now."

So Amelia clung to colored clothes and was sombre only when she paid her duty calls on her aunt. One day she had dressed for a motor trip in the park and wanted to look her best. This summer her idea of best was the geranium hat with its red plumes.

She put that hat on and started to walk around to her friend's house, where the car was to meet them. She went sauntering toward Madison avenue, buttoning her gloves and feeling that she really was looking well. Red was her color, and the black and white striped gown contrasted well with the hat.

Suddenly she lifted her eyes. There was Aunt Amelia approaching. It seemed certain that she was going to see Amelia in her gaudy finery. The sight of that geranium colored hat might affect Amelia's fortunes seriously.

Before Aunt Amelia was half a foot nearer her red hatted niece turned about and was facing in the opposite direction. Aunt Amelia plodded slowly behind.

"I must get this red hat off," was the thought that possessed the niece as she fled. "I must get upstairs and get rid of it before she sees."

She was almost running now. That safetly lay in walking straight ahead and not stopping at the home at all never occurred to her. Her plan had been to run up to her room and she thought only of that.

She reached the steps and skipped confidently up. She reached down for her night key, but it was missing. Hopeless of escape now, she rang the bell.

"The servants must be asleep," she thought as she pushed the button. "My. There are Aunt Amelia's footsteps."

Fearing to look behind her, she sidestepped in response to a sudden inspiration and got behind one of the storm doors. It was a close fit and she held her breath as she made herself as flat as possible against the wall.

She heard the rustle of Aunt Amelia's stiff crepe as she walked up the steps. The prisoner behind the door wondered if her breathing had been heard. She slipped down the steps as soon as the door was closed and darted down the street to keep her appointment. So she was not able to hear her aunt saying:

"I though I saw Amelia on the street a few minutes ago. But I was mistaken, for that girl had on a red hat. It could not have been Amelia."

"Of course not," said the loyal sister to whom this observation was made. "It could never have been Amelia in a red hat."

CASE LOOKS PRETTY BAD

Impression Growing Mrs. Chase Was Murdered and Body Concealed.

Hubbard County Authorities Have Offered Reward of $100.

Bemidji, Minn., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—"In the disappearance of Mrs. Emily Chase, at Yola, the authorities of Hubbard county are, I believe, confronted with a cold-blooded murder and hiding of the crime by putting the body away in some secluded, unfrequented spot, or sinking it in some nearby lake."

C. F. Dampier of Akeley, county attorney of Hubbard county, expressed himself in this language in answer to a telephone inquiry as to what the authorities were doing to unravel the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Mrs. Chase two weeks ago.

Mr. Dampier, Daniel Petrie, sheriff of Hubbard county, and Thomas Phinney, deputy sheriff, have returned to Park Rapids from a trip to Yola, which is in the northern part of Hubbard county, about twenty miles distant from any railroad connection.

The authorities caused another hunt to be made at the home of Mrs. Chase and a searching inquiry of the relatives of the missing woman, but found no trace of her.

The sheriff and county attorney have a theory as to her disappearance, and are of the opinion that she has been murdered and her body concealed.

The board of county commissioners of Hubbard county has offered a reward of $100 for the recovery of the body of Mrs. Chase, and County Attorney Dampier has written to Governor Johnson in an endeavor to have him offer a like reward on the part of the state. It is believed that these rewards will act as an incentive to more careful search of the woods and lakes in the vicinity of Mrs. Chase's home.

J. E. Spaulding, a resident of Yola who was in Bemidji yesterday, says that the neighbors at Yola intend to drag every lake and stream and swamp in the vicinity, and he believes that the body will be found before the end of the present week.

CLOSE BIG LAND DEAL

Seventeen Thousand Acres in McHenry County, North Dakota.

Huge Colonization Scheme is to be Carried Out.

Towner, N. D., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—S. W. Wheelox of Towner, and J. B. Street, Jr., and F. M. Barrett of Larimore, have gone to Minneapolis to close up one of the largest land deals consummated in North Dakota in many years and one, that means much for this section. About 17,600 acres are involved. The land which is situated in McHenry county has been sold to Henry M. Nowell of Rochester, Minn., and Lyman Baird of Minneapolis. It has taken the Northwestern Realty company three years to purchase the vast tract of land, the bulk of which was purchased from Russians who have departed for Canada. In the meantime the merchants of Towner have suffered greatly for want of farmers in that locality, as during the past couple of years the land has not been tilled. It is understood that Nowell and Baird are buying the land for a colonization purpose, which will relieve the situation and greatly benefit this section.

NORTH DAKOTA BUTTER.

Neighboring State Showing Up Well in Dairy Product.

La Moure, N. D., July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota butter is showing up well in the monthly scoring contests which are being conducted by the Minnesota Dairy department.

The reports supplied to R. F. Flint of the dairy department of this state, show that Gust Kruempel of the creamery here received a score of 94, tying with four others for first place in the hand-separator class. The result of the contest in July gives Mr. Kruempel first place in that class with a score of 94½.

These contests verify the statement that as good butter can be made in North Dakota as in any other state, providing the cream is delivered to the butter makers in excellent condition.

Mr. Kruempel works constantly in the effort to improve dairy conditions about LaMoure and the result obtained are indicated by the success of the LaMoure creamery, and the excellent quality of the output.

THINK WILD MAN GOPHER BANDIT

Fugitive Shot in Indiana Thought to Have Been Criminal.

Chicago, July 19.—The mystery attached to the identity of the so-called wild man killed in the Indiana swamp Tuesday night has not been entirely cleared up, and the body will be kept in the morgue until persons living in Minnesota, who are supposed to have known him, have been summoned to Gary to view the body.

From evidence presented to the jury one theory was advanced that the supposed Polinski, the name he was known by in West Hammond, was a fugitive from justice and that he had determined to take his own life before surrendering to the authorities. Some believe he had hurried to the sand dunes of Northern Indiana to secret himself, as did the carlearn bandits.

It was disclosed that the supposed Polinski had secured 100 rounds of ammunition, a Winchester and two revolvers by burglary of the store of George Marshall at Pine Ridge station. It was developed also that he had been living in a dugout on the dunes for several days. It was all circumstantial and cumulative evidence that gave rise to the theory of a bad man who preferred death in a man-hunt rather than to surrender to the authorities.

JEFFRIES IN COURT.

Damage Suit for $24,324 Brought by Cigar Store Keeper.

Los Angeles, July 19.—For alleged violation of his contract, James J. Jeffries has been sued for $24,324 by Morris Berkowitz. Charles Williard, Frank Karten and Jack Kipper, all well known in the sporting fraternity in Los Angeles, are co-defendants with Jeffries. It is alleged that Jeffries and Kipper bought out Willard & Karten's saloon at 304 South Spring street and are about to move it to 326 Spring street. Berkowitz has an agreement for a ten-year lease on the space in front of the saloon at $150 a month, which he has been occupying as a cigar store. He claims the new owners agreed to fulfill their predecessors contracts in the new location. The plaintiff claims the stand was worth $300 a month to him and that he is entitled to $24,00 for the ten years.

WANT MORE DIVIDENDS.

Circular to Stockholders of United States Express Company.

New York, July 19.—A circular has been issued to stockholders of the United States Express company by the committee which is conducting a campaign for enlarged dividends, in which it is stated that a very large proportion of the shareholders have signified their wish for an increased return, among them being the larger shareholders of the company. The committee goes on to say:

"In your company the directors own but 10 shares each, which is the amount necessary for them to hold in order to qualify as directors. The larger financial benefits which they receive from the company flow from sources other than dividends, hence their interest in increasing the dividends is feeble. Those interested in receiving a fair return upon the shares are not the directors of the company, but the persons who hold the bulk of the stock, and it is our purpose to respectfully show to the managers that there is a practical unanimity of opinion among the shareholders in favor of a favorable increase of the dividend.

"It is conceded that the company has a substantial surplus over the requirements to carry on its business, and for the last seven years has had net annual earnings of from 12 to 13 per cent. We believe the earnings have been and will be in excess of these figures, but we submit that this is abundant for the purpose of the increase which we asked."

THE BIG DULUTH'S

Great $15 Choice Suit Sale Begins Saturday Morning.

Beginning Saturday morning $15 will give you the choice of any suit of clothes in the Big Duluth Clothing store—and this store does not, as customary with other clothing stores, reserve the staple black and blue suits. It makes no difference to the Big Duluth which you take, for each and every suit in their stock must now be quickly sold, for this store's well known policy is to dispose of all merchandise during the season for which it is purchased and must and will be lived up to, to the letter.

Dyspepsia is our national ailment. Burdock Blood Bitters is the national cure for it. It strengthens stomach membranes, promotes flow of digestive juices, purifies the blood, builds you up.

NEWSPAPER CONFISCATED.

St. Petersburg, July 19.—The newspaper Retch has been confiscated for printing an article from its war correspondent predicting war between Russia and China. He wrote that the relations between the Russian and Chinese in Manchuria were extremely hostile, that China was organizing an army and a navy and improving the roads and railroads, evidently in preparation for war. He added that China would soon be as strong as Japan.

AUTO TRACK FOR KAISER.

Berlin, July 19.—The Kaiser is reported to be building a twenty-three mile automobile track on his estate at Schorfheide. It will be for his private use and he himself is bearing the cost, which is great.

WILL LOSE THE "BOOZE SHIP"

West Duluth Citizens Will Have to Look Elsewhere.

West Duluth will probably lose her "booze boat," and thirsty citizens will have to seek elsewhere for their Sunday supplies.

Capt. J. W. Mann, owner of the steamer Mary Mann, an excursion boat running between West Duluth and Zenith park, was fined $31.72 yesterday by Judge Cutting on a charge of having violated the liquor ordinance. Judge Corcoran, his attorney, asked for a stay of ten days, which was granted.

For several weeks past, since the lid was screwed down tightly upon the city Capt. Mann has been using the Mary Mann as a "booze boat" and serving drinks to thirsty West Duluthians and other citizens who shipped on the boat for a ride on the river for a few hours. He had secured a government license and thought that he was secure.

Last Sunday, however, one of the police officers in plain clothes became conversant with John Forrestal, an ice man, a friend of Capt. Mann, on the bank of the St. Louis river. They talked on various subjects and finally the plain clothes man asked Forrestal if it would be possible for him to obtain a couple of quarts of beer from the skipper of the Mary Mann.

He was assured that they might quench their thirst aboard the steamer and both had several drinks. One quart, however, the officer took with him and this bottle formed part of the most damaging evidence against Capt. Mann in police court yesterday.

At the request of Assistant City Attorney McKeon, Chief Troyer opened the bottle and pronounced it to be beer. Conviction followed.

BAD CHILD WEIGHS 220.

Her Father Says That She is Hard to Handle.

Worcester, Mass., July 19.—Worcester has the champion heavyweight "stubborn child." Judge Utley, in Central district court yesterday, rubbed his eyes and leaned over his desk when Mary M. Davis was called and waddeled to the stand.

Mary weighs 220 pounds and she looks every ounce of it. She said she was 19 years old.

Her father was the complainant and claimed that his little girl refused to stay at home. He stated that she is a difficult child to handle, and he urged the necessity of the court taking a hand. He is unable to spank her.

WAYS THAT MEN PROPOSE.

New York Sun: The Amateur Sociologist said:

"The impassioned declarations of love and the lietup proposals of marriage as made by the lovely young male pieces of work in the novels had always impressed me as being most grotesquely overdrawn. I could not picture the lovely young male pieces of work saying such things to girls who were not insane.

"So I instituted some quiet inquiries among my married friends for the purpose of ascertaining whether any of these idiotic manifestations had happened to them at their mating time. I am giving you the result of these investigations.

"The first man I tackled was the head clerk in a crockery store and he'd been going with the girl for a year and a half when it happened. One Sunday afternoon he took a walk with her.

"'Aggie,' he said to her after they'd been looking at some marked down refrigerators in a furniture store window, 'the old man boosted my pay to thirty a week last night. Guess we ought to be able to scrabble along on thirty a week, hadn't we?'

"'Well, I should say,' was Aggie's offhand reply. 'There are thousands of folks in New York who live mighty comfortably on half of thirty a week, and—'

"And the date of that wedding was immediately arranged.

"Next man, clerk in an insurance office, had been going with her for about eight months. There were two or three others in the field against him, but he was game enough to take a gambler's chance. They were at a show one night and between the first and second acts he leaned over to her and said:

"'Say, Hazel, where do I stand with you, anyhow?'

"'Now, pul-lease, Jim, don't get sentimental,' she replied.

"'But, Hazel,' he persisted, 'I'm getting pretty anxious to find out, you know. I don't know now whether I'm aces or an also ran. You know where you stand with me all right, don't you? Well, wouldn't it only be the fair thing for you to put me wise as to where I—'

"'Oh, I don't know that you have any occasion to worry,' was her reply, and that, of course, was enough for him. The date was fixed a couple of evenings later.

"Third friend of mine whom I tackled on this investigation was a shorthand man in a broker's office, and he'd been calling on her about three times a week, taking her out, too, with considerable regularity, for a period covering about a year. One evening he was sitting on the front steps with her when she said to him:

"'Say, Charlie, guess who ran away and got married last week? Edith Startsomething!'

"'That so?' said he. 'Well, say, Ethel, how good on the run are you?'

"Thus it was fixed.

"My fourth informant was a young lawyer—briefless, at that—who'd been a frequent caller at the home of a wealthy girl for two years. Good looking chap, and the girl was there with the looks, too, in addition to having the coin. One night they formed part of a chaperoned box party at a play. The play was about a family suddenly plunged from wealth to poverty.

"'D'ye know, Kate,' he'd said to her, 'without desiring to appear mean or cruel, I wish something of that sort would happen to you.'

"'What a very friendly wish!' was her reply. 'Why, pray?' she added, although, of course, she understood him perfectly well.

"'Because, then, my dear,' he very quickly made answer, 'I wouldn't feel like such an infernal muff if I asked you to share the little I have with me.'

"'Oh, is that it?' she inquired, gazing tenderly into his eyes. 'Well, you know very well, Ed, that I should never consider you a muff under any circumstances, no matter what you did; and it is mean of you to reproach me for not being poor. I can't help it, can I?'

"This looked good enough to my friend the young lawyer, and it was. They'd decided upon the date before the end of that week.

"Fifth man I asked was another lawyer, and he'd been calling and sending her candy and flowers and taking her out right often for nearly a twelvemonth. One evening they were taking a car ride when they passed a tidy apartment house in course of construction and nearly completed.

"'Saw the plans of those flats a few days ago,' he said to her nonchalantly. 'They're daisies—best arranged I ever saw. Burlap walls and all that. Mighty cheap, at that—only fifty a month for the best of 'em, and there is an elevator, too.'

"'I just love red burlap for the dining room of a flat, don't you?' was her reply.

"That was good enough for him, and he filed his caveat then and there.

"Sixth friend of mine I asked to help me out on this investigation was a gay bachelor of 36 when it happened. He'd been captivated by the good breeding, high character and strong common sense of his tpyewriter girl. Made up his mind that he'd like to marry her. Had it doped out that she liked him pretty well, but wasn't certain about her having him, in spite of his pretty moderate good looks and his considerable business prosperity. So one day he touched the button that summoned her into his private office for a dictation. She appeared promptly, notebook in hand.

"'Er—I didn't call you for a dictation, Miss Rapkeys,' he said to her, rising from his seat and bowing to her most deferentially as he placed a chair for her. 'I want to ask you if you'll marry me.'

"Naturally enough she appeared overwhelmed, but she didn't say anything about it being 'so sudden' or anything of that kind. She respected the man more than liked him. She said yes before leaving his private office, and they're one of the happiest pairs I ever saw.

"I think," concluded the Amateur Sociologist, "that these few random cases which I quote, the results, as I say, of careful investigation along this line, clearly indicate that the dubdubbish junk as to declarations and proposals set down in the fiction books simply does not go. They don't kneel, they don't claw the air, they don't crawl on their stomachs. They just ask them like sensible human beings. They're glad if they get 'em and they take their medicine as a rule like little men if they're turned down."

UP TO THEM.

"A trust conference—any kind of a conference, for that matter—is a good thing," said Governor Sheldon of Nebraska, "if it is conducted fair. To be unfair, to be prejudiced, to be suspicious, is always to judge wrongly. The suspicious man falls into error and makes a fool of himself. There was a very suspicious countryman who went to New York to see the sights. Coming to the Metropolitan Museum, he was amazed to find that the admission to this splendid building cost nothing. He mounted the steps and entered.

"'Your umbrella, sir,' said a uniformed official, extending his hand.

"The countryman perked back his umbrella, laughed scornfully, and turned on his heel.

"'I knowed there was some cheat about it when ye got in free,' he said."

BOARD LETS CONTRACTS

Steele Will Pave Fourth Avenue and Preston Gets Lake.

Oneota Street Owners Seek Injunction Against Their Assessment.

Two of the biggest paving plums of the year were handed out by the board of public works this morning. The two avenues in the center of town, Fourth and Lake, were assigned to the contractors this morning. Hugh Steele for the second time, got the Fourth avenue west job, and if the council approves the contract award Monday, he will now have the job cinched. J. A. Preston took the Lake avenue job.

On Fourth avenue west Steele won out on a low bid for the cedar block paving above First street, and his final figures, $12,692.25, were below the engineer's estimate of $13,050. P. McDonnell was less than $100 higher, and George R. King was only $7 higher than McDonnell. Preston, the fourth bidder, was also under the engineer's estimate.

On Lake avenue J. A. Preston bid $12,662, over $1,000 more than the city engineer figured it. George R. King was second with a bid of $12,721.70. McDonnell bid $12,793, and Steele $12,870.

The board will report the letting of the contracts to the council Monday night. It is thought that both will be approved, though the streets, alleys and sidewalks committee has under consideration a petition from the county commissioners asking for the deferring of the upper block of the Fourth avenue paving.

The first hearing on the assessment for Ramsey street was to have been held this morning and was very effectively tied up by the serving upon the board a summons to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be granted enjoining them from levying any assessment upon certain lots along the line of the improvement.

The action was brought by George L. Raymond, the Nikanis company, Etta M. Merritt, Dnone Wheeler, B. N. Wheeler and Elinor M. Arnold. The notice of injunction proceedings which was served upon the board this morning over the signature of Judge Dibell states that it appears to the court that "unless restrained therefrom the defendants will take steps to irreparably injure the rights of the plaintiffs," and summons them, the board of public works, David Sang, O. G. Olson and Thomas Dillon to appear before the court on Saturday, July 27, 1907, to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be granted restraining them from levying an assessment for the paving of Ramsey and Oneota streets upon divers lots belonging to the plaintiffs. A. E. McManus is attorney for the plaintiffs.

KOREANS DESPAIR

Of Ever Accomplishing Anything Under Japanese Protectorate.

Japs' Desire is to Eradicate Korea as a State.

New York, July 19.—Declaring that the Japanese check over Korea was debauching the Koreans and fast tending to the complete eradication of Korea as a state, Homer B. Hulburt, for many years engaged in educational work in Korea, arrived today from Seoul on a mission from Korea to bring to the attention of the United States government and the people of these conditions which now exist in Korea under the Japanese protectorate. Mr. Hulburt said the sending of the Korean delegates to The Hague, Japan had made a pretext to force the abdication of the emperor and so gain further control of Korea. The Koreans are in despair, Mr. Hulburt said, and the emperor himself feels the hopelessness of the situation.

"Korea is thoroughly outraged," said Mr. Hulburt, "over the injustices which the Japanese are heaping upon her and the Koreans are angered beyond words. Still they feel the dread hopelessness of their extremity. The Koreans look upon the Japanese as savages. They are insulted and debauched but can do nothing. I have seen a Japanese boy rush out into the street and belabor a Korean gentleman with a stick and laugh. The Korean could do nothing but protest to the Japanese which would avail nothing. The Japanese have seized their salt works, driving away the Korean fishermen from their fishing grounds and taken every form of profitable industry in the country for themselves. The Koreans will tell you that the Japanese are striving to drive them from the country that they may occupy it for themselves. Japan wants Korea for herself and while the government at Tokio is declaring that Korea is open for the trade of the world she is seeking by every possible secret act to aid her merchants by creating conditions which will drive every foreign merchant out of the country.

"Japan is debauching the morals of the Koreans by selling them morphine in great quantities."

Mr. Hurlbut said that the accesion of the crown prince to the throne would mean no change for the better in the intolerable incidents.

The crown prince, who now succeeds to the throne, Mr. Hurlburt says, was a perfect prototype of his father, a man of good education, but somewhat lacking in resoluteness and executive ability.

"The treaty between the United States and Korea, which Japan guarantees to preserve, will not stand, and is not standing in the way of Japan's ambition to gain exclusive commercial mastery over Korea. Japan will effect a customs union with Korea, unless she is checked, that will effectively shut out all industrial competition. The aim of Japan today is to drive out American and British trade in Korea. Everyone in Korea knows it and every Englishman and American in Seoul will tell you of Japan's outrages upon the Korean people. Had the protectorate which Japan placed over Korea been attended by honesty of purpose and the formation of beneficient laws Koren would never have made her protest. But these protests seem to fall on deaf ears."

Mr. Hurlburt said that he had made a special trip to The Hague and appeared before the international club where he denied the reports circulated in Seoul that he had instigated the emperor in sending the Korean delegation to the peace court.

SPEARED A CLAM; GOT GOLD WATCH

Park Point Boy Makes Find on Bay Bottom.

Finding a gold watch in the bottom of the bay while digging for clams isn't bad luck.

That is what 14-year-old Bert Webber of 1401 Lake avenue south did yesterday afternoon. He and some companions were rowing slowly along the bay side of the point looking into the water, which is quite clear at this point, for clams. Young Webber saw what he thought was a clam and jabbed at it with his pointed stick. He got it all right, but when he dragged it to the surface he found that he had seen a leather fob, silver mounted, instead of a clam, and still attached to the fob was a gold watch. The whole outfit had evidently been in the water for some time, as the mud had washed around the watch and nearly covered it.

Young Webber is congratulating himself on some of the most fortunate clam digging on record, but if the owner of the timepiece and fob can prove the property, he is ready to turn it over to him.

CLEAN OUT ELEVATORS

Enough Tonnage Available to Take All Grain in Store.

Grain Rate is Slashed as a Result of Strike.

Grain tonnage is going begging in Duluth as a result of the strike on the ore docks. The rate on grain to Buffalo today is nominally 1½ cents, but none of the tonnage offered at this place is being taken. It was only a few days ago that the rate was 2¼ cents, so that the strike has been responsible for a loss of ¾ of a cent within a week.

Even at the present exceedingly low figure there are no charters being made, however, although there is enough tonnage offered to take all the grain in store at the Head of the Lakes.

SHERMAN AND THE BOY.

Youth's Companion: It is not always the great things men do that keep their memory alive. Frequently it is some small act of kindliness, some pleasant speech or manly courtesy, which remains in the minds of those who knew them. So in Illinois there is a young man who thinks of Gen. Sherman not as "Old Tecumseh," the soldier, victor in strenuous campaigns, but as a kindly, roughbearded old gentleman who carried him over miles of road on his lap in order that at the end he might really see his boyish hero, the soldier.

It was in the early '80s. The county in which the boy lived was to dedicate a soldiers' monument on Memorial day. Gen. Sherman and Governor Oglesby were to be the two speakers of the occasion.

From where the boy lived it was six miles to the county seat. He had to walk the distance. But worst of all misfortunes, it rained all the day before, when he should have been working in the garden, and so on Memorial day the boy had to get down on hands and knees and pull weeds under a broiling sun, across row after row of young vegetables, so that he did not get away from home until 1 o'clock.

Only an hour, and six miles to go! He knew it was useless. It would take him two hours, and when he got there he would find everything over and the general gone—and there was no use in anything, anyway. Tears rolled down his cheeks now and then, and he felt like a much-abused boy.

Every little while a buggy or carriage passed him going in his direction, but all of them were full, and there was no one to give him a lift. But at last, when he was certain that he could never get there, a buggy which came up from behind did not pass, but stopped beside him.

"Hello, bub!" said a kindly voice. "Going far?"

The boy looked up through misty eyes. Two gray and quizzical old faces peered at him out of a muddy buggy. Two pleasant old gentlemen were on the seat.

"Y-y-yess, sir—I'm trying to," said the boy.

"Climb in, then," said the man nearest him, and as the boy, not believing his ears, put a foot on the step the man reached out and lifted him in and seated him on his lap.

"Where are you going?" he asked.

"I was a-going to the monument," said the boy, "but I didn't think I would get there. Do you suppose I will? In time to see Gen. Sherman?"

The old man who was driving clucked to the horse, and the other, stroking his beard, said:

"Why—yes, I guess you will. Yes, I reckon he'll get there. Eh, Dick?"

"Why—why, yes, I reckon so," said the other. Then they both chuckled.

"Want to see the general, eh?" said the old man who held him. "Don't care about the governor, eh?"

"No, sor, not so much," said the boy, truthfully. "You see, he lives right here in this state, and he didn't march through Georgia, or have songs about him, or anything."

"Why, no; so he didn't! Did he, Dick?" asked the boy's old gentleman again. This seemed to amuse them very much. They chuckled about it a while, and then the old gentleman who held the boy began to tell him stories about the campaigns Gen. Sherman had fought in and about soldier life, stories some of which were in the history book but most of them were new to the boy. Then the other man told some stories—about Mr. Lincoln.

"Did you know him?" demanded the boy, and to his delight they both did and told more stories about him.

Six miles was a long way to walk, but it was a short way to ride, and it seemed as if they had hardly started when the boy heard a tremendous shouting and cheering, and there was a crowd all lined up along the road cheering.

Cheering whom? He felt a motion back of him and turned and saw his old gentleman take off his hat and smile and bow, and the other old gentleman did the same.

They drove up to the square and set him down, and every one stared at him, and then he saw them mount the platform with the committee.

He had, indeed, arrived in time to "see the general," for it was Gen. Sherman and Governor Oglesby who had brought him.

TO SAVE PENS.

New Orleans Times-Democrat: The millionaire, before filling his inkwell, dropped in two or three old pens and poured the writing fluid upon them.

"Thus," he said, "I practise pen economy, prolonging three or four times the life of all my pens. You see, the corrosive power of the ink, which is immensely strong, vents itself on the old pens kept in the well, and has little or no strength left wherewith to attack the pen I have in use.

"Try this scheme, young man; and you will find that your pens will practically never wear out."

$25 suits now $15. "Fitwell."

Donley Davenport, who was arrested yesterday charged with attempting to pass a raised time check on the Duluth & Northern Minnesota Railway company, was arraigned before Judge Cutting this morning charged with forgery, waived examination, and was bound over to the next session of the grand jury. A Way of Wisdom

By Addie Dunham Huxford.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

"So Dave Albrook has come back again from Colorado as poor as he went—dead broke, I hear. Well, I didn't think he'd make his fortune there, any more than he did in Australia; he isn't the kind that ever gets to the top of the heap."

Farmer Bowden's tone betrays rather more of satisfaction with his own perspicacity than of pity for the "poor devil" of whom he speaks. It is the way of the world, we all know, to "kick a man when he's down."

"He's been unfortunate, 'tis true," Widow Durrell's voice is a shade more compassionate, though she has a profound respect for the opinion of her neighbor and gossip, Farmer Bowden. "They say it's capital he's always lacked to make his plans successful; but he's willing enough to work, so he can't be altogether shiftless."

"He's been a rolling stone; no wonder he's gathered no moss," rejoins the farmer, oracularly. "I suppose he'll be glad to get work at anything now, for awhile, anyway," thoughts of Jimmy Dave Albrook swinging the scythe in his "low meadows" running pleasantly through his practical mind.

"Why, haven't you heard?" in surprise just tinged with satisfaction. "Miss Genie's hired him on her place, to take charge of everything—working foreman, she calls it—you know, she oversees the farm herself. She's got to have someone in Ezra's place, since he's laid up with the rheumatism, and I'm quite sure that if Dave steadies down and sticks to the business, he'll get into a good, permanent position; for I've heard Miss Genie say that she intended to pension old Ezra off as soon as she could get a man in his place."

"So it's Miss Genie Moray that's been giving you so much information about Dave," says the farmer, a little nettled. "Of course, she'll speak a good word for him."

"Of course," rejoins the widow, placidly. "It's Miss Genie's way."

"You're right; it is her way, bless her bright eyes," speaks Farmer Bowden, heartily. "And if that ne'er-do-well Dave doesn't stick to her interests and behave like a man, he's an ungrateful scamp, that's all; for Miss Genie is just the woman to take him by the hand and be the making of him, if there is any man in him, anyway."

"You mean, she might marry him? Well, I believe she would if she cared enough for him, Dave Albrook or any other man, but 'tisn't likely she will care she ain't a silly young girl, you know."

While thus her friends and neighbors gossip kindly about her, Genie Moray goes her way, serenely, fancy-free and independent, being a law unto herself. An only child, the broad lands and fine blooded stock comprising the prosperous dairy farm of which she is the wise and happy mistress, came to her from a careful father.

Nobody knows what bright, kindly memories of the old days when she went to school with blue-eyed Dave, rise up in Genie Moray's heart and move her to give him this good situation on her farm, second in authority only to herself; but she lives on simply in the old ways, neither seeking nor avoiding him, but seeing a good deal of him, naturally, and being unavoidably much in his company, as he makes one of the family now.

Her frequent jaunts about the farm are mostly with him, as a matter of course, but there is a general stare on the first Sunday when he accompanies her and her mother to church, sitting with them in the family pew. But it is done so quietly and simply there is no room for comment, and as for Dave himself, his conduct is simply irreproachable; the more Miss Genie gets to know him, so much the more she likes and trusts him and approves of his present course.

Till one day when he has been six months in her employ, in fact, she has just paid him his second quarter's salary, and he stands before her twisting the bills nervously together, manifestly ill at ease, whereas light-hearted Dave's natural manner is debonair and well poised, without one trace of awkwardness. At last:

"I don't want to take this money, Miss Genie; it isn't quite fair, for I think perhaps—I shall be leaving you—soon."

"Oh, Dave!" Miss Genie's tone is one of surprised remonstrance, with a slight shade of reproof. "You've only been here one-half year, and you are doing so well; are you dissatisfied in any way, or have you something better in view?"

"Neither, but," another embarrassed pause, then he bursts forth in a breathless sort of way: "Miss Genie, are you going to marry Mr. Roberts? Tell me truly, please!"

"Why, Dave!" Miss Genie's face flushes a little, and there is a fine reproach in her voice. "It is not like you to ask such a very singular question."

"I beg your pardon, but still, are you? I must know, because, if you are—"

He says no more then, but the eloquent blood rushes up all over his handsome sun-browned face, crimsoning even the broad white forehead.

"If I am, you will leave me at short notice, I suppose," Miss Genie says at last, quietly, so quietly as to suggest strong emotion strongly repressed. "Well, since you have asked, I will answer—no, I am not going to marry Mr. Roberts—for one thing, he has never asked me." She chooses to ignore the fact that she has several times staved off this gentleman in a way tantamount to a decided rejection, and that it is well known that he is her devoted admirer still. "And if he should ask, I would have to say no. That is all; your position is in no sort of danger. I am still likely to need a foreman, as far as I can see."

She smiles in a bright and friendly way, trying to turn it off so, but he will not let her.

"Oh, Miss Genie, you know I wasn't thinking of that at all, only I heard you were to marry him—and I couldn't stay where I'd have to see that—no I couldn't for I love you, myself. I love you dearly—dearly, Miss Genie, my darling—"

He catches her hand and tries to draw her close, but she swings off from him, throwing back her shoulders and looking up at him fearlessly, with a brave, bright smile, though her lips quiver and her eyes are dim with tears.

"Dave, Dave!" she cries, chidingly. "Not another word like that if you want to be friends. Why, you silly boy, don't you know I'm a year older than you are?"

"I know it, yes; but what of that? It is less than nothing between us two."

His eyes, dark and bright with intense feeling, dwell on hers eagerly. She finds this man not easy to manage, seeing he knows his own mind and means to push the question to an issue.

"To tell you the truth, Dave, I don't want to say 'no' to you, for I do like you very much indeed;" his eyes begin to kindle and his face to glow with pleasure, but with an effort she keeps down a rebellious blush or so, and goes on calmly: "Nor am I quite prepared to say 'yes' to your suit. In fact, you must wait, must give me time. I have known but little of you of late years. The case stands thus: My affections are disengaged, quite so. If, in the course of a year or two, I find that I can love you, and feel assured that your love for me is true and lasting, well, I think I could then be happier with you, perhaps, than living my life alone as I have done. Meanwhile, let everything be as if we had not spoken together of this today. Matters are very well just as they have been. We are not unhappily situated, either of us. I don't want to hear a word on this subject if you accept my terms. Are you willing?"

She holds out a gracious hand to him. He takes it in both his and stands a moment choking down a most miserable feeling of despair that clutches at his throat. Poor Dave! she is not used to women; he does not see that his cause is indeed already won. He feels her words mean only that he has quite failed as yet to touch her heart. Then she smiles upon him. It has the effect of sunshine on a very cloudy day.

So six months more pass, and again, it is summer. Miss Genie walks alone over her thriving home fields, musing as she goes on the events of the past year, and how well her handsome lover is behaving. Surely he is doing all a man can do to prove the sincerity of his devotion. And yet—is she willing to reward him now? No matter, there is plenty of time; she need not decide yet, she is happy as she is. Has she not lover, brother and friend in one?

She climbs the stile into the "far pasture" and goes absently toward the river. A moment or two and a fearful snort and bellowing roar strike terror to her very heart. She faces round and stands still, to see the huge form of the dreaded "yellow bull" bearing swiftly down upon her, his wicked head lowered, and his curly red-gold locks waving in the wind.

Then she loses her head and starts to run in the wrong direction. That moment some one's strong arm clasps her, she is guided to the nearest fence and thrown bodily over it, just in time to save her from the furious charge the angry bull makes.

Dave Albrook springs over after her as quickly as may be, but not unhurt.

He staggers to her and stoops to lift her up, but his strength fails, he sinks down beside her the blood pouring from a gaping wound in his side.

"I've always been willing to die for you Miss Genie darling," she hears him murmur. "I've often wished I could, of late. Don't cry, dear;" as she, kneeling beside him, rains bitter tears on the death-white face she lifts to her bosom. "I'd truly rather have it so—like this—than live on as we were. I love—you so," and laying his lips against he tear-wet face, he faints dead away.

Then follow long, sad days when Miss Genie, with awakened heart, fears she must lose him just when life seems sweetest, but health and happiness prevail in his favor. She "heals him of his grievous wound," and in early autumn there is a quiet wedding that brings joy to two loving hearts that care not what "Mrs. Grundy" may say, and afterwards everything goes on just as before—it is Miss Genie's way and time only proves its wisdom.

WHAT RETAIL MARKETS OFFER

Peaches, 30 cents a basket.
Pears, 30 cents a basket.
Apples, 30 cents a basket.
Tomatoes, 50 cents a basket.
Plums, 60 cents a basket.
Watermelons, 45 cents each.
Peas, 4 quarts for 25 cents.
Lobsters, 35 cents a pound.
Shrimps, 30 cents a pound.
Cropies, 15 cents a pound.

The peaches in the market are taking on the luscious pink checked flush of ripe deliciousness that makes the story of Johnny Jones and his sister, Sue, seem a fabric of a too vivid imagination. That any peach could cause the erection of two tombstones seems perfectly impossible when one looks at the ripe and lovely samples of good peaches, which are in the market. They sell for 30 cents a dozen.

Watermelons are good and the vegetable market teems with so many and such good things that it is a difficult question to choose between all the very good things offered. The Sunday marketing should not be a difficult nor arduous thing.

NEW TURN IN AGENTS' CASE

Sheriff Ordered to Produce Men Before Federal Judge.

Asheville, N. C., July 19.—The fight in the railroad cases was again shifted to Asheville today when Judge Pritchard signed writs of habeas corpus upon Sheriff Hunter, directing that he produce before him the persons of District Passenger Agent Wood and Ticket Agent Wilson, of the Southern railway, charged with disregarding the new passenger rate law. The hearing on the writ was scheduled for 2:30 o'clock. Messrs. Wood and Wilson, under sentence of thirty days on the chain gang, were required to give nominal bonds.

One interesting development was the serving of subpoenas on Police Justice Reynolds, who passed sentence upon Wood and Wilson, together with several others, and they will be asked before the federal court to tell what they know about the charge that the indictments against the ticket agents here were planned and issued from the police of a local newspaper and that witnesses against the railroad men were sought rather than voluntary.

FREE LUNCH ORDINANCE IS PASSED IN ST. PAUL.

St. Paul, July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The assembly last evening by unanimous vote passed the ordinance prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in any places where lunch is served free or for less than the prevailing market price. The ordinance is designed to do away with the free lunch feature of the St. Paul saloons and was introduced at the request of the Retail Liquor Dealers' association. The same ordinance was passed by the aldermen last Tuesday night, and now only requires the mayor's signature to become effective.

Vacation Time.

Don't start on your trip without a two-piece outing suit. The "Fitwell" is selling the choice of their immense stock for $10.

"GOOD OLD SHERIDAN."

Tit-Bits: A popular temperance lecturer—an Irishman—was giving a lecture in a certain small village on the joys of abstinence. His method of sending home his points was to illustrate each statement with an anecdote; and, as he could generally keep his audience amused, he usually made excellent headway on behalf of his cause.

At this particular meeting, however, over which the local vicar was presiding, he could not rouse the slightest smile or sign of interest in the bucolic countenances before him. Anecdote after anecdote only served to make his audience more lethargic than at the beginning.

Finall he began: "Now, you must not think that the generations before this were any better than we are in respect of alcoholism. In the days of the regent it was not only the custom, but even the fashion, for the bucks and wits of the period to get drunk every night; and so to illustrate this point, I'll just tell you a tale about Sheridan. (Sensation.) Now, Sheridan was one night coming home as drunk as a lord. (More sensation and a stray giggle. 'Fetch 'em,' said the lecturer to himself.) Yes, Sheridan—our good old Sheridan! (A roar of laughter; the lecturer brightened up.) He was kicking on his back in the street." (Shrieks and roars of laughter.)

The anecdote of Sheridan lying in the gutter waiting while the houses, whirled round for his own to arive was related. The effect was tremendous, the lecturer could hardly be heard for the yells of laughter, and so delighted was he with the result of his anecdote that he failed to notice the chairman was plucking his sleeve to attract his attention At last, a final tug caused him to turn round. He saw the vicar with bulging eyes, purple in the face.

"Well sir, what is it?" said the delighted lecturer.

"My name is Sheridan; I am the only Sheridan these people have ever heard of," was the disconcerting reply.

THE EVENING STORY.

A Way of Wisdom

By Addie Dunham Huxford.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

"So Dave Albrook has come back again from Colorado as poor as he went—dead broke, I hear. Well, I didn't think he'd make his fortune there, any more than he did in Australia; he isn't the kind that ever gets to the top of the heap."

Farmer Bowden's tone betrays rather more of satisfaction with his own perspicacity than of pity for the "poor devil" of whom he speaks. It is the way of the world, we all know, to "kick a man when he's down."

"He's been unfortunate, 'tis true," Widow Durrell's voice is a shade more compassionate, though she has a profound respect for the opinion of her neighbor and gossip, Farmer Bowden. "They say it's capital he's always lacked to make his plans successful, but he's willing enough to work, so he can't be altogether shiftless."

"He's been a rolling stone; no wonder he's gathered no moss," rejoins the farmer, oracularly. "I suppose he'll be glad to get work at anything now, for awhile, anyway," thoughts of stewy Dave Albrook swinging the scythe in his "low meadows" running pleasantly through his practical mind.

"Why, haven't you heard?" in surprise just tinged with satisfaction. "Miss Genie's hired him on her place, to take charge of everything—working foreman, she calls it—you know, she oversees the farm herself. She's got to have someone in Ezra's place, since he's laid up with the rheumatism, and I'm quite sure that if Dave steadies down and sticks to the business, he'll get into a good, permanent position; for I've heard Miss Genie say that she intended to pension old Ezra off as soon as she could get a man in his place."

"So it's Miss Genie Moray that's been giving you so much information about Dave," says the farmer, a little nettled. "Of course, she'll speak a good word for him."

"Of course," rejoins the widow, placidly. "It's Miss Genie's way."

"You're right, it is," in her way, bless her bright eyes," speaks Farmer Bowden, heartily. "And if that ne'er-do-well Dave doesn't stick to her interests and behave like a man, he's an ungrateful scamp, that's all; for Miss Genie is just the woman to take him by the hand and be the making of him, if there is any man in him, anyway."

"You mean, she might marry him? Well, I believe she would if she cared enough for him, Dave Albrook or any other man, but 'tisn't likely she will care—she ain't a silly young girl, you know.

While thus her friends and neighbors gossip kindly about her, Genie Moray goes her way, serenely, fancy-free and ingenuous, being a law unto herself. An independent, being a law unto herself. An only child, the broad lands and fine blooded stock comprising the prosperous dairy farm of which she is the wise and happy mistress, came to her from a careful father.

Nobody knows what bright, kindly memories of the old days when she went to school with blue-eyed Dave, rise up in Genie Moray's heart and move her to give him this good situation on her farm, second in authority only to herself; but she lives on simply in the old ways, neither seeking nor avoiding him, but seeing a good deal of him, naturally, and being unavoidably much in his company, as he makes one of the family now.

Her frequent jaunts about the farm are mostly with him, as a matter of course, but there is a general stare on the first Sunday when he accompanies her and her mother to church, sitting with them in the family pew. But it is done so quietly and simply there is no room for comment, and as for Dave himself, his conduct is simply irreproachable; the more Miss Genie gets to know him, so much the more she likes and trusts him and approves of his present course.

Till one day when he has been six months in her employ, in fact, she has raised him his second quarter's salary and he stands before her, twisting the bills nervously together manifestly ill at ease, whereas light-hearted Dave's natural manner is debonair and well poised, without one trace of awkwardness. At last:

"I don't want to take this money, Miss Genie; it isn't quite fair, for I think perhaps—I shall be leaving you—soon."

"Oh, Dave!" Miss Genie's tone is one of surprised remonstrance, with a slight shade of reproof. "You've only been here one-half year, and you are doing so well; are you dissatisfied in any way, or have you something better in view?"

"Neither, but," another embarrassed pause, then he bursts forth in a breathless sort of way: "Miss Genie, are you going to marry Mr. Roberts? Tell me truly, please!"

"Why, Dave!" Miss Genie's face flushes a little, and there is a fine reproach in her voice. "It is not like you to ask such a very singular question."

"I beg your pardon, but still, are you? I must know, because, if you are—"

He says no more then, but the eloquent blood rushes up all over his handsome sun-browned face, crimsoning even the broad white forehead.

"If I am, you will leave me at short notice, I suppose," Miss Genie says at last, quietly, so quietly as to suggest some emotion strongly repressed. "Well, Dave, since you have asked, I will answer—no, I am not going to marry Mr. Roberts—for one thing, he has never asked me." She chooses to ignore the fact that she has several times stayed off this gentleman in a way tantamount to a decided rejection, and that it is well known that he is her devoted admirer still. "And if he should ask, I would have to say no, that is all; your position is in no sort of danger. I am still likely to need a foreman, as far as I can see."

She smiles in a bright and friendly way, trying to turn it off so, but he will not let her.

"Oh, Miss Genie, you know I wasn't thinking of that at all, only I heard you were to marry him—and I couldn't stay where I'd have to see that—no I couldn't for I love you myself. I love you dearly—dearly, Miss Genie, my darling—"

He catches her hand and tries to draw her close, but she swings off from him, throwing back her shoulders and looking up at him fearlessly, with a brave, bright smile, though her lips quiver and her eyes are dim with tears.

"Dave, Dave!" she cries, chidingly. "Not another word like that if you want to be friends. Why, you silly boy, don't you know I'm a year older than you are?"

"I know it, yes; but what of that? It is less than nothing between us two."

His eyes, dark and bright with intense feeling, dwell on hers eagerly. She finds this man not easy to manage, seeing he knows his own mind and means to push the question to an issue.

"To tell you the truth, Dave, I don't want to say 'no' to you, for I do like you very much indeed," his eyes begin to kindle and his face to glow with pleasure, but with an effort she keeps down a rebellious blush or so, and goes on calmly: "Nor am I quite prepared to say 'yes' to your suit. In fact, you must wait, must give me time. I have known but little of you of late years. The case stands thus: My affections are disengaged, quite so. If, in the course of a year or two, I find that I can love you, and feel assured that your love for me is true and lasting, well, I think I could then be happier with you, perhaps, than living my life alone as I have done. Meanwhile, let everything be as if, we had not spoken together of this today. Matters are very well just as they have been. We are not unhappily situated, either of us. I don't want to hear a word on this subject if you accept my terms. Are you willing?"

She holds out a gracious hand to him. He takes it in both his and stands a moment choking down a most miserable feeling of despair that clutches at his throat. Poor Dave! he is not used to women; he does not see that his cause is indeed already won. He feels her words mean only that he has quite failed as yet to touch her heart. Then she smiles upon him. It has the effect of sunshine on a very cloudy day.

So six months more pass, and again, it is summer, Miss Genie walks alone over her thriving home fields, musing as she goes on the events of the past year, and how well her handsome lover is behaving. Surely he is doing all a man can do to prove the sincerity of his devotion. And yet—is she willing to reward him now? No matter, there is plenty of time; she need not decide yet, she is happy as she is. Has she not lover, brother and friend in one?

She climbs the stile into the "far pasture" and goes absently toward the river. A moment or two and a fearful snort and bellowing roar strike terror to her very heart. She faces round and stands still, to see the huge form of the dreaded "yellow bull" bearing swiftly down upon her, his polled head lowered, and his curly red-gold locks waving in the wind.

Then she loses her head and starts to run in the wrong direction. That moment some one's strong arm clasps her, she is guided to the nearest fence and thrown bodily over it, just in time to save her from the furious charge the angry bull makes.

Dave Albrook springs over after her as quickly as may be, but not unhurt.

He staggers to her and stoops to lift her up, but his strength fails, he sinks down beside her, the blood pouring from a gaping wound in his side.

"I've always been willing to die for you Miss Genie darling," she hears him murmur. "I've often wished I could, of late. Don't cry, dear," as she, kneeling beside him, rains bitter tears on the death-white face she lifts to her bosom. "I'd truly rather have it so—like this—than live on as we were. I love—you so," and laying his lips against he tearwet face, he faints dead away.

Then follow long, sad days when Miss Genie, with awakened heart, fears she must lose him just when life seems sweetest, but health and happiness prevail in his favor. She "heals him of his grievous wound," and in early autumn there is a quiet wedding that brings joy to two loving hearts that care not what "Mrs. Grundy" may say, and afterwards everything goes on just as before—it is Miss Genie's way and time only proves its wisdom.

NEW TURN IN AGENTS' CASE

Sheriff Ordered to Produce Men Before Federal Judge.

Asheville, N. C., July 19.—The fight in the railroad cases was again shifted to Asheville today when Judge Pritchard signed writs of habeas corpus upon Sheriff Hunter, directing that he produce before him the persons of District Passenger Agent Wood and Ticket Agent Wilson, of the Southern railway, charged with disregarding the new passenger rate law. The hearing on the writ was scheduled for 2:30 o'clock. Messrs. Wood and Wilson, under sentence of thirty days on the chain gang, were required to give nominal bonds.

One interesting development was the serving of subpoenas on Police Justice Reynolds, who passed sentence upon Wood and Wilson, together with several others, and they will be asked before the federal court to tell what they know about the charge that the indictments against the ticket agents here were planned and issued from the police of a local newspaper and that witnesses against the railroad men were sought rather than voluntary.

FREE LUNCH ORDINANCE IS PASSED IN ST. PAUL.

St. Paul, July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The assembly last evening by unanimous vote passed the ordinance prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in any places where lunch is served free or for less than the prevailing market price. The ordinance is designed to do away with the free lunch feature of the St. Paul saloons and was introduced at the request of the Retail Liquor Dealers' association. The same ordinance was passed by the aldermen last Tuesday night, and now only requires the mayor's signature to become effective.

Vacation Time.

"GOOD OLD SHERIDAN."

Tit-Bits: A popular temperance lecturer—an Irishman—was giving a lecture in a certain small village on the joys of abstinence. His method of sending home his points was to illustrate each statement with an anecdote; and, as he could generally keep his audience amused, he usually made excellent headway on behalf of his cause.

At this particular meeting, however, over which the local vicar was presiding, he could not rouse the slightest smile or sign of interest in the bucolic countenances before him. Anecdote after anecdote only served to make his audience more lethargic than at the beginning.

Finally he began: "Now, you must not think that the generations before this were any better than we are in respect of alcoholism. In the days of the regent it was not only the custom, but even the fashion, for the bucks and wits of the period to get drunk every night; and so to illustrate this point, I'll just tell you a tale about Sheridan. (Sensation.) Now, Sheridan was one night coming home as drunk as a lord. (More sensation and a stray giggle. 'Fetch 'em,' said the lecturer to himself.) Yes, Sheridan—our good old Sheridan! (A roar of laughter; the lecturer brightened up.) He was kicking on his back in the street." (Shrieks and roars of laughter.)

The anecdote of Sheridan lying in the gutter waiting while the houses, whirled round for his own to arive was related. The effect was tremendous, the lecturer could hardly be heard for the yells of laughter, and so delighted was he with the result of his anecdote that he failed to notice the chairman was plucking his sleeve to attract his attention. At last, a final rug caused him to turn round. He saw the vicar with bulging eyes, purple in the face.

"Well sir, what is it?" said the delighted lecturer.

"My name is Sheridan; I am the only Sheridan these people have ever heard of," was the disconcerting reply.

SPECIAL SESSION OF LEGISLATURE

Will be Considered by Governor in Conference With Young.

St. Paul, July 19.—(Special to The Herald.) — Governor Johnson announced that he will have a conference with Attorney General Young in a few days regarding the advisability of calling a special session of the legislature.

The matter involved in the commodity freight and 2-cent passenger fare injunction suits and the possibility of the state being denied the right to regulate railroads and corporations. A special session, it is claimed, might have a tendency to avert the threatened calamity.

Governor Johnson returned today from his vacation at Frontenac, and the special talk was the first thing put up to him. All he professed to know was what he had seen in the papers. He would first have a conference with Mr. Young, he said, and after that he would know better what to do. Governor Johnson said nothing to indicate that he thought the matter an urgent one, requiring anything drastic upon the part of the state.

HEAVY VOTE IS EXPECTED

The Polls Will be Open From 6 A. M. to 7 P. M.

An exceptionally heavy vote should be polled at the school election tomorrow.

The polls will be open from 6 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock in the evening, to give every person an opportunity to vote, and the big list of candidates will doubtless result in bringing more than the usual number of voters to the polls.

No registration is required.

There are three vacancies to be filled, and the candidates are as follows: J. L. Washburn, J. J. Moe, L. A. Barnes, David Graham, C. W. F. Hegg and Samuel Nixon.

Few of the men are actively campaigning themselves, leaving this to their friends. The supporters of Mr. Washburn are especially active, since they secured his consent to run again, and they are determined that the board shall not lose his services through the neglect of the voters to get to the polls.

It pays to advertise in The Herald. Ask Panton & White.

WILL PRESENT TROPHIES.

Winners in Boat Club Regatta to Receive Awards.

The regular weekly dance will be given at the main club house of the Duluth Boat club tomorrow evening, when the Kelley-Killorin medals and the club eight-oar cup will be presented to the winners of the club regatta July 6. F. E. Church, Hans Haroldson, A. R. Skelton and Elmer Whyte are the oarsmen to receive the medals and the cup will be presented to the senior eight-oared crew.

Next Tuesday evening there will be an excursion of inspection to the new branch boat house at Spirit Lake. The boat will leave the Fifth avenue dock at 7:15. There will be music, dancing and refreshments at the club house and it is expected a large number of members will take the opportunity to visit the new club house.

RAILROAD TAX VALID

Four Per Cent Gross Earnings Law is Constitutional.

So Decides Supreme Court in D. & N. M. Railroad Case.

St. Paul, July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 4 per cent railroad gross earnings tax law is constitutional and valid, declares the supreme court in a decision handed down today.

By this ruling the findings of the Ramsey county district court in the cases of the Duluth & Northern Minnesota Railway company, and the Minnesota & Northern Wisconsin Railway company, which contested the law, are affirmed and they must pay the tax demanded. The appeal was on the overruling of the railroads demurrer to the complaint filed by the state.

These two companies claimed exemption under the law of 1873, which fixed the tax at 1 per cent for the first year and 2 per cent for the year following. This they were paying when the new law went into effect, and the point made by them was that the new law only applied to those roads paying 3 per cent at the time.

There are still two other railroads contesting the new law—the Great Northern and the Great Western—but the points raised by them are entirely different and the decision of today does not apply. These roads claim exemption under the territorial charter held by them, which fixed the rate at 3 per cent.

The court ordered a reversal of the Ramsey county district court's findings in the case of Thomas F. Floody, plaintiff, respondent, vs. the Great Northern, defendant, respondent, and the Omaha road, appellant. Error and misconduct are assigned as the reasons.

Floody was injured at the Union depot and sued for $15,000. The Great Northern was released from the case, and the sum of $10,000 awarded the plaintiff by the jury against the Omaha company. A feature of the case was the inquisitiveness of a juror who visited the scene of the accident and acquainted himself with the real facts. Because of this fact and certain misleading instructions by the court, the supreme court orders a reversal and a new trial.

The Minnesota insurance laws prohibiting the sale of endowment policies by fraternal benficiary associations were upheld today when the supreme court affirmed the findings of the Ramsey county district court in the case of the National Protective legion, appellants, vs. T. D. O'Brien, insurance commissioner, respondent. Mr. O'Brien had denied the association a continuance of its license to operate in the state, and it brought suit to restrain him from interfering.

"Title to lands granted to the state of Minnesota for the use of its schools by the United States cannot be acquired by adverse possession against the state."

With this brief statement the supreme court today ordered a reversal and a new trial in the case of Thomas Murtaugh, appellant vs. the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company, respondent. The case comes from Dakota county.

The land involved is a strip over which runs the railroads right-of-way, near Hastings and the decision involving its ownership is of wide interest Murtaugh was given title to the ground in question by the state, subject to adverse possession by the railroad, but the supreme court holds there can be no adverse possession of state school lands. Murtaugh lost in the lower court, but a reversal is made and a new trial ordered.

The value of the latter is not yet known.

ST. PAUL MAN KILLED BY TRAIN AT FRAZEE.

St. Paul, July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles McKissick, 730 Dayton avenue, was struck by a Northern Pacific train at Frazee, Minn., early today and instantly killed.

He was a member of the firm of McKissick Brothers, livestock dealers of South St. Paul, and was at Frazee on business. He went to the depot at 5 o'clock this morning to catch the west bound flyer, and while crossing the track at the station was struck by the eastbound flyer, the approach of which he did not notice. He was knocked fifty feet and was dead when picked up.

WHY HE QUIT.

Chicago News: "You Jim!" called the man with the hoe to the young fellow with the shambling gait, who was making for the street exit, putting on his coat as he went.

The young man stopped hesitatingly and turned about.

"What you doin' with your coat on? Where you goin'?"

"I've quit the job," replied the young man.

"Come here and tell me why you quit," said the man with the hoe. "What's the trouble with you? You ain't been on three days."

"Mac's been raggin' me again," said the young man. "He's picked on me right from the first an' I told him jest now I wouldn't stand for it. I'm through and that's all there is about it."

"Rats!" said the man with the hoe. "You don't want to quit every time the boss gives you a lick with the rough side of his tongue. If you do that you'll work just about one day out o' the week an' put in the rest huntin' another job. Here, I'll go talk to Mac. Come along o' me and we'll fix it up."

The young man shook his head. "No," he said, "I told him I wouldn't stand for it, an' I won't. I don't take everything. I don't have to. I know when a feller don't treat me right."

"See here," said the man with the hoe. "Mac's bark is worse than his bite. He don't mean half o' what he says. There ain't a man on the job he ain't got after some time. What do you think bosses are for, anyway, if they can't talk a little? They've gotter do it to earn their pay. You're too sensitive. Any little thing puts you out."

"Oh, I guess not," said the young man. He told me I wasn't worth my salt an' that I moved around like I was goin' to sleep. He said I was so slow that I made a snail look like it was exceedin' the speed limit."

"What of it?" said the man with the hoe. "You don't think he's fool enough to pay you wages if he don't think you earn 'em, do you? If you do you're fooled. Mac ain't that kind of a man. He wants you to move a little quicker, that's all. The more work he can get out of us the better he'll satisfy the boss. That's all there is to it. Humor him, my son, humor him. Step around lively; it won't do you no harm. I tell you you've got to get your hide toughened up. Jest laugh an' let it go at that—only don't let Mac see you laughin'. You'll get along all right as soon's you realize that the bosses ain't got time to be polite."

"He called me a knock-kneed loafer," said the young man with a highly injured air.

"Your knees do kind o' interfere a little," said the man with the hoe. "I don't say he ought to have mentioned it, 'cause it ain't your fault. You can't help the way you look or the way your knees bend in, and I don't blame you for feelin' a little sore. But you don't want to quit on that account."

"That's not all he said to me by a good deal," muttered the young man starting toward the door again.

"No use o' your bein' too thin-skinned. You'll prob'ly have a darned sight worse things than that said about you before you're as old as I am. You've got to get used to it. Here, don't go. Come on and we'll see Mac about it."

"He cussed me, too," said the young man.

"What does that amount to?" said the man with the hoe. "Cussin' don't break no bones. Don't take no notice of it. Jest go on as if he was readin' out loud an' pay no 'tention to him. I'd let him cuss a blue streak if he wanted to. He don't hurt nobody but himself. But it don't mean anythin'. A few little pet names, that's all. You wait till he boots you off the place afore you get mad. He'd do it quick enough if he didn't like you. Then you'd have some cause to get sore about."

"He done it," said the young man. "By gol! That's what he done."

"Kicked you?"

"Sure, the big slob!"

The man with the hoe rubbed his bristly chin with his lime-crusted hand. "If that's the case," he said, thoughtfully, "I don't know but what you done right to quit. You don't want to be too sensitive, but it looks to me as if you've gotter draw the line somewhere."

INDIAN NAMES IN OKLAHOMA.

The cowboys, plainsmen and early settlers of Oklahoma an dthe Indian Territory were not possessed of a highly developed poetic sense. Some of the names they bestowed upon settlements and localities were more forcible than elegant, and were inspired by some incident of the moment or by a desire to perpetuate the name of an individual. In spite of this, says the Kansas City Star, however, many of the early white settlements received Indian names that delight the ear and are eminently suited to the locality and the country.

As samples of the titles given to some Indian Territory waterways there may be mentioned Deep Creek, Five Mile Creek, Hell Roaring River, Mud, Oil and Polecat creeks. These are scarcely to be preferred to a couple with Indian names —Hiayona and We-Wo-ka. Some of the white man's names for towns mentioned are Bob, Grit, Amos, Bailey, Paine, Briartown, Owl, Fishertown, Beef Creek, and Jimtown. These may be compared with some Indian names bestowed on other localities—Al-lu-we, Checotah Lapita, Muskogee, Nowata, Okmulgee, Sequoyah, Tahlequah, Wewoka, Sonomis, Ochelata, Tlawah and Wetunka.

Oklahoma is likewise afflicted with many rough and ready names that may have seeemd highly appropriate to the pioneer but hardly answer the purpose as permanent titles for communities that may some time become important cities. Archibald, Fry, Monk, Nail, Pawpaw and Kelleyville are a few. On the other hand, there are such Indian names as Ataka, Kiamichi, Tologa, Waukomis, Waurika, Waynoka, Tonkawa and Ogeechee.

WOMAN'S SENSE OF HONOR.

Pall Mall Magazine: A well known American warder said to me: "I have been in prisons for men and in prisons for women. Discipline in the former is child's play compared with the latter. As soon as a man realizes there is no use in resisting he gives in. But the women, even when we put them in straitjackets, always manage to extricate at least one finger and to agitate that in a rebellious manner!"

In the matter of conduct toward husbands and consideration due to the "better half" there is an especial code of honor. It has the stability that sanction by women of all countries gives it, but it does not resemble any code that a man would observe toward another man, nor which a woman would employ toward any human—except her husband. This code includes the right to search pockets, consult notebooks, open letters, read those already opened. It includes the right to confound household and personal accounts, to use on self the money intended by the master of the house for paying bills. This system is not frequently practised, perhaps, and less frequently admitted, no doubt, yet we remember one newly married woman who announced as a little triumph, "When I buy for myself something I don't like I just sell it to the house!"

The peculiar indulgence which the conjugal state seems to call for as regards the weaker sex in matters of honor more or less delicate was thus strikingly summarized by a philanthropist accustomed to all sorts and conditions of people. Among the poor whom she visited there was a woman who in a fit of rage or jealousy had killed a man. In relating to me the case the philanthropist concluded sadly, "Yes, she killed him, and he wasn't even her husband!"

IN REAL LIFE.

A Situation That Juniper Jack the Jaybird Never Encountered.

Little Tommy Topflat sat in the room back of the flat kitchen, reading, the other Saturday afternoon. He was all drawn together and bunched into a knot, says the New York Sun. His eyes stuck out and all of his hair seemed to be standing up in cowlicks. This is what he read:

Juniper Jack the Jaybird threw the beautiful but hapless maiden across the pommel of his saddle, and putting the spurs deep into the glossy, heaving sides of his handsome steed, was away like the wind, the arrows of the snarling savages whizzing past his ears and the shelly pink ears of his beautiful charge with a weird whistling sound.

"Never fear, thou fairest of thy sex," said Juniper Jack to the tender flower slung across this saddle pommel. "I shall protect thee in the face of a thousand deaths!"

The lovely young creature gave a little sigh as she glanced around at the dark shadows of the woods and saw far in the rear the bounding figures of the merciless savages.

"Who art thou, then?" she inquired in a weak voice, "that thou speakest so lightly of the dangers encompassing all who must live so near the camps of the pitiless red men of the forest?"

The mighty scout pulled off his sombrero so that its silver bells tinkled musically in the silence, unbroken save by the tread of the steed's feet, and his long, glossy, curling hair fell to his shoulders and his noble features wore an expression of deprecation mingled with amusement.

"Is it possible, fairest flower of the forest glades," he asked her in a rich, deep tone that flowed out like organ music, "that thou knowest me not?"

When she made no reply, only glancing up at him shyly, with poorly concealed admiration, he whispered into her ear:

"Know, then, that I am Juniper Jack the Jaybird!"

"Merciful heavens, how glad I am!" exclaimed the glorious young creature, and then she swooned with sheer delight and gratitude.

The first thing she said when she came to was:

"You, Tommy, go to the grocery and get me a bar of kitchen soap," calmly commanded little Tommy's mother, appearing at the kitchen door.

Tommy put the adventures of Juniper Jack the Jaybird away in his jacket with a glance of extreme resentment at his mother, but he knew that what she said came pretty near being meant, and he started out on the errand with the feeling that so commonplace a life as his, a life so ingloriously tangled up with bars of kitchen soap and such like, was hardly worth the living.

When he returned with the bar of kitchen soap he resumed his chair in the spare rear room and took up his literature and read as follows:

After riding some seventy-five miles through the gloomy, almost impenetrable forest in the course of a little less than three hours Juniper Jack the Jaybird pulled up his still fresh horse and gently lifted the lovely burden on his saddle pommel to the ground. As he did so the report of a rifle rang out sharp and clear not 200 yards away and the noble animal that had borne Juniper Jack through so many dangers threw up his head, gave a little whinny of distress and slowly tottered over on his side.

When Juniper Jack saw that his magnificent Arabian steed, his friend and companion of so many years, had been struck by the mysterious bullet his eyes dilated and his breath came quickly through his clear cut nostrils. Raising one hand to heaven so as to make his vow of vengeance the more impressive and binding, he said in tones that rang out like steel on steel through the forest silence:

"Listen to this vow of Juniper Jack, just heaven, and—"

"Tommy, I forgot to tell you to get me a quarter of a peck of onions when you went for the soap," said little Tommy's mother, again appearing at the kitchen door. "Run quick and get the onions. I'm making a stew for dinner and need them right away. Skip!"

Again the expression of profound resentment crossed little Tommy's shining countenance, but he went after the onions all the same, vowing that if he ever got to be a man—which he couldn't help but regard as pretty much of a cinch—all of the soap and onions and things that anybody would ever be able to send him after would be so diminutive in size as to fit easily in a corner of the sender's eye.

When he returned with the onions and deposited the same on the kitchen table with sundry and divers evidences of distaste and dislike for a fate which compelled him to handle, owing to circumstances over which he had no control, such gross articles of human food, he resumed his literary studies in the spare room thus:

Just as Juniper Jack, the Jaybird, had thrown the last shovelful of earth over the body of his faithful equine friend another rifle shot rang out.

"Hist! 'Tis evident that we are pursued in force" whispered Juniper Jack to the frightened young maiden who sat on a rock a little distance away.

The beautiful young creature immediately began to wring her hands in anguish.

"But how, oh, how are we to escape the fiends?" she moaned, looking around wildly. "Easily enough!" exclaimed Juniper Jack, fixing his eagle glance upon an opening in the brush about ten yards to his right, where the antlers of a giant deer were visible.

The monarch of the herd had been led by curiosity to peer through the opening in the brush at the hero and heroine of this story. With a sudden spring Juniper Jack was upon the great deer's back and with one hand as the startled deer rushed onward he reached over and picked up the beautiful young woman, whose safety, nay, whose life, depended upon his quickness of thought and action, and as he deposited her upon the deer's back behind him he said:

"Tommy, you toddle into your room and take off those pants now. They need a couple of patches at the back," said little Tommy's mother, once more appearing at the kitchen door, with her sewing basket in her hand.

Little Tommy shambled to his tiny room, his little fists doubled up with rage that consumed him.

"I jes' wonder what Juniper Jack th' Jaybird 'd say," he said to himself through his clenched teeth, "if his maw 'd ask him to go out after soad, an' onions, an' make him take off his pants t' git patches put on 'em! I jes wonder."

Thus did Tommy Topflat lose out in his first fight for the ideal against the actual.

ORIGIN OF THE CLOWN.

He Has Existed in Almost Every Known Stage of History.

Whether the founders of the Clown club ultimately succeed in their effort to restore the old-time clown in all his glory, it is certain that by banding themselves together and thereby calling attention to the almost total extinction of their kind in this country, they have fanned into existence a public interest in clowns and clowning which should aid them materially, says the New York Telegram. Much interesting discussion has followed the setting forth in the Evening Telegram of the difference between the clown and the "August" or Marceline type of laugh-maker, and also of the marked variations between the various classes of clowns themselves, and it is evident that the clown of our childhood, if almost lost to sight, is still to memory dear, and would be greeted as uproariously as ever if he were to return with his simple jokes and foolery.

Advocates of the restoration of the old-time whiteface take great comfort in the fact that the clown has existed in one form or another at almost every known stage of history. Yet it is difficult, if not impossible, to answer with any finality the question, "Where did the modern clown come from?" This is a matter which is shrouded in a vast deal of fog, and the members of the Clown club, with all their exclusiveness, face a problem of large proportions when they seek to trace their profesional lineage.

Fools or jesters have been known for many centuries. Just when they were introduced into the courts of Europe and became indispensable as personal attaches of great men is uncertain, but they were certainly in evidence in the time of William the Conqueror. In the East they were known still earlier, and it is believed were important personages at the Pagan courts of India before the eighth century. The celebrated Caliph Haroun al-Raschid, famed for his habit of going in disguise to spy upon his subjects, had a jester named Baluful on his imperial pay roll, who took great liberties with his sovereign, and it ih not impossible that Caliph may not have on occasion himself donned the fool's garb before going forth on some of his nocturnal prowling excursions.

According to the theories of some who have delved deep into the lore of clowning, the modern professional clown is simply a descendant of the time-honored jester who has come down through the centuries. Others—and this is the view of the Clown club's memberh—say their earliest professional ancestors existed in the Greek comedy in the clownish character who burlesqued Justice, the black-robed female charater of the classic tragedy. Both the chalked face of the modern clown and the dauble which he sometimes carried are declared to have come from this source.

Those who hold the view that the Greek comedy was the clown's starting point say the next step in the evolution is to be found in the Italian pantomime, and that when still later the more or less full-blown clown found his way into England by way of France, he had also some of the more salient characteristics of "Pierrot," the simple-minded peasant of the Italian pantomime.

Still another view is that the clown descended from the Vice or Devil of the moralities of the earlier drama, from which the famous "Mr. Punch" is also said to have been derived. William J. Thoms, writing in 1838, says the clown of that day was a combination of "Pierrot," "Mr. Punch" and "Scaramouche," the latter a character invented by Tiberio Florilli. The first attempt to incorporate the three is said to have been made by Follet, an actor whose performances were much relished by George III. One of Follet's celebrated tricks was the swallowing of a carrot, a performance that the king frequently paid visits to the theater to laugh at.

The most reasonable explanation of the way the modern clown came into being seems to be that he is a composite of many characters. It is likely that he is part Greek, part Italian and part French, and that he got something from the old morality plays and from the dumb shows exhibited at fairs and inns in England, and later from the pantomimes, but it is certain that he owes much also to the old English jesters and fools.

From ancient times court fools seem to have been retained for two purposes. One was to impart to their masters disagreeable truths which, coming from the lips of an ordinary courtier, would have brought torture or death. In this respect the function of the jester was something like that of the early philosiphers whose patrons were the ancientt tyrants. The second great function was based on the principle of "laugh and grow fat." Fools and jesters were retained by kings, prelates and others of consequence to make fun at all times, apparently that digestion might be aided and the feasting made one of fun as well as of viands.

There was seemingly nothing short of death at which the European court fool might not jest, and some of the stories of how crotchety and tyranical monarchs were made the butt of his ridicule are almost incredible. But in ancient times the patronage of the fool was carried to even more ridiculous extremes, and not even death was safe from his mockeries. In fact, one of the features of the obsequies of a man of wealth in at least one ancient land was the presence in the funeral procession of the arch-mimic, who took a prominent place in the procession and "made it his business constantly to remind the mourners on the way to the tomb of the deceased by imitations of his speech, gestures and manners."

Some of the fools in English households were soarse and licentious. Others were refined, witty and learned. Still others were merely men of monstrous deformities, or, as one writer has described them, "beasts of enormous apetites, to contemplate whom was mirthful to their melancholy lords or evil digestion and twisted minds."

In the sixteenth century fools who could sculrt horribly, distort their bodies and perform tricks were accounted as of high merit, next to the witty fools. Soon after this there began to be a marked distinction between the jesters and the fools, and it gradually came about that the jester ranked as a gentleman of the court, being highly esteemed for his wit and wisdom, while the fool was often a sort of half witted fellaw, who dressed in motley, had the run of the pantry, slept with the doga and got his whipping now and then.

One of the most famous of the court fools was Scogan, who was attached to the household of Edward IV., and is said to have made half of England merry with his jests. His last expressed wish was, "Bury me under one of the waterspouts of Westminter Abbey, for I have ever loved a good dring all the days of my life." Will Somers and Patch were famous jesters of Henry VIII., while John Heywood, jester to Queen Mary, was also one of the first of the English dramatists.

Queen Elizabeth's most celebrated jester was "Dick" Tarleton, who was the best comedian of his day, and seems to have been a forerunner for the circus clown. He is described as having been a favorite clown with the people at large, who "roared at his coarse extemparary songs, shouted at his admirable gagging, his improvised speeches, his interlarded jokes with the audience and his comical face. With the fall of Charles I. and the rise of the Commonwealth the jester and the fool practically passed away, the prevalence of Puritanical ideas being fatal to the institution. An attempt at revival was made after the restoration of the monarchy, but the royal fools finally flickered out altogether in the time of the Georges, and the last household fool went out of business at about the time of the American revolution.

During Elizabeth's reign there were fools not only at the court and in the household of the great, but also at the taverns and other public places. One author mentions nine distinct varieties as having been in evidence up to that time, as follows: 1, general domestic fools, improperly termed clowns; 2, clowns, (country boobies or witty rustics); 3, female fools, generally idiots; 4, city or corporation fools, who assist in public entertainments; 5, tavern fools; 6, fools of the morality plays; 7, fools of the old dumb shows; 8, fools of the Whitsun ales and morris dance; 9, mountebanks' fools.

From the household fool the transition to the fool in places of amusement, such as the old playhouses, pageants and fairs, seem to have been easy, and when the pantomine came in the clown became its central figure. The modern circus made its initial bow to England about 130 years ago in the little equestrian show given by Philip Astley's modest ring. At first sight he seems to have been taken bodily from the pantomime, but there was a lot about him, particularly his habit of making the ringmaster the butt of his jokes, that was clearly from some other source, undoubtedly from the old court fool or jester.

Both before and after the circus created a new field for clowning there were many famous clowns in English pantomime. "Josey" Grimaldi, one of the greatest pantomimists of all time, was for years the magnet which drew thousands to Old Sadler's Wells and to Drury Lane in London. Grimaldi, who came of Italian stock and a long line of acrobats, was brought out as a clown when a mere baby and instantly made a tremendous hit, attaining lasting popularity and ever afterward being known as "Joey," a name which has stuck to the clown ever since.

Grimaldi retired in 1828, broken in health, and died a few years later. He was given a notable benefit on his retirement. Dickens has painted a pathetic picture of the clown's last buffoonery performed, amid tumultous shouts and laughter of the multitude, when he was so weak he had to sit in a chair in the middle of the stage.

DICKENS SPOKE TO HIM.

Youth's Companion: Henry C. Robinson, a witty lawyer, who used to live in Hartford, Conn., told the following anecdote one evening when he was introducing an English author to a Hartford audience:

"The most famous Englishman whom I ever saw was Charles Dickens, who lectured here in Hartford when I was a young boy.

"I had read some of the stories of this great writer and I was most anxious to catch a glimpse of the man himself. So on the afternoon when he was expected to arrive I walked up and down the street in front of the hotel where I knew he was to stay.

"The hotel was built close to the sidewalk and the long windows of the parlor were so low that the passerby could easily see into the room.

"I soon realized that a gentleman was sitting within reading a paper. I stepped close up under the window and pressed by face against the glass, eager to get a good look at the stranger. Yes, it was he! It really was! I had seen his picture often and couldn't be mistaken. I stared and stared, anxious to impress every feature upon my memory. After a few moments he turned and saw me there, the little eager Yankee boy, gazing up at his face; and then the famous man, laying aside his paper, actually spoke, so that I really heard the voice of the great Charles Dickens himself and he was really talking to me!"

Here Mr. Robinson paused impressively and some one on the platform inquired, "what did he say, Mr. Robinson?"

"He said," replied Mr. Robinson, in subdued tones, "'Go away, little boy; go away!'"

WHEAT HAS A DECLINE

Bearish Tone Pervades All Markets During the Day.

Flax Was Lower at Close of a Lively Session.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 19.—Wheat declined in all of the American and foreign markets today. Prices were off from the opening, on bearish news. The Modern Miller was bearish concerning the winter crop returns and the Argentine crop is estimated to greatly exceed last year's. The foreign markets closed lower. Liverpool closed ½d lower to ½d higher, Berlin ¾c lower, Budapest 1½c lower and Paris ¼c to ¾c lower.

The Modern Miller says:

"By temporarily suspending the harvesting of winter wheat, recent rains have delayed marketing of the crop another week and a free movement will be at least three weeks behind the seasonable average. Threshing returns are unusually irregular, but there is nothing to indicate a crop below late estimates.'

The September option closed 1¼c lower in Duluth and Kansas City, 1¼c in Chicago and Minneapolis, ⅞c in New York and ¾-1c in St. Louis. The October option closed 1¼c lower in Winnipeg. The December option closed 1¼c lower in Duluth, New York and Kansas City, 1¼c in Chicago, 1⅛c in Minneapolis and 1-⅛c in St. Louis.

September corn closed ¼c lower in Chicago and was unchanged to ⅜d lower in Liverpool. September oats closed ¼-⅜c lower in Chicago.

J. Fleming, vice president of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, was in Duluth this morning.

Mr. Fleming has been visiting in the vicinity of Detroit, Minn., and stated that he had not been in very close touch with the Manitoba crop situation, but he stated he had been out through Manitoba a little, and the outlook was none too good.

Car receipts at Duluth were 91 against 34 last year, and at Minneapolis 153 against 140 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 244 against 174 last year. Chicago received 37 against 529 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 574,000 bus., last year, 1,140,600 bus. Shipments 257,000 bus., last year 272,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 110,000 bus.

Argentine shipment of wheat, were, 1,544,000 bus., against 1,392,000 bus., last week and 1,152,000 bus., a year ago.

Primary receipts of corn were 414,000 bus., last year, 385,000 bus. Shipments 564,000 bus., last year, 437,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 58,000 bus.

Argentine shipments of corn were 2,145,000 bus., against 1,755,000 bus., last week and 2,762,000 bus., a year ago.

Wheat was rather quiet during the session of the Duluth market and prices were off throughout the day. July wheat opened 1⅜c lower at $1.09, advancing to $1.09⅝, declining to $1.09⅜ and closing at $1.09¾, a loss of 1⅜c from yesterday. September wheat opened 1c lower at $1.09½, declined to $1.09⅜, rallied to $1.09⅝, went off to $1.09¾, reacted to $1.09⅜ and ranged between that and $1.09¾ during the rest of the session, closing at $1.09⅜, a loss of 1⅜c from yesterday. December wheat was neglected, selling only at 99⅝c and closing at that price, a loss of 1¼c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ½c lower and cash spring wheat was selling at the September price for No. 1 northern.

It is estimated that the stock of wheat in store at Duluth will decrease 200,000 bus., this week.

Flax was active during the day, receiving a severe hammering and closing at lower prices. The outlook for the Northwestern flax crop is said to be bearish and this had its effect on today's market.

July flax opened unchanged at $1.19, declined to $1.18¾, reacted to $1.18⅝ and closed at that price, a loss of 1c from yesterday. October flax opened ⅜c lower at $1.17, advanced to $1.17⅝, declined to $1.16¾ and ranged between that and $1.18½ during the rest of the session, closing at $1.16¾, a loss of 1⅜c from yesterday.

It is estimated that the stock of flax in store at Duluth will decrease 250,000 bus during the week.

Oats to arrive closed ¼c lower and other coarse grains unchanged. Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Easier on Liverpool's Failure to Reflect Advance of Thursday.

Chicago, July 19.—The wheat market today opened easier and with a light trade. Liverpool cables failed to reflect yesterday's advance here and it was reported that the Argentine crop will be 20 per cent larger than last year. September wheat opened ⅝@¾c to ⅝@¾c lower at 93⅝c to 93⅝c and sold at 93¾c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 281 cars against 386 cars last week and 703 cars one year ago.

The market was weak all day, the low point for September being 92¾@⅞c. The close was weak with September off 1⅛@1¼c at 92⅝c.

The corn market was dull and prices were easy in sympathy with the weakness of wheat and because of good weather for the crop. September corn opened ⅜@¾c to ½c lower at 53@53⅛c to 53⅛c and sold at 52⅞@53c. Local receipts were 220 cars with 22 of contract grade.

The low point for September was 52⅜c. The close was weak with September off ½c at 52¾@⅞c.

The oats market was dull and easy, chiefly because of weather conditions. September oats were unchanged to a shade higher at 38⅜c to 38⅝@38¾c and sold at 38⅜c. Local receipts were 113 cars.

The provisions market was almost dead. There was no early quotation on pork and for some time the opening quotations on lard and ribs stood alone. Both lard and ribs opened unchanged at $8.95 and $8.67½ respectively.

September pork opened 2½c higher at $16.45.

Close: Wheat, July, 90⅜c; September, 92⅞c. Corn, July, 52⅜c; September, 52¾@⅞c. Oats, July, 43¼c; September, 33¾@⅜c. Pork, July, $15.30; September, $16.50. Lard, July, $8.82½; September, $9.02½. Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: Wheat—News was very much the same as on previous days, 50 per cent of the reports from the spring wheat country being bad. A few of them were specific and very bullish. In the vicinity of Eureka, S. D., wheat raisers claim they cannot get over four to six bushels. A report covering the country between Bristol and Millbank claims about a half crop. Kansas reports on yields continue very uneven. Minneapolis and Kansas City reported export sales of flour. The cables were rather weak and this together with hedging sales and some local unloading by longs gave the market its setback.

Corn—Conditions for the corn trade were little changed from those of yesterday. Weather almost perfect. Much of the weakness in corn was due to the break in wheat. Kansas reported the country selling some corn. A livestock man at Waterloo says corn will be two weeks late Aug. 1, and that it will take to Oct. 1 to mature.

Oats—Brokers in oats trade express the belief that the market might easily have made a gain like that of yesterday, but for the break in wheat and corn. Receipts are running but a little over 100 cars a day. Cash market acted weak. Believe there are enough concentrated holdings in this market to turn prices higher as soon as uncertainty is over in the wheat trade.

New York Grain.

New York, July 19.—Close: Wheat, July, 98¾c; September, 98¾c; December, $1.02⅝. Corn, July, 60¾c; September, 61¾c; December, 60¼c.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., July 19.—Barrett & Zimmerman's report: The market was quiet with reduced receipts, the bulk of the trade was made up of minor sales, delivery horses receiving the most attention. A few sales of drafters are reported. These are days when there is very little profit in the horse business and dealers are glad to break even.

A CHINESE DINNER.

Kansas City Journal: "E. T. Snuggs of Shiu Hing, missionary of southern convention, and I dined with P. P. Wong, a wealthy business man of Shanghai," said the Rev. Dr. N. R. Pittman, one of the two Missouri representatives to the great centenary missionary conference in China and the only representative from Kansas City.

"He invited to dine with us four Chinese gentlemen of learning and wealth. They spoke English with accuracy. The dinner was a feast. The course consumed two hours. When we had been dining almost an hour I asked Sinsing Wong how many more courses. He said 'Sixteen.' Every fifteen minutes a servant brought to each one of us a hot cloth with which he wiped our hands and faces. We surely had a hundred different dishes. We had a birds' nest soup. We had things from air and earth and sea and brook. That dinner must have cost Sinsing Wong $100 in gold."

Stock Gossip.

New York, Logan & Bryan, to Paine, Webber & Co.: The persistency and aggressiveness of the powers behind the market were strongly indicated by the action of prices today. The easiness of call money and the slightly lower rates for time funds were encouraging features and lend color to the report that the monetary situation is very much better than appearances indicate. The higher levels are beginning to attract public interest, and it is not generally thought that a slight recession in business will materially affect the prosperity of the country or cause decreases in earnings of the larger corporations. Indications are for a good bank statement tomorrow, and we would not be surprised to see the list resume its upward course next week.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Vern R. Culbertson: Sentiment was more cheerful in our market this morning owing to reports of large sales of the metal and the fact that Amalgamated made their dividend a straight $8. This did not increase activity however, and business was still confined to a few stocks. Butte Coalition, Greene Cananea and North Butte being the most active. Many conservatively bearish on the copper situation and until consumers enter the market freely we do not look for much activity.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The action of the market today must confirm anyone's bullish ideas. The opening was strong and active with prices up a point. Great dullness prevailed the rest of the day, but prices held firm and in some cases gained a little. It was the best record the market has had for some time. One of the best posted brokers says it is like picking up gold dollars to buy Amalgamated, Copper Range, North Butte, Union Pacific, Great Northern, Northwestern and Reading at these prices.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: Sentiment on this market is steadily improving and dealings are broadening. A distinct easing in the time money market, an improved demand for bonds and short-term notes and most of the crops news are the reasons. Railroad stocks have improved very materially in the past thirty days, but still the market shows no signs of any amount for sale. As the market advances this will increase the buying power, and more people will become interested. Prices promise to advance further, although end of the week profit-taking may cause some reaction tomorrow.

The improved sentiment has not yet resulted in bringing many buying orders into the copper share market, but offerings are less, and we think prices will soon mend.

MEXICO'S CARD GAME.

Frog is the aristocratic game of Mexico. While conquain is considered the national game of that country, it bears about the same relation to frog that euchre does to bridge in the United States. Frog requires a high order of intelligence to play it well and those who have had experience with it like it as well, if not better, than bridge, says the New York Sun.

It is up to modern standards in the matter of elasticity and variety, with the element of bidding, and the result depends on the player's own judgment, untrammelled by the luck of a partner's hand; unfettered by the fear of his criticisms at the end. In these respects frog is very much like skat, and it hasbeen suggested that the idea of frog is evidently borrowed from skat. Even the name "frog" may be a corruption of "frage," which was one of the varieties of skat in the early days.

Frog is played with a pack of thirty-six cards, all below the six being thrown out. These cards rank A, 10, K, Q, J, 9, 8, 7, 6, and the five honors have the same pip value that they have in skat—the ace being worth 11, the ten 10, king 4, queen 3 and jack 2.

This gives 120 points as the total pip value of the four suits, and the object of the game is to get the majority of these 120 points—that is, 61 or more—In the tricks taken in during the course of play. Tricks as such are of no value, only the points they contain being counted; so that a player winning a trick with two aces and a ten in it would get more for his one card than a player who won four or five tricks with nothing in them but kings and jacks and spots.

There are three active players; but four or five may make up the table. When four play the dealer takes no cards. When five play the dealer gives cards to the two on his left and one on his right.

It does not matter who deals first, provided some record is kept so that each of the players shall have the deal an equal number of times. When it comes to the turn of the one who dealt first that ends a round and it is usual to stop the game at the end of a round.

The cards are dealt one at a time, beginning on the dealer's left and giving a card to each of the players in turn and one to the widow, face down, for three rounds. After that no cards are dealt to the widow, so that when the whole pack of thirty-six cards has been dealt out each players will have eleven cards and the widow will have three.

The player on the dealer's left, Vorhand, has the first bid for the privilege of playing against both the others. There are only three classes of games to bid upon.

Frog, in which hearts are always trumps, is the cheapest game, because it is played with the assistance of the widow, which is turned face upward on the table, so that the players shall see what cards it contained. After showing the widow, the player who has bid a frog takes the three cards into his hand and discards anything he pleases, so as to reduce his hand again to eleven cards.

The three cards he lays off remain his property, exactly as if he had won them in a trick, and the points in them will count for him at the end of the hand. Every point over sixty that he succeeds in getting home counts one for him in a Frog, and he must be paid by each of the other active players at the table, if any, who held no cards.

Should the bidder fail to get sixty he must pay every one at the table, including those who held no cards, if any; so that if there are four at the table, the player wins from two but loses to three. Sixty is a tie. All over sixty wins for the player, and he pays for as many points as he falls short of reaching sixty.

The next higher bid is chico, in which the player names any suit but hearts for the trump and plays his hand without any assistance from the widow, which remains on the table face down and untouched until the end of the hand; but the points found in it will count for the player, precisely as they do in a solo at skat.

The value of the points in chico is two each, or double what it is in frog. The fourth player, if any

BUSINESS CHANCES.

MOST BUSINESS IS NOT COMBINED with pleasure leads to success—all business ground out in desperation falls in time. Fifty-five miles of virgin woodland, rich in soil and rich in timber, can be traversed by writing to Edmund G. Walton, 114 South Fourth street, Minneapolis, for a pamphlet over the constructing route of the Northern Pacific from Big Fork, Minnesota, to Little Fork. At Little Fork, a large and commodious steamer takes you thirty-three miles up the Rainy River tot International Falls. Total expense from Minneapolis, $7.85. Now, then, what will you see? A new country with marvelous possibilities, a water power of 30,000 horse power; 5,000,000,000 feet of pine and spruce—a farming country with soil as rich as the richest in Iowa, an ideal climate, a net work of lakes and streams filled with all the usual varieties of fresh water fish, and money to be picked up for the asking. Read Christopher Columbus' report of America to the court of Spain or "Monte Christo" and you will then partly understand what the riches of Koochiching county really are. No one really knows what wealth there is there, but a little fishing trip will open your eyes and tell you more than all the writing in the world. Write at once for itinerary of trip, with suggestions, etc.

HE GOT THE JOB.

New York Sun: "With the windows once more open we hear again," said the flat dweller, "the various familiar sounds of the open window season. The lady who sings and soars up and up to linger long on the tall high notes is going strong, just as she was when we shut down the windows and shut out her voice last fall. We hear once more the phonographs, with new tunes but with the same voices. And here is the trombone man, blowing away sonorously; and the cornet man, a little further down the block, but not quite so far away as we wish he lived, is still keeping up his practice. They are all, all here, and we are glad at least that the music makers have all come through the winter in good health. But with all the rest we have had one sound this season that was wholly new to us and that was until today a mystery.

"This sound first came to us when the windows were first opened, some two weeks ago, and we have been hearing it regularly every night since. It was the voice of a young man, shouting and evidently practising some form of shouting in which he was seeking not only to perfect himself, but to excel.

"'Al-yar!' he'd sing out, 'Waa-ar, waa-ar, waa-ar, waa-ar!' Hoo-rer, hoorer, hoo-rer, zoo-rer, zoo-op!' his voice rising high and sweeping swiftly downward, and then sweeping upward again with accumulating loudness. He might pause for a moment, and then you'd hear again the singers and the phonographs and the trombones, and then:

"'Woo-op! Hi-yar! Bra-ar! bra-ar! Yah! yah! Ger-ar! Gr-ah! gr-ah! Whee-e!'

"But clearly he wasn't crazy; there was method in his fierce and varied vocal gyrations. Very evidently he was practising for something—practising, and we all wondered, what could it be? But now we think we've solved the mystery.

"Yesterday morning we saw in the newspapers this advertisement:

"'Young man wanted to work in frankfurter stand; must be good shouter.'

"And last night the man with the voice was missing. It looks as if he'd got the job."

How much do you lose every month when you have no tenant for that house—or apartment—or furnished room—or store—or office—or shop? Enough, don't you think, to buy a good many lines of "for rent" advertising in The Herald.

BIDS WERE REJECTED

Prices Too High for Hillside and Lakeside Extensions.

The City Will Do Its Own Work If Necessary.

The board of water and light commissioners has received and rejected bids for the laying of the water and gas mains on the hillside and the Lakeside systems. The board will advertise for bids immediately, the same to be opened Saturday of next week. If the bids are then regarded as excessively high it is quite probable that the department will go ahead and do the work without letting it out by contract.

The bids for the laying of the base lines of the two systems mentioned were opened at a meeting of the board yesterday afternoon.

There was one bid for the hillside work, which comprises the laying of a 12-inch water main from Fifteenth avenue east to Thirteenth avenue west, on portions of Fifth, Sixth and Seventh streets, accompanied by a 4-inch gas main. The board considered the figures too high. In fact the bid was more than double the estimate of the manager for the cost of the work.

On the Lakeside system it is proposed to lay a 10-inch gas main from Twenty-sixth avenue east to Sixtieth avenue east, on London road, thence up Sixtieth avenue to Superior street. This will be accompanied by a water main from Twenty-second avenue east to Fortieth avenue east to a point where it will join the water pipe already at Fortieth avenue and London road.

Two bids were submitted for the Lakeside work, but just as the bids were opened the contractor presenting the lowest bid claimed a mistake in his figures. After some discussion the board decided to throw out both bids and readvertise for new ones, as it had already decided to do in regard to the hillside system.

It was the sense of the commissioners that the city would not pay an exhorbitant figure for the water and gas extension and that, before any such contract should be awaded, the city would do its own work.

On petition of the People's Brewing company, the board voted an extension of the water pipes on Fortieth avenue west to the location of the proposed new brewery, as soon as the pipe can be had.

The water pipe for the hillside and Lakeside systems has arrived and is being distributed along the routes. The work of installing the systems will be pushed with all possible speed as soon as the board determines whether the work will be done by contract or by day labor under the department's supervision. It is not the intention of the department to have any more delay than is positively necessary.

The electric pump has been installed at the Lakewood station and the pipes are now being put in place. An expert is expected to arrive in the city almost any day now, who will make the connection between the new pump and the 42-inch main leading from the two steam pumps. It is claimed that the electric pump will be ready for operation within three weeks if the power is then available from the Great Northern Power company's plant.

The electric pump was ordered last year. It was found necessary to provide for the growing demands for water by the installation of an additional pump at the Lakewood station. The new pump, it is figured, will be able to provide ample supply for the present and for some time to come, while the big steam pumps will be held in reserve for use in case of an accident to the electric pump or for any emeregncy that might require a sudden increase of the water supply.

DECISIONS AFFIRMED

By Supreme Court in Two Cases From St. Louis County.

Sixteen Other Decisions Are Handed Down by Court.

St. Paul, July 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eighteen decisions were filed by the state supreme court today, six of them being reversals of the findings of the lower courts. Fourteen of the cases decided were as follows:

A. J. Wright, respondent, against S. J. Lynch, appellant. Order affirmed. Fillmore county, Lewis, J.

Pasquala Piccano, respondent, against Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway company, appellant.

Syllabus: Conceding that under Sections 4999 and 4503, revised laws, 1905, settlement of causes of action is effected by the parties without the approval of the court, are not void for that reason, the settlement of a miner's cause of action and claim for damages for personal injuries, by his parent, without advice of counsel and without the direction of the court is subject to review by the court upon being informed of the nature of the settlement. The relation of the parent to the minor in such cases is that of trustee and ward, and the court does not lose jurisdiction by the mere entry of a formal order directing the entry of judgment of dismissal of the action.

In this case upon being informed of its nature and the manner in which the settlement was conducted, the court was justified in setting aside its former order, and the stipulation for settlement and in reinstating the case upon the calendar. The order was appealable for the reason that it determined the strict legal rights of the parties. Affirmed. Lewis, J., St. Louis county.

John Nehola, respondent, vs. Minnesota Iron company, appellant.

Syllabus: In determining whether a cause of action is barred by the statute of limitations, the day on which it accrued is excluded.

Where a personal injury, caused by the actionable negligence of another and resulting in insanity occurring on the same day, the two events are legally simultaneous, for the law will not take notice of fractions of a day; and the disability of insanity existed at the time the cause of action occurred, within the meaning of the statute of limitations. Order affirmed. Brown, J., St. Louis county.

Frank O. Elmgren, respondent, vs. Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company, appellant. Reversed. Jaggard, J., Ramsey county.

Anna Cornig, respondent, vs. Western Life Indemnity company, appellant. Order affirmed. Jaggard, J., Hennepin county.

W. C. Lee, as administrator of the estate of Knute G. Lee, respondent, vs. Wild Rice Lumber company, appellant. Order affirmed. Lewis, J., Norman county.

Bertha Zearfoss, respondent, vs. Switchmen's Union of America, appellant.

Syllabus: One who intentionally takes his own life by administering to himself a poisonous drug, being of sufficient mental capacity to comprehend the nature and consequences of the act, commits deliberate suicide.

The evidence does not support the finding of the jury that the deceased met his death from some cause other than deliberate suicide. Reversed. Lewis J.

William O. Merz, respondent, vs. Frank C. Croxen, appellant. Order reversed. Sherburne county. Lewis J.

State of Minnesota, respondent, vs. Backus-Brooks company, appellant. Affirmed. Hennepin county. Start, C. J.

W. H. LaPlant, respondent, vs. the Pratt Ford Green House company, appellant. Affirmed. Lewis J. Anoka county.

Frank L. Mullen as administrator of the estate of Charles G. Mullen, deceased, respondent, vs. Andy Jones, appellant. Affirmed. Jaggard, J. Watonwan county.

Hobe Lumber company, appellant, vs. James E. McGrath and W. E. Organ, copartners, as Pine City Lumber company, respondents. Order reversed. Jaggard, J. Pine county.

SEASIDE TRAGEDY.

Senator Foraker was defending a Wilmington official who had been maligned.

"We are too apt at times," he said, "to condemn men unheard. A thing may look very fishy, yet on proper examination it may prove to be quite innocent. Let us remember the episode of the seaside hotel.

"Late one night, from the room of a married couple in a seaside hotel, groans and shrieks became so violent that a number of guests, pale and frightened, gathered in the hall before the door.

"'Oh, you are killing me!' cried a male voice. 'Have you no pity?'

"There followed a series of awful groans. Then:—

"'Stop! You are murdering me! I'm dying.'

"For a little while the crowd outside heard feeble grunts and moans. Then a wild shriek rang forth.

"'Murder! You've done it at last. You've killed me. Oh, I'm dying.'

"Here a man thundered on the door and shouted

"There was a smothered laugh within, the door was opened instantly, and a young and pretty woman appeared.

"'Did the noise alarm you?' she said. 'I've just been peeling off the shirt from my husband's sunburnt arms.'"

HOME What a wonderful institution is the home. What a wonderful power is the home newspaper. The Herald has long been the home newspaper of Duluth. The Herald reaches the home at the evening leisure hour. The Herald is not carried down town on the car. It stays home, is passed from one member of the family to the others. It is read from page to page, every night in nearly every home in Duluth and Northern Minnesota. The Herald is a vital force in the homes of its patrons. It is the one newspaper in nearly all homes, the only newspaper in thousands of homes.

PROSECUTOR HAWLEY INSISTS THAT HARRY ORCHARD TOLD TRUTH

Says All Evidence Submitted Goes to Prove Statements.

Does Not Attempt to Justify His Double Dealing.

Ridicules Testimony of Woman After Five Years' Time.

Boise, July 20.—Continuing today the opening argument for the state in the case of William D. Haywood, which, after two months and a half of hearing, is about to be submitted to the jury, James H. Hawley, chief prosecutor, first devoted his attention to the alleged attempt to wreck a train on the Florence & Cripple Creek railroad. This was one of the incidents of the Colorado labor troubles testified to by Harry Orchard.

"This matter came out in Orchard's testimony," said Mr. Hawley, "but it was absolutely immaterial to the issue here involved. But the defense has taken this incident and has tried to build up out of it a conspiracy on the part of the mine owners against the Western Federation of Miners. Orchard admitted that he had reported the alleged attempt to detectives in the employ of the Mine Owners' association and to the railroad. The defense has brought two women witnesses here to testify that they saw Orchard in one of the detective's room on many occasions. These women saw this man but casually four or five years ago, but they came here and swore positively as to Orchard's identity and to the number of his visits. Such evidence speaks for itself.

"Orchard undoubtedly was there trying to secure money from all the sources he could, and I am not going to defend him for his double dealing in taking money from both the

ATTACKS ON CHILDREN

Arouse New York Police to Efforts to Capture Criminals.

New York, July 20.—Numerous attacks on women and children, especially in the suburbs, are agitating the public and press. A score of such cases have been reported in the last two or three months, and two of the victims, Amelia Staffeldt and Viola Boylan, both young girls, were murdered by the brutes.

Police Commissioner Bingham has been called on by delegations of citizens and by the press for better police protection, and this has resulted in an order to the police to be specially alert with a view of capturing the miserable criminals.

"The honor of the police force requires that these criminals shall be captured," says the order in conclusion.

CUBAN JOAN OF ARC DEAD

Senora Juan Quesada Passes Away at Age of 70.

New York, July 20.—Cable advices from Havana, Cuba, announce the death of Senora Juano Quesada, the Cuban Joan of Arc, at the age of 70 years.

Senora Quesada was the best known woman in the island. She came of a good family in Camaguey, but despite the comforts and luxury which her circumstances gave her, she chose to aid her countrymen in the field in the ten-years' war against Spain. Senora Quesadad was only one of many Amazons who wielded a machete in the struggle, but her bravery and the standing of her family made her the best known.

She served throughout that long hard campaign under the command of Gen. Meximo Gomez. Again, in the revolution against Spain, that began in 1895 and ended in 1898, with the overthrow of the Spanish rule, Senora Quesada, though then in advanced age, took part in the uprising for "Cuba Libre."

FORTY BIG STEAMERS

Chartered to Carry Railroad Equipment for the Japanese.

First Vessel Starts for Manchuria With Big Cargo.

New York, July 20.—The first steamer of a big fleet specially chartered for the purpose of carrying hundreds of thousands of tons of American rails, locomotives, cars and other railroad equipment for the vast network of lines building in Manchuria by the Japanese, left here yesterday. It was the Askehall, under the British flag, and will go direct to Dalny, the principal seaboard terminal of the road to be called the South Manchuria railway.

This is the first instance of a direct sailing from New York city to Dalny.

Forty steamers will be used to carry American rails, etc., for the South Manchurian system. It is estimated that before completion of the system no less than 400,000 tons of material will be shipped from this side. This huge tonnage will be moved inside of twelve months.

COL. AZZALLI DIED A HERO

Leader of Mexican Band Was Trying to Save Comrades.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 20.—It develops, according to persons who witnessed the incident, that Col. Augusto Azzalli, leader of the Banda Gendarme, of Guadalajara, Mex., who was drowned in the surf last evening, died a hero. Three of Azzalli's comrades, it appears, waded into deep water and began to struggle for their lives. Azzalli went to their assistance without considering or realizing the danger. He managed to push the drowning men towards shore until they found a firm footing but his struggles exhausted him and he sank.

Azzalli and his band went to Philadelphia with the El Paso Elks. His band took first prize for their showing in the Elks' parade, but Azzalli did not know it. About the time he lost his life the list of prize-winners was being read off in the Philadelphia convention hall.

QUEEN STONED.

Hoodlums Throw Rocks at Maria of Portugal While Autoing.

London, July 20.—Dispatches from Lisbon and Bucharest bring stories of royalty being stoned while motoring. While Queen Maria of Portugal and her second son, Prince Manual, were automobiling, they were stoned by hoodlums. Her majesty was struck on the arm, but was not seriously hurt. The culprits escaped.

Crown Prince Ferdinand of Roumania was stoned and hurt by a peasant while motoring in a district affected by Agrarian unrest. The prince stopped the car, alighted and chased and captured the man, whom he handed over to the police.

BOYERTON, PA., BANK CLOSES ITS DOORS.

Washington, July 20.—The Farmers' National bank of Boyertown, Pa., was today ordered closed by the comptroller of the currency, upon a report of National Bank Examiner Bingham, showing it to be insolvent. J. W. Scofield, bank examiner, has been appointed receiver. The bank has a capital of $50,000.

Boyertown, Pa., July 20.—Several months ago the directors of the institution accepted the resignation of M. L. Hartman, who for a number of years was cashier of the bank. The trouble is said to have been caused by the cashier granting loans without proper security. State Senator E. M. Herbst, one of the directors, has ever since been acting as temporary cashier. The Farmers' Bank of Boyertown was chartered in 1883.

TINIEST INFANT IN WORLD NOW IN AN INCUBATOR

New York, July 20.—The baby incubator establishment at Dreamland, Coney Island, has received what is believed to be the smallest living baby ever born. It is a girl and was born to Mrs. George Brown of this city. The child weighed only nineteen ounces and fifteen gramms. The height of the baby is eleven inches, its arms are three inches long and from temple to temple the measurement is two inches. Both hands of the baby will go at one time through the mother's wedding ring. A dime will hide her hands. A half dollar will hide her face. A twenty-two-ounce baby was born this week in Providence and placed in an incubator to save its life. Previous to these two cases twenty-four ounces was considered as close to the limit where a newly born baby's life was worth fighting for.

RUMORS ARE SENSATIONAL

Concerning Theft of State Regalia From Dublin Castle.

Dublin, July 20.—Sensational rumors are current here in regard to the theft from Dublin castle a few weeks ago of a portion of the state regalia, valued at $250,000. Hints are now being thrown out that the gems may soon be "discovered" without any explanation as to where they have been or who returned them. It is said they have been deposited as security for a loan, and the name of the alleged depositor is freely mentioned in private with hints of a tragic and semi-political scandal. It is of course, impossible to verify these reports, but they are being freely circulated in circles whose channels of information undoubtedly are good.

QUERY FOR CIGARETTE

Causes Dispersing of Mob Bent on Lynching Prisoners.

Looked for a While as Though Blood Would be Spilled.

Hahnville, La., July 20.—A dozen militiamen faced a mob of 100 would-be lynchers here early today, and without firing a shot, sent them peaceably back to New Orleans.

Control over the mob was gained at the movement when an unequal fight threatened by a remark drawled in soft Southern accent by a militia man, who asked:

"Any of you fellows got a cigarette?"

A laugh breezed over the crowd, and with this break in the tension an ugly situation cleared up.

The posse had arrived at Hahnville on a freight train. Rumors that a mob was coming had occasioned the placing of extra sentries by the militia.

The posse jumped from the freight train at the railroad station, which is over a mile from the jail, covered two telegraph operators there with revolvers in order to prevent an alarm, and then started for the jail.

A short distance from the railroad station the lynchers suddenly were confronted by Maj. Wheat and a bare handful of his men. With the militia men's gun levelled at their waist, the members of the mob halted, revolvers and clubs held in menacing positions. Scarcely a man moved and not a word was spoken for nearly a minute, and then the militia man with the happy inspiration recalled the comradeship of both sides by his homely request for a smoke. Immediately a leader in the mob spoke up: "We want just a word with the captain."

Maj. Wheat replied that there would be no talking; that unless the mob marched off immediately to the railroad station he would give the order to fire.

This appeared to be what the mob had come to find out, for some of them exclaimed:

"Come on, boys, we are going back," and all started for the railroad. They had reached the track and were proceeding to the station when the special train bearing the reinforcements came in at a speed which forced several men, who were crowded on a low trestle, to jump into a creek. No one was hurt, and the emptied special was reloaded with the mob members and sent to New Orleans.

COAL FREIGHTS ARE REDUCED

To Stimulate the Shipments of Coal to the West.

New York, July 20.—To stimulate the purchase and shipment of coal during the summer months, when the greatest number of cars for this purpose are available, the interstate commerce commission at the request of the Union Pacific railroad and the Oregon Short Line has especially authorized a reduction of 25 cents a ton on coal shipped to Washington, Idaho and Nevada, between July 19 and Sept. 1.

For the last two months officials of the Harriman lines have been endeavoring to induce Western coal dealers to make their shipments this summer in order to avoid a recurrence of last winter's fuel scarcity. The difficulty then in supplying coal to the Western states grew partly out of shortage of equipment and partly from the fact that orders were delayed until weather conditions made freight movement slow and difficult.

The Union Pacific therefore took the unusual step of applying to the interstate commerce commission to be allowed to make a reduction in its rate in order to get the co-operation of dealers in shipping fuel now when the lines are in good shape to handle it promptly.

ANNUAL YACHT RACE

From Chicago to Mackinac Island Starts With Twenty-Five Entries.

Chicago, July 20.—The annual yacht race from Chicago to Mackinac Island under the auspices of the Chicago Yacht club was started today under favorable conditions.

A good sailing breeze blew from the northeast, and the forecast from the weather bureau was for its continuance for another twenty-four hours, at the southern end of Lake Michigan. About twenty-five boats lined up for the start, all of them being of good size. None of the racing boats or twenty-one-footers were entered.

The record for the 335 miles between Chicago and Mackinaw is thirty-six hours and is held by the Vencedor.

HUNDRED INJURED

Freight and Passenger Trains Come Together Head-On.

Twenty-Two Bodies Already Taken From the Wreck.

Eight Hundred Persons Were Crowded Into Eleven Cars.

Salem, Mich., July 20.—From thirty to forty persons were killed and about 100 injured this forenoon when a Pere Marquette excursion train of eleven coaches from Ionia, carrying the members of the company's shops there on their annual excursion to Detroit, collided with a westbound freight train two miles east of this village, at Washburn crossing. At 12 o'clock twenty-two bodies had been taken from the wreck and there were many more known to be still in the ruins.

Orders were sent to Plymouth, four miles away, which is a division point of the railway to make arrangements to care for thirty injured.

General Superintendent Trump, of the Pere Marquette railway, says that the responsibility for the wreck rests with some employe who failed to obey orders.

There were 800 persons crowded into the eleven coaches of the train, many of them women and children, all bound for a holiday in Detroit. They left their homes in Ionia at 6 o'clock this morning.

The wreck occurred on a perfectly straight level piece of track. The heavy freight and passenger trains came together with enormous force, and six of the eleven passenger coaches were entirely wrecked.

When the uninjured persons recov-

VICTORY FOR PROSECUTION

In Decision by Judge Lawler on Admissibility of Evidence,

San Francisco, July 20.—Arguments by opposing counsel in the Glass case over the admissibility of evidence of "similar offences," the testimony of ten of the members of the board of supervisors that they accepted bribes from E. V. Halsey to vote against an ordinance granting a competitive franchise to the Home Telephone company, eventuated yesterday in a decision by Judge Lawler, the effect of which is almost entirely in favor of the prosecution.

The day's arguments gave rise to bitter personalities between Assistant District Attorney Francis J. Heney and Attorney Delphine M. Delmas. Immediately after adjournment, which was taken until Monday morning, Sheriff O'Neil informed Judge Lawler that smallpox had broken out in wing two of the county jail, where both Mayor Schmitz and Vice President Emile J. Zimmer of the Pacific States Telephone company are confined, the former under conviction of extortion, the latter under a five days' sentence for contempt of court, which expires at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Judge Lawler instructed the sheriff that no prisoner shall be allowed to leave the jail until assurance is given the court by the board of health officer, Watkins, that there is no danger of infection being carried. This order may result in the indefinite confinement of Zimmer, who otherwise would be brought into court this afternoon and given another chance to testify against Glass and so remove his recalcitrancy.

MEAT CUTTERS ARE TO REORGANIZE UNION.

Kansas City, July 20.—Three hundred packing house employes met in Kansas City, Kan., last night and decided to reorganize the union of the Amalgamated Order of Meat Cutters of America, which went out of existence a number of years ago after the unsuccessful strike of the packing house employes in Chicago, Kansas City and other packing centers. It is understood that Michael Donnelly, former president of the national order, will engineer the reorganization, and he took a prominent part in the proceedings last night. He came here from Chicago a month ago and has announced that he will remain here permanently.

VOTING IS VERY LIGHT

Citizens Not Paying Much Attention to School Board Election.

No Chances Should be Taken on Election of J. L. Washburn.

"After persuading Mr. Washburn to run again for the school board, Duluth people certainly ought not to take any chances of letting him be defeated through neglecting to vote," said Alderman Watson S. Moore this afternoon. "When I voted today there had been only forty votes cast altogether at that poling place."

The voting has been light in all parts of the city today, and unless a large number of votes are polled later in the afternoon, the total will be very small. The polls will remain open until 7 o'clock this evening.

Mr. Washburn is a candidate against his own wishes. He stated that he intended to refire this year, but his name was placed on the ballot in spite of this fact, and it was only after considerable pressure had been brought to bear upon him by his friends, that he consented to run again. He is admitted to have been a most valuable member of the board, and if he is by any chance defeated, it will be because his friends are either too confident of his election, or forget to cast their votes.

J. J. Moe is another candidate who is in much the same position as Mr. Washburn

PREPARING STATEMENT

Strikers' Committee Will Present It to Officials Monday.

All Quiet at the Docks Affected by the Strike.

Except for the meeting of the new union of ore handlers at the West end today there have been absolutely no new developments in the strike situation. Everything is quiet at the docks and no ore whatever is being handled. Both at the Two Harbors and Allouez docks the men are holding firm as well as those at the Missabe dock in this city.

At the meeting held this morning by the strikers the committee appointed yesterday to draw up a set of bylaws for the new union commenced its work and will have the rules ready some time next week. The executive committee which is composed of the officers of the organization, headed by Nelson Berry, president, also met for the first time this morning. This committee is drawing up a statement and also a new contract which will be presented to the officials of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad on Monday.

It was reported in Duluth today that the Duluth & Iron Range road was going to put 100 men at work on the Two Harbors' ore docks Monday morning, but F. E. House, president of the road, says there is not a word of truth in the rumor.

"The report is absolutely untrue," said Mr. House.

Mr. House also stated there was no change whatever in the strike situation so far as the Duluth & Iron Range was concerned.

It is expected by some that the new organization of the ore handlers may offer to arbitrate their demands with the officials of the Missabe road, and if this is done a settlement will probably be brought about without difficulty.

The new contract and statement which is now being prepared by the executive committee of the laborers will be presented to the officials on Monday and if this is not accepted by them the men may later decide to arbitrate.

So far the strike has been conducted with no violence whatever and the laborers are being commended for this, at least. All is quiet at Two Harbors and Allouez as well as at Duluth, and the men seem to be cheerful and agreeable, and have plenty of confidence that they will win out in the end.

In case the dock officials should make an attempt to import strike-breakers, however, there is no telling what might occur and it is said that it is for this reason that no attempt has yet been made by the officials to fill the places of the strikers.

At the meeting of the ore handlers this morning about half a hundred new members were added, making a total of about 675. A union is also being formed today at Two Harbors and when this organization work is completed the union of orehandlers at the Head of the Lakes will be one of the strongest, financially and in the number of members, of any in the Northwest.

ROUND TRIP 50 CENTS

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Because he tried to kiss a woman on the street, Pat Butler, arraigned for plain drunk this morning got an unusually heavy sentence and will spend the next fifteen days in the county jail.

Butler got loaded up last evening and was careening down Superior street. He spotted an unusually pretty woman coming towards him and imagined that she smiled on him. This was too much for Pat and he promptly returned the smile—with interest. He threw his arms around her and kissed her with vigor. The lady screamed, then she gave Butler a shave. He reeled and fell on the sidewalk, cutting a big gash in his forehead. Then an officer arrived.

Pat said this morning that he couldn't remember, but he might have done it. He felt like it all right, he said.

Timothy Conklin was arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant sworn out by his wife charging him with desertion. He pleaded not guilty and the case was set for Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. His bail was fixed at $300.

There were thirty-two members in the grist this morning, most of them plain drunks. The police can give no other explanation for this than that the men got wise to the fact that there was to be a two days' dry spell owing to the Saturday school election and the Sunday lid, and made up for it last night.

Victor Johnson wants the street car company arrested. He doesn't specify what part of the system he especially wants pinched, but he wants the whole system arraigned for defrauding him out of three hours' wages. Johnson is a vag. He was arraigned in municipal court this morning on this charge, and he was called to the attention of the police on this particular occasion by his complaint against the street car company.

He got a job with them yesterday, on the streets. He was supposed to work, but he didn't. After he had stood around and rubbered at passing cars and traffic for five hours, the foreman fired him.

But Johnson wouldn't "fire." He liked the job if he did not like to work. So he stayed. He lingered around the job for three hours longer, without tools and doing nothing, until the exasperated foreman got an ax and, brandishing it over his head, chased him away.

He got his five hours' pay, but he didn't get the other three. Therefore he wanted the company arrested.

After they got the foreman's story the police department locked Johnson up. He got ten days this morning.

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial says:

"While transactions in copper were light this week, the market for the metal shows considerable improvement. Inquiry has become quite active in the past few days; sales of electrolytic copper have been made at 22 cents, and there is plenty of evidence of good buying both here and abroad. Lake copper is 22½ to 23 cents per pound. Electrolytic is quoted at 22 cents, and casting copper is 21½ to 21¾ cents a pound. The leading producers state that these prices will be maintained for some time to come, and that there will be no further concessions made on copper covering deliveries in the next three months, which means that they have practically guaranteed their prices for that time.

"A surfeit of bearish reports on general conditions, talk of 20-cent copper, and the action of the metal exchange interests in publishing quotations representing prices approximately 1 cent below those quoted above, have caused a general impression that there would be an immediate further decline in the price of copper. Therefore the consumers got a little scared and are holding back on large purchases of the metal until they are assured of real stability in the market and become convinced that prices will be maintained on the basis announced last week. Consumers report that they are unable to buy copper at the prices quoted on the New York Metal exchange. They say that the publication of these quotations is checking business, as the consumers of manufactured goods point to the prices quoted on the New York Metal exchange and expect to arrange their contracts on that basis. The fact that no transactions in copper take place on the metal exchange scarcely needs to be reported in this letter.

"Consumers are running low on their supplies of copper, and they are now showing more disposition to buy than they have for weeks past. There is undoubtedly a large reserve buying power which will made its appearance in the market as soon as confidence in the situation is restored. Indications point to a more active and improved metal market, therefore, in the course of the next few weeks."

ST. PAUL MAN ENDS LIFE.

Ernest A. Poore Throws Himself Under Train at Columbia, S. D.

St. Paul, July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ernest A. Poore, 27 years of age, a stenographer in the employ of the St. Paul Foundry company, living at 541 Manomin avenue, committed suicide by throwing herself under the wheels of a Northwestern passenger train at Columbia, S. D., early today.

Ill health was the motive for the act, Poore was visiting his wife's parents at Columbia, during his vacation, in the hope of improving his health. The fact that he did not improve readily seems to have preyed on his mind, causing temporary insanity. The deceased is survived by a widow and two children.

Poore had been employed by the foundry company for the past six years.

SUPERIOR NEWS

RESCUED FROM DEATH

Three Superior People Are Saved From Drowning.

They Had Attempted to Exchange Seats in Boat.

Three death by drowning were prevented in Suprior last evening by the prompt action of bystandrs.

Peter Berg, a young man, rescued a baby, which had fallen in the water, near Connor's Point, and two Superior attorneys, John J. Murphy and W. M. Steele, pulled a man and woman from the water at Billings Park.

Berg was riding a wheel last evening in the vicinity of Connor's Point, when he heard a series of screams from a woman on the shore. He dismounted and hurried to the scene to see a child struggling in the water. He was a good swimmer and by quick action brought the child safely to shore. Four little one had been out in a boat, and in some manner, one of them had fallen overboard.

At Billings Park, a man and a woman, both well supplied in the matter of weight, went out for a boat ride on the river. When in the middle of the stream they attempted to change seats, overturning the boat in the act. Mr. Murphy and Mrs. Steele were on the shore, and at the expense of a thorough wetting, they brought the two people safely to shore. The names of the rescued parties could not be learned.

MILK MUST BE PURE.

City to Require Outside Farmers to Have Stock Inspected.

The health department of the city of Superior has sent out notices to different farmers and dairy companies in Wisconsin and Minnesota notifying them that in the future if they ship their products into Superior, tey will be required to produce certificates showing that their cattle have been inspected by registered veterinarians.

The action is the result of a complaint on the part of Superior milkmen, who are required to have their stock examined by veterinarians. They said that while they were put to that expense, outside companies could ship milk into the city and none knew where it came from or how it came. The city ordinance was found to cover the case, and the notices were sent out.

Tonight, Assistant State Veterinarian Haggerty will address a gathering of dairy farmers and milk men at the city hall on dairy farming and the fumigation of barns. The subject is one of wide interest, and a good crowd is expected to attend.

JUDGE LUSE RESIGNS.

Lenroot May Succed Him as City Attorney.

Rather than forfeit important private practice which his work for the city was forcing him to neglect, Judge L. K. Luse, who for the past year and a half has been at the head of the legal department of the city, yesterday submitted to Mayor Linley his written resignation from the position of city attorney. Mayor Linley has signified his intention of appointing Irvine L. Lenroot to succeed him, and while Mr. Lenroot does not consider it proper to divulge whether or not he will accept before he has received a more official notice of the appointment, it is thought very likely that he will do so.

In his letter of resignation the attorney expressed regret at leaving the case involving the liability of the city upon street improvement bonds issued under the 1891 charter, now in the supreme court of Wisconsin, unfinished, and also expressed regret at leaving unconcluded the case regarding the rights of the city to tax grain stored in elevators.

WIDOW LOSES.

Man Who Drank Carbolic Acid Not Entitled to Insurance.

According to a decision handed down by the Minnesota supreme court yesterday, Samuel Zearfoss lost out in her suit to recover $1,200 insurance for the death of her husband, who was found dead in a room in the Fisher hotel in Superior in 1906. Near him was found a half-drained bottle of carbolic acid, and the Insurance company contended that the suicide was evident.

The case was tried at the district court at Carlton, and the widow was granted the full amount of the insurance. The supreme court reversed this however, finding for the insurance company.

MUST STAND TRIAL.

Man Who Slashed Saloon Keeper Held to Higher Court.

John Degan, the sailor, who was arrested some time ago charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm to Edward Osen, a Superior saloonkeeper, was held for trial yesterday by Judge Parker.

Evidence for the state submitted at the hearing tended to show that Osen and Degan got into an argument regarding some boasting claims, which Degan had made regarding to his life on the vasty deep.

After it became somewhat heated, Osen claimed, Degan dug into him with a case knife and started to slash him viciously. His testimony was borne out by Frank Paradee, who was present.

Degan's bail was fixed at $1,000, which he failed to secure.

CLEVER "CON" GAME.

Alleged "Fake" Fighters Said to Have Robbed Peacemaker.

Joseph Therien claims to have been the victim of one of the cleverest "con" games ever worked in Superior, and as a result Jack O'Neill and Andrew Hughes, sailors, are under arrest at the central station. According to Therien's story the two men knew he had a roll amounting to $40 in his pocket and started a fake fight. When he "butted in" as peacemaker, they very cleverly managed to relieve him of the roll in the fracas, he says. The sailors protest their innocence of the game and say the fight was real enough, but that Therien must have lost his coin somewhere else.

Therien did not tumble to the game which he claims was worked on him until he had separated the "fighters" and went to buy a drink for the crowd when he discovered his loss.

JURY AWARDS TOBIN $8,000

William J. Tobin won his damage case against the Republic Iron & Steel company and Jerry Crimmins, the foreman, and will receive a judgment of $8,000 for the loss of both his legs while working at the Kinney mine on the range.

The case was begun in federal court last Wednesday and the jury brought in a sealed verdict late yesterday afternoon. Both of the defendants are made liable.

Tobin sued for the sum of $25,000. The accident which caused the loss of his legs occurred last January at the Kinney mine, a big engine backing down upon him while he was at work transferring some hose under the track between the ties. Tobin claims that the engineer gave no signal warning him of the approach of the engine.

S. A. Anderson and Whipple & Green were the attorneys for Tobin while the company and Jerry Crimmins were defended by Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell.

GREEN SOD FOR STAGE

Shakespeare Will be Presented in the Open Air.

Much Interest in Amateur Production at Hunter's Park.

The out of door presentation of "Midsummer-night's Dream" which will be given next Wednesday evening at Hunter's Park, is attracting much attention throughout the city and the affair promises to be one of the most largely attended and interesting affairs of the summer.

The play will be given under the direction of A. F. M. Custance, which assures a production of merit and much ability and many of the most talented of the amateur performers of the city will take part. The delightful comedy will be played in a theater of nature's own devising located in the field just beyond the R. M. Hunter home. A stage of goodly proportions walled in with evergreen trees in their natural growth on three sides and with the clumps of bushes and single trees furnishing the stage settings, has been found as an ideal place for the setting of the play and banks rising on the fourth side make the natural provision for the seating of the audience.

The music will be furnished by Flaaten's orchestra of thirty pieces, and the choruses will be sung by the bands of fairies and attendants, nearly fifty people appearing. The songs have been written and composed by Mr. Custance and besides the choruses, solos and duets will be sung by Miss Macfarlane, Miss Maud Matteson, Miss Genevieve Washburn, and Miss Jessie Beatty. The Mendelssohn wedding song and "I Know a Bank" will also be sung.

The affair is being planned by the women who were in charge of "The Trip Around the World," which was one of the most successful and unique entertainments ever given in the city, and every effort is being made to present Shakespeare in as creditable a manner. Special car service has been arranged for and every East Fourth street care will be run out to Hunter's Park.

ESTATE OF THEODORE TILTON IS SMALL.

New York, July 20.—The will of the late Theodore Tilton, whose suit, years ago, against Rev. Henry Ward Becher, brought both men unpleasant notoriety, was filed for probate here yesterday.

Harold C. Bullard, the executer, stated that Mr. Tilton left no real estate and that his personal property did not exceed $3,000. Everything beyond what is required for funeral and other expenses is to be divided between Tilton's two daughters, Florence, widow of William H. Felton of Brooklyn, and Alice, wife of John E. Cardin of Chicago.

ARE FORMING A NEW LODGE

Knights of Koleva Will Have Branch in Duluth.

Finnish people of this city are organizing a new fraternal society and will exert their influence for the welfare of their compatriots in this city and on the range.

The new lodge will be known as the Knights of Kaleva and there are altogether about fifty lodges scattered throughout the United States with a total membership of over 10,000. In Wisconsin the order is especially strong, and its influence for the promotion of the best interests of the Finns is very strong.

In Duluth the active organizers of the society are Dr. John Jackola, Rev Matt Lehtonen and J. W. Lillus. The American Echo, published twice a week, in this city, is edited by Mr. Lillus, and is under the control of the Knights of Kaleva. The other prime movers in the organization of the fraternity are influential citizens of the city.

In the range cities of Ely, Eveleth and Hibbing, lodges of the order have already been formed, and the work of organizing the Finns in other range towns is being carried on extensively.

DULUTH BOY HURT ON BALL FIELD

Collides With Another Player on Moose Lake Diamond.

Herbert McMeachan of Duluth, and Earl Hanson of Moose Lake, collided Thursday night while practicing ball and both sustained serious injuries. Hanson was playing on second, and McMeachan was behind the bat, when a fly was batted out and both boys ran after it. They came together in the middle of the diamond with terrific force.

They were taken to the residence of H. Ireland, which is nearest the ball grounds. Hanson soon recovered consciousness, but McMeachen was still unconscious at 1 o'clock Thursday night. His mother was telephoned for and arrived Friday morning.

TO COME ON A SPECIAL

Northwestern Coal Dealers Will be Here Next Week.

Will Mix Pleasure in With Their Business Sessions.

The members of the Northwestern Coal Dealers' association, which will hold its annual convention in Duluth next week, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, will come to Duluth by special train over the Omaha from the Twin Cities., where most of the members will gather. Some will arrive on the regular trains, however. The special is due in Duluth at 10 o'clock the evening of Monday, July 22. It will be a solid vestibuled train, made up of dining, chair and observation cars, and will carry the celebrated drill squad of Minneapolis. A special dinner will be served en route.

The association has issued a very attractive illustrated folder and sent it to all the members, setting forth facts concerning the entertainment that will be furnished them in Duluth, and giving the official program. The organization is evidently out for some pleasure as well as for business, according to the following extracts from the folder:

"There will be business and fun aplenty—a rousing Koruskation, banquests and a good deal of everything that makes for the betterment of trade and gladdens the heart of the dealer.

"We are laying for you up at Duluth with the biggest bunch of fun every uncorked in the Northwest. We want you to be here without fail. We're going to have the time of our lives, to say nothing of the real good it will do you to meet others dealers and get in touch with the situation generally.

"Don't make a monkey of yourself by pretending that you cannot afford to come to the convention. It'll be worth ten times as much as it will cost you, to say nothing of the high old time the Duluth people are going to show the boys.

"The program shows the business that's on, and some of the fun. But she'll be a sizzler. So you'd better drop everything and come."

The program has already been published in The Herald. The meeting will be called to order at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning by President W. G. Haskell. Mayor Cullum will deliver the address of welcome, and T. J. Skellet will respond. There will be afternoon and morning sessions until Thursday night. Friday a good many of the visitors will go to Ashland on one of the Booth boats, returning to their homes by train from there.

G. H. Reeves, secretary of the organization, is anxious that the general public should not get a wrong impression of the objects of the association. It is not a trust, and does not exist for the purpose of regulating prices. The meetings are not for such purposes, but, on the other hand, are for the purpose of educating the trade up to higher ideals, and reducing the irregularities and leakages in the coal business, to the minimum.

TWO MORE SURVIVORS IN DESPERATE CONDITION.

Boston, July 20.—The condition of two more of the surviving victims of the accident on board the battleship Georgia last Monday assumed a serious aspect today, and one, Seaman John A Bush, was lower than at any time since he was taken to the hospital. Seaman Louis Meese, whose condition the doctors at the hospital said was dangerous, had declined considerably during the night and was in an extremely critical condition today. Most of the others injured are believed to be recovering and two have so far convalesced as to be able to walk about the grounds.

DELIVERIES OF EXPRESS MATTER

Should be Made to All Sections Within City Limits.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I am sending you a copy of the New York Journal of Commerce with a marked article on the subject of legality of express companies refusing to make deliveries of packages in certain remote sections of the cities. Lakeside, Lester Park and Woodland are unique examples of such discrimination. Where is there another town the size of Lakeside of the country without an express company? It costs twice as much to get a package from Chicago to Lakeside as it does to make delivery to almost any way station in the state. Full charges and no delivery.

It is such things that make a suburb undesirable to live in. The first express company that extends service to Lester Park ought to forever hold a perference among patrons, and will to a great extent. We sincerely hope the Ohio state railroad commission will furnish a suggestion to some of our local express companies and compel service in all city limits. Your truly,

H. G. MOONEY.

Duluth, July 20.

The article referred to by Mr. Mooney is as follows:

"Fort Wayne, Ind., July 16.—The state railroad commission today brought suit against the Adams, Pacific and American Express companies for failure to deliver express packages beyond certain limits, it being claimed that this is a violation of the state law, providing that express companies must make deliveries to all points within the corporate limits of every town of over 2,500 population. The commission is demanding the statutory penalty of $5,000 in each case. The purpose is to get the case before the supreme court for a decision."

THE NEW OPIUM CURE.

Independent: We put very little faith in the new specific for the opium habit, but its success in the region of Singatax equals that claimed here for Christian Science. As a result the importation of opium in the Malay states has been reduced from eighty to fifty chests a month and thousands have been cured.

The plant is a climber, botanically called combretum sondajeum. A decoction of the plant is put into two bottles, into one of which is added as much burnt opium as the patient is accustomed to use in a day. When he craves opium he is given two tablespoonfuls from the latter bottle and as much from the other bottle replaces it to fill the space.

This is repeated when called for, but no new opium is added. The patient is cured in from ten to fifteen days. It looks like a plan for "tapering off," with the assurance that the medicine does it.

Beer Prevents Dyspepsia

America has been called a nation of dyspeptics. Were we to drink more beer, there would be less dyspepsia. Where beer is the national beverage dyspepsia is little known. For years Pabst has recognized this food principal in brewing

Pabst Blue Ribbon
The Beer of Quality

The Pabst Eight-Day Malting Process, takes twice as long as other methods of making malt, but it retains every particle of the food value of the barley-grain in the malt.

The Pabst Brewing Process extracts all of these rich, nutritious, health-giving food values from the malt, and transmits them in predigested form to the beer.

Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is therefore an active aid to digestion, and consequently an enemy of dyspepsia. Drink Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer regularly at meals and between meals—your digestion will be better, your health better and your strength greater.

PABST MILWAUKEE

ARTICLE IS LAUDATORY

Harper's Weekly Contains Biographical Sketch of Governor Johnson.

He is Hailed as a "Democratic Presidential Possibility."

Harper's Weekly, in its current issue, devotes three pages to Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota. One page is given up to a full-page picture, a second page is filled with extracts from his published views on public questions, and the third page contains a very friendly and laudatory sketch of his life, character and achievements, by William Inglis, special correspondent, under the head of "A Democratic Presidential Possibility." The magazine says in part:

"The regard in which the people of Minnesota hold Governor John A. Johnson is a rare combination of affection and respect. They honor him for his ability as a statesman, his integrity, and his success in forcing great interests to pay their fair share in the taxation of the state; they love him for the battle he has fought against bitter poverty and obscurity to achieve the highest position in the commonwealth. Those who know him best say he does not know how to flinch. In adversity he never whimpered, in prosperity he is unspoiled.

"It has been a hard battle, and you will find the marks of it in the deep lines around his eyes, the furrows in his brow, the rigidity of his jaws, the ironlike fixity of his determined mouth. And yet it has not robbed him of his optimism, his cheerful readiness to believe the best of his fellowmen. Every man carries in himself the open record of his deeds. In the aspect of this young governor one sees at a glance the history of years of grinding, patient, endless toil, of sacrifices gladly made, of hardships endured, of unchangeable resolve to fight the good fight to the end.

"He is long-armed and tall—a shade less than six feet in height—not of noticeable breadth of shoulder, but of whalebone fibre; a long, lean, hard, enduring man, the type that survives many perils and looks around for more. The first impression you get of him is one of inflexible determination. He neither courts nor avoids popularity. When he grips your hand he is not boiling over with enthusiasm, but is unaffectedly glad to meet you. His interest is not diplomatically effervescent, but moderate and sincere. You note at once, inevitably, the height and breadth of the forehead; then the full, eloquent eyes of hazel, shot with blue, set well apart and alive with the spirit of keen inquiry, yet frank and unflinching; the heavy brows that frown with concentration; the long straight nose; the high cheek-bones, typical of the latter-day American, and the heavy jaws that terminate in a deep, outjutting chin.

"Minnesota, according to all local historians, has never had a better governor than Johnson. He fought extravagance. He killed seals. He gave the state a clean, decent, wise, and economical administration.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When the tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

"DRY" SPELL IN PROSPECT

Saloons Really Closed on Election Day—Dry Sunday Follows.

Duluth is apparently in for a long "dry" spell.

The saloons were really closed today, even the side doors refusing to yield to the gentle pressure of the thirsty ones. Election day is the cause of it, and this morning it looked as if it would be impossible to secure a drink of anything stronger than soda water, before the polls close tonight. The saloons will then open for a few hours, and close again all day Sunday and until 6 o'clock Monday morning. This will be the longest "dry" spell Duluth has had in years. The saloons will have been open but four hours in fifty-five.

LABOR HOLD FIRST ELECTION

Permanent Officers Are Chosen by Union of Ore Handlers.

Two Harbors Strikers Organized—Allouez Comes Next.

An election of permanent officers was held yesterday afternoon by the newly organized union of ore dock laborers after the complete list of members had been made out. When the temporary secretary had completed making out the list of members for the organization, it was found there were over 625 members.

Nelson Perry was chosen as president of the organization; J. Thoreson, vice president; Thomas Klereckie, 2231 West Michigan street, recording secretary; J. W. Comber, 3741 Oneota street, general and financial secretary; Emil Deceaney, marshal; Joseph Winie, grand sentinel. The finance committee was composed of Louis Danielson, William Perry, Fred Johnson, Frank Mars, Alex Wierzbiski and Otto Hadwick.

These officers will hold their positions for the next six months, at which time another regular election will be held. The new union starts out with a good financial showing, their financial secretary having yesterday deposited a substantial sum of money in one of the local banking institutions.

Yesterday afternoon, a delegation of Two Harbors strikers held a conference with W. E. McEwen and Joseph Shartell, with the result that Mr. Shartel went to Two Harbors this morning for the purpose of forming an organization among the strikers there.

At Two Harbors there are about 500 strikers who are anxious to become members of the new organization and it was not expected that Mr. Shartel will have any trouble in getting the members together. The strikers at Allouez are also expected to fall in line as soon as those at Two Harbors have been formally organized.

THE "GIRL" PROBLEM

Is Being Slowly Solved by Free Employment Bureau.

In part, at least, the "girl" problem is being slowly worked out in this city by the officials of the state free employment bureau. Although so far the demand for domestic help has been far greater than the supply, many servants have been furnished Duluth housekeepers through the free employment agency since it went into operation a couple of months ago.

Miss Ettinger, who is in charge of the women's department of the employment bureau, stated today that the number of domestic servants who have applied at the agency since it was established has greatly exceeded the expectations. Every week a large number of women are supplied with positions.

During the past week, except for the last two days, an unusually good business in this line was done. There were many applications for domestic help, however, that could not be supplied, but it is expected that as the bureau is operated longer continually the number of applicants for this class of work will be greater. The demand for hotel and restaurant help also is greatly beyond the supply.

In the department for men, James Walsh, general manager of the labor bureau, has done a rushing business ever since the institution was established. The number of applicants for help is continually increasing and as soon as the city free employment bureau is closed at the end of the month, it is expected the state bureau will have all the business it can handle.

ALUMNI MEMBERS READY TO FEAST

Banquet at the Spalding Hotel Will be Gala Affair.

It will be a joyous gathering at the Spalding hotel this evening when the members of the Northern Alumni association of the Minnesota university will hold their big banquet and reception. Members of the association from all over the northern part of the state will be present.

The officers of the association with the guests of honor, Former President Folwell and Prof. Frank L. McVey, will stand in the receiving line at the reception which will be held from 7 to 8 o'clock. The big dinner in the hotel dining room will be served immediately after the reception.

The General Alumni association will be represented at the reception and banquet by Secretary E. B. Johnson. It has been decided that the usual program of toasts shall be eliminated in order that the informality of the occasion may be more than ever predominating.

Some of the members may be called upon, however, as was stated last night by Secretary John W. Powell, but most of the time would be given over to renewing acquaintances and listening to the guests of the evening.

The committee now has everything ready for the big banquet, and President Bowman anticipates a most enjoyable affair.

CONTRACT AWARDED

G. H. Lounsberry Will Build Additional Stories to Freimuth Store.

Construction Work Will Begin Early in August.

George H. Lounsberry has been awarded the contract for three additional stories that are to be constructed on the Freimuth store at the corner of Lake avenue and Superior street. Announcement of the improvement contemplated was made by The Herald some weeks ago.

Mr. Lounsberry will begin the construction work as soon as the steel arrives, which is expected to be early in August.

The three stories will be of brick and steel, a fire proof construction similar to that of the new stories recently added to the Lonsdale building at Third avenue west and Superior street.

This is the third contract for additional stories on prominent business blocks that Mr. Lounsberry has undertaken within a period of about a year, the first two having been carried to successful completion. The first contract was for three stories to the Bayha building and the second was for four stories on the Lonsdale building.

The Freimuth building is one of the most substantially built structures on Superior street. Although now only two stories in height its foundations were put in with a view of holding a great many additional stories in the future if the occasion demanded it.

Since I. Freimuth & Co. moved into the store building a few years ago their business has far outgrown the present quarters and it was up to the company to either secure additional floor space to meet its pressing needs or else seek another location.

No effort will be spared by the contractor to hasten the constructing work after it is once started for Mr. Freimuth is anxious to get his big stock arranged over the immense amount of additional floor space to become available.

BIG STRIKE ON FAY-CANANEA

Latest Report Shows Splendid Progress—Prospects Bright.

REPORT.

CANANEA, Sonora, Mexico, July 11, 1907.

Fay-Cananea Copper Company, Duluth, Minn.

Gentlemen: We beg to report progress at the mines as follows: The Azurite shaft is down 75 feet, with no material change. Azurite tunnel is in 45 feet, showing a little softer formation.

Sulphate shaft is down 146 feet, with a change in the last three feet, showing more iron and considerable copper stain.

The new tunnel on the Sulphate has 45 feet of new work. This is looking better, the vein matter showing a width of one and a half feet and the entire height of the drift.

Daugherty crosscut struck the ledge at 26 feet. We are now in eight feet on the ledge. I have a sample of the ore and will let you know what it runs as soon as we get the returns. Yours truly,

JAMES A. DAUGHERTY,
Asst. Mgr. F. C. C. Co.

In the above report Mr. Daugherty failed to mention the Steach shaft which is down to water, and has obtained a depth of 120 feet. We are installing a new hoisting plant at this shaft, which will be running this week.

The importance of the strike made in drift running from Daugherty shaft can scarcely be realized, by even mining men not familiar with the situation. For this reason we offer the following explanation:

The Daugherty and Steach shafts are both being sunk on a tableland practically surrounded by mountains that are several hundred feet higher than the collar of the shafts. The Daugherty shaft is forty feet south of the ledge, showing a width of six inches at the outcrop. This ledge runs in a northeasterly direction, passes the Steach shaft one half mile away and less than 100 feet from the same, and passes through the mountains northeast of the Steach and southwest of the Daugherty shaft. Our company owns all of the tableland and all the mountains surrounding the same. The Daugherty vein only being six inches wide at the outcrop, we realized that it might pinch out and concluded to crosscut the formation at a depth of 66 feet. This we did with the result mentioned in the above report. When a vein six inches wide at the outcrop proves to have widened out to eight feet, in going down 66 feet, it seems evident that the vein must continue downward. The above report says crosscut eight feet in ore. This is ore from the surface to the crosscut. How much further we will have to drift to reach the foot-wall, remains to be proven. Both of the shafts herein mentioned are being sunk in new ground on the northerly part of the company's property and two miles from our Sulphate vein.

Note report of Sulphate shaft. This shaft is being sunk south of our big Sulphate vein, in limestone. We intended to crosscut this vein at a depth of 150 feet, but owing to the excellent showing reported in the bottom of the shaft, we will continue sinking the same. This shaft is two miles south of the Daugherty shaft and the Azurite shaft is being sunk one mile south of the Sulphate shaft.

The above report in speaking of the Azurite work, should have said crosscut in lieu of tunnel. This crosscut is running south at a depth of 50 feet and should reach our Azurite vein in a few feet more and 100 feet below the top of the Azurite ore body, as proven by prospect work higher up the mountains.

We have recently added to our holdings so that now the company owns 3,600 acres of mineralized ground and it is all paid for.

FAY-CANANEA COPPER COMPANY,
MARCUS L. FAY,
President.

GROCERS TO HOLD PICNIC

The fourteenth annual picnic of the Duluth Retail Grocers' association will occur at Lincoln Park, Thursday, July 25.

This is an event that has come to be regarded in practically the same light as a legal holiday, and the grocers' picnic never fails to get out one of the largest crowds in the year.

Arrangements are complete for what the committees are certain will be the biggest picnic that the grocers have ever had in Duluth, and the grocers are extending cordial invitation to the public to attend and participate in the festivities.

A long and interesting program of sports, games and contests has been arranged by the committee in charge of that portion of the event and the list of prizes far exceeds in number those awarded at any former picnic.

One of the contests that will be of special interest to the women is the bread making event. The association will award a barrel of Universal flour to the woman who makes the best bread out of that particular brand of flour.

A cash prize of $10 will be awarded the couple winning the waltzing prize at the pavilion.

There will be dancing at the park in the afternoon and evening.

A prize ball game will be pulled off during the afternoon.

There will be races for men, women, girls and boys.

Prizes will be awarded for the oldest married woman on the grounds, for the youngest married woman, for the tallest, the shortest, the fatest and the lightest persons.

One of the big events in the athletic line will be the tug of war between picked teams of grocers from the different sections of the city.

By special arrangement Foley Bros. & Kelly of St. Paul will furnish their Moccasin brand of coffee free of charge from 11 until 2 o'clock and from 5 to 7 o'clock in the evening. Everybody is notified to bring pails and get all the coffee that they want free of charge.

IS MAKING BIG RECORD

Immigration Inspector Dean Makes Twenty-Fourth Trip to Coast.

Will Deport John Carlson, Insane Alien, to Sweden.

When William H. Dean, United States immigration inspector, will leave tomorrow for New York city for the purpose of deporting John Carlson, an insane alien of Superior, to his old home in Sweden, he will have begun his twenty-fourth trip to Atlantic coast ports during the last twelve months.

Figuring 3,000 miles for each trip, Mr. Dean has traveled over 72,000 miles during the last twelve months on deportation business alone, not counting various other trips connected with the office. On several trips Mr. Dean, instead of going to New York or other American ports, had to go to St. John's, New Brunswick or to Montreal, which makes a longer trip than to New York.

Outside of the various deportation trips Mr. Dean has made numerous shorter inspection trips during the year, which would bring up the total number of miles traveled to a considerably higher figure.

Many of the trips have been made with crazy aliens, but the majority have been for the purpose of deporting foreigners who have been found to be physically disabled before being admitted to the country.

In all, Mr. Dean has been obliged to spend about forty weeks out of his office attending to the deportation business. A week or ten days is required for every trip to the Atlantic.

Carlson, who will be deported by Mr. Dean when he reaches New York the middle of next week, has been in the jail at Superior for the past two months. He landed in this country about a year and a half ago at New York. He is not at all averse to being returned to the old country, and Mr. Dean has decided that he will not need an assistant on this trip.

GROCERS' PICNIC

The Fourteenth Annual Picnic of the Duluth Retail Grocers' association will be held at Lincoln Park, Thursday, July 25.

A barrel of Universal Flour will be awarded the lady making the best bread from flour of that brand.

Coffee will be furnished on the grounds, free of charge.

EVERBODY WELCOME.

STICKS TO HER STORY

Colored Prisoner Insists "Husband" Confessed Murder to Her.

Finally Admits She Was Not Married to Johnson.

There were very few new developments in regard to the Patterson murder today. Chief Troyer and County Atorney Norton had John Johnson, one of the suspects, in the chief's private office all morning questioning him as to the affair, but they got very little out of him. He sticks to his original story with a few additions and details, some of which look doubtful.

He left the barber shop about 11:45, he says. He went to one of the Bowery restaurants and got some pork chops. Then he went home. He never looked at a timepiece of any description after he left the barber shop. When he got home, Mandy was there and let him in. She did not appear at all excited or worked up over anything. He never saw or heard of the revolver before, and he has no idea how it got in the bottom of their trunk. He never was married to Mandy and her name is Jackson, not Johnson.

He claims that he never had had any illicit or very intimate relations with the murdered woman, and that Mandy had never accused him of such. They had never had any trouble of any kind over her, he said.

The woman, after denying strongly that such was the case, has finally admitted that her name is Jackson, not Johnson, and that she is not married to Johnson, though they have been living as man and wife for two years. At first she maintained that they had been married by a colored clergyman in Louisville, but in the face of Johnson's strenuous denials she finally admitted that she had been lying about this. The police regard this as simply an attempt to shield herself, and do not discredit the statements as to the rest of the story on this account.

Mandy still sticks to her original story as strongly as ever, and maintains that after they had walked home together Johnson went out, was gone perhaps half an hour, and returning, told her that he had shot "Pat." She went to sleep after this and the first she knew was when Detective Schulte awakened her.

IS CLOSING REQUIRED?

Saloon Keepers Wonder Whether School Election Warrants Order.

Only General, Special and Primary Elections Are Specified.

Is a school election a general, or special, or primary election?

This is what the saloonkepers of the city are asking themselves today as they regretfully watch the thirsty multitudes file wistfully past their doors, closed by order of the police department. They have always been closed up on this day, and no one has raised the point before as to whether it was perfectly proper or not—but is it?

The state law, under the authority of which the order was issued, says that all public drinking places are to be closed on days when general, special, or primary elections are held.

This is not a special election they claim. It is not a primary election, and it cannot be possible, they say, that women are voting at a general election in the commonwealth of Minnesota.

The city charter also contains a provision of this kind, but it limits it to general or special elections. This is not even a municipal election, as it is confined to the school district, whose officers are subordinated in no way to those of the city, and are not provided for in the charter.

And so the saloonkeepers are asking mildly, "Why?" And so far they have not been answered. City Attorney Fesler is out of town, and Assistant Attorney McKeon could not be reached this afternoon, so no official opinion has been handed down as yet.

The scorching heat of the day has made more than one thirsty Duluthian heap maledictions on the law, which keeps them closed. As for the saloonkeepers, the two days of dryness enforced by the election day and Sunday within such close proximity are decidedl obnoxious.

A LACK OF EVIDENCE

Causes Release of John Gulas Upon Payment of Fine.

Because there was not sufficient evidence to convict him, John Gulas, the Hun who is said to have stabbed Paul Petrovitch under the Lake avenue viaduct two weeks ago, and missed his heart by the smallest fraction of an inch, has been allowed to go free upon the payment of a fine of $102.50. Yesterday afternoon when he was arraigned before Judge Windom, County Atorney Norton withdrew the charge of second degree assault against him, and he pleaded guilty to third degree assault and was given the maximum fine, with the option of the three months in jail. He produced the money and went out a free man.

The stabbing took place during the morning, shortly before 10 o'clock. Petrovitch and Gulas are said to have been drinking together all night at the Gulas home and in the morning started a quarrel on some pretext or other. Gulas says that Petrovitch had been too intimate wit h hiswife, and that he caught him with her that morning, but his wife says that Gulas and Petrovitch had been together all night, and she does not know what was the cause of their quarrel. They started fighting inside, but finally went out of the house, which faces under the Lake avenue viaduct, and continued their fight there.

In some manner a knife entered Petrovitch's chest, missing the heart by a very narrow margin. Gulas says it was Petrovitch's own knife which he fell on. Petrovitch says that Gulas stabbed him. No one else saw the encounter. A passerby is said to have picked up the knife and walked away with it. At least it has disappeared and so cannot be identified.

The authorities decided that they could not convict the Hun of the stabbing, but the case against him for plain fighting was clear.

Charges for Funeral Rigs Are Increased by Owners.

West Duluth People Consider It Injustice to Them.

Most of the liverymen of Duluth, including some of those in West Duluth and West end, have adopted a new scale of prices for funeral rigs, which is regarded as an injustice to West Duluth people.

The new scale provides that the prices of rigs to all cemeteries shall be $10 for the hearse, $5 for each hack and $6 for the pall bearers' carriage. The former prices were $8 for the hearse, $4 for the hacks and $5 for the pall bearers' carriage.

Those who have noticed the raise do not take kindly to it. Not that they would object to the price of the rigs were they in trouble themselves, but they do not like to see others held up, and they consider the new prices a holdup.

The stipulation that the prices are to prevail to all cemeteries is the sticking point. Whereas the prices may be just for the remainder of the city, they are not considered so at West Duluth, when funerals from here go to Oneota cemtery. Oneota is less than two miles from the main portion of West Duluth, and people do not like the idea of residents of this section of the city being held up in that way at a time, when they will seldom take steps to defend themselves.

Some of the liverymen are not in on the combine. Those who have remained out, it is thought, will reap the harvest, at least in West Duluth. When four or five hacks are used at a funeral, the saving to a person in moderate means is not to be despised, and some think the unwarranted raise will bring little to those in on the combine.

Hand is Amputated.

Frank Gotwald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gotwald of 132 North Central avenue, this morning suffered the loss of his left hand through an accident at the West Duluth Box factory, where he was employed. The young man was running a dove-tailing machine. He was shutting the power off to stop the machine, when in some manner, his hand became entangled in the machinery. Before the knives could be made stationary, they had badly mangled the member. The injured youth was taken to the Duluth hospital, where is was seen nothing could be done to save the hand, and it was amputated at the wrist.

Seven Drunks Arrested.

The West Duluth patrol wagon was kept on a steady grind all last night. It no sooner was returned to the police station, bringing in one drunk, when it turned around and went after another. All told, there were seven arrests, the men and their time being as follows: Charles Greves, 7:30 p. m.; Tom Derere, 11; George Siddall, 11:15; John Burke, 1:40 a. m.; John Hager, 3:30; Victor Johnson, 7:15; Charles Rugard, 9. The seven were taken to Duluth this morning for arraignment in municipal court.

Held Social Session.

The West Duluth Commercial club held a social session last evening, instead of the regular business meeting. The club met for the regular session, but there was nothing doing in the way of business, as all appeared to be serene in West Duluth affairs. So the business meeting was adjourned and the members enjoyed themselves in an informal way.

FIERCE BATTLE ON THE DIAMOND

"There was an air of suppressed excitement about the courthouse this morning caused by the preparations for the ball game this afternoon between the courthouse Tigers and the city hall 'Hungry Nine.' The game was to have been called at 3 o'clock this afternoon and it was the expectation that the county offices would be closed this afternoon as everybody had planned to be present at the game. The courthouse fellows claimed this noon that there was no city hall money in sight."

The foregoing item was written by the courthouse reporter for The Herald. The city hall reporter's account of the game is as follows:

"If the courthouse has-beens have a ball team they are afraid to acknowledge it. Employes of the city hall attempted to place some wagers on the game this morning, but no courthouse money was in sight. The 'Jail Birds' are expected to be easy meat for the city hall team."

The two accounts seem to agree on the one main point, that there is to be a ball game.

MARINE NEWS

COULBY IS IN DULUTH

President of Steamship Company Here on Strike Business.

Vessels Being Laid Up and Crews Paid Off.

Harry Coulby, president and general manager of the Pittsburg Steamship company, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon, having made the trip from Cleveland on the big freighter Thomas F. Cole, the flagship of the Pittsburg fleet. Mr. Coulby is spending the day with the local officers of the Steel corporation.

As soon as the news of the big strike of the ore handlers was received at the lower lake ports this week, Mr. Coulby took passage for the Head of the Lakes in order to be at the seat of the trouble and direct the movements of the big fleet of vessels of the Pittsburg company which is now congregating here.

When seen this morning, Mr. Coulby had nothing to say concerning the strike or in regard to the big fleet of steamships which will soon be idle as a result of it.

At present there is nothing new in the strike situation. No moves have been made by either side toward a settlement, and they are both as far from an agreement as they were at the first of the week. All three of the big docks at Duluth, Two Harbors and Allouez are now out, and no iron ore has been shipped since Thursday morning, that being from Allouez.

There are about a score of vessels laid up in the Duluth and Superior harbor waiting for developments in the strike situation. The reports from Two Harbors stated that there are about fifty vessels at anchor there. Some of the masters there have been ordered to lay up their boats temporarily and pay off the crew. Nearly all of the barges of the Pittsburg fleet are being dropped as rapidly as possible.

Several boats have left the Duluth harbor with no cargoes during the last two days, either heading for Lake Superior docks or bound for the lower lakes to lay up or to get coal cargoes. The ore docks at Ashland and Marquette are getting more patronage this week than they are able to handle.

REPORT IS DENIED.

Government Engineers Have Nothing to Do With Channel Lights.

The report published yesterday that the local government engineers had been requested by the lighthouse department of the Great Lakes to attend to the work of getting the light posts and buoys for the new cross channel in St. Louis bay, has been strenuously denied at the office of the government engineers today.

James L. Owens, chief clerk at the local office of the government engineers, stated this morning that this work was entirely under the supervision of the lighthouse department, and would be undoubtedly attended to by Maj. Charles Kellar, whose headquarters are at Detroit.

No request was made by the lighthouse department that the local engineers should attend to the work, although Mr. Darling, junior engineer, did make an inspection of the new channel Thursday afternoon. Mr. Owens says that there is little doubt that the lighthouse department will have the channel lighted in the near future.

"Reserve Force" that's the word for Grape-Nuts FOOD

"I want to tell you about Grape-Nuts food, and my experience with it.

"I had for a year or two, felt a general debility creeping on me, and also suffered from flatulency, piles, etc., which I began to think was due to advancing age, now being 65 years old, when, in the providence of God, as I believe, Grape-Nuts was brought to my notice, and tried as an experiment.

In a week I found a decided improvement in myself, and have kept improveling ever since, and am now being congratulated on the great change in my appearance by all acquaintances. Not only so, but I feel I have reserve force so that I do not feel wearied at night, although I have worked continuously from 7:30 a. m. until 9 p. m.

I recommend Grape-Nuts to my friends and acquaintances, and all of my family use the food, and it is on the table at every meal whatever else is omitted. I write this being desirous of giving vent to the grateful feeling I entertain for the benefits received from the use of this incomparable food."

The particular element which produces the feeling of strength is the delicate particles of Phosphate of Potash, not the phosphate of the drug store, but that which is prepared by Nature and furnished in the field grains. This delicate element, not observed by the taste, is used by Nature in connection with the albumen of food, to rebuild the gray matter in the nerve centers throughout the body and in the brain and solar plexus, so that one thus nourished and rebuilt is very sure to feel the effects of this rebuilding within a week or ten days, and this feeling grows and becomes fixed as one becomes a steady, every day user of Grape-Nuts. CHARTER AT ONE CENT

Grain Rates to Lower Lakes Are Merely Nominal.

Owners Willing to Take Almost Anything That is Offered.

Almost anything that is offered is the grain rate from Duluth to Buffalo today.

One Duluth grain man made a charter at Fort William today for 1 cent a bushel.

The reason, of course, for the low rates, is the strike of the ore handlers. Vessels which were in the ore business are offered a choice between laying up and finding cargoes elsewhere. Grain shipments are not heavy at this season of the year, and perhaps not more than eight or ten boats a week leave Duluth loaded with grain. When all the ore vessels begin to beg for these cargoes, the rates are necessarily slashed, and vessel owners are willing to even carry the grain at a slight loss, rather than lay up their boats.

There is tonnage enough offered to carry all the grain in store at the Head of the Lakes.

UNIFORM BILL OF LADING

Is Wanted by National Bankers' Association for Lake Carriers.

Detroit, July 20.—President Livingstone and Counsel Goulder of the Lake Carriers' association on Saturday met at Detroit here with the special committee on uniform bill of lading of the National Bankers' association, of which committee Mr. Livingstone also is a member.

For some years the bankers' association has been endeavoring to secure the adoption and use of a uniform bill of lading and they also feel that some additional legislation amendatory of the interstate commerce law is necessary. So far as the Lake Carriers' association is concerned, Mr. Goulder has consistently taken the stand that the bulk freighters of the Great Lakes are not common carriers and that there is no occasion, if it were possible, to bring them in the slightest degree under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission, although the vessel owners are very willing to co-operate with the bankers and the shippers in putting every reasonable safeguard about the bill of lading in the grain trade, where only it is of importance with the bulk freighter.

The package line boats running in conjunction with railroads on joint routes and joint rates, are in a different position, and the same thing is true of all of the freight and passenger lines which run upon joint arrangement. The suggestion of Mr. Livingstone and Mr. Goulder was to leave the bulk freighters entirely out of the matter, which will probably be done, except that a uniform bill of lading for the grain trade satisfactory to all parties and which shall involve security of the bank which advances money on the bill of lading and also insures such delivery by the ship as shall free her from all obligations when she shall have carried her cargo to its destination and there delivered it, will be arranged.

WAS BOTHERSOME CHANNEL

Old Hickory is Cleaning Out Capital Elevator Slip.

Capital elevator channel is being dredged out by the big dredge "Old Hickory" this week from the Rice's Point main channel up to the elevator dock. The old Hickory has been at work on this contract for the last two days, and had about completed it this afternoon.

This channel, on account of the many shoals and shallow spots, was a source of considerable trouble last spring, and several big freighters went into the mud there. The Old Hickory is scooping out the bottom at a lively rate, however, and there will be no more trouble.

As soon as the big dredge, which is owned by the Duluth-Superior Dredging company, completes this job, it is expected that she will begin on the big government contract.

Grain Rates Away Down.

Cleveland, July 20.—The grain rates from Duluth to Buffalo was pounded down to a cent a bushel today and some business was done at that rock bottom figure. Local vesselmen refused to charter their boats at the cut. Offerings of coal tonnage are liberal but rates are unchanged.

A DENSE FOG IN NEW YORK

sands of office and shop employes from their homes in Long Island, New Jersey and Staten Island, poked hesitatingly across the rivers and the bay, occasionally bumping one another, but without serious result, due to the caution of the pilots. While the pall of fog hung heaviest a steam lighter crashed into the Pennsylvania railroad ferryboat, Baltimore, which was crowded with incoming passengers. Beyond scaring the nervous passengers, little damage was done.

Off Sandy Hook at least three of the big trans-Atlantic liners were waiting for the fog to lift and make it safe for their pilots to bring them up the crooked channels. They were the Lucania, on which William Fife, the yacht designer, was a passenger; La Savoie, bringing Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Corey, and the Celtic.

THIRTY TO FORTY LIVES LOST

ered from the shock and crawled from the wreckage, they at once began extricating the dead and injured. Messengers were rushed to this village and to Plymouth and all the doctors from this place and neighboring villages were hurried to the scene.

1st PAGE U

Farmers who heard the crash came to the rescue also. A special train was made up in the yards at Detroit and sent to the wreck, a distance of forty miles, with doctors, nurses, surgical instruments and cots. By the time this train arrived there were several scores of people waiting to receive medical attention, and over a score of bodies had ben extricated and were lying on the grass beside the track.

Mrs. Minnie Densmore of Ionia, a passenger on the wrecked train, describing the horror, said:

"My husband and myself were in the sixth coach, right behind the first five in which the greatest loss of life occured. There was a terrible crash, and the train came to a sudden stop, throwing us out of our seats. Instantly our car was filled with terror-stricken people trying to fight their way out. No one knew just what had happened but every occupant of the car seemed to feel instinctively that there had been a tragedy and seemed to be filled with fear. Their clothes were torn and they inflicted severe bruises on one another in their mad efforts to get to the ground. It was not long before they realized that our car was not damaged and that they were not in danger themselves. When we got out of the coach, we found the engine and the first five cars piled up beside the tracks, while shrieks of pain and cries for mercy filled the air."

The first five cars were filled with people and it is in these that most of the bodies were found.

The engineer of the train from Ionia was A. B. Alvord of Iona. He and the fireman jumped and it is presumed by the passengers that they escaped with minor injuries.

"Conductor Bixley of Ionia is among the missing. There were nineteen bodies taken from the wreckage before the relief came in from Detroit."

EX-COOK GETS VERDICT.

Jury Awards Her $150 for Breach of Contract.

Muskegon, Mich., July 20.—A jury in Squire Osterban's court here has given Mrs. Jennie Webb a verdict for $150 against Mrs. Lawrence Depew, of Detroit, a recent cook and general servant at the Depew summer home at Lake Harbor, a village east of here. Mrs. Webb set up that Mrs. Depew engaged her as a servant until Oct. 1 and discharged her at the end of the first week. She asked for $300 for breach of contract.

The trouble, she alleged, was that Mrs. Depew insisted on her doing hard, menial labor, and that when she rebelled the lady of the house called her down, using the words "holy mackerel."

Mrs. Depew contradicted her ex-servant on the main points and she will appeal from the verdict. Mrs. Depew's husband was the late Lawrence Depew, a well known manufacturer of Detroit.

ON THE IRON RANGES

COLERAINE HAS BUILDING BOOM

Plenty of Evidence of Growth of Range City.

Coleraine, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—That Coleraine is enjoying a steady growth is evidenced by the amount of building going on at present. Not only is there a large amount of building but in both the residence and business line, but streets are being graded, the boulevards and parks are being put in shape, and cement sidewalks will soon be laid; and above all, an up to date waterworks plant, sewage system and electric lights are among the assured improvements this summer.

E. C. Ingalls' new residence is up and enclosed, and work on the interior has begun.

The thirty or more new houses which the company is having erected for its employes are well under way, some of them being completed, and makes a fine showing in the second and third additions.

Attorney Greer is having excavating work done for a new residence in the second addition near the boulevard.

Architect Johnson, contemplates the erection of a double flat building in the near future, and is preparing plans for same.

Dr. N. D. Kean's new residence will soon be under way, the contract having been let last week to a Minneapolis contractor.

E. N. Johnson, a Minneapolis contractor, has been awarded the contract for the erection of the large office building for the Oliver Iron Mining company in this city. The building will be constructed of brick and stone and will cost in the neighborhood of $35,000.

P. E. Schauble is completing arrangements for the erection of a new two-story building 25x50 feet, which will be made of pressed brick, and situated on the corner lot west of the Wangenstein building.

Work on the construction of the plant and it is to be completed and in running order by Nov. 1. The plant is to be located on the city pumping station, and power will be furnished by the village. The rates agreed upon for lighting is to be 12c, 10c, 8c, and 6c per killowat, which is considerably cheaper than any other town on the range or even Duluth. The village has reserved the right to purchase the plant and equipment at appraised value at any time after the expiration of two years.

SUNDAY GAMES ON THE RANGES

Several Lively Contests on the Diamond Are Planned.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Owing to their inability to get the grounds in condition, the local management postponed the ball games scheduled for last Sunday, but a game will be played tomorrow with the Fitwells of Duluth or the Clippers of Superior, both strong teams, and a good game is expected. The grounds are now in good condition, but there is still considerable work to be done building a grand stand and fencing the grounds. A five-year lease of the same has been secured, and all improvements will be substantial.

Virginia, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia and the fast Saskatoon nines are playing here this afternoon. The clubs will also play here tomorrow.

Chisholm, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Happy Hooligans of Superior and the local nine are expected to play here tomorrow. The Chisholm boys are in good shape from plenty of practice, and they expect to take the visitors into camp tomorrow.

KILLED MOOSE OUT OF SEASON

Half-Breed Indian Gets Forty-Five Days in Jail.

Tower, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forty-five days in the county jail at Duluth for killing moose out of season is the punishment meted out to a half breed Indian by the name of Christopher Columbus.

The warrant for his arrest was issued March 20, but he evidently heard of it for he has kept out of sight since that time. He came to town however, Friday morning and it was his undoing for he was recognized by Deputy Game Warden James Beatty and after an exciting chase through the streets was finally captured and locked up. His sentence was passed Friday by Municipal Judge Butler.

BEAR RIVER MEN ARE SUMMONED ON JURY.

Hibbing, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—A number of homesteaders from the Bear river country passed through here Friday on their way to Grand Rapids to serve on the jury at the present term of court. W. J. Cain, one of the number has resided continuously on his claim for the past thirteen months. Those in the party were: George Scarity, Chris Ramberg, Albert Bavery, John Westling, John Samuelson, Ole Ordahl, Clarence Fornelius, Dwight Palmer, Iwe Hollenbach, John McCutcheon, Henry Sessions, R. Knutson, D. Butchart, Dan Butchart, W. J. Cain, Stanley Booth, Andy Wilson, Martin Stram, Louis Sherman, Nels Osprey.

INTEREST IN HIBBING.

Annual School Election to be Held in the Hibbing Town Hall.

Hibbing, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is considerable interest in the annual school election to be held this evening in the town hall, and it is expected there will be a large vote polled, as about 800 votes were cast at last year's election, and since then there has been a large increase in population here and at the surrounding locations.

The position of clerk is to be filled, and A. E. Pfremmer appears to be the only candidate unless others develop before the voting begins tonight. A. P. Stillman, the present clerk, has served six years, and is not seeking re-election. The question of fixing the compensation of school officers acting on several building petitions and the question of reducing the length of the school year from ten months to nine will also be considered.

OPEN SOME LETTERS.

Law-Breakers Enter the Postoffice at Mount. Iron.

Mount Iron, Minn., July 20.—(Special to the Herald.)—Some one not afraid of Uncle Sam tampered with letters in the local postoffice Thursday night. Several mail sacks were opened and letters abstracted, torn open and thrown on the floor. So far as known no money contents of any of the letters was touched, the design evidently being to ascertain a certain thing contained in the correspondence. The postal authorities will probe the matter and try to fix the blame.

LIGHTNING PLAYS HAVOC.

Tower and Vicinity Were Visited by Severe Storm Thursday Night.

Tower, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fiercest electrical storm ever witnessed occurred Thursday night. The storm had been brewing all day and broke in at all its fury at midnight. The lightning struck the Johnson house, almost completely demolishing the furniture and carpets and plastering of one room, while at Albert Weintzerl's, the adjoing building, the dining room plastering was torn down and the furniture marred, and a number of dishes broken. Neither of the places were set afire, and a man sleeping in the room at the Johnson house was uninjured. A heavy downpour of rain followed the electrical storm and lasted for a couple of hours.

ELECTION AT VIRGINIA.

Capt. Ross Kelly Does Not Appear to Have Opposition.

Hibbing, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is little liklihood of a candidate developing before the annual school meeting begins tonight to oppose Capt. Ross Kelly, who is after the directorship. Besides electing a director the question of voting funds for the ensuing year will be considered.

PROSECUTOR HAWLEY

Western Federation of Miners and the railroad company. I am not here to paint Harry Orchard in anything but his true colors.

"There is but one claim we make for him and that is that he has told you the truth. This fact has been indelibly fixed by all the circumstances in the case."

Mr. Hawley said immediately after the train wrecking incident Orchard was found again in the Western Federation of Miners. Taking up the matter of the attempted assassination of Governor Peabody Mr. Hawley repeated much of the testimony of Orchard as to the plans he and Steve Adams laid to kill the governor. Orchard's testimony was amply corroborated, counsel declared, Mrs. Peabody herself taking the stand to testify to one of the most important incidents. The attorney told of Governor Peabody's activities in the Colorado troubles and declared that the strongest motive for his taking off was connected with the Western Federation of Miners.

The field for argument both for the prosecution and defense of William D. Haywood has been limited by Judge Wood, who in a decision handed down yesterday removed from the consideration of the jury all evidence bearing on the alleged conspiracy by mine owners and others against the Western Federation of Miners.

Judge Wood decided that the defense had made no legal connection of the Mine Owners' association, the Citizens' Alliance of Colorado and the Pinkerton detective agency, as laying a foundation for the evidence introduced to show that the charge against Haywood and his co-defendants is the outcome of a conspiracy to exterminate the federation.

Immediately after the announcement of this decision, argument commenced, Judge Hawley, leading counsel for the state, spoke for two hours and fifteen minutes at the afternoon session, the morning session having been adjourned to enable the judge to prepare his decision.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. If it did there would be few children that would do it. There is a constitutional cause for this. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 426, South Bend, Ind., will send her home treatment to any mother. She asks no money. Write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child. The chances are it can't help it.

PRINCE IS NOW RULER

prince, the former emperor took leave of the cabinet.

Gen. Hasegawa's troops still garrison the palace, and there are a number from Pingyag at Seoul to reinforce the Twentieth regiment, already here.

At 10 o'clock an alleged plot was reported to Marquis Ito. He was told that the imperial guard had been clandestinely ordered by the former emperor to enter the palace at midnight and murder the whole cabinet, which was responsible for his abdication. This is the official explanation of the fact that the Japanese are garrisoning the palace.

The Korean ministers of war and justice visited Marquis Ito at 11 o'clock last night, declaring that the intrigue above mentioned was about to be realized and prayed for instant help. Marquis Ito, who had already received the former emperor's petition asking him to aid in subduing disorders, immediately ordered Gen. Hasegana to send troops to the scene. The soldiers arrived half an hour before the time of the intended dash of the Korean general from the barracks for the palace gate.

DICTATING TO MEMBERS

Fraternal Society Leaders Took a Very Arbitrary Stand.

The Local Societies Spent Large Sum of Money Uselessly.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A year ago, while meeting in Montreal, the National Fraternal Congress and the Associated Fraternities of America very properly decided to meet in Duluth on Aug. 20 to 24 next.

The Commercial club, the business men and the various fraternal orders of the city took immediate action and committees were appointed to carefully look after the proper reception of our distinguished visitors. Hotel accommodations were secured so that all delegates would have been cared for in a manner to be equalled in no other city in America.

Prominent speakers were engaged, among them the governor of our state. Various pleasure trips upon both land and water were provided for and the funds to cover the expense of the same had been provided through the various organizations and the fraternal societies interested. It was the intention of the cities of Duluth and Superior and the fraternal organizations to make this a red letter occasion that would pass down into history, but the Dictator said "No."

In the past it has been often quoted by the head officers of our various fraternal orders, when they wish to appear meek and submissive, with their hearts bubbling over with the fraternal spirit in behalf of the widows and orphans and desirous of leaving a sweet incense upon the minds of the policyholders, that "We are the servants; you are the members and we are subject to your dictates."

Is this sentiment expressed by turning down cold at this late date their members in Duluth and Superior, regardless of the money, time and labor which has been so freely given upon the good word of the two fraternities in question?

The sentiment of the citizens of Duluth is expressed by an emphatic "No."

Would not a more appropriate statement by our head officers be "You are the members; we are the rulers, and you are subject to our dictates?"

Please remember that this charge does not refer to the head officers of all fraternal organizations.

We can easily read between the lines why this sudden change has been made since we have letters in our possession which state that the delegates and managers of the largest fraternal order refuse to again come to Duluth.

Should the representatives of the other 105 fraternals which compose the Associated Fraternal Congresses have to throw up their hands and give in to this one order whose head officers were here a short time ago?

While this order in question has been working in the Eastern states to gain a footing, which is more difficult than in the West, it seems that it is their intent to have the Fraternal Congress meet in Buffalo, N. Y., and by so doing, cause a rattling among the dry bones of the Easterners, thus giving their deputies a chance to secure new business on the strength of the advertising heralded through the columns of the Eastern journals.

We trust they will remember the obligation they have taken in the order to which they belong, and in the future be guided by this obligation which is closely allied to the Golden Rule: "Do ye unto others, as you would have others do unto you," letting the avaracious desires of their gain be a secondary matter, and greater will be the results of their new business and also that of other fraternal orders.

DULUTH'S PARKS WERE NEVER MORE BEAUTIFUL THAN THEY ARE NOW AND WERE NEVER MORE ENJOYED BY WOMEN AND CHILDREN

SOME SCENES IN THE DULUTH PARKS. —Photo by Herald Photographer.

It has been said of Duluth's parks this year that they seem to have attained a greater degree of beauty than ever before since the lands upon which they are situated were set aside for that purpose years ago.

To make such a statement means that Duluth has received as great a compliment as could be given the city, for no other parks in other cities are more beautiful than Duluth's.

This summer the grass seems greener, the leaves on the trees and bushes and the flowers seem larger and more abundant. Why is it that this should be the case this year any more than other seasons is not known, but the fact remains that the parks seem more glorious even to Duluthians than in other years.

It may be due to the lateness of the season. The grass and the leaves and flowers may be making up for lost time. Or for this same reason the people who visit the parks may be able to appreciate their beauties better after experiencing the long cold spring when nothing of nature had a chance to grow.

In Duluth one can find every kind of a park and can take his choice. There are parks, which have been hardly disturbed by the hand of man, but have been left as nature made them. Others are laid out nearer the center of the city in true park arrangement with numerous branching walks and close clipped grass. The little streams and cascades are numerous in Duluth's parks and are very popular.

Among the parks which can be reached by a short walk from the business center of the city is Cascade park, one of the prettiest spots in the city. It is situated at the end of First avenue west and from it one gets a magnificent view of Duluth and harbor, and the grand expanse of Lake Superior. Chester park and Portland square are two more nature spots near to the city.

Portland square while one of the smallest parks in Duluth is well kept and is a popular place for the inhabitants of the neighborhood to cool off and get a breath of real fresh, air in hot weather. It is situated just above Fourth street between Tenth and Eleventh avenues east. It is a popular playground for the children as are all the other parks of the city.

One of the parks which has been left nearly in the way it was formed by nature, is Lester Park at the end of the Lakeside car line. Picnic parties and campers generally select this beauty spot for their use, and during the fishing season Lester river affords good trout fishing. The scenery along the little river is magnificent and is viewed by thousands of people who come from outside of Duluth every year.

In the west end of the city, the residents have a pretty little park at Twenty-fifth avenue and Third street which meets every demand for natural beauty. Here, too, there is a little creek which tumbles over the rocks and pebbles in a way to inspire the poets. Still further to the west of town is another "natural beauty" park, Fairmont park. By some persons this is claimed to be the most beautiful tract of land in the city.

Crowds of pleasure-seekers spend their rest hours at all of these parks every summer. In the day time mothers come with their children, bring baskets with picnic lunches, and spend the day. In the afternoons any number of children can be found playing in the parks and in the evenings it is a favorite haunt for lovers, old and young.

Besides the tracts of land laid out by the city park board, there are many beautiful spots. A more beautiful natural "park" than the tract of land along Tischers' creek would be hard to find and it is visited by many people every Sunday.

DULUTH IS NOT AN EXPENSIVE CITY IN WHICH TO LIVE

Comparison of Prices Charged for Necessities of Life, Here and in Other Cities Shows That Duluth Has An Undeserved Reputation for Being An Expensive Place for the Working Man.

Five years ago Duluth had a reputation of being an expensive place in which to live. It has the same reputation today. A careful investigation carried on with the purpose of obtaining such information as would tend to establish not only a fair comparison of the cost of living in various cities, but also the earnings of various lines of labor, both skilled and unskilled, fails to sustain this reputation.

In 1902, there being considerable question in the minds of local business men as to whether the facts in the case warranted the extreme statements which were so often heard relative to the cost of maintaining a home here, the Commercial club took up the matter, and a committee consisting of L. N. Case, Roger S. Powell and A. Hirsch, was appointed to look into the matter to ascertain actual conditions in this regard. Their investigation proved conclusively that taken as a whole, living expenses in the Zenith City were no higher than in other large cities of the country. In some respects they were higher, but they were lower in others enough to make an even balance. An investigation carried on by The Herald this month shows that the same condition holds true today.

Increase Proportional.

The cost of living has increased during the past five years. This has been the case all over the country. The increase in Duluth has been no greater than elsewhere. During the same period wages have also been largely increased, and the profits from almost all lines of business have grown in proportion. The average wage scale in Duluth today is higher than in 95 per cent of the cities of the United States, and this difference is more than enough to make up for any slight difference in the living expenses, if there were such a difference. In short, a careful study of the situation seems to reveal the fact that the average man or the average family is better off in a financial way, if he is a resident of Duluth, than would be the case if the man or family resided in any one of fifteen or twenty of the large cities of the country, not to mention the additional advantage of an ideal summer climate, pure water, unsurpassed sanitary conditions, etc.

The Commercial club committe five years ago gathered statistics from Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Cleveland, Pittsburg and Buffalo. These statistics, which concerned living expenses, were compared with similar statistics as applying to Duluth. Prices were obtained on sixteen staple articles of groceries and twenty kinds of meats, on the same day in these various cities. The cost of rent, light, water, etc., was also obtained. From these statistics an average was calculated. The average price of meat was found to be 12-3 per cent higher in Duluth than the average price in the cities mentioned, but, on the other hand, the average price of staple groceries in Duluth was 6 per cent lower than the average in the other cities, strange as it may seem. Rents were in no cases higher, and in some instances they were lower. Light, both gas and electric, as well as fuel, both coal and wood, commanded a lower price in Duluth than elsewhere. Water was somewhat higher, but since that time prices locally have been reduced, until now Duluth is on a level with other cities, and in some instances water is much cheaper here than elsewhere, and in addition to this the supply for all domestic purposes is far superior to that offered in other cities. It is the best in the world. In effect, the same condition in regard to all these facts holds true today, as investigation shows.

Some Recent Statistics.

The following figures were obtained on rents in 1902: Tenement houses for the poor, three and four rooms each: Duluth price, $3 to $5 a month; Detroit, Mich., price, $5 to $7; Chicago price, $3 to $10; Minneapolis, $3 to $5; Milwaukee, $3 to $8; Pittsburg, $8 to $15; St. Paul, $5 to $7; Buffalo, $4 to $6. Rents for the better class of dwellings and business buildings were no higher in Duluth than elsewhere. The latter statement applies today as well as it did five years ago. Coal and wood is still cheaper here than in the other cities named, and skilled and unskilled labor commands 1 to 10 per cent more than in the cities named. Cothing is about the same price. Tailor-made goods of the better class are somewhat higher in Duluth than elsewhere. An up-to-date tailor-made suit in Duluth costs $5 or $10 more in most cases than in the other big cities, but ready-made clothes and shoes of all descriptions are as cheap here as anywhere.

Present Conditions.

The Herald's investigation this time applied particularly to a comparison of Minneapolis and Duluth. In the first place, it has been hinted that rents were cheaper in the Flour City than here. They are no cheaper there than in Duluth.

"I was in Minneapolis last week," said H. V. Eva, secrteary of the Commercial club. "Across the road from the house in which I was a guest was a row of five houses. They were not much to look at. Out of curiosity I asked what rentals were secured. Imagine my astonishment when I learned that $50 a month was asked and paid. The same houses in Duluth, in the same location as regards the center of the city, would not command more than $35 or $40, and it would be paid under protest. Looking farther, I found that the average rentals in Minneapolis, taking location into consideration, were higher than in Duluth. This applies to both residences and business properties. Of course, there are exceptions in both cities. The Commercial club in Minneapolis, for example, is paying $10,000 a year rental for one floor in the down town district. They have no more space than the Duluth Commercial club, which pays $2,500 a year rental."

Opinions of Others.

Maj. Eva is only one of several Duluth men who have looked into the rent situation in the two cities. Some of the others questioned were even more careful in looking into the matter, for they did so with the expectation of investing in Minneapolis real estate, and before spending their money they took the precaution to find what rentals were being paid in the Flour City. Others questioned have obtained their information from friends and relatives residing in Minneapolis. In no instance was a person found who could say that rents were higher in Duluth than in Minneapolis, although, before obtaining reliable information, they were of the opinion that rents were higher here than there.

Rents for average flats in Duluth, average family size, modern in equipment in the way of water, gas, electric light and sewer connections, heated and well located run from $30 to $50. Minneapolis cannot do any better. In both cities exceptionally good flats may be obtained for considerably higher prices, but everything taken into consideration, the highest priced flats and houses in Duluth ask no higher rentals than buildings of the same class in Minneapolis, and in the majority of cases rents here are more reasonable than they are there. The same rule applies to business locations.

Low Priced Dwellings.

With cheaper dwellings Duluth can well stand comparison with Minneapolis. Six and seven room houses, centrally located, with water, light and sewer connections, rent as low as $25 in Duluth. It is claimed that the same buildings in relatively the same locations in Minneapolis would command $5 to $10 a month more rental. A cry has gone up all over the country because of high rentals. During the last year or two, rents have been increased in almost every city of any importance in the United States. Particularly is this true of the East, especially in New York and Pittsburg. In West Duluth, and in the outskirts of Duluth proper, comfortable dwelling with water and light connections can be rented for $12 and $15 a month. Houses for small families are to be had as low as $10. While these are the prices charged, there are practically no houses or flats to be obtained in Duluth just now at any price. They are all full. Probably in the whole city there are not twenty-five empty flats or houses suitable for living purposes. More are being built right along, but construction in this line scarcely keeps up with the demand. It is expected that when the steel plant and associated manufacturing institutions come here they will follow out the custom of big institutions of the kind in other cities, and build houses of their own for employes, charging a moderate rental. This is customary.

The Price of Meats.

Meats are no higher in Duluth than Minneapolis. In both cities the consumer is kicking because of high prices charged. In the line of general produce, Minneapolis is found to have a slight advantage over Duluth, according to a comparison of the market lists of the two cities. Butter, cheese and eggs command the same prices in the two cities. Burbank potatoes in Duluth, according to last Saturday's quotations, were 75 and 80 cents. In Minneapolis they were 50 cents. Rose potatoes in Duluth on the same day were quoted at 65 and 70 cents, and in Minneapolis at 40 cents. New potatoes here were $1.40 a bushel, and in Minneapolis $1.10. This difference in price will not hold good later in the season, however. The difference in potatoes is more marked than in other vegetables. Asparagus, for example, was quoted at 65 and 75 cents a dozen in Duluth, and $1.25 a dozen in Minneapolis, the same day. Cucumbers cost more here than in Minneapolis. In poultry, hens were 11 cents in Minneapolis, and 14 cents in Duluth. Turkeys were 11 cents in Minneapolis, and 17 cents in Duluth. Just why this should be the case, when ordinary meats command virtually the same prices, the dealers do not explain, except by saying there is a difference in the freight rates. Fruits are about the same.

As stated above, some staple articles cost more in Duluth than in some of the big cities, but when the cheapness of fuel, light and water is taken into consideration, together with the higher wages paid here, it is evident to even the casual observer that the average man is in a position to live as well and save as much money in Duluth as if he lived in Minneapolis, or other large cities of the country.

Good board in Duluth is $30 a month. It is the same in Minneapolis. In both cities board may be had at $4 and $5 a week, but it is hardly considered suitable by the young man of average salary. Restaurants and hotels charge the same prices in both places.

The Commercial club committee headed by Bishop McGolrick, is now preparing a little booklet setting forth these facts to counteract the impression that Duluth is an expensive city in which to live. It is believed that an exhaustive comparison along these lines will show that Duluth prices for the necessities of life are no higher than those in other cities.

DULUTH PASTORS No. 4

REV. A. W. RYAN.

One of the best known clergymen in the state is Dr. Albert W. Ryan, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, Second street and Lake avenue, and the parish he has charge of is one of the largest and most important of the denomination in this part of the country.

Dr. Ryan is an alumnus of the University of Michigan and has been honored by other institutions of learning. He has received a degree of Doctor of Laws from the University of Toronto, Can.

After he had completed his studies, Rev. Mr. Ryan was engaged in mission work for about fifteen months, at the end of which time he went to Warren, Pa., to become rector of Trinity church. There he remained for ten years.

In October, 1893, Dr. Ryan came to Duluth and to St. Paul's church and he has taken an active part in the development of the city since that time, always doing his share of the work which public spirited citizens are expected to do and taken an active interest in things genrally, as well as bettering the condition of his own church.

The people of this country, it will be remembered, did not have overly much money in 1893 and it was not an easy task to keep up the running expenses of the parishes, and pay off old debts, but Dr. Ryan accomplished it.

After he came to Duluth, Dr. Ryan helped to raise the endowment to organize the missionary district of Duluth, which was changed this year to the Diocese of Duluth. For two years, he spent his vacations in doing work in this connection. Thomas S. Wood worked with him.

The debt was also lifted from St. Pauls church and today it is free from indebtedness. The present house of worship will give way in a few years, too, to a more pretentious and commodious structure in a better location.

In 1898 it became necessary to erect a new building for St. Luke's hospital, of which Dr. Ryan is president of the board of trustees. It took four years of hard work to raise the money and complete the handsome hospital building at First street and Ninth avenue east. This went into commission in 1902. Dr. Ryan did a great deal toward raising the money for this work.

Five years ago, St. Paul's church was growing so under Dr. Ryan's leadership that a deaconess was employed to help in the work and a year or so ago, Rev. R. S. Read was secured as assistant rector, which position he still holds.

Dr. Ryan is president of the Duluth Humane society, a trustee of the divinity school at Faribault, dean of the deanery of Duluth and a delegate to the general convention of the Church of America, which will be held in October at Richmond, Va.

He does many things—and well, and his parish is large and prosperous. St. Paul's church has more than 600 regular accredited communicants.

Dr. J. E. Bower is senior warden, Henry Taylor junior warden and parochial secretary, F. W. Paine treasurer, and the vestrymen are H. M. Peyton, F. L. Gilbert, W. J. Olcott, J. H. Dight, G. G. Hartley, Judge Page Morris and G. A. St. Clair.

SECULAR SHOTS AT PULPIT.

Washington Post: Candidates for the ministry continue to be in great request. As the annual church conventions, one after another, are held the fact that began to be seriously menacing ten years ago is becoming more and more manifest and serious. The religiousp ress and the pulpit are discussing the question with increasing gravity. It is said to be a fact, demonstrated by reliable statistics, that whereas fifty years ago more than 20 per cent of the college men sought the pulpit, today not more than 6 per cent of them look toward the ministry as a life work.

Baltimore American: A Washington minister has come forward with the startling announcement that hell is in the sun. Perhaps this is a ministerial method of swearing at the torrid weather to which Ol Sol has been treating us.

Chicago News: That earnest St. Joe minister who objects to the Teddy bear does not understand the situation. It is not half so much work for a tired mother to turn over a toy animal to her child as it was for her to sit up nights dressing a new doll.

Chicago Record-Herald: A Massachusetts evangelist says that he and his family have for years depended wholly on prayer for their food and clothing. An evangelist and his family may now and then be able to get along that way, but for the masses steady jobs are more effective.

FIND AGED ONE ALIVE

Mystery About Mrs. Chase's Disappearance is Cleared Up.

Wandered About in Forest for Nearly Two Weeks.

Akeley, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald)—Mrs. Emily Chase, who mysteriously disappeared July 7, has been found by the neighbors. The persistent rumors of foul play may find vent in court in a few days, as the authorities are investigating the matter and those accused are very indignant at the statements made concerning them.

Grandma Chase lived on a lonely claim in an unsettled part of the country, north of Akeley and near to Yola. On the bed in her cabin was found some light bread also some black bread, a paper bag of flat beans. Back of the stove were found two ham bones. There was also a little coffee and tea.

Mrs. Chase is 82 years old and very infirm and was lost in the woods nearly two weeks. Several searching parties failed to find her and foul play was suspected. When found the old lady had wandered about from cabin to cabin and had practically lived on wild fruit for many days, sleeping in the woods at night.

The homesteaders threatened to do violence to some of her near relatives last week, but wiser judgment prevailed. The whole neighborhood is moved with indignation at the neglect of the old and infirm woman, who has been in a state of sickness and is beloved by all the homesteaders.

The finding of the woman in the woods has been the cause of great joy to the people in the woods.

NOTED ONE TREATED.

Wife of Governor of British Columbia at Rochester Hospital.

Rochester, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a distinguished patient at St. Mary's hospital here recovering from an operation performed ty one of the Dr. Mayos. She is Mrs. James Dunsmuir, wife of the governor of British Columbia. Governor Dunsmuir and his son-in-law, Maj. Audain are also here awaiting the outcome of the operation. As the case was a serious one some anxiety is felt over the outcome of Mrs. Dunsmuir's operation.

FAIR AT PEQUOT.

TAKING OPTIONS NEAR KELLIHER

Land Being Quietly Secured for Mineral It Contains.

Kelliher, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Drilling for iron is still progressing in the vicinity of Kelliher and a number of holes have been put down, the diamond drills showing in every case ore in paying quantities. During the past few days a mysterious mining expert, who believes that the main ore body is further west than where the present work is being done has been quietly getting opinions on lands west of the town of Kelliher. This has been done so quietly that not even the residents of the village knew about what was happening until a farmer, who supposed he was giving an option on his land for the cedar on it, saw parties carrying away samples of rock.

The man was at once turned over to the police, and his mental condition will be ascertained.

Going When the Timber in Bayfield County is Exhausted.

Ashland, Wis., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is announced that when the timber holdings of the Red Cliff are exhausted in the northern part of Bayfield county and adjacent territory, the company will immediately move its offices and mills to Vancouver, B. C.

W. H. Gilbert of Duluth, president and general manager of the Red Cliff Lumber company, is now at Vancouver, completing arrangements for the transfer of 500,000,000 feet of west coast stumpage. The most of this timber belongs to the Canadian government and the negotiations have been in progress for several months. It is understood that the consideration involves about $150,000. Most of the stumpage sold for 20 cents a thousand. Most of the timber which has been acquired is Pacific coast fir, which is not of quite as high value as the white pine.

The Red Cliff Lumber company has enough timber left in Bayfield county to keep it going for a period of about ten years and not until after this has been sawed will the British Columbia holdings be touched. The company now has mills at Red Cliff, Wis., and at Duluth, Minn.

UPPER MICHIGAN

SAVED BY BRANCHES

Falling Man Catches in Convenient Tree Escaping Being Killed.

Frank Donnelly Still Lives After a Sixty-Foot Fall.

Menominee, Mich., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Donelly, camp foreman for the Crawford Lumber company, fell from the top of a sixty-foot pole, crashed through the branches of a tree that saved his life and is now at the Menominee river hospital with several ribs fractured and his head badly bruised. He is resting easily.

Walter Devoe, son of Mail Carrier Devoe, fell from his bicycle several weeks ago and slightly bruised his hip. Nothing was thought of the matter at that time, but some time after an abscess developed.

The lad was operated on at the St. Joseph hospital and it is very probable that another operation will be necessary.

An inquest to inquire into the death of 12-year-old John Binder was held Thursday afternoon. The jury brought in a verdict of accidental death caused by a bullet wound inflicted by some unknown hand.

WATER METERS PROVE SAVING

Negaunee, Mich., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although the number of patrons of the city water system has increased over last year's less water was consumed during June than in the same month last year. This was shown by a report presented at the council meeting by the board of public works.

In June, 1906, the pump registered 36,905 strokes, compared with 32,127 last month. Seventy tons of coal were consumed last year, and fifty-seven this year. The daily consumption of water totalled 957,856 gallons a year ago, compared with 835,182 gallons last month.

The saving in the water and the expense of operating the plant is due to the introduction of meters. A year ago this time, there were very few in use, but the number has increased considerably during the twelve months' period. The showing is very satisfactory, when it is considered that the number of consumers has increased during the year.

According to the report of the clerk of the electric lighting plant, the net receipts last month were $327.76. This was an excellent showing, as considerable new material was paid for. The previous month there was a heavy drain on the funds for material, including a number of meters, so that the plant did not show as large a profit.

The total receipts last month from the sale of material and for lighting services were $1,285.58. It is expected that the receipts will be considerably larger during the fall and winter months, when the lights will be used longer. Thirty-eight incandescent lights were added to the circuit last month, increasing the total to 4,631.

JOHN L. COMES HIGH.

Wants $2,000 for Doing a Stunt at North Dakota State Fair.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The visitors at the state fair here next week who would like to see John L. Sullivan do a stunt, will be disappointed, as the veteran fighter placed his price too high for the management. Some time ago, the former ring champion wrote to Secretary Miller asking if he could arrange for a date at the fair. The matter was favorably considered, and Sullivan was asked for his terms. The following telegram from Chicago is self explanatory and indicates the negotiations are off:

"My price, $2,000, which is too high for you, I am told. Good luck to the fair. JOHN L. SULLIVAN."

ELEVATOR BURNS.

Forty Thousand Dollar Fire at Hunter, North Dakota.

Hunter, N. D., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire did about $40,000 damage in the local elevator Thursday morning. The fire caught in the shaft, presumably from a hot box. In addition to the elevator the Hunter Mercantile store and the Great Northern depot were badly damaged. The loss to the Mercantile company will be about $4,000.

Fearing that the entire village would be laid in ashes, the officials called upon Casselton for assistance and in a very short time a special train arrived here bearing the members of the Casselton fire department. At 12 o'clock the fire was gotten under control, but, only after some strenuous work on the part of the fire fighters.

STOLEN HORSE PULLS UNITED STATES MAIL.

Mandan, N. D., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the mail wagon came in from the north, two days ago, Ed Smith called the attention of the sheriff to the fact that one of the horses attached thereto belonged to him, and as he did not remember having disposed of it he would like to have the animal back again. Not wishing to interfere with the United States mail, the sheriff followed the wagon and when the horses were unhitched he took charge of the one in question. Smith swore out a complaint, a warrant was issued and Charles Whitmer arrested, charged with horse stealing.

He was brought before Police Magistrate T. C. Kenedy, waived examination and bound over to the district court. Bail was fixed at $500.

IS INJURED HELPING CLEAR AWAY A WRECK.

Minot, N. D., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—While helping to clear the debris from the wreck of the Oriental Limited of the Great Northern at Des Lacs, Wednesday night, Trainmaster George Else of this city had his leg badly crushed.

Mr. Else, who did yeoman service at the scene of the wreck, was helping the men steady a truck as it was lowered onto the track by the wrecking derrick.

The trucks came down with a thud and Mr. Else's leg was pinned underneath. The wreck was one of the most peculiar in the history of the road. The observation car and the standard sleeper went off the track about 200 feet east of the Des Lacs station. The engine and all the other cars remained on the track and the train went over half a mile before it was brought to a standstill. The engineer said that he was going about thirty-five miles an hour and that he felt no jar on the engine when the rear cars left the track. The two cars slid along fifty feet before they went into the ditch.

When things case to a standstill, the observation car was lying with one end on the tracks and the other ground into the dirt fifteen feet north of the tracks. The standard was entirely off the tracks to the north.

They all are of about the same tenor and are very optimistic regarding flax, but somewhat pessimistic regarding wheat. Much depends upon the weather.

John Williamson Suspends Himself in Mid-Air While Train Passes.

Menominee, Mich., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the shallow, rock filled Menominee river fifty feet below him, John Williamson hung from the Northwestern railway trestle for several minutes Thursday night to escape being killed by the passenger train that bore down upon him. Swaying between life and death, the cinder covered laborer finally managed to draw himself up on the rails after the train passed and then collapsed. He was found shortly afterward and brought to the hospital, where he is recovering from the effects.

Mr. Lowe stated that he now had contracts to furnish Oconto with factory and lighting power and also would supply all the mills at Peshtigo.

TELEGRAPHERS SETTLE STRIKE

Will Return to Work Monday and Adjust Differences Later.

San Francisco, July 20.—After being out just a month, the telegraph operators in the Oakland and San Francisco offices of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies settled their strike yesterday afternoon. The operators almost unanimously voted to return to work, under the same conditions and salaries as prevailed when they went on strike and to arbitrate their grievances as provided for in the compromise contained in the letter of Col. R. C. Clowry, June 20. By the terms of agreement signed by I. N. Miller, assistant general superintendent of the Western Union, T. W. Storer, general superintendent of the Postal, and National President S. J. Small of the Telegraphers, both companies are to re-employ without prejudice, the men who struck and the question of increased wages is to be taken up after resumption of work. The employes of each company will appoint a representative and the company one, the two to select a third, who will constitute the arbitration committee.

While the telegraph companies do not openly recognize the union and insist upon dealing with their own employes, the fact that representatives of the companies signed an agreement with President Small is regarded by the operators as a recognition of their organization.

About 250 operators, who were involved, will return to work Monday morning.

President Small said last night: "We were not fighting for the signing of a union contract. All we desired was the acknowledgement of our right to organize and the privilege of adjusting grievances through committees of employes. This we have secured."

Work at present is being pushed on a big culvert over the ravine, about three miles from the incline railway, and when this is completed, about three miles of the extension will be opened to the public.

BACK TO THE CONSTITUTION.

That was a very interesting interview with Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, which The Herald published last night. It contained material worth thinking about, not only by Democrats, but by all patriotic citizens who love the institutions upon which this nation was founded, and who hope to see them continued untarnished and unadulterated.

Here is the confession of faith that he would hold up before each delegate to the next national Democratic convention who hesitated or quibbled over an item of it:

"I believe in the Constitution of the United States, strictly construed, as the ark and covenant of our free institutions.

"I believe in the co-ordinate branches of the federal government as the safeguards against the usurpation of power with which history makes us familiar as the rocks upon which freedom has so often been shipwrecked.

"I believe in the maintenance of the federal power and the state power, unimpaired in their several functions, national and local, the one sustaining the other, both subservient to the organic law of the land.

"I believe the system established by the convention over which Washington presided, and in which Franklin and Hamilton and Jay and Madison sat as members, an inspiration from God Almighty, and the government established thereby the best government in the world.

"I believe that it embodies political immorality, within the original chart of its being, which covers all known dangers and specifies how it may be amended to meet those dangers that were unknown to its authors and have been incident to human development and the world's progress."

It's a pretty good creed, and a timely one. This country has not outgrown its Constitution and its Declaration of Independence. It has the best, the most elastic and the most modern system of government on earth. No system of government can be devised that will automatically produce happiness and contentment for all its people. A government, whatever its form, is what its people make it.

It is high time that some party were getting "back to the Constitution," as Watterson suggests, and taking a new view of modern conditions in the light furnished by that immortal document.

The Constitution is the fundamental law of the nation, and it definitely conveys to the federal government, from the states, certain rights and powers. Beyond those powers the federal government has no right to go, as the supreme court has held, without further concessions of power by the state. The powers that the states have not yet conveyed they still hold, and they should use them.

Many of our statesmen would be the better for a little sober thought and a little careful study of the Constitution.

THOUGHTLESS PARENTS.

The other day a Duluth mother said in talking with a friend:

"My boy—he is 16 years old—is doing finely. He has a good position, he is earning $15 a week, and he is having the time of his life spending it."

"Isn't he saving anything?" inquired her friend with polite interest.

"Oh, dear, no. Plenty of time for that later. Let him enjoy himself while he's young, I say. Why, he left home last Saturday and didn't get back till Monday morning."

"Where was he all that time?"

"Oh, I didn't bother to ask. John's a good boy, and he is all right."

Poor mother. Poor boy.

This conversation, which actually took place, illumines a pathway full of danger for the boy, and of sorrow for the mother.

In the first place, that boy ought to be saving something. It is all very well to talk of letting him have his fling now, and trusting that some time he will learn to save, but if he does not learn to save now the chances are he never will. The habits of that boy are being formed now, and if he realizes the need of changing them after they have once been formed, he will have a terrible time doing it.

In the second place, the mother that lets a boy of that age go out of her sight for a day and two nights, and who doesn't know where he is during that time, is with misguided kindness doing him an awful injury. Even if he is a good boy—let's hope he is, though that mother doesn't know whether he is or not—he is bound to find himself among temptations that will work savagely to make him a bad boy.

And if he yields to those temptations, and in addition to the habit of spending all his money acquires other and more vicious habits through his methods of spending it, whose fault do you suppose it is?

Who is to blame except the thoughtless mother that let her boy run wild, beyond the reach of her supervision, beyond reach of her wholesome influences, and beyond the home ties that should bind him to right habits and purposeful ambitions?

Not long ago The Herald discussed the problem of why children go wrong, and stated its belief that in far too many cases lack of strong and kind and helpful home influences was at fault.

This true story is in point. It illustrates the thoughtless mother who trusts her children too much, and who lets them get away from her into slippery paths that lead along the side of the perilous abyss of temptation.

A boy is a man in the making. Upon the influences of his youth depend his character and his future. The boy is the father of the man, and the parents who rear the boy are responsible in a large degree for the success or failure of the man.

Parents, think of it.

LET WORK BE RESUMED.

The ore-carrying railroads that are having trouble with their dock laborers, who recently went out on a strike, should proceed at once to fill their places with new men, in order that paralyzed activity may be resumed all along the line.

Furthermore, no interference with this movement on the part of the strikers should be tolerated for a moment. The city officials should provide ample police protection for the new men, and the railroads may be assured of the fullest public sympathy if they will take this stand, from which they have hitherto refrained.

Never has a strike condition existed in Duluth with less public sympathy behind the strikers than this one. The strikers have clearly broken faith with their employers, and are seeking to evade a plain verbal agreement on the ground that there was no organization of the men, and therefore no binding contract.

Union labor long ago learned the lesson that if it would win it must have public support, and that it cannot have public support unless its own acts are based on absolute integrity and a just cause. The consequence is that such a thing as a union abrogating a contract with its employers is almost unheard of, and if such a thing occurred the general organization in that particular craft would order the local union back to work. This has happened on numerous occasions.

Says the Labor World, the local union organ, of the present condition: "The strugle is another vindication of tragde unionism. Had a bona fide labor organization entered into a contract with the railroad officials the present strike would not have been permitted. A trade union is less impulsive and more reasonable than an unorganized, undisciplined body of workingmen. Its demands would not have been excessive."

It is not alone that work upon the docks has ceased. It is that work in the mines has been suspended, that work upon the ore-carrying roads has been stopped and the men laid off, that work upon the boats and upon the Eastern docks is at a standstill. Thousands of innocent workers, members of unions that would not be guilty of such a gross breach of faith as this, are thrown out of work and their wages cut off, and thousands of dollars in wages that can never be recovered are being lost daily.

The railroads should put new men at work on the docks at once, and thus make possible a resumption of industry all along the line. The strikers have organized a union, but the only way it can make good and gain a standing is to order its men back to work under the agreement made at the opening of the season, an agreement that ought to be as binding as though it had been set down on paper and signed by every worker on the docks.

WHAT SAVING MEANS.

It is not a good sign when people disdain the slow method of attaining a competence by saving, and seek to gain it by a sudden stroke of enterprise into which the large returns expected necessarily bring the element of hazard, so that the deal amounts to a gamble.

It looks pretty slow to put your money away a penny or a dime or a dollar at a time, but some very comfortable fortunes have been built in that way, and there is no reason why you can't build one yourself.

Not that great fortunes are built by piling up pennies, but that piling up pennies provides the capital for investments that will do the fortune-building for you.

The importance of saving is exemplified by the fact that there is one savings bank, the Bowery Savings bank of New York, with deposits of more than $100,000,000. Every dollar of that has come from saving, and nearly all of it has been deposited by people of small earnings. The individual deposits are small, averaging only two or three hundred dollars each, but the magnificent total, greater than the deposits in most of the commercial banks of the country, shows the enormous force of saving.

In all the savings banks of New York city there are deposits exceeding $1,000,000,000. The Dime Savings bank of Brooklyn has on deposit more than $50,000,000.

The big Bowery Savings bank, which is a pretty good index to what has happened to the famous thoroughfare of which we used to sing that we would "never go there any more" because "they say such things and they do such things," is the biggest of them all, and it has come to the rescue of the money market on many an occasion when the banks where the big fellows put their money were unable to meet the demands of a hard financial situation.

Did you ever try to save? You say you can't, but you mean that you won't, because you can; anybody can. Just reduce your salary a specific amount each week, and put the cut into the savings bank.

You'll be astonished, after you once get a start, not only to see how your little pile grows, but how your interest in it increases.

You haven't any little pile to be interested in now, so you never think of putting a penny away. But you could do it, and the thought of coming age, and of the desperately slender margin that separates you from want, should make you do it.

It will not only give you a start, and provide you with capital to make an investment when you see a good chance, but it will build your character, too, give you a new view of life, and teach you that which your financial condition shows you to need—self-denial.

Just make a start, and try to save, even if it is only a nickel a day. A start is half the battle.

A CERTAIN SPECIFIC.

Somebody in the East—in Boston, it is suspected—has discovered a new cure for insomnia. It is Henry James, the distinguished American novelist who lives abroad and writes books which have a small but select circulation in this country.

The discovery is not new, however. It has been in use for some time. Its original discovery was an accident, like the discovery of the delights of roast pig when a Chinese house burned down with pigs in it and a Chinese boy happened to touch a finger to one of the hot pigs and then stuck the burned finger in his mouth. It was also like the discovery of gold in California, where a man pulled up a bush by the roots and found gold clinging to the dirt. It happened this way:

There was a man once upon a time who was troubled with sleeplessness. Anybody who had suffered with it knows what a terrible burden it is. This man went to bed as a matter of habit, but rolled and tossed and kicked the covers off and prayed for dawn. To while these weary hours away he started reading in bed. He read rather exciting stories, and they successfully passed the hours away. One night he happened to run out of his favorite kind of reading, and somebody lent him a copy of one of Henry James' novels. He went to bed and started to read it. He had not read very long before a new sensation swept over his being. A delicious langour, it was, in which a half-unconscious condition was charged with a sense of perfect peace. He tried to follow the maze of thought involved in each of the sentences on the pages before him, but the more he read the more pronounced did this new and mysterious condition of being become. Presently he dropped the book beside him and, guided more by instinct than by reason, put out the light. In a second he was asleep, and from then till morning he slept like a tired baby. In the morning he arose refreshed, strong, happy, and an ardent admirer of Henry James.

This was the start of a new James cult. Other sufferers took advantage of this man's advice, which he gave freely. Sales of the James novels leaped up 50 per cent. Men who had been worn to shadows by insomnia filled out and grew rosy and good-natured. Peace had been brought to many a troubled pillow, and the world was better and happier.

There should be one caution, however, and that is that no attempt must be made to fathom the meaning of the sentences you read, when you are taking James as a sedative. Cases have been known where men who so far forgot the dangers of their situation as to tax their minds with puzzles of this nature have gone insane. Besides, there is no use trying. James cannot be induced to tell what he means himself, and there is a strong suspicion that he doesn't know.

But if you have trouble getting to sleep, just apply to your brain the soothing psychology of James, and you will find a sweet and satisfying relief.

JACOB ON THE UNWRITTEN LAW.

It is a pretty contemptible practice to quote the Bible in support of wickedness, but it has been done a good many times, and will be done many times more.

For instance, in a recent murder trial which attracted wide attention because the defense made a successful appeal to the "unwritten law," counsel for the defense read from the thirty-fourth chapter of the book of Genesis to show how Simeon and Levi, sons of Jacob, boldly slew Shechem for defiling their sister Dinah. This was the first written record of an execution under the "unwritten law," and the attorney for the defense quoted it as a part of his argument for the acquittal of the defendants, a mother and son who had killed the betrayer of their daughter and sister.

Whether this turned the balance or not, the jury acquitted the defendants, and they went free, redhanded. Now of course the world has a vast sympathy for relatives under such circumstances, but the offense for which they killed a man in this case is not recognized by the law as deserving capital punishment, and individuals, no matter how close their relationship nor how great their anger, had no right to make a new law for themselves declaring it to be punishable by death, and they certainly had no right to execute the sentence themselves. But they did, and were acquitted, and grim Murder, stalking abroad in the land, licked his chops and leered with horrid delight. And that Bible quotation had something to do with this miscarriage of justice.

Now what are the facts about the case of Simeon and Levi? Did Jacob countenance this execution under the unwritten law? Said he to them: "Ye have troubled me to make me to stink among the inhabitants of the land, among the Canaanites and the Perizzites." No commendation there for an unwritten law murder.

Even fifty years later, when Jacob lay dying, he had not forgotten the evil deed of his sons, and he delivered himself thus about these executors of the "unwritten law:" "Simeon and Levi are brethren; instruments of cruelty are in their habitations. O my soul, come not thou into their secret; unto their assembly, mine honor, be not thou united; for in their anger they slew a man, and in their self-will they digged down a wall. Cursed be their anger, for it was fierce; and their wrath, for it was cruel; I will divide them in Jacob, and scatter them in Israel."

Stern, just old Jacob, mourning his defiled daughter though he was, did not lend his countenance to murder, even though it were perpetrated in the name of revenge for one of the greatest evils that a man can do a family.

It is going to be necessary in this country, pretty soon, to do something with the juries that are swayed by passion and prejudice and the unwritten law, instead of by justice and the law of the land.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"Most of the Eastern railroads have a greater variety of colors to their signal lights than any of the Western roads," said F. L. Dingle of New York, at the Lenox. "The New Haven railroad has just added one more color to its signal system by the adoption of the purple light in connection with the red, yellow and green lights already in use. The new color replaces the red light which formerly indicated the position of the crossing over switches, marked by what are known as dwarf signals. These signals are placed close to the ground in order that the engineer may not see them uneil he is within a short distance.

"The light formerly used to show that the dwarf signal against the engineer was red, the same as the danger signal on the regular route. When an engineer was proceeding along the main line with a clear route ahead of him, he would find the green, or clear signal on the signal mast, and the red light knowing by this that he was to continue along the same track, would maintain full headway and the present contradiction of passing a red light at a gait of sixty miles or so.

"It was this contradiction that the railway management desired to do away with so far as possible, with the result that every one of the almost innumerable dwarf signals on the road has now been equipped with the purple light for closed and green for open switch.

"In 1900 I followed the Big Fork river for a greater part of its distance from its headwaters to its mouth, and again made the same trip last month," said E. L. McCarthy of Grand Rapids, Minn., at the St. Louis. "The development that has taken place in the period of seven years is something remarkable. It looks like an entirely different country. On the first trip there were whole days when we did not even see an Indian, to say nothing of white men, and the few log houses we did run across were for the most part unoccupied. They belonged to claimholders, who visited them only twice a year.

"At Big Falls there was one family living, two days' travel from the nearest postoffice. Now there is quite a town there, and it has a postoffice of its own. There is a big water power at the falls, and it will mean important industries in time for Big Falls, which is located at the point where the Minnesota & International crosses the river, on its way to the Canadian border. The banks of the river, all the way along, are well settled up, and there are numerous prosperous-looking farms, although they have an air of newness. They tell me the soil is very fertile, and there certainly are some fine crops produced.

"Big Fork, the town at the mouth of the river, which consisted of about half a dozen houses when I was first there, has since greatly increased in population. There is a large business transacted by the boats plying the Rainy river between International Falls and points farther down the river. A very good boat service is provided."

THE WEATHER.

And still another day of absolute perfection. There seems to be no end to the fine summer weather. It was warmer this morning, and there were symptoms that it was becoming even hot, but there was a fine breeze, and conditions were delightful. Yesterday's highest temperature was 78 degs. and last night's lowest was 60 degs. The weather man looks for fine weather tonight and tomorrow, without much change in temperature.

A year ago today it was hot, the thermometer getting up to 86 degs.

The sun rose this morning at 4:33 and sets tonigit at 7:55, making 15 hours and 22 minutes of sunshine. Tomorrow it will rise at 4:34 and set at 7:54, making 15 hours and 20 minutes less of sunshine. This is thirty-five minutes less than there was on the longest day of the year, just a month ago.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The temperature changes throughout the country were generally slight during the past twenty-four hours, very warm weather continuing without abatement in the southern lake region, central valleys, southern and eastern states. Shallow barometric depressions central this morning over New England states, Arizona and British Columbia caused light showers during Friday or last night in the western lake region, Iowa, Illinois, Tennessee, Georgia, the western gulf coast, Saskatchewan, Western Montana and New Mexico. The barometer remains high over the gulf states. A continuance of fine weather is indicated for this section throughout tonigat and Sunday."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures, as recorded by the weather bureau:

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: If a man doesn't grumble around the house he's away.

The average woman would rather have her husband swear than look it.

What a woman likes about going to church is she can pretend she likes to.

A man never could have a big enough income to afford to admit it to his poor relations.

If she can't find any other excuse for doing it a girl will marry a man so as not to have him think she's heartless.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: The average man thinks he will have plenty of time for everything if he winds up his watch every day.

In after years a spinster may have cause to congratulate herself on the number of times she didn't get married.

Fame is so awfully slow that when it finally does come to the average man it is compelled to roost on his monument.

All the world's a stage, and each of the actors thereon seems to think it is up to him to act as his own press agent.

When a woman has a good-looking husband she always keeps one eye on him and the other on her woman friends.

When people say of a dead man, "He is better off," it's a pity he isn't in a position to appreciate his good luck.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Hot Weather Virtues.

Is it right to classify the virtues and pick out certain ones as more suited to certain seasons than to others? Strictly speaking, honesty is as essential in December as in July. Meanness is as much out of place in March as in September. Nevertheless, the summer furnishes a splendid and exceptional opportunity for the cultivation and expression of certain graces of character. As the athlete welcomes the summer because it brings a chance to sleep in the open air and to take long tramps, so the man ambitious to attain moral excellence should greet the summer with a cheer because it calls for the exercise of his moral muscle and provides valuable courses in spiritual hygiene.

The grace of pleasantness may thrive in hot weather. "You are the first person who has spoken pleasantly to me today," said a wearied shop girl as she mopped the perspiration from her brow on one of the hottest of recent hot days. Her customer had ventured a friendly comment on the hardship of being part of the human machinery of a great department store on a torrid day. The gentleness of the tone and the kindly attitude were balm to the spirit of the jaded girl who, all day long, had not encountered a customer or a fellow worker who seemed to her in a pleasant mood. Hot weather is, indeed, a severe test of the man or woman who is ordinarily of a pleasant disposition. Nevertheless, pleasantness is an attainable virtue even when the thermometer persists in lingering in the 90s. So come what will, this summer, let's be pleasant, even when the train is inexcusably late and the crowd is wearisome, and the summer resort a disappointment and we would much rather cry than laugh. Remember the woman who so impressed herself on her friends and neighbors that when she died they put this epitaph on her tombstone: "She was so pleasant."

Quietness is another virtue for whose development the summer gives a unique chance. The strenuous life has been forcibly and frequently preached during recent years so insistently, in fact, that someone has made this clever parody of Charles Kingsley's well known verse and put it forth as embodying in rhyme the modern doctrine of strenuosity.

Be strenuous, sweet maid, and let who will be clever,
Do noble things, not dream them all day long,
And so make life and death and the vast forever
One Chinese gong.

But we do not want to live perpetually with muscles tense and nerves a quiver. We want the power that comes through repose. The summer is for relaxation of mind as well as body. Let the problems go for a fortnight and as you stretch yourself beneath some giant oak or maple far from the noisy throng, get quietness into your soul. It won't be waste time. Maybe just to stop talking volubly will be a rest for yourself as well as for your friends. Some of us have important decisions to make before September. Heed then the word of an English writer who says: "The man who approaches a decision in the strength of stillness—a stillness occasioned by his communion in the secret place, may implicitly trust his judgment, and step out without fear."

Quiet moments, quiet hours are likely to beget contentment of spirit and that is another grace in which we may grow as the summer passes. For very likely we are so situated that discontent can easily be fomented. Our vacation is shorter than somebody else's. We see as we go about the world, the apparently favored children of good fortune, with houses and lands, with yachts and automobiles. But we can have just as many inward resources as they and probably more. No one need surpass us, in appreciation of the sweep of the river, the whisper of the breezes, the glory of the summer night, the wealth of human friendship, the sweetness of little children, the infinite satisfaction of faith. Summer schools abound in the land but I propose one more—A Summer School in Character. Courses can be taken whether at home or abroad, tuition free, attendance unlimited, results magnificent. For further particulars inquire within.

BACK TO THE CONSTITUTION.

That was a very interesting interview with Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, which The Herald published last night. It contained material worth thinking about, not only by Democrats, but by all patriotic citizens who love the institutions upon which this nation was founded, and who hope to see them continued untarnished and unadulterated.

Here is the confession of faith that he would hold up before each delegate to the next national Democratic convention who hesitated or quibbled over an item of it:

"I believe in the Constitution of the United States, strictly construed, as the ark and covenant of our free institutions.

"I believe in the co-ordinate branches of the federal government as the safeguards against the usurpation of power with which history makes us familiar as the rocks upon which freedom has so often been shipwrecked.

"I believe in the maintenance of the federal power and the state power, unimpaired in their several functions, national and local, the one sustaining the other, both subservient to the organic law of the land.

"I believe the system established by the convention over which Washington presided, and in which Franklin and Hamilton and Jay and Madison sat as members, an inspiration from God Almighty, and the government established thereby the best government in the world.

"I believe that it embodies political immorality, within the original chart of its being, which covers all known dangers and specifies how it may be amended to meet those dangers that were unknown to its authors and have been incident to human development and the world's progress."

It's a pretty good creed, and a timely one. This country has not outgrown its Constitution and its Declaration of Independence. It has the best, the most elastic and the most modern system of government on earth. No system of government can be devised that will automatically produce happiness and contentment for all its people. A government, whatever its form, is what its people make it.

It is high time that some party were getting "back to the Constitution," as Watterson suggests, and taking a new view of modern conditions in the light furnished by that immortal document.

The Constitution is the fundamental law of the nation, and it definitely conveys to the federal government, from the states, certain rights and powers. Beyond those powers the federal government has no right to go, as the supreme court has held, without further concessions of power by the state. The powers that the states have not yet conveyed they still hold, and they should use them.

Many of our statesmen would be the better for a little sober thought and a little careful study of the Constitution.

THOUGHTLESS PARENTS.

The other day a Duluth mother said in talking with a friend:

"My boy—he is 16 years old—is doing finely. He has a good position, he is earning $15 a week, and he is having the time of his life spending it."

"Isn't he saving anything?" inquired her friend with polite interest.

"Oh, dear, no. Plenty of time for that later. Let him enjoy himself while he's young, I say. Why, he left home last Saturday and didn't get back till Monday morning."

"Where was he all that time?"

"Oh, I didn't bother to ask. John's a good boy, and he is all right."

Poor mother. Poor boy.

This conversation, which actually took place, illumines a pathway full of danger for the boy, and of sorrow for the mother.

In the first place, that boy ought to be saving something. It is all very well to talk of letting him have his fling now, and trusting that some time he will learn to save, but if he does not learn to save now the chances are he never will. The habits of that boy are being formed now, and if he realizes the need of changing them after they have once been formed, he will have a terrible time doing it.

In the second place, the mother that lets a boy of that age go out of her sight for a day and two nights, and who doesn't know where he is during that time, is with misguided kindness doing him an awful injury. Even if he is a good boy—let's hope he is, though that mother doesn't know whether he is or not—he is bound to find himself among temptations that will work savagely to make him a bad boy.

And if he yields to those temptations, and in addition to the habit of spending all his money acquires other and more vicious habits through his methods of spending it, whose fault do you suppose it is?

Who is to blame except the thoughtless mother that let her boy run wild, beyond the reach of her supervision, beyond reach of her wholesome influences, and beyond the home ties that should bind him to right habits and purposeful ambitions?

Not long ago The Herald discussed the problem of why children go wrong, and stated its belief that in far too many cases lack of strong and kind and helpful home influences was at fault.

This true story is in point. It illustrates the thoughtless mother who trusts her children too much, and who lets them get away from her into slippery paths that lead along the side of the perilous abyss of temptation.

A boy is a man in the making. Upon the influences of his youth depend his character and his future. The boy is the father of the man, and the parents who rear the boy are responsible in a large degree for the success or failure of the man.

Parents, think of it.

LET WORK BE RESUMED.

The ore-carrying railroads that are having trouble with their dock laborers, who recently went out on a strike, should proceed at once to fill their places with new men, in order that paralyzed activity may be resumed all along the line.

Furthermore, no interference with this movement on the part of the strikers should be tolerated for a moment. The city officials should provide ample police protection for the new men, and the railroads may be assured of the fullest public sympathy if they will take this stand, from which they have hitherto refrained.

Never has a strike condition existed in Duluth with less public sympathy behind the strikers than this one. The strikers have clearly broken faith with their employers, and are seeking to evade a plain verbal agreement on the ground that there was no organization of the men, and therefore no binding contract.

Union labor long ago learned the lesson that if it would win it must have public support, and that it cannot have public support unless its own acts are based on absolute integrity and a just cause. The consequence is that such a thing as a union abrogating a contract with its employers is almost unheard of, and if such a thing occurred the general organization in that particular craft would order the local union back to work. This has happened on numerous occasions.

Says the Labor World, the local union organ, of the present condition: "The struggle is another vindication of tragde unionism. Had a bona fide labor organization entered into a contract with the railroad officials the present strike would not have been permitted. A trade union is less impulsive and more reasonable than an unorganized, undisciplined body of workingmen. Its demands would not have been excessive."

It is not alone that work upon the docks has ceased. It is that work in the mines has been suspended, that work upon the ore-carrying roads has been stopped and the men laid off, that work upon the boats and upon the Eastern docks is at a standstill. Thousands of innocent workers, members of unions that would not be guilty of such a gross breach of faith as this, are thrown out of work and their wages cut off, and thousands of dollars in wages that can never be recovered are being lost daily.

The railroads should put new men at work on the docks at once, and thus make possible a resumption of industry all along the line. The strikers have organized a union, but the only way it can make good and gain a standing is to order its men back to work under the agreement made at the opening of the season, an agreement that ought to be as binding as though it had been set down on paper and signed by every worker on the docks.

WHAT SAVING MEANS.

It is not a good sign when people disdain the slow method of attaining a competence by saving, and seek to gain it by a sudden stroke of enterprise into which the large returns expected necessarily bring the element of hazard, so that the deal amounts to a gamble.

It looks pretty slow to put your money away a penny or a dime or a dollar at a time, but some very comfortable fortunes have been built in that way, and there is no reason why you can't build one yourself.

Not that great fortunes are built by piling up pennies, but that piling up pennies provides the capital for investments that will do the fortune-building for you.

The importance of saving is exemplified by the fact that there is one savings bank, the Bowery Savings bank of New York, with deposits of more than $100,000,000. Every dollar of that has come from saving, and nearly all of it has been deposited by people of small earnings. The individual deposits are small, averaging only two or three hundred dollars each, but the magnificent total, greater than the deposits in most of the commercial banks of the country, shows the enormous force of saving.

In all the savings banks of New York city there are deposits exceeding $1,000,000,000. The Dime Savings bank of Brooklyn has on deposit more than $50,000,000.

The big Bowery Savings bank, which is a pretty good index to what has happened to the famous thoroughfare of which we used to sing that we would "never go there any more" because "they say such things and they do such things," is the biggest of them all, and it has come to the rescue of the money market on many an occasion when the banks where the big fellows put their money were unable to meet the demands of a hard financial situation.

Did you ever try to save? You say you can't, but you mean that you won't, because you can; anybody can. Just reduce your salary a specific amount each week, and put the cut into the savings bank.

You'll be astonished, after you once get a start, not only to see how your little pile grows, but how your interest in it increases.

You haven't any little pile to be interested in now, so you never think of putting a penny away. But you could do it, and the thought of coming age, and of the desperately slender margin that separates you from want, should make you do it.

It will not only give you a start, and provide you with capital to make an investment when you see a good chance, but it will build your character, too, give you a new view of life, and teach you that which your financial condition shows you to need—self-denial.

Just make a start, and try to save, even if it is only a nickel a day. A start is half the battle.

A CERTAIN SPECIFIC.

Somebody in the East—in Boston, it is suspected—has discovered a new cure for insomnia. It is Henry James, the distinguished American novelist who lives abroad and writes books which have a small but select circulation in this country.

The discovery is not new, however. It has been in use for some time. Its original discovery was an accident, like the discovery of the delights of roast pig when a Chinese house burned down with pigs in it and a Chinese boy happened to touch a finger to one of the hot pigs and then stuck the burned finger in his mouth. It was also like the discovery of gold in California, where a man pulled up a bush by the roots and found gold clinging to the dirt. It happened this way:

There was a man once upon a time who was troubled with sleeplessness. Anybody who had suffered with it knows what a terrible burden it is. This man went to bed as a matter of habit, but rolled and tossed and kicked the covers off and prayed for dawn. To while these weary hours away he started reading in bed. He read rather exciting stories, and they successfully passed the hours away. One night he happened to run out of his favorite kind of reading, and somebody lent him a copy of one of Henry James' novels. He went to bed and started to read it. He had not read very long before a new sensation swept over him. A delicious langour, it was, in which a half-unconscious condition was charged with a sense of perfect peace. He tried to follow the maze of thought involved in each of the sentences on the pages before him, but the more he read the more pronounced did this new and mysterious condition of being become. Presently he dropped the book beside him and, guided more by instinct than by reason, put out the light. In a second he was asleep, and from then till morning he slept like a tired baby. In the morning he arose refreshed, strong, happy, and an ardent admirer of Henry James.

This was the start of a new James cult. Other sufferers took advantage of this man's advice, which he gave freely. Sales of the James novels leaped up 50 per cent. Men who had been worn to shadows by insomnia filled out and grew rosy and good-natured. Peace had been brought to many a troubled pillow, and the world was better and happier.

There should be one caution, however, and that is that no attempt must be made to fathom the meaning of the sentences you read, when you are taking James as a sedative. Cases have been known where men who so far forgot the dangers of their situation as to tax their minds with puzzles of this nature have gone insane. Besides, there is no use trying. James cannot be induced to tell what he means himself, and there is a strong suspicion that he doesn't know.

But if you have trouble getting to sleep, just apply to your brain the soothing psychology of James, and you will find a sweet and satisfying relief.

JACOB ON THE UNWRITTEN LAW.

It is a pretty contemptible practice to quote the Bible in support of wickedness, but it has been done a good many times, and will be done many times more.

For instance, in a recent murder trial which attracted wide attention because the defense made a successful appeal to the "unwritten law," counsel for the defense read from the thirty-fourth chapter of the book of Genesis to show how Simeon and Levi, sons of Jacob, boldly slew Shechem for defiling their sister Dinah. This was the first written record of an execution under the "unwritten law," and the attorney for the defense quoted it as a part of his argument for the acquittal of the defendants, a mother and son who had killed the betrayer of their daughter and sister.

Whether this turned the balance or not, the jury acquitted the defendants, and they went free, redhanded. Now of course the world has a vast sympathy for relatives under such circumstances, but the offense for which they killed a man in this case is not recognized by the law as deserving capital punishment, and individuals, no matter how close their relationship nor how great their anger, had no right to make a new law for themselves declaring it to be punishable by death, and they certainly had no right to execute the sentence themselves. But they did, and were acquitted, and grim Murder, stalking abroad in the land, licked his chops and leered with horrid delight. And that Bible quotation had something to do with this miscarriage of justice.

Now what are the facts about the case of Simeon and Levi? Did Jacob countenance this execution under the unwritten law? Said he to them: "Ye have troubled me to make me to stink among the inhabitants of the land, among the Canaanites and the Perizzites." No commendation there for an unwritten law murder.

Even fifty years later, when Jacob lay dying, he had not forgotten the evil deed of his sons, and he delivered himself thus about these executors of the "unwritten law:" "Simeon and Levi are brethren; instruments of cruelty are in their habitations. O my soul, come not thou into their secret; unto their assembly, mine honor, be not thou united; for in their anger they slew a man, and in their self-will they digged down a wall. Cursed be their anger, for it was fierce; and their wrath, for it was cruel; I will divide them in Jacob, and scatter them in Israel."

Stern, just old Jacob, mourning his defiled daughter though he was, did not lend his countenance to murder, even though it were perpetrated in the name of revenge for one of the greatest evils that a man can do a family.

It is going to be necessary in this country, pretty soon, to do something with the juries that are swayed by passion and prejudice and the unwritten law, instead of by justice and the law of the land.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"Most of the Eastern railroads have a greater variety of colors to their signal lights than any of the Western roads," said F. L. Dingle of New York, at the Lenox. "The New Haven railroad has just added one more color to its signal system by the adoption of the purple light in connection with the red, yellow and green lights already in use. The new color replaces the red light which formerly indicated the position of the crossing over switches, marked by what are known as dwarf signals. These signals are placed close to the ground in order that the engineer may not see them uncil he is within a short distance.

"The light formerly used to show that the dwarf signal against the engineer was red, the same as the danger signal on the regular route. When an engineer was proceeding along the main line with a clear route ahead of him, he would find the green, or clear signal on the signal mast, and the red light knowing by this that he was to continue along the same track, would maintain full headway and the present contradiction of passing a red light at a gait of sixty miles or so.

"It was this contradiction that the railway management desired to do away with so far as possible, with the result that every one of the almost innumerable dwarf signals on the road has now been equipped with the purple light for closed and green for open switch.

"In 1900 I followed the Big Fork river for a greater part of its distance from its headwaters to its mouth, and again made the same trip last month," said E. L. McCarthy of Grand Rapids, Minn., at the St. Louis. "The development that has taken place in the period of seven years is something remarkable. It looks like an entirely different country. On the first trip there were whole days when we did not even see an Indian, to say nothing of white men, and the few log houses we did run across were for the most part unoccupied. They belonged to claimholders, who visited them only twice a year.

"At Big Falls there was one family living two days' travel from the nearest postoffice. Now there is quite a town there, and it has a postoffice of its own. There is a big water power at the falls and it will mean important industries in time for Big Falls, which is located at the point where the Minnesota & International crosses the river, on its way to the Canadian border. The banks of the river, all the way along, are well settled up, and there are numerous prosperous-looking farms, although they have an air of newness. They tell me the soil is very fertile, and there certainly are some fine crops produced.

"Big Fork, the town at the mouth of the river, which consisted of about half a dozen houses when I was first there, has since greatly increased in population. There is a large business transacted by the boats plying the Rainy river between International Falls and points farther down the river. A very good boat service is provided."

THE WEATHER.

And still another day of absolute perfection. There seems to be no end to the fine summer weather. It was warmer this morning, and there were symptoms that it was becoming even hot, but there was a fine breeze, and conditions were delightful. Yesterday's highest temperature was 78 degs. and last night's lowest was 60 degs. The weather man looks for fine weather tonight and tomorrow, without much change in temperature.

A year ago today it was hot, the thermometer getting up to 86 degs.

The sun rose this morning at 4:33 and sets tonight at 7:55, making 15 hours and 22 minutes of sunshine. Tomorrow it will rise at 4:34 and set at 7:54, making 15 hours and 20 minutes of sunshine. This is thirty-five minutes less than there was on the longest day of the year, just a month ago.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The temperature changes throughout the country were generally slight during the past twenty-four hours, very warm weather continuing without abatement in the southern lake region, central valleys, southern and eastern states. Shallow barometric depressions centered this morning over New England states, Arizona and British Columbia caused light showers during Friday or last night in the western lake region, Iowa, Illinois, Tennessee, Georgia, the western gulf coast, Saskatchewan, Western Montana and New Mexico. The barometer remains high over the gulf states. A continuance of fine weather is indicated for this section throughout tonigat and Sunday."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Hot Weather Virtues.

Is it right to classify the virtues and pick out certain ones as more suited to certain seasons than to others? Strictly speaking, honesty is as essential in December as in July. Meanness is as much out of place in March as in September. Nevertheless, the summer furnishes a splendid and exceptional opportunity for the cultivation and expression of certain graces of character. As the athlete welcomes the summer because it brings a chance to sleep in the open air and to take long tramps, so the man ambitious to attain moral excellence should greet the summer with a cheer because it calls for the exercise of his moral muscle and provides valuable courses in spiritual hygiene.

The grace of pleasantness may thrive in hot weather. "You are the first person who has spoken pleasantly to me today," said a wearied shop girl as she mopped the perspiration from her brow on one of the hottest of recent hot days. Her customer had ventured a friendly comment on the hardship of being part of the human machinery of a great department store on a torrid day. The gentleness of the tone and the kindly attitude were balm to the spirit of the jaded girl who, all day long, had not encountered a customer or a fellow worker who seemed to her in a pleasant mood. Hot weather is, indeed, a severe test of the man or woman who is ordinarily of a pleasant disposition. Nevertheless, pleasantness is an attainable virtue even when the thermometer persists in lingering in the 90s. So come what will, this summer, let's be pleasant, even when the train is inexcusably late and the crowd is wearisome, and the summer resort a disappointment and we would much rather cry than laugh. Remember the woman who so impressed herself on her friends and neighbors that when she died they put this epitaph on her tombstone: "She was so pleasant."

Quietness is another virtue for whose development the summer gives a unique chance. The strenuous life has been forcibly and frequently preached during recent years so insistently, in fact, that someone has made this clever parody of Charles Kingsley's well known verse and put it forth as embodying in rhyme the modern doctrine of strenuosity.

Be strenuous, sweet maid, and let who will be clever.
Do noble things, not dream them all day long,
And so make life and death and the vast forever
One Chinese gong.

But we do not want to live perpetually with muscles tense and nerves a quiver. We want the power that comes through repose. The summer is for relaxation of mind as well as body. Let the problems go for a fortnight and as you stretch yourself beneath some giant oak or maple far from the noisy throng, get quietness into your soul. It won't be waste time. Maybe just to stop talking volubly will be a rest for yourself as well as for your friends. Some of us have important decisions to make before September. Heed then the word of an English writer who says: "The man who approaches a decision in the strength of stillness—a stillness occasioned by his communion in the secret place, may implicitly trust his judgment, and step out without fear."

Quiet moments, quiet hours are likely to beget contentment of spirit and that is another grace in which we may grow as the summer passes. For very likely we are so situated that discontent can easily be fomented. Our vacation is shorter than somebody else's. We see as we go about the world, the apparently favored children of good fortune, with houses and lands, with yachts and automobiles. But we can have just as many inward resources as they and probably more. No one need surpass us, in appreciation of the sweep of the river, the whilsper of the breezes, the glory of the summer night, the wealth of human friendship, the sweetness of little children, the infinite satisfaction of faith. Summer schools abound in the land but I propose one more—A Summer School in Character. Courses can be taken whether at home or abroad, tuition free, attendance unlimited, results magnificent. INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

THEODORE E. BURTON OF OHIO

By SAVOYARD.

(Copyright, 1907, by E. W. Newman.)

The town of Jefferson, Ashtabula county, Ohio, was the depository of that part of the New England conscience that went West about 100 years ago to grow up with the country. Ashtabula county was the heart of the Western reserve and peopled from Massachusetts and Connecticut. At Jefferson lived Joshua R. Giddings and Benjamin F. Wade, both radical Abolitionists. They were of New England stock, and when we think of them the following from that other and more brilliant son of New England—John James Ingalls—obtrudes on the mind:

"The conscience of New England was never thoroughly aroused to the immorality of African slavery until it ceased to be profitable, and the North did not finally determine to destroy the system until convinced that its continuance threatened not only their industrial independence, but their political supremacy."

That passage not only evidences the blunt candor of Mr. Ingalls, but in it is shown the sagacity with which he judged men and things, and here we have one of the most brilliant men our country has produced defining the New England conscience as merely a synonym for thrift, material and political. It was New England, by the way, that put the African slave trade in the Constitution of the United States.

It was at this town of Jefferson that Theodore E. Burton was born in 1851, the year after Henry Clay and Stephen A. Douglas had prevented Joshua R. Giddings, Thaddeus Stevens and men of that like from accomplishing the dissolution of the Union. Mr. Burton got his education at Oberlin college, an abolition institution and the narrowest-minded school in the world. Young Burton studied law, was admitted to the bar and opened an office in the city of Cleveland. He was a fine student and has a superior legal mind, and might have made as great a lawyer as Rufus P. Ranney or Virgil P. Kline had he stuck to the profession and given his whole soul to it. His strong point is clearness of statement and that is the strong point of the lawyer. Unless it be John Sharp Williams, no man in congress is the equal of Burton in stating a case. When on his legs making a speech he constantly reminds one of John G. Carlisle. Williams is a much greater man than Burton, for Williams is richly endowed with the keenest sense of humor, whereas Burton is as serious as "a basket of chips going to hell to be burned."

Burton's first advent in congress was in 1889, when Thomas B. Reed revolutionized that body and subtracted its self-government from the general membership on the floor and lodged it with the speaker. It was the congress that sought to deprive the South of its privilege to vote the Democratic ticket, that curtailed surplus revenues by increasing taxation, that sought to make a sound currency by demonetizing gold, a thing that was accomplished by the Sherman silver law. In 1890 the country got a whack at the Fifty-first congress and that very year the Democrats gained the most signal victory ever achieved by a political party in the United States. Tom Johnson beat Burton for congress that very year.

The Democrats had their day in court and paved the devil. In 1893 they mutinied against their general like a lot of Protestans deposed him, set up a boy orator in his place, and for a dozen years they have abused God's patience and the king's English, cussing the deposed general for the misfortunes and disasters that have overtaken them under the lead of the youthful orator. Their conduct is not at all logical, but it is immensely human. In 1894, after the Democratic party had repudiated Cleveland as a principle, and deposed Cleveland as a leader, an appeal was had to the country which responded with an overwhelming Republican victory that has been six times duplicated since 1894.

Burton was returned to the fifty-fourth congress, and Speaker Reed put him on rivers and harbors. When Ben Odell got in need of a judge in Western New York he drafted Hooker out of congress for the job and then Burton became chairman of rivers and harbors, and it is only just to say that in that place he has shown himself to be one of the ablest and most accomplished legislators the American congress ever knew. Mr. Burton never undertakes to tinker with a piece of substitute until he makes himself absolute master of the facts and the philosophies of the case viewed from any and every standpoint. That is a secret all too few of our congressmen have, at least too few of them set upon it.

It is doubtful if all the rest of congress together, senate and house, know as much about our rivers and harbors as Burton knows. If there is a creek or inlet from ocean to ocean that he does not know all about, congress has never heard of it. Not only does he know where it is, but what it is. He knows the volume of water, the depth, the width, the fall. He knows the commerce that each shore will supply and what it is—coal, iron, stone, phosphate, lead, zinc, and all that. He knows the agricultural energies of either bank and how much freight they will supply. Above all, he knows the probable cost of improvement and if the game is worth the candle. He is an absolutely honest man, just and impartial to the marrow, and with a will of iron. Thus, when it comes to rivers and harbors, Theodore E. Burton is the American congress; and if all the other of the people's affairs had been as well managed, the country would be in a heap better fix than it is.

Faction is the tribulation of party and the delight of history. It has thwarted much of good and more of evil. The Democratic party is fair game for it, and many a cruel blow it has dealt that organization. When you get into the superior class of Democrats you find a set who will not follow the multitude to do evil. They refuse to yell "Release unto us Barabas" because it is in the platform to turn Barabas loose. Local self-government is the soul of the Democratic party, and your true Democrat is so far what he believes. He is for states's rights; he is for taxation for revenue only; he is for a currency as good as the best in the world; he is for honesty and economy in public expenditures; he is for strict construction of the Constitution; he is jealous of power; he is for the largest personal liberty consistent with public order. He suspects all fads and experiments. He is a conservative.

On the other hand, your Republican, of the average class, has but one principle—the majority. He will never bolt; he is for the platform, whatever it declares, and for the ticket, or whomsoever it is composed. The Republican party is thoroughly disciplined, I could give a hundred examples, but a single one will suffice. When the fifty-ninth congress was convened the Republican party was worse split up over the rate bill than the Democratic party had been over the silver question when the fifty-third congress convened. The Democratic party went all to flinders over the silver; the Republican party got together on rates—except Foraker, Sam McCall and two or three others.

But there is a faction in the Republican ranks out in Ohio, and Burton is in it up to the elbows. The colored man and brother is in it, too, and our graduate of Oberlin is by no means a favorite with the graduates of Xenia. It seems that the negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth United States infantry amused themselves last August by shooting up the town of Brownsville, Tex. It is true that they denied it; but there is not a man in the United States who has the faintest conception of the negro character, who does not know that those negro soldiers shot up that town, and then conspired to conceal the fact. President Roosevelt very properly had the soldiers discharged, and the pit of it is that there was not a summary way to cashier some of the white commissioned officers, who have put themselves in even a worse attitude than the colored privates.

• • •

Senator Foraker became the champion of the negro ruffians and abused the senate's patience and affronted its intelligence in numerous elaborate addresses, designed to paint the discharged raiders as lambs sent to the slaughter by Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft. This thing is become a matter of factional politics in the Republican party of Ohio, where there are some 25,000 negro voters, though the state constitution of Ohio is the only one in the Union from which the word "white" has not been expunged from its suffrage clause. I wonder if Senator Foraker is acquainted with the experience Senator Sumner of Massachusetts had with Senator Revels of Mississippi, and there is tradition, whether fact or fiction, that Senator Sumner perceptibly cooled in his zeal as a fanatic after he got the treatment Revels meted out to him in the caucus that deposed Sumner from the chairmanship of foreign relations. We know that Sumner voted the Democratic ticket in 1872.

The Afro-American council met in Baltimore the other day and issued a manifesto that amounts to general orders to the Republican party. It condemned William H. Taft and Henry Cabot Lodge to political death and sought to mobilize the negro vote into a separate organization to levy political blackmail on the G. O. P. It will not work. Your white Republican of the North is in no better temper to take orders from the negro than is your white Democrat of the South. If all the negroes of the North fall in with this idea, promulgated by this Afro-American council and persist in it, the year 1920 will see the fifteenth amendment of the federal constitution as much of a dead letter in Ohio and Indiana as it is in Alabama and Mississippi. The G. O. P. would be glad to see negro rule at the South, but it does not intend to have it at home. Senator Foraker's speech to Wilberforce university was a demand for negro rule in at least three Southern states. The first answer to it was the beating up of a negro in the United States treasury department in Washington, and the second was the general order of the Afro-American council, assuming command of the Republican party throughout the Union.

That is the kettle of fish Senator Foraker has cooked for his party in Ohio. The negroes of that state have marked Taft and Burton for slaughter. It is not a Democratic row, and every Democrat can contemplate the melee with extremest satisfaction.

Burton is as able a man as Foraker though by no means as effective an orator in congress or on the stump. Nor is he the virile leader Foraker is. Foraker did not hesitate to challenge Theodore Roosevelt in the senate and out of it, and in that behalf he delivered himself of preachments that no man can controvert, and did it in a way to extort the admiration of enemy as well as of friend. Burton is as hostile to the present extortionate tariff as Foraker was to the rate bill; but Burton allowed the tariff reform contingent on the Republican side of the house of representatives to drift as aimlessly as a straw in a fickle wind. If Foraker had been as impotent in the senate the outrage of joint statehood for Arizona and New Mexico would have been perpetrated. As Lucan said of his brother-in-law, Cardigan, who led the charge of the Light Brigade and whom he hated with all the rancor of his stern nature, so it can be said of Foraker: "Yes, he is brave; d—n him, he is brave."

Cui bono? The Republican party will reform the tariff about the time the brewers bring about total abstinence. Parson Brownlow said he would be a Democrat when Queen Victoria was content to be divorced from the prince consort by decree of a county court in the then territory of Kansas, and the Republican party will begin to think seriously of tariff reform some quarter of a century after Ben Tillman shall deliver the oration at the unveiling of a monument to Collector Crum, erected by the white folks of Charleston, S. C. There was in 1860 more sentiment for the emancipation of the slaves in the eleven states that seceded than there is sentiment for tariff reform in the Republican party in 1907. There were emancipationists at the South, thousands of them brave soldiers in the Confederate army, and there are tariff reformers in the Republican party—they call themselves "tariff revisionists." No two of them agree, and if all of them agreed the standpatters would not allow them to budge a peg. Figs do not grow on thistles, nor are grapes gathered from thorns. If this country is in need of tariff revision, it must apply to the party that keeps it in stock.

• • •

Here is Massachusetts demanding tariff revision "by the friends of protection." She wants the tariff revised down on hides and revised up on boots and shoes. Iowa, another Republican state, also demands tariff revison "by the friends of protection." She wants the tariff on hides revised up and the tariff on boots and shoes revised down. Scratch a Republican, who is for tariff revision, and here is the label you will reveal: "I am for prohibitory tariff on what I have to sell." That layout could not "revise" the tariff between now and judgment day.

And what a harvest for the Democratic party if the Democratic party enjoyed the blessing of person liberty! The Sixtieth congress would be Democratic if the club of government ownership of railroads had not been supplied the Republican party to beat our brains out. The next president would be a Democrat and the next congress Democratic if the Democratic party had not already been given orders not to make the tariff paramount. The last Democratic president was elected on the tariff issue. The next Democratic president, if there is to be another Democratic president, will be elected on the tariff issue. The octopus has been chased and all that. Who has put a cheaper rag on his back or a cheaper mouthful down his throat? Who has found living cheaper? Who has not found it harder to make buckle and tongue meet, notwithstanding this prosperity that is so boaster?

Why? Why? Why? The tariff which protects the products of labor that belongs to capital, while allowing free trade in labor itself, that comes from abroad at the rate of 1,250,000 per year. But what is the use? The flat has gone forth to subordinate the tariff to octopus chasing—and the result will be the same.

And so the Ohio Republicans are perfectly safe in cutting one another's throats. The Democrats will not be allowed to avail themselves of the advantage that family row offers.

Put away the poor little tariff issue. It may be of use some time in the remote future.

GIVE MORE TIME FOR DELIVERY

Stamped Envelopes and Wrappers Now Come by Freight.

Under a new rule of the postal department stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers will hereafter be shipped by freight in carload lots instead of by mail and it will on this account take about two weeks longer than heretofore for delivery of them after the request is made. The envelopes and wrappers will be shipped in carload lots to the several main distributing points of the country and sent from there to all the cities and towns asking them.

Special request envelopes as well as plain stamped envelopes and wrappers will be shipped by freight to the distributing cities and firms wanting special request envelopes should get in their orders in time to allow for the two weeks delay in delivery.

Regular users of special request envelopes will be notified by the postmasters of the longer time required for delivery and it will be suggested by them in the future their orders be placed sufficiently early to insure delivery before their supply of envelopes will be exhausted.

The new rule will become effective on Aug. 1, and Assistant Postmaster Barnard has already notified the general users of special request envelopes. The Duluth supply comes from the distributing point at Chicago.

Mrs. Agnes McKay of 125 Nineteenth avenue west, Duluth, Minn., says: "It is now six years since I first recommended Doan's Kidney Pills through our local papers and I have just as much faith in them today as ever. I do not like to have my name appear in the local papers in this way, but Doan's Kidney Pills are such a reliable remedy that I would like every sufferer from kidney trouble to know about them. The symptoms of kidney trouble are well known. DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Encouraging Reports Received From All Business Centers.

New York, July 20.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Encouraging reports are received from leading commercial centers, the volume of business being exceptionally heavy for the season, and stocks are depleted by the usual clearance sales, providing more prompt payments and greater confidence in the future. Buyers are numerous in the large cities preparing for an active fall trade, now that the agricultural outlook is less uncertain. Clothing manufacturers report much new business and few cancellations.

Dullness in the pig iron market is not unusual at this time of the year, but there is little reduction in output and no evidence that furnace owners are seeking business at lower prices. At some of the steel mills there is also more or less seasonable absence of new contracts, but specifications are large on old orders, and the plants that must stop for repairs do not remain idle any longer than necessary. The most definite evidence that the situation is perfectly sound is the absence of pressure to find business even at concession in prices. Thus far the iron and steel market has avoided this weak tone that is so significant. On the contrary, producers are confident that much delayed business will appear when the crops are secured, while still more postponed work only waits for a normal money market. A small tonnage of structural shapes was placed during the past week, and another lake vessel provided considerable trade in plate.

A firmer tone has appeared in the primary market for cotton goods, manufacturers securing, without difficulty, the prices asked. While a few lines ar distinctly quiet, there is more evidence of satisfactory business than at any time for several weeks.

Although prices are considered high, it is felt that there is much to warrant further advances, so that buyers feel justified in operating freely, even for remote deliveries. Advices from jobbers indicate that advance business for fall has largely exceeded anticipations, and there is much anxiety regarding the ability of the mills to make shipments, according to specifications. Little export trade is accomplished, but the Chinese market has improved.

No developments are expected in the market for woolens until the finer grades of worsted fabrics are opened. Few new lines were shown this week, but it is believed that much quiet business is being arranged without waiting for formal openings.

Accumulations in all leading markets, both here and abroad, make lower quotations for hides, although some increase in volume of business is noted, especially with Western packers. Despite the largest volume of business sales are less than the slaughter, and stocks in the hands of packers are greater than at any preceding date this year. River Platte hides are in excessive supply in all principal European cities. Improvement is noted in the leather market, buyers taking sample lots freely. The tone is firm, no concessions being offered by tanners, and there is pronounced strength in hemlock and oak sole. A scarcity of calf skins is expected this fall, which gives especial strength to that section of the market. Glazed kid is neglected, recent reductions in prices failing to provide a demand equal to the output. There is a large attendance in the Boston footwear market, buyers having come from all sections, but thus far few big contracts have been placed.

APPARITION

Appeared to Pope Pius Before He Signed Decree on Faith.

Rome, July 20.—A member of the pope's household, in the course of an interview published last night, says Pope Pius hesitated before he took the grave step of ordering the publication of the syllabus with regard to the so-called modernism in the faith, but that all his doubts were removed by a miraculous apparition of the Blessed Virgin, which extended its hands in a gesture of benediction and encouragement over his head as if in answer to his prayer for heavenly guidance, and that the pontiff thereupon rose from his knees and signed the decree.

WHATS WHAT IN THE SPORTING WORLD

By Naughton and Ye Sporting Scribe.

The Copper Country Team.

The Sox got away from Winnipeg without as many threads pulled as a good many people expected. They played the Maroons to a standstill, but didn't close up any of that gap.

There's still hope! The Sox are now back on their own lot for a little brush with the Copper country clubs. Every series of this season is important, but the coming series may be regarded as crucial. If the Sox cannot trim the Copper country clubs in the current series, on their own grounds, they aren't very likely to do it on the Michigan lots and may as well give up all hopes of winning the pennant.

Sox Are Back on Their Own Lot.

The copperdom teams are always more successful against Winnipeg than they are against Duluth. Perhaps they don't win any more games from Winnipeg, but the Tiggers must play every minute to get anything from them and the result may change any time. The Maroons are in constant danger of losing the big end of the series when playing either Houghton or Calumet, but they have succeeded in getting away with it thus far. That's not saying they will for the remainder of the season.

Strengthening on the part of the other teams is the only possible means of beating Winnipeg out of the pennant now. Herr has had a complete team since the season opened, while the other clubs have been changing players and managers, with the result that they were disorganized the greater part of the time. Winnipeg got away with a running start, while the others broke at the barrier and have just struck their stride.

Neither the Giants nor Aristocrats are easy picking for Duluth or Winnipeg right now. They are both in new hands, have new players, and better team work and both are dangerous propositions. There's always a chance for them to come to the front. The internal strife, which was the cause of their downfall early in the season, has been quelled and both are going along serenely now. Calumet took a few falls out of Houghton on their own lots, and now they are both in the West in the hope of pulling down both of the Western teams. Duluth fans will be satisfied if they can pull Winnipeg down and the Sox can get a little better than an even break on the series.

Revival of Horse Racing.

Last Saturday, there was a horse race at the driving park. It was an event in Duluth. Perhaps not in the eyes of the general public, but for those who take delight in a good race, it was a big event. For Duluth had not seen a horse race before for a long time.

About 1,000 people gathered to see the race last week. This, despite the fact that there had not been a line of advertising issued, beyond notices in the sporting columns of the newspapers. Of course, there was no admission charged. But that fact didn't draw many. Those who will attend a horse race aren't the people to stick over a little admission fee.

That Duluth is suffering in the lack of harness horse racing is evident by the crowd, which gathered last week. If 1,000 people could be drawn out to a match race, with very little effort to arouse interest, one could easily imagine what crowds would turn out to good cards, once interest had been aroused in the sport.

A revival of horse racing is bound to come in Duluth. It may not come this season, although it is getting a start, but next year it surely will. There are too many warm-blooded sportsmen in this city to let a good branch of sport like that die entirely. It has laid dormant for a long time now and the awakening must come soon. The people responsible for the matinee last Saturday are taking the initiative in the revival and the encouragement given them cannot fail to cause them to redouble their efforts.

One More Shamrock.

A rumor, which doesn't appear to have very much foundation, says that Sir Thomas Lipton will send another Shamrock across the water in 1908 to race for the America's cup. Sir Thomas has until October of this year to file his challenge, and if he does, he will receive the unreserved laudations of every lover of a good sportsman. Sir Thomas is a good sportsman. Time after time he came across for the America's cup and returned empty-handed, but there was never a murmur from him. He took his defeats like a gentleman, braced up and prepared for another try. His bank account was deeply invaded, but Sir Thomas didn't mind that. He was receiving the advertising and satisfying his sporting inclinations.

It has leaked out that Sir Thomas would have sent another Shamrock to compete for the cup this year, and possibly last year, had more satisfactory conditions been imposed. It is said he asked the New York Yacht club to name the conditions under which the race would be held, but they refused to abandon the obsolete rules, under which the former races were sailed. Had they agreed to more modern rules, it is very likely

If the Cup Is to Be Lifted.

Lipton would have made another bid for the highest honor in the yachting world. It is also said that there are other yachtsmen of international reputation who would have come to the front with challenges.

Now, if Lipton challenges, he will be compelled to race his yacht under the old conditions. And if he does, he will be handicapped in construction and sailing. So, if he does win the cup, the victory gained under such unfavorable conditions, will be all the greater. If the cup is to be lifted, American sportsmen would rather see Sir Thomas Lipton raise it than any other foreigner, and if Sir Thomas does the lifting, they want to see the ceremony attended with all the honors which can possibly accrue to the veteran sportsman. He is deserving of all honors, for he's a good loser, and he would certainly be a good winner.

C. Murphy—Hard Loser.

The attendance at the National League park in Chicago has fallen off badly, owing to the fact that the Cubs have such an overwhelming lead and appear to be absolutely certain of another pennant. C. Murphy claims not to care.

"We can't get too far ahead to suit me," he said the other day. "If we won every game of the year I'd like it better. Losing ball games would send me to the asylum in a hurry. I'm willing to let the box office take care of itself if we can only win and keep on winning. No matter how far ahead you get, something is liable to happen at any time that will upset all your calculations. We were eleven games to the good when Pittsburg came along and trimmed us four in a row. That gave us a scare. I want the Cubs to get fifty games ahead if they can."

Doesn't Know When He's Down.

People with bountiful collections of cheek spring up in no circle as often as they do in the sporting world. Dubs, who want to meet top-notchers, are as plentiful in every branch of sport as flies in summertime. They bob up and bob down and, though they try to prevent it, they are soon forgotten.

For the real monumental nerve which puts good-for-nothings in the limelight and puts money in their pockets, sometimes, the quality which Bosher Bill Squires (whisper the name) is handing around is the clear article 147 per cent pure and winning all the premiums. Any man with ordinary common sense, after taking such a beating as Squires did from a fighter, who is nothing better than a second-rater, would have crawled in his hole and remained there in shame-faced oblivion for the rest of his days.

Not for William Squires of Melbourne, Australia. The man, whose modesty wouldn't let him exhibit his talents to the curious mob before he stepped in the ring, isn't going to draw in his horns after a little beating like that. He must be accustomed to them. He is really after another fight with Tommy Burns.

Squires must have Bookmaker Wren and a few more of them in the South Seas pretty well strung. Wren offers to give Burns $2,500 and all the gate receipts, win, lose or draw, if he fights within a month. At least, so says the press agent. Wren must be crazy, but that's neither here or there.

After the way Burns put Squires away July 4, do Reynolds, Wren, Squires, or any of the rest think they can get fifty cents a piece from as many as ten men to see those two get into the ring again? Any promoter who would even entertain a thought of staging Burns and Squires again ought to be rushed off to the violent ward and put in a straight-jacket. He's a menace to the community.

Trot out Jack Munroe, Jack Palmer or some of the other false alarms, who have come to the front for a few minutes to take some good American money down. They're about in the same class with Squires. Tommy Burns says he will go to Australia and fight Squires again, providing $10,000 is guaranteed him. Tommy might get the money over there. But no more of Squires for the United States. Put him on the first ship bound for Sydney, or Melbourne, or wherever he came from, and may he never be mentioned in the same breath with real fighters again.

Curley Ullrich, Jokesmith.

Isn't Curley Ullrich the joker, though? Every time Curley leaves his native heath, he returns with a brilliantly colored pipe on the manner in which prize fights are conducted in that particular part of the country visited. Needless to say, the stories are entirely satisfactory and highly complimentary, when Curley comes out on top, but when he loses, wow!

Curley Must Have Been Reading the Yellowbacks on the Train.

About a year ago, Curley went down to the Copper Country to stack up against Jack Parres and some more foreign pugs. Curley was trimmed, got only a draw, or something like that. He came back with a story to the effect that they didn't know any more about running prize fights in the Copper Country than a Chinaman does about conducting a bull fight. The next time Curley left his own little back lot, he went to Minneapolis and went against Jimmie Potts. The far famed "dope" story was the result.

But both of those pale into insignificance when stacked up against the tale Curley brings from Montana this week. Curley sure must have been reading the yellowback on the train timetables. He tells of a great, big, gruff man, who sat near the ring and told him not to hurt the local boy. And when he put the local boy away, the g. b. g. m. arose with a young arsenal, consisting of two Colts, and told him to do it again and he would have his manly hide stuffed with lead inserted through promiscuous openings. Accordingly, Curley desisted and got only a draw.

That's all very nice for Curley to tell. It looks well in print and is a good advertising dodge. But it goes down very slowly and only with much forcing. They'd be about as likely to stand for the kind of a deal Curley said he got in Montana, as they would right here in Duluth. Of course, it may have happened, but there must be some sports in Montana, and if there are, they would be very likely to look calmly on, while a fighter was cowed into inaction. They want to see a prize fight, not a love feast.

International Sports.

Though ministers and councils and cabinets and senates may look askance at each other and prepare to cut throats and precipitate rains of lead for the destruction of each other and the governments they represent, there is one class of people who are always ready to meet on common ground, compete fairly and honorably, render unto the victors the spoils and to the losers kindly words, and ever maintain an amicable feeling.

They are the sportsmen. Amateur and professional, the athletes, with few exceptions, are fair at heart. They believe in giving every man a square deal, and conducting things so that none will have an advantage. Faking has crept in, but the fakir is not a true sportsman. International athletics are promoting a better feeling between the nations of the earth.

English university athletes announce that they cannot come to this country this season to compete with our college athletes, but they hope to next year. Sweden is about to send a crack team of all-around athletes to this country. A Canadian la crosse team has just started for Australia. Leland Stanford university has sent her head coach out to New Zealand to study the game of football as played there. In other branches of sport international bodies are continually competing. It makes for unity, a unity which is bound to bring about a more kindly feeling, not only among sportsmen, but among diplomats and courtiers. They meet on common grounds, and, if equality is acknowledged, there is little ground for dispute.

Universal Golf Rules.

The question of a set of universal golf rules, for use in all countries, where the game is played, is attracting considerable attention at present. The movement for universal rules is being generally commended. Regarding the matter, the Chicago Tribune comments:

"Steps taken by the United States Golf association to have the leading associations of the world confer, with the object of formulating a code of rules suitable for a world wide use, are in the right direction. Golf, from the very reason of its adaptability to players of all ages and the absence of the same amount of muscular endeavor necessary in many branches of sport, bids fair to become almost a universal pastime. This alone would commend the action of the officials of the United States Golf association, apart from the fact that the existing rules are not explicit. Even in the matter of golf courses the methods of the conservative Scotchmen who guide the destinies of the sport have been criticised by the Scotch professionals now in America. The game of late years has made great strides in England, and the Johnny Bulls have had occasion to criticise the St. Andrews rules. When the wise men who meet on the golfing hill of Mars hear the cry from other lands it is hoped they will see the light. Different rules for different countries for a game that hardly needs any rules would be most undesirable. St. Andrews has yet to be heard from."

Baseball in England.

The American game of baseball is frightfully distorted in England, but is becoming very popular. An idea of the difference of the American method of play and the English variety may be gained from the fact that Walter Camp of Yale recently attended a game which lasted six hours, the final score being 52 to 38. Mr. Camp did not see the end of the game and he expressed a secret belief that nobody else did.

SOX TAKE FIRST GAME

Aristocrats Give Tail-End Exhibition of Baseball.

New Sox Pitcher Does Well and Home Team Wins 7 to 1.

After acting as a footstool for the Winnipeg Maroons for over a week past, the Duluth ball team returned home yesterday and in the afternoon relieved their feelings by walloping the poor crippled tail enders by a 7 to 1 score.

The tail enders were seemingly perfectly willing to be walloped. They gave a cellar exhibition of the game and with muffs, boots and heaves put the plum in a place from which the Sox grabbed it off without trying very hard. Newcombe certainly needs some men and needs them in a hurry, or the vaunted champions of last year will go sliding so far down that they'll never come back. The three pitchers were in the game yesterday and there was nobody on the bench. Ryan was on the grounds with a bandaged head. Somebody with a grouch hit him on the head with a brick in Calumet.

Sincock, a native son of the metropolis of copperdom, was flinging them. He's a lively looking youth all right, but he couldn't show to good advantage the way the eight representatives of the 400 were playing behind him yesterday. In the second and third, the Sox got to him aplenty, when the bunches behind him put men on the sacks, but after the third they couldn't wallop in clusters and there was nothing doing in the run column. Sincock will do, if he gets some kind of support.

There was a strange face surmounting a blue suit occupying the mound. With Spike Anderson watching him from center field, Taylor, a protege of the erstwhile manager of the Tiggers, was doing the flinging stunt. Taylor got away with it yesterday, but he was in some pretty mean holes. All he needs is coaching. He is wilder than a Rocky mountain goat and had trouble locating the groove. Five men were handed tickets and three more were tickled in the slats, but there wasn't much doing in the run column. There were eight other Sox on the job, too, and they were on it every minute. Venturesome Aristocrats attempted to run bases several times, a la Herrites, but they were cut off and sent to the bench by fast fielding.

Which doesn't mean to say the boy on the hill didn't do his part. He has a floater that had 'em guessing. He had his Indian brother swinging like a barn door in the wind and the other reputed sluggers of the copperdom outfit couldn't connect when a smash meant marks on the score board. Thirteen of the nobility died on the sacks, which shows that Mr. Taylor wasn't sleeping when the danger sign was exhibited.

James Haney may lay claim to four of the seven scores the Sox took. The southpaw flinger butted into the game in the third. Helding having been spiked in the second while on the bases. James and his young redwood faced the amateur in the third with the S. F. O. sign on the bases. The first ball pitched was a wide one, but the long pole shot around and met the spheroid on the proboscus. Siner took a run to the left field fence and watched the pellet as it dropped in the depths beyond, while four white-legged youths formed a procession with Leighty in the lead and Haney bringing up the rear and marched across the rubber with the plaudits of the crowd to greet them. Haney's stunt came just after a particularly delicious period on the part of the Calumet fielders and the irreparable damage wrought took a good deal of interest from the remainder of the game.

The Sox started at Sincock in the second inning. McCormick singled and the ball went through Siner, the lengthy boy taking second. He went to third on Helding's bingle and scored on Smith's clink, which was booted by Sincock. Helding and Smith tried a double steal, and after a merry see-saw on the third base line, Helding was nabbed and a hole cut in his leg by a stray spike, necessitating his retirement from the game.

In the third the Sox finished the job, with the aid of the Aristocrats. Livingston was safe on Siner's muff and Tracey ambled. Leighty hit one to the red man on the third corner, but John wasn't there and the sacks were thickly populated. Spike Anderson walked up, and in appreciation of a hearty hand from the crowd, rapped out a single, scoring two. McCormick filled the sacks again by taking first on Wallace's error. Williams went down on a fly and then Haney did his little lifting stunt with a four-score result.

While this was going on, the Duluth Taylor was having troubles of his own taking care of the batsmen while others were on bases. In the fifth, with the aid of good fielding, he ended it up with three disappointed Aristocrats on the sacks, and in the eighth one was nabbed at the plate. In the ninth there was a belated Fourth of July celebration of miniature proportions. Egan started the trouble by refusing to swing at four wide ones, and he went along one on McMorey's bump. Both advanced one when Taylor singled and Egan registered on Oriet's long single to the left field fence, McMorey dying in an attempt to reach the plate on the same hit. Wallace filled the sacks up again, but Lewis prevented further damage by flying out to Haney.

ONE HIT FOR THE MAROONS

Rube Miller Pitches Great Ball and Wins, 1 to 0.

Winnipeg, Man., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—With both teams playing errorless ball and the two twirlers working in great form, Winnipeg fans were treated to one of the best exhibitions of the year yesterday, Houghton winning by a score of 1 to 0.

Big Rube Miller, the unsophisticated youth from the Michigan woods, had the Maroons hooked for the entire nine innings. He had everything yesterday and the Maroons didn't have a thing with the stick. One weakly blow was all they could clout out, Larry Piper taking that. With the Giants playing perfect ball behind him, there was nothing to it but a shut out.

Ralph Terry was on the job for the Winnipeg contingent and he was all there. He kept the eight Houghton hits badly scattered and not until the ninth inning could the visitors send a man across the plate. Bushelman umpired the game and gave satisfaction.

HORSEMEN TO HIBBING

Big Card of Races to be Run at Range Town.

Five Duluth Horses Entered in Big Free-for-All.

Duluth lovers of horse racing are flocking to Hibbing today for the big race meet to be held in the range town today and tomorrow in conjunction with the county fair. The meet promises to be one of the biggest affairs held in the northern part of the state for some years. From all over Northern Minnesota, horsemen are gathering in Hibbing, with some of the fastest steeds in the state and every event promises to bring forth interesting brushes.

Today the card calls for a pace, a trot and a one-half mile run. Tomorrow is the big day, however. The principal event of the meet will be the free-for-all pace, which will bring together some of the fastest horses gathered on one track in Northern Minnesota. It will be a race from start to finish.

Duluth people will be especially interested in the free-for-all pace and there will be some backing of local speeders against the field. Five horses, under the guidance of Lon Matthews, have been shipped to Hibbing and they will participate in the big event. They are: C. F., 2:09¼, owned by C. R. Rust; Tony Boy, 2:18, owned by Elliott & Rumquist. Captain C., 2:21¼, owned by L. P. Totman, Minnie Mack, owned by Elliott & Rumquist, and Kitty D, owned by F. Duplias. All of the five horses have been working out under the direction of Lon Matthews at the West end park, and all have shown form, which is thought to make them possibilities for the money in the Hibbing meet.

HIBBING WINS THIRD GAME

Freeman Holds Saskatoon to Three Scattered Hits.

Hibbing, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brady's Colts made it two out of three from the Saskatoon team yesterday afternoon by winning, 3 to 1. With Sidewheeler Freeman pitching, Hibbing had easy sailing all the way through. Freeman held the Corrigan crowd to three hits and was given excellent support all the way through. Cook, the Canadian twirler, was touched for seven bingles and they came bunched sufficiently to send three men across.

Today and tomorrow the Saskatoon team plays at Virginia and next Tuesday and Wednesday, they will return to Hibbing for two games for a purse of $50. The Hibbing team plays Cloquer at Cloquet tomorrow.

RACES AT YACHT CLUB.

Fourth Race in Pennant Series Will be Sailed.

The fourth race in the series for 28-footers at the Duluth Yacht club will be sailed this afternoon and it promises to be one of the most interesting of the year. The Feather, Viking and Scud have each won a heat of the three already sailed and the competition between the owners of the three yachts is keen. There are also some good sailors among the remainder of the field of eleven, but things have not gone just right with them in the former races. There would be little surprise occasioned, if the situation would be further complicated by the victory of an outsider this afternoon.

There will be a club race between yachts of the 22-foot class this afternoon, and that promises to bring out some good sport, also. Four boats will start.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS PREPARING FOR THEIR ANNUAL SUMMER CAMP AT DEERWOOD----SOME FEATURES OF CAMP LIFE

SOME OF THE SENES OF CAMP LIFE.

Every boy wants to live in a tent during the hot days of vacation, and many parents realizing that the normal boy is a lover of nature and the great woods are eagerly seeking some healthful locality, where their boys may enjoy all the pleasures of camp life, and yet be under the influences that shall properly safeguard and help in matters of health and morals.

To meet this need the Y. M. C. A. has organized their summer camps for boys, and it has proved to be one of the most successful phases of their work. Last year more than 10,000 boys enjoyed their vacation in the Y. M. C. A. camps. The Duluth boys' department announces that the tenth annual camp will be held Aug. 12, and there are many Duluth boys who are anxiously awaiting that happy day. Each year has seen Camp Miller grow, both in popularity and size, from a camp of twelve held ten years ago it has grown to eighty-one, the number last year. The boys who once attend Camp Miller always look back with pleasure and profit to the good time they have had. The care and responsibility of so many boys is not taken without ample thought and careful preparation. The camp will be in charge of the secretary of the boys' department, who has eight years' experience in boys' camps. He will be assisted by a group of men, who will be there for the purpose of seeing that the boys have the time of their life.

The matter of discipline has never been a problem, as the members of Camp Miller have established a reputation for manliness and good behavior, and have always responded to every right appeal. Only those rules that are necessary are made, and the boys understand that gentlemanly conduct is expected of all. The fact that during the past years no accident or serious illness has happened to any of the party, speaks for itself. The location selected for this year will be the same as the past three years, Deerwood, Minn. This delightful resort is known to nearly all Duluthians, and has proven to be an ideal spot for a boys' camp. The camp will be pitched on the bank of Serpent lake. A large clearing has been made where the tents are pitched, and back of the camp, a few yards, is a beautiful forest. The boys will sleep in strong water-proof tents, 12 by 14 made of 100-ounce duck and supplied with a fly. Each tent will be occupied by seven boys and an adult leader. The food has always been an important feature of camp life. This department will be in charge of a competent chef and assistant, and only the best food procurable used. A farmer, in close proximity to the camp, supplies plenty of fresh eggs, milk and vegetables. The dining hall will be a large airy tent, situated about seventy-five yards from the sleeping tents. It will be fitted up with small tables, accommodating twelve boys, in charge of an adult leader.

A new feature this year will be the club room tent. It will be floored, and will contain reading and writing tables, games, and the office. From the arrival at camp to the day of its close there is always something doing, and it is very rarely that a boy becomes homesick. A few days before the campers arrive the advance party goes up and gets everything in readiness for the main party which gets there Monday Aug. 12, at 12 o'clock. The first thing that is done is to do justice to a good dinner that the chef has ready for them. Then the boys are assigned to a tent. Care is taken to put boys of the same age together and boys who chum together. Each tent selects a tent name and tent yell, the tents are then put in living order and the fun commences. Of course, swimming takes the lead of camp enjoyments, and every provision is made to have them enjoy this sport with the smallest amount of danger. In front of the camp there is a splendid beach, enabling every boy to enjoy the water. Every bay will be given the opportunity of learning. Last year nearly every boy in the party learned to swim. There are three swimming periods a day, the morning plunge at 7 a. m. and the regular swims at 11 and 4 o'clock. On these occasions all the leaders are present and a special patrol is made on the lake. No boy is allowed to swim on any other occasion and a violation of this rule means suspension from the camp. The rule is made, not to deprive any boy of any fun, but as a matter of safety. The chute the chutes built last year adds greatly to the fun. It is built a few yards from the shore, and extends out in the water far enough so that every boy can use it whether he can swim or not. It is lined with zink and is perfectly smooth so that the boys slide down in their bathing suits. A swimming float is used for the older boys for diving.

Fishing and boating are also favorite sports. The boys have always caught more fish than could be used. A good fleet of strong boats is supplied, and some of the campers—around the lake occasionally take the party out in their launches.

Other things that go to fill up the program are, entertainments, minstrel show, corn roasts, marshmallow roasts, ice cream socials, hikes, athletic meets for older and younger boys, baseball, basketball, water polo, aquatic events, and water carnival, and a host of other things.

The camp fire at night is one of the events that lingers long in the memory of every camper. At sundown they gather around a huge bonfire, tell stories, sing songs, and have a general good time. Sunday in camp is made an enjoyable day. In the morning a service is conducted by the camp at the church at Deerwood, and the evening in the open air at the camp. The afternoon is spent in reading, visiting, and strolls through the woods. A chapel service is held each morning, when the orders of the day are given out.

A vote is taken at the close of camp for the honor roll, and the names of the winners are placed on the Camp Miller Hall of Fame. This is hung up in the club rooms and makes a good souvenir of the camp. The honor roll includes: the most popular boy, best athlete, most courteous boy, camp humorist, most generous boy, boy with biggest pull, heavenly twins, handsomest boy, boy who has done most for the camp, best natured boy, favorite song, best all round camper, best table manners, neatest boy, neatest tent, hard luck boy, mascot. Prices are given for the best kept tent, largest fish, best camp yell, and the best photograph. Parents are always welcome at the camp. Meals are served at 25 cents, and sleeping accommodations can be had at the hotel at Deerwood. A neat camp prospectus has been printed, glving information in full, and can be had on application at the boys' department.

EDDIE HERR SUSPENDED

Manager of Maroons is Given Indefinite Lay Off.

Glass Disciplines Him for Taking Men From Field.

Eddie Herr, the scrappy manager of the Winnipeg Maroons, is the latest pugnacious one to come under the ban of President Glass, of the Northern Copper Country league. Herr has been indefinitely suspended for his action in withdrawing the Winnipeg team from the field last Monday evening.

Herr's suspension is complete. He will not be allowed to appear on the field in uniform, nor will he be able to sit on the bench. Glass has not yet fixed a time limit to the suspension, which will go on until he sees fit to raise it. He says he will not stand for anything which tends to detract from the interest of the game.

Umpire McGraw was the indirect cause of the trouble. He refused to umpire last Monday evening on account of differences with the league executive, and Krick and Bushelman were sent in to call the turns. One of Kirk's decisions didn't please Herr and he kicked. Krick wouldn't see any change made in the decision and Herr withdrew his men from the field.

Through the series of fines and suspensions he has been dealing out, President Glass has probably brought the players in the league to a realization that they must play the best kind of ball they know how or they are to suffer. There has been no dallying on the part of the president this year. He lost no time in disciplining refractory players, with the result the teams are now playing ball and there is no rowdyism on the circuit.

SOME "GHOST" STORIES

Apparitions are commonly of two kinds—ghosts of the dead or the astral appearances of those in the shadow of death. But if man's nature is dual, as the higher authorities agree, why need he wait for death or its approach for the second or inner being to be made manifest?

With this query in mind I have gathered a number of instances where the apparition of the living and the well have been seen by credible witnesses.

What these remarkable appearances have signified, if they have signified aught, I cannot say, but they are worthy of careful study, both by interested individuals and the various societies of psychological research.

The Lady and the Trousers.

Mr. Titus, a Philadelphia attorney, was detained until a late hour one night by a social game of poker, and arriving home at about 2 o'clock the next morning hurriedly removed his clothes and retired. His sleeping room adjoined that of his wife, and connecting the two was a large oaken door or rather sliding partition.

It must have been about 5 o'clock in the morning when he was suddenly awakened by a sound as of tinkling silver. Opening his eyes, but not stirring, he could plainly distinguish the form of his wife standing near his bed, loosely clothed in a long white gown. There was a remarkable opacity about the figure that prevented his seeing through it and distinguishing the bars of the window beyond, but he noted that it held his trousers in one hand and with the other hand seemed engaged at going through the pockets.

Naturally he was greatly alarmed, and, turning over, closed his eyes to shut out the distressing apparition. Immediately there was a kind of shuffling, sliding sound, and when he looked again the figure was gone and the door leading to his wife's room was closed. After a few moments he arose and noiselessly opening the door peered in. His wife lay sleeping peacefully in her bed.

It was several days before he could shake off his haunting memory of his remarkable experience, yet he refrained from speaking of the matter to his wife for fear of needlessly alarming her.

The Apparition and the Cook.

About Christmas time some years ago a lady distinguished for her contributions to the domestic sciences saw the form of her husband descend the stairway of their home, a beautiful Queen Anne structure in the neighborhood of Cleveland, and go toward the kitchen, where the cook, a pretty Irish girl, was making bread.

As the figure did not seem to be aware of her presence, though she might have touched it with her hand through the parlor portieres as it glided softly by, she was alarmed and followed it as far as the kitchen door. Here she witnessed the apparition go directly up to the cook and kiss her, whereat she gave a scream and the figure vanished through a side door, which shut with a loud noise, and when examined was found to be bolted upon the outer side.

A few moments later a neighbor saw the same apparition. It came from the rear of the Queen Anne structure aforesaid, seemingly in great haste, like the ghost in "Hamlet," when the cook crowded, and moving swiftly across the neighbor's lawn vanished at a point where an electric car line intersected an old, disused cemetery.

Hurrying down to her husband's office she found him wrapped up in a momentous stock deal, and, fearing to speak of the inexplicable phenomenon that she had so lately witnessed, lest she should upset him, she merely asked for a check for shopping, and left him in happy ignorance.

The Apparition With the Set of False Teeth.

Edward Train was engaged to a young lady of Rochester, and, calling one afternoon, was informed that she was not at home, but would return shortly. He was invited into the parlor by a younger sister, a chiled of 11, and while being entertained by the little miss a singular noise was heard in the hallway.

As Train afterward expressed it, it sounded like the rustling of a woman's skirt, followed by muffled, ghostly laughter.

The face of the child instantly paled with alarm, and, moved by a sudden impulse, Train rose and stepped into the hallway whence the sounds had proceeded. No one was there, but glancing through the partially open door of a rear room he saw what appeared to be the form of his fiancee. The back was turned toward him, but suddenly the figure looked around, and Train was horrified to distinguish the face of his lady love, with her jaws sunken like those of a woman of great age, and, spellbound by the sight, he could plainly see that this unearthly shape held a set of false teeth in its hands.

As the apparition—for it could be no other—saw Train, it turned and vanished through an open door at its side, and, seized with the fear that some great misfortune had befallen his fiancee that he should have been visited thus, the young fellow rushed forward and made a thorough search of the adjacent rooms. But in vain, and greatly agitated he returned to the parlor.

About ten minutes later the young lady herself put in an appearance. She wore her hat, just as she had come from the street, and, upon Train asking if she had been in any great danger some minutes previously, she expressed surprise.

"Why, no; I was only shopping," she said. "Didn't you hear me come in at the street door."

Train had not, and quickly changed the subject, for fear of causing needless alarm. He could not imagine, however, why he had received this strange visitation, especially as his fiancee possessed the most even and perfect teeth imaginable.

The Deacon and the Silk Umbrella.

A remarkable experience was that of my Uncle Felix. It was a dark, rainy day, and stepping into a friend's office for a moment's chat he left his umbrella—a handsome silk affair—standing against the outer door. (Let me note here that in closing the door it failed to catch, and a draught of air blew it open a few inches.)

Suddenly he saw the tall form of his church deacon glide past the door from south to north, and as if possessed of life, the silk umbrella glided from the doorway after the apparition of the deacon.

"A cold dew bathed me all over," said my uncle, relating his experience afterward, "and I must have showed the greatest agitation, for my friend suddenly cried, "Good heaven, man! What's the matter?"

"'Did you see it?' I gasped."

"'See what?'"

"'The apparition!'"

"My friend arose in alarm, and together we rushed to the door and into the corridor. But the apparition had vanished, and to this day it gives me a cold chill to recall that noiseless figure of the deacon followed as noiselessly by my best silk umbrella."

The Apparition in the Hammock.

The following and last instance I shall narrate has something of romantic charm about it, which tends to soften its unearthliness.

Miss Alice D. a beautiful blonde of 18, was seated alone in a hammock on the lawn beneath two large pepper trees, when suddenly her father, who was smoking at his study window, saw the form of a neighbor's son—a distinguished looking young man—glide from behind the larger of the pepper trees, and seating itself in the hammock beside the girl, place its arm around her waist. The girl, all unconscious, it would seem, of this unearthly presence, continued reading the novel on her lap.

Fearing to call out lest he should alarm his daughter, the father sped downstairs and out upon the lawn, only to find that the apparition had vanished.

He had, however, no sooner returned to his study window than it again appeared, and seating itself in the hammock placed its arm around the young lady as before.

Exceedingly agitated, the father threw up the window and called to his daughter to come into the house instantly. Hearing her father's voice the girl turned, saw the apparition, and uttering a cry of alarm all but fainted. Immediately the distinguished figure vanished through an opening in the shrubbery, and the young girl sought her room in a state to be pitied.

What is to be thought of such experiences, for no sane man will dismiss them as mere hallucinations or optical illusions? In these days of deepening psychological interest they touch a sensitive chord and move us profoundly. We ask and ask, until bowed down with age we move about like animated interrogation points; but yet we are not answered. From the mysterious present we pass to the more mysterious Future, and if those who have gone before we cannot bring back information of things to come neither can we, who follow after, take to them a true interpretation of things that are.

HOUSE COVERED BY WISTARIA.

Boston Globe: The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester S. Crosby, Cambridge is completely embowered this week in wistaria blossoms. The vine was planted at least 70 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Crosby having lived in the house thirty years, and when they came the plant was then forty years of age.

The vine has a national reputation, as the largest and finest wistaria vine in the United States.

Its roots are gnarled like those of a tree, and they have worked through the interstices of the piazza so that the plant covers both sides of the house and runs clear to the top of the tower.

The branches, with their beautiful blossoms form a shade over all the windows, and one of the seeds which lodged near the fence adjoining the next house has already grown into a good sized vine. The fame and beauty of the vine attracts many visitors each year.

TO ATTEND TOURNEYS

Duluth Golfers Will Enter at Wheaton Tournament.

Annual State Event to be Held Late in August.

Approaching tournaments are occupying the attention of the members of the Northland Golf club now, and a number are preparing to match their progress against other golfers of the West. There will be entries from the Duluth club at the tournament of the Western Golf association at Wheaton, Ill., and the tourney of the Minnesota Golf association at St. Paul.

The Western tournament will be held Aug 6 to 10 on the excellent course of the Chicago Golf club at Wheaton. Reservations for room have already ben made by members of the Northland club, but it is not known yet, just how many will make the trip. The local golfers are not counting on winning a multitude of trophies, but they do figure that they will be able to make a fair showing against the noted golfers of the Western states.

The Minnesota Golf association has not yet sent out the official notices of the state tournament, and the date of the event is not yet known in Duluth. It is expected the tourney will be held the last week in August, and it will draw a big crowd from the Northland club. The tourney will be held on the new course of the Town & Country club of St. Paul, the finest in the state. Duluth golfers have already figured in the state tournaments, and they are counting on making a good showing this year.

Local golfers are also watching with considerable interest the results of the Trans-Mississippi tournament, now being held at Rock Island, Ill. The qualifying round found Legg of Minneapolis, well known to to Duluth devotees of the game, in the running and there are also several other players entered who are known in Duluth. The finals will be played today.

The women's championship and handicap tournaments now being held at the Northland country club are progressing well. The large number of entries makes the elimination process rather a slow one, but the semi-finals and finals in both events will be played off soon now. This afternoon at the club, there will be a regular weekly putting contest for ladies, with several excellent prizes for the winners.

REAL ESTATE MARKET IS ACTIVE FOR JULY

More Inquiry and Trading This Year Than for Same Month in Years Past—Marshall-Wells Increases Its Lake Avenue Holdings—First Street Property Owners Are Holding Out for Higher Prices.

The week's real estate transactions include a transfer of some Lake avenue property, a number of minor deals involving no very large consideration, and numerous trades in unimproved property.

Although the transfer record does not show up any large amount of business in realty circles, there has been a much more active movement than appears on the surface and there are pending at the present time some important deals in centrally located lots, principally on First street. It is expected that these will be closed within a few days. One of these deals will be of much interest to those who have been following the trend of prices of central prperty, for it will be another instance where shrewd investment within the past several months has netted a big return. This is the season of the year when the real estate market is usually at its dullest period and the brokers are, generally, well pleased over the fact that there is far more trading during July this year than during the same month in many years past. Inquiry holds up well and there are many investors, big and little, who are watching things pretty closely and who stand ready to pick up any snaps that may be in sight. It may be truthfully said, however, that the snaps are few and far between. Owners of Duluth city property or lands in the vicinity of Duluth are fully awake to the situation, it seems, and there have been a large number of offers turned down that a year ago would have been accepted quickly. One instance that might be cited as showing the change of sentiment among the owners concerns a First street corner, for which a figure far in excess of anything yet paid for locations on that thoroughfare, was rejected this week. Centrally located First street property has been selling from $550 to $600 a front foot but, in the case mentioned, the offer went over $700 a front foot. The corner sought, however, is considered one of the best and would have been improved by a fine office building.

The largest deal of the week was the transfer from W. W. Billson to the Fidelity Investmnet company, a Marshall-Wells aHrware company corporation, of lots 5 and 6, Transfer division, for $35,000. The property comprises a 100-foot frontage on the west side of Lake avenue and is 260 feet deep to the Lake avenue slip. The lots are located south of the harness factory of the Marshall-Wells company, and are unimproved.

• • •

John J. Wangenstein, the architect, has purchased from the mortgagees the ten-acre farm in Woodland, formerly owned by D. A. Petre. The consideration was $10,000. There is a small dwelling on the land, and a trout stream runs through the farm.

• • •

Flora D. Stevenson has purchased from the Charlemagne Tower estate a lot on Oneida stret, near Fifty-fourth avenue east, for $2,500. The property is described as lot 3, block 15, Lester Park, Second division.

• • •

Charles Mork and associates have sold to Olaf G. Hedlund a residence property on the lower side of Fourth street, near Twenty-first avenue west, for $2,500.

• • •

W. C. Norman has bought a residence property on Carlton street, near Duluth avenue, from A. V. Wickland. The consideration was $1,200.

• • •

C. J. Ness has sold a residence property on Railroad street, near Twenty-ninth avenues west, to A. Lofgren for $1,600.

• • •

The Rainer Investment company has purchased from John P. Larson, for $5,250, the southwest corner of Sixtenth avenue east and Fourth street. The property has a frontage of fifty feet on Fourth street, and is described as lot 8, block 91, Endion.

• • •

Adolphus Butler has purchased from W. L. Gourdeau a 100-foot property on the lower side of Fourth street, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second avenues west, for $3,000. The property is described as lots 348 and 350, block 110, Second division.

A Good Buy
A Good Investment
A Good Speculation
A Rare Combination

A good buy. Because unimproved lots in the same block have just sold for $2,000 each. The buildings on this property are easily worth $3,000. ACTUAL PRESENT VALUE: 3 lots at $2,000 each and buildings at $3,000, make $9000.

A good investment. Because the rentals pay between 6 per cent and 7 per cent net after paying every charge against the property including agent's commission for looking after the property.

A good speculation. Because the district is rapidly being built up as a wholesale district and the available space is limited. In two years this property should double in value.

Heavy Selling Puts Prices Off in American Markets.

Flax Has Firm Tone at Close in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 20.—Wheat had a big slump in the American markets today. Heavy selling was marked throughout the day and at no time did the bears lose control of the situation. Duluth showed the smallest decline. There was no particularly bearish news. There was little change in the Northwestern outlook, which has been considered bullish for some time. More fair weather is predicted. Liverpool closed unchanged, Berlin ½c lower and Budapest ⅛c higher.

Broomhall estimates the world's shipments of wheat for this week at 8,000,000 bus. Last week, the shipments were 7,780,000 bus., and a year ago 8,469,000 bus.

The September option closed 1⅞c lower in Duluth, 1⅞-2c in Chicago and St. Louis, 2⅜c in Minneapolis, ⅞c in New York, which closes an hour earlier than Duluth on Saturday, and 1½c lower in Kansas City. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Well on Higher Cables, But Soon Weakens.

Chicago, July 20.—The wheat market today weakened after a firm opening. Higher cables gave a touch of stiffness to the early quotations, but the general sentiment among pit traders was bearish and persistent selling soon brought prices down. September wheat opened ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher at 92⅜@92c, and sold off to 92⅜@91¾c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 292 cars against 283 cars last week and 614 cars last year.

The market dragged all day. The close was weak, with September wheat 1⅝@1¾c lower at 91¼@91¾.

Trading in the corn pit was very light, and prices were weak, chiefly because of the continued favorable weather for the growing crop. September corn opened a shade to ⅛@¼c lower at 52⅜@52¾c, and sold at 52⅜@52¼c. Local receipts were 234 cars with 22 of contract grade.

Prices continued soft along with wheat. The close was weak, with September corn ⅝@¾c lower at 52⅛c.

Oats opened firm, but a rush of orders to sell for profit soon brought about an easier feeling. The weather conditions affecting the corn market applied also to oats. September oats opened a shade to ⅛@¼c lower at 38⅝@38¾c, and sold down to 38c. Local receipts were 113 cars.

The provisions market was quiet and steady. September pork opened 5c lower at $16.45. Lard was 2½c higher at $9.05. Ribs were unchanged at $8.65.

Close: Wheat—July, 89c; September, 91¼@91¾c. Corn—July, 51⅝c; September, 52⅛c. Oats—July, 42¼c; September, 38c. Pork—July, $16.30; September, $16.40. Lard—July, $9.50; September, $9.10@9.12½. Ribs—July, $8.50; September, $8.67½@8.70. Rye—Cash, 84@78c. Barley—Cash, 55@65. Flax, clover and timothy nothing doing. Grain Gossip.

B. E. Baker has returned to Duluth after a trip through parts of North Dakota and Manitoba, in company with C. H. Lewis of Minneapolis, and J. A. Patten of Chicago. They left Minneapolis Monday and were out most of the week.

"We traveled from Winnipeg to Estevan on the Canadian Pacific—usually a banner wheat district—and I don't think they will get more than half a crop there," said Mr. Baker today. "For a distance of 300 miles, the crop is in very poor shape. They must get very good weather indeed, to get half a crop. The same conditions exist between Minot and Grand Forks, in North Dakota.

"While we were out, we met an international harvester man who said that half of his orders for binder twine in North Dakota had been cancelled.

"In some places the heads of the wheat are coming out although the stalks are only four feet high. The grain has that unhealthy, hothouse look."

Broomhall cables from Liverpool: Australian shipments of wheat this week 456,000 bus. against 216,000 bus. last week and 288,000 bus. last year. Indian shipments, 912,000 bus. against 1,456,000 bus. last week and 1,136,000 bus. last year.

Weather forecast for grain belt: Entire district: Fair tonight and Sunday.

• • •

Broomhall cables from Liverpool: "Wheat opened quiet, ¼d lower on weaker cables and reports of improved outlook in spring wheat territory. Later talk of very light world's shipments and large interests supporting steadied the market and prices recovered the early decline. The undertone at the close was steady.

"Corn opened ¼d lower and further declined ¼d on large offerings.

"There was a poor demand for all positions."

Chicago, Logan & Bryan, to Paine, Webber & Co.: Wheat—In the words of a leading broker in the wheat pit, "the Northwest has been furnishing the bull news and also the wheat." It is believed by many here that some of those who are most active in reporting very bad crop conditions in the spring wheat states did not back their views with buying orders. There has been some doubt about the reports of the extreme damage done up there, and the public have declined to take hold and advance the prices. The outcome shows that this position was justified. There is a feeling that the delayed winter wheat movement may be felt more decidedly next week. This break should bring Europe to this side for large quantities of wheat, and thus may be the next feature to give prices here a bull turn.

Corn—Very fine weather all over the corn belt has had a bearish influence with the country and with the corn trade. The bulk of the selling originated in the country because of the country improvement. Houses with Western connections were good buyers of September corn. There was an improved feeling and a little rally before the close.

The committee in charge of the affair for Clan Stewart consists of Don A. Cameron, J. D. McGhie, Peter T. McDonald, John Nicholson, John Smith and W. B. Henderson.

SMALL DIVIDEND FOR CREDITORS

St. Paul, July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—A very small dividend for the creditors of the Wisconsin Grain & Stock company is indicated by the latest statement of the receiver, Attorney Ashley Coffman. According to the company's books the dividend may amount to 25 per cent; but Mr. Coffman believes that the actual assets are very much larger than the books declare.

"The book accounts," Mr. Coffman said today, "show liabilities of $134,000 on June 29, and assets of $74,000. I am not prepared to say now what the figures were when I became receiver, July 6. The actual assets so far as I have been able to discover, amount to $28,000 in cash and some $8,000 more, practically cash, that is in sight.

"Assuming the book statements of liabilities to be correct, we will have $66,000 less expenses to apply upon the debts, leaving a deficit of $86,000. That is, the dividend for creditors might be around 25 per cent.

"But I find that not a cent of the customers' money was ever invested for them in grain or stocks. They were charged with supposed losses, credited with supposed gains. But the company, so far from getting its sole profits out of commissions, as the regular brokers do, kept no commission account whatever.

"As the customers' margins were never invested, it looks to me that the proper way to estimate the liabilities is to deduct from the amount received from each customer the amount that the company paid back to him. I can't say, of course, whether this course will recommend itself to the court."

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Tone Became Strong After Appearance of Bank Statement.

Prices Yielded Later and the Market Closed Irregular.

New York, July 20.—The opening price movement in stocks was somewhat irregular and very dull on a meager volume of business. Brooklyn Transit opened up 1⅜ and then reacted ½. Ontario & Western rose ¾, but changes otherwise were trivial.

A rise of 1⅝ in Southern Pacific caused a hardening of prices in sympathy, but the movement was sluggish. General Electric sold at an advance of 2½. Western Union 2¼, Westinghouse Electric 1½ and Mackay companies, Pullman and Steel Foundaries preferred 1. United States Rubber declined 1¼ and Pacific Mail 1.

The market closed dull and irregular. The tone became strong and more active after the appearance of the bank statement. Southern Pacific rose 2⅝, Western Union 2¾, Union Pacific 1¼ and Illinois Central, Louisville & Nashville and Reading a point or more. Prices yielded to some extent in the final dealings.

Stock Gossip.

New York, Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co.: "There is a decided change for the better in speculative circles and today's bank statement has gone far toward showing an improved money situation, which has been for a long time considered the barrier to higher prices. Although there is a slight recession in trade conditions, it is not considered sufficient to stem the tide of prosperity or to cause apprehension over the immediate future. The market is likely to proceed in its upward course although slight recessions should be in order at almost any time."

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The bull party still prevails in New York and the close was practically at the best prices of the day. The bears have made a lot of money the past two months and are willing to fight hard, but the tide has turned and stocks are surely going up. The government investigations are over and conditions constantly improving. Amalgamated has established an eight per cent rate and this means much for the copper industry. We shall have little setbacks and much dullness, but bear in mind that the bottom has been reached. Reports from Utah are confusing, but the best opinion seems to be that it is a bear raid and that it is easy money to accumulate stocks.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: The week closes in a very satisfactory manner for holders of stocks generally. The railroad shares have materially advanced and the buying movement is still in full force. Surrounding conditions in the financial situation have shown marked improvement and sentiment has been much strengthened. The copper situation has been helped by substantial sales of metal at the new price while sentimentally the dividend rate of Amalgamated has helped.

Stocks of metal have increased somewhat but it is too early to say price is likely to recede very much for 60 days. A slight lull in business is taking place but this is for the benefit of the market as it is turning capital slowly, but surely into investment channels.

The market looks better than for many months.

Chicago Record-Herald says: "The earnings of the Amalgamated Copper company are running far in excess of the amount required to pay 8 per cent a year on the stock, but it is not likely that Rogers will sanction an increase in the dividend as long as the shares net the investor nearly 9 per cent on the investment value as is the case today."

The Cotton Market.

New York, July 20.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 3 points on July which was influenced by covering and absence of offerings, while later months were 1 to 4 points lower. Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., July 20.—Barrett & Zimmerman's report: Horse trade has been light all week. Receipts were fairly liberal during the early part of the week, but fell off as the week advanced. A few carload sales of drafters were made to railroad and logging contractors, but the bulk of the trade was made up of small sales and was confined to the draft and business classes mainly. APPROPRIATION LAW HELD VALID

St. Paul, July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney General Young, in his opinion given today, holds that the $400,000 road and bridge appropriation made by the last legislature is constitutional. The opinion is in answer to a request from State Auditor Iverson regarding the legality of the law, and that official says he will now pay out the money to the counties on demand. The opinion, he says, is sufficient guidance for him.

Another matter on which an opinion was asked is the $50,000 appropriation for drainage purposes, but it is not included in the attorney general's answer of today. It is virtually the same points that are involved, and it is expected Mr. Young will hold that it, too, is valid.

The legal department, however, is not a unit on the decision, Mr. Young admits there is some doubt, but he thinks the weight of authorities is in favor of the law.

TAKES TEN TO SCHOOL.

Mrs. S. D. Forgy Leaves Monday With Homeless Children.

Monday morning Mrs. S. D. Forgy, deputy humane agent, will leave with ten little ones for the state public school at Owatonna. Eight of these youngsters are from two families, one in West Duluth and one in the eastern portion of the city.

Four of them are the children of John Glidden in West Duluth. Their mother was unable to care for them. The other four are step-children of a man at Lester Park, who, since their mother's death, has done the best he could for them. The other two babies are foundlings.

FAMINE GROWS WORSE.

Kingston, July 20.—The seriousness of the famine in Eastern Jamaica, caused by the eight months' drought, is increasing. The crops have been destroyed and there has been a great loss of cattle. Hundreds of persons are subsisting on Mangoes and many are dying from hunger and thirst. There is no prospect of relief till the October rains fall.

TO REHABILITATE WORKS.

Pittsburg, July 20.—Announcement is made that the Carnegie Steel company is to completely rehabilitate the Edgar Thomson steel plant in Braddock at a cost of about $2,000,000. It is said to be the intention so to change the process of rolling rails that, it is believed, it will overcome much of the cause for complaint lately made by railroad companies.

CROKER'S HORSE DOES WELL.

London, July 20.—In the race at Sandow Park today for the National Breeders Produce stakes of 5,000 sovereigns, Richard Croker's Rhodora ran second to White Eagle, owned by W. Hall Walker. The betting was 5 to 2. on White Eagle, but Mr. Croker's 2-year-old almost upset the pot, being beaten by only a head in a splendid finish. The betting was LATEST NEWS:—The seriousness of the strike on the three big ore docks is becoming more apparent. All the mines on the Mesaba Range are reported as being closed down. The outlook is not at all encouraging for a prompt settlement. I look for lower prices on our whole list next week, as shares are much more freely offered and the East is not a buyer in sufficient quantities to relieve the situation. Prices, however, are so low that there will not be any material decline but rather a slow market with sagging tendency. If you are fixed so that you can pay for the stocks and carry them over this period, by all means I would advise buying at going prices, but if you figure on selling at a profit within a few days, then I would tell you not to buy for a couple of weeks. The situation East is favorable to advances on railroad stocks, but is not favorable to a bull campaign at the present time on the coppers, and our labor trouble may possibly extend so as to affect the steel issues and eventually the railroads. In any event, conservatism is necessary.

RAILROAD NEWS

INCREASE ANNOUNCED

Raise in Lumber and Shingle Rates From West.

Feared Advance Will Seriously Affect Washington Lumber Industry.

Portland, Or., July 20.—A dispatch to the Oregonian from Seattle says official announcement of an increase in lumber and shingle rates between the Pacific coast and Chicago, St. Paul, Kansas City, Omaha and St. Louis has been made by the transcontinental freight bureau, the organization of lines west of St. Paul. A statement given out for private circulation gives the rate to be in effect after Oct. 1. Secretary V. H. Beckman of the Pacific Coast Lumber Manufacturers' association, when shown a telegram announcing the new rates, said:

"If the railroads make the advance on lumber and shingles to the East, they will force a close down of the mills and logging camps of Washington, affecting 35,000 men, and putting out of business an annual pay roll of not less than $5,000,000."

The rates to Eastern centers on lumber and shingles will be as follows: To St. Paul and Minneapolis, lumber 50 cents, shingles 60 cents per 100, against 40 and 60 cents, as now. Chicago, lumber 60 cents, shingles 70 cents per 100, St. Louis the same, and Omaha and Kansas City, lumber 55 and shingles 65 cents per 100.

LINE TO COAST.

Northwestern Extension Said to be an Assured Fact.

Butte, Mont., July 20.—Advices from Deadwood, S. D., indicate that the Northwestern railway coast line is soon to become a fact. Marvin Hughitt, president of the road, is now in the Black Hills to look over the contemplated extension. There was a rest-hot race between the Northwestern and the Milwaukee roads to get their lines into Rapid City, and the victory of the Hughitt road has encouraged it to try to be first to the coast.

GRADING UNDER WAY,

Good Progress Being Made on New Electric Line.

W. H. Crossland, vice president of the Twin City & Lake Superior Railway company, has been spending a few days at the Head of the Lakes in the interest of his company. Mr. Crossland reports that three complete crews are at work on different sections of the road grading, contracts having been placed with reliable contractors for the work. It is the intention of the company to construct as rapidly as possible, so as to complete the grade as far as the St. Croix river this fall and enable them to haul bridge material over their own line during the winter months. Other contracts for grading are about to be placed for work north of the St. Croix river, so as to meet the crews already in the field at that point early in the spring.

Stevens Vice President.

New Haven, Conn., July 20.—It was announced today by President Mellen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company that John F. Stevens, former chief engineer of the Panama canal, has been appointed a vice president of the road, with office at New Haven. Mr. Stevens will have charge of all matters pertaining to operation, and will report to the president.

TWO AMERICANS ARE WED AT WESTMINSTER.

London, July 20.—An interesting marriage ceremony was celebrated at St. Margaret's chapel, Westminster, the scene of so many American weddings at noon today. Dr. David Moffat Gillespie, son of the late William Gillespie of New York, and a nephew of David Moffat, the Denver financier, was married to Lillian Breckinin, daughter of Lieut. Col. Louis Breckenin of the United States army. The bride was given away by her father. Capt. Sydney A. Clolman, the American military attache, was the best man, and Miss Helen De Young was maid of honor.

EXTENSION TALK AGAIN

Believed That Canadian Northern is Building Toward Duluth.

Large Number of Rails for Grading Purposes Shipped.

The north shore boats recently have been taking a large number of small steel rails into Canada, for the Canadian Northern railroad. The steel is of the variety usually used for dump cars in grading work, and it is understood that the railroad in this instance wants them for work on the proposed extension of the line from the Canadian Head of the Lakes to Duluth. It is said this work already has been started, and that the rails are needed to help in the grading.

For a good while past there have been various rumors regarding the plans of the Canadian Northern in respect to an extension from Canada to Duluth, along the north shore. It is entirely reasonable to suppose that the road is contemplating such an extension, for the country when would thus be opened up would be a rich one, and in a short time would furnish plenty of business to mean good profits to the operating company. All the territory needs to become rapidly settled is railroad connections with the outside world.

The Duluth & Thunder Bay Railroad company, recently organized, has announced that it proposes to establish rail connections between Duluth and the Canadian Head of the Lakes, but whether this plan includes the Canadian Northern project is a question. It has been popularly supposed, and virtually announced by the management of the Duluth & Thunder Bay company, that the Soo is behind this company, and this would seem to indicate that the Soo road figures on establishing rail connections between the points in question, independent of the Canadian Northern, the Soo being in control of the same people who are behind the Canadian Pacific.

If the Canadian Northern does come into Duluth along the lake shore, it will have access to the city from both sides, for it already has a traffic agreement with the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg, whose extension to the Canadian border, and connection with the Canadian Northern, will be finished next month, and which will in all probability build a line between Duluth and Virginia, its present Southern terminus, this year. It is believed this seventy-mile extension will be built, in part at least, before the end of the year.

The extension of the Canadian Northern from the East would run only as far as the end of the Alger-Smith line, which already is extended well along eastward from Two Harbors. The road, while used almost entirely for logging purposes at present, is being given a permanent roadbed, which lends color to the theory that eventually it will develop into a line with regular train service between Duluth and Canadian points. Officials of the Alger-Smith company scoff at the idea of the Canadian Northern extension in connection with their own road, and affirm that there is nothing to the reports.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

MOST BUSINESS IF COMBINED with pleasure leads to success—all business ground out in desperation fails in time. Fifty-five miles of virgin woodland, rich in soil and rich in timber, can be traversed by writing to Edmund G. Walton, 114 South Fourth street, Minneapolis, for a permit over the constructing route of the Northern Pacific from Big Fork, Minnesota, to Little Fork. At Little Fork, a large and commodious steamer takes you thirty-three miles up the Rainey river to International Falls. Total expense from Minneapolis, $7.85. Now, then, what will you see? A new country with marvelous possibilities, a water power of 30,000 horse power; 5,000,000,000 feet of pine and spruce—a farming country with soil as rich as the richest in Iowa, an ideal climate, a net work of lakes and streams filled with all the usual varieties of fresh water fish, and money to be picked up for the asking. Read Christopher Columbus' report of America to the court of Spain or "Monte Christo" and you will then partly understand what the riches of Koochiching county really are. No one really knows what wealth there is there, but a little fishing trip will open your eyes and tell you more than all the writing in the world. Write at once for itinerary of trip, with suggestions, etc.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Calumet & Hecla Starts to Intercept Osceola Lode at North End of Property---No Change in Policy at Adventure.

Houghton, Mich., July 20.—The Calumet & Hecla Mining company has rigged up a diamond drill at the extreme north end of its property in such a position that it will within a reasonably short depth intercept the Osceola lode. The point at which the exploratory attack is being made is about 1,000 feet north of No. 17 shaft, the most northerly shaft on the Osceola lode so far opened by the Calumet & Hecla.

No. 18 location was designed as a site for a shaft at the time that the Osceola lode was first opened by the Calumet & Hecla nearly ten years ago, and at that time the railroad was extended to that point. But the management then in charge of the property discontinued the development of the Osceola lode before No. 18 shaft was started.

After a change in management, work was resumed by the Calumet & Hecla on the Osceola lode, between three and four years ago. The developments since that time have been most satisfactory and the encouraging results have led to a plan that will probably result in the opening of a new shaft to be known as No. 18.

There is no change in conditions at Adventure. The new superintendent, Mr. Hitchcock, is making a thorough inspection of the property and what will be the future policy of the company is still a matter for consideration. However, it is probable that the unexplored portion of the property will receive more attention. The diamond drill work, so far, has been encouraging. A depth

UTAH COMPANY'S BIG RECORD

Prospect Last September and Now Earning $130,000 a Month---Daly-Judge Shipments Just About Enough to Meet Expenses.

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 20.—The remarkable developments in the Colorado Mining are almost beyond comprehension. Last September the property was a prospect without ore and the stock selling at 45 cents. Since then it has developed into a mine second to none in the camp. It has paid $80,000 in dividends, will soon be able to pay 10 cents a share per month. The net earnings for June were about $130,000. Beck Tunnel seems to be getting some of the same great ore chute. Crown Point, Iron Blossom and Sioux Consolidated, all under the same management, are supposed to be on the same ore zone. This accounts for the activity in these stocks.

The May Day company has decided to resume dividends, and has posted 1 cent a share on the new capitalization, amounting to $5,000, one-half of this goes to the treasury of the Uncle Sam Consolidated company, and will probably soon be distributed to the stockholders of the latter company. This, with the earnings from its own property, should enable the company to pay 2 cents a share.

The work on the big steel shafthouse at the Centennial-Eureka mine is crowded as rapidly as possible. The company must hoist the ore mostly in the night. During one night last week 450 mine cars of ore were hoisted in 480 minutes. By such rapid and systematic work the output from the mine is kept up almost to the average.

The drop in the price of Daly-Judge reflects the disappointment on the passing of the dividend. The record of the shipments from the mine from the first of the year indicated that the company would have to pass the dividends before the year was over. Last week's output was only 285½ tons, about enough to meet expenses. It is not likely that any more dividends will be paid this year. The shipments from Daly-West were 450 tons. It would not be surprising to see a readjustment of dividend rate for this company with the beginning of the new year.

The president of the Silver King Coalition gave out that this company would pay the first quarterly dividend this month at the rate of 5 cents a share. This should make the stock worth about $4 per share. The distribution will amount to $187,500.

The 50-cent dividend announced by the Newhouse company was quite gratifying to local stockholders, although some of them expected a larger dividend. Considering the condition a year ago and

CALIFORNIA GOLD DREDGES

Operations in the State Increased 40 Per Cent---Five New Machines Costing $720,000 Ordered by Two Companies.

San Francisco, July 20.—Gold dredging operations have increased in California over 40 per cent within the past two years. Five gold dredges, to cost in total $720,000, have been ordered for the use of five mining companies in California. Three of these dredges will be constructed for the Yreka Consolidated Gold Fields company, for use in the Yuba field. Two dredges are for the Marysville Dredging company. The cost of the machines will average about $140,000 each. The work on the entire five will be hurried so that the dredging for gold may begin on new ground as soon as possible.

The machines ordered for the Yreka Consolidated Gold Fields company will probably be in use this year.

While arrangements to operate gravel deposits are on a large scale, it is still true that the greatest degree of expansion in any particular line of mining in California is found in the gold dredging propositions.

The ease with which the diamond drills determine the contents of any given area of auriferous gravel ground, and the economical methods in the operation of the dredges, together with the large and easily accessible areas where gold dredges can be worked profitably, have made dredging annually more popular. The popularity will continue for a long time to come, and until many fortunes have been amassed by the operators. The gold dredging output goes far to keep up the annual gold showing for this state.

The supervisors of Sacramento county have inspected the scene of operations of gold dredgers at Folsom. Streets in the lower part of the town that citizens of Folsom have asked to close for the benefit of the Folsom Development company, attracted their attention particularly. A correspondent at Folsom writes that there has been a general misunderstanding regarding the facts. The streets upon which the gold dredgers have been working are those that have not been in practical use for years and that were in rough condition from early placer mining. The area of county road that is involved in the latest petition for abandonment is a little more than one acre.

At the first annual meeting of the Mammoth Channel Gold Mining company, in Oroville, the plans of the company were made public. The Oroville Register says that the company owns 1,600 acres on the Magalia. Seven hundred acres in this section were mined on the Magalia channel and its feeders between 1858 and 1881. The statement is made that the new company will be able to operate 6,000 feet of the Magalia channel and also two miles of the Mammoth channel.

Nine mining companies are operating at Twenty-nine Palms, a station on the Colorado desert, in San Bernardino county. The Gold Park company is running ten mines. The Taylor-Sullivan company has two groups of claims. Fourteen miles from Banning, on the road to the Twenty-nine Palms district and four miles from Whitewater station on the Southern Pacific line, a prophyrry dike, from fifteen to twenty feet wide, has been traced more than 3,000 feet.

THE COLORADO DISTRICTS

Cheap Water Power to be Harnessed for Benefit of the Mines---Significant Strike at the Isabella Mine, Cripple Creek.

Breckenridge, Colo., July 20.—Among the important steps to be taken in the near future looking toward the development of the tremendous mineral recources of this district will be the securing of cheap water power to be harnessed for the benefit of the mines. The plans of the promoters of this enterprise include a pipe line and electric plant. The mines of the district are reporting steady progress, notably the Wellington lead and zinc mine, where the big ore body recently encountered in the ore level is showing an average width of six feet and is becoming hard and compact, the ore broken by recent shots being of a first-class shipping grade. The lead is abundant, while the zinc is remarkably clean and well defined. Although shipments continue to go forward steadily from the Wellington, enormous mineralized areas are being held in reserve for future stoping. The ore is well in place and responds readily to every shot.

Colorado Springs, July 20.—The Isabella Mines company, Cripple Creek, is in a 12-foot vein of $30 ore in the 900 and 1,000-foot levels. The vein has been proved for fifty feet. The discovery was made in virgin ground and is significant.

During June Stratton's Independence, limited, shipped 500 tons of $15 ore. The mine's physical condition justifies regular quarterly dividends, which at present are withheld pending the erection of a mill.

The Leased Hill Mining and Leasing company, operating on the 700-foot level of the Jack Pot, Cripple Creek, is shipping regularly from a 3-foot vein which carries $40 per ton values. A dozen sets of lessees are breaking $30 to $60 ore in this claim. The Smith-Altman lease on the Elizabeth Copper, also belonging to the Doctor-Jack-Pot company, is shipping nightly 400 to 500 tons of ore averaging $20.

The Clara D mine, Cripple Creek, is in an important ore body carrying $20 to $30 per ton values.

General Manager C. M. Becker of Stratton's Independence, limited, has been advised that the management, at a recent meeting in London, had determined on building a concentration-cyanide mill at Cripple Creek of 250 tons daily capacity. Work will begin at once. Probable cost will be $250,000. All dump rock and low grade ores will be treated. The mill will be a two-unit, for concentration and cyanidation, and will be independent of the smelter and mill trust.

The Elkton Consolidated Mining & Milling company, Cripple Creek, made a good showing for the year ended July 1. Production reached 17,234 tons, the gross value of which was $682,557.59. Freight and treatment charges were $134,467.51, leaving a net balance of $547,130.08. After deducting all expenses the net profits were $347,908.49, or more than 51 per cent of gross production. The gross value of the ore was $41.32 a ton average. During the past year $199,999.97 was disbursed in dividends. The treasury surplus is $147,-069.52.

The Portland Gold Mining company has declared its regular quarterly dividend of $120,000. The total for this company now exceeds $7,500,000.

The Vindicator Mining company has declared its twenty-seventh dividend, $45,-000, making a total of $1,650,000. This company has disbursed $135,000 thus far in 1907.

The Work Mining company has disbursed $15,000 this month, or $45,000 this year.

Other Cripple Creek dividend payers are Mary McKinney, January and April, $75,-275.12; Elkton, $75,000; El Paso, $45,000; Acacia, $14,889.89.

Several close corporations have paid dividends, but the exact amount is not reported.

EAST BUTTE SHOWING WELL

Mining at Present Nearly All in the Hands of Lessees—Water Quite Scarce in Northern Section of the Butte District—The Minnie Healy Fire.

Butte, Mont., July 20.—In another month the East Butte company will have connected its No. 1 and No. 11 shafts by the crosscut driven south from No. 1 and north from No. 11. The two shafts are near the extreme northern and southern limits of the mined ground of the company, and between them are nine other shafts, half of them being operated by lessees. The crosscut from No. 11 has cut two veins and the one from No. 1 fixe veins. Of the latter the last one cut is more than twenty feet wide, eighteen inches of it being first class ore and all the remainder concentrating ore. The entire level is in what is known in the Butte district as the lea nzone, which terminates in an iron capping overlying a second enrichment of the veins. This iron capping was penetrated by No. 1 shaft near the 600-foot level and was found four feet thick. It remained in the shaft for some distance and immediately after it passed out to the south the shaft cut into a good grade of ore which at the 800-foot station carried considerable glance and had widened to two feet. At the 900, the vein will be crosscut and opened for mining. President Sullivan believes there will be opened a million tons of ore when the development work is completed. However, the ore is mostly of a concentrating character, except that in several small veins north of No. 1 shaft, which carry considerable quantities of glance and other high grade ore. Little ore is at present mined by th ecompany, the mining being almost entirely in the hands of lessees who pay a 25 per cent royalty.

The Pittsburg & Montana company originally opened its ground to a depth of 1,00 0feet and found some commercial ore in the veins there, but it soon found it necessary t osink deeper, and 20 0feet was added to the depth of the workings. There the ore bodies were very much larger, and plainly demonstrated that the deeper the veins were opened the richer the ore was found. The shaft was then sunk to a depth of 1,000 feet and the veins opened at that depth, and now the Pittsburg & Montana is mining some splendid ore from that level. The Pittsburg & Montana mine is just south of the olusa-Leonard.

The Davis-Daly company has decided to do some diamond drilling on the east 500-foot level of the Smokehouse. The company had been drifting on the vein and encountered some ore, but the vein became badly broken up and displaced.

Reports from the northern part of the Butte district, that section which slopes toward the Rock range, are to the effect that the country up there is going dry. Several shafts have been sunk to a fairly good depth on the east slope of the hill and in none of them is there enough water to wet the knee of a fly. The shaft on the Col. Sellers is nearly 450 feet, and yet there is hardly enough water for the drills, while in all directions from the shaft on the surface pools of water are in evidence at any time. The only way this peculiar condition can be accounted for is that the shaft is in solid rock and there are no water courses close to it.

All of the veins up there being parallel, there is little chance for the big companies to drain the entire mountain unless there are some connecting fissures between the veins. If the

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Strike of Ore Handlers Proves Serious Interruption to Movement of Ore—Unique Shaft at Bangor Mine Near Biwabik —Mines in Cascade District Not Very Active.

The most serious interruption in the movement of Lake Superior iron ore this season has been the walkout during the week of the small army of men employed on the big shipping docks at Duluth, Two Harbors and Allouez bay. The trouble came unheralded. That there would be a demand for an increase in wages of as much as 25 cents a day was entirely unexpected, and it was not at all surprising that it was refused, despite the realization that a tie-up of traffic in such a year of stupendous activity as this must have momentous effect on production.

Strikes such as these cause particular annoyance in the mining fields, and are especially dreaded for the reason that with operations at a standstill at the lake front, it necessarily follows that, as far as it concerns the properties directly interested, the work both of mining and transporting the ore must also come to a halt, affecting in the aggregate a great many men. Minor trouble of the kind was recently experienced on the Marquette range, when the men employed on the Marquette docks walked out, first on the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic system and almost immediately afterward on that of the Lake Superior & Ishpeming railroad. The strike was quickly adjusted as far as the former company is concerned, all demands being complied with, but it was more prolonged in the case of the Lake Superior & Ishpeming. This latter road had only just voluntarily increased the pay of its ore handlers to $2.35 and $2.45 for day and night work respectively, and resenting the strike as entirely unwarranted, it forthwith discharged the bulk of its old hands and sent to Chicago for laborers to fill out the complement. The work of loading the boats has naturally been proceeding at an unusually slow gait, with this green crew on duty, and there has been some curtailment of mining, but the new men have now attained such proficiency that the loss is being regained.

However, with such a mammoth institution involved as the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and Duluth, Missabe & Iron Ranges system—the greatest on the lakes, and which serve giant open-cut mines from which the production must be removed as fast as it is taken out—an ore handlers' strike is a much more serious proposition. It appeared a few weeks ago that Lake Superior was to be free of labor disputes this year, but there is no asurance now that this discontentment on the water front will not in turn involve other ports. As far as the railroad men and marine transport workers are concerned, the wage scales are adjusted for the season, and this also is true in the case of the mine workers on the Michigan and Wisconsin ore ranges. There has been some talk of a walkout of union miners in the Mesaba district as a protest against the contract system, but it is believed this threatened move will blow over, and in any event a strike on the range would not be general. As a rule, and particularly so in the older fields of the Lake region, work on "company account" is not in favor with the miners. It is a system under which a goom man is placed on the same level as unskilled labor. It pays a premium on poor work and gives nothing for the ability of the better class.

Finally put down to the ledge at an approximate depth of 130 feet from surface, the shaft at Pickands, Mather & Co.'s Bangor mine on the shore of Lake Embarrass, near Biwabik, Mesaba range, will shortly be in readiness for permanent duty. Except for a somewhat similar shaft sunk on the adjacent Syracuse property of the same operating concern, this hollow bore of concrete is unique in the Lake Superior region. Cylindrical in shape, with walls four feet in thickness, constructed of cement composition and reinforced with steel rods and bands, it has been put down through an overburden on quicksand and boulders that defied all ordinary methods of mine sinking. It is impervious to the water of the treacherous ground, through which it

ELY FORGES AHEAD RAPIDLY

Business Man From Camp Says Fall in Stocks Did Not Hurt It —Mohawk Jumbo Leasers Open New Ore Body on the Gold Wedge Claim.

Salt Lake, July 20.—J. A. Fessler, a business man of Ely, Nev., believes firmly in the future of that camp. In the mining industry he reports most favorable promises. The 10,000-tons Guggenheim smelter, reported to be the largest in the world, will probably be completed next spring. That will mean increased activity in mining operations, since the ore then can be handled at home. The railroad from the mines to the smelter is now almost completed.

New discoveries of mineral wealth continue. Within the last two months six or eight phenomenal strikes have been made. Among these the Rickard Ely, the McDonald Ely and Ely Central are especially worthy of mention.

"The recent fall in stocks did not greatly effect Ely," said Mr. Fessler. "In fact, it did some good, since it put all wildcat mining operations out of existence. Big, legitimate enterprises were not hurt. In fact, the valuable properties have no stocks on the market."

Because of the substantial character of the mining enterprise in Ely the camp is building up in an astonishing way. According to Mr. Fessler's statement, the demand for labor is far in excess of the supply. Ely is now putting in a $1,000,000 water system. Sixteen-inch mains convey pure spring water from a spring which has a flow of ten second feet. An electric lighting plant to cost $150,000 is also in course of erection. Application has been made, too, for a franchise to provide an electric railway between the mines and the big smelter. This line will pass through Ely and Ely City. Still, in addition, is a sewer system, for the construction of which the city council has just bonded the town for $50,000.

Besides these improvements, building is going on briskly. A modern steel constructed hotel to cost $500,000 is well started. The people of Ely have just voted bonds for $80,000 to build a schoolhouse. "At that election," said Mr. Fessler, "only two persons voted against the proposition."

"The city council will also vote bonds to build an $85,000 courthouse for Ely. This active prosperity is an index to Ely's growth.

"Ely has grown from a population of 1,000 to a population of 5,000," said Mr. Fessler, "and in three years we expect 15,000. The pay roll in Ely City is now $250,000 each month, and that is a conservative estimate."

Goldfiled, Nev., July 20.—The Mohawk Jumbo lease on the Gold Wedge claim of the Jumbo Extension, has uncovered another body of ore that will assay several hundred dollars a ton, and may go even higher. A crosscut was started to the south from the drift on the 439-foot level, about thirty feet from the shaft, a few days ago, and when in about fifteen feet, the ore body was uncovered. The vein is five feet wide and picked samples run as high as $2,000 a ton. Average lots are now being sampled. It appears to be the beginning of the richest ore body yet encountered in the workings.

The Mohawk Jumbo is shipping between sixty and seventy tons a day.

TREATMENT OF COBALT ORES

New Process That Saves 98 Per Cent of Values—Extracts Practically All of the Silver, Cobalt, Arsenic and Nickel—Nipissing Likely to Build Plant.

New York, July 20.—After a series of elaborate tests covering a period of several months, the Salt Lake Smelting & Refining company has succeeded in extracting on a commercial basis 98 per cent of the silver, cobalt and the by-products that have heretofore proved a stumbling-block in the treatment of Cobalt ores. The importance of these chemical tests must in the future have an important bearing upon the coming development of that camp, as previously the smelters, while allowing for the silver contents of the Cobalt ores, made but a nominal allowance for the cobalt, arsenic and nickel found in them.

R. J. Evans, general manager of the Salt Lake Smelting & Refining company, and his head expert, Charles A. Gage, have been in New York submitting the results of the tests on the Nipissing ores they have been working on. The directors of the Nipissing Mining company are understood to be ready to make an appropriation of $65,000 for the immediate erection of a plant to be constructed along the lines suggested by Mr. Evans and Mr. Gage.

Should this plant show up as expected, a much larger outfit will be authorized later. Before leaving for Europe, Mr. Newhouse is said to have left instructions for the immediate construction of such a plant, it being his opinion that if the directors did not sanction the company making such an expenditure, he would be willing to pay for the plant out of his own pocket, so sure was he of the results claimed.

When questioned about these tests, Mr. Earle, the president of the Nipissing company, said that there were still additional tests to be made before the directors would feel satisfied to take definite steps in the way of ordering an experimental plant.

The process employed in securing the separation of the metals is explained as being very simple. The ores are smelted, and the subsequent separation is obtained electrolytically. The test was made at Salt Lake, the shipment representing a 414-pound lot of Nipissng ores. The smelting company recovered 97 per cent of the silver, 90 per cent of the cobalt, and at least 85 per cent of the arsenic and nickel contents of the ore. The cobalt specimen which was brought to New York is the first electrolytic cobalt ever refined in this country. The cost of the treatment, they assert, is not prohibitive, so that even medium-grade ores may be treated in that fashion.

If this process turns out to be all that is claimed for it, it means a big increase in the value of the ores of the Cobalt companies. On high-grade ores it will mean an extra profit of from $250 to $400 a ton, while on the lower grades the profits will advance from $20 to $50 a ton.

The smelting of the cobalt ores up to the present time, according to Hiram W. Hixon, in an address at Toronto, and the recovery of the valuable metals, has proved a difficult problem. Miners, being suspicious of smelters who will not pay the full market value of the metals, have attempted to treat their ores, with the hope of recovering greater profits. The success of this plan is doubtful, as the many conflicting interests will naturally become restive unless immediate results are obtained, and cash returns follow the shipment of ore.

The nature of the problem will not admit of such results, and the time necessary for the treatment of the ores, as well as their great value, necessitates a locking up of a large amount of working capital. This is not satisfactory to the average mine promoter, who wishes to earn dividends.

Mr. Hixon's experience in the custom smelting business suggested a system of smelting these ores, based on well-estab-

GREATER SMELTER CAPACITY

Two New Furnaces Planned and Old Furnaces to be Enlarged by the Calumet & Arizona--- Miners at Bisbee Increasing.

Bisbee, Ariz., July 20.—The smelters in Douglas are being operated to the extreme limit, and are daily receiving from the mines in Bisbee more ore than is necessary to supply the capacity of both plants. During the past week both the Copper Queen and the Calumet & Arizona smelters have been able to put considerable ore in the reserve piles which have not been drawn from for six weeks. The construction work at the Calumet & Arizona is being pushed forward with all possible speed. Two new 500-ton furnaces have been planned, and besides this the five old furnaces are all to be enlarged from 300 to 500-ton capacities This will mean an increased capacity at the Calumet & Arizona of 3,000 tons during the present year if all this construction work can be completed by Jan. 1.

The Copper Queen smelter is operating ten furnaces and there is steady growth in custom ore tonnage arriving daily. The 125-foot addition to the east end of the smelter building is now practically complete and material for a like addition to the west end of the smelter building is arriving now and foundations are practically complete. At the Queen since July more than 80,000 tons of ore has been added to the reserve pits after supplying the furnaces from daily ore receipts. The Queen management is making plans for greatly increasing their smelter capacity during the next year in preparation for large increased mining at Bisbee and also at Cananea; it is known that at this time the Phelps-Dodge properties at Cananea are now in position to treble ore shipments whenever it can be accommodated by the smelter.

During the past week there has been little of interest in the mines of the Warren district. The companies are daily increasing their working force, notwithstanding the arrival of a few new Western Federation pickets. The trials of the pickets at Lowell, who are charged with trying to intimidate men who are at work for the mining

FEDERAL SMELTER IN SONORA

Of 2,500 Tons Capacity to be Constructed by French Syndicate Which Has Secured Concession From the Mexican Government.

El Paso, Tex., July 20.—A powerful French syndicate, represented by J. V. Smith of El Paso, formerly of Bloomington, Ill., and J. Snyder of Bloomington, has secured a concession from the Mexican government to construct a federal smelter in the state of Sonora which will have 2,500 tons capacity and is now negotiating for some of the richest mines of Mexico. Mr. Smith, accompanied by Mr. Snyder, went via Nogales, Ariz. The two men above named represent the French people.

Count Caracristi, the French capitalist who spent some time in this vicinity in connection with the sulphur claims in El Paso county recently, is said to be the backer of the syndicate and to have placed the promotion of the concern into the hands of Mr. Smith, who is thoroughly acquainted with the mining business, and Mr. Snyder, also a man of experience in the mining field and fluent in the use of the Spanish language. Count Caracristi will be enabled to get at his command some of the biggest financial interests in France in the project.

The syndicate has already secured control of a large acreage of water frontage at the port of Topolovampo, which will insure an outlet for all their products.

It is understood that the head offices of this concern will be located in El Paso, in which event the city will have one more source of prestige. That the company shall prove a worthy rival to the Greene Gold-silver company is the object of those now working in its promotion.

Bisbee, Ariz., July 20.—R. C. Watson, a prominent mining engineer, passed through here a few days ago on his way to New York from Cananea, where he spent a few days looking over the properties owned by the Thompson-Watson pool.

This was one of Mr. Watson's regular trips to this section of the country, and he made his first visit to the famous Dolores property in Chihuahua, in which he is heavily interested with some English capitalists. He expressed himself as being very much pleased with conditions he found there. From the Dolores he went to the holdings of the Greene Gold & Silver company in Chihuahua, spending a few days at that point, and then going to Caanea, arriving on Wednesday of last week.

Watson spent a few days inspecting the properties of the Cananea-Bisbee, now being operated by the Thompsons. At Cananea-Bisbee at the present time work is being pushed steadily forward in the drifts on the first level of shaft No. 7, in which high grade ore was encountered some time ago. The development work on this level is entirely in the high grade ore, and has progressed to such an extent that there remains little doubt of the extensive dimensions of the ore deposit. Shaft No. 10, lying west of No. 7, is being sunk for the purpose of tapping the ore body on that end, while shaft No. 11 will be started within a few days, and will be put down for the purpose of opening the ore body on the eastern end.

City of Mexico, July 20.—The Mexican Western Development company, in which John Hays Hammond is a heavy stockholder, is preparing to operate the Santa Eduvigas, Rosario, La Luz, Delicias, Valenciana and Restaurawora mines, situated in the Bramador camp, state of Jalisco. The company purchased these mines from Ramon Agraz, Miss Rafaela Bazan and Carlos Arajan for $500,000. These mines have a history as big producers dating back to the early part of the last century. During the war of the French intervention they were seized by leaders of the Maximilian party and were operated for the benefit of the imperial cause. The ores are silver and lead-zinc sulphides.

GIGANTIC PLANS BY GRANBY

Company to Enlarge Furnaces and Make Other Extensive Improvements---It Means a Big Expansion of the Whole Plant.

Spokane, Wash., July 20.—The official announcement that the Granby Copper company will further enlarge its furnaces, means more than appears on the surface. The enlargement of the furnaces, which will hardly take place before next year, means a big expansion of the whole plant. The work will be under way twelve months.

The new 100,000-gallon steel tank is now half finished. On its completion the foundations for the big steel flue chamber will be commenced, and when the supports are in position a steel floor will be laid in the furnace building. On the completion of the flue chamber, which will not be until fall, the old brick flue will be torn down, thus giving room for the lengthening of all the furnaces and increasing the capacity of the whole battery by at least a thousand tons a day.

The enlargement of the furnaces means increased blowers, and the intention of the management is to remodel the blower building, making room for two more large blowers and at the same time convert the building into a brick and steel one. The furnace blower building will also be altered by making the walls of brick and the roof of steel, and similar steps will be taken in respect to the machine shops, the alterations necessarily meaning a big reduction in insurance. All these enlargements will cause a necessity for more bin room, and plans are in contemplation, which will eventuate an additional bin room to store, in all, 15,000 tons of ore and 6,000 tons of coke.

MINERS' STRIKE IN COBALT

Both Sides Busy and Government Has Taken Steps to Prevent Any Disturbance---Physical Condition of the Camp Satisfactory.

New York, July 20.—A Cobalt, Ont., dispatch to the Sun says: The strike for recognition of the Western Federation of Miners and a slightly higher wage scale has been on over two weeks. The provincial government has its representatives here to preserve order. Secretary Acland of the Dominion bureau of labor has arrived. Every important mine has completed arrangements for the protection of its property in case of an outbreak, all liquor selling has been ordered stopped and Attorney General Foy of Toronto is prepared to send men to Cobalt on an hour's notice to quell any disturbance that might occur. This is Ontario's first big mining strike, and the authoritics will take no chances.

The union has been fully as active. Leading federation men from Denver are here, the local officials have sent thousands of notices to mining camps throughout the country warning miners to keep away from Cobalt, and spies are scattered around town. Wherever a knot of mine managers' friends congregate a spy is soon within hearing distance. Pickets are on all incoming trains. Some intimidation has been attempted by union committees, who have endeavored to make men quit work, but it will go hard with the strikers in the very first case of this sort which the authorities can prove. The Ontario government means business.

Plain clothes provincial detectives are in camp in sufficient numbers for all present needs. At their head is a man who has been present at nearly all the important labor disturbances in Ontario for the last fifteen years.

While the government is ready to quell any kind of disturbance at once, the officials are in camp primarily as peacemakers. Immediately on his arrival Chief Detective Greer began to hold conferences with managers and union men in the hope of bringing about an adjustment of differences.

President McGuire of the local union says he is willing to forego official recognition by the mine managers if they will agree to pay the union scale. Those familiar through past experience with Western Federation methods view this offer with suspicion.

Everything in camp is quiet so far as surface indications are concerned. There has been no disturbance worthy the name since the strike started. The Nipissing continues to work with a force of over 200 men, to whom protection is guaranteed. Occasional desertions to the union side occur, but Supt. Drummond is determined to run the mine. It is taking all good men who apply as individuals. The Conlagas is running with a few men. So is the Cobalt Lake company, but nearly all the properties in camp are idle, and will remain so for the present. Every manager is willing to start up as soon as he can get even a small force.

A gang of thirty men, engaged for

MRS. HOAGLAND TAKES FLIGHT

She Was to Have Been Examined Concerning Her Sanity.

Left alone for a few moments in the courthouse while arrangements were being made for an examination concerning her sanity, Mrs. Emma Hoagland, walked out of the building and disappeared. Charles Hoagland, her husband, searched for her until after the closing hour of the probate court, but up to that time had been unable to locate his wife.

Mrs. Hoagland was under care at the Fergus Falls asylum on a previous occasion, being discharged as cured. Last April, at the request of neighbors, she was again examined, but was found to be sane. Since that time, however, she is said to have been suffering from hallucinations, imagining that her neighbors are attempting to do her bodily harm.

The Hoaglands live on a farm about sixteen miles north of the city. They have three small children.

Lingerie Sunbonnets Are Smart for Street Wear

Women Use These Old Fashioned Head Pieces to Protect Their Complexions and Hair From Sunburn—Models of Lawn and Lace.

Whether the radical innovation in headwear will prove more than a passing fad and become an established fact is a question that can be answered only by time, but certain it is that just now our streets are being turned into a semblance, at least, of rustic lanes or a tramp by the sands by the number of dainty sunbonnets maidens wear as a protection to fair complexions and shiny locks.

It is undoubtedly a pretty fashion and, it may be said, a comfortable one, too. The materials responsible for these bonnets are so light and airy that their weight is not noticed, and while affording more protection than the average street hat, they do not disarrange the coiffure. There are no hard lines resting on the head, nor stiff plus for holding these sunshades in place, and then they have the additional merit of being universally becoming. Not that these sunbonnets can be placed on the head at random. Not at all. The careless grace with which they are worn is the result of real effort, notwithstanding all their careless effect. But then, as there is no true conventional way of setting the bonnet upon the head it can be tried over and over again at every angle until it suits the contour of the head and the desired coquettish touch is accomplished.

A few general rules in regard to their selection are, however, necessary, as there are quite a number of models to select from and one may not be quite confident as to their own judgment in such matters. The pretty poke bonnet in the illustration will become the round or short faced maiden whether she be fair or dark. The poke will add length to the face and the broad bow formed by the ties will provide a pretty background for a plump chin. Then be soft frill of lace outlining the brim is really one of the most fascinating features of the whole bonnet.

The baby faced girl may wear the lingerie model and look more girlish still in it. This is built from batiste, embroidery lace and finest lawn, and very much on the lines of a baby's cap, the ties being of the lawn, trimmed on the ends with embroidery and lace. As a rule I think these should fall straight rather than be tied. Some faces may be able to stand the bow under the chin, but what might be picturesque in one case may become grotesque in another, so the safer plan for the average maiden will be to use the strings in a toying fashion for holding the bonnet down to the head rather than tying it so. You see the shape of the bonnet being round, the effect of a large bow directly under the chin and tied on one side will destroy the lines of the bonnet on a grown up. Only real babies should attempt it.

The featherbone style of lingerie cap will become the girl with the demure face of the Edna May type. Supposing the wearer lays claim to a certain amount of beauty as well, she can use this Quakerish looking model, set squarely on the head, as seen in the picture, the curtain a special feature, giving a Priscilla-like effect that will be very fascinating. If, however, she doubts her own charms, then let her tilt it upon the head, the crown of the bonnet set upon the crown of the head, and the brim falling over the face, concealing part of it and protecting the eyes at the same time. The thin, long faced girls with high foreheads and narrow cheeks will find this style exceedingly kind, while the half shadows will be more than a charity to the complexion that usually goes with—this type. Generally speaking, the thin faced girl has a slender figure, so that she may have no hesitation about donning such a youthful bit of headwear, even though she may be a beauty or particularly young.

This featherbone model is extremely practical, as the soft crown preserves the arrangement of the hair admirably and, worn for boating, the curtain will protect the neck and shoulders from sunburn in these days of open work yokes and waists.

The material is of the very finest Persian lawn, with frills of sheerest nainsook embroidery.

And now a last word, that may seem to many unnecessary. These sunbonnets may only be worn with a gown in keeping with them, as lingerie, chambray, fine gingham, dimity or any of the sheer wash materials. Silk or woollen materials are impossible.

Proper Care for Invalids During the Hot Weather

Scientific Methods for Making Invalids' Beds Without Disturbing Patients—Sponge Baths Given in Bed—How to Clean Sick Room

Cleanliness, and, more, freshness, are essential in every sick room if the patient is to have the best of care, but the method of obtaining these is quite impossible in the presence of an invalid.

Dust is one of the most necessary things to be avoided, for it is not only bad for the ill one to breathe, but carries all germs. Much of this is done away with if the floor can be bare, except for a few rugs, but even when there is a carpet on the floor a broom should never be used. A bare floor should be wiped up with a soft cloth, wet and wrung dry. The water used for this should have some kind of deodorizer, such as carbolic acid, camphor, bichloride of mercury or the like, in it to the proportion of a tablespoonful to a gallon of water. Matting should be wiped up in the same way, and so should a carpet, but with the two latter, there must be no doubt that the wiping cloth is so dry as to leave no moisture on the floor. If the patient is only slightly ill, a carpet sweeper may be used, but the noise of this is frequently distressing.

If there are any draperies—and only in contagious illness is it necessary to banish these—they should be light in weight, but not in color, as then they throw a glare very trying to the eyes. It is most important that the hangings shall be so arranged as to make it possible to open the windows at the top in order that there shall be ventilation, for it must never be forgotten that impure air rises and an outlet for it is imperative.

Every day the sheets and pillow cases should be changed, and this can be done with very little disturbance to the patient once the way has been mastered. The invalid should lie on one side of the bed and the under sheet of the empty side should be turned over toward her, leaving that side of the matress or bed bare. Over this put the fresh sheet smoothly, tucking it in at top and bottom. Change the pillow cases and put the fresh ones at this side.

Then if the invalid is strong enough to turn herself, have her roll to this newly made side and have the top sheet ready to put over. The old under sheet is then taken from the side, and the change is made in a few minutes with no fuss. Fresh night garments should be put on at the same time.

If the patient is too ill to help with this, or to be moved, the gowns should be torn all the way down the front, each arm put through the sleeve, and the gown be spread down, literally hind side before. This is the manner of doing in hospitals after operations, when the individual is often helpless. such garments, if ripped, may be sewn together again afterward and are none the worse for the change.

Nothing should prevent a sick person being sponged every day, and a little alcohol, a tablespoonful to a basin of water, is refreshing and helps to prevent taking cold. Only a small part of the body should be wet at a time, and drying should be done immediately that chill may not follow. No air should blow on the invalid when being bathed.

Such treatment to those inexperienced in sickness many seem fussy, but it has much to do with hoarding, or making new strength. An ill person who is neglected in the slightest particular, has just so much less chance of recovery.

Invalids' Shawls, Slippers and Bags Acceptable Gifts

BY ELIZABETH LEE.

It is almost impossible to believe without seeing them how many dainty and charming garments and accessories there are specially designed for invalids, and as it is always difficult to decide upon a gift to present to a friend who may be so unfortunate as to be a shut-in, the following suggestions may be helpful. The pretty fleece shawls are too well known to need a description. Suffice it to say that these may be had in all sizes from the 18-inch square, crocheted silk, just large enough and light enough to throw over the shoulders when in bed and too much bed clothing is undesirable to the large variety of knitted wool, measuring one and one-half yards square, for enveloping the feet or to be used as a knee wrap when the invalid is sitting up in a chair.

Soft wool nightingales in white threaded with pink satin ribbons are lovely, and quite a new model in these has square-shaped sleeves, something after the true kimono style, and long pointed fronts. The back barely reaches the waist line, while the fronts almost touch the knees. They can be used either in bed or when the wearer is sitting up in a chair. If white, edged and trimmed with either pink or blue such a garment may be bought for $2.50.

Other designs in wool are to be had at higher prices and a most exquisite negligee gown, especially designed for an invalid being roomy and comfortable, yet showing quite a good deal of style, could be made of finest silk henrietta in a lovely shade of pink. It could be appliqued and ruffled with real lace and medallions and would be stunning.

Bed slippers to match the nightingales may be purchased for $1.50 a pair, and a novelty in bed slippers is a design guaranteed not to slip off the feet. These, too, are exceedingly pretty worked in stripes, a color alternating in white, the knitting in purl and plain giving a half-inch rib. At first glance one might suppose these to be stockings without feet, the lower end rounded off, then closed. However when worn, the slipper shapes itself, I believe. Ready to wear, the price is $1.50, but they can be made at home much cheaper, and any average skillful knitter should be able to accomplish this. Two hanks of wool, at 20 cents each will be sufficient for the making, and written instructions are sold with the yarn, so that any difficulties that may present themselves can be explained.

Little cases of knitted silk or wool for enclosing a phial of warm water may be used for hand warmers. These, too, are very simple to make, and when complete, resemble a small Christmas cracker.

A dainty gift of home construction is a handkerchief bag. It is almost as light as a feather. A piece of cardboard six inches square is covered on both sides with a bit of silk, and the sides of the bag are of alternate stripes of pink and white silk loosely knitted, looking like network. A ribbon run in and out at the top, forming a drawstring, completes this handy satchel. Being quite large, it cannot well become mislaid, as very small articles are apt to.

A pretty receptacle for jewels or small trifles is shown specially for the use of invalids. It is made from a circular piece of cardboard covered with a soft eiderdown. On this is placed three rings (similarly covered) together in the center, until it looks something like the little tin utensil made for poaching eggs. These rings, glued or sewn down, form separate boxes. The cover is a large rosette or bow of blue or pink ribbon, surrounded by a frill of lace lined with a second ruffle of blue silk. The middle of the bow is caught down to the center of the cardboard, and when complete, looks not unlike a round pincushion. You just lift the frill and place the treasure in the receptacle, when it falls into place again.

A dollar and a half will buy a very pretty case for knitting needles. Supposing the invalid be able to attempt anything of the kind, knitted cravats—the latest for golf and for general outing wear—are recommended as being especially light. Although the stitch is just the plain and simple one, this is supposed to be smarter than the fancy stitches. Such a cravat, ready for use, will cost all the way from $2.50. Two balls of silk, that comes especially for the purpose, are sufficient and the total cost will be less than 75 cents. All plain colors and quite a few mixtures are represented, and the outfit of silk and needles will as a gift be much appreciated.

Clean Ice Boxes Prevent Food Spoiling in Summer

By HELEN HOWE.

Having a refrigerator clean is a part of housekeeping to which too much attention cannot be given in summer. As the receptacle for the family food supply, the health of the household depends upon the ice box being hygienically kept, and it is astonishing how quickly such a place can become tainted if even one thing stored in it spoils.

Few summer cottages have refrigerators built into the house, and the portable variety requires closer attention than the stationary kind. For one thing, there is the drip pan. Because of its constantly holding water, a sediment will accumulate, making an odor, almost imperceptible sometimes, that can penetrate to the food through the bottom of the refrigerator. To avoid this, the pan should be rinsed in strong, hot ammonia water at least twice a week.

To thoroughly cleanse the whole receptical at least once a week is imperative, and this does not mean merely wiping off the shelves with a wet cloth. That should be done every other day in hot weather, but a real cleaning means taking out all the food, removing the shelves and washing with strong ammonia or other disinfectant in the water.

Every refrigerator has a drain to carry off the melting ice, and none is alike. The same principle, however, applies to all; there is a trap, usually just below the ice compartment, to catch dirt there and prevent its clogging the pipe lower down. This trap disjoints or comes out easily, so that cleaning is simplified.

To proceed properly with the work of cleaning, all the food should be removed, and if meat or anything of the kind happens to have been kept several days on one dish, put it on a fresh plate, etc. This will help to keep it sweet longer. Take out all the shelves if they can be removed.

The ice compartment should be emptied, and there are usually a couple of under plates, as it were, sheets of tin or zinc in this. These, too, should be taken out and washed.

When the place is empty, have a tea kettle filled with boiling water made very strong with ammonia, and slowly pour this down through the drain. This is most important and should be done oftener than once a week to prevent stoppage. If there is any obstruction in the pipe the water may not go through, though as a rule it will make its way, grease being the usual obstacle which boiling water merits.

After the water has all gone through, or if there is a stoppage, remove the trap and wash that again under hot water. Get rid of the obstruction if there is one, and be sure that the whole drain is sweet and free when work on it is finished.

Then with a pan of hot water and a cloth with plenty of soap, wash the whole inside of the refrigerator, wipe with a dry cloth, and let it stay open a few moments to dry thoroughly and avoid mildew. All this work should be done as quickly as possible that the cold air stored may not be entirely lost.

The shelves are put into the sink and washed there, dried and put into the air a few minutes before being replaced.

In the ice compartment only milk, cream and butter should be kept, and all should be tightly closed. A small stone crock is best for the butter, filling it each day or every other day from the main supply.

To keep a lump of charcoal in each compartment of the refrigerator, renewing it very week, is a simple and excellent way of disinfecting.

Model Parisian Gown

Plain skirts with plenty of fulness tration, are being used for afternoon at the bottom, like the one in the illus- and carriage wear just now and are decidedly smart and becoming to tall, slender women. The simplicity of the skirt shows to advantage the braid trimming on the short blouse-like coat that has kimono sleeves from which flounces of the material fall in graceful folds from the shoulders to the elbows.

Straight Hair Made Curly by Applying Simple Lotions

By MARGARET MIXTER.

Summer is an especially hard season for women whose hair is moist and heavy, for to make it look well seems almost impossible. Recently I spoke of daily airings and sunning as doing much to correct this condition, but besides this treatment those certain kinds of shampoo will be a help when the time of washing comes around. Added to this there are a couple of dry applications that sometimes affect moist hair so favorably as to do far more toward waving it than tongs can accomplish, so it is quite possible that the tresses will not look "slick," but as soft as a woman's whose hair has natural fluffiness, if not curl.

In case one does not know it, the fact that soda is drying, and therefore sometimes good to put in the shampooing water, should be remembered by heavy-haired women, but one who has the least dryness in her scalp should let it alone, for the effect will act in the same way.

Better than either of these is a preparation made of a pint of bay rum, a gill of alcohol, a gill of water, a quarter of an ounce of carbonate of ammonia and a quarter of an ounce of carbonate of potash. The water should be used for dissolving the carbonates and during this time the other ingredients should be put together. Then mix the two combinations, shaking well.

This is not only cleansing, but a tonic, and absorbing to moisture. It should be used by wetting the scalp thoroughly and rubbing them, allowing them to dry in. Afterward wash in clear water.

Another lotion for the same purpose is made of two ounces of lavender, a quarter of an ounce of borax and one-half ounce of rose water. Dissolve the borax in the lavender water and add the rose water. Use as directed for the other.

Neither of these should be put on the scalp oftener than once in three weeks.

Applications that may dry the hair in the way it is placed, so that if laid in waves that effect will be obtained, will be effectual on certain qualities of hair. Again I must say, however, that these are not only useless on hair already dry in texture, but will be absolutely harmful in that they are more drying.

The method includes either tea, rosemary water or aromatic vinegar. In any one of these twelve grains of carbonate of potash should be dissolved to the proportion of half a pint. The hair is brushed and made ready for dressing, then is gone over lightly but thoroughly with a brush wet in one of these liquids. The coiffure is then loosely made, the hair laid in waves about the face. Over this the veil helps to preserve them, and when the hair is dried the veil is removed and the hair lightly gone over with a comb.

A woman whose hair is so moist as to preclude possibility of waves may still get a fluffy effect by using carbonate of potash in the shampooing water. It should be dissolved in the first rinsing water, about ten grains to a basinful. Shaking the hair frequently while drying increases the possibility of fluffiness, especially if done before an open window through which the wind is blowing.

Cherry Bounce and Other Recipes

By EMMA PADDOCK TELFORD.

Dear Mrs. Telford: Will you kindly give me a recipe for making cherry bounce, and oblige. U. S. U.

Cherry bounce may be made of the cultivated cherries or the wild ones. For the former take four pounds each Morella and black cherries. Stew and bruise so the juice may reach the cherry puts and turn into a demijohn, using a funnel to facilitate matters. Pour one-half gallon rectified whisky over the cherries and let stand several months. Pour off the liquid, shake the cherries out and bruise them enough to crush some of the stones. Add a little water, let them stand an hour, then strain the liquor and add to the first clear liquor. Sweeten with two and half pounds of sugar, let stand until well settled, when it will be ready to use. A few wild cherries added to this improves the flavor.

Wild Cherry Bounce.

Over four pounds wild cherries, mashed and the stones broken, pour five quarts rum. Let stand in a stone jar for two weeks, stirring daily. Then press and strain. Add five quarts water and two and a half pounds sugar dissolved in a cupful water, flavor with tincture of cinnamon or cloves to suit the taste, or omit flavoring if preferred, then bottle.

Tutti Frutti.

Dear Mrs. Telford: Will you kindly tell me how to make tuti frutti or layers of fruit, as they come in season placed in a jar? Thanking you for the information, for which I will look daily, MRS. C.

This preserve requires no cooking. Into its composition may go every kind of light colored fruit as it comes in season, but use no dark fruits, such as blackberries, black caps, purple grapes and the like. Put a quart of the best French brandy into a two gallon jar and add five pounds sugar. Stir until dissolved. The first addition is usually a sugar loaf pineapple cut in thin slices, with core and eyes removed. Hull a box of fine strawberries and add them also. Next may come a half dozen red bananas sliced and a layer of sliced sweet oranges. White cherries comes next, then red raspberries, peaches, soft pears, white grapes cut in halves and the seeds removed. There should be just enough brandy to barely cover the fruit. If there is not enough, add a little more, with sugar in proportion. Keep the jar always closely covered. This preserve will be in perfect condition by Thanksgiving. It should be served in slices to show the layers of the different fruits. A little will go a good ways, as it is extremely rich.

Finnan Haddie.

My Dear Mrs. Telford: Will you kindly let me know how to cook finnan haddie? MRS. E. J.

Directions for cooking finnan haddie in several different ways were given in The Herald last May. In addition to those recipes, here are directions for cooking it a la Delmonico. Wash the fish and let stand for half an hour in cold water and soak for fifteen minutes. Drain dry, remove skin and bones; then break the flesh into flakes. For each cupful allow a cupful thin white sauce. Put the fish in a buttered baking dish, cover with the sauce, garnish with buttered crumbs and brown in quick oven. A change in this method of preparation is to turn the mixture into small ramekins, sprinkle the top with grated cheese and crumbs, then bake until the top is nicely browned.

NO RACE PROBLEM HERE.

Those senators who despair of a solution of the race question ought to go to Buxton, says a writer in the Independent. Buxton is a coal mining camp in Iowa. Its population is about 5,000, 93 per cent being black and 7 per cent white.

The negroes were brought in from the South originally to break a strike. They were quick to learn the value of unionism and now there is no more thoroughly organized miners' union than the Buxton camp.

In Buxton the senators would receive their mail from a negro postmaster; at the hotel their host would be a negro. They would find themselves in a community where everybody works, especially father. If father develops a tendency to loaf and to graft on his family he will not remain long in Buxton. Only men who work can rent houses.

The Buxton schools have grown from four teachers in a four-room building in 1904, to a ten-room building and twelve teachers today. Of the 600 pupils, only sixty—one in ten—are white. The superintendent is a colored man. The teachers are colored and white. Of the mixing of the races in the schools, Superintendet Gilliam says:

"There is absolutely no friction between the races. Of the very few cases of fights only twice have they been colored versus white, both last year. They play together, sit together and eat together. Nothing is said about social equality. The school is a matter of business."

The twenty-two clerks in the company store are whites and negroes, working together, neither insulting nor being insulted by one another, white girls waiting on black men, negro girls waiting on white men. In the bank the senators would find a negro woman and a white woman, one the teller, the other the cashier.

The president of the Y. M. C. A. is a negro miner, living in a well furnished house and giving his children a liberal education. The Y. M. C. A. secretary is the theatrical manager and amusement censor of the town. He controls the opera hall with a free hand to turn down whatever appears morally unfit. On Saturday night if there is no show from outside, 2,000 feet of moving pictures are given for the good of all.

Buxton has its drawbacks. No mining camp is an ideal place. The coal will be exhausted some time, then Buxton will decamp and disappear. There is lacking the motive to buy and to improve property. But here is a community where as yet the race question is solved.

Business is business in the store, on the street and in the mines. The white woman is safe and sacred—so is the black woman. The crowds are lively, well behaved, well dressed.

In this community, overwhelmingly negro, the races work together, go to school together, but do not intermingle racially. Six days in the week, fifty-two weeks in the year, black men work in Buxton, making good money and making as good use of their money as white men, in Buxton or elsewhere. Buxton, like Tuskegee, is a bright spot.

WEEK IN STAGELAND.

AT THE LYCEUM

The Mack-Leone Summer Stock Company Will Present "Facing the Music" and "Polly Primrose at Popular Prices Next Week.

The Mack-Leone Stock company, the organization that is nightly entertaining crowded houses at the Lyceum, has set a mark of its own as a stock company. It is giving the best plays obtainable for stock productions and not one of them has ever been offered before by a stock company in this city. Some of the future plays to be presented have never been seen in Duluth at all, although they are every one New York successes.

For the coming week two bills entirely new to local playgoers have been chosen. The first half of the week beginning Monday will be given over to Henry E. Dixey's great farce comedy, "Facing the Music." In Chicago this delightful comedy made the one great success of the season. It was produced for a run of three weeks originally, but so great were the crowds that filled the big Powers theater that the run was extended to sixteen weeks and it was then withdrawn only because Mr. Dixey had other contract to fill. This is claimed to be the longest run ever made by a comedy that had no "catchy music" or "beauty chorus" to sing and dance its way into public favor.

For the last half of the week "Polly Primrose" will be the offering, another new play to Duluth. Besides being new to Duluth, "Polly Primrose" calls for more than passing notice, for it will be remembered as the piece in which "our own" Adelaide Thurston appeared so successfully. And like the jolly little good fellow that she is, she has very kindly promised to direct the rehearsals for the stock company and assist them in giving a correct reproduction of her former success.

With the prices only 10, 25 and 50 cents, and with two excellent plays, as the above are known to be, the worthy Mack-Leone company will doubtless be rewarded with crowded houses again all next week. There will be the usual ladies' matinee on Wednesday and Saturday, but in the future babies in arms will not be admitted.

AT THE BIJOU

Great Alpine Family of English Gymnasts Will Head Next Week's Vaudeville Bill---George Yeoman Has Clever German Dialect Monologue.

Bijou patrons will see the great Alpine family of English gymnasts, who have been engaged at heavy expense as extra feature for next week.

This clever troupe is recognized as one of the best that ever came to America from Europe. Their feats of acrobatic work are said to be marvelous and they are the originators and only performers of their wonderful double wire act, which for daring and artistic agility has no equal. They will perform their complete act at each performance during the week. A good variety of other acts will be given to help make up the show for next week. Among them are George Yoeman, who does a German monologue and is easily the best in his line ever offered local theatergoers in months. With all his humor, he is not offensive, which makes him convincing and really funny.

A singer of considerable note will be Gloria Dare, whose charming personality and excellent voice never fail to make a lasting impression upon those who hear her sing. Her selections are new and composed of both classical and popular song hits.

A good act is offered by Carlton and Terry, who are two good singers and funny comedians. They give fifteen minutes of solid amusement of a refined nature, which always brings them rounds of well deserved applause.

A novelty in the comedy acrobatic line will be offered by Carl Raymond, whose funny acrobatic stunts are pleasing to the eye and well performed.

Herman Le Fluer will render the illustrated song success, entitled "Somebody's Waiting," which is illustrated with colored views. The moving picture show the new film "When Stormy Winds Do Blow." A spectacular picture with plenty of action and sensational features, and a very funny comedy picture entitled "Kelly's Tramp Dog," will be shown. Matinees are given every day at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either phone. Regular performances are given on Sunday afternoon and night.

THE WHITE CITY

Attendance at the Summer Amusement Park This Summer is Greater Than Last Year---Complete Change of Bill in Free Acts for Next Week.

The fourth week of the White City opens with a record of attendance far in excess of that of last season with every day showing an increase of patronage most pleasing to the directors. The people fully appreciate the fact that they can send their families to the park with the assurance that they will be fully protected from any annoyance of any kind. No objectional persons are allowed to enter the grounds.

Some excellent free acts are being presented this season. Every week has seen a change in the acts. The hours of appearance of acts have also been changed to 4 in the afternoon and 9:30 in the evening. This was done so as to accommodate the public that they might arrive at the park and not find that they had missed the free acts.

Roller skating is proving a success and the floor is crowded nightly. A new departure in the dancing pavilion is the fact that ladies are admitted free at both the afternoon and evening sessions. The new theater with its genuine colored people in an old-time minstrel performance, proved a winning card and will be retained another week with an entire change of songs and dances.

One of the free acts for the coming week of especial interest will be the Hurling Huttens in their sensational rebounding trampoline casting act. Another free act for next week is given by the Lassaid brothers, novelty acrobats.

Monday, July 22, will be ladies' day, when all women and children will be admitted free. Special games have been prepared for the children and prizes will be offered to the mother having the largest family on the grounds, one to the mother with the smallest baby, and one to the mother with the largest baby.

All the other shows are retained and everybody can be assured of a day's pleasure by visiting the White City. Arrangements are being made for the steamer Fremont to leave the foot of Fifth avenue, Duluth, and Tower Bay slip, Superior. Announcement of running schedule to be made later.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Now is the Summer Show in Full Blast---Hammerstein Returns With Managerial Game Bag Stocked to the Limit.

New York, July 20.—Summer shows are now in full blast, and from the roofs and beaches come the reports of good business owing to the torrid wave now prevailing. Everything goes with the summer show, from the man who removes handcuffs to comic opera. Indeed, one stock company managers had the nerve to put on "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" at one of the beach theaters. This could hardly be called a cool summer attraction, and the manager was not assassinated, but his audiences were up to the usual size.

* * *

The great and only Oscar Hammerstein is back in town. He arrived from Europe a few days ago with five trunks full of contracts and the prediction of a great season for the Manhattan Opera house, which will ring up the curtain on Nov. 4. Eight new operas, with a long list of new stars, headed by Mary Garden, are the new operatic "deserts" which Mr. Hammerstein says either will make his opera house the most famous in the world or bankrupt him altogether. Here are the bold Oscar's operatic plans, boiled down for busy readers:

Prima donnas—Melba, Mary Garden, Nordica, Schumann-Heink, Russ Bressler-Ghanoli, Berville-Reache, De Cisneros, Borello, Francesci Seegris, Kneeling, Zapelli, Trentini, Giaconia.

Tenors—Zenatello, Bassi, Dalmores, Albini Cazouran.

Baritones—Renaud, Sammarco, Ancona, Dufranne, Perier.

Bassos—Didur, Arimondi, Vleulle, Mendoza.

New operas—"Dolores," "Louise," "Pelleas and Mellsande," "Thais," "Contes D'Hoffmann," "Notre Dame," "Helene" and an opera by Victor Herbert of New York.

Revivals—"Giaconda," "Andre Chenier," "Mefistofeles," "Damnation de Faust," "Les Prophete," "Manon" (by Massenet), and "Romeo and Juliet."

Repertoires—"Lohengrin," "Tannhauser," "Tristan and Isolde," "Flying Dutchman," "Lucia," "Traviata," "Rigoletto," "Trovatore," "Don Giovanni," "Pagliacci," "Boheme," "Les Huguenots" and "Aida."

Hammerstein has certainly plunged on grand opera, and the odds are all in favor of his winning out.

"The Road to Yesterday" and "The Man of the Hour" have ended their most successful season. They were two of the most popular plays of the season, and have a prosperous future before them. "Caught in the Rain" still remains with us at the Garrick, and William Collier laughs at the hot weather as he counts up the house. Collier has broken all records, having played a Fourth of July matinee. It is a merry show and deserves its success.

* * *

Max Figman is expected home from the West in a few days, and has a busy time ahead of him. He will direct the rehearsals of John Cort's new productions, and after producing "The Alaskan" will rehearse "The Stronger Sex." This made a great hit in London. Maude Fealy will interpret the principal role in this country. Florence Roberts, in "Zira," and a new comedy, and Sarah Truax, in "The Spider's Web," will then be rehearsed by Mr. Figman, after which his second starring season in "The Man on the Box" is scheduled to begin Sept. 30. Following a brief tour with the McGrath-Furniss comedy in this country, Mr. Figman will make his debut as a star in London.

* * *

Edna May Spooner, long a favorite in Brooklyn in her mother's stock company, where hot chocolate and fancy crackers were served on the stage once or twice a week to the feminine portion of the audience, is now the star of Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue theater. This week Miss Spooner presented "Camille" in a manner all her own, and as her Camille was a great card in Brooklyn, it is expected to draw well throughout the week. Her Camille has considerable dramatic force and her first appearance on Broadway in the role was well received.

* * *

The Amsterdam Theater roof, where George M. Cohan is presenting "The Honeymooners," is crowded nightly. This week Mr. Cohan sang for the first time his new song entitled "The Doctor Says I Haven't Long to Live and I'm Going to Enjoy Myself." The song has caught on and will soon be whistled all over town.

* * *

The theatrical season in Paris closed last Saturday, and, strange as it may seem, the most successful play proved to be "Mr. Raffles," the delightful burglar, who had been carefully translated. The Parisians went almost wild with delight over the clever gentleman who took such a keen pleasure in housebreaking, and they will probably demand his return next season. New plays produced during the season nearly reached the number of 1,000. Of course the great majority were failures; only a few managed to survive, and "Raffles" led the list.

A curtain raiser called "The Dumb Cake," recently produced at the Hicks theater in London seems to be a clever and rather fanciful little piece. A simple girl, employed at an almshouse and fed on old rural traditions by the aged female inmates, put a cake, a glass of ale and a lighted candle on a table on the midnight of All Hallowe'en and leaves the door open in the expectation that her lover will appear. A fleeing thief seeing a chance to avoid his pursuers darts in, and as soon as the danger is over promptly consumes the cake and ale, but the superstitious girl sees in him the destined prince and proceeds to worship him, giving him a locket as a token of her affection. Soon the thief realizes the situation, but, scorning to take undue advantage of it, presently departs, slipping the locket secretly into her pocket before he goes. There she finds it a little later on after learning the true character of her visitor. Thereupon she consoles herself with the reflection that even so poor and brief a romance was better than no romance at all.

William Archer, writing in the London Tribune, has some pertinent remarks about the so-called stock companies in the United States. He says: "One of the chief advantages of a repertory theater is that, while it gives its actors practice in a variety of parts, it also allows them a reasonable amount of leisure. How different is the state of things at the stock company theater. Here the company is so small that most of its members are engaged in every play that is presented. They have to act not four or five times, but twelve times a week, and while they are acting every afternoon and evening they have to be rehearsing every morning the next week's production. It seems almost incredible that flesh and blood can stand such an appalling strain. One wonders that the Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals does not interfere. At any rate, no artistic results of any value are to be expected from such merciless slave drivings, and as a matter of fact, I cannot learn that the stock company theater has proved good nurseries or recruiting grounds for the stage at large."

"The Follies of 1907" had its production in the Jardin de Paris atop of the New York and Criterion theaters. It is a satire upon everything timely and has a burlesque side. No respect whatever is shown for great men of the hour and the audience thoroughly enjoys the shafts of wit and humor hurled at the great ones. There are twenty musical numbers in the production, with new dances and specialties.

* * *

Miss Sadie Melles, a member of "The Orchid" company, has organized what she calls "The Show Girls' club." They purpose to obtain a club house at a nearby seaside resort, where the members may go after the performance and over Sunday. The number of show girls who have asked to join assures a summer's comfort at a minimum cost. Miss Melles will be the first matron, with three committees to help her. Three sites have been inspected. It is probable that the house will be located at New Brighton, S. I.

THE ALPINE FAMILY OF ENGLISH ACROBATS.
At the Bijou Next Week.

MISS MAUD LEONE.
Leading Woman With the Mack-Leone Company at the Lyceum.

HAD JUST TIME ENOUGH.

There are many stories of the ingenuity which young women display in ridding themselves of callers who stay too late. For effectiveness it would be hard to surpass the answer of the girl whose young man finally remarked: "Well, I guess it's time I was going." "Oh," she said, in gentle surprise, "isn't it later than that?"

Another ruse is told by a writer in Cassell's Journal.

"Oh, Mr. Boreley," said Miss Weary when the clock in the drawing room pointed to 9, "I wonder if I could get you to do me a great favor?"

"I am yours to command, Miss Weary," replied Boreley, gallantly.

"You are very good, I'm sure. The favor is that you would post a letter for me as you go home."

"I will do so with the greatest pleasure," he said, as he settled himself comfortably back in his chair.

"I would not trouble you with it," she went on, "but it is rather important that it should be started tonight, as I am extremely anxious for it to reach my friend without loss of time."

"You may depend upon me, Miss Weary. I always remember letters which are given me to post. I never was known to carry one about in an inside pocket for two or three weeks, as some men do."

"I was sure I could trust you, Mr. Boreley, and you wil pardon me for saying again that it is important that the letter leave here tonight." As she spoke she went to a little writing table at the end of the room and returned with the letter. "Here it is, Mr. Boreley," she said. "The last collection at the box on the next corner is made at twenty minutes past 9."

Mr. Boreley looked at his watch.

"Why," he said, "I have barely time to get there before the box is cleared! Good night, Miss Weary!"

"You are so good, Mr. Boreley! Good night! Be assured that I appreciate your kindness. You will call again soon, I hope?"

As "a small bolt on the door is better than none at all," so even a very small ad. of a store in The Herald is better than none at all. For "none at all" means business oblivion.

THROWING THE LARIAT GOOD EXERCISE FOR THE HEALTH

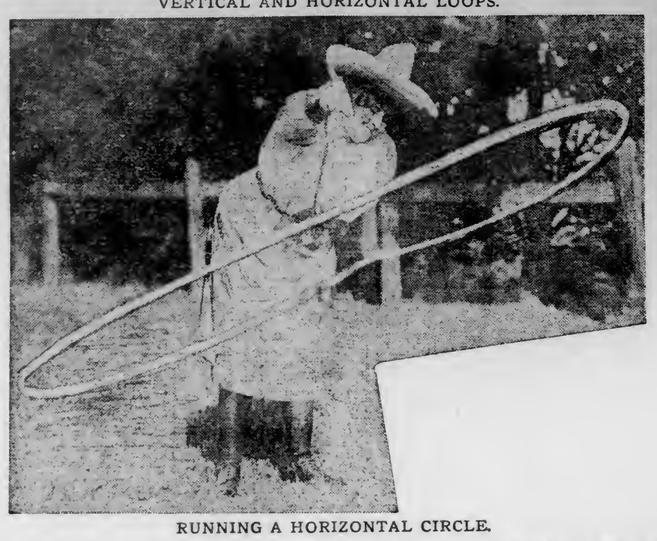

STARTING THE ROTARY.

VERTICAL AND HORIZONTAL LOOPS.

THROWING IN RELAYS.

RUNNING A HORIZONTAL CIRCLE.

"I weigh 211 pounds," said Mrs. Frank W. Chamberlain today, "but I'm not fat" and she looked askance and questionally at the person to whom she was talking.

"Of course, you're not," said the person, who knew when to say the obvious thing. "Anybody can see that for themselves."

"I am hard," said Mrs. Chamberlain, and she displayed a forearm, white and smooth, which, when you touched your knuckles to it in a series of taps, sounded like some one knocking at the door. "I'm hard all over," she assured everybody who was listening, including herself.

Mrs. Chamberlain does the most interesting and unexpected things with a lariat. She believes in the lariat, not only as a means of getting a large share of the applause at a vaudeville house, but also as a means toward the end of getting fat, keeping in condition, retaining your "figger," having a complexion like baby's when you're 40 (not that Mrs. Chamberlain is anywhere near 40), keeping your husband's affections, laying by a little hoard for a rainy day, and innumerable other things that the interviewer has forgotten.

"Every muscle in your body is in play," said Mrs. Chamberlain, with enthusiasm, "when you make a circle."

"I should think so, indeed," said the interviewer, remembering those bewildering people who upon occasions touch the back of their head with their toes.

"I mean making a circle with the rope, of course," continued this star performer. "To keep your circle you must have have a supple and well oiled wrist and free arm and shoulder and chest movement. Your other hand and arm is keeing the rope from getting twists in it, and you are jumping around most of the time, getting a perfect poise, and fine exercise. I don't know of anything that is such good exercise.

"History does not record the time when rope first came into use," continued Mrs. Chamberlain, warming up to the subject in which she takes so keen an interest. "Scarcely a day passes that the housewife does not handle a rope. It may be for use as a clothesline, or it may be to tie up a youngster with a penchant for wandering away. Yet how few of them know that this selfsame rope, properly employed, furnishes exercise that is better than all the medicine that could be absorbed, without any of the harmful effects sometimes attendant upon the use of drugs. Even the simplest tricks with a rope are beneficial when practiced for any length of time. One of the first steps in acquiring proficiency with a rope consists in making a horizontal circle. To do this the right hand is constantly executing a rotary motion. The left hand and wrist are employed in keeping the lead end of the rope free from kinks. To properly perform the trick the body must be thrown forward slightly, bringing the muscles of the chest and shoulders into play. This position involves maintaining a balance that keeps both feet moving slightly, and in this manner every muscle in the limbs is used. At first there comes a soreness in every joint and a stiffness of the muscles that is terrifying to the beginner, and often discourages further practice.

"If continued, however, the beneficial effects soon begin to make themselves felt. There comes a muscular development that can be acquired in few if any other ways. The flesh begins to harden, the fat to disappear. There comes a poise and ease of carriage that not only lends grace but gives remarkable endurance. The sense of fatigue often experienced passes.

"To women exercise of this nature is particularly valuable, albeit proficiency in this direction requires such close application and involves so much actual labor that it will never become popular with the fair sex. Delsarte and other forms of physical culture that have a considerable following are all right in their place, but as indulged in they are little more than a pastime. One hour a day with a rope and a competent instructor at the outset would accomplish more toward building up a man or woman than almost any other treatment known."

The interviewer leaned forward and whispered into Mrs. Chamberlain's ear.

"Of course, I wear 'em," she said. "But I wear them loose. I put them on the first thing in the morning and take them off the last thing at night. That's the trouble with so much of this physical culture. The spasmodic exercises are taken once or twice a week in loose and easy clothes and then often when the usual dress is worn they can't get a deep, full breath because—well because they are so tight. There is absolutely no harm in corsets"—the fatal word is out—"but like everything else, common sense must also be employed in their use.

"Another thing," said the lady who does wonders with the lasso, "like everything else, to accomplish anything with it, you must do it systematically. No on and off method will let you become even slightly proficient in lassoing. I worked five years daily before I appeared in public. When I married Mr. Chamberlain it was a question of getting into the business or staying at home alone for most of the year, so I got in. It is perfect exercise. It keeps you in splendid condition. I eat whenever and whatever I like," said Mrs. Chamberlain, with a well fed and happy air.

The interviewer wished that that were possible for everybody.

Mrs. Chamberlain is a Michigan product and not until she married Mr. Chamberlain did she begin to develop the possibilities of lariat throwing, and in her years of experience she has become most enthusiastic over the benefits which may be derived from the systematic and understanding practice of this graceful and interesting sport. Like all art, however, it is long, and probably for some time it will not have so many adherents that the first and original woman "rope" artist will have many competitors.

WILD ANIMALS IN CAPTIVITY FREQUENTLY SHOW MANIA FOR SELF DESTRUCTION---SOME AUTHENTICATED CASES

SOME OF THE ANIMALS IN THE BARNUM & BAILEY MENAGERIE.

"Do animals exhibit the musical mania to any extent?"

George Conklin, the famous animal expert with the Barnum & Bailey circus, to whom this question was put, has an experience of nearly forty years in handling and studying zoological specimens. His opinions regarding animals have been quoted all over the world.

"The instinct for self-destruction is common among all kinds of animals," he said, "and the causes are in many instances the same as would impel a man or woman to commit suicide. Probably the most pronounced of these causes are loniness, homesickness, loss of companions or progeny, and ill health. There are animals that periodically have a return of the suicidal mania, and which can only be saved from self-destruction by the most intelligent and careful treatment. As a rule, however, when the animal has made up its mind to commit suicide nothing can prevent it, and the keeper, not only for reasons of humanity, but also because an animal in that condition is extremely dangerous, is often compelled to end the animal's sufferings by hastening its death.

"We had a remarkable instance of this kind when the Barnum & Bailey show was returning from Europe several years ago. One of our largest elephants was known as Mandarin. This splendid specimen of the Asiatic elephant attracted universal attention from the public because of his size and the great width of his head. Among the circus people there was an especial regard for Mandarin, because he was the father of Columbia, the only baby elephant ever born in America that grew to maturity. Before boarding the boat, Mandarin had given no evidences either of ill-temper or melancholy. One morning, about the fifth day out, one of the elephant ment came to me and reported that Mandarin, who was corralled in a large stall in the first hold, was acting strangely and seemed to be laboring under great excitement. On going to the stall, I found Mandarin swaying back and forth, straining at his chains, and making every effort not only to break the bars in front of his stall, but also to beat his great head against the heavy partitions on the sides. Mandarin was a particular favorite of mine. He had been with the show a long time, and I had never experienced any difficulty in handling him. As soon as I spoke to the excited animal, my voice seemed to have a soothing effect, and he reached out his trunk and permitted me to pat it with every appearance of friendliness. This was an evidence that Mandarin had no homicidal intentions, and that his excitement came from other causes. The animal's head was badly cut from coming in contact with the woodwork and iron supports, and was bleeding in several places. To prevent, if possible, any further injury to the animal, I had the chains drawn tighter, leaving him just enough room to stand comfortably. In this way we managed to restrain the elephant until the steamer was approaching New York city. Mandarin had, however, been growing worse all the time, and was, in spite of the tautness of his fastenings literally covered with self-inflicted wounds. To help him was impossible; to release him was too dangerous; the only thing we could do was to kill him and relieve him from his mental sufferings. This was done by strangulation. A chain was wound around his neck and the two ends fastened to winches. When all was ready, the chains were drawn tight and the breath literally squeezed out of the poor animal's body. It was the only thing we could do. For days, Mandarin had not eaten anything, and it was only a question of a few days at most before he would have killed himself or starved to death. The only reasonable cause for Mandarin's persistent attempts at self-destruction, that I could discover, was a fear of the water, which was accentuated by the movement of the ship and seasickness.

The Case of Jumbo.

"It is a fact not generall known, except among the Barnum & Bailey animent men, that Jumbo, which was brought over to this country from the Regent's park zoological gardens in London, suffering terribly from homesickness and made several unsuccessfult efforts to commit suicide. On one occasion, while the elephant herd was being treated to a bath on the lake front in Chicago it was only with the assistance of several of the other big elephants that Jumbo was prevented from drowning himself. Columbia, the daughter of Mandarin, has also on several occasions attempted to make away wth herself. And more than once only the chains with which she was fastened have prevented her from venting her fatal spite on herself.

"The suicidal mania in the lion is often developed after his mate has for any reason been taken away. During the winter of 1904 an exceptionally fine lioness had not been separated from here mate, even by iron bars, and the effect of her death was almost immediately apparent. The lion paced restlessly up and down the cage for hours, uttering low, plaintive whines, and giving every evidence of grief. One morning one of the keepers found the lion stretched out at full length in the cage, with a great, jagged wound in his throat, dead. The animal had lacerated himself with his claws and bled to death. I have also known several instances in which lionesses have killed themselves or died from grief over the loss of cubs that have been taken away from them; and yet, strange to say, if the baby lions had not been removed they would probably have been killed by their mothers.

Tigers Have Mania.

"When the tiger attempts self-murder it is nevessary to tie him down, but even this is not always effective. The mania for self-destruction often continues for days, though apparently subdued by forced helplessness; but the animal is crafty, and while pretending to be meek and resigned to existence, will watch for the first opportunity, after being released, to inflict wounds that will result fatally.

"One of our most recent suicides was a monkey named Chang. Chang was the oldest monkey with the show, and had been with the Barnum & Bailey show for considerably over twenty years. Most of that time he had been associated with Jennie, a monkey, almost as old, who was noted in the menagerie as being the mother of a large number of bright and healthy baby monkeys. Early in March, while the paraphernalia of the show was being moved from winter quarters to Madison Square garden, New York, Jennie was frozen to death. For a day or two Chang did not seem to realize that his mate had gone from him forever, and there was no evidence of fretting. As the days went by, however, and Jennie did not return, Chang became visibly depressed. He moped in the corner of the cage, and, at times, crying like a human child, gave vent to the most pitiful moans. Twice he forced his head through the narrow interstices between the bars of his cage, but was extricated by one of the keepers before he could be strangled. The third time he succeeded. It was as clear a case of suicide as was ever put on record.

"I have in mind another case of monkey suicide in which the suicidal mania was developed by chagrin caused by the victim being ostracised by his fellows in the Simian cage. This particular monkey had for many months been the boss of the cage. Being a powerful monkey, and a very clever one in the bargain, he had succeeded in compelling all the other monkeys to acknowledge his supremacy. As he was often malicious, and seemed to delight in showing his strength and power, all the other monkeys hated him. One day a young monkey that had suffered some indignity from the 'boss' turned on him and gave him a terrible drubbing. That settled the 'boss.' He had to give way to the new leader. After that none of the other monkeys had any respect for him. They pinched and shoved and snarled at him without mercy. The heart of the ex-boss was broken. He lost all spirit, grew thin and gave every evidence of going into decline. When he was found dead on the floor of the cage with several self-inflicted wounds, no one was astonished. It was just what had been expected.

Hippo Likes Company.

"One would scarcely imagine that such a seemingly insensate animal as the hippopotamus would ever be guilty of suicidal mania, but it is nevertheless a fact that a hippopotamus, captured wild, and confined in a cage, will give every evidence of homesickness, and the only way to prevent the animal from committing hari-kari under the circumstances is to keep him well fed and to surround him with animal company. A peculiarity of the hippopotamus is that the animal does not grieve especially for his own kind, but seems to get a certain amount of pleasure in knowing of the presence of other specicies of animals in the circus zoo. For that reason the 'hip' cage is always placed immediately opposite the giraffe corral, so that the movements of the giraffes can be always observed. We never had but one hippopotamus that was guilty of self-destruction. Having injured his leg, he was replaced on the road by another specimen, and left alone at winter quarters to spend the summer. The loneliness of the great, deserted winter quarters was too much for the animal, and he resisted all efforts of the man in charge of him to either cheer

BOLL WORM AT WORK ON COTTON — BOLL WORM AT WORK ON CORN. — PLUM CURCULIO AT WORK.

By DEXTER MARSHALL.

(Copyright, 1907, by Dexter Marshall.)

When you visit Washington next time you may chance to wander through the shaded, park-like grounds in which the buildings occupied by the department of agriculture are located, and you may run across a curious cage-like structure, ten or twelve feet square and eight or nine feet high.

Its frame is made of light wooden stuff and its walls of close meshed wire netting, through which the rain can beat, the wind can blow and the sunshine fall the same as anywhere else. Inside you will see divers jars and flower pots, some on shelves close to the outside of the wire net cage, some sunken in the ground and some otherwise disposed. In the jars and pots you will notice that plants and cuttings of various sorts are growing, and that at each growing thing there is some evidence that it is being attacked by a destructive insect.

If you hunt up some attache of the department and ask a few questions you will learn that it is the entomological bureau's "breeding cage" for the study of the insects which damage and destroy deciduous fruits of all sorts.

This inexpensive structure, then, which cannot have cost more than $50 in the building, and which most visitors probably would pass by unnoticed, plays a highly important part in the really great work of the best organized and most efficient machine for fighting man's insect enemies in the whole world. It is in charge of A. L. Quaintance, one of the bureau experts.

Near by you will see a little peak-roofed house with solid wooden walls, painted white. Through little apertures in the walls close to the ground bees are entering and departing. You may enter it yourself if you like, and are not afraid of bees, through an ordinary door, for the little white building is not full of bees, as you might imagine. They are kept in hives built inside the structure so that the outer wall of it forms one wall of each hive. The bureau gives attention to the insects which help mankind as well as to those which damage crops. Bees, of course, stand at the head of beneficial insects; silkworms come next.

Not far away stands the modest red brick building which houses the main offices of the bureau, in charge of L. O. Howard, entomologist, with C. L. Marlatt second in command. Each of these men does his full share of original investigation in addition to his supervisory work. Mr. Howard has given much attention to such pests as the brown tail and gypsy moths for a long time, and was in Europe looking for ways to kill them off when the writer called the other day. Mr. Marlatt has given special attention to the insect enemies of wheat and other grains, which cost the country more than any other group of insects. I speak of them as a "group" because they attack similar crops; scientifically they belong to many different groups.

Green Bug's Work Dwarfed.

Only those who have looked up the figures have any notion how expensive to the nation the insects of this country are. Mr. Marlatt says that such pests impose a heavier tax on the farmers of no other country. He places the average yearly loss at $795,100,000, an almost unthinkable sum. Of this loss $420,000,000 falls upon crops and farm forests, $175,000,000 upon animal products, $100,000,000 upon natural forests and forest products and $100,000,000 upon products in storage.

The loss to the cereals, wheat, oats, barley, rye and other grains, is about $200,000,000 annually, year in and year out whether there is any special visitation like that of the green bug, which made such a sensation in the Southwest this year, or not. It is estimated that it did about $9,000,000 damage last spring. This is bad enough, but it is $1,000,000 less than 5 per cent of the total average shrinkage of the grain crops yearly.

The corn root worm, the boll worm (or ear worm), the cinch bug and the Hessian fly averages $20,000,000 damage each year right along to the corn crop alone, more than double the damage done to the wheat by the green bug this year. Besides, there are a lot of minor pests which damage corn that the public rarely hears of, and of which many farmers are ignorant, such as bill bugs, wire worms, cut worms, army worms, stalk borers, grasshoppers, corn plant lice—fifty important species, all told, Mr. Marlatt says, that do a total yearly damage of more than $80,000,000 in all, or nearly nine times as much as that done this year by the green bug.

Wheat suffers more from bugs and worms of various kinds, both actually and relatively, than any other crop. Corn is the biggest crop of the country, its value sometimes reaching, and even exceeding, a billion of dollars, with an average 8 per cent insect loss. The average loss from insects in wheat is about 20 per cent. On a crop worth $500,000,000 this would be $100,000,000, more than eleven times the damage done this year by the green bug. The Hesian fly and the cinch bug are more partial to a wheat than a corn diet even. Sometimes the Hessian fly fairly exterminates a large part of the growing wheat.

Seven years ago it destroyed 40 per cent of the wheat in Ohio and 60 per cent in Indiana, the destruction being so complete that there percentages of the area planted to these grains were plowed under in the two states. Twenty per cent of the Michigan wheat area was abandoned also that year, and the decrease in wheat crop of the whole country for 1900 from the Hessian fly amounted to not less than $100,000,000.

It is rare that this fly does any such great damage, however. It is a little thing, although twice as large as the green bug, being about an eighth of an inch long. It looks somewhat like an undersized mosquito. As its name indicates, it is of European origin and it landed on American soil in 1776, coming here in the straw brought over by the Hessian troops. It first did serious damage to American wheat three years later. It has been on the wing ever since, and it reached New Zealand in 1888. It is attacked by several parasites, but about the only thing to do when the fly once gets well at work in wheat is to plow the crop under. After a bad year burning the stubble in the fall is recommended in order to destroy the eggs, and so prevent the fly from getting a good start the next year. It is a good thing also, says Mr. Marlett, to sow winter wheat very late, when the season appears to be favorable to the fly.

Still another and a most ingenious scheme is to plant a "decoy crop of wheat, early, in a narrow strip. The flies are attracted to this early wheat, and gather upon its spires from the remainder of the field. At the proper time the strip, young wheat, Hessian fly and all, is plowed under as deep as possible, after which the ground is thoroughly rolled, on the theory that a compact surface will prevent the maturing flies from escaping.

The chinch bug is a native of this country; it works on wheat until after that grain is harvested, when it migrates to the cornfields, for which reason the bureau recommends that the two crops should not be planted near together. In addition to this fly and this bug, wheat is attacked by midgets, plant lice, straw worm, joint worms, bulb worms, army worms and saw flies. The army worm is a native American, and when it really gets a start travels in great masses, whence its name, destroying everything before it. Like the grasshopper and the potato bug, the army worm seems to have been got under pretty fair control, and it is years since any of these pests has done any great damage.

The Terrible Green Bug.

I asked for some details about the green bug. Mr. Marlatt reached to the back of his roll top desk and brought forth a pasteboard box from which he took a handful of dried wheat spires, cut when they were green, each of which bore hundreds of what looked more like little brown, wart-like lumps at first than anything else. "There are a few thousands of him, from Kansas," said he. "Also a few thousands of the parasites that kills him," referring to what seemed like tiny, soot-like dots on the bottom of the box.

On close examination the little brown warts showed their insect character clearly. Each was about a sixteenth of an inch in length, and a small round hole was found in the back of nearly every specimen in the collection.

"In every case," said Mr. Marlatt, "the hole means that a parasite has laid its egg in the body of the bug and killed it. That is what happened to all but a very small proportion, indeed, of the bugs last spring. Not one in many thousands of them lived long enough after the parasite got to work to perpetuate their kind, although long before that they had destroyed great areas of growing wheat.

"The green bug is supposed not to be a native American insect. It was first reported in this country in 1882. It was found in abundance two years later in the wheat near Cabin John, Maryland, and that same year it appeared in Indiana, where F. M. Webster, the bureau's expert in the study of insects that destroy cereals and grasses, was carrying on his investigations. The bugs did little damage that year, however, but in 1890 they destroyed a large part of the wheat and oats in Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee. There was another visitation in 1900, but it was confined to Texas mainly.

"The green bug, probably, is a permanency in this country," went on Mr. Marlatt, "but it has never done serious damage, except when there has been a warm, wet winter, followed by a wet, cold spring. Last January W. D. Hunter of this bureau predicted the outbreak of last spring, for wheat and oats were then being destroyed by the bug in Texas, but, although the insect has been studied thoroughly, there was no way to prevent the damage. Nothing will kill it but its various 'parasitic' and 'predatory' enemies. There are several varieties of the parasites, all of which seem to be native, and present in sufficient numbers every year to insure the checking of the bug by the time the warm weather really sets in, but not early enough to save the crop after an open winter and a late spring.

"This is because the bug—which the bureau knows as the spring grain aphis—is able to work all through an open winter while the parasites are not. Thus, when the weather conditions are favorable, the bug gets a big start on its enemies; when the winter and spring are normal the parasites go to work on the bug as early, practically, as it goes to work on the crops, and there is no trouble.

"It is lucky that while nature has given the bug great powers of survival and reproduction she has provided an unusual number of ways of checking it. By May and June a certain species of ladybugs and their larvae begin to devour green bugs in great numbers. The ladybugs were not needed in Kansas this year, however; the parasites did the work effectually before it was time for the ladybugs to get to work.

"I can't say that I believe the efforts of the bureau or any one else did much to check the green bugs' ravages this year, much as I should like to, although everything was done that could be done. The bureau sent three men into the infested district. Finding that the parasite was busy wherever the green bug was found, these men sent quantities of young wheat covered with dead green bugs and live parasites from Texas and Oklahoma to Kansas in barrels, for the farmers there to scatter in their infested fields, where both bugs and parasites got to work later than in Texas. S. J. Hunter of the Kansas State university sent out boxes of parasite infested wheat also, but our experts are agreed that millions on the back of millions of green bugs were doing business in the Kansas wheat fields before it was possible to set parasites from Texas at work.

"It is not likely that the green bug ever will do great damage in the Northern wheat regions. Even the open winters there are too cold to allow it to breed all through the season, as it can in Texas. Judging from the past, we shall not have another green bug pest until there is another open winter followed by a backward spring. The bug will survive, of course, and will begin work on the wheat in the Southwest next year and every normal year, but its enemies will be ready to begin on it quite as promptly. The green bug was first described by an Italian scientist in 1852. In June of that year it was so numerous in the city of Bologna as to cause great annoyance. A grain field infested with green bugs speedily turns brown. In health the bugs are bright green, as their popular name shows, but when attacked by the parasites they change color speedily."

Protecting Fruit From Moths.

The importance of Mr. Marlatt's special work is apparent from the wide distribution of the grain crops of the country and the equally widespread work of destruction done by the insect enemies of grain. Mr. Howard's special work in fighting the gypsy and the brown tail moths is not less important, although as yet these pests have not got west of New England, where they were first known in America. It is Mr. Howard's business to see that they never leave New England, as it is that of the bureau to confine the cotton boll weevil to the Southwest, and he is prosecuting his task with inteligence, vigor and enthusiasm.

The estimated damage done to fruit by insects in this country is $27,000,000 annually, the total fruit crop being figured as worth $135,000,000. Thus the percentage of damage is much less than the damage to wheat. Should the destructive moths ever get a foothold in the great fruit regions of the Middle West, in the orange groves of Florida, the vineyards and groves of California and the apple orchards of the West, the damage would be incalculable. This is no exaggeration. These moths feed on practically all trees and shrubs, as well as on fruit trees; the gypsy moth attacks pine, hemlock, spruce, cedar and all other coniferous, besides deciduous forest trees. Fifty-acre patches of forest, every tree on which has been killed by moths, are found in some places.

Both these moths came to Massachusetts first; the gypsy moth in 1869, brought by a Harvard professor, who wished to study it. The insect got away from him before he had been studying it long, and he notified everybody at once. Yet it was not noticed in large numbers until 1889. The brown tail moth probably was brought here in 1890 on rose plants, but it did not become a nuisance until 1897. Now both are found in many parts of New England; the brown tail has gone as far as New Brunswick. The state of Massachusetts appropriated money to fight the gypsy moth soon after its dangerous character was realized, but in 1889 all work was stopped, not to be resumed until five years later, 1904.

Mr. Howard is enabled to give the help of the bureau and himself because of appropriations for that purpose, first made by congress in 1905. The bureau is employing a large number of laborers to destroy moth nests in New England this summer. Both these moths are the prey of birds and parasites, but the native American insect-eating birds are not so numerous in New England as formerly, having being killed off by pot hunters, and driven away by the rapidly multiplying English sparrow, another importation. The sparrow does not eat the gypsy moth to any extent, although it does attack the brown tail.

Both moths are attacked by several different parasites in Europe, over which they are spread very generally, and Mr. Howard's trip abroad this year has to do with their importation. Several importations, aggregating hundreds of thousands of parasites, were made in 1905 and 1906, but as yet it is too early to know how effective they will prove in this country. Many thousands of dollars have been spent in spraying trees and otherwise poisoning the moths and in burning their nests. These methods of fighting them must be used if the moths are ever to be checked, but they are so expensive that individual use of them can never check the pests effectually. For several years Gen. S. C. Lawrence of Massachusetts spent more money each year fighting the gypsy moth on his own and adjoining lands than the lands were worth. The brown tail spreads more rapidly than the gypsy moth, making long flights, which the latter does not.

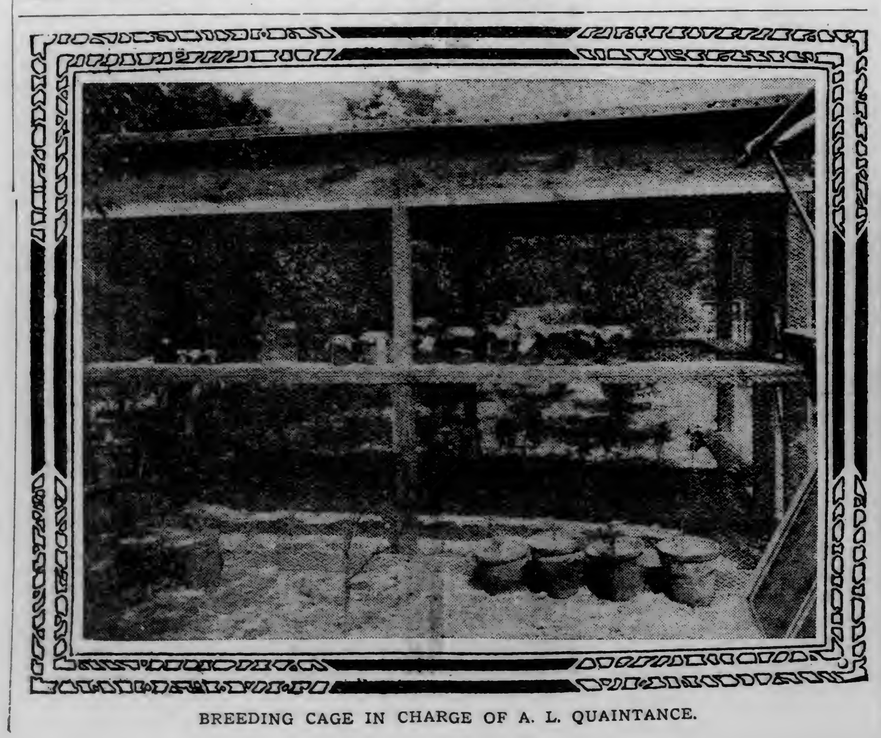

The Deadly Boll Worm.

Until the cotton boll weevil came to the United States from Mexico the boll worm was the most serious insect enemy of the cotton crop. It is quite as bad today as ever, but it has been overshadowed of late by the weevil.

It works quite differently in corn and cotton, and it attacks tomatoes, tobacco, peaches, peas, beans and okra. It is found in almost every land in the world, as far south as New Zealand and as far north as Denmark. It works at the sea level and in the Mexican mountains at an altitude of 5,000 feet. It is supposed to be native American, and it has spread to China and South America. It has not been reported in Japan. It was not reported as an enemy of cotton until 1820.

BREEDING CAGE IN CHARGE OF A. L. QUAINTANCE.

THE GREEN BUG ON WHEAT SPIRES, SLIGHLY ENLARGED.

KNOCKING THE PLUM CURCULIO FROM THE FRUIT.

It did not attack corn, so far as known, until 1842.

It is not nearly so destructive elsewhere as in this country, it does more damage to sweet corn than to field corn and it does more damage to field corn south than north. Sometimes when the plant grows rapidly the worm is squeezed to death between the rows of kernels as it is feeding on the ears. It has many enemies, including certain ants, beetles, wasps, spiders and flies which eat. Woodpeckers and other birds also devour it. Half a dozen or more varieties of parasites help destroy it, too, both in the egg and in the larva.

It has been fought with poisoned sprays and poisoned sweets, but unsuccessfully by the latter. As it likes corn better than cotton, strips of corn are often planted in cotton fields for the protection of the latter, generally with success. Peas are planted in cotton fields for the same reason, and as successfully. The worm sticks to the corn and peas and leaves the cotton alone. Mr Quaintance has done much good fighting the boll worm, and has also fought the plum curculio most effectively.

The work of the agricultural department's entomological bureau is carried on in complete harmony with the entomological work of the various state experimental stations. Not a little is being done by their inspectors in fruit tree districts. All fruit stock found in them which is infested with any injurious insect is destroyed invariably. Every year new ways of fighting noxious insects are discovered, and, undoubtedly, the damage done by them now is much less than it would be yearly were it not for the intelligent, never-ending fight against them that the national and state governments are keeping up.

Only the barest idea of the complete scope of this fight can be given here, however; it would require a thick volume to cover the ground in outline even. It includes the fighting of mosquitoes, houseflies and cattle ticks; a warfare against many insects injurious to forest trees, in co-operating with Gifford Pinchot, chief of the forestry bureau, and many other things, all of which were briefly alluded to by Mr. Marlatt in his talk with the writer the other day. The work of the bureau with bees and silkworms is as interesting as its insect war.

Incidentally, at the end of the talk Mr. Marlatt said that certain varieties of trees, plants and vines are immune to certain insect pests. Thus the Le Conte pear, a rather coarse variety, is immune to the San Jose scale, which attacks practically every other sort of fruit tree. The reason for this immunity no one has been able to find as yet.

Incidentally, too, Mr. Marlatt drew attention to the fact that while many of our worst insect pests are imported, many equally destructive ones have been sent from this country to attack the crops and plague the farmers of the world. The phylloxera, which has so bedeviled French and other European grape growers, is one of these. Although native to this country and found in nearly all American grapes, it does not damage them materially, but it destroys every European grape root, or cutting it fastens on, even when planted in America. The salvation of the European vineyards was brought about by planting them with roots and cuttings from this country. By grafting they are made to bear the European varieties of grapes, and today the European vineyards are almost as free from the phylloxera pest as they were before it was introduced into Europe.

WILD ANIMALS IN CAPTIVITY

up or take his food. He literally starved himself to death.

"There are times when the rhinoceros would beat his head against the iron bars of his cage if it was possible. The rhinoceros is an animal of strangely varying moods. Some times he is playful, and will caper around his enclosure like a colasal lamb. At other times he is sullen and morose, and gives every evidence of a desire for self-destruction. This undoubtedly does not come from any fret at being kept in confinement, for African hunters say that the suicide of a rhinoceros in its native habit is not an unusual thing. The same thing is said of giraffes. I have known several of these animals to commit suicide by starvation, and my impression is that loneliness is the usual cause for a giraffe's self-destruction. It is an absolute cruelty to exhibit one of these sensitive animals alone. They must have company of their own kind in order to be contented. They are, however, affectionate in a dull, bovine way, and often become very much attached to a keeper. It is for this reason that the same keeper is often kept in charge of our giraffes for years. The continued absence of a favorite keeper will compel the animals to fret and display every evidence of disquiet, and if the separation is a permanent one every effort has to be made to prevent the animal from fretting itself into a condition of illness. The giraffe that we oslerized at the winter quarters last January was killing itself because, owing to the roughness of the other giraffes, it had to be separated from them. It repeatedly injured itself butting its head against the partition, and very little could be done in the way of restraint for fear of twisting the animals neck or hurting its spine. The latter finally happened, and we had to chloroform the giraffe to relieve it of its sufferings.

"Many other instances of attempted or actual suicide among animals have come under my notice during the years that I have been actively engaged in looking after zoological collections. There is nothing phenomenal about this suicidal mania in animals. It is simply another proof of a fact that I have always maintained, that in their general characteristics there is mighty little difference between some animals and many men—except the power of speech."

The Barnum & Bailey menagerie will undoubtedly attract a great deal of attention when the big show exhibits in Duluth Saturday, July 27.

MARINE POSTOFFICE IS POPULAR INSTITUTION

Delivers the Mail to Passing Vessels at Detroit.

Amount of Matter Handled Shows Increase Every Year.

It would surprise the average landsman to se the great amount of mail matter which is handled at the various postoffices along the Great Lakes and consigned to the sailors and officers on the lake freighters and passenger boats.

At Duluth and Superior and most of the other Great Lakes ports there is no special branch of the postoffice to attend to this marine mail business. The mail is sent through the regular postoffice, and if the address is given it is delivered by the carriers. At times the sender of letters and papers knows just what dock to address the mail to, in which case it is delivered like any other mail matter by the carriers.

But as a general thing the mail is either addressed only to the general delivery department or to the vessel agents in charge of the boat upon which is the friend or relative, who is to be the recipient of the letter or parcel sent. In the former case the sailor must get shore leave long enough to go and call for his mail. This is usually done by one man, however, usually an officer, who has an errand ashore, anyway. The officer who goes to the office of the vessel agent looks through the mail box to see if there is any mail for either himself or any of the crew and gathers up what is consigned to his boat.

This plan of using the regular postoffice works very well at terminal points, such as Duluth and Superior, Port Arthur, Buffalo, Cleveland, and others, and the marine men have made no complaints in regard to the service. They get their mail as regularly as possible when they visit port and are satisfied.

But one of the unique institutions in the postoffice service established for the benefit of the Great Lakes sailors is the marine mail service and postoffice at Detroit, which is the point in the interlake trip passed by practically all of the lake boats. It is great benefit to the sailors, and is a most popular institution.

The marine postoffice and delivery service at Detroit was established by the government in 1895 and has been in continuous operation since then. At present it is conducted by Postmaster Homer Warren, and the amount of mail handled every year is growing in volume at an enormous rate. During the season of 1906, from April 12 until Dec. 17, when it closed for the winter, the marine mail service handled 646,620 pieces of mail to or from 22,068 vessels.

This was an increase of 219,161 pieces of mail matter over that handled during the season of 1905, showing a growth in the service of more than 50 per cent. The number of men employed in this service in the operation of a small steamer and several small boats is about half a dozen. In addition to the regular mail matter were 1,226 telegrams delivered to passing vessels and 447 special delivery letters.

The mail for the passing vessel is handled by the carriers in row boats, which are towed out in the track of vessels by a fast steam launch. By means of the launch the carriers are enabled to hail every passing vessel, no matter how great her speed. Postmaster Warren has stated, however, that a large number of vessels having mail to go ashore might make it much easier for the carriers in the service is they would check down while passing the point where the carriers are expected to hail them.

The station is located at the foot of First street in Detroit, and deliveries are made as nearly as possible opposite that point. The service is a continuous one, day and night. The signal for passing vessels from the United States mail boat for delivery of mail will be one long whistle, one short whistle and one long whistle. Signals for steam vessels wanting the mail boat to call for mail are one long whistle, one short and one long. Registered letters and parcels are received and delivered as are also money orders, in the marine service.

Often times during stormy weather the sailors find that their mail is either damp or soaking wet, and at times the small boats with the mail are lost entirely. The latter is not often the case, however. Many thrilling stories of the daring of the marine mail carriers have been related from time to time as they risk their lives in stormy weather to get the mail to the steamers.

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION'S WORK

What It is Doing and What It is Going to Do.

Unique Among the Establishments of Our Government.

Washington, July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The operation of the Smithsonian institution is unique among the establishments of the United States government in that, deriving its own proper support from the Smithson fund, a private foundation, it has from time to time had placed in its charge various branches of government scientific work. These branches, to be sure, are all of them outgrowths of researches initiated through the institution and later adopted and fostered by government aid. The practical importance of several former investigations of the institution has been realized to such an extent that, like the bureau of fisheries, the weather bureau and perhaps biological bureaus now included in the department of agriculture, they have been weaned entirely and conducted as separate branches of the government service.

As the Smithsonian institution now operates, there are included under its administration the national museum (and in connection with it the national gallery of art), the bureau of American ethnology, the system of international exchanges, the international catalogue of scientific literature, the astrophysical observatory and the national zoological park.

From the income of the Smithsonian fund and from contingent funds, special researches are conducted in fields not covered by other government scientific bureaus, whether the fields be the measuring of pressure and temperature at high altitudes, the studying of eclipses, the tracing of geologic strata or determining the principles of flight. And for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men," the words of the Smithsonian bequest, many scientific and popular works are issued by libraries and institutions throughout the world.

Aided partly by Smithson funds and partly by special government appropriations, several investigators are at present in the field. C. W. Gilmore of the national museum is in Alaska undertaking paleontological explorations with a special view to securing specimens of fossil mammals. Mr. Gilmore's researches, which follow upon discoveries made several years ago by Mr. Maddren, are to extend over two seasons and are confined to the Yukon basin and Buckland river region.

Under a very recent Smithsonian grant, Bailey Willis of the United States geological survey, is directed to proceed to Europe for a thorough study of the puzzling geologic structure of the Alps and the theories put forward by European geologists.

Plans have been made for a Smithsonian eclipse expedition in charge of C. G. Abbot, director of the astrophysical observatory, to observe from Flint island in the Southern Pacific, the total eclipse of the sun to occur Jan. 3, 1908. Mr. Abbot is to observe the heating effect of the sun's corona and to decide, if possible, more particularly the causes of coronal light. Mr. Abbot will work with Prof. W. W. Campbell of the Lick observatory.

In connection with examinations of the boundary surveys of the forty-ninth parallel, the United States, part of which has been placed in charge of Mr. Tittman of the coast and geodetic survey, and the Smithsonian institution, Mr. Walcott will make a geological study of the Cambrian and pre-Cambrian sections of British Columbia and endeavor to trace the continuance of the rocks of this belt southward into Montana and Idaho.

Investigations along technical lines are being conducted through the Hodgkins fund by a number of correspondents of the institution. A Hodgkins grant was recently approved in favor of Dr. R. von Lendenfeld of the zoological institute at Prague to enable the continuance of his studies of the organs of flight of birds and insects which in this period of experimenting in aerial navigation are of vital present interest.

The most comprehensive government branch of the Smithsonian institution is the national museum, which also includes the national gallery of art, under the immediate direction of Richard Rathbun, interest in this direction being lively upon the subject of the erection of the new museum building, which it is hoped will be under roof by the close of this calendar year. In the new building it is planned to house mainly the scientific collections, which include natural history, geology, ethnology, archeology and allied subjects. The present museum building will then be turned over to the department of arts and industries and the building of the institution itself will become a museum of fine arts and until the growth of collections demands larger quarters, will be the seat of the national gallery of art. Since the national gallery during the past year has had a remarkable and surprising growth through the gifts of William T. Evans and others, there is increased the hope of those directly in charge that not far in the future the United States government may boast of a gallery of American art truly national in its character.

While the museum is the custodian of all government collections, and while to the public its main feature is the exhibition of characteristic objects in its several divisions, yet the law demands that these materials shall be classified and properly arranged, a task which involves a large amount of research work. Consequently the museum scientific staff is made up, so far as means allow, of experts on the several subjects represented. The scientific work is carried on continuously and results in many important contributions to knowledge. Little actual field work, however, is done, the museum relying for its material upon the regular government expeditions and contributions from thousands of private sources —gifts and exchanges. Some of the assistants in the museum are expert field workers and while the finances for this purpose are very limited, opportunity often arrives especially through explorations by the geological survey, the bureau of fisheries, the bureau of American ethnology, and the department of agriculture to engage in work of this sort.

Research is continuous under Prof. Otis T. Mason of the department of anthropology, Dr. Frederick W. True of the department of biology, and Prof. George P. Merrill of the department of geology.

Prof. Mason's researches are in the fields of physical and cultural anthropology; in the former, study of the crania, skeleton and brain, both specifically and comparatively; in the latter, study of everything resulting from the development of the culture of mankind. In this connection much time this year will be employed in examining material forwarded to the museum by W. L. Abbott, who has made extensive collections in the rich anthropological fields of Malaysia, Borneo and the Philippines, by the field-workers of the bureau of ethnology, and by various other correspondents and associates of the museum.

The work of Dr. True's department of biology relates directly to classification of genera and species of plants and animals brought in by many government exploring parties such as the annual cruise of the fish commission steamer Albatross, boundary commission, and the like. Classification work of this sort is necessarily irregular in its demands and requires an immediate general knowledge of all special classes of life, whether birds, mammals, reptiles, fishes, insects, marine invertebrates, or plants.

In the department of geology technical studies of the properties of various minerals forwarded from many government explorations and surveys are made by Prof. Merrill and Wirt Tassin. Geologic problems must be solved, and it often falls to the lot of a geologist of this department to examine at close range earth structures which have puzzled other scientific explorers. Prof. Merrill has just returned from Canyon Diablo, Ariz., with mineralogical and geological data to determine the origin of a peculiar crater-like formation in the earth's crust. In this department the Smithsonian comes into close touch with the geological survey, several members of the staff of the survey being at the same time actively engaged in the interests of the museum.

The bureau of American ethnology, under the charge of W. H. Holmes, is engaged entirely in systematic researches among the tribes of American Indians. These include the scientific classification, distribution, and history of the tribes and the study of their physical and mental characters, languages, social institutions, religions, arts and industries, economic resources and welfare, in short everything pertaining to the American Indians. The scope of the bureau has lately been extended to include Hawaii, a bibliography of that island being now in progress. For the last few years the energies of the staff have been largely devoted to the completion of the handbook of American Indians, an encyclopedia of all that ethnologists know of the subject. It is probably the most ambitious work ever published by a government bureau. Besides working on the handbook, the scientific staff has been constantly in the field gathering material of a scientific character. The explorations of Dr. J. Walter Fewkes in the unearthing of an American Pompeii about the historic Casa Grande ruins in Arizona has recently attracted much attention. James Mooney among the Cheyenne, Kiowa and Kiowa-Apache tribes of Oklahoma and Indian Territory. Dr. John R. Swanton in the South, C. Stevenson at the Pueblo of Paos and in Zuni, J. N. B. Hewitt among the Iroquois, and Dr. Cyrus Thomas in Mexico and Central America, will continue to study the life and character of these first Americans.

In the international exchanges, a popularly less-known feature of the institution's work, the Smithsonian institution acts as an international clearing house for scientific and other literature. It is through these exchanges that men of science in this country are kept continually in touch with the work of investigators in other parts of the world and through which other investigators are informed of the work and discoveries of American researchers. The exchange system now includes correspondents in every civilized part of the world, numbering in all above 60,000, working in unison with other international exchange systems in other countries. The Smithsonian institution is at present using its influence with a view to securing the establishment of like systems in England and Germany.

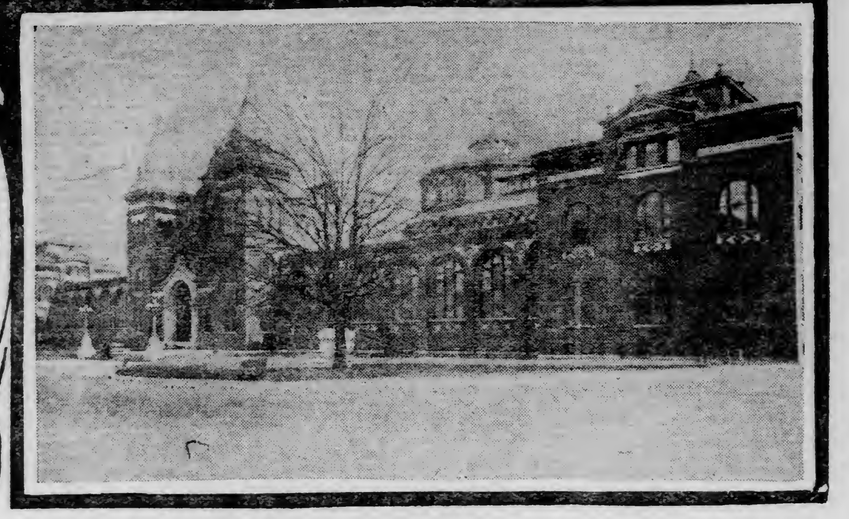

The international catalogue of scientific literature is an interest which the institution has recently made an independent branch of its work. In cooperation with other nations every scientific publication in the world is classified and placed on record according to an international code. The catalogue is invaluable to specialists engaged in scientific research, for by its help the work and results of every man at all connected with science in a civilized nation may be consulted with comparative ease.

In the astrophysical observatory, established in 1890, the institution has a department which for a long time was unique in the United States. Treating the physics rather than the mathematics of astronomy—what was called the new astronomy—the whole energy and skill of its staff are given over to a study of solar radiation and similar problems. The practical value of this work is evident from the results obtained showing a tangible and determinable relationship between the amount of heat given off by the sun in a season and the temperature of the earth during the following season. the details of which are set forth in the annals of the observatory, the second volume of which is about to be published. Measurements in Washington and at Mount Wilson, Cal., of what is known as the "solar constant," the reflection of clouds, and the amount of sky radiation, are experiments which, worked out, may well be incorporated in the routine of the weather bureau. Mr. Abbot, who is in charge of the observatory, besides studying the solar eclipse next January, intends beginning the investigation of the radiation of the earth to space, by measuring the transmission of our atmosphere for the rays of great wave length which are emitted by a body at the temperature of the earth. This is to be done by observing the solar spectrum and by observing the transmission of rays from bodies at high temperatures through layers of air of considerable length and of varying water vapor contents.

And finally there comes under the supervision of the Smithsonian institution the national zoological park, which, while of great popular interest, is at the same time very valuable to students of biology in all its forms. Over a thousand animals, gifts and purchases from very many sources, are now housed in the park, which comprises 167 acres of hilly wooded land two miles from the center of Washington, the beautiful driveway of the many who come to the capital to live. In designing the park the animals are retained in surroundings as nearly natural as has been found compatible with safety. It is the plan of Dr. Frank Baker, superintendent of the park, to construct within the year a much needed special laboratory building and to make a number of other improvements to the park, both with a view to rendering the government's charges more comfortable and to adding to the beauty of the grounds. While the proper exalibition and care of the animals is the chief object of the park officials, experiments in breeding to secure hardier domestic beasts might well fall within the proper scope of their work.

SUGGESTS DRIVEWAY FOR MINNESOTA POINT

City Engineer Believes That It Will Soon be Demanded.

Outlines a Plan by Which It Could be Built.

"Within two years from now I believe that the property owners on Park Point will be ready for the circulation of a petition for a driveway down Park Point, at least as far as the White City, with a tar macadam pavement," said City Engineer Thomas F. McGilvray yesterday.

The project is a new one considered in detail, but the city engineer has worked out a plan for the construction of the roadway which looks very feasible.

In the first place, he points out, gravel, the base for tar macadam, is found in profusion on the Point and could be obtained very cheaply. The engineer has already made a test of Park Point gravel on one block of tar macadam paving in the city and he declares that the stuff, though differing materially from the ordinary crushed rock base, is holding up, at least so far, as well as any of the regular crushed rock work.

The estimate placed by the city engineer upon the cost of putting in the tar macadam on the point is $1.30 per yard, but he says that on account of the uncertain nature of the base which is to be worked upon, a four-inch concrete base would probably be necessary and this would increase the cost to nearly $1.70 per yard. A twenty-four-foot roadway is what would be required and this would make the cost per running foot something over $4. Tar the other ingredient of tar macadam, could be shipped by boat from the Zenith Furnace company's plant at West Duluth direct to the Park Point roadway. The experiment of using sand instead of crushed rock as the finer part of the tar macadam is to be made, but it is thought that this would be successful.

Such a driveway would be a wonderful addition to the city's park system. The trip through the pines, near the cooling waters of the lake, would be an ideal one either by automobile or behind a horse. The popularity of the trip on the Park Point cars, simply as a trip in itself, attests what its popularity would be if it could be made in a more comfortable manner.

Could it be reached by carriage the popularity of the Point as a summer resort would be increased immeasurably. The plan of extending the roadway clear on down to the Point in the unplatted portion, has been proposed, but if this was done the route would have to be condemned and damages awarded, and in the long run the park board would probably have to pay for this portion of the work. It is believed that this will be the ultimate development and that the seven-mile trip along the narrow strip of land which separates harbor and lake, will be one of the city's most delightful drives.

Take the Postmaster's Word for It.

Mr. F. M. Hamilton, postmaster at Cherryvale, Ind., keeps also a stock of general merchandise and patent medicines. He says: "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is standard here in its line. It never fails to give satisfaction and we could hardly afford to be without it." For sale by all druggists.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Golden Crest to Enlarge Cyanide Mill---Cleopatra Company About to Make Good---Many Mining Deals Pending at Present.

Deadwood, S. D., July 20.—The Golden Crest Mining company is making arrangements to enlarge its cyanide mill to 200 tons daily capacity. The company has a mine five miles southeast of this city which has very high grade ore in some of the veins. The main ore vein is about eighteen feet in width and will average about $12 a ton in gold. A shaft has been sunk to the quartzite in the slates, where a strong vein of eighty dollar ore has been encountered. The stock of this company is held largely in Detroit.

A rival of the Homestake Mining company will soon be found in the Branch Mint company, which has nearly completed a mammoth syanide plant at Galena, near this city. This is the property that was floated in the East by Francis Grabel several years ago. Numerous bodies of ore were opened up by him and a stamp mill was erected, but it was found that the ore was not free milling and it could not be worked by the amalgamation process. James Hardin is president of the present company and over $60,000 has been raised to equip the different mines and install the cyanide process in the mill. The ore will be hauled from a narrow gauge railroad several miles in length which has been built by this company. About 18,000 tons of ore have already been broken down and stored in the bins for treatment. The reserve of ore in the different workings of the mines is unlimited and it carries a grade sufficiently high for good operations. This company contemplates extending its narrow gauge railroad into Deadwood. The mill will be in operation early this summer.

A number of very large mining deals are pending in the same district at the present time. There never was a time in the Black Hills when so many groups of mining claims were under bond with outside capitalists. Nearly all the mills in Lawrence county that were closed during the labor strike are again in operation and the Homestake company has had five mills out of six working on ore since the fire was put out.

South Dakota stockholders will be pleased to knew that the Cleopatra Mining company is about to make good. For some time past the company has been running a long tunnel cross-cutting the formation at a depth of 500 feet under the apex of the hill. The last 1,400 feet has cut through two well defined porphyry dikes five feet each in width and four strong vertical veins each four to ten feet in width, with the country rock surrounding well mineralized. This ore will run from $10 to $20 per ton in all the verticals, which is twice the value in the ore shoots which produced $28,073 when the mill worked several years ago. There are a number of vertical veins and porphyry dikes which outcrop ahead of the present long tunnel. These, it is expected, will also carry good ore. The company expects to sell the remainder of the bonds which were authorized by the stockholders in 1906. The stock is held almost exclusively by South Dakota people. The treasurer is A. S. Reed at Aberdeen, and the president is J. M. Lawson. R. P. Hughes, formerly attorney-general of South Dakota, now of Spearfish, is the general manager.

James Hardin, president of the Branch Mint Mining company, arrived from New York city. He states that the 500 ton cyanide plant in the Galena district will be in operation by the middle of this summer. About 18,000 tons of ore have been stored in the bins ready for milling. The company has equipped all the old shafts with hoists and is prepared to furnish the full capacity of the mill at the start. This is one of the largest mining deals ever put through in the Hills.

The Imperial company, which has recently acquired the control of the Dakota company, has announced to its stockholders that it will begin sinking the old Dakota shaft to quartzite in a short time. This shaft has already cut through one vertical of ore which was shipped to the Deadwood mill. When on quartzite it is expected that it will develop large quantities of high grade ore, and it will prove up the surrounding mines, such as the Imperial, Portland, Clinton and Reliance. It will be about 200 feet further to quartzite.

of several hundred feet has been attained without encountering the ledge.

At last reports the Mass had not reached the ledge with the diamond drill on the old Riddle farm. The work is moving along smoothly and while the depth of the overburden at the point of attack is an uncertain quantity, it is expected that hardpan will be reached very shortly. The drilling is being done under the supervision of Mr. Cole. Operations at the mine are moving along without interruption and the returns which are being secured are of quite a satisfactory nature. In common with all the other mines of the district the Mass could accomplish still more if it were not for the stringency in the labor market.

The Lake is getting the ground cleared for sinking a shaft on the Baltic formation. It is the purpose of the company to push the shaft down as rapidly as possible and it will be of a permanent nature. The sinking of this shaft will be watched with more interest than has ever been given to any other mining development in the county. While the drill cores show that the lode is well mineralized, the true character of the formation can only be ascertained by opening it with a shaft.

The output of the Victoria mine for June was ninety-three tons of mineral, lacking but two tons of equalling the banner record. Operations are moving along without a hitch and while there has been delay in securing additional stamping facilities, reserve ground is being opened right along and before the close of the present year the mine should show a material increase in its output. But even with this amount through its economical cost of mining and milling Victoria is steadily adding to its surplus.

The Kearsarge lode has not yet been uncovered at the Tamarack Mining company's Cliff property. The recent rumor which has been in circulation to the effect that the famous amygdaloid copper bearing formation had been located at that point is without foundation. The present point of active mining operations at the property is in the old South Cliff No. 1 shaft which is being put in shape as an avenue through which to develop all favorable ground in that vicinity. Should any of the lodes intercepted by this shaft warrant active mining on a large scale, permanent shafts will be put down on the incline of the formation.

According to all present geological data obtainable this shaft is more than a mile to the north of where the Kearsarge lode would likely cross the Tamarack holdings. Furthermore, while diamond drilling has been in progress at various points by the Tamarack company during the past year or two no drilling has been done for months anywhere near the supposed strike line of the Kearsarge amygdaloid formation. How the rumor gained credence is unknown but it was certainly not warranted by facts.

UTAH CO.'S BIG RECORD

the recent developments, the record of this mine should be considered quite satisfactory. The ore reserves warrant this amount for a regular dividend and the expectation of an increased distribution next year.

The conditions of the Boston Consolidated are improving every day. It seems almost impossible to say too much of developments in this great mine. The sulphide ores are piling up ahead of the capcity of the railroad. The overburden has been removed from a great body of theporphyry ore, and one of the steam shovels will be used on this ore and soon the great bins at the site of the concentrater will be filled ready for the grinding in the fall.

Excitement was aroused in American Fork last week by a strike in the Golden Cup mine at the head of Fort Canon. Samuel McCurdy of Alpine, who has been working the ground for five years, has opened up a large body of or ewhich assays $57 in gold, silver and lead. Besides the shipping ore, there are thousands of tons of milling ore on the dump.

Stockholders in the Newhouse Mines & Smelters company were disappointed when the directors at their meeting in New York fixed the first dividend, payable Aug. 21, at 50 cents a share, making a total of $300,000. The general expectation was that a rate would be fixed which would give stockholders $3 a share yearly.

EAST BUTTE SHOWING WELL

Butte-Milwaukee can escape striking a large flow in the Col. Sellers until it reaches the 500-foot mark, it can stand some moisture, for it intends to arrange for taking care of almost any quantity when it reaches that point. It may not get much until it taps the big vein south of the shaft.

The Butte & Bacor company is cutting its station at the 1,000-foot mark in the Calumet shaft and will not finish the job for a couple of weeks. It has cut out twenty-five feet on one side and twenty-three on the other, but there is still a lot of work to be done before a halt will be called on the station cutting.

The shaft on the Badger State has attained a depth of 430 feet and will be driven to the 500 before a station is cut. There is little water with which to contend.

The shaft on the Greenleaf is nearing the 900-foot mark. Both of these properties are owned by the Boston & Montana company. Sinking is also in progress at the Mountain View and West Colusa of this company and will not be finished until the former is to the 2,200, and the latter to the 2,000.

The Butte Copper company has resumed sinking on the Trifle shaft, a new pump having been installed at the 600-foot station. At the 1,000-foot point a crossut will be run to the vein.

W. D. Greenough, manager of the Snowstorm mine at Mullan, says the company will soon increase its divided rate. The company is getting about $89,000 a month from the smelters and is paying out in dividends $45,000 a month. The Snowsterm is shipping 400 tons of ore per day. The company is making many improvements, including the erection of a new bunk house and boarding house, at a cost of $50,000.

The Goldsmith Mining company has struck a rich body of ore in a winze from the 400-foot level, assays showing 225 ounces of silver and $75 in gold per ton. The Goldsmith has produced some fabulous silver and gold values, but its shoots of ore have never been very large.

The fans or blowers placed in the shaft of the Minnie Healy mine to throw the gas upward are working in fine shape, and are accomplishing the object for which they were installed. The blowers and blacksmiths are the only busy ones at the Minnie Healy. Two wooden stacks for carrying the gas into the atmosphere have been built from the collar of the shaft to a height of about ten feet, and through them the gas mixes in the air. The blowers are run by electricity and are kept in motion continuously.

Mining is in progress at the West Colusa, East Colusa and Leonard, and will be started in the lower levels of the Minnie Healy in a short time, if it is not already in progress. The gas is not going into the lower workings.

Diamond drilling, with a view of getting a stream or two of water on the source of the gas is still in progress. The holes are a short distance west of the dumn of the Gambetta mine and about 125 or 135 yards west of the Minnie Healy shaft. They will be driven to the point at which the fire is between the 600 and 700-foot levels in the west workings, a part of the property seldom visited by miners or others employed in the mine.

The last of the three big air compressors for use in the Leonard mine of the Boston & Montana company was started in the presence of a number of mechanics and others interested in seeing the big machine move off. It moved off all right, and in view of the fact that the air from it was going into the atmosphere outside of the building instead of into the lower levels of the mine, connections with the piping leading below not having been made, its cough was loud and lusty. The run was only a trial, but as soon as the pipe connections are made it will be ready for regular duty.

The three compressors will operate nearly 150 drills simultaneously. They occupy an entire building, and the latter is not small. All of the boilers at the Leonard are now in commission. There are eight in all, each of which has 250-horsepower, a total of 2,000 horsepower. These boilers will not only supply the Leonard engine with steam, but will play an important part in furnishing some of the other nearby plants with power when it is required.

The New Departure Mining company, which began active development work on its property, twelve miles from Dillon, only a few months ago, is making excellent headway. It is one of the few new Montana companies that have struck ore in paying quantities. It is composed principally of Butte men, and owns the property outright, having paid every cent due on it.

The company has finished sinking the new 100-foot shaft from the old tunnel level, and is breaking into the vein by way of the crosscut from the bottom. This practically finishes all of the development work originally mapped out, and from now until it becomes necessary to open additional reserves, which will probably be a long time, the extraction of ore will continue without interruption. The men who have been working in the crosscuts, raises and other places designed for ventilating the workings and giving free access to the ore have been put to work on ore. There are 10 or 11.

The New Departure mine is not one in which the ore is visible only in one place. It is in evidence in about twenty-five places, and is all good, the first-class running into the hundreds of dollars in silver per ton, in addition to which it carries copper and gold. Even the second-class runs high and the dump material pays. The dump is an old one, it having been accumulated by the original owner of the property.

passes, and it is so substantially built that apparently it will last for decades. Of an inside diameter of 14½ feet, the shaft is equipped with two skip-ways and a ladderway, and it contains as well the space required for the piping.

Sunk by sections, the shaft has been dropped eight feet at a time as the sand has been dredged up through a cylinder of steel, and at each stage concrete has been poured into and allowed to set in the space between the two forms attached to the steel shoe, creating thus the permanent walls. Little pumping has been required under the process adopted, the water being permitted to remain behind in the shaft, and the use of compressed air was unnecessary until the final stage of the work, when the air lock that had done duty at the Syracuse shaft was transferred to the Bangor and while the shaft was entering the strata of rock capping the ore body the water was expelled and held back by pneumatic pressure.

It was the first time—this work at the Lake Embarrass properties—that methods usually employed in submarine construction were made use of in the Lake Superior region, and the work has had much interest for mining men. A New York concern which makes a specialty of building pier foundations by a patented process has sunk the shafts. The cost of getting down to the ledge has been expensive at both mines, especially in view of the former and unsuccessful attempts, and the first ton of ore taken out when the deposits are opened up will represent a good-sized figure. However, the ore bodies are extensive, and will be profitably worked. They are adjacent to and extend under Lake Embarrass, the water from which, seeping through its banks into the adjoining area of sand, has been responsible for the conditions defying all ordinary methods of shaft sinking.

No little trouble of similar nature has been encountered at the new Kellogg mine of the New York State Street company, in the same vicinity, but the overburden here is not so thick nor so treacherous, and a shaft sunk by the drop system has successfully penetrated the ledge at a depth of some eighty feet. The Kellogg will be a producer this season, as will the same company's property in the Virgin district. Other Negaunee holdings of the company will be developed next year. So also will be the Charlotte mine, a property that Miller & Coates of Virginia, Minn., are exploring in the Hibbing district and which has already been found to contain a fine deposit of ore. There will, in fact, be a considerable number of properties brought to the producing stage during the coming twelve months, and there will be rivited of them. The production of Lake Superior ore will excel all past achievements this season; the feat will be duplicated in 1908, and for some years to come the output will steadily increase." This was the prediction made by D. G. Kerr, the ore agent of the United States Steel corporation, on his recent visit to the North country, and it is an opinion held generally in mining circles. It would cause no particular surprise were the 50,000,000 ton mark to be reached two seasons hence.

The mines in the Cascade district, a high-silica ore field five miles south of Negaunee, Marquette range, have not been as active this season as was expected. The Steel corporation's Moore property has been idle since a year ago last summer, and the Richmond, under control of the Consumers' Ore company, has not yet started to get out ore, though a force of about thirty men is employed in stripping the overburden. Last season over 100 men constituted the force, and shipments were continued all summer. The property is well equipped with machinery, which includes a new crusher installed early last season. At the late Senator Alger's Volunteer mine, which has been idle for several seasons, the remainder of the ore in stock, amounting to about 50,000 tons, will be forwarded this season by the Steel corporation, which last operated the property. The Volunteer tract is now being explored by Former Lieut. Governor Alexander Maitland of Negaunee and should the showing warrant he will reopen the mine. A diamond drill is employed. There is still much ore lo win iron and high in silica at the Volunteer that eventually will be mined, but just now deposits of mineral of better quality are being sought.

It is some fifteen miles south of the Cascade group that, in the Swanzey district, the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company is developing a number of new producers. No less than 450,000 tons of ore will come from these mines this season, and incidentally much headway will be made with the construction of the company's proposed "model town." Recently there was awarded a contract which calls for the clearing of 300 acres of land, the construction of seven miles of streets, the installation of seven miles of sewer pipe and the building of almost six miles of fencing. All this work is to be done by Jan. 1, next, by which time, it is expected, some two score of houses will have been erected. A number of miners, Italians for the most part, have recently left the Swanzey district and have gone to Tennessee to enter the employ of the Tennessee Copper company. While the wages are approximately the same, the climate in Dixie is considered more congenial by these sons of Sunny Italy.

Underground operations at the Jones & Laughlin Steel company's new Rolling Mill mine at Negaunee have been hampered because of the expected striking of a "vug" in one of the lower levels. The inrush of the water was slow, but sufficiently heavy in volume to drive out the men, and the pumps were hard pressed for a time to keep the workings from being flooded. Coincident with the tapping of the vug and the draining of the mine, most of the wells and springs in that portion of the city went dry, causing inconvenience to many families.

Harry T. Hulst, formerly of Milwaukee has been appointed chief engineer of the Steel corporation's Marquette range mines, succeeding Andre Formis, who recently accepted the general superintendency of a copper property on the Keewenaw peninsula. Mr. Hulst has been a member of the company's corps of mining engineers at Ishpeming for a number of years. The Steel corporation is testing the mineralized ground in the very heart of Ishpeming, and now has a diamond drill in commission directly at the rear of the city hall. Similar deep exploration is being conducted by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company. These two concerns are the biggest operators in the field, and they are already mining ore beneath the city and have been for years, in fact.

A new shaft is to be sunk at Corrigan, McKinney & Co.'s Tobin mine at Crystal Falls, Menominee range. It will go down at a point to the south of the present workings, and it is estimated that a year's time will be required before it is in readiness for production. With the new shaft in commission, operations will be largely abandoned in the present workings.

ELY FORGES AHEAD RAPIDLY

the average value of the ore being $120. It was rumored on the street here during the week that New York investors had secured a controlling interest in the stock of the Jumbo Extension, but the rumor cannot be confirmed here.

The Little Florence started up its new sixty-horsepower hoist, that was installed to replace the fifteen-horsepower engine, over the Mohawk Florence shaft last Tuesday and is now hoisting about sixty-five tons a day, the ore running between $200 and $300 to the ton. It is expected that the output of the lense will be increased to at least 100 tons a day within a week or ten days. Ore has been opened up in three new places in the slopes during the last week in the north and south drifts and in the bottom of the winze which has been dropped twenty feet below the 250-foot level. Each of the three ore bodies is two or three feet wide and carry good shipping values.

The Little Florence shaft is down 318 feet and is going down at the rate of six feet a day. A crosscut will be driven from the 368-foot point, to cut the Little Florence vein, 100 feet below where it has been opened up on the Mohawk Florence ground.

The sub-lease of the Mohawk Florence on the Little Florence block, has discontinued work temperarily, as all the ore that is to be taken out on this piece of ground is below the 250-foot level, and can be handled with greater facility when the crosscut from the Little Florence at the 368-foot level is completed.

The Higginson lease on the Gold Wedge claim of the Jumbo Extension has practically ceased shipping, pending the completion of the shaft, which is being dropped from the 250-foot level to 300 feet. The ledge is dipping back and turning slightly and the manager expects to cut it again in the shaft. If it is not encountered in fifty feet, a crosscut will be driven to catch it. The air compressor plant is in commission and four machine drills are being worked. It is the intention also to use machine drills on the 275 and 300-foot levels. While sinking is going on development work is being vigorously prosecuted on the upper levels and the ore bodies are being stopped preparatory for an increased output as soon as the shaft is completed.

Goldfield Consolidated is reported to be going into large bodies of the picture ore under the Hays-Monnette workings. It is said to be lifting from the 250-foot level quantities of rock from an eight-foot face that samples $3,400 per ton. Soon there will be 400 men employed on the Ish-Sheets and Kalfus leases on the combination and Mohawk ground of the Consolidated company. This leasing company is being organized as the Mohawk-Combination Leasing company. Shafts are being sunk and drifts run upon ore that is daily improving in value. The company expects to take out $25,000 daily when the work can be pushed to advantage. The expectation is that during the six months life of the lease the earnings will reach $4,250,000.

The Daisy mine is to erect reduction works as soon as experiment teaches the best method of treatment of Daisy ores. The main shaft is down 260 feet and much lateral development has been done.

Vernon, Nev., July 20.—The mines of Seven Troughs district have been shut down since the first of the month because of labor troubles and high grading. The miners demanded an increase of pay and the operators shut down. Immediately after four miners were arrested for stealing ore. These men have confessed and 110 pounds of ore worth $100 a pound, stolen from the Fairview mine, has been recovered. It is believed that more than $100,000 worth of ore has been stolen in all. The operators of the district will insist on the establishment of change rooms before operations are resumed. They will probably concede increase of pay.

Tonopah, Nev., July 20.—According to S. D. Pepin of Lee, Nev., who is in the city, his section of the country gives every indication of bringing forward a number of producers before the end of the year.

Eighteen hoists have been ordered for the camp and some of large and strictly modern type. The Ash Meadows company has practically assured the people of Lee that they will have plenty of water for both milling and domestic use, and that a 12-inch main will be running through Lee to Bullfrog by the first of the year. So far as transportation is concerned, the Tonopah & Tidewater Railroad will be within one and one-half miles of Lee within two months and will run a spur into the town, which now has fully 400 residents.

TREATMENT OF COBALT ORES

lished principles, which is herewith submitted:

"The ores should be sorted," he says, "and the metallic silver separated for direct smelting by cupellation with lead or melted in crucibles and poured into bars to be sold to refiners. The ore should be ground in a dust-proof ball mill to such a fineness that it can be accurately sampled.

"The ground ore should be roasted in a suitable furnace to expel the arsenic and sulphur. The gases from this roaster should pass through a long sheet-iron dust chamber to cool it, and then be passed through a bag house, where all the dust and volatilized arsenic will be recovered.

"The roasted ore should then be briquetted with a strong bond of red clay and lime water and dried or frozen, after which it should be smelted in a blast furnace with about an equal weight of galena or lead concentrates containing about 50 to 60 per cent lead. The necessary iron and lime would have to be added to the charge to produce a slag of the proper composition.

"The sulphur for matte formation would be supplied by the galena, and the arsenic remaining in the ore will form some speiss. The base bullion resulting from this smelting to be sold to lead refiners, or refined to separate the silver.

"As regards the percentage of metals that could be recovered by all these various smeltings and resmeltings, it is not possible to make any statement based on actual results. The smelters who bought these ores have not seen fit to give out any information, but the fact that they have allawed nothing for nickel, cobalt, or arsenic is significant. To make even an attempt at a partial recovery of each of the metals looks like a long, tedious process, and the most complicated, from a metallurgical standpoint, that has been presented for solution. Under these conditions any association of miners atempting to smelt their own ores is hardly likely to succeed."

It will be noted from these remarks that the success of this new process means a new era for the Cobalt camp in the way of receiving an income from ores that are now yielding nothing.

GREATER SMELTER CAPACITY

companies have all so far resulted in hung juries, though in one case eleven of the jury were for conviction. The companies now have forces at work equal to the number of men employed when the Western Federation organizers ordered the strike in April. The Copper Queen has more men at work than when the strike was called. Except for a few meddlesome pickets now holding forth at Lowell, there is no evidence of the labor striking remaining.

During the week it was announced by the Western Federation that a union was to be organized at Douglas to be composed of the men at work in the smelters, but the best advices from that city is to the effect that the smeltermen are not taking much stock in the men who come to the Warren district and made such a miserable failure. The results in Bisbee are well known in Douglas, and it is not believed that the men at work there will give any encouragement to the agitators.

The best evidence of the fact that the Warren district has completely recovered from the futile attempt of the Western Federation of Miners to gain a foothold in the district, is that the pay days on the 10th and 12th of this month were the largest that have been had for fourteen months past. At the Copper Queen alone more than 2,200 men drew their checks, and all of the other companies report more men at work than at any time during the past twelve months.

Phoenix, Ariz., July 20.—Emil Holden, one of the many mining men who now make Phoenix their headquarters, is about to close a deal at Wickenburg for the sale of the Devine group in the Sunset district, near Wickenburg, to Nevada capitalists.

J. M. Day and J. F. Wall representing Senator Jones of Nevada and others, were recently at the Devine property to make an examination and will return within the next few weeks to investigate further. Though the deal has not been closed, it is practically assured that it will be.

Wall and Day gathered several samples from the ledges on the Devine property, and had assays made. The results showed from $65 to $70 free gold to the ton and between 15 and 25 per cent copper. The claims have been worked for the last twelve years by the Devine brothers.

Mansfield, Ariz., July 20.—The Mansfield Copper company is just now meeting with very marked success in the development of that portion of its acreage known as the "Lee" claim. The shaft on this claim has reached a depth of 210 feet and a vein of 20 feet in width has been demonstrated, carrying both shipping and milling ore. In all there are four distinct veins in this ground. Extensive cross-cutting has been accomplished, while tunnel operations have exposed enormous quantities of black copper sulphides. The values avergae at least 5 per cent in copper, with a good amount of silver. It is stated that the ores in the Lee claim alone are sufficient to supply a large mill for an indefinite period; and the company reports that its operations on other parts of its properties are meeting with equal or even greater success.

Mayer, Ariz., July 20.—Heavy shipments of mining machinery for points in the mountains and at some distance from the railroad are usually costly, besides requiring considerable time for hauling. This fact, however, has not deterred enterprising operators from entering upon extensive development operations even in remote sections; and no disposition is manifest to await the coming of the promised railroad facilities before installing equipments adequate to the requirements of their properties. The copper camps throughout the district are reporting rapid progress, especially the mines at Copper Creek. The latest machinery equipment to arrive at Cordes Siding was for the Sunset group, and included air drills, boiler, compressor, hoist, pump and ore cars. These are now being hauled to the camp for immediate installation.

Winkelman, Ariz., July 20.—The intentions of the management of the Two Queens group of gold-copper mines to push forward development operations with the least possible delay are evident in the latest invoice of mining machinery ordered from Los Angeles. The equipment has already been shipped, and includes a 25-horse power gasoline hoist with pipe and fittings, steel hoisting rope, ore buckets and all other material necessary for the operation of a complete, modern plant. The roadway to the mines is now being put in the best of repair to be in readiness for the hauling of the machinery immediately upon its arrivel in Winkelman, Aug 1. It has been the policy of the management to order their supplies only after ascertaining by actual development operations their exact requirements; and it is the general impression among local mining men that there is no longer any question as to the gold values to be obtained from the Two Queens, with copper values increasing with depth. As to recent progress, it is stated that shaft No. 1 is down 217 feet, or sixty feet below the tunnel level; and that shaft No. 4 has reached a depth of 155 feet, with a crosscut of twenty-six feet toward the vein. This crosscut is expected to cut the big vein at any hour; and according to surface indications on this vein some very important results are anticipated. The financing of this company was successfully completed a number of weeks ago.

one of the mines before the strike, were met by strikers, taken to headquarters, fed and housed, and free transportation was given to them to North Bay on the morning train. All joined the union, and those who had not $5 received cards marked "dues unpaid." They will pay them on their next job, or the union will know the reason.

It is authoritatively stated that the strikers are subject to heavy fine and imprisonment under the provisions of the Lemieux labor act, recently passed by the government. This act declares it unlawful either for workmen to strike or for owners to declare a lockout without first giving notice and making an honest effort to arbitrate. In Cobalt the strikers went out without notice and even without presenting their grievances to the managers.

In Ontario there appears to be very little disposition to allow a foreign organization like the Western Federation to step in and dictate. Every one hopes for a speedy adjustment of the strike, but even more ardently do they desire decisive results which will settle the question of the control of mining in the Cobalt field once for all.

The physical condition of the camp yas never so satisfactory. The record of the first six months of 1907 shows shipments of 6,431 tons of ore, valued at $4,900,000, as against 5,150 tons for the year 1906, valued at $3,500,000.

Kelliher

Kelliher, Minn., July 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Logan of Grand Rapids, Minn., is in the city looking over Beltrami county and incidentally making a few investments.

Charles E. Reeves, M. D., of Clarissa, Minn., has purchased the local hospital of J. W. Murray and has remodeled it throughout and will immediately open it to the public.

William Burce and wife, formerly Miss Rose Miller, have returned from their wedding trip and are at home to their many friends at their home west of the village. Mr. Burce is the superintendent of the Beltrami Timber company and his wife is one of Kelliher's most popular and prominent young ladies.

Kelliher has had an architect on the grounds the past few days making plans for the new city hall and jail the town will erect this summer. The building will be two stories with full basement and will be built of pressed brick. The first floor will be used as a justice court, constables' room and as a fire apparatus hall, the jail will be in the rear and will be large, roomy and very modern. The second floor will be given over to a town clerk's office and to a public hall. The town and village will unite in advertising for bids on the structure during the next few days and it is planned to have the building completed by the time the road across the great Shotley swamp is finished when a big celebration will be held in the village. The road across the Shotley swamp has been talked about for the past three years, but it has remained for the present town board to build it. Shotley township is populated with about 500 settlers and those settlers are cooped up during the summer months and have no outlets to the towns. They live ten to twelve miles from Kelliher, but are unable to reach here owing to the big swamp and to get to a town they must spend two days to reach Bemidji, one day on Red lake and over one night at Redby, then one day's travel over the Red Lake railroad to Bemidji but with the building of the road through Shotley swamp these people can come to Kelliher and return home in one day. The road will follow the state ditch and will be in the shape of an embankment, on the one side will be the big state ditch eight feet wide and ten feet deep, on the other side will be the town ditch which will be about four feet wide and deep enough to keep the embankment thoroughly dry. Last year the township sold bonds for road purposes and part of it will be expended on this road.

The town of Kelliher is not settled as yet as the Lumber companies hold the lands and refuse to sell but the towns around are thickly populated and Kelliher is their nearest points. The Kelliher Battle road will soon be finished. This road is about five miles in length and gives the settlers to the west a fine piece of road. The road is thirty feet wide, is free from stumps, roots and stone, is fully graded and though not yet finished the contractors expect to have it ready for Sept. 1, 1907. The road is high and dry, is perfectly smooth and one can drive over it in the lightest rig at a good gate. There is not such another piece of road in the county, except west of Shevlin and Solway, where the road crosses the Battle river. Steel bridges are being erected by the Hennepin Bridge company.

The Kelliher Journal and Postmaster Schusser are uniting to build a new printing shop and postoffice building on Gould avenue and when completed the Journal will have a large roomy modern home and the postoffice will have quarters the equal of any thing this side of Brainerd.

Henry Pfund has moved his household effects from St. Paul and is now at home in his new house on Third street and Clark avenue.

The Bank of Kelliher has decided to incorporate as a state bank and hereafter will be known as the First State bank. The capital will be $10,000. The officers and directors will be F. P. Sheldon, president; W. H. Roberts, vice president, and J. W. Murray, cashier.

A. A. Smith will reopen the Craig hotel Sept. 1, and will keep it open to the public hereafter. The house has been closed the biggest part of the summer and has been a very severe blow to the village, it being the only hotel in town. There is an elegant opening here for a good hotel man, and it is generally understood that the town site company will donate the building lots to the party who will erect a good modern hotel thereon.

While other towns along the M. and I. railway are feeling the effects of the tightening up of the cedar market Kelliher is still doing business and all the cedar companies hereabouts are doing as much work if not mbore than a year ago. There are every indications of a very good winter as the new mill of Bemidji will operate around here this winter to get their season's logs and their holdings are very large here both in this town and surrounding towns.

Banker J. W. Murray, accompanied by his wife and daughters, spent Thursday in Bemidji.

The Doctor Away from Home When Most Needed.

People are often very much disappointed to find that their family physician is away from home when they most need his services. Diseases like cramp colic and cholera morbus require prompt treatment, and have in many instances proven fatal before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. The right way is to keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. No physician can prescribe a better medicine for these diseases. By having it in the house you escape much pain and suffering and risk. Buy it now; it may save life. For sale by all druggists.

VISIT OF THE WOLVERINE RECALLS BOLD PLAN OF CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS

Duluth Man Relates Interesting Incident of Civil War.

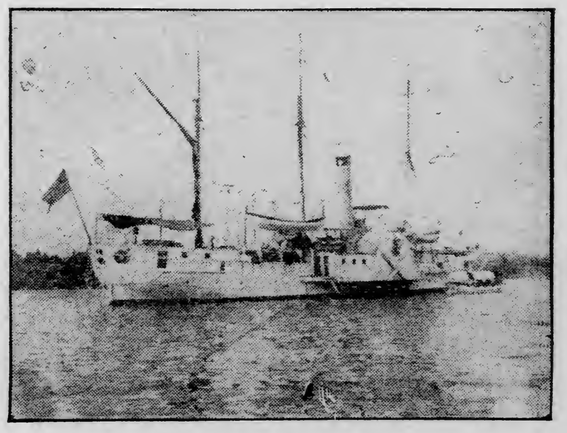

Confederates Attempted to Capture Vessel and Sweep Lakes.

Would Have Released 20,000 Soldiers From Federal Prison.

Plan Failed Only Because of Treachery of One Man.

D. H. ROSS.

U. S. S. WOLVERINE.

The visit which the United States ship Wolverine, formerly the Michigan, will make to this harbor July 23, in search of recruits for the navy, has attracted widespread interest among the people at the Head of the Lakes by reason of the history that the famous old war vessel of the Great Lakes has and because of her present mission.

There is residing in Duluth at the present time, however, a man to whom the visit of the old warship will be of the highest interest, because it will recall to him memories and old associations of forty-three years ago when, as one of the ring-leaders of a band of twenty-two Confederate soldiers and sympathizers, he set out on an expedition from Canada with the purpose of capturing the Michigan, and with the Michigan to capture everything afloat in Sandusky harbor and on the Great Lakes, carrying destruction to navigation and all the lake ports and dealing a crushing blow to the Yankees, for the Confederate cause.

This man is D. H. Ross, who has made his home here for some time past and who is one of the survivors of a band of men who, had they succeeded, would have been immortalized in the lost cause.

D. H. Ross enlisted in the Eighth Georgia regiment and was captured at Knoxville, Tenn., in 1864, when Longstreet charged Fort Saunders and there ensued one of the bloodiest conflicts of the Civil war.

Mr. Ross was taken to the federal prison at Rock Island, Ill., from which place only six Confederate prisoners ever escaped during the war. One of these was Mr. Ross, who, on the evening of Sept. 8, 1864, eluded the guards, swam and waded the Mississippi river to Rock Island, where he found friends that were willing to assist him to escape. With the aid he received he was able to make his way unmolested, through Detroit to Windsor, Can., where he met Jacob Thompson, the Confederate agent. The two men, with others, concocted the daring scheme of establishing Confederate supremacy on the Great Lakes.

Among the men who managed the expedition was John Y. Beall.

Had Bold Plan.

The scheme was to first capture the steamer Michigan, which then had Johnson's Island, a federal prison, under surveillance, release the 20,000 Confederate prisoners on the island, enter Sandusky harbor, capture the ships lying there, use the vessels captured and sweep the Great Lakes.

It was one of the most daring plans ever conceived by desperate men on either side during the Civil war, and, but for the betrayal of the party by one of the sailors implicated, it might have been carried out.

The expedition embarked on the steamer Philo Parsons, as passengers, with the intention of capturing the boat at a perconcerted signal and laying it alongside the Michigan. The latter vessel was to be taken by surprise. With the Michigan captured the men in charge of the expedition figured that they would have, practically, entire command of the situation, as the war vessel carried eighteen guns in those days.

Their plans, however, miscarried. While the Parsons was taking on wood at the dock of the Island Queen, one of the big passenger boats of the early days, the Island Queen tied up, and the Confederates, having already captured the Parsons, took possession of the passenger boat with her load of 170 Union soldiers and officers, and passengers that swelled the total to about 300 persons.

The alarm had been given, however, by one of the number who betrayed his comrades, and the Confederates determined to destroy the Parsons and Island Queen and then make a run for their lives. The two boats were taken out into Lake Erie and sunk, the twenty-two men leaving the vessels in small boats with a view of seeking escape on the principle of each man for himself. All night the boats skurried about under the cover of darkness, with the Michigan in pursuit.

Mr. Ross and some of his companions were finally able to make a landing in Detroit, where they scattered.

Although in the midst of enemies who would not have hesitated at hanging him to the nearest lamp post, had they suspected his identity, Mr. Ross spent a little time in Detroit riding around on the street cars and witnessing the tremendous excitement that the daring attempt of the Confederates had caused.

Leaped From Train.

Finally, deciding that things were getting too warm in Detroit, and fearing that the detectives were getting on his trail rather too close for comfort, Mr. Ross went across the river to Windsor, and from that point started to make his way in a round-about way to the Confederate states again. After leaving Windsor, and while riding on the train, he had reason to suspect that two detectives were watching him, having been attracted by the creaking of his revolver holsters, carried at his hip. The holsters were new and creaked like a new harness. Discovering that the men behind were putting their hands down the back of his seat in an effort to find out if he were armed, Mr. Ross arose, walked out on the platform and leaped from the train, although it was running at a speed which he estimated at from 30 to 35 miles per hour. Shaken up by his experience and hunted by her majesty's officers, for Ross had violated the treaty between the United States and Great Britain, and there was a reward of £250 on his head, he finally managed to reach the coast, after traveling for some 400 miles through the wilds of New Brunswick, without a stop, day or night.

The steamer Col. Lamb, the finest and fastest Confederate blockade runner, was in port getting a cargo and Mr. Ross was fortunate enough to secure passage on her by the payment of $350 in gold. The boat was five weeks out from Halifax and got to within forty miles of Wilmington, but the lines were too well patrolled and she had to run on to Nassau. Mr. Ross remained at Nassau for about five weeks when he ran the blockade at Wilmington and made his way back to Richmond and rejoined the Confederate troops, being present at Lee's surrender at Appomatox courthouse. He realized, before he re-entered the Confederacy, that it was doomed, after he had witnessed the prosperous condition of the North, but was determined to stick by his colors until the last.

By reason of his act a charge of piracy hung over Mr. Ross' head, following the war, and until Grant's second administration when he was able, through the influence of powerful friends, to secure a pardon.

John Y. Beall, who led the expedition was, so far as Mr. Ross ever heard, the only one of the party that was captured. Beall was hung on Governor's island in New York harbor, a place that Mr. Ross visited since the war and saw the spot where the leader was executed.

In the years that have passed since the close of the great struggle between the North and the South Mr. Ross has visited the campfires and reunions of his once former foes on many occasions and the events have always been pleasant ones.

He rarely refers to the expedition with which he was connected but, in view of the visit that the Michigan is about to make here and the lapse of time since he last saw the famous old iron war vessel, he consented to tell a Herald representative the story of his connection with it.

ELKS TO CEASE WEARING TEETH

Until Committee Reports on Slaughter of Game for Trophies.

Philadelphia, July 20.—The grand lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks closed its business sessions yesterday and the convention that has drawn thousands of visitors to this city is at an end. A feature of the proceeding in the grand lodge's session was the discussion of the movement to prevent the slaughter of Elk that their teeth might be secured for emblems. A committee was appointed to investigate the matter and a resolution calling upon members of the order to cease wearing Elks' teeth as emblems until the committee returns its report, was passed after a warm debate.

Before adjourning the lodge elected Col. Albert J. Holley of Hackensack, N. J., grand trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John D. O'Shea.

Judge Henry Melvin, the retiring grand exalted ruler, was presented at the session with a handsome portrait of himself. The portrait was the gift of the Philadelphia lodge.

Prior to the regular session a memorial meeting was held at which an eulogy of Grand Trustee John D. O'Shea was delivered by William J. O'Brien, past exalted ruler of Baltimore.

The committee on contests and awards late last night announced the following:

Lodges making best appearance in line—First prize, $300, Toledo; second prize, $150, Detroit; third prize, $100, El Paso.

Lodges appearing in uniform—First prize, $300, El Paso; second prize, $150, Akron; third prize, $100, Boston.

Lodges displaying the most attractive float—First prize, $300, Cincinnati; second prize, $200, Asbury Park; third prize, $100, Orange, N. J.

ATTORNEYS ASK SPEEDY ACTION

In the Matter of Hearings by Masters in the Eddy Case.

Concord, N. H., July 20.—Streeter & Holds, attorneys for Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, filed with the superior court, yesterday a prayer for speedy action in the matter of hearings by masters and to the terms of their commission and a motion that the masters consider instead of the questions stated by the court, the question of the validity of the trust deed executed by Mary Baker G. Eddy, March 6.

The objection is in addition to others previously filed by the same counsel. They say the court had no power to order an inquiry into Mrs. Eddy's competency for such period "prior to March 6, as may seem reasonable to inquiry," and they object to the terms of the commission on these grounds:

First, that the appointees named as masters are required to exercise the powers, jurisdiction and legal duties of referees in actions.

Second, that the report of the appointees will be a final finding of faces and not a report of the master for the guidance of the chancellor.

Third, that the apointees are required to proceed as in the trial of an action and to hear testimony of all witnesses that may be heard on either side and not to make inquiries in their discretion touching the competency of Mrs. Eddy to manage her financial affairs.

Fourth, that the commissioner authorized the "next friends" to appear and prosecute as parties litigant to that extent controlling the course of the hearings.

Fifth, that the determination of the questions required by the commission are not according to the courts of equity.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS' PAGE

Boy or girl, don't think that because your pet dog is a dog that he can "eat any old thing and sleep in any old place," for dogs are most sensitive animals and should have care and kind consideration from their young masters and mistresses. There is no truer friend than a good dog, and he should always have the best of treatment.

If you have no clean, snug place in a big barn or outhouse for doggie's bed, then you must of necessity build him a little house all to himself. And you must see to it that doggie's house is kept in neat order. And his food should be good, wholesome and in plenty, fed to him from a clean pan or dish. Doggie's drinking vessel should be kept clean and full of fresh water. During the summer months give him fresh cold water every hour or two. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, as goes the old adage, and if you will observe this rule your dog will not get sick during the hot season. And remember that a dog needs —and loves—water on the outside as well as on the inside. So see that he has his baths. If you have a swimming place in the river or pond take your four-footed chum along and watch him enjoy desporting in the water.

A dog seems born to comrade a boy; indeed, no boy's life is complete without a dog for a chum. And it is not always the fine-blooded dog that makes the best pet or learns the rarest tricks. The writer has seen the poorest little mongrel strays taken in hand by loving boys, fed, caressed and trained until they became most valued little pets and most affectionate friends.

Never keep your pet dog tied up; it is cruel. If during the dog days he shows symtoms of illness call in some older person to look him over and prescribe a course of treatment—which in the cases of well fed and watered dogs is always simple. Unless it is thought absolutely necessary to tie up or muzzle doggie during those scarecrow days called the "dog-days" allow him all liberty, for often the rope, chain or muzzle will make the dog, so used to sweet freedom of action, quite ill and restless, thus creating a sort of panic among his two-footed friends to whom he cannot appeal in any way save by barking, whining and fighting against his restraint.

But too much caution cannot be observed in the matter of allowing your pet dog to run about with every four-footed Tom, Dick and Harry that happens to come prowling around during the very hot weather, for a fight—which is liable to occur between the pet and the tramp—might result in something serious, for dog bites—even when in dog flesh—might prove very troublesome if not dangerous.

A BATTLE WITH POP BALLS.

BY CHARLES LINCOLN PHIFER.

"Tell us a story, Grandpa."

The children had gathered about his chair just before they were to take the Special for Slumberland, and claimed the story as their right. Grandpa had been vanquished so often before by them when they demanded a story and he had tried to avoid telling one, that this time he surrendered without a word.

"What shall it be about, children?" he asked.

"Oh, a true story, Grandpa," replied Edith.

"Something about yourself, some great adventure," exclaimed Paul, who imagined that Grandpa's life, being long, must of necessity have been full of adventure.

"Shall I tell you about a battle with pop weeds?"

"Just the thing," answered Paul, who delighted in hearing about battles.

But Edith asked, "What is a pop weed?"

"The pop weed, my child, is a peculiar product of the prairies of Dakota. It used to grow in great profusion; for, although the Indians had pitched battles with it, their method of combatting it tended to spread rather than retard its growth. It may be said that the pop weed always won in its battles with the Indians. But when the white man came, he adopted another method of combatting it, and by carefully gathering the seed just before it ripened and burning it, has won such a victory that the pop weed is rather a rarity now where once it was a terror. But while this was a more successful method than the Indians pursued, it was neither as picturesque or as painful as a battle with the pop weed which I saw the Indians wage in an early day."

"But what is the pop weed?" persisted Edith.

"Sure enough, I was forgetting that," answered Grandpa. "The pop weed, children, is a very peculiar plant. It grows with a stalk and a head somewhat resembling a cabbage. But the 'head' is solid, covered with a sort of skin that in color and shape resembles a hubbard squash. The seed of the plant are shut up within this ball and are fine spires that, when they strike one, penetrate the flesh like a needle. The winds of autumn loosened these pop balls from the stalk, and they went rolling over the prairies until they struck a gully or uneven ground, and there they lodged, often piling up into great drifts, behind which buffalos and cattle hid for protection from the wind in the early days. The pop weed is safe enough so long as it is not in motion, but when it is being rolled along by a strong wind, if it strikes an obstruction so as to give it a resounding blow, it flies to pieces with a sharp pop, and a cloud of the spires fly in all directions. They shoot into the flesh of any animal that happens to be within range and cling and irritate for many days. It is the plant's device for propagating itself and for getting carried into new territory, and it is certainly most effective. But the spines of the pop weed are anything but pleasant to the creatures that are made the common carriers of them against their wills. Cattle will flee in terror before a rolling pop ball, because they have learned by experience how painful they may become."

"And do the Indians fight the pop weed?" asked Paul, anxious to get at once to the exciting part of the story.

"They used to hold pitched battles with the pop weed once a year; but Indians are not so plentiful now as in the early days, and the custom has passed out with the passing of the red men. When I was in Dakota in the sixties, I attended one of these battles, for it was made a festival by the Indians. The object of it was to prove the hardihood and endurance of the Indian boys. Hundreds of Indians and white people were gathered on a great plain, and a mass of pop balls were piled at one side of the plain, in charge of some of the braves. Near the other end of the field were about a dozen Indian boys, ranging in age from 10 to 15 years, all stripped naked except for moccasins and breech cloths. However, each of them carried a blanket on his arm. A brisk wind was blowing from the pile of pop balls toward the boys. When all was in readiness, a dozen pop balls were thrown lightly forward, and, gathering the wind, they went rolling toward the boys, gaining constantly in speed. The youngsters advanced to meet them, each bearing a club, and each trying to cover himself with the blanket. As the pop balls came within range, the boys dealt them blows with the clubs, causing them to explode and scatter their spires in a cloud of minute arrows. In spite of the blankets with which the youths tried to protect themselves, hundreds of the spires shot into their flesh, and in the fierce glare of the sun they must have given intense pain. However, the game was for the purpose of proving the endurance of future warriors, and again a volley of balls was swept toward them, again they struck and exploded them, again the smoke of tiny arrows enveloped them, and now blood was sweeping from a thousand minute wounds on the faces and bodies of the small braves. Then came a third onslaught of the tumbling bombs and a fourth. It was too much for most of the contestants, who deserted the ranks of the fighters and came forward for treatment, covered with gore. By this time the blankets were so full of the pop weed needles that they were no protection, but, any way they might be donned, sent little arrows into the flesh of the youth. One of the boys threw his blanket aside and stood forth to meet the next onslaught, practically naked; then another, and another, until all were stripped for the final contest. An unusually large number of balls were loosed for this final test of endurance, and the usually stolid Indians grunted with approval as they saw the boys preparing to meet their enemy without a shield."

"Grandpa, what became of the boys who had deserted?" asked Paul.

"They had missed the prize."

"And what was the prize?"

"Some trifle at the time, but ultimately it meant that they had proven themselves unworthy to become chieftains; for, you know, that savage people place great stress on the power to withstand pain."

"Well, the boys rushed at those approaching pop balls with something like frenzy. Each of the three still on the ground seemed intent on smashing the most balls. For a time the reports of the exploding balls sounded like an American observance of July 4th, and the flying arrows looked like smoke. Half the time the youths were hidden in the clouds of spires by which they were enveloped. When at last the pop balls had all been met and exploded, and the boys came limping and staggering to the neighborhood of the lookerson, they were indeed red men, being covered with blood from head to foot. And which of the three who endured to the end of the battle do you suppose received the first prize?"

"The one who was bloodiest," I suppose, answered Paul.

"It would have been hard to decide which was the bloodier," resumed Grandpa, "for all were badly wounded in the onesided battle; for you must remember the pop balls only furthered their naturnl purposes of propagation as they were exploded. I suppose that in this battle over a hundred acres had been hopelessly seeded with the pests. But there was another test left that was to determine which was the winner of the novel battle. The exertion in the fierce heat of the last part of the battle had caused the youths to perspire freely, and now the pain from their wounds was well-nigh unendurable. Two of the boys could stand it no longer, but put themselves in the hands of their friends to have the small arrows picked from their flesh one by one and to be rubbed with a salve which the Indians had prepared in advance. The third proudly declined this assistance but walked forth bearing still the arrows until nature should cast them out by festering. They say he came nearly dying, and for many days was a loathsome sight with his body filled with sores. But at last he recovered, all marked with the irritating wounds, and became a recognized leader, a candidate for chieftainship. Of course, children, these crude people had missed the wiser way, because in trying to conquer the pop weed they had really given it, through lack of wisdom, the power of conquering their land, and then, they were exposing themselves to pain and danger unnecessary, which is certainly foolish, yet the endurance they developed was a great quality and I need hardly tell you that the youth who won the honors in this contest afterward won wide reputation as a warrior. You would recognize him as a terror to the white people if I should mention his name."

"Why, who was he, Grandpa?" inquired Paul.

And Grandpa said: "He was afterward known as Sitting Bull."

"Shall I tell you about a battle with pop weeds?"

The Heroic Doll.

BY NORA ARDENE.

Edna and Selma were having tea in the shade of the old apple tree. Play tea, it was. In reality the menu was sliced apples, uncooked and decidedly unripe, and water. Edna, the visitor, the guest of honor, held a new wax doll, elegantly gowned, and anon she would instruct the young lady as to the proper table manners. Selma, the hostess, had a doll on a chair by her side, but it was far from new. The fact is, Arabella May had been left out doors all night in the spring by her fond, but rather forgetful, mother, and the hard rain that had fallen had washed all color from her face and loosened the glue that held her hair in place, so that she was totally bald, with a great hole in the back of her head, and with pallid lips and cheeks.

"Arabella May is not at all well," explained Selma. "The poor dear took such a frightful cold the night I forgot and locked her out in the rain."

"You careless woman," exclaimed Edna. "You surely didn't leave that delicate child out in the rain all night?"

"Isn't it a shame!" cried Selma, catching Arabella May in her arms and giving her a good hug.

"And to think that the sweet little dear braved those dangers all alone in the night, and proved herself a hero."

"You mean a shero, of course," corrected Edna. "Tell us all about it, just as she told it to you."

By "us" Edna meant to include her own doll. There are people who say dolls cannot talk unless they have a phonographic attachment, but little girls know better. They understand their dolls, just as mothers understand the goo-goos of their babies, that to the average man mean nothing.

"Now sit still, Sweet Marie," continued Edna, as she carefully arranged her own bright doll by her side. "See what a shero Arabella May proved herself to be, and try if you can to be like her. Only do be careful and don't get your paint washed off," she added as an afterthought.

"Yes, the poor dear was so frightened when she awakened and found herself out doors and it was dark, began Selma. "But what could she do? There she had to lie all alone while the thunder was rattling and the lightning rolling up the sky—just like grandma wrinkles her forehead—and lights everything in a flash, and the wind stirred the trees and made the leaves sound just like whispering, while the long limbs bent down like they were alive and wanted to get Arabella May. The poor child was frightened out of her wits, but, though she tried to call me, she says she couldn't utter a word."

"How the little thing must have suffered!" exclaimed Edna in a sympathetic voice.

"To make it all the worse," continued the Little Mother, "the wind shook leaves down on Arabella May, and something (it may have been a rat) ran right over her face. Aren't you afraid of rats?"

"Dreadfully," assented Edna.

"Then the rain began. There that little child lay all alone in the dark, while the big drops pattered on her, and while the limbs were reaching down as if to grab her and the thunder was booming."

Selma wiped her eyes. The Little Mother was crying.

"Then the dear child could hear the cries of others who were distressed by the storm, and she didn't know but that the whole world was being destroyed. She had never been out all night before, and it seemed to her it must be worse than Jonah's flood. [She meant Noah, of course, but little errors like that must be overlooked.] The little chickens were peeping, and the old hen was clucking, and Arabella May said there was a sound of breaking and tearing that frightened her so much. It must have been when the limb broke off the big maple."

"Isn't it dreadful! Oh, I should hate to sleep out all night in the dark."

"Specially if it was raining. But real people like us could have gone in on the porch and found shelter there, but this little innocent had to lie out in the rain and take it all. Arabella May could hear Daffy Down Dilly begging the rain to come easy, and even the big tiger lily growled because the wind and rain were beating him down. Johnny-Jump-up lay flat on the ground and moaned in terror. May Appleblossom was torn from the tree and scattered in fragments all around my poor frightened baby."

"However she stood it I don't know."

"Why, it was then she proved herself a hero."

"A shero," corrected Edna softly; then she added in a louder tone: "By all means tell us about it."

Selma turned away the face of Arabella May. "She is so modest," she explained.

"Well, when the storm was at its worst a poor little drowning bird was beaten from the tree and whirled down right against Arabella May. The child was frightened, of course, but, with wonderful presence of mind, she understood that unless something was done the poor little bird would perish. It was then she did her heroic act. The little dear, with utter unselfishness, rolled over on her side in such away that her body sheltered the bird and saved its life. There the poor baby lay all night, with the rain soaking into her and loosening the top of her head, but she never failed in her duty for one moment. This morning we found the bird under her body, almost dry and warm."

"Why, Arabella May, you old dear!" cried Edna, snatching up the dilapidated doll and kissing it fondly. "You are the most beautiful creature I ever saw. Why, Selma, she was never so handsome as now. She ought to have a medal for her noble deed."

"I think of writing on to see if something can't be done," said Selma.

"I would by all means. Why, that story ought to be made into a grammar." [Edna meant drama, but she is not the only person in the world who is sometimes unable to say just what she means.]

"And what about the little bird that Arabella May saved?"

"We turned it loose, but it was a most ungrateful thing," responded Selma. "It never said so much as thank you, and has never been back since. It might at least have returned and asked how Arabella May was getting along. The poor child suffered dreadfully, and it was a long time before we knew whether she would live with that great hole in her head."

But just then from the boughs of the apple tree above them rang a clear note and trill of beauty. The little girls had no difficulty in understanding it. It was the little bird that Arabella May had saved, and now it was singing its thanks. Perhaps, if you had been there you would not have known it, but the little girls understood. It said:

Give, give, give,
Either your life or a song;
Be brave in the night,
Ready to die for the right,
And so you will live
Ever and ever so long.

Sweet, sweet, sweet
Is service, and very high;
And all things that are
Are surprisingly fair:
But most beautiful, most complete,
Are they who for others die.

The world does not know,
And the voice of man has not told
The deeds that cause earth to glow,
And the hidden thoughts that are gold.
God knows, though we may not know.

"Do you hear that, Sweet Marie? I knew the bird would not forget," cried Edna.

"Oh, you dear, dear Arabella May!" exclaimed Selma, as she caught her doll in her arms and fondly kissed its white lips and cheeks.

A Warning.

Three little boys in a rowboat,
And only room for two—
Boat upset and they get wet,
And didn't know what to do!

One cried: "Oh, my mama!"
Then waded straight to shore,
The other two did likewise,
And I saw the three no more.

The Usefulness of the Hedgehog.

Persons who are inclined to a feeling of enmity toward those little animals, the hedgehogs, should stop to consider some of their characteristics before condemning them to destruction, for in many ways they are of great usefulness. Gardeners tell us that a hedgehog in the garden will destroy all the ruinous insects that make such ravages on the fresh young vegetables, and the worms, slugs and snails cannot live where the hedgehog has full liberty. In the kitchen and cellar the little animal is also of great benefit, as he keeps them clear of black beetles and many other annoying insects that are a menace to the good housekeeper.

So stay your hand before injuring the harmless little animal that may be of value to you.

WAS NOT AFRAID.

Once there was a tyrannical king, who gave 50 pieces of silver to every barber who shaved him well. But the barber who drew a drop of blood on him during the process of shaving was executed immediately. One day he employed a new barber who shaved him very successfully. After the ordeal the king asked: "Were you not afraid, barber, that you'd draw a drop of blood on me?" "No," answered the barber. "Had I done so I would at once have cut your throat."
